FURTHER DETAILS OF THE COSTLY FIRE WHICH DESTROYED THE STOCKYARDS

ONE OF THE VICTIMS.

TWO BUILDINGS, as many cottages, a score of vehicles and eighty horses and a large amount of feed, harness and tools sums up the losses by the burning of the Stockyards stables early yesterday morning.The money value of the property is placed at a figure which will be close to $75,000, by conservative estimates, though the gross figure of Treasurer Ward is $100,000. The insurance upon the buildings and contents, carried by the company, amounts to $35,000. Much of the loss falls upon private parties, whose horses and carriages, drays and harness were in the burned building.

All day yesterday a crowd gathered about the scene of the destructive fire, while upon the still smoldering ruins there were poured several streams of water. Heaps dotted the wreck, marking the death-spot of some animal which had not been released from its flame-swept prison. In nearby stables were other dumb sufferers by the fire, under treatment which may lead to recovery from the severe burns, while fresh carcasses in the lots behind the ashes showed that many of the horses, badly injured in the blaze, some blinded by it, had been put out of misery by the veterinarian. The horses destroyed would have an average value of $150, and few of their private owners carried any insurance upon their property.

The loss of the corporation while complete as far as the property of an inflammable nature goes, will be reduced by the added value of the real property, and this with the accounts and the insurance is expected to cover all the damage. The safes of the concern were opened yesterday and everything of value was found intact. The books were removed to the temporary office which has been opened in the Wright block, and the task of straightening out the complications was taken up. There was $1,000 in cash in the safe, that amount having been collected after banking hours on Tuesday. The value of the feed, harness and tools which were the property of the company will be found at once and a statement made to the meeting of the board of directors today. The loss upon the building under construction will be almost complete as it had not been turned over by the contractor.

That no lives were lost in the fire is due to the coolness of Joe Silva, the night watchman. When the fire broke out he worked hard to save the stock and then remembering that his own family and that of Manuel, another Portuguese employe of the stables, were asleep in two cottages at the side of the main building, he saved all at the risk of his own life.

Silva did all that was possible to save the frantic horses in his charge, working with might and main so long as it was possible to remain in the stifling heat and the suffocating smoke of the burning building. He was busy everywhere cutting halters and hauling carriages.

He stayed at his post faithfully, and only once did he leave it; this was when he remmbered his wife and children. They were sleeping in a cottage adjoining the stables, and were aroused only when the cottage was in flames and full of stifling smoke. Silva rushed in and carried his suffocating wife out of the cottage and returned into the flames several times, each time to rescue one of his six children. When his family had been rescued, Silva aroused the family of Manuel, who were sleeping under the burning roof of an adjoining cottage on the Stock Yards grounds, by throwing stones through the window and shouting. But for the coolness and bravery of Silva several lives would surely have been lost. After seeing to the safety of the human lives endangered, the Portuguese rushed back into the stables and did what was possible for the crazed and shrieking animals.

A mounted patrolman, George Kaeo, was among the first arrivals at the scene of the conflagration, and did splendid work in the rescue of the horses. He first cut loose a horse attached to Love's bakery wagon, hitched near the entrance of the building, then ran around to the rear, attracted by the cries of the suffering animals. He attempted to get into the stables proper, but the heat prevented this. While he hesitated he was joined by Silva, the watchman, and the two men went into the auxiliary stables, the walls of which the flames were beginning to burn.

They kicked out the boards of the rear wall and drove the horses out into the marsh. These are the horses that wandered away, there being no enclosure. The two men then went into the second stable, which was a mass of flame, and led out several horses, one by one, to the corrals adjoining, passing directly under the flames. They continued this work until it was impossible to enter the stables, and the suffering animals, frantically struggling in their stalls, had to be abandoned to the heat and the suffocating clouds of smoke. It is believed that most of the horses were destroyed by suffocation rather than by fire.

As to the horses lost, men who have been every day about the stables, estimate that eighty were destroyed, and that nearly that number escaped. It is still impossible to know exactly how many are still alive, as many of the animals ran out of the corrals and strayed away. Several horses that are known to have left the stables, have not yet been found, though search is being made for them. Several of the animals were severely burned, and three had to be shot yesterday. A number of others are under the care of Dr. Shaw for treatment. Among the horses saved were F. H. Louck's Mesquite, and Nettie H, both well known racers.

The losers of private property, so far as known, are: Pacific Hardware Company, two horses and two drays; J. F. Morgan, two horses and three wagons; Bergstrom Music Company, horse and delivery wagon; L. de L. Ward, C. A. Rice, C. G. Ballentyne, C. P. Grimwood and Dr. E. C. Waterhouse, each a horse and carriage.

Last week five hackmen of the No. 191 stand took their hacks and horses from the Stock Yards Stables and put them in the new stables on Hotel street, opposite the hotel. Thus they escaped the fate that met the hacks and horses of eighteen other hackmen, among whom are the following: Spencer, Frank Lillis, Hugh Rooney, Tom Corey, Joe Clark, Pierce, and several Chinese and Japanese. There were twenty-two hacks in all at the stables, but four had not been put up when the fire started. Their loss is total.

It is very probable that the fire was of incendiary origin, though the thorough work of the flames left no traces, the complete destruction of the place removing any clew that might have verified the supposition. Last week there was a small fire in the building under construction, which was thought to have a peculiar origin, to say the least. A pair of overalls saturated with oil and paint, were found stuffed underneath the flooring of the new building, evidently having been put there for the purpose of kindling a fire.

Many persons incline to the theory that the fire was set at the instigation of the two Chinese stable hands who were recently discharged by the company, or of their Oriental friends, who were highly incensed at the action of the company in sending the two Celestials away.

Another possible explanation is offered in the information of W. E. Lee, a South American workman for the Palolo Land Company, who says that on his way to his work at 5:30 o'clock on last Friday morning he saw two Porto Rican vagrants emerging from the alleyway leading from the Stock Yard Stables, and that on the following morning at the same hour, he saw the same two men at the same place. It is presumed that the two vagrants were using the hay compartments of the stables as a lodging place.

Mr. Lee says it is the habit of Porto Ricans to smoke incessantly, and oftentimes they go to sleep smoking cigarettes. He claims that he warned Manager Rice against the two vagrants, foreseeing the danger of fire. He has not seen the two men since, on his morning trips out King street, and does not know whether they continued sleeping in the hay or not. It is possible that they may have slept in the stables Tuesday night, and that the fire was due to their carelessness in smoking. It is also possible that, if this is so, they may have burned to death in the building.

The new building which was to have been occupied by the company within a week or ten days, was only partially completed, the Mainland strikes having delayed the shipment of windows and doors. It cost in the neighborhood of $20,000, and was being erected under the direction of Beardslee and Page, the architects, by Contractor Smith. The harness shop of the Stock Yards Company was situated in a portion of the building, and a portion of the second story was also occupied. Other portions of it had been rented to different persons.

The big fire-proof safe was opened yesterday afternoon. It took two men over a half hour to open the outer doors with a sledge hammer. The outer parts of the safe were warped and twisted, having been heated to a white heat. The outside walls were still hot at noon time, and it was 3 o'clock before the safe could be handled. When it was opened it was found that the inner compartments had not even been blistered. Another smaller safe was also in the fire. It was only a skeleton safe, and was destroyed completely. It contained nothing of value.

Fire Chief Charles H. Thurston was seen last night in regard to the Stock Yards fire, and he expressed his thorough satisfaction with the work of the fire department.

"We made a quick turnout," said he, "and there was not a single thing that went wrong. The only trouble was that we did not receive the alarm until the fire had a good start. As soon as the alarm was turned in we were all out and on our way to the fire. Engines No. 1 and No. 2 started at the same time, and took the hydrants at King and Alapai streets, and in front of the Castle Home on King street. Later the chemical engine arrived, and engine No. 3 came in from Waikiki, taking up positions further up on King street. All four engines were working for a time, but as soon as we got the fire under control, all but No. 2 were sent back. We played the hose upon the ruins and stayed on the ground with engine No. 2 until 7:30 this morning, to see that everything was all right.

"Later on, towards morning, we moved down to the artesian well on Hustace Lane and drew on the water there. Everything went nicely, and each fireman worked valiantly and well. Better work could not have been done under the circumstances, and I wish to express my thorough satisfaction with the services of all the men, and of the entire fire department."

Mr. Thurston, in discussing the difficulties met with, referred to the interference of the electric wires and the danger of electrocution to the firemen and to the crowds that always assemble at a fire.

"The current should be turned off by the company the moment the alarm is turned in," said he. "The danger of live wires impedes progress with the work, and greatly increases the danger to life. The electric company did better last night than at the Hall fire, however, and as soon as they realize how important a thing it is that the current should be promptly turned off, I think they will attend to the matter more seriously. At the Hall fire the numerous live wires were a constant menace to life, and the narrowness of the streets gave us very little room to work. Owing to the breadth of the street in front of the Stock Yards last night the danger of wires was not so great, and the current was

HAWAIIANS SEEK LANDS

Many Leases Under Homestead Laws.

CANE LANDS MAY BE THUS SETTLED

Increased Demand for the Small Holdings and Tendency to Take Up Homes.

MORE than 150 homestead leases for land have been issued from the Land Bureau since it was taken over by the present Commissioner. This outlines the policy which will be followed by the office in the future as in the past and the success which has followed it so far indicates that the Hawaiians are in accord with the methods which are being followed to keep the lands in the possession of the natives of the Islands.

Commissioner E. S. Boyd, who recently returned from a visit to the other Islands, said yesterday that he was more than pleased with the results of the general policy of the land office, as the leases which had been granted in Olaa before his taking hold of the bureau had been productive of great good to the people. He continued: "I found that many of the holders of these leases, most of them Portuguese, some natives and several Americans, had made excellent crops and had good returns.

"Some of the homesteads have earned for their holders during the past year in addition to the small crops of the necessary fruits and vegetables $1,200 in the value of the cane which has been turned into the mill. The homesteaders have had excellent arrangements with the Olaa plantation, they securing such contracts as will give them assurance that their cane will be milled when the proper time arrives, and in case this is not done the plantation stands the loss from the deterioration. This gives the men a chance to work their cane to the highest advantage.

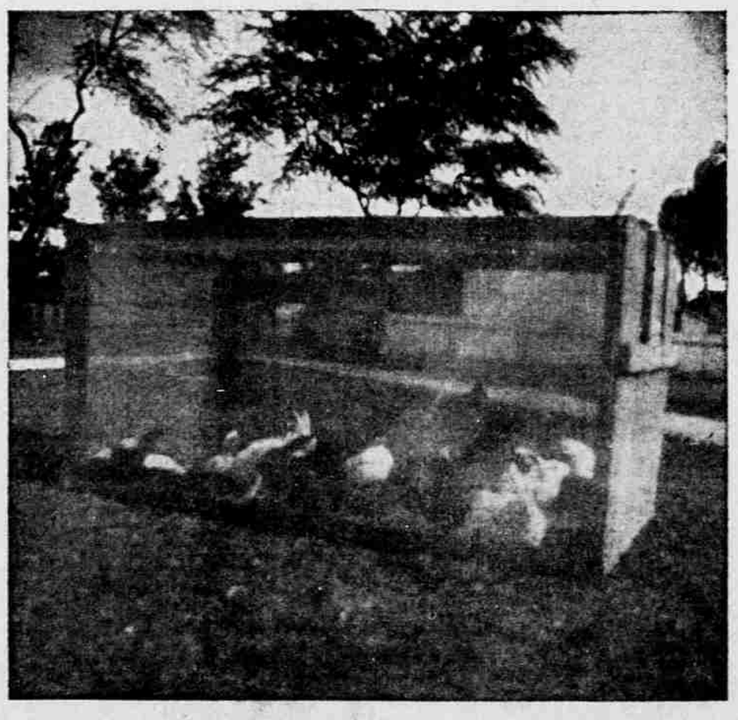
"The success which has been attained by the men who have followed this plan leads us to believe that there will be similar results follow the extension of this policy when leases upon other lands come in. It will be the plan to open lands, where there is not a large expenditure for irrigation necessary, for the taking up by homesteaders. I shall try to have a law passed increasing the amount of land which may be taken up in this way from sixteen acres to fifty acres. This will give to each homesteader enough land to insure him a good crop and permit the raising of food supplies upon his own lands. In such cases, however, I shall use only the homestead lease, for in my opinion there is no other way in which the lands may be held for the people. If there is the ordinary purchase lease only a short time will elapse before the entire amount of sugar land will be in the hands of the planters. Of course the plantations cannot hold this land in fee, but there will be found many ways to get around this point and men with an interest in the estates will be found ready to buy the lands.

"I find that the Hawaiians themselves are ready to believe that the form of homestead lease is the best for them. If we give the average native man a piece of land he sells it the day after he secures the title. This, of course, is not true of the latter-day Hawaiians, for they are acute in business and are not inclined to alienate the lands they may hold. For this reason the homestead lease is most appropriate at this time, for if the lease is entered into for a family, there is nothing in the way of the heirs surrendering the same and the purchase lease being substituted. This does not mean that leases are given only to the Hawaiians, for all are treated alike and many Americans are taking up the vacant lands.

"Judging from the methods of the plantation owners at Olaa there will be no objection on the part of the mill estates to this distribution of the lands for there will be the same amount of cane grown as formerly and there will be less trouble with the labor conditions. The sugar industry is the backbone of the country, the coffee is in an experimental stage and nothing should be done which would jeopardize the future of the country. In my opinion the application of the American system of land laws and land division would do this, for it would lead to the plantting upon the subdivisions of a plantation of the men who would take up the lands in the interest of the estate, instead of for their own homes.

"Of course many leases are still being made upon the purchase basis but the greater part of the agricultural lands which are now being taken will be found to be under this class of lease. The best feature of this is that the Hawaiians are being given homes for the future."

THE CAPTURED HARES AND RABBITS IN THE JAIL YARD



JAILOR WM. HENRY of Oahu prison is a very much disappointed man, because of the dismissal of the Belgian hare case. He had been counting upon a hare and rabbit stew ever since Sunday, when some thirty odd rabbits and Belgian hares, were turned over to him for safe keeping. A prison was hastily improvised for their use, and the rabbits gamboled and played to their hearts' content with no thought of Jailor Henry's prospective rabbit stew.

The illustration above is a photograph of the Belgian hares and rabbits taken in Sunday's raid, and confined in a cage in Oahu prison yard.

"I've tasted Belgian hares," said Jailor Henry as he looked longingly into the box containing the fat and juicy bunnies. "They make fine eating; I wouldn't mind a stew just now."

During their few brief days of imprisonment the rabbits and hares were fed on ti leaves and vegetables and a few days more of prison life, would have fattened them into a marketable state.

The law gives any police officer power to destroy rabbits wherever found, though it does not specify in what manner the destruction shall take place. It is safe to say, however, that the annihilation of the rabbits would have meant a stew for some body.

STRIKE IS SOON OVER

Cane Loaders Tie Up Ewa One Hour.

FIRM RESISTANCE BRINGS RELIEF

Twenty of One Hundred Men Return to Work and None Leave Plantation.

STRIKING Japanese stopped work at the Ewa plantation mill for one hour yesterday, and then the strike, the first of the kind with which the managers have had to deal, with the knowledge that the men who went out could not go to the next plantation and secure work, was broken. The strikers were cane loaders, one hundred in number, and before night twenty of the original number were at work, and the places of the others had been filled.

The strike, while it was a very small one in itself, is considered to have been only a pretext to try the temper of the management, which, had it been successful, would have been followed by a general demand. The men wanted only service regulations, according to the agents of the plantation, the principal grievance being the laying of tracks and the bringing of the cane cars closer to the work. This would involve the expenditure of a large sum in the making of tracks, and would, as well, cost heavily in the serving of the cars for loading. There was one report that more money was demanded, but this is denied on authority.

When the Japanese first appeared with their demand they were informed by Manager Renton that the conditions of their employment could not be changed, and that any of them who wanted to quit work could get his money at the cashier's office. The interview was closed with this. A few of the men went to work, but the places of the others were filled by men taken from the other departments of plantation work. There was only one hour lost in supplying the shortage of the loaders, and then the work went on as usual. During the day the strikers lost more of their numbers, until at the close of the day there were twenty of the original loaders at work. More significant than this, however, is the fact that not one of the strikers called for his pay, which would indicate that the men are not ready to leave employment, and that they will go back to work very soon.

What has been apprehension on the part of many persons has been changed to security, in that the firmness of the management of the Ewa plantation has shown that there will be no temporizing with such strikes in the future. That the men cannot get employment at other plantations while there is a strike on at one, is thought to give the management the security which will enable any further demonstration to be handled as was this one. There is a belief that the strike came as a result of the publications as to the conferences of the planters and managers, and further, too, that had this not been met with firmness there would have been a spreading of the trouble which might have involved other branches of the mill's work.

The strike came on so suddenly that it is the opinion of the plantation men that it was the work of an outside influence, probably some one from this city. Monday morning there was no evidence of any discontent, and the first that was known of the change in the disposition of the men was a short time before the strikers appeared and made their demand, when they seemed to work with less than usual vigor and determination. There is a general opinion that Japanese, who have for their object the bringing about of a general strike, decided to begin at Ewa, and the attempt which proved abortive was in this line.

There is no union of the Japanese now except in the protective associations, which are charitable and beneficial organizations, on each plantation. There is no labor order and there will be none, as there is lacking the elements which have made similar unions successful in other places. Recently an attempt was made to organize such an order here, and elaborate circulars were gotten out, and the proposed walking delegate went about and made addresses, but he was not able to secure enough support to make the order stick. Since that time there has been no general move, and the way in which the first movement was met would seem to indicate that the plan is dead.

Japanese who are interested in the plantations express satisfaction with the result of the strike, and say that the effect will be to prevent further attempt to coerce the plantations in this manner. The leaders of the Japanese colony are not in sympathy with such moves, and they will be able, without doubt, to influence their countrymen.

ROYAL FAIR PRIZE LIST

Winners by Display of Garden Truck.

MANY VARIETIES OF VEGETABLES

Premiums Given for Various Kinds of Fruits and Flowers—Live Stock and Specialties.

WHEN the first exposition of fruits, vegetables and plants is given under the direction of the Bureau of Agriculture and Forestry next summer it will be held as nearly as possible upon the semi-centennial anniversary of the Royal Hawaiian Agricultural Society fair of 1852. The fair of that year was a great success, and the reports of the committees of that time read like the premium list of a back-East county fair. There is nothing which in those old competitions held the prominent place, which is missing here.

The report which is appended is that of the Committee on Awards and shows that the cultivation of all kinds of "garden truck" was then in full swing, and that the gardens of the principal people of the Kingdom were drawn upon to fill the list of entries. So universal was the desire to show the best products of the field and garden that non-members of the association sent in exhibits, though they could not hope to win a prize. There was no limit to products of the earth either, for the live stock annex is referred to in words of praise for its completeness, and the corner, so dear to the heart of the fair visitor in those days, the room for the woman's work, is there, and from the list there are many views of forgotten industries gained. The cotton cloth of Miss Brown, the Hawaiian leather fine boots of Mr. Wood, the artificial flowers of Miss Armstrong and lamp shade of Mrs. Bates, vied in securing attention with the guava jelly of Mrs. E. O. Hall, the embroideries by several ladies and the fine flowers of ladies and gentlemen and of several Chinese gentlemen as well.

The report of the committee is as follows:

Your committee cannot help observing, that the coffee for which the first premiums were awarded was the product of a single tree ten years old, (this fact was substantiated by the evidence of several certificates,) which yielded this year the immense quantity of forty pounds in the parchment.

The best butter exhibited, it should be observed, was, perhaps, that made by G. Harbottle, but that gentleman not being a member of the Society the committee were unable to award the premium in his favor.

Good specimens of cocoa were produced by Mr. Pitman, of Hawaii, and P. Manini, of Oahu; others exhibited samples of the mamee apple (indigenous to South America,) and the feei of the Society Islands. Bread fruit, papaw apples, grapes, grenadilla and the waterlemon were also exhibited with other fruit, but no premiums having been offered, your committee can only mention the fact of their having been shown.

A great variety of excellent garden vegetables was exhibited by R. C. Janion, C. W. Vincent, A. Adams, W. H. Rice, and Jno. Montgomery, amongst which were several for which no premiums were offered. Several native gentlemen also produced specimens of fine melons, squashes, sage, etc., which showed that they were active in the cause of improving and adding to the productions of their native soil.

Two examples of wool were exhibited—one by C. W. Vincent, of Oahu, and the other of better quality, by Mr. Sparke, of Hawaii, which demonstrated that a very superior quality of that article can be produced on these islands.

Of a vast number of articles shown, your committee can do no more than mention some of the names, as no prizes were offered for those that excelled in their several kinds. Amongst them were specimens of embroidery by Mrs. Dudoit, Mrs. Crabb, Miss Corney, the Misses Judd, Mrs. Hackfeld, Mrs. H. Ladd, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Dominis; of paintings and drawings, by the Misses Judd, Miss M. C. Dimond, Miss S. E. Hall, and R. W. Andrews; of cotton cloth by Miss L. Brown; of many varieties of flowers, by Mrs. Judd, Mrs. George Harris, Miss Severance, Mrs. C. R. Bishop, Mrs. Jno. Ladd, Mrs. E. H. Rogers, and many others; of gold-fish, by Messrs. Samsing & Co.; of guava jelly by Mrs. E. O. Hall, and Mrs. J. Ladd; of canary seed by E. H. Rogers; of work boxes and picture frames, made of Hawaiian woods, by Mrs. Dominis, Mrs. J. Ladd, and G. S. Kenway; of rare fruit trees by Mrs. Dominis; of fine boots made of Hawaiian leather by J. H. Wood; a rotary pump by R. A. S. Wood; a lamp shade, and easy chair, by Mrs. A. B. Bates, a bouquet of artificial flowers made by Miss C. P. Armstrong; and various other articles by ladies and gentlemen. Several Chinese gentlemen added much to the show of flowers, by sending in their pots, which they cultivate with much care and success.

The imported stallions of S. Thompson and J. Meek, and the native bull, (Angus breed,) 18 months old, of C. G. Hopkins, were considered as superior of their kind; and the committee were divided between their merits and those of the animals to which the premiums were awarded. Had there been a premium for the best imported draft horse, the competition would have been between J. T. Waterhouse's grey, and J. Dowsett's brown, both geldings.

BOARD OF HEALTH MEETING TODAY

Postponed From Yesterday—A Report Will Be Made of Molokai Visit.

The regular meeting of the Board of Health to have been held yesterday was postponed until this afternoon. President Sloggett and Dr. Pratt returned yesterday from their visit to the leper settlement and reported everything in first-class condition.

The visit of the entire Board to Molokai will probably be made the third week in September. The semi-annual visits of the Board of Health will hereafter be resumed. Visitors to a limited extent will be allowed to accompany the members of the Board, but the indiscriminate intermingling of lepers and their friends will not be permitted.

ELECTRIC STOCK SOLD.

Employees of the Organization Become Shareholders at Sale.

Thirty-nine shares of the capital stock of the Hawaiian Electric Company were sold at auction yesterday, going at par to the company. The shares will be resold to employes at the same figure. Although there were members of the directorate who wanted the stock, when it became known that the men in the employ wanted them and were ready to go to 65, there were no other bids than par, so that as many of the workmen should be shareholders as possible. The stock consisted of twenty-four fractional shares and thirty-nine unsubscribed shares. Out of the $75,000 of new stock issued, only $3,900 was not called for, and this should have been taken by persons who are now absent. The proceeds of the stock will be used in the purchase of machinery which is now ordered, and which when in place will give the company all the capacity which will be needed in the next four years.

We shall distribute them among our first one hundred customers.

METHOD OF DISTRIBUTION:

We have numbered the pictures at random from 1 to to 100. We have also prepared one hundred coupons correspondingly numbered. To every purchaser of goods to the amount of one dollar or over, will be given one of these coupons, which may be exchanged between Monday, August 26th, and Saturday, August 31st, for the picture bearing the corresponding number.

It is plain that there can be no unfairness about this method of distribution. Every picture and every coupon has a printed number which cannot be effaced or altered. The pictures are all arranged indiscriminately in our window, and we ourselves do not know the number of any particular picture.

Picture No. 1 will go to our first customer; picture No. 2 to our second customer, and so on until the hundred have been given out. No customer may have more than one coupon, no matter how large her purchase may be. We establish a minimum purchase amount of a dollar merely that the pictures may go into the hands of our bona fide customers.

The pictures will be displayed in our windows all this week. They are all of them really works of art and well worth framing and preserving in any home.

MUCH BUSINESS AT LABOR GATHERING

Joint Committees Met Last Night and Completed Program Which Includes Athletic Events.

THE Committee of Arrangements of the Labor Day celebration to be held on September 2d has issued the following announcement to the mechanics and laborers of the Territory of Hawaii:

"Gentlemen: The Government of the United States has set aside the first Monday in September as Labor Day. The mechanics and laboring men of Honolulu have combined to observe the day, and extend you a cordial invitation to participate in the parade. All branches of trade will be represented in this parade and the committee would like a delegation from each plantation to take part. Every effort has been made by the Labor Committee to make the day a grand success. The business men of Honolulu will be represented by a number of floats, and if the workingmen on any plantation wish to put a flotilla in the parade we will be pleased to give it a place.

"The parade will form at the drill shed at 9 a. m. and will march through the principal streets of Honolulu, being reviewed at the Capitol grounds."

The following will be the program of the day:

Parade, 8:30 a. m.

Literary exercises at the Capitol grounds, 11 a. m.

Sports at Kapiolani Park, 2 p. m.

Grand ball in drill shed, 8 p. m.

The joint committees held a well-attended meeting in Mechanics' Hall last night.

It was decided that the height limit on floats should be placed at fourteen feet in order to avoid contact with overhead wires.

The sum of $500 was voted to be given in prizes for the athletic contests at Kapiolani Park.

The sports committee submitted the following program:

One-half mile bicycle race, boys under 15. First, $7.50; second, $5.

Running high jump. First, $7.50; second, $5.

One hundred and twenty yards dash, boys under 15. First, $7.50; second, $5.

Running broad jump. First, $7.50; second, $5.

One mile bicycle race, professional riders. First, $7.50; second, $5.

Throwing the hammer. First, $7.50; second, $5.

One mile bicycle race, fat men, over 200 pounds. First, $7.50; second, $5.

Needle race for named women. First, $7.50; second, $5.

Nail race for girls under 18. First, $7.50; second, $5.

Climbing the greasy pole; prize $10.

Low hurdle race, fat men, over 200 pounds; 1st $7.50, 2nd $5.

Three-legged race; 1st $7.50, 2nd $5.

Tug-of-war; prize $10.

In addition to the above program other events will be arranged on the track.

It was announced that the contributions to the Labor Day fund up to date amounted to $1725.

The following route to be followed by the parade has been decided upon:

Form at Drill Shed, thence to Richards street, thence to King street, thence to Fort street, thence to Beretania street, thence to Kapiolani street, thence to King street, thence to the Capitol grounds and disband.

The committee on printing reported that 500 posters had been printed and distributed as follows: 350 to the other islands, 100 in the city, 50 among the members of the various committees. Five hundred ribbons have also been printed to be worn by participants in the parade.

Secretary T. M. Rae tendered his resignation. It was moved to pay him a salary of $4.00 for every meeting which he attended. It was then moved to ask him to reconsider his resignation which he did with the result that he consented to continue to fill the office, with the proviso that the brothers would choke off unnecessary wrangling at meetings and comport themselves like gentlemen. He said that his experience with an unruly meeting last Saturday night had sickened him of his job.

It was decided to request the presence of two companies of the Post Artillery stationed at Camp McKinley in the parade. Apropos of the question of their transportatio nto town it was asked if W. H. Pain had yet contributed to the fund. The contrary was stated to be the case.

"He's good for $5," remarked someone in the room.

It was agreed to solicit a contribution from the Tramways Company today and if $5 is offered to ask that the company's contribution take the shape of free transportation of the soldiers to town.

"Get the $5 first and then broach the other proposition," suggested a brother.

"Yes," acquiesced another horny handed one, "only be sure and get the $5 safe in your hand before you ask for further favors or you may not get anything at all."

Messrs. McDonald, Nolan and Sandemann were appointed a committee on transportation.

M. Heffernan will be the grand marshal of the day and the vital and ubiquitous question arose as to his horse and sash and the horses and sashes of his aides. Suffice it to say that horses and sashes and exceedingly fine ones at that will not be lacking when the eventful day arrives. Last year's grand marshal, W. C. Roe, came near breaking up a meeting when told that he would be expected to bestride a horse in the parade and finally compromised on a surrey. This year's marshal has no such prejudice against the gentle art of equestrianism and is said to be a fine horseman.

The next meeting of the joint committees will be held next Saturday night.

It possesses certain properties that kill the germ or microbe that causes all the trouble by sapping the oil out of the hair bulb. MAILES ELECT FOOTBALL DUX

Belser Selected to Captain the Forces of the Green and Gold.

The Maile Ilima Athletic Club held a meeting last night at their headquarters on Kaahumanu street for the purpose of discussing plans for the coming football season.

J. J. Belser was elected captain of the team.

The first practice was held last Monday, nearly thirty players turning out. Practice will be indulged in every Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon until the season starts.

R. A. Wilson, the captain and right halfback of last year's team, is the only man of last year's team who is not a candidate for this year's team. Wilson has gone to the Philippines.

After the business of the meeting was disposed of, music and a social time followed.

"A few years ago," says a writer in "Anecdotes," "when the new lands in Indian Territory were opened, the small towns which sprang up were filled with a very mixed population, and the theaters and travelling theatrical companies were on a par with the towns they visited. One night the writer was in Oklahoma City, and stepped into a theater where 'Trilby' was being played. The house was packed from top to bottom with tough characters, and the character of the actors and their acting was, if anything, tougher, so that even the audience became restless. The play finally reached the point where Little Billee is supposed to clasp Trilby passionately in his arms, instead of which he held her at arms' length, with as much ardor as he would have shown to a bale of hay, and exclaimed, 'Oh, Trilby, nothing can come between us!' whereat a six-foot cow puncher in the gallery leaned over the railing and shouted in tones of supreme disgust, 'Aw, git out! Yer could t'row a cow between yer!'" turned off more quickly. The telephone company did excellently, and deserve credit for prompt action in the cutting of their wires."

Mr. J. A. McCandless, of the electric company, was also seen on the subject of live wires at fires. "There is but little danger from electric wires," said he. "The current over these wires is only 110 volts, which would not hurt anyone should they receive the full shock. This is a mistaken idea that these live wires are a menace to life. Should a man receive the entire 110 volts shock it would not seriously injure him, although it might be sufficient to knock him down."

Superintendent Brown, of the water works said yesterday that there was no shortage of the water supply because of the fire, as the scene being so close to the Beretania street pumping station, all the water was taken direct from the mains, the stream from the reservoir being turned off so that the supply there might not be drained.

All day yesterday there were seven drays and thirty men engaged in hauling away the carcasses from the scene. In all, forty bodies were taken to the water front, where they were hauled out to sea by the government tug. All of the carcasses were taken beyond the reef.

The Honolulu Stock Yards Company was incorporated for $100,000, in 1899, and business was started shortly after incorporation. The company carried on a very large business, having a complete carriage repairing shop, paint shop, horseshoeing department and harness shop. It is stated by those interested that the business was in a prosperous condition, and that a dividend was just about to be declared on the capital stock, most of which had been subscribed for, the dividend to have been paid on September 1.

CUSTER HELPED A CLASSMATE.

George A. Custer and Thomas L. Rosser were chums and classmates at West Point Military Academy, relates a writer in Success. They left that institution in 1861, the one to enter the Union and the other the Confederate army. Both proved their skill and valor on a score of battlefields. The end of the war, however, found Rosser penniless, with a wife and children dependent upon him for support. There were no openings in the South, but employment must be had. He made his way to the Northwest and secured work on the Northern Pacific Railway, then in course of construction. One day, General Custer, riding along the line of the road, noticed a section boss whose face seemed strangely familiar. "Isn't your name Rosser?" he finally asked. "Why, Custer how are you?" said Rosser, looking up from his work. Thus they met for the first time since leaving West Point. Custer called, the next day, on the chief engineer of the road. "There's a man named Rosser," said he, "under you as a construction boss." "Yes, and one of the best I ever had. Anything wrong about him?" "No," replied Custer, "but he was at West Point with me, and afterwards became a major general of cavalry under the Confederacy. Can't you give him something better than the work he is doing?" "Why, I have been looking for just such a man," said the engineer. And so Rosser, through Custer's kindly offices, became second in command of the engineers' corps. A few months later he was promoted to chief engineer. He made good use of the opportunities his position afforded him for profitable investment, and today is accounted one of the wealthy men of his native Virginia.

MEN! DO YOU!

Do you want to be strong? Do you want to feel the vim, the snap and fire of manly vigor? Do you want courage, energy and ambition to support you in your cares and troubles?

I have devoted my life to the development of manly and womanly vigor. I've made a great success. My methods are approved by the greatest doctors and copied.

I've proven that electricity is the basis of all animal life and that "weak men," dyspeptics, rheumatics, sufferers from lost energy, weak kidneys, pains in the back, head, chest and shoulders from varicocele and its allied weaknesses, etc., are weak in electricity. My Electric Belt restores his life in a few weeks and cures every time. If it fails I ask no pay.

Describe your case to me, and if I say I can cure you I will guarantee to do so.

Drugs won't restore your strength. They only stimulate. If you have to take a stimulant, take whisky. Taken in moderation it does less harm than the others.

"Every sign of pain and weakness has disappeared. I appreciate what your Belt has done for me," writes J. Schwarz, Coleridge, Trinity County, Cal.

THURSDAY : : : : : AUGUST 22

Is Magoon a guardian for Love or money?

The insurance companies have been pretty hard hit within the last fortnight. —Star.

They'll get the losses back from the rest of us, never fear.

Business men are warned to examine advertising contracts closely. Two men, one a Chinese merchant, reported at this office Saturday that they had been led to make such contracts with a paper of limited circulation, the agent of which said he came from the Advertiser. A careful inspection of the contract form is necessary to keep business men from being victimized in this petty way.

To diversify her industries in a profitable way for export, Hawaii must raise such things as she can sell without coming into competition with crops that are local to the market she seeks or which enter there at a low price. These Islands may grow rubber, a commodity that is all the time rising in price; vanilla beans, worth $6 per pound plus; tobacco under canvas, which might equal the Manila product; cardamon seeds and half a dozen other peculiar exports of great commercial value. Here lies the Hawaiian opportunity. But so long as fruits and vegetables cannot be raised on Kauai or Maui and sold at a profit in the altitudinous market of Honolulu it is ridiculous to think of getting rich by sending them to the Coast.

The Independent, which has no petty instincts of envy to keep it from joining the Advertiser in an effort to rid these Islands of the Belgian hare, remarks:

We do not think that Judge Wilcox's decision in the "rabbit case," was wrong. But it seems dangerous to the Territory that the Belgian hare, or rabbit should be turned loose here even if they are "pets." There can be no guarantee that the hare will remain in its cage. We have seen rabbits who could get through every kind of a fence and when out, and at liberty they decline to be rated as "pets" and claim to be the regular article.

Judge Wilcox's decision was correct under the law as it stands. But the fact remains that hares and rabbits are kept for sale here and that they are not only distributed as pets but appear on the menu of local eating-houses. There can be no objection to the restaurant acquisitions, for the more of the rabbit tribe that are eaten the better for the plantations. But it is a very serious thing for Hawaii that the four-footed scourge of Australia should get lodgment here on any terms or under any circumstances.

HOMESTEAD LEASES.

The disposition of the lands of the Territory is a matter which will for a long time to come engage the best attention of the men of affairs of the community. There have been many varieties of plans for the proper distribution of these lands offered in the past, and there will be as many in the future, but there seems to be none which will fit the conditions here as well as the old laws, which provide for homestead leases and purchase leases as well.

Now as never before the value of the homestead lease is apparent. The records show that since the framing of the present laws of the Territory there has been a constant demand for the homestead leases. This is taken by the officials of this office to mean that there will be even more of this class of leases sought in the future, as the people of the land see that they must take advantage of their opportunity unless they would see the chance pass from them. It will not be always that it will be possible to gain homes for the asking and a living on them. This will pass as the settlers are taking up the lands. With earnings of $1,200 a year in addition to a home and the necessary fruits and vegetables, there should be more applicants for the lands than there are acres to be taken up.

The effect of the following of this policy upon the estates which are kept together by the sugar trade will be watched with interest. The plan of having the cane cultivated by a hui or by individual farmers has been experimented with in the past, and in some places with good results. What would be the effect of having the land owned in fee by the men who are to farm it is a question which may have a great effect upon the future of this industry. That there are difficulties in the way is apparent from the fact that there could be little chance for a party of settlers to go into the business of irrigation and pumping on as large a scale as the plantations do at this time. On other lands, where the rainfall is sufficient for the irrigation of the crop there may be different results expected, for where the plantation men will take care of the proper grinding of the cane there is no question that it may be raised by the individual profitably. The move, in so far as it provides for the home-making of the Hawaiian, is to be commended.

SHORT HORSE SOON CURRIED.

A contemporary asks why, if the hope of tropical countries is in some great staple produced by cheap labor, the British West Indies are not prospering?

The answer is because the American market is closed to them by the protective tariff and that, under these circumstances, the only thing that keeps them commercially alive is cheap labor.

Jamaica would be as well off as Hawaii ever was if she could get the sugar she produces into the United States free of duty. Without that she just manages, through her cheap labor, to keep out of bankruptcy. Dear labor would completely ruin her; and even in case of free trade with the United States, dear labor would seriously retard her development.

A Jamaican planter would laugh at a man or a newspaper who would talk dear labor or white labor to him. He knows where his interest lies quite as well as the Hawaiian planter understands his own economic requirements.

ROYAL VISITORS.

The King of Siam would be an interesting guest for the United States, a country which has never, except on two occasions, entertained a reigning sovereign. Kalakaua was the first actual King the great Republic ever saw and the democratic Dom Pedro was the second and last. Scions of royalty have often wandered among the Yankees. Joseph Bonaparte, ex-King of Spain, spent many years in New Jersey after the downfall of the first French empire. His young brother, Jerome, afterwards King of Westphalia, married Miss Patterson of Baltimore while visiting there. The Duke of Orleans, afterwards King Louis Philippe, was in American exile, and so was Louis Napoleon, afterwards Emperor of the French. Most notable of all our princely guests was the present King of Great Britain and Ireland, who was a visitor just before the Civil War. During the rebellion two of the Bourbon princes of France, one of them the pretender to the throne, served on the staff of General McClellan. No member of a sovereign family came again until the seventies, when the Grand Duke Alexis visited the Atlantic coast. There was a long wait after that, save for the presence of Kalakaua and Dom Pedro, which was terminated in 1892 by the coming of the Infanta Eulalie, aunt of the King of Spain. Since then the Count of Flanders, heir-apparent to the Belgian throne, has been in the land and there are rumors that his father, the reigning sovereign may follow.

Doubtless all sovereigns, particularly those of Europe, feel an intense personal curiosity about the United States which, in so short a time, has risen to the dignity of a first-class power and may, in fifty years more, "bestride this narrow world like a Colossus." The Kaiser, for instance, would like nothing better than to focus his penetrating mind upon the secrets of American progress. Doubtless the Czar would enjoy the sights and scenes of a republic which, since its earliest days, has been a friend of the Russian Empire. But there is a curious obstacle in the path. Reigning sovereigns cannot look towards the United States without the apprehension that, if they should visit it, their dignity might be affronted. There is no one of sufficient rank, as they say, to receive and entertain them. The President is a commoner; there are no houses of princely or ducal standing in which they could be entertained; they might have to be the guests of hotel-keepers. Kalakaua, once a postoffice clerk, cared nothing at the time of his first American tour, for regal state, and waved all difficult points of etiquette. Dom Pedro was a democrat on a throne. But rulers like King Edward, William II, Francis Joseph and Victor Emmanuel are punctilious to a degree which is almost incomprehensible to people who are accustomed to see the President of the United States on his democratic rounds, shaking hands with his fellow-countrymen and not afraid to eat or sleep in any honest man's home. Probably as things are most of the inquisitive sovereigns of Europe will confine their studies of the United States to books and photographs.

As for Chulalongkorn II, King of Siam, he is more anxious to make friends than to stand on his dignity. He went to Europe, not long ago, and was coolly snubbed, especially by the French. He knows that his kingdom is a Naboth's vineyard which powerful land-grabbers want, and he hopes to find some people who will stand between himself and them. So if he comes he will not be squeamish as to whom shall get between the wind and his nobility. Eastern potentate though he is, he will probably try while here to be one of the boys.

FREE DELIVERY OF MAIL.

What Honolulu wants done with its mail will be given a test, beginning with this morning, when the first delivery to houses will be made. Despite the general apathy with which the public receives this service, which is so earnestly sought in the States, and the difficulties encountered in the way of insufficiently addressed letters, it has been found possible to get out enough of the mail to give the men a chance to start and have one day's work before the arrival of a steamer lands an avalanche upon them.

The success of the service in Honolulu will depend largely on the interest which the citizens take in the same. To secure prompt delivery it is absolutely necessary that mail be addressed to street and number, to postoffice box, or to general delivery, so that the first clerk handling a letter on its arrival in the postoffice may see at a glance through which channel it is to be delivered. He will immediately make such disposition of the letter as will secure its prompt delivery. Mail matter not fully addressed must be placed to one side until such time as it is possible to search out the correct addresses in the postoffice directory.

It is obvious, therefore, that the recipients of mail matter must instruct their correspondents at once, and repeatedly, if necessary, to address them fully and correctly. Where the delivery of mail by carrier is desired the address should include the street and house number. If the street is unnamed and the house not numbered this trouble may be obviated by including in the address the number of the carrier district in which the residence is located. This may readily be ascertained from the carrier. It should be used thus: "Carrier District No. 1." It is quite as important, if mail is to be delivered through box or general delivery, that the number of the postoffice box or the words "General Delivery" be included in the address. This fact should be clearly understood, that mail matter fully and properly addressed will be delivered with the utmost promptness. Mail matter insufficiently addressed will be very apt to be delayed in delivery.

It has been known by the people of Honolulu for more than a year that the free delivery service would assuredly be established here. In every possible way the Department has sought to impress upon the citizens the importance of preparing for the same, and as a first requisite the numbering of the houses was insisted upon. Although a law has been enacted requiring that this be done, a careful canvas of the city made during the past week by the carriers discloses the fact that not more than twenty-five per cent of the buildings are now numbered. The fact that the houses are not numbered perhaps has prevented the people from notifying their correspondents of their full address, and as a result more than ninety per cent of the mail received in Honolulu for local delivery bears no address other than the name of the city and Territory.

Some day our fishermen will go after the tuna as they do at Catalina Island, with rod and reel. There are plenty of the big fish off the Islands waiting to make sport. At present they are the prey of the pot-hunters, who catch them chiefly by accident.

A New Dead Sea.

Sven Hedin, the explorer, has discovered a second Dead Sea in the highlands of Thibet—a vast lake so be a movement of capitatl toward inlife is out of the question. It was impossible for him to get his boat close to the shore, so that he and his companions had to wade out two boats' lengths before she would float; and this was sufficient to coat their legs and clothes thickly with salt. The entire bed of the lake appeared to consist of salt, and the density of the lifeless water was, of course, very high.

Her Wish Fully Gratified.

Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, wife of the steel trust man, has a great fondness for traveling on railroad trains. When Mr. Schwab was younger and did not make $1,000,000 a year, Mrs. Schwab often expressed the wish to be able to have a special car and ride all she pleased. It was with quiet satisfaction that Mr. Schwab says he has felt able to put a private car at his wife's disposal for the past year, and hopes to be able to do so as long as she may want it.

Hardy Has Been Writing 45 Years.

Thomas Hardy has just reached his sixty-first birthday. He began to scribble, as he says himself, when he was sixteen, and in his early years he appears to have acquired some reputation as a writer—as a calligraphist, if not as an author. Long before he was old enough to understand much about Cupid he would write love letters for the village girls to their soldier sweethearts in India. He did not compose the letters, but merely acted as an amanuensis.

He was a delegate to the last Democratic State convention, and took his Bible with him, so that he did not miss reading the allotted portion of Scriptures amid the turmoil of politics.

Electricity's Effect on Steak.

A novel application of the electric current has been made by Willian T. Bryan, a Cincinnati electrician, who has been a student of disease treatment by electricity. He claims to be able to turn the current on to a piece of poor beefsteak and make of it a tender, toothsome morsel. The electricity disintegrates the tissues and destroys impurities.

He belongs to Richard Vaux Lodge, No. 381.

How tired you look. How you long for a good rest. It's work through the day and worry through the night. Already you have nervous dyspepsia, nervous sick headache, and neuralgia. Your food distresses you. You are "all tired out," and you suffer from terrible depression.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

is what you need. It keeps you up when especially pressed with work. It cures dyspepsia, and it builds up exhausted nerve tissue.

Pure, rich blood, a strong digestion, a clear skin, steady and vigorous nerves; these may all be yours if you only use this great blood-purifying and blood-forming medicine.

ONE HONEST CLAIMANT

Fire Claims Court Discovers Him.

THE REST ARE SHADY INDEED

Wahine Wants High Pay for Thirty Shirts Belonging to Husband Long Dead.

On Tuesday the Court of Fire Claims had the pleasure of considering what it declares to be the first honest claim presented. The honest claimant is a native by the name of Hialeloa, whose entire claim, including the claims of his wife amounts to only $145.50. The woman claims two holokus for herself and two suits for her husband, allowing for wear in the price. The claim also asked for recompense for four kou calabashes at $7 for two and $4.50 for the other two. The Commission was so pleased with this claim and the honesty of the claimant that the members unanimously expressed their approval.

During the hearing of the Hawaiian claims the patience of the members of the court have been severely tried. The case of the fisher woman who put in a claim for $31,000 worth of lingerie (among the items being forty-eight hats and $2000 worth of silk holokus) has a number of close seconds. One youth claims that he lost twenty-six pairs of linen trousers by the fire, and a woman put in a bill for a holoku alleged to contain forty-eight yards of silk at $2 per yard. There has also a claim of $750 for a number of monkey-pod trees destroyed, and one woman has filed a claim for thirty white shirts belonging to her dead husband, each shirt being valued at $1.75 and the husband being admittedly dead for seven years. Another claim was filed yesterday morning, bringing the number of claims up to 6059 and the amount asked for up to $2,461,000.

The court has been hearing Hawaiian claims for the past week and it will take up Japanese claims today. During the past three months the court has been able to hear less than a thousand of these claims, and has only briefly considered these. At this rate the three remaining months to which the court is limited, will be insufficient by many months to hear the remaining claims.

Mr. E. C. Macfarlane of the Commission states that the work is going forward as fast as possible. The claims are for such obviously exorbitant amounts that there is necessarily much delay in getting at anywhere near a correct estimate of the losses of the claimants. The Hawaiians, Mr. Macfarlane states, are especially exorbitant in their claims.

The Japanese claims, owing to the valuable supervision of the Japanese Consul, are in very good shape, and the court expresses its appreciation of Consul Saito's valuable assistance in the matter. Negotiations are now under way for the compromising of a large number of Chinese and Japanese claims in bulk, and this will help the work along considerably, if accomplished. About 4000 claims will probably be disposed of at once in this way.

The court has been in session continuously since it was organized. The appropriations for the members and for the clerks and stenographers is sufficient only for six months, in which time the consideration of the entire list of claims is a hopeless task. The members of the court are inclined to think that the court should continue beyond the limit and finish the business, relying upon the next legislature to make up the deficit.

The Commission has not made any awards. Only memorandum figures have been made for the guidance of the court in considering the claims in the future.

MATE M'CARTHY SENT TO PRISON

Federal Court May Adjourn Next Week—Bankruptcy Trouble Amicably Settled.

Patrick McCarthy, second mate of the St. James, was sentenced to thirty days in Oahu prison by Judge Estee yesterday morning, for assault upon a sailor, Herbert Hadley. He entered a plea of guilty to the charge. Robert Tapley, captain of the same vessel, was discharged some time ago upon motion of the district attorney, who was convinced that he had not seen the blow struck by the second officer. McCarthy entered a plea of guilty. He could have received a sentence of three years in prison, and been compelled to pay a fine of $5,000, which is the maximum punishment for assault upon the high seas.

BANKRUPTCY CASE.

In the bankruptcy case of Lum Man Suk, after the court had heard arguments for nearly two hours, an amicable settlement was reached by the attorneys. This was the case wherein High Sheriff Brown had been given four executions to serve, upon an order obtained by Grinbaum & Co., in Circuit Court. The amount of these judgments was something over $1,000. It is claimed by Trustee Thayer, who is in charge of the bankruptcy estate, that the goods could not be levied upon, as the judgment was not obtained four months prior to the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy. It was finally agreed between the attorneys that the trustee should sell the goods in question, and reserve the amount of the Circuit Court judgment held by the high sheriff until Judge Estee could pass upon the merits of the case. The stipulation as to the agreement will be filed today.

NAVAL STATION SUITS.

Though the time for filing answers in the naval station suits has expired, one or two replies are still to be made. In most of the States and Territories where condemnation proceedings are instituted the law requires that a board of appraisers be appointed who shall have the power to fix the value of land condemned for public purposes. In Hawaii, however, the power rests directly with the court, and the government will claim under the law, he has the sole power, and the defendants have no right to a trial by jury, for which they contend in the answers already filed.

COURT MAY TAKE VACATION.

It is quite likely that the Federal Court will hold no session next week, from the intimation let fall by Judge Estee yesterday. His wife is quite ill, and the judge himself is not in the best of health, so that a brief cessation of the court is likely. The calendar is practically clean now, until the October term begins.

Lieutenant Stoney, executive officer of the United States naval transport Solace, entertained at dinner last evening on board the vessel, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hatch and Miss Jessie Kaufman. Lieutenant Stoney will also entertain a large party of friends at luncheon today.

The great bargains in shirtwaists offered by the M. E. Killean Company have attracted large crowds of customers. This sale will be continued this week.

MAY WIPE OUT BIRDS

Japanese Raid in Small Islands Serious.

SCIENTISTS FEAR SERIOUS RESULTS

Feathers and Down the Objects of Attack and All Ages Are Destroyed.

IN THE OPINION of Dr. David Starr Jordan and other scientists who have been in the city recently there is danger of the bird life upon the many small Islands of this group being wiped out or at least seriously diminished by the raid of the Japanese. This conclusion is reached from the fact that it is believed that the party of Japanese which was hunting birds on Midway Island when the Iroquois went there last year have been replaced by another party, left there when the schooner which acts as tender appeared this spring.

From the fact that there was so much work done by the Japanese at Midway, it is thought that there were other parties operating upon the small islands to the west, and if this is the case there will be much damage done to the bird life. The party of six men found upon Midway by Captain Pond was engaged in the collection of feathers and down, the varieties of birds being taken indiscriminately. The attack upon the birds was made in the most unusual manner, as the young and the old were being killed without any choice. The old birds were taken as often as the young and many of the young were left to die from want of food.

The birds on the islands are principally the albatross or goney, the tern, the bo'sun bird and the loon. They are so tame that they may be taken by hand and robbed of their feathers or killed without any weapons at all. When they were found the men had collected a large quantity of feathers and were prepared for a stay of six months more. This fact was reported to the Department at Washington and Captain Pond was given orders to make a yearly trip to the islands to report upon any squatters that might be found. This was not done owing to the many duties of the commander of the Iroquois, owing to the absence of Captain Merry. Now the year is too far advanced to make such a trip in as small a vessel as the Iroquois. As it is, however, there would be little utility in a visit owing to the fact that there is no authority for the stoppage of the killing of the birds, only a call for a report upon any depredations.

That the concession of the bird and fish privilege of these islands is valuable is shown by the fact that soon after the last year's trip of the Iroquois there was an offer to take a lease of the Midway Islands made by the Japanese Consul to Governor Dole. There was no action upon the proffer of the Japanese except the sending to the Consul of a complete statement of the small islands of the group. It is thought that the plan of the Japanese was to secure the exclusive rights to the hunting and fishing privileges and then work them for their utmost limit.

Commander Pond said yesterday that though the scientists were afraid that there would be a serious cutting into the bird life that the immense number of the birds of all species there made it practically impossible to wipe them out, as a few years of rest from hunting would see the islands as well stocked as before. Without doubt, he said, there would be parties sent to other islands where there are birds.

It is an odd fact that there are now four Captain Lawtons in the United States regular army—all young men, not one of whom is related to the late General Henry W. Lawton, who made the name illustrious in Cuba and the Philippines. One of these, Captain Louis B. Lawton, is to be retired for desperate wounds received in battle in China, where he distinguished himself not only by extraordinary heroism, but for sagacious action in a dangerous situation. After an exceptionally brilliant service he must now give up his chosen career because of those honorable wounds. In any other country extraordinary honors would await such a man.

MRS. EGRY GETS A DIVORCE

Marriage That Was a Sad Failure for the Violin Virtuoso.

Paul Egry, the eccentric violinist who came to Honolulu a year ago with the Boston Lyric Opera Company, and who had a music studio in the Love block for several months afterwards, was divorced in San Francisco on July 22 from his wife, Emily M. Egry, upon her complaint, charging wilful neglect and habitual intemperance. Egry made no defense.

Egry last achieved notoriety by deserting the Josephine Stanton Opera Company in Auckland, New Zealand, and stowing himself away on the steamship Sierra, bound for San Francisco, via Honolulu. He had gone to Auckland from Honolulu as a first-class passenger and according to his own story opened many bottles of champagne. His return to Honolulu on the same steamer was in the galley. When he was found as a stowaway Captain Houdlette turned the Hungarian virtuoso over to the steward who put him at work peeling potatoes, carrying sacks of flour up from the hold and making beds for the canine pets of the passengers. When the Sierra arrived here was among the first to come ashore, accomplishing this feat by disguising himself to prevent his being detained on board and carried on to San Francisco.

Miss Stanton, to whom Egry failed to say good-bye when he left Auckland, has written to Honolulu friends that Egry was head over heels in debt to everybody in the company, and neglected to return a valuable violin to Mr. Hallum of the Stanton Company, which had been loaned to the musician. As Egry arrived here with only a violin case, minus the violin, the instrument is probably in an Auckland pawnshop.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Charles H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual, and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet, and at the end of one week she was entirely well." H. A. C. MAY PLAY ON LABOR DAY

The trustees of the Honolulu Athletic Club held a special meeting last night for the purpose of considering a game of baseball for Labor Day.

It was stated that the Labor Day committee had offered a cash prize of $50 to be given to the winning baseball team on September 2d. This prohibited the Honolulu Athletic Club from competing in the game on account of a clause in the by-laws which does not allow the teams of the club to play for a money prize.

The H. A. C. want to play ball on Labor Day and a committee consisting of Messrs. Crook and Thompson was accordingly sent to confer with the joint committees assembled in Mechanics' Hall.

They stated the case to the labor people and informed them that their club would be willing to play any other team in the city for a trophy to be exhibited in some store window.

One of the members of the Labor Day sports committee stated that he had seen a member of the Star team who had said that the Stars wanted to try for the $50 prize. He thought that they would consent to meet the Honolulu Athletic Club for a trophy.

It was decided to make the proposition to the manager of the Stars and some definite conclusion will be arrived at today.

Preliminary arrangements for the concert and dance to be held in Progress Hall on August 31st were made and the prospects of the coming football season were uniformly discussed.

The Honolulu Athletic Club will undoubtedly put a strong team in the field and will probably call a meeting of footballers for the purpose of forming a league in the near future. Among prospective teams are: Honolulu Athletic Club, Oahu College, Maile Ilimas, Artillery and Hackfeld & Co.

MEMORIES OF BLOUNT

Stirring Days of His Advent Here.

A LOOK BACK AT HISTORY

How Paramount Commissioner Did His Work—Hauling Down the Flag.

BY THIS WRITING it is possible that Colonel Blount is dead. At any rate his career has been closed and reminiscences of his sojourn in these Islands are not inopportune.

For some time after the 4th of March, 1893, rumors reached here that President Cleveland, having withdrawn the treaty of annexation which Messrs. Castle, Carter, Marsden, Wilder and Thurston went to Washington to negotiate, would send a commission here to look into the events leading up to and following the revolution that dethroned the Queen. It was said that Admiral Brown, Colonel Blount and one unnamed statesman would compose that body. Finally, however, the rumors simmered down to Blount and one fine morning he appeared on a revenue cutter commanded by Captain Hooper. He brought with him his wife and his private secretary, Ellis H. Mills, afterwards United States Consul General.

A great crowd gathered at the boat-landing. Native women, dressed in white and carrying leis and the hybrid flag of Hawaii, thronged to the edge of the dock ready to welcome the stranger whom they thought would restore the Queen. Wealthy residents, supporters of the Provisional Government, were there to extend private hospitality. Esbank, the beautiful residence of Mrs. S. G. Wilder, on Judd street, had been secured for Colonel Blount's use, rent free. The crowds waited long at the landing, but the Paramount Commissioner did not appear. He had taken a look at the throng through Captain Hooper's binoculars and wished to avoid it. Finally a barge left the side of the cutter and swiftly made its way towards the landing, the Hawaiian women frantically waving their flags. But Colonel Blount was not aboard. The boat only bore Ellis Mills, who, with a brisk air of importance, mounted the dock, official packet in hand, and took a hack for the Government building. An hour or two later when the crowd was thinned out the Commissioner was landed. A private carriage was in waiting but he declined it and took a hack for the Hawaiian Hotel, where he was assigned to the throw cottage.

That evening there was a mighty concourse of Hawaiians on the hotel grounds. Berger's band had been crippled, at the time of the revolution, by the withdrawal of most of its native members who had formed a band of their own under the leadership of an East Indian named Libornio. The Hawaiian Hotel being a Royalist headquarters, the Libornio band was employed to play on the grounds. On the night of Blount's arrival it occupied the band stand. Owing to an unhappy stroke it opened the program by playing "Marching Through Georgia," the most tasteful air, perhaps, that the ex-Confederate Georgian Commissioner could have heard. But he bore up manfully. The next day, however, when Berger's band played the same tune for him he wrote about it—a line or two—in his official report. Having seen Georgian fields devastated by Sherman's army and having been chased about the State by Sherman's men, any reference, musical or otherwise, to the famous march was gall and wormwood to him.

What would the Paramount Commissioner do? His official call on President Dole had been reassuring. The credentials he handed over were couched in friendly phrase and he said nothing which led people to suppose that he would put an end to the protectorate which Minister Stevens had ordained. At least he said nothing to the public. Minister Stevens, however, had seen said signs. In meeting him Blount had been more than cool; had declined to say much about the situation; had, in fact, intimated that the United States Minister was a bit superfluous, and that the annexation policy was the work of adventurers.

Meanwhile the Japanese cruiser Naniwa had arrived in port and rumors were that, in case of the hauling down of the American flag, her captain meant to land men to protect Japanese interests were generally current. The late Henry Poor went on board and came off with alarming stories. These he gave the Chronicle's correspondent who, in turn, gave them to Minister Stevens. The latter advised that they be carried to Commissioner Blount, which was done. But Colonel Blount apparently attached no importance to them, though he provided against the probability of the Japanese landing by dropping a word or two in print about the ability and willingness of his Government to keep order here without local or foreign help.

One morning the Advertiser startled the town with the brief announcement that, by direction of Commissioner Blount, the American flag would be hauled down from the Government building (Judiciary) at 11 a. m., and the Stevens protectorate ended. It was worth the crisis to see the outburst of American feeling that followed. From over a hundred private flagstaffs the Stars and Stripes were unfurled to the morning breeze and almost every American one met had the patriotic button of the Annexation Club in his lapel. The Hawaiian regiment and battery of artillery at once went under arms. There was a half-defined fear that the Royalists would rise and try to restore the Queen; but the Royalists themselves looked to Blount to do that. One of those wild rumors of restoration had gone about and the Queen's friends were content to await the action of Cleveland's representative. Natives by the hundred, on foot and in carriages, went to the Palace Square. As the hour of eleven approached the bluejackets came into the Government building to perform the act of relinquishment. After them, company by company, came the Provisional troops, and the crowd outside the fence which enclosed the acre about Kamehameha's statue saw little hope for the Queen in the glint of serried steel and the frowning mouths of cannon.

The change of flags was very simple. A bugle blew and the Stars and Stripes came down on the run, the halliards in the sinewy hands of a Jack Tar. Five minutes later there was a ruffle of drums, a flourish of brass and the Hawaiian flag, bent on by a soldier of the Provisional Government, went to the masthead. Guards were posted and the crowds dispersed. Said a member of the Queen's late cabinet, with an oath: "What's the good of all that, anyway, if they aren't going to restore the Queen?"

The day the flag came down was on or near the fiftieth anniversary of the hauling down of the British flag that had been raised by Lord Paulet.

Blount now began his investigation. People soon saw that he was hopelessly biased against the American colony. The members of it were mostly from the North, directly or by descent; Minister Stevens was a typical Yankee; the Paramount Commissioner was a rank Jeff Davis man, only reconstructed far enough to hold a Federal office. Whenever Hawaiian Americans called on Blount he treated them brusquely, unless, indeed, they were anxious to say a word for the Queen. Royalists, especially native Royalists, he received with open arms. His intimate companions were Claus Spreckels and Charles Nordhoff; the most frequent guests, other than the two gentlemen named, were the late ministers of the crown. Some men of the highest character on the annexation side were unable to get their testimony before Mr. Blount while any man on the Royalist side had a stenographic hearing. There was no surprise, therefore, when, a few weeks afterward, the mail brought back the text of Blount's conclusions, namely, that the revolution of 1893 had taken place under such auspices as to throw the responsibility for it upon the armed forces of the United States.

After having shown his hand Mr. Blount winced under the resulting criticism of the local press. He complained to President Dole of the Star but got no satisfaction, the Executive saying that the local papers were not controlled by the Government. The storm of indignation which pelted him from across the water sorely tried his nerves and he complained in print because the Mainland papers said he had "hauled down" the Stars and Stripes when he had merely "removed" them. Yet his written orders to Admiral Skerrett were to "haul down." The Star said that he had tried for four years to haul down the flag but had been headed off by Northern bayonets and that he was now getting a cheap revenge. Upon this the diplomat sought out the editor in the street and berated him in terms which were far from diplomatic.

But man proposes and God disposes. Three years ago this month the self-same flag which Blount summoned from its high place was raised again by a Minister and Admiral of the United States. And today Hawaii is annexed and in his far-away Georgian home James H. Blount, no longer Paramount Commissioner, has perhaps closed his eyes to all the scenes and hopes, and all the regrets and enmities of life.

WHEN FATHER RODE THE GOAT.

The house is full of arnica
And mystery profound;
We do not dare to run about
Or make the slightest sound;
We leave the big piano shut
And do not strike a note;
The doctor's been here seven times
Since father rode the goat.

He joined the lodge a week ago—
Got in at 4 a. m.,
And sixteen brethren brought him home,
Though he says he brought them.
His wrist was sprained, and one big rip
Had rent his Sunday coat—
There must have been a lively time
When father rode the goat.

He's resting on the couch today
And practicing his signs—
The hailing signal, working grip,
And other monkeyshines;
He mutters passwords 'neath his breath,
And other things he'll quote—
They surely had an evening's work
When father rode the goat.

He has a gorgeous uniform,
All gold and red and blue,
A hat with plumes and yellow braid,
And golden badges, too.
But, somehow, when we mention it,
He wears a look so grim
We wonder if he rode the goat
Or if the goat rode him.

Sociologists see in the motor car a possible way out of more than one of our difficulties. Madame Schmall suggests its use as a kitchen, which would travel over a regular route, leaving ready-cooked meals at the homes of its patrons, and would thus reduce the labor of the household without taking away any of the pleasures of the family life. A perambulating restaurant for supplying suitable food to the sick is already in operation in Berlin.

SURVEYING THE VENEZUELA-BRITISH GUIANA BOUNDARY.

The surveying of the boundary line between British Guiana and Venezuela is of interest to the American public, for it marks the final settling of the matter that so thoroughly stirred up the Yankee spirit a few years ago. This illustration shows a group of surveyors, with their assistants, now engaged in surveying the line. The boundary dispute between Venezuela and Great Britain was long in evidence as an international question, dating back to previous centuries, and was only brought to arbitration through the interference of the United States. A final decision was reached early in October, 1899, and soon after surveying parties took the field to delimit the international boundary and establish pillars of stone and masonry as permanent memorials. The line is being run through a country that is mostly primeval forest, hitherto untouched by civilized man.

NEWS OF THE WATERFRONT

Solace Will Carry Mail to San Francisco.

WHITE AND CLEAN as the active tars can make her after the dirty work of coaling the United States naval transport Solace is ready to proceed on her voyage to San Francisco and Mare Island, where she will lay up for extensive repairs. She will leave this afternoon at 5 o'clock, and will carry the United States mails from this port. As the Solace makes about fifteen knots an hour she will reach San Francisco next Wednesday, probably in the afternoon. The departure of the Solace will leave a void here in the way of warships, as she is about the last of the navy's boats to pass through Honolulu from the Asiatic station. What vessels are to go home from that station will take the Suez canal route. The Solace will be laid up indefinitely.

Monster Tuna, or Ahi, Caught.

A monster Catalina tuna, or ahi, as it is known to the Hawaiians, was captured yesterday afternoon by Japanese fishermen in deep-sea water beyond the channel. The fish weighs in the neighborhood of 125 pounds and is the largest of the species ever brought ashore to the fishmarket. The Japanese caught the big fellow with a hook and afterwards speared it in order to get it into their boat. The ahi was on exhibition yesterday afternoon and attracted considerable attention. The dealers offered it for sale for $10.

End of the Portsmouth.

Her naval usefulness outlived, after she had played a noble part in American history, the venerable war frigate Portsmouth is wandering around New York harbor, homeless in her old age, while the State of New Jersey and the city of Hoboken quarrel about her care. She is finding a stanch champion in Governor Voorhees, however. He is holding up a valuable riparian franchise Hoboken is eager to see conferred upon the Holland-American Steamship Company until proper provision shall have been made for the battle-scarred veteran of the sea and he will appeal to the State Riparian Board at its meeting in Sea Girt to sustain him.

Deutschland's Great Speed.

On the nautical day ending at noon on Tuesday, twenty-four hours and fifty minutes long, the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, in yesterday from Bremen, Southampton and Cherbourg, made the unprecedented run of 601 knots, says the New York Sun of July 29. Her average hourly speed for the day was 24.19, and at times she attained a speed of about twenty-five knots. Captain Albers said the great ship had not reached the limit of her ability. He confidently predicts that she will make even a greater day's run when the weather is just right and the sea smooth. To reel off 601 knots the furnaces of the great ship chewed up nearly a ton of coal for every knot.

The British Shipowner.

At the meeting of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce on May 16th, Mr. Alfred Jones, president of the Chamber, who is also head of the firm of Elder, Dempster & Co., said:

"It is much better for the American to buy ships here than to build them for themselves, and nobody can blame Englishmen for accepting American dollars; but there is an element of great danger in this transfer, because it means a combination between the American railways and sea-carrying. We must realize that the United States intends, so far as possible, to make itself the manufacturer for the world. The only way in which the British ship-owner may be hit will be by bounties or other preferential treatment, such as we in England cannot hope for. Nevertheless, despite the advantages enjoyed by some of our foreign rivals, I am confident the British ship-owner will be able to hold his own."

Sir Courtenay Boyle, permanent secretary to the Board of Trade, who also spoke, referred to the necessity of alertness in meeting the "competition of energetic, friendly, but powerful rivals."

Shipping Notes.

The Wilder steamer Maui leaves for Kau ports this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The barkentine Archer will sail today for San Francisco with a cargo of sugar.

The United States naval transport Solace leaves this afternoon at 5 o'clock for San Francisco.

Wilder's steamer Helene, which arrived yesterday from Hawaii, brought in a big cargo of sugar.

The schooner F. W. Slade, which sailed for Eleele on Monday, arrived at that port on Tuesday afternoon.

The steamer Iwalani arrived yesterday and discharged a cargo of sugar into the ship Emily F. Whitney.

The Inter-Island steamers Ke Au Hou, for Eleele, and the James Makee, for Kapaa, sailed at 4 p. m. yesterday.

The officers of the United States navy transport Solace were serenaded Tuesday evening by members of the Maile Ilima Club.

The only arrival yesterday from the Pacific Coast was the American barkentine Amelia, Willer, from Eureka with lumber.

About 3,000 sacks of sugar from Hawaii were brought to Honolulu yesterday on the Kaiulani and will be loaded into the barkentine Archer. Sixty head of cattle were also brought for the Metropolitan Meat Company.

Word was brought by the steamer Kaiulani, which arrived yesterday morning, that Kohala had benefited by a heavy fall of rain.

The gasoline schooner Eclipse, which was to have sailed Tuesday afternoon, did not sail until yesterday in the afternoon, owing to the stress of freight received.

The American schooner Sehome, Peterson, departed yesterday afternoon for San Francisco. She had a large cargo of sugar taken on at the railway wharf.

The army transport Meade is looked for this evening, providing she was able to leave San Francisco on August 16. She will bring six days' later news of the outside world.

News was brought her yesterday by the steamer Helene that the Hamakua coast was drenched with rain when the steamer left. The rain came on Monday and continued until Tuesday night.

When the Mikahala leaves for Kauai today she will make a longer trip than usual, as the vessel will be chartered at Makaweli by Mr. Jaeger, who will go on an excursion to Niihau on a fishing expedition.

[Photo by Rice & Perkins.]

THE AMERICAN SCHOONER F. W. SLADE, which anchored outside the harbor July 24th, awaiting an opportunity to obtain anchorage room at Eleele, Kauai, departed on Monday for the Garden Isle port, where she will discharge a heavy cargo of coal from Sydney for the Makaweli plantation. The schooner was a familiar sight while at anchor here, and much valuable time was lost on her charter on account of the difficulty of obtaining sufficient space to discharge. Captain Sorenson was fortunate while here in discovering a long-lost brother whom he had not seen for thirty-one years. The brother left home in Denmark as a sailor lad, and from that time until Captain Sorenson came face to face with him on Queen street in this city, nothing had been heard of him.

ITCHING PILES.

From the Melbourne Age.

Ever have any irritation of the skin? There are many forms of it, any of them bad enough to tax your patience. Hemorrhoid, a plague of the night; no rest for the sufferer from that complaint. Eczema, too; hives don't sound dangerous, but they cause much misery to those unfortunate enough to be troubled with them. Doan's Ointment is "A wonder" for any such trouble. Any troublesome irritation of the skin can't resist its healing, soothing influence. Lots of Honolulu people know this now.

dent of Melbourne. He states:

Mr. H. Ryall, of No. 11, Grosvenor St., South Yarra, is a very old resi-

For some considerable time I have been a sufferer from that annoying complaint known as irritating piles. At times the irritation was very annoying, especially at night, and in the warm weather. I applied some of Doan's Ointment which I had obtained and I am pleased to say that it gave me the desired relief from this annoying disease.

Doan's Ointment is splendid in all diseases of the skin: Eczema, piles, hives, insect bites, sores, chilblains, etc. It is perfectly safe and very effective. Very frequently two or three boxes have made a complete cure of chronic cases that have not yielded to other remedies for years.

Doan's Ointment is sold by all chemists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box, or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Ltd., agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

The city council of Hamilton, Ontario, has refused to allow the streets to be sprinkled on Sunday, on the ground that it would be a profanation of the Sabbath.

PACIFIC UNION OIL CO.

Located in the Famous Coalinga Oil Fields of California.

Proven oil lands, completely surrounded by as rich oil producing wells as there are in the State, yielding from 50 to 250 barrels per day.

Contract prices for oil at the Coalinga wells, 70 cents per barrel.

With twenty-five producing wells of 100 barrels each per day, you can make your own calculation as to profits.

The oil industry in California is in its infancy, yet many fortunes have been made by judicious and lucky investments in oil stock. Many more will be made in the near future.

The average advance on original sales of oil stock in twenty leading companies in California has been from $1 to $108 per share.

Oil lands have advanced from $1?25 to $1,000 and $2,000 per acre.

When the Pacific Union Oil Company has a number of producing wells on its property, its stock will have the same show for even a greater advance, as some oil stock has advanced from $1 to $1,500 per share.

The Pacific Union Oil Company has no salaried officers, and is controlled by well known gentlemen of integrity, who will see that the money derived from the sale of stock will be legitimately applied to the development of its property.

For further information, apply to J. H. FISHER & CO., Stock and Bond Brokers, and Hawaiian agents for the sale of a limited amount of Pacific Union Oil Company stock. Stangenwald building, Merchant street.

NEW VIEWS!

Mr. Melvin Vaniman is now at the Volcano, where he hopes to get a photo which will do the subject justice. His wonderful photo of Honolulu, the largest direct photo ever made in the Islands, not to mention the smaller, but not less perfect pictures of the Pali, Waikiki Beach, etc., place him in the front rank of his profession. It is not unreasonable to expect equally good results from his present trip, which will include all points of interest between Honolulu and the Volcano.

When completed Messrs. King Bros., who are associated with Mr. Vaniman, will have a series of photos equal to anything made anywhere, and which will do more toward advertising the Islands than any other medium.

Part of the series are now ready and on sale at

PRESERVED PINEAPPLES

Treasury Decision in Regard to Their Custom House Classification.

Hawaiians who are engaged in selling canned pineapples will note with interest the following Treasury decision in regard to fruit which comes into competition with theirs:

Classification of preserved pineapples shall be based on the reports of analyses by Government chemists, and where it is shown by such reports that sugar has been added in the process of canning or preserving, duty shall be assessed thereon at 1 cent per pound and 35 per cent ad valorem as fruits preserved in sugar not specially provided for, under the first clause of paragraph 263, act of 1897, and not at 25 per cent ad valorem as "pineapples preserved in their own juice," under said paragraph.

Treasury Department, July 26, 1901.

Sir: The Department is in receipt of your letter dated the 10th ultimo, together with the communication of the appraiser at your port, reporting upon the letter of the United States appraiser at San Francisco, Cal., and the accompanying communication of Messrs. S. L. Jones & Co., of that port, in the matter of the classification of pineapples preserved in sugar.

It is alleged that pineapples preserved in sugar are being classified at your port as "pineapples preserved in their own juice," and assessed for duty at 25 per cent ad valorem under the final clause of paragraph 263 of the tariff act of July 24, 1897, while it appears that at the port of San Francisco in every case where it is shown by the report of the analytical chemist that sugar has been added in the process of canning or preserving pineapples, the same are returned by the appraiser as pineapples preserved in sugar, dutiable at 1 cent per pound and 35 per cent ad valorem under the provision in said paragraph for "fruits preserved in sugar."

The appraiser at your port, upon whose advisory returns your classifications of similar goods are predicated, states that he "had numerous tests made to ascertain, if possible, the amount of cane sugar added to the fruit;" that "this action proved futile, as it seemed the pineapple contained a fairly large percentage of cane sugar in its body, and the chemist found it difficult, if not impossible, to separate a small percentage of added sugar, if such be present;" that, for the information of his office, he caused other pineapples to be grated and an equal weight of sugar added, and that "the chemist at once reported a fraction under 50 per cent as being cane sugar, showing the possibility of detecting added sugar."

The appraiser also states that, in his advisory returns of preserved pineapples, he has been governed by the decision of the Board of United States General Appraisers (unpublished), dated March 4, 1901.

In the decision of the Board of General Appraisers above referred to it was held that certain preserved pineapples in tins were dutiable at 25 per cent ad valorem as pineapples preserved in their own juice, under the last clause of said paragraph. That decision was predicated on a chemical analysis made by the Government chemist of samples of the goods, which showed that the amount of cane sugar contained therein varied from 1.52 per cent (at the lowest) to about 13.44 per cent (at the highest), and upon the evidence adduced in that case, showing that "ordinary pineapples naturally contain between 11 and 12 per cent of cane sugar," and that Singapore pineapples similar to those than under consideration by the Board "probably contain more cane sugar than other kinds of pineapples." The Board was, therefore, of opinion that the fruit in that case was preserved in its own juice only, and that no cane or other sugar had been "extrinsically added from other sources."

The foregoing decision is the same in principle as the ruling of the Board in re Rosenbaum Brothers (T. D. 12725), also in re Delafield (T. D. 13767). In the former case the assessment of the merchandise by the collector of customs at 35 per cent ad valorem as fruits preserved in sugar, under paragraph 303 of the act of 1890, was based on a chemical analysis showing the presence of 13 per cent of saccharine matter in the fruit, but the Board, in sustaining the claim of the importers, remarked that "the sugar beet contains, on an average, over 13 per cent of sugar; a ripe pineapple is still richer in saccharine matter," while the fruit, the classification of which was the subject of the Board's decision in the latter case, contained even a greater percentage of saccharine matter (fruit sugar), namely, 17.20 per cent, although it was held, sustaining the protest, that the pineapples were "fruits preserved in their own juices." The Government chemist who made the analysis of the official samples in that case reported as follows:

"Pineapples at maturity contain 11.33 per cent of cane sugar, which, owing to the presence of a peculiar ferment, is usually converted into fruit sugar, in which form it is determined as a reducing sugar by means of 'Febling's solution.' This sugar is optically inactive, and is the only sugar present in the sirup, analysis of which is given. The excess found over that usually present in the ripe fruit is doubtless due to concentration of the juice of the fruit. Had cane sugar been added, its presence would be manifested by its optical activity, even if inverted by the acid of the fruit and the heat employed in concentrating."

The last sentence of the foregoing report of the analytical chemist in that case does not support the statement of the appraiser at your port to the effect that, owing to the large percentage of sugar naturally contained in the fruit, it is difficult, if not impossible, in some cases, to determine whether cane sugar has been added to pineapples, although the possibility, under certain conditions, of detecting added sugar is admitted.

While there is a specific provision in paragraph 263 of the act of 1897 for pineapples preserved in their own juice, the same, preserved in sugar, are not provided for eo nomine; hence the latter class falls within the first clause of said paragraph providing for "fruits preserved in sugar, * * * not specially provided for in this Act."

Inasmuch as the question is one of fact to be determined by proper analyses, it is, therefore, directed that the classification of preserved pineapples shall be based on the report of the analysis made by the Government chemist, and in any case where such report shows that sugar has been added to pineapples in the process of canning or preserving the fruit, the same should be assessed for duty at 1 cent per pound and 35 per cent ad valorem, in accordance with the first provision of said paragraph 263.

Respectfully,
O. L. SPAULDING,
(5678 k.) Acting Secretary.

COLDS

The quickest relief, for a cold, is by Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

We all have colds, you can try it and see. You will find the edge taken off in a night and, in three or four days you'll be wondering whether that cold amounted to anything anyhow.

That's relief. If you tackle it quick, the relief is quick and complete, if you wait till the cold is in full possession of head and lung, why, of course, the relief is quick if it comes in a week.

A little emulsion won't clear and restore your whole breathing-machine in a minute; don't be looking for miracles.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

A JUGGLER IN TOWN

Eminent Magician From Farther India.

MAHOMET KHAN MYSTIFIES MANY

Performs the Famous Illusions of the Woven Basket and the Mango Tree.

MAHOMET KHAN, of Hyderabad, India, is in town. His name is not to be found on the Hawaiian Hotel register, nor on that of any of the local hostelries. At present he is occupying a humble room in the district of Palama.

Many people have noticed Mahomet Khan on the street, and wondered who he was. He is of diminutive stature, wirily built, wears his beard parted in the middle after the custom of his country, and goes a walking clad in dark clothes and wearing a turban for headgear.

Mahomet's father was a juggler of renown in India, and during his lifetime imparted the secrets of his profession to his two sons, Mahomet and Janal. They followed in the footsteps of their father, and their fame as jugglers soon spread o'er the length and breadth of the land.

Mahomet Khan has been traveling all over the world for the last fifteen years; in 1895 he visited England, and gave performances for over six months at the Indian exhibition at Earls Court, London. From there he journeyed all over Europe, America and Japan, gaining a livelihood by the exercise of his art. He came to Honolulu from the Philippines about a month ago, and is now awaiting the arrival of his brother Janal from Yokohama. In a week or so the two will proceed to San Francisco, where they expect to sign contracts for an extended engagement in the Orpheum circuit.

Mahomet Khan is the proud possessor of a scrap book containing testimonials from hundreds of high officials whom he has entertained by his magic. They refer to his performances as being unique, marvellous and inimitable.

Mahomet's tricks require but little apparatus, and he is willing to exhibit them in any well lighted room. Before giving an exhibition he dons his "spirit" suit of grotesque pattern and divers colors, and sticks a bunch of feathers in his turban, and behind each ear. Then, having made sundry passes with a monkey's skull, and having circled the room playing on two pipes, he is ready for business.

His principal illusions are the basket trick, the mango tree, the ring encircled stick, throat fire, the severed cloth, released balls, and the changeable sand.

The basket trick is a puzzle to scientists even today, and all illusions in which persons are made to disappear and reappear in full view of the audience, are merely modifications of the original basket trick. A favorite trick with modern conjurers is to introduce a wooden cabinet in which persons vanish and are afterwards made to reappear, although placed on high feet, with no passage through which a person could pass from the cabinet to the stage floor, the scenes, or the ceiling. The audience is allowed to examine the cabinet for concealed space, and to watch round it during the whole of the transformation.

The general principle undoubtedly is this: If a looking-glass be set upright in the corner of a room, bisecting the right angle formed by the walls, the side wall reflected will appear as if it were the back, and hence an object may be hidden behind the glass, yet the space seem to remain unoccupied. This principle, however, is so carried out that no sign of the existence of any mirror is discernible under the closest inspection.

Mahomet Khan does his trick without mirrors, and in a room which has not been previously prepared with the view of producing an optical delusion. Asked by a friend to perform the trick in Honolulu, he said that he must have the assistance of his brother, and declared his perfect willingness to give an exhibition when his brother arrived.

The delusion is this: A man is placed in a basket woven out of rushes, and the cover is put on. After five minutes the cover is removed and the basket found to be empty. The cover is again put on, and two minutes later the man emerges from the basket.

In the ring trick a ring is placed in the folds of a handkerchief and passed round among the audience for inspection. Then a cane is produced and two members of the audience hold each end in a horizontal position. Mahomet Khan, after a little hanky-panky with the monkey's skull, lets the handkerchief with the ring in it lie across the cane, and withdrawing it smartly the ring is found to encircle the stick.

The trick of the mango tree is very clever, and apparently inexplicable. Mahomet takes a flower pot, and after filling it with earth, plants a mango seedling six inches high, which he waters. The pot is then covered with a cloth and the magician plays for a couple of minutes on his pipes. Presently the cloth is seen to rise and on being removed a mango tree a foot high is disclosed.

The tree is once more covered with the cloth, and after some more music by Mahomet, keeps on growing until it attains a height of two feet. A new plant has to be utilized for each performance, as to make the tree diminish in size is beyond Mahomet's art.

The fire trick consists of the performer placing a soft leather ball in his mouth and ejecting therefrom for the period of about five minutes a profusion of sparks and clouds of smoke. This continues until Mahomet Khan has to desist on account of danger from choking.

In the cloth trick Mahomet takes nine or ten yards of cloth four inches wide, and having doubled them a number of times, places them in the hands of a person, who holds the cloth while Mahomet apparently cuts it into fifty pieces with a knife. Then, applying a match to the loose ends he lets them burn for a second, extinguishes the flame, and proceeds to rub the scorched material with his hands, the assistant grasping the remainder of the cloth meanwhile.

Covering the ends with the monkey's skull, he then tells his helper to count how many separate pieces of cloth there are, with the result that the material is found to be as intact as it was at first.

Mahomet Khan's most laughable exploit is with what appears to be a saucerful of ordinary sand. Selecting an assistant, he asks him if he knows what is in the saucer. The man readily replies that it is sand. Mahomet then takes some of the stuff and adroitly rubs his hand over his victim's countenance, which becomes sooty black. He does the same thing again, and the man's head and face appear to be covered with white lather.

Another trick in Mahomet's repertoire is to thread two wooden balls on a piece of coarse string. He then ties the string and balls into what seems to be a hopeless tangle. Giving the ends of the string to two persons to hold, he strikes the balls with his wand and they instantly fly loose and fall to the ground.

Asked by a reporter as to whether he had ever seen the famous Indian trick wherein a rope appears suspended in midair, and a man climbs up the rope out of sight and immediately afterwards a basket is lowered containing the bleeding head of a man, Mahomet Khan said that his father had told him of it, but that he had never seen it performed himself. He thought that the trick was more a tradition than a reality, and that the secret had been lost countless years ago.

That the remarkable illusion has been witnessed of recent years, is testified to by reliable parties. Scientists attribute the thing to hypnotic influence exercised on the spectators by the performer.

In India a naked juggler will produce from a cup or bag several objects. These he has hidden under a false skin, his own having been gradually peeled away, and then laid on in a flap. By snapping his fingers or by pointing to anything the attention even of those forewarned is drawn away.

A very slight deviation of sight suffices for this, and by its aid an object may be brought out and then concealed before the audience perceives it.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has a world wide reputation for its cures. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., wholesale agents.

LETTERS AT YOUR DOOR

Mail Carriers in Line for the Delivery.

FIRST TRIPS TO BE MADE AT ONCE

Hard Work to Arrange Mail—Few People Respond to Request for Postal Data.

THE MAN with the mail-bag will begin the making of his daily round this morning. After a week of preparation, in the way of securing the names of those on the various routes who wish to be served through the carriers, the men will have enough mail to carry them through one trip over their routes with some mail to be delivered by each. The total number of letters which are to be taken out this morning will be only a light load, a couple of hundred at the least for each of the nine carriers, but the men expect that they will be able to do more work than the mere carrying of their mail, as there are very few of the people of the city who have returned their address slips.

The results of the census-taking by the carriers has not been so satisfactory as the officials in charge of the work had expected it would be. The number of persons who so far have signified their wish to be served with their mail by carrier is a little less than 5,000. Approximately 2,000 have said that they prefer to get their mail through the boxes and less than 200 persons prefer to patronize the general delivery windows. So far there has been no giving up of the boxes, but it is expected that there will be surrenders as soon as the service is under way and the people find that they can receive their mail at their homes. Ths means that less than 7,200 people have responded to the Department's request out of a population of 25,000 in the free delivery limits.

The 7,000 persons who have sent in their names in response to the requests of the postoffice authorities, with an indication as to their preference in the matter of the mail delivery, have been listed in an office directory. This is for the present use of the carriers, who so far have found it of much service. They have taken it into account already in the sorting out of the mail in the general delivery boxes, where they have found about a thousand letters which they will be able to deliver this morning. Some of these letters have been in the office for several days and their delivery will mean a lifting of the load which rests upon that branch of the service. The mails which come in are found to be in such an illy-addressed condition that it has been necessary to handle the letters frequently while the addresses are being discovered.

The setting of the posts which will bear the letter boxes is going on but the contractor who is doing the work does not expect that he will conclude it before next week. The boxes are not being placed on the posts now but these will be set in a short time after the standards are in position. As soon as all the posts are set the boxes will be sent out. They are held upon the posts by two bolts, which enter the boxes and are fastened inside. As soon as they are fixed the locks will be put on and the boxes will be ready for the receipt of mail. The collections will start at once, the man who will make them being for the present mounted on a bicycle. The carriers will not be given wagons at present, as the cost of this branch of the service will be so great that Mr. Erwin thought it best to refer the contract to Washington. There will be several of the men who will use bicycles and the others will go in the cars for the present.

That the service is one which will grow is shown by the fact that the people who have been seen will not give their names without explanation. Some men have been found who say that they do not want to be forced to have the mail delivered and who object to what they call the attempt. There is a general feeling of not being concerned with the matter, and this is taken to account for the small number of replies to the request of the Department. Despite the small proportion of the people who have signified any desire as to the disposition, it is the intention of the Department to give to the city the service and what it will be in the future will depend upon the use which it proves to be to the people.

THE LITTLE FOXES.

"It's the little foxes that spoil the grapes." That old saying comes from the vinyards of the East. It teaches a lesson thousands of years old, yet a lesson never fully learned by humanity; the lesson that we take precautions against great dangers, but ignore the small things. How true this is in disease! If we knew of a case of smallpox, we'd walk blocks to go around the infected district; if cholera were pervalent we'd take every precaution against the disease; but consumption and lung diseases slay hundreds where cholera or smallpox proves fatal to one person; and yet we ignore a cough or cold as little things, although these little things are the beginning of the most incurable maladies. Colds and coughs are the sparks of disease, and the only safe way is to stamp them out at once. That hectic fire which burns in the cheek of the consumptive was started by just the little spark of a cough which was too insignificant, it seemed, to bother about. Thousands of lives would be saved annually if Kickapoo Cough Cure were promptly used. It snuffs out a cold as easily as the spark is snuffed out, and prevents the inflammation and congestion which result in pneumonia and pave the way for consumption. It promptly cures colds, coughs, catarrh, croup, influenza, la grippe, bronchitis, asthma, pneumonia, consumption, cold in the head, or the deep-seated hacking cough. It is a soothing and healing preparation, and has performed wonders in the cure of stubborn and obstinate cases of throat and lung trouble. It is a splendid remedy for children.

WONDERS OF CALIFORNIA.

Fine Stereopticon Show of Pictures of the Golden State.

Col. J. W. Erwin, of San Francisco, who is here to see the inauguration of the letter carrier service, and who, last week, showed his views of the Far East, will give at the Hawaiian Hotel tomorrow evening a display of photographs entitled, "The Wonders and Glories of California." The pictures, which have been transferred to lantern slides, will be thrown from a stereopticon upon a large screen across the driveway in front of the hotel, where they may be seen from both lanais as well as from the grounds. Mr. Erwin has long been a resident of California, and his duties have taken him all over the State. Thus the views will comprise a trip from San Diego to Shasta, and will include, among others, the Salton sea and desert, the Yosemite Valley, the Redwoods, Los Angeles, Mount Lowe and Pasadena, Riverside and Redlands, Del Monte, the universities and San Francisco. There will be over 150 views. The invitation for the general public should draw a large audience.

A FAT PURSE FOR FIREMEN

Lewers & Cooke Give Them Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars.

At a meeting of the directors of the Lewers & Cooke Co., Ltd., held Tuesday evening, resolutions were framed and adopted recognizing the excellent services of the Fire Department at the Hall building fire, and expressing gratitude and appreciation for the work of Chief Thurston and his men.

Embodied in the resolutions, however, was a more substantial recognition of the services of the Fire Department than the mere expression of sentiment, and in accordance with the resolution a check for $250 was forwarded to Chief Thurston to be divided among the firemen who worked so valiantly.

The check was received by the Chief yesterday morning and a vote of thanks was sent Lewers & Cooke by the firemen, thirty-four in number, among whom the money was divided. Each fireman received over $7, and aside from the pleasure each felt in having his work thus appreciated, the money was a substantial item to men whose incomes are not too princely.

FOR TONO'S MURDER

Nakamura the Jap Charged With Crime.

AH QUONG, RAPIST, FREED BY GEAR

Portuguese Who Ran Off With Wife's Sister—Non Suit Asked in Magoon Case.

Nakamura, the Jap who was one of the witnesses to the death of Tono, the woman who died under very mysterious circumstances on the night of August 5, has been indicted for the murder of the Japanese woman. The son of Nakamura struck Tono's 10-year-old son, Haida, with a rock, and when she went to remonstrate with the father he is said to have struck her several times. The woman died within a few hours, and at the inquest held the following day none of the witnesses would testify against the Jap. The 10-year-old boy, Haida, alone testified to the assault, the woman's husband refusing to say anything that would incriminate Nakamura. The coroner's jury attributed the death of Tono to violence committed by persons unknown to them and the Jap was released.

The evidence presented to the Grand Jury was sufficient, and an indictment was returned.

The prisoner was arraigned in court yesterday morning and when the indictment was interpreted to him, said he wouldn't do a thing like that. A plea of not guilty was entered for him by his attorney, George W. Davis, and the bail fixed at $1,000. He is charged with manslaughter in the first degree.

Following his arraignment the other prisoners were brought before the bar, to enter their pleas.

OTHER INDICTMENTS RETURNED.

Palepuapa was indicted for the crime of larceny in the second degree. He is alleged to have stolen $2.15, the property of Lun Moy. A plea of not guilty was entered, and the firm of Andrews, Peters & Andrade appointed to defend.

Tipeka was charged with assault with a deadly weapon, namely a knife, upon the person of George Harris. He also entered a plea of not guilty, and W. T. Rawlins was appointed by the court to defend him.

Oliver Kane entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of larceny in the second degree. He is alleged to have stolen $46.50 from the Hawaiian Tramways Co.

Kauloha entered a plea of not guilty to the same charge. He is charged with having stolen $45 from Kinohou.

Kiki, the man indicted for killing Charles Bombay, also entered a plea of not guilty. The crime with which he is charged is manslaughter in the first degree and was committed May 21st. C. S. Dole was appointed to defend.

AH QUONG RELEASED.

Ah Quong, the Chinese rapist, was released by Judge Gear yesterday morning on writ of habeas corpus applied for by Attorney Brooks. The court took occasion to again air his opinion upon the constitutionality of the Hawaiian laws, and even read the entire provision of the Organic Act, bearing upon this case. Attorney General Dole stated that he did not believe the law quoted had anything to do with the case, and the court and attorneys, after the opinion had been rendered, began to argue as to the merits of the case, the court having previously cut off all argument until he had ordered the release of the prisoner. The whole point at issue seemed to be whether the Supreme Court of Hawaii or the Attorney General of the United States were the ablest lawyers, and the question apparently was not settled to the satisfaction of either party to the contention.

For a while after the court had ordered the release of the Chinaman, it looked as if an effort was to be made to secure his freedom in fact, as well as in name. Attorney F. M. Brooks kept the prisoner under his own surveillance in the court room, while Detective Kaapa and a police officer lay patiently in wait on the outside of the court room. Ah Quong was longingly watching the door to the library, and contemplating the shortest road to liberty in that direction, when Kaapa carelessly strolled past. That ended all thoughts of escape in that manner, and the Chinaman finally left the court room in company with his attorney. They walked together down the stairs, and Ah Quong breathed the free air and watched the blue of the heavens without molestation, though Kaapa seemed dangerously near. He was allowed to get several blocks from the Judiciary building before Kaapa, who had been following him on a bicycle, took him into custody.

HARRISON VS. MAGOON.

The evidence was concluded for plaintiff before noon in the case of Harrison vs. Magoon, and the defendants then moved for a non-suit. This was argued for two hours during the afternoon, on the ground that the case of plaintiff had not been proven, that the agents for the Hagey company, did not have the right to enter into contracts, and incur liabilities for the company, and defendants were not responsible for the acts of agents who had no authority to act. The argument will probably be concluded this morning.

HORRIBLE CONDITION IN DIVORCE CASE.

At noon the divorce case of Stella Nunez vs. Leonard Nunez was heard, and the evidence presented some unusual and horribly revolting details. The parties to the case are Portuguese, and the conditions were quite similar to those in the Nobrega case, wherein the court recommended the prosecution of the husband for adultery, and allowed the wife, who had been deserted for a younger woman, alimony to the amount of half the estate, valued at thirty thousand dollars. In this case it seems that the facts show an even more deplorable state of circumstances. The wife was deserted and the husband not only is living with another woman, in open adultery, but that woman is the sister of his first wife. She is a widow it appears, and was staying for a time with the sister, where she won the affections of her brother-in-law.

Mrs. Nunez was very reluctant to tell of her sister's perfidy, and had to be questioned a half dozen times before she would say who the woman was with whom her husband was now living. Finally after repeated questions she answered:

"He live with my sister. They live like man and wife."

Judge Gear expressed himself very forcibly as to the conditions in the case and refused to pass upon the application for divorce, until the husband and his paramour were brought into court. A bench warrant was issued for both Leonard Nunez, the husband, and for the woman whose name is Marie Coredira. The court then said it was the duty of the High Sheriff to look into such cases, and bring criminal action where there was such an open, disgraceful and shameful violation of the law. The parties to the suit are ordered to appear in court today at 12 o'clock, when Judge Gear will render his decision.

MINISTER KING'S ESTATE.

The hearing of the application of the widow of Minister King for an increased allowance for the support of the minor children was concluded at six o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Lightfoot was on the stand and related how he thought the property might be made more profitable. The two eldest sons of Mrs. King were put on the stand and told the court that they were willing to acquiesce in anything their mother might wish to do in the matter. The court reserved his opinion.

NO SHIRTWAISTS IN COURT ROOM.

Shirtwaists however much in vogue they may be in other places, are not the fashion in Judge Gear's court. One young man came strolling into the court room directly after the opening of the afternoon session, and took a seat near the door. He had not been within the court room over half a minute, before he was espied by one of the bailiffs, and escorted gently, but none the less firmly from the room. He was warned that if the court had happened to see him in negligee costume he might have been called upon to pay a fine of $50 for contempt, as was the case not very long ago.

COURT NOTES.

A nolle pros was entered yesterday in the case of the Territory of Hawaii vs. Emil Tschumi, because of the absence of the witnesses from the country. Defendant was found guilty of assault and battery, and fined $50 and costs, from which he appealed.

Application has been made for the appointment of David Dayton as administrator of the estate of Olaf Bergstrom.

Elena Kahaawe yesterday filed an application for an order to compel the administrator of the estate of J. K. Kahookano, to return to her certain papers which were given to Kahookano during his life time, as her attorney. She claims that she is not indebted to the estate as alleged by the administrator.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA INFANTUM.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this remedy frequently, and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., wholesale agents.
