DOING SOMETHING IN THE LINE OF NEW STEAMSHIP SERVICE

Transportation Committee Learns of a Project Which May Mean a Number of Good Things for Honolulu.

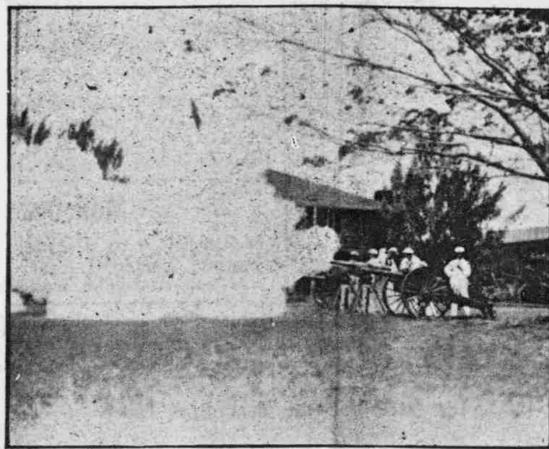

Honolulu is to be the center of a new transpacific line. The day that Governor Frear appointed the members of the transportation committee, Secretary A. H. Ford opened fire on a friend in the States who owns a controlling interest in a Texas-Tehuantepec S. S. Co. Secretary Ford wanted this line to extend its service from the Pacific terminal of the Tehuantepec railway to Honolulu. By Saturday's mail he received word that the company is arranging for a Tehuantepec-Japan service, thus giving southern pine and cotton a direct route to Nagasaki, and Secretary Ford is asked what Honolulu has to offer. Speaking of the prospects of the new line yesterday Secretary Ford said: "I am interested because it will give the tourist a direct and cheap all-water route from New York and the southern states to Hawaii. I have the promise that passengers will be carried, and take up the matter of rates at once. I wrote a month ago suggesting certain reasonable, in fact tempting, through passenger rates, and as I believe this is practically assured I shall at once take up the matter of direct Nagasaki freight with the Japanese merchants. All northern China and Manchuria is also tributary to Nagasaki. I have traveled all over this country and think it will have something to offer for our Japanese and Chinese population. "I hope these boats will stop at more than one Hawaiian port and carry passengers between for I understand it is an American line. "However, any way it goes one more passenger line to these islands is a gain; this one brings the southern states within twelve days of us by an all-water, non-tempestuous route. I believe that it is from the south that we will get our small farmers, and, personally, I am working in that direction. I shall be pleased to hear from any merchants who deal with the southern states, or who wish to, as well as those who have affiliations in Japan, Korea or northern China." The Territorial Transportation Committee started in to active life about a month ago, with the avowed purpose of lowering passenger rates wherever it could, securing better service between Hawaii and the Pacific coast, and uniting with Australasia in placing the advantages of Pacific ocean travel before the American tourist. Along all these lines it is making progress. If it is instrumental in inducing new steamship lines to make these islands a port of call and reducing the passenger rates by bringing about healthy competition. Much will be done toward solving the transportation problem that now so vexes tourists and Hawaiians alike.

BANQUET IN HONOR OF WELL-KNOWN CHINAMAN

Nearly one hundred representative citizens, including professional and business men and officials and nearly all the prominent Chinese merchants and planters of the island, gathered yesterday to do honor to Y. Ahin, the veteran Chinese planter and the pioneer of the rice industry in the Territory, the affair taking the form of an elaborate banquet, served in Chinese style at the Sun Yin Wo club on Smith street. Mr. Ahin returned a few weeks ago from a visit to his native land, the affair yesterday partaking of the nature of a welcome. The guests were met on entering by Mr. Ahin and introductions between those present were looked after by a committee of Chinese, the guests sitting down shortly after four o'clock to a repast of all the delicacies of the season, including sharks' fins, bird's nest soup, bamboo shoots, turtle and numerous other dishes as novel as they were palatable for the haoles. Among the guests were F. M. Haten, J. A. Magoon, E. I. Spalding, Rev. E. W. Thwing, David Dayton, J. A. Gilman, W. A. Greenwell, Bruce Cartwright, L. H. Halsey, T. Katsunuma, J. K. Brown, Geo. S. Curry, R. C. Stackable, R. W. Breckons, L. L. McCandless, John A. McCandless, E. A. Mott-Smith, W. R. Castle, W. L. Castle, Oliver Carter, E. R. Hendry, A. F. Judd, Judge Robinson, Judge Weaver, C. F. Chillingworth, Guy F. Rankin, A. Ferreira, R. O. Matheson, Judge Kingsbury, Professor Griffiths, R. V. Mitchell, Lyle A. Dickey, W. M. Langton, W. A. Dickson, Lam Kam Chin, Chang Kim, Hong Quon, Wong Leong, C. K. Ai, Yee Chin, Chu Gem, Ho Fon, Ching Chai, Lam Wo Sing, Wong Kwai, L. Akau, C. Ahung, Yong Kong Tat, Chong Mee Hing, Farm Cornn, M. C. Amama, Pang Lum Mow, Wm. Y. ## CORNERSTONE LAYING AT OAHU COLLEGE WEDNESDAY

The cornerstone of the Cooke Library at Oahu College will be laid on Wednesday, May 13th at 4 o'clock. The program is in charge of the Library Committee of Oahu College. Mr. W. A. Kinney, a former Punahou student, will deliver the chief address. Judge Antonio Perry, president of the Alumni Association, will speak for the students, past, present and future. Dr. W. D. Alexander will give a brief history of the Library at Punahou. W. F. Dillingham, chairman of the Buildings and Grounds Committee, will represent the corporation and will give a brief statement in regard to the gift from Mr. and Mrs. Cooke of this library and the building plans. The school will appear in two chorus numbers, one from the Preparatory school and one from the College. Nine students from the college will also present an interesting and unique part of the program, entitled "In Praise of Books." These students are Edith Smith, Charles Davis, Reynold McGrew, Watson Ballentyne, Helen North, Vera Damon, Alice Hopper, Alice Spalding, Rexford Hitchcock. The Alumni will also furnish one piece of music. The cornerstone will be laid by Miss Dorothy Cooke, the oldest grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Cooke. The occasion promises to be a most interesting one and significant of a good deal of progress in the school and in the community as well. The new Librarian, Mr. Ernest J. Reece, a graduate of Western Reserve University and of its Library School, will arrive in May and will at once begin the big work of cataloguing the books and making them ready to go into the new building in the fall.

KILAUEA'S FIRE GROWS BRILLIANT

Returning Volcano Travelers Report the Activity as Magnificent.

Reports from the volcano brought down by passengers on the Mauna Kea yesterday tend to show that there has been no exaggeration of the condition in any of the stories previously given out. E. A. Aldrich, of Moscow, Idaho, has traveled considerably around the world and has visited volcanoes in different parts of it. Last year he was at Mount Pelee, and two years ago he was here, but there was so little activity at Kilauea that it was not worth mentioning. He was one of the returning passengers yesterday, and is about as enthusiastic over what he saw as one could possibly be. "I have seen the much-written accounts about Pelee in the West Indies, but there is no comparison between that volcano and yours," he remarked to a representative of the Advertiser. "Our party sat on the brink for several hours two nights in succession, and were abundantly compensated for the walk. On Wednesday night the cone exploded just about dusk, a few minutes after our arrival at the crater, and the molten lava spread all over the surface of the pit. There did not seem to be a spot that was not fully covered, and two fountains were playing continuously. Manager Lyeurgus marks the height of the lava floor every day or two and notes the increase. From present indications and what the visitors told me it does not seem to me that it will be very long before the lake will be on a level with the pit opening. There is considerable heat all around the opening, and the fire is continuous. "In all of my travels I have never witnessed a scene that compares with Kilauea," continued Mr. Aldrich, "and the trip from Honolulu is as pleasant a one as could be asked. The steamer is comfortable, the meals are good, and the hotel accommodation excellent. I found a number of island people at the Volcano House when I was there, and several of them remarked that if the Honolulu people could realize what is really taking place there would be more of them going up. I would not have missed the sight for anything I can think of just now; it is a continuous moving mass of molten lava, which is, to say the least, awe-inspiring."

RAPID TRANSIT CAR JUMPS THE TRACK

Rapid Transit Car No. 23 of the Waialae line, at 6:01 last night, coming toward town, broke a flange on a front wheel while in rapid motion and jumped the track near the Mollili bridge. There were a good number of passengers aboard and, though nobody was seriously hurt, all received a severe shaking, being thrown forward in their seats and jolted, a few tumbling out and receiving minor bruises. The car in leaving the track dashed into a telephone pole and the car itself was badly used up. Car 23 left the Kaimuki terminus at 5:56 and went off the track at 6:01. It was 10 o'clock before the next through car, cars running between town and the Mollili bridge in the meantime and passengers living further having to hike the rest of the way.

SIX HUNDRED DEAD AND DYING AFTER THE GREAT WIND STORM

Tornado Damage One Million Dollars---Many Towns Wiped Out---British Cruiser in Collision a Total Loss.

(Associated Press Cablegrams.)

NEW ORLEANS, April 26.—Estimates of the number of fatalities due to the series of tornadoes that swept over the States of Mississippi, Alabama, and Louisiana on Saturday bring the dead up to five hundred, while one hundred others are injured so seriously that their deaths will probably occur. The total of those injured is one thousand. Many of the smaller towns in the paths of the wind were wiped out, the property loss amounting to one million dollars.

GLADIATOR A TOTAL LOSS AS RESULT OF COLLISION

SOUTHAMPTON, April 26.—The American Line steamship St. Paul collided yesterday with the British cruiser Gladiator off the Isle of Wight in the worst storm that has swept the English Channel for years, the severe weather being responsible for the accident. The Gladiator was badly damaged and had to be beached on the Isle of Wight to prevent her sinking. She will be a total loss. It is reported that the number of killed or injured on the cruiser is thirty, including her commander, but this is undetermined, as yet. No one on board the St. Paul was injured, though the vessel suffered badly in the collision.

The cruiser Gladiator is one of the older vessels in use in the British home fleet, having been laid down in 1896, and finished two years later at a cost of a million and a half. She is 320 feet long and 57 feet beam, having a displacement of 5750 tons. Her principal armament is ten six-inch guns and three torpedo tubes. She was designed originally as a ram, and has double rudders. The St. Paul was used in the American Navy during the Spanish War, and was commanded by Rear-Admiral Charles D. Sigsbee, who was captain of the Maine at the time she was blown up at Havana, Cuba. The present captain of the St. Paul is F. W. Passow, who has been in the American line for many years.

SANTA BARBARA, April 26.—The fleet arrived here yesterday, and an enthusiastic welcome was given by the citizens.

ODD FELLOWS HAVE EIGHTY-NINTH BIRTHDAY

The celebration of the eighty-ninth anniversary of the institution of Odd Fellowship in Honolulu was celebrated in hearty manner by the members of the order and their friends in the Odd Fellows' hall last night, a program of addresses, and music being rendered, the latter part of the evening being devoted to dancing and cards. The success of the affair was worthy of the occasion, the oration of the evening, delivered by Judge P. R. Quarles, being of particular interest. Following the program a presentation was made, C. T. Rodgers being presented with a handsome gold jewel as a recognition of the good work he had done for the order and as an expression of aloha from the Odd Fellows of the city. In the progressive card games carried on during the after part of the evening the prizes were won by Mrs.

H. Mix and Mrs. C. H. Jennings, and by John Gribble and J. A. Lyle. The program was:

DEMOCRATS AT WORK.

Democratic clubs have been organized in seven precincts on Kauai. There is said to be a strong feeling among the Kauai Democrats in favor of L. L. McCandless for Delegate to Congress. McCandless says he is not seeking any nomination. At the meeting of the Territorial Central Committee Friday evening a committee consisting of W. B. McClellan, H. J. Mossman and John Emmeluth was appointed to prepare campaign literature. Ed. Ingham, Ioela Klakahi, Joe Fern, L. L. McCandless, Frank Harvey and R. H. Trent were appointed a committee to prepare plans for the campaign.

LONDON PAYS BY TICKET

New System May Make the Possession of Cash Unnecessary.

LONDON, April 14.—The announcement that books of tickets for motor car riders are about to be issued suggests that the time is coming when money will scarcely be used at all. Even now it is possible to ride in trains, "tubes," and tramways with coupons or season tickets; to pay hotel bills with coupons, to have an "adornment" at a barber's shop. In Soho there are certain restaurants where customers can pay so much a month for daily lunch or dinner on the continental plan. A hotel company possessing large establishments in London, on the south coast, and in the provinces, undertakes for an annual payment to house and feed one the whole year round, with full liberty to change from hotel to hotel, as business or inclination dictates. It is a wonder that some of the big restaurants have not started this system for their regular patrons. It may be objected that all these services have to be paid for in money to begin with—when the coupons or season tickets are purchased. But that is not so. Payment can be made by check. It is quite within the bounds of possibility that the day may shortly arrive when money will be needed far less than it is today—when indeed, it will hardly be wanted at all.

The designs for the six new fast protected cruisers that are included in the British naval estimates are already prepared, and as soon as parliament sanctions the necessary expenditure tenders will be invited from private firms for the building of these vessels. They are each to be of about 10,000 tons, against the 17,000 tons of the armored cruisers of the invincible class. The primary armament will consist of six 8.2-inch guns, all mounted so that their fire may be concentrated on either broadside. These vessels are intended for the protection of commercial fleets in time of war, and are to be larger and swifter than anything of this nature that England has hitherto possessed. Each will cost the best part of $5,000,000 to construct. Two are to be built in the government dock yards at Pembroke dock and Sheerness.

Joseph Williams, the 8-year-old son of a decorator living in the Maida Vale district, is the most remarkable boy in London. At the age of 7 his voice "broke," and became sepulchral in bass, and now, at the age of 8, he is the possessor not only of a full-grown man's voice, but of a budding mustache. He has proved a sore puzzle to thirteen doctors, including the late Sir William Broadbent, who has examined him and pronounced him a "freak of nature." This very precocious boy was "discovered" by Mr. Parry Cole, the organist of a church in Maida Vale and the composer of several light operas and songs. The boy came to him a week ago to have his voice tried for the church choir, and Mr. Cole at once noticed that the boy, whose birth certificate he can produce, possessed a deep bass voice. Parry Cole became so interested in the case that he made an arrangement with the parents of the boy to teach him singing for seven years. Joseph is tall for his age and sturdy, and amazingly solemn. He is very dark and on the upper lip is a well-defined mustache, which his mother cuts for him now and then. He is extremely intelligent, and has a voice of immense power. He sang a patriotic song entitled "Queen Victoria," composed by Parry Cole, and the power of his voice would have made a socialist on Clapham Common green with envy. Then he sang a scale and reached the C in the bass clef. At present his ear is poor, but Parry Cole believes that he has in this boy a pupil who will one day become a great "basso profundo."

Spring-Heeled Jacks—Modern Seven-League Boots

A HINT FOR FRESH-AIR ENTHUSIASTS—A RACE WITH THE CURVED SHOE.

An invention known as the "curved shoe" has excited great interest in Germany. These shoes are thirty-five centimeters high, and have been invented by a Leipzig engineer. It is claimed for them that their great elasticity enables the wearer to go at twice his usual pace; that they can be used on any ground; and that those who use them learn in a very little while to keep their balance. The inventor admits that there may be a little initial difficulty in this exercise, but says it is easier for people who wear his shoes to balance themselves than it is for them to remain upright when riding a bicycle.

more street. Mrs. Scott has organized a "beauty club," in which clients can stay for a week or two while they are undergoing a course of beauty culture. The most original feature of the club is that each client lives in an environment of her temperamental color, surrounded by her favorite flowers. "All my life I have been a beauty lover," said Mrs. Scott, "and as an art student my work led me to think more and more about the necessity for beauty in the faces of everyday men and women. Of picture-makers there is no end. What we want is a maker of human pictures—artists devoting themselves to the perfection of face and figure. I have always had a theory that the color of our environment has a greater influence than is usually recognized, and that we each possess a color which affects us more than any other. In my experience of treating 17,000 cases of all kinds of face blemishes, I have found that my patients did not progress as rapidly as they should. I came to the conclusion that not only treatment, but special environment, after the treatment, was necessary. It is for this reason that I have founded this club, which is the development of my theories. During the first treatment I learn my client's temperamental color, and also her favorite flower. I am thus able to judge what color will prove most successful in her case. She may be advised apricot, lilac, white, or rose pink, and, if the season allows, her room is transformed into a bower of her favorite flowers."

In the house of commons the other day Claude Hay, representing a North of Ireland constituency, said he was much scandalized at the progress which the Irish language was making. In a voice tremulous with suppressed indignation he inquired whether the Bank of Ireland was not accepting from its customers checks signed in Irish, and whether the postmaster general and the collectors of the inland revenue were not receiving postal orders and checks signed in the same language. Mr. Bunchman, the financial secretary to the treasury, told Mr. Hay that the bank was master of its own affairs in transactions between its customers and itself. With regard to the postoffice and the treasury his answer in effect was that all that these departments required was to be satisfied that the signatures were genuine. Mr. Bunchman added that the question whether Irish was in the future to be the "commercial and banking language" appeared to him to be one which should be decided by the commercial and banking community rather than by the government.

MONEY TO COMPLETE THE ALEXANDER FIELD AT OAHU

Mrs. Martha C. Alexander has added $1300 to her original gift of $6000 to complete the Samuel T. Alexander Field. This sum will enable the trustees of Oahu College to carry out in full their original plans for the field.

In addition to the grading of the field and the making of the track, which are already completed, now a fine road will be built around the mauka edge of the field on the terrace above it from Manoa Road to the road recently built to the president's house. This road will be a point of vantage for persons in carriages and automobiles when games are in progress and will form a pleasant loop in the now beautiful drives through the college grounds. This road will have an ample ditch to carry off the water after the copious Manoa showers. At the foot of the terrace will be a low retaining wall and stone ditch running the entire length of the terrace on the

A leap year romance was revealed at the Welshpool police court this week when a solicitor applied for the transfer of a license to Miss Lucy Parry, a barmaid. The solicitor said that his client had taken advantage of the leap year and had proposed to a man, who accepted her. The wedding will take place in a fortnight.

A young woman named Norah Kettle, who was charged at Birmingham with attempting to commit suicide, was stated to be an inveterate cigarette smoker. Her father said she smoked as many as four packets of cigarettes each day, and could not be induced to give up the habit. She had left home in consequence. She promised the magistrate that she would leave off the habit.

A school girl of 13 years voted in an election of guardians at Heywood, Lancashire, a few days since. Her name was placed on the list of voters as a joint occupier of a dwelling house.

If you have anything to sell, tell about it in the market place. Buyers and sellers meet in our classified admauka side. There will be a footpath also leading directly to Manoa road from the road which will be a great convenience to pedestrians. The field will have an appropriate entrance with a memorial tablet. This main entrance will be about opposite the home of Mr. Richard Ivers. The whole field will now be rolled and grassed. It is expected that it will be in good shape for use for the school's athletics in the fall.

Nearly a hundred cabin passengers, over three hundred men of the Second Infantry and about two hundred others, cavalrymen, artillerymen, casuals and civilian employes of the government, en route home to the States from Manila, via Nagasaki and this port, were made happy late yesterday afternoon upon arrival here to learn of a cablegram from the quartermaster in charge to the effect that the transport was not to sail from here before Thursday next and to await further orders.

Five days in Honolulu is a prospect that pleases and already have the cabin passengers been discussing ways and means for making the most of the unexpected stay.

Why the transport is held here is not altogether clear, but since the Sheridan, which has for so long been repairing since her puncture experience on Barber's Point rocks, is scheduled to sail from San Francisco on May 5, and the Crook is not needed for a while, and the Buford is also at San Francisco, the transport department may want the Sheridan to get out before the Crook arrives, that there may be docking room. No reason was given in the cable.

It is reported aboard that when the Crook reaches San Francisco she will be made ready to go around the Horn, to be taken off this run, altogether, and placed on the New York to Havana route, packing freight for the Army.

The Crook needs no coal here, having loaded up at Nagasaki. Her ship's company, therefore, will have no more to do in port than to keep the vessel clean.

She docked at the Naval wharf last evening soon after 5 o'clock and her passengers lost no time in getting up town, glad to get ashore after the long trip, although the passage was pleasant.

Prominent among the passenger is Colonel H. B. McCoy of the Philippine customs, on an eight months' leave of absence. He goes to Washington and has business with the Secretary of War.

Robert B. Westcott, a newspaperman, is going back to the States after spending nine years in the Far East. He has been connected with the Times, Cable-News and the Manila Opinion, in Manila, also the Far Eastern Review. Manila Opinion was his own and he sold out just before leaving.

Westcott reports Phil Dankey, formerly of Honolulu, as having recently returned to Manila from a flying visit to Siam. He is marine reporter on the Manila Bulletin. "Volcano" Marshall is reported still doing advertising for the North China Daily News in Shanghai. Joe Travers is still in Manila and engaged in advertising.

United States Secret Service Agent Manion is a passenger. He has been engaged in some special work for Washington in the Philippines, smuggling, fraud and government department investigations.

NEVADAN FROM COAST.

The American-Hawaiian S. S. Nevada, Captain Greene, entered port early yesterday morning from San Francisco, whence she sailed on the 17th, three days later than the leaving of the P. M. S. S. Mongolia, therefore bringing three days' mail. She brought one passenger, C. Bolte, and a full cargo of miscellaneous freight. She expects to sail this evening at 5 o'clock for Kahului and a number have booked passage in her for the Maui port. On Wednesday morning she will return from Kahului and be ready, probably, to sail for San Francisco with a full passenger list at 5 p. m. Thursday.

ANDREW WELCH GETS AWAY.

Captain Kelly's good bark, Andrew Welch, sailed yesterday morning for San Francisco with 1550 tons of sugar and several families as passengers. For combined objective transportation and a vacation traveling by sail is popular and profitable.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The barkentine Kikikat expects to sail for the Sound tomorrow.

The steamers Helene and Maui are expected this morning from Hawaii.

The Matson steamship Enterprise sailed from Hilo for San Francisco on Wednesday.

The steamers W. G. Hall and Iwalani are due early this morning from Kauai and Maui and Molokai respectively.

The steamer Kinau went on the marine railway yesterday morning, preparatory to taking the Kauai run on Thursday next.

Union Oil steamship Lansing entered port at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, having arrived off port the evening before from Port San Luis.

KILAUEA VOLCANO

Another Popular Excursion To This Great Natural Wonder.

Leaving Honolulu by the fine new steamer MAUNA KEA Tuesday morning, April 28th the party will arrive at the volcano the next evening where it will remain until Sunday morning when stages will convey the visitors across the old lava flows, to Hounaupo where the fine steamship MAUNA LOA awaits them, and which will arrive in Honolulu Tuesday morning, May 5th.

The volcano is now more active than it has been for years. Visitors are appalled by the awful grandeur which the scene presents. The pit is filling rapidly and local residents are flocking to the crater to view this unusual eruption. Don't miss this great opportunity to see the burning mountain.

Round trip fare only $51.00.

SUNDAY ADVERTISER

WALTER G. SMITH EDITOR

SUNDAY : : : : : APRIL 26

THE COMING JOURNALISTS.

The Atlantic fleet carries, as passengers, several journalists from the East, whose business is to write the history of the cruise for the best American and English newspapers and magazines.

These writers, if they continue with the fleet, as they presumably will, are going to say much about Honolulu. They will take it all in, and they will make millions of people acquainted with it who never knew much about the place before.

Their entertainment, both public and private, should be as complete as that afforded the captains of the ships; they should have automobiles and special cars, and personal guides, and every facility for seeing all that Honolulu wants the world to know about her advantages; and, if time permits, they should be escorted to the Volcano and Haleakala, to plantations and pineapple farms, and to the scenic wonders of Kauai.

The police wish to be notified at once of any cases of housebreaking or sneak thieving. The blame for some petty depredations in Makiki of late might have been placed had not the reports been tardily made.

A Duke's Reception

The Duke and Duchess de Chaulnes had a great reception in Paris. It was unpremeditated, unorganized, and spontaneous. It was simply the result of the same idea simultaneously striking a number of minds, and they acted in uncollusive and undesigned concert.

There were tailors, bootmakers, shirtmakers, and money-lenders. The florist was there, and so was the jeweler. The whole commercial world of Paris was represented in its many departments, and they all had hopes that the Duke was represented in a position to liquidate their claims with the money that had once belonged to Mr. Theodore Perry Shonts, who would have dug the Panama Canal if the undertaking had only been worthy of him.

Woman as She Is Advised.

New York World.

That was a dear thought which Mrs. Mildred Manly Caldwell gave to her sisters of the National Society of Ohio Women at the Waldorf. "Call your little part in life a picture," she said, "and paint it with all that is in you."

If there is a woman in this land who does not know how to be beautiful, how to be healthy, how to keep a cook, how to limit her waist measure, how to keep one's husband in nights, how to save money, how to make one's own hats, how to make jelly that will jell and how to "relax" for the rest cure, then that woman has not listened, that's all.

A Emperor's Fare

New York World.

The Emperor of Austria makes the plainness of his fare something of a hobby, attributing to it his long life and good health. Milk porridge for breakfast, a little cold poultry and cheese for luncheon, and an equally simple menu for dinner satisfy this Emperor of Austria and King of Hungary.

At a Balkan Court

A strange story comes from one of the Balkan States, where commercial morality is still in its infancy. At a recent banquet given at the house of the prime minister a distinguished diplomat complained to his host that the minister of justice, next to whom he was sitting, had taken his watch.

"Bilger eloped with his cook, the unfeeling wretch!" "Well, I don't know. Why shouldn't he if he wanted to?" "But his wife was just going to give a dinner party."—Life.

"I always try to treat my maid as if she were a member of the family." "Gracious, how do you get her to put up with it?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE BYSTANDER

The Evening and Morning. The Duck Suit Season. Too Smart by Half. Pirates and Their Penalties. Just the Loveliest Welcome. Yaps in Politics. Needs a Wife.

I observe, apropos of the morning and evening paper discussion, that the Star is seeking aid from the Scriptures. Doubtless it feels the need of help from a higher power. But I cannot follow it in the opinion that, when the Creator said the evening and the morning were the first day, He made things easy for an evening paper.

But even if this theory is wrong—a matter of mistranslation—and we must accept the ordinary calendar day, I fail to see where the evening paper gets off. "And God made two great lights, the greater light to rule the day and the lesser light to rule the night." Plainly, the great light rises in the morning, meaning, in the original Hebrew, the morning paper; while the lesser light begins to appear towards sundown, meaning, of course, the evening paper.

There is much about the evening, as well as the evening press, in the Bible. Speaking of a newspaper, the Psalms aver that "in the evening it is cut down and withereth," which almost goes without the saying. In Matthew you find the authentic news that when evening came he was there alone. "He" means the publisher. This, dearly beloved, shows that the publisher of the evening sheet had no customers. Not a subscriber appeared to lift his gloom; though some commentators are confused about this owing to the verse in Mark where it says that "In the evening he cometh with the twelve."

Summer fell all of a sudden, as it generally does toward the first of May, and a few white suits showed up on the men and a lot of straw hats. But the white suit habit is surely falling into what Cleveland called "innocuous desuetude"—and more's the pity, for white cloth sheds the sun's rays while dark cloth absorbs them and brings on those visitations of prickly heat from which men suffer in the dog days.

Honolulu men ought, for their own comfort and health, to return to their old-time summer fashions. White duck should be de rigueur from May to November every year. One doesn't catch cold in white as in black. Go about perspiring in dark, moderately heavy clothes, sit down where the breezes blow, and get up next morning with a sore throat. Go about in white duck, with the perspiration evaporating in haste from those light garments, and there will be nothing doing in the influenza line.

Another hygienic thought. Are your dark clothes clean? You have them pressed often enough and the spots taken off, but are they ever washed? Could they be washed and preserve their shape? Think of being three months or six months in unwashed clothes! Do you wonder that the microbes haunts you? The white duck suit is worn a day or two and then awaits the laundry. It is the cleanest as well as the coolest thing you can wear.

Duck is also an incentive to exercise. Think of tropical exercise in English woollens! You try it and soon quit. There is no fun in walking or horse-back riding or golfing when you stream with perspiration or cringe under prickly heat. Put on white duck and pedestrianism is a pleasure, and health-getting is made easy.

And be sure and wear a straw hat when the summer fully opens up. If you don't, baldness will catch you early. A well-ventilated straw hat is the foe of the wig-maker.

As for the correction, we may remark that the fleet was not "leaving Los Angeles last night." Not being accustomed to overland travel, the fleet never went to Los Angeles.—Star.

Evidently the Star isn't up in the history of Los Angeles municipal extension or posted as to the location of the Los Angeles Custom House.

For men who ran away with a yacht and wrecked it, the two "pirates," got off cheap with $1 and 30 days. Stealing ships is a considerably cheaper amusement than stealing hens. There are chicken-thieves who get six months. Wallace got 400 days for practicing medicine without a license. Far better for him if he had gathered in La Paloma and sailed her without a license until she piled up on a rocky beach.

It will delight the fleet to know that it will have a chance to attend Theodore Richards' Congress of Song. The Esthetic Circle of the Kilohana Art League will invite the whole fifty-seven varieties of the 16,000 visiting seamen to a fine exhibition of tatting. The Aloha Kindergarten stands ready to show them something choice in clay modeling and doll-dressing.

The Duke of Devonshire

The Outlook.

The Duke of Devonshire made for himself an almost unique position, in spite of great coldness and reserve. Punch described him in Parliament on one occasion as speaking with his usual air of "you be blankedness." When he was taken to task for yawning two or three times during one of his own speeches, he replied with a smile: "But you did not hear the speech."

Commercial News

By Charles L. Rhodes.

What was apparently a reaction in the price of 96-degree centrifugals was reported earlier in the week. However, it seemed to have no effect on the stock quotations nor on the volume of business, showing that whatever these are, they are based on general market and world-wide conditions, and not on local or temporary conditions.

Locally, there have been a number of things to give confidence to stocks. One of these is the continued flattering conditions existing on various plantations, yields outrunning estimates, high yields of cane, and high quality of juice. Another was the announcement by Alexander & Baldwin that stockholders of record of Kihai may surrender their stock at any time after May 1, receiving therefor $10 per share, instead of having to wait until July 1, as was anticipated at the time the negotiations for the sale of Kihai were completed.

The current rates of interest have been too high to permit of any speculative buying of sugar stocks. Even if men were willing to pay eight per cent. interest for money with which to buy stocks, the banks would exercise a repressive influence. But with $300,000 coming into circulation from the redemption of Kihai, together with the returns from sugar now coming in more rapidly than ever, there is at least some anticipation of an easier money market, and in consequence a more active stock market.

THE MAHUKA SITE.

The entry of the decree in the Mahuka site condemnation proceedings, by Judge Dole, yesterday morning was in some respects the most important incident of the week, because it will have bearing and influence in so many directions. For one thing, it means that in round numbers $105,000 of entirely new money will be brought into the community within a very short time and put into the channels of investment and circulation.

But in addition also it will have a steady effect in that all uncertainty in regard to the matter is now at an end. It fixes the location of the Federal building, and establishes the relations which other property has to that location.

LOCAL CROP CONDITIONS.

S. M. Damon returned yesterday from a trip to Hawaii, and reports a gratifying outlook for Oloa. Yellow Caledonia can be proving excellently well suited to conditions there. Earlier in the season there were some fields of the plantation where the yield was lower than hoped for, and which have tended to reduce the average. The cane now being harvested is most excellent, yielding four and four and a half tons to the acre, and in some cases even five tons.

MORE EWA WONDERS.

Ewa plantation, which has held so many world's records for total production, for yield per acre, and for average yield per acre, is still producing some striking phenomena, according to reports. Entire fields averaging 11 tons and over to the acre are reported this week.

Small Talks

- L. TENNEY PECK—Conditions here are just about ripe for a boom.
G. QUILL—It's getting to be quite the thing to have fire parties in Palolo Valley.
J. WATANABE—All lady like American Beauty rose. I get dollar and a quarter for every big plant I can grow in a pot.
JOSHUA TUCKER—There have been lots of people in the land office to inquire about those pineapple lands over near Kaneohe.
LORENZO TENNEY—When a Bishop can pick up $6000 or so at an Easter collection, it is time for Honolulu people to stop talking about hard times.
A. N. CAMPBELL—It is almost incredible how many efforts were made to defeat the Mahuka site deal. There seemed to be a new attack on it every day.
W. M. MINTON—There is a growing demand for real estate, especially in the Kaimuki district. I expect to see the price of local real estate go soaring before very long.
DR. A. E. ROWAT—You bet your life I'm in favor of small farming. You ought to see the fine new potatoes that I'm raising at Kalihi and sending to town every day.
LOUIS WARREN—I shall send Bruner, Indigo and a green runner to the Hilo races. Bruner was badly beaten a year ago, but I want to give the old fellow another chance.
HARRY T. MILLS—No law nor Legislature nor Judge can take away from me the right to defend myself. I have my back squarely up against the Constitution, and cannot be budged.
CAPTAIN JOHN ROSS—Why not Niu as a site for a home for the non-leprous children of leprous parents? Their relatives could see them, and they wouldn't be in anybody's way.
GEORGE S. FAIRCHILD—Colonel Spalding is now in Calcutta, and, he says, very much improved in health. He was a pretty sick man when he left Seattle for Japan some weeks ago.
GEORGE W. SMITH—The white labor bill was prepared here without publicity and sent on with no preliminary flourish of trumpets. It may be beaten, but there is a chance to revive it.
JOHN HUGHES—The town ought to have horse races. There is no finer sport, and it is a shame for a town possessing the number of sportsmen that Honolulu does not to have occasional races.
S. M. DAMON—The seventeen Hindus employed on Oloa plantation are proving very capable laborers. They hold their own with other nationalities. I believe they come from a sugar-producing part of India.
CONSUL TSENG HAI—As the Chinese were among the very first to come to Hawaii, and aid in its development, is it not fair to ask that a few more should be allowed to come? It will benefit all to have them.
CHARLES BELLINA—Some of the boys and myself went fishing at Heia on Thursday. We didn't get many fish, but I had some very good plover-shooting. The birds were so fat that they burst when they hit the ground.
CHARLEY ACHI—I tell you the only man who has a chance to win out for Delegate against Kuhio is W. A. Kinney. I told Link McCandless that, but still he talks about running. He hasn't any more chance to win out than I would have.
A. F. BRIGGS—I am taking to the Coast a large number of the Advertisers of the three issues covering the liveliest part of the anti-Pinkham campaign. I am going to send them to friends as the best examples of controversial newspaper writing I have ever seen.
E. W. THWING—Hawaii is to be one of the world centers of greatest importance, a speck in the ocean it is true, yet a point of radiating power and influence. The Crossroads of the Pacific is the meeting place of the East and the West, a place of introductions, where the Occident comes to know and better appreciate the Orient.
JOHN KIDWELL—The Punahou Improvement Club will some time this week call a joint meeting of the improvement clubs of the district and secure an expression of opinion as to the desirability or otherwise of having band concerts in Punahou Park. I am opposed to concerts there, because I am sure that the many young shrubs and plants in the park will be damaged by the youngsters, who would be sure to congregate. Prof. Griffiths tells me that Oahu College campus is available for band concerts on Friday nights.

FORESTERS BANQUET ON THEIR BIRTHDAY

At an elaborate banquet served in the Waikiki dining room of the Alexander Young Hotel last night the members of Court Camoes, N. 310, A. O. F., celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of the date of the founding of the order in Honolulu. The tables were beautifully decorated for the occasion, carnations and greens being used with good effect, the crimson color scheme being carried out in all the table decorations. Seated about the tables were about a hundred members of the Court and a few guests, all enjoying themselves thoroughly.

Chief Ranger Dr. John F. Cowes presided over the banquet and acted as toastmaster, introducing the various speakers in short and appropriate remarks. The first called upon was A. V. Peters, P. C. R., who had been one of the organizers of the lodge and who had been installed into office on the first night of its existence, April 25, 1893. His subject was "Court Camoes" and in an interesting way he sketched the growth of the court from the small beginning until the present time, when it has two hundred and one members in good standing and $8990 in its treasury.

"Fraternalism" and the duty of man to man was made the subject of the address of L. R. Medeiros, while the advantages of ancient Forestry were dealt with by Daniel Logan, Mr. Logan was on the toast list as a substitute for Dr. Murray, and confessed that his practical knowledge of forestry consisted of having been born in the woods. He made a witty and acceptable speech, however.

"Kindred Societies" and the "Ladies of Camoes Circle" were toasted respectively by H. H. Williams and Dr. Bruce McV. Mackall, while general remarks were made by Wallace R. Farrington and R. O. Matheson. Hon. A. D. Castro made an encouraging address to the members and M. C. Pacheco, who had been the chairman of the committee to whose work the banquet was due, also spoke.

DEATH OF AN OLD-TIMER.

I. A. Burgett, who died yesterday, was at one time one of the best known mechanics in Honolulu and a prominent man in local military and lodge circles. He came to Honolulu many years ago, having been employed on the construction of the Capitol and other public buildings in the city. In the Knights of Pythias lodge he held at different times all the various offices, while during the Provisional Government period he served the Republic as lieutenant in the National Guard. He leaves a wife and three children. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the undertaking parlors of H. H. Williams, Fort street.

THE BYSTANDER

Will be Happy—By Order of the Board of Supervisors. Ed. Towse may be expected to do something for the fleet in the Sunday-school line, if there is any printing in it, and the Boys' Field will be open to the sailors every day between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. Any evening the old tars will be permitted to hear the Salvation Army band.

A good politician is a man who, for the sake of his party, tries to placate differences in the organization, if any exist, exerts himself to get recruits, and is careful not to bring men to the front, either as campaign managers or candidates, who have incurred the ill-will of any large part of the constituency whose votes are needed.

The present machine of the Republican party is manned by men—with the usual few exceptions—who cannot hold the party together if they try, and who are not trying very hard. They have incurred several defeats, and are in the way of incurring more; and for the good of all concerned they should get out of the management and apply their prejudice and mediocrity to some other line of business.

Not that they are asked to retire in favor of the other side. They have men on their own side whom the independent voter will work with and respect. But there is not the slightest sign of their sacrificing themselves for harmony. Indeed, now that the head disturber is going to leave the shades of Cunha alley for awhile, it is proposed to leave the party in the hands of a man who has succeeded to the political prestige of his old partner, A. V. Gear, and who, if the voters could get at him, would be reduced to about a teaspoonful of calves' foot jelly.

No wonder the Democrats are encouraged when they see Republican leadership swinging between the cage of a Wooden Parrot and the back door of a Vealery.

In the welcoming of the officers and sailors of the fleet in San Francisco and the entertaining of them during their stay in the metropolis, the wife of the Mayor of San Francisco will occupy a prominent place as the leader of the official circle in the society of the city. There San Francisco has the advantage over Honolulu, because the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors is a bachelor. However, as the arrival of the fleet is some weeks off yet, there is plenty of time to have that remedied.

COMMERCIAL NEWS

OAHU'S RECORD WEEK.

W. Pfothenauer made a visit to Oahu plantation this week and comes back enthusiastic. The mill for the week has turned out a little over 1500 tons, he says, an average of something over 250 tons a day for the six days, and on one day going as high as 270 tons. This is a record, and considered a wonderful one. The juice of the cane now being harvested is of a very high quality, so high that only six and a half tons of cane are required to produce a ton of sugar.

CUBAN CONDITIONS.

An element in the situation is the Cuban outlook. On this subject a good deal of information has accumulated during the week. Smith & Schipper, who are regarded as very high authority, in their sugar letter dated April 10, received by the Nevada yesterday, say: "The most important news from the Island was received today, when the cable showed that only 97 Centrals are at work, against 110 last Tuesday. Buyers in Cuba are anticipating the market right along, and paying somewhat higher prices than can be realized here. . . . Planters are very bullish in their ideas, and will not sell excepting at top prices, and even then are reluctant to part with their holdings, believing in very much higher prices later on."

All of the periodicals devoted to the sugar industry coming by yesterday's mail, contain articles giving pessimistic views of the Cuban outlook. The International Sugar Journal publishes a letter from a Cuban sugar planter, who says the crop this year will be 40 or 50 per cent. short of last year, and he says there are some who put the shortage at 60 per cent. The Louisiana Planter publishes considerable on the same subject, quoting statements almost as pessimistic. The American Sugar Industry, and Beet Sugar Gazette has correspondence of the same tenor. None of these journals accept the extreme pessimistic view. Seemingly all agree that the crop this year will be about 900,000 tons. Still, though the last estimate of 1,000,000 tons seems everywhere relinquished, the drop to 900,000 tons is not formally made.

What seems to be of more importance is the statement made from many sources, that it is not alone the drought from which the Cuban planters are suffering, but that labor conditions are bad. The provisional government is spending large sums of money on the roads throughout the Island, and this, with the higher wages and easier work, has drawn labor from the plantations until the latter are paying higher and higher wages, and not nearly always getting sufficient labor then.

The drought, too, in addition to shortening this year's crop is shortening plantings, and holding back the growth for next year's crop, so that there is no just ground for expectation of an increase to the figures of the Cuban crop for 1907, 1,428,000 tons.

THE WORLD'S CROP.

According to the London correspondence of the Louisiana planter, the probable beet sugar production of Europe will be about 170,000 tons less than 1907. The same authority says that Java may show a deficiency of 100,000 tons, while Porto Rico, Mauritius, British India and other cane countries will show a deficiency over 1907 of 300,000 tons.

As to Europe, the tenor of the latest advices point to a slight increase over the whole of Europe, and as one correspondent writes, "there is nothing in this to prevent the crop falling somewhat short, the yield over all, last season, being fairly good, and in Austria unprecedentedly high."

The beet sugar crop in the United States seems likely to be larger than usual in view of the stimulating effect of high prices. The Philippines, too, seem likely to increase their production somewhat.

THE DIVIDEND PUZZLE.

Just what Ewa and Oahu will do with their increasing profits is one of the perennial topics of discussion among those interested in the market. The general expectation is that Ewa will distribute hers in special dividends, but when? is the question frequently asked.

TRANSACTIONS OF THE WEEK.

RANCH CONSOLIDATION.

While formal announcement has not been made by the parties in interest, the consolidation of the Cornwell and the Raymond ranches on Maui is agreed on thing. In fact, the two ranches have been run under one management as a practical matter since the first of the year, and it is said, to the great reduction of expenses. A corporation is to be formed to take title to the two properties and operate them as one.

ANOTHER TOBACCO ENTERPRISE.

The Bishop Estate has just completed an agreement with Charles R. Blacow in regard to land for a tobacco plantation in North Kona, on the lands of Keaouhu. The agreement is on exactly the same terms as those with Jared Smith and his associates for land in South Kona. Blacow, who is acting for associates as well as himself, secures 200 acres of land with the privilege of 100 acres more.

KANEOHE PINEAPPLE LANDS.

The Land Office has received many inquiries in regard to the Halekou lands near Kaneohe, which have been brought to public attention lately as pineapple lands. The lands are under lease to the Kaneohe Ranch Company, the lease expiring in 1913. D. L. Van Dine, on behalf of himself and others, has made application for them on the Settlement Association plan, expressing a willingness to agree to stricter conditions than the law requires. J. B. Castle, who, as owner of the Kaneohe Ranch Company, controls the lease, had a conference with Acting Governor Mott-Smith on Friday in regard to the matter. He expressed himself as believing that these lands offered opportunity for carrying out further the governmental policy of getting the public lands into the occupancy and tillage of small holders. He was, therefore, willing to surrender the remaining term of the lease if the government would get the land into the possession and occupancy of those who would cultivate and improve it. He did not make it a condition that Van Dine and his associates, or any other particular individuals, should get the land if he surrendered his lease. He simply wanted assurance that the land would go into cultivation and use, but because of the experience and knowledge of Van Dine and his associates in agriculture he felt that they and men of their class should be encouraged, and given preference if possible.

KEKAHA'S POWER PLANT.

Kekaha plantation on Kauai proposes to utilize the water power that can be secured by the fall of water from the ditch leading from the Waimea river to the ditch which irrigates their Mana lands. Between fifteen and twenty-five million gallons of water a day are available in a fall of 275 feet. Electricity to the amount of 600 kilowatts will be generated and used in pumping plants on another part of the plantation. A. Gartley is to see to the shipping of the plant while he is in the East.

NUUANU DAM.

The pipe connecting the new Nuuanu reservoir direct with the water main system of the city is now completed, and tomorrow the Acting Governor will formally turn the valve that will open the way for the first water direct from the reservoir into the mains. Good progress is being made on the work of the Nuuanu dam.

THE FLEET COMMITTEE.

The Committee on Entertainment of Pacific Fleet is now fully completed, and the sub-committees named and their duties defined and limited.

THE SISTERS' SCHOOL.

The munificence of August Dreier has made possible the long contemplated construction of buildings at Kaimuki for the boarding school long conducted by the Catholic Sisters. H. L. Kerr is drawing the plans. The building will be of reinforced concrete.

ADMIRAL VERY RETIRES.

On Thursday Admiral Very was succeeded as commandant of the Naval Station by Captain Rees. Admiral Very sailed by the Korea for Newton, Mass., where he will make his home.

NEW TANNERY.

A new tannery enterprise, to be conducted by Heine & Co., has been announced as among the new enterprises soon to be undertaken.

TO MAKE CEMENT.

Frank L. Winter, who projected the manufacture of lime on this Island, is now seeking to promote an enterprise for the manufacture of cement.

LAUPAHOEHOE SUGAR LANDS.

Lands at Laupahoehoe of which the lease expired last March will probably be shortly put up for rental at an upset price of $2.70 per acre per annum on the application of T. H. Davies & Co. An application for a license for a right-of-way for a flume for a period of twenty years has also been made by the same interest.

INTER-ISLAND COAL SYSTEM.

The Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company is shortly to erect a system for coaling their steamers by mechanical appliance. This will effect a great saving of time and expense. The appliance will cost several hundred thousand dollars.

KONA ENTERPRISES.

J. B. Castle has bought out the W. W. Bruner interests in the Captain Cook Coffee Company and the Hala Canning Company, long-pending negotiations to this end thus being concluded, and Castle now absolutely controls the big enterprises mentioned. The Captain Cook Coffee Company handles more of the berry than any other company in the Islands, and the mill at Kealakekua treats the product of other plantations as well as that of the Captain Cook Coffee Company. The Hala Canning Company property will be developed under the best methods, and Kona will see one of the largest pineapple producing sections in the Territory. Thirteen thousand cans of the fruit will be put out this summer.

THE KAPAA LANDS.

George S. Fairchild, manager of the Makee Sugar Company, has asked for time to communicate with Colonel Spalding before replying to the government's proposal of land exchange on the Island of Kauai.

HAWAIIAN COMMERCIAL PROFITS.

The net profits of Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company for the year 1907 was $1,025,662.98, according to copies of the annual report received by the Mongolia. Of this, $1,004,586.46 was net profits on sugar and $21,076.47 net sundry profits. Of these profits $780,000 was paid out in dividends and $245,662.98 was carried as a surplus. The assets and liabilities of the company are each $9,419,407.52.

COUNTIES CANNOT ISSUE BONDS.

The Supreme Court of the Territory issued an injunction restraining the Treasurer and the Board of Supervisors of Maui County from making the proposed issue of bonds for public improvements. The injunction followed the decision of the court some days ago denying the power of counties in this Territory under the present County Act to issue bonds.

OHIA RAILROAD TIES.

The Hawaiian Mahogany Company has delivered 40,000 ties at Hilo for shipment to the Coast, some of which have already gone forward. By July 1 a half million ties will have been delivered at Hilo. The machinery for the mill to turn out 2500 ties a day has arrived at San Francisco, and will be shipped from there by the Enterprise. The present mill has a capacity for only 250 ties a day.

TRUSTEE FOR BONDHOLDERS.

R. W. Atkinson has been appointed trustee for the bondholders under the trust deed given by the Oahu Railway and Land Company in place of T. W. Hobron, resigned.

OCEAN ARRIVALS.

The ocean arrivals for the week have been the Mongolia, the Mexican and the Nevada from the Coast, and the Korea from the Orient. The departures have been the Hilonian, the Alameda, and the Korea for the Coast, and the Mongolia for the Orient.

Judge S. M. Ballou entertained in royal fashion the Harvard Club of Hawaii last Monday evening, at its second annual dinner, the handsome Judd street residence being resplendent in Harvard crimson and college flags. James A. Wilder, the president of the club, presided in his own inimitable way and E. A. Mott-Smith played the part of the joker on the piece de resistance, Dr. Brinckerhoff and Senator E. A. Knudsen being the right and left powers.

After justice had been done the dinner in all its courses, a good deal of business was transacted. There was much discussion of the policy of the club in giving aid to students at Harvard and of other business matters. The announcement that a local Harvard man had established two scholarships at Oahu College to be given by preference to students preparing for Harvard University was roundly cheered.

The officers for this year are S. M. Ballou, president, and R. S. Hosmer, secretary-treasurer.

The club will be well represented at the meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs at Philadelphia in May by Mr. Hosmer, representative in the Council, and by C. H. Olson, P. L. Horne, C. G. White, E. A. Knudsen, and E. O. Hall, delegates.

The following members of the club were in attendance at Monday's banquet: President J. A. Wilder, S. M. Ballou, R. S. Hosmer, W. W. Bruner, W. A. Love, J. M. Monsarrat, W. F. Dillingham, G. A. Davis, R. B. Anderson, E. A. Mott-Smith, E. A. Knudsen, Dr. W. R. Brinckerhoff, H. A. Walker, W. R. Castle, A. F. Griffiths, F. D. Lowrey, J. D. Dole, E. O. Hall and Dr. F. H. Clark, the latter a touring Harvard man from Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Rhodes gave a luau at their home, 515 Young street, last Monday evening in honor of a number of friends who were visiting here from San Francisco. The decorations were in yellow and green, limonais being provided for the guests. These were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Briggs, Mr. Arthur Briggs, Mrs. K. M. Lawler, Miss Lawler and Mr. Eustace Cullinan, all of San Francisco; Mr. Walter G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Hatch, Miss Blair, Miss Lucas, Judge Antonio Perry and Alexander Hume Ford. The favors were miniature calabashes.

Mrs. C. H. Jennings, of Koloa, is in town, spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. C. S. Crane.

Mr. Eustace Cullinan, and his relatives Mrs. K. M. Lawler and Miss Lawler, are San Francisco people who sailed by the Alameda last Wednesday after a visit in Honolulu of several weeks. Mr. Cullinan has been prominent in the fight against graft in San Francisco. On Tuesday evening they entertained at dinner at the Young Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Rhodes, and Judge Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Peters and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cohen have gone over to Waipahu to spend the week's end with Mr. and Mrs. James Arendt.

Dr. Hodgins gave a private dinner Friday evening the guests at which were Messrs. Frank E. Thompson, A. G. Hawes Jr., William Roth and W. G. Smith. The decorations and the menu were both elaborate.

Thursday last, the birthday of Judge Sanford B. Dole, was taken advantage of by his hosts of friends in the city to pay their respects to Hawaii's first citizen.

Mrs. Walter Brinckerhoff, who has been spending some time at Laie, the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Castle, is back in town, much improved in health.

Miss Cordelia Walker entertained twelve of her friends at a bathing party and supper at the Bishop house at Waikiki on Wednesday, a jolly evening being spent. The lucky twelve who enjoyed Miss Walker's hospitality were Misses Beatrice Castle, Grace Webster, Alice Hedemann, Carmen Clowe, Alice Cooke, Messrs. Harold Castle, Frederic Lowrey, Derwin Kennedy, George Fuller, Alexander Walker and H. Walker.

At a meeting this week of the Honolulu Symphony Society, it was decided to have a smoking concert the latter part of June and preparations for the program for the event will begin very shortly.

Denials have been received of the existence of any engagement between Miss Daisy Todd and W. K. Ragsdale, of Hilo, announced in these columns last week. The information was given the Advertiser from a supposedly authoritative source in Hilo and was published in good faith. Regret is felt for the natural annoyance such an announcement must have brought to both parties. Both Miss Todd and Mr. Ragsdale have written the Advertiser in the matter, denying the report.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lyle announce the engagement of their daughter Edith to Mr. Stewart Martin, of Point Tupper, Nova Scotia.

OMAHA, Neb., April 3.—Spirit of adventure has decided Miss Louise McPherson and Miss Marie McShane, two Omaha girls, to follow the battleship fleet on its cruise around the world.

Their desire to be present at every port the fleet visits and to mingle with the fleet's company made it necessary for the girls to secure permission from Uncle Sam. Miss McPherson is a cousin of Captain Rumsey Sanford, paymaster on the cruiser New York, and it is through his efforts the desired permission was secured.

They sail on a mail steamer in June and meet the fleet at Honolulu, after which they will continue in the wake of the great squadron until it again touches the Atlantic shores.

Miss McPherson and Miss McShane will be accompanied on the voyage to the Orient by Captain Sanford's wife.

Mrs. M. E. Grossman gave a delightful luncheon on Wednesday, after which a few rubbers of whist were played. Her guests were Mrs. Geo. Renton, Mrs. A. Gartenberg, Mrs. F. C. Smith, Mrs. M. Phillips, Mrs. T. F. Lansing, Mrs. F. E. Richardson, Mrs. Jos. Schwartz and Mrs. E. J. Waterman.

The extra rehearsals caused by the unavoidable postponement of "The Mascot" have only helped to bring that production nearer to what the singers wish it to be. All taking part are thoroughly acquainted with their parts and the rehearsals now are more for touching up purposes than for actual practise. Last night a full dress rehearsal was held and from the success of this can be judged the great success it will be. Of course the postponement of "The Mascot" has added considerably to the expense of the production, regrettable to the funds of the Mascotters and the Kunalus. Only a few seats remain for both nights and there is no longer any doubt as to the support "The Mascot" will get from the public. It is remarkably well staged and directed, Mr. Herzer taking special

SANTA CLARA SURE TO COME

Personnel of Famous University Nine Which Will Play Here.

It has been definitely decided that the Santa Clara College baseball nine will visit Hawaii this summer and play a series of games with the big league teams.

The trustees of the Honolulu Baseball League will handle the finances of the scheme and the enterprise thus becomes of a semi-private nature.

Santa Clara has agreed to come and Kelo University may also play here, although their answer has yet to be received. If the Kelo nine decide to come the league trustees will arrange for their passage and accommodation while here.

The Santa Claras will arrive here on July 8 and will remain a month. They will play games with the four league teams and probably a series against a league combination. It is expected that ten games will be arranged for the visitors.

The fleet will be here in July so that the month looks like being the busiest from a baseball standpoint that Hawaii has ever had.

Here is the personnel of the Santa Clara nine:

Harry A. J. McKenzie, manager of the Varsity baseball team, is a member of the 1908 class, and one of the most popular men on the campus. He was Rugby captain in 1907, and was acclaimed the football hero of the year.

Cleon P. Kilburn, captain and pitcher, is a senior in college. His superb work in the box is known and appreciated by all the fans. Unlike the average twirler, Kilburn is one of the most reliable willow-wielders in the team. He batted .375 per cent for seventeen games. Age 20.

Mervyn S. Shafer, catcher, is in his junior year and will graduate in the class of 1909. In "Cap," as he is called, Santa Clara has the best amateur backstop on the Pacific coast. Batted .236 per cent for twelve games. Age 20.

Harry Broderick, first base, is another senior who has achieved a name on the ball field. The initial sack is well guarded when Broderick holds down the position, and Broderick's stick work is pleasing to the student host. Batted .335 per cent, fourteen games. Age 20.

Ernest Watson, second base, is one of the hardest workers on the Varsity, and his playing at second has been admirable. His hitting ability is not his least qualification, either. Watson is in the sophomore year. Batted .280 per cent for seventeen games. Age 20.

Arthur Shafer is the fastest shortstop in college ball. At the bat, in the field, and on the bases, he is without a peer. Shafer also wears the badge of the sophomores. He is considered to be the greatest college player in the world. He plays with the dash and gracefulness of a full fledged professional, possesses a strong arm, quick eye and fine head. He is the greatest all round amateur ball player since the advent of his famous brother collegian, Hal Chaso. He is nineteen years old, weighs 175 pounds, negotiates 100 yards in 10 2-5 seconds, has batted .325 for three seasons, fielded his position shortstop with an average of .968 for the three years and has stolen more bases than any other college player. Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia American league team has offered the youngster a very tempting contract which calls for an amount greater than what young fellows usually get when breaking into fast company. Owing to his ambition to continue his studies and secure his degree Shafer turned the offer down. Batted .487 per cent for seventeen games last season.

Reuben Foster, third base, another sophomore, has played a very steady game at that important cushion, and another year's experience should make a star of him. At propelling the sphere with the wagon-tongue he is quite adept. Batted .200 per cent for ten games. Age 18.

James Lappin, left field, popularly known as "Husky" is one of the Varsity's best hitters. In the field his work has been of the sensational order. He is a member of the class of 1908. Age 20.

Griffith Kennedy has been the find of the season. His hitting and fielding in the Stanford games was one of the brilliant features. Kennedy is in his freshman term. Batted .350 per cent for ten games. Age 20.

Devereaux Peters, center field and first base, might be called the handy man of the Varsity, for whenever a player is needed to fill in, Peters is "Johnny on the spot." He is one of the team's leading batters. This is his senior year. Batted .472 per cent for seventeen games. Age 17.

Francis Rapp, right field, one of the new players, has shown up exceptionally well and has a fine arm. Age 20.

Victor Salsberg, right field, is one of the fastest gardeners on the team and in the game against Stanford he gave an effective exhibition of bat-wielding. He is a sophomore. Batted .225 per cent for seventeen games. Age 19.

John Jones, second pitcher, has not twirled many games for Santa Clara but in the contest he pitched against Stanford he made a creditable showing. With more experience he will shine as a slabster. Jones is in his senior year.

KAMS WIN FROM OAHU

Native Sons Spring Surprise in the First Interscholastic Game.

They had things doped out wrong. Kamehameha either belittled their ability to play, or else the knowing ones are poor judges of the Kams' ability at baseball.

Interscholastic baseball opened yesterday at the Kamehameha grounds, the owners of the field and the nine doing battle for Punahou, crossing bats in the first game of the season; a game which the Kams won by a 5-3 score.

The prophets had it fixed up that the Kams would lose this game. The Kams themselves gave it out that they were hardly satisfied with the team which was to represent the school on the diamond, but that they would do their best. They did, and while the "best" was not good ball, for the first scheduled game, very little more could have been expected.

Errors without number were made, and a few chances for stolen bases which presented themselves were not taken.

Scoring honors for the Kams lay with Mackenzie, who played in left field. Out of the five runs which the Kams scored, he made two. Naeole, Murray and Ordenstein, old and familiar faces in the Kam line-up, showed that they have benefited by their experience gained last year.

Bill Desha did not live up to his previous record. Five times at bat, he failed to score a run, and only in the first inning, when he was the first man up, did he manage to make third. Jack showed up better. One of the three runs put to Punahou's credit was made by him. Desha uses his head, and can give the rest of the team on which he plays valuable pointers on base holding.

For a battery the Puns had "Skinner" Davis and Charley Lyman at the start, though at the beginning of the eighth Lyman entered the pitcher's box, while Chi Bui donned the catcher's mit. The Kam battery consisted of Kalimaipehu and Lota.

The line-up of both teams in batting order, together with the positions which they played, follow:

Kamehameha — Mackenzie, lf; Kamaipehu, cf; Naeole, ss; Murray, 1b; Lota, p; Kalimaipehu, c; Ordenstein, 2b; Akana, rf; Josia, 3b.

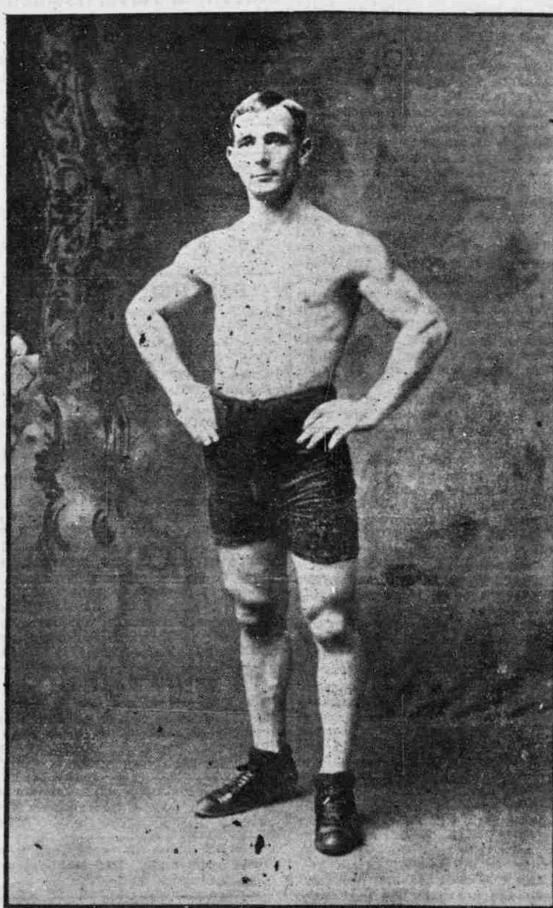

Punahou — W. Desha, lf; C. Lyman, cf; J. Desha, ss; Lowrey, 2b; Lidgate, Akana, rf; Hoops, 3b; Davis, p; Townsend, c.

The next game will be played at the Kamehameha grounds on Monday between the Kams and the High Schools.

CAPT. PHILLIPS' REVENGE COMING

The members of the Honolulu Cricket Club had the opening practise of the season at Makiki yesterday. The net was up and a dozen players had some very useful work with bat and ball. Among those who showed up well were Robert Anderson, L. G. Blackman, J. H. Fildes, R. Catton, J. R. M. Maclean and C. P. Morse. All preparations have been made for the visit of the S. S. Aorangi team on Wednesday. The ground will be put in shape and a very fair eleven will do battle for the H. C. C. against the visitors.

There is great speculation among the local players as to what cricketers are aboard the steamer. Some think that the whole Marylebone team is aboard and others believe that at least the nucleus of an eleven will play here. Some time ago Captain Phillips played a game here and the result was that his eleven was badly beaten. It is probable that in the coming game for which he cabled he is planning to have his revenge.

Healanis, Kahuluis, Stars and Waikapu are the teams composing the Maui Baseball League.

SHAMROCK ON THE BIT

Lewis' Sorrel Sprinter Makes Holy Show of Beckley's Launiuma.

The match race run yesterday afternoon at Kapiolani park did not attract a very big crowd although the regulars were out in good force.

The distance was three-eighths and the starters were W. Beckley's gray mare Launiuma, late Exchange Five, and the sorrel gelding Shamrock, which was running his first race on a local track.

Olopio was up on the mare and young Lewis rode Shamrock.

H. J. Grindell dropped the flag and Louis Warren and H. M. Ayres acted as judges. The stakes were $25 a side and there was little or no betting on the result. The horses got away well with the sorrel in possession of the pole. Launiuma led all the way and won as he pleased by four lengths. The mare quit cold after a furlong had been run. She acted as if sick and her racing days, which have been very few, are probably over.

The winner is a racy looking pony and can evidently go some, as the time, :39 1-2, shows. He is lighter built than Mallet and will give that speedy sprinter a rare rub should they ever come together.

Another race was furnished by Sonny Gay's bay gelding Sunrise and Henry Vierra's gray gelding Never-sleep. The distance was a quarter of a mile and Sunrise won by a couple of lengths.

WILL PRESTIDGE HEAVILY THROWN

Interest in the wrestling bout which takes place next Saturday between Mitsuka and Sailor Roberts is steadily growing and promises to be at fever heat before many days have passed.

The Japanese are enthusiastic over the chances of their champion and the white population are naturally with Roberts to a man.

It looks as if the house would be packed, for many inquiries for seats have already been made, although the box-office does not open till Thursday.

Roberts is doing well in his training under the watchful eye of Professor Peter Baron. He is confident of being able to throw the big Japanese. This week Frank Kanaz will join his training staff and will be a valuable acquisition on account of his size and strength.

Mitsuka is doing his preparation at the Orpheum. Will Prestidge says that he will beat all of them here and that if Hans Froelcher returns he will make him hustle to defend the Hawaiian championship successfully.

Prestidge should know what he is talking of for he is his trainer-in-chief and works with him every day. On Thursday Mitsuka threw Prestidge so heavily with the flying mare that he put the latter's ankle out of commission. The Japanese does not mince matters when working on the mat. He goes at his adversary like a bull and when he secures a hold something has to give.

Isoarashi, Mashikiyama, Akiraki and Ichimoto, the four Japanese heavyweights who are to wrestle for the Japanese championship of Hawaii with Mitsuka barred, are all getting into shape and the fight between them is sure to be bitterly contested.

Al. Heine and Young Scott, the boxers, who are booked for a four-round preliminary, will be in the best of shape when the gong calls them to the center of the ring. Although the bout is purely of an exhibition nature, the boys are practicing as if a championship depended on their efforts.

FIVE HUNDRED TO BACK CANDY BOY

Messrs. Ludwigen and Jungclaus stated after the match race at Kapiolani park yesterday that they wanted a three-eighths of a mile race with E. H. Lewis' Mallet for a side bet of $500, their horse being Candy Boy.

The owners of Candy Boy state that they will post a forfeit of $100 as soon as the match is made and say further that they will be willing and ready to race forty-eight hours after the forfeit has been posted.

Candy Boy and Mallet have had three races at three-eighths on the local track. The candy horse won the first and Lewis' pony annexed the other two scurries.

PACIFICS WILL PLAY WALLELES

There will be a game of baseball at Aala park this morning, commencing at 9 o'clock, between the Pacific baseball club and the Walleles. All the members of the Pacifics are requested to be present at the park half an hour before the game is called. The Pacifics will hold their regular monthly meeting at the residence of San Chin, today at noon. All members are urged to attend.

CROOK NINE WANTS GAME

Transport Baseballers After Saint Louis—Sporty Crowd Aboard.

The transport Crook has a baseball team aboard which wants a game with a local nine. The Crook will be in port five days and this should give ample time to arrange a game. St. Louis is the team preferred.

The transport team is composed of the following players, drawn from the Second Infantry and Batteries E and G of the Fifth Artillery: Turner, c; Hart, p; Marshall, 1b; Bensinger, 2b; Walters, 3b; Bunge, ss; "Cy" Johnson, rf; Tom Johnson, cf; Rightmire, lf.

The team has not played together as a whole but nearly all the men have opposed each other and four or five have played on the same team in Manila and Stotsenberg League games.

Answers to this challenge should be addressed to Lieut. Fleet aboard the Crook. There was a lot of boxing aboard the transport coming from Manila, some of the bouts being of very good class. The preliminaries of the tournament were decided on the way here and the finals will be fought between here and San Francisco.

In the lightweight class the best men are Webber of the stewards' department and Sterne of Battery E, Fifth Artillery. Webber is said to be very fast and clever.

Altogether there is a very sporty crowd aboard the Crook and time hangs heavily on no one's hands while at sea.

RIVERSIDERS OPEN SEASON

The Riverside Baseball League opens its season at Aala Park this afternoon and the outlook is for two good games.

At 1:30 p. m. the Palamas will oppose the Kaalas. Charles Panluhi will twirl for the Palamas and against him the Kaalas will array half a dozen left-hand batters.

The second game will be between the Chinese Alohas and the Japanese Athletics. The Japs, under the management of K. Yasumori, should prove to be a strong combination. Jack Flores will be in the box, Williams at first, and David Kalpo behind the bat. They will take some beating. Barney Joy will act as the league's official umpire and Raposo will keep the official score in his very efficient manner.

The band will play during the afternoon.

Short and Sweet

The Hilo bull-terrier Englewood Blossom gave birth to a litter of eight pups last week, seven of which are dogs. The father is Chester Valley Captain, imported by Frank Medcalf and owned by George Richardson.

Twenty-five guinea-fow were recently set loose at Olanda, Maui, and have taken to the mountainside.

In the opening games of the Hilo baseball season the Mooheaus beat the Hios by the score of 7 to 5, and the Nanawas lost to the Y. M. I. by the score of 4 to 3.

By the way, did you ever really see any man as crazy about baseball as some cartoonists picture the fan?

Said the cannibal king with a grin: "This preacher we've captured is thin. But he is so pious. He'll sure satisfy us. For he'll make a GOOD meal; pitch him in."

The Riverside Baseball League opens its season today with appropriate exercises.

Dr. Hand is taking in hand the matter of a field-day during the visit of the fleet and will call a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. athletes in the near future.

There will be college baseball tomorrow on the Kam campus between the Kams and the High School.

The protest filed by the Lellehuas against the Kallinis, regarding the last Valleyside Baseball League game for the championship, has not been settled yet but the matter will be decided at a meeting to be held next Wednesday night.

Kilohana Art League Notes

The First View Reception on Tuesday evening was well attended in spite of so many counter attractions.

The number of exhibits are a greater showing than we have ever had. This includes the china and photographs. The quality of the individual work is the best ever exhibited. The hanging committee were not obliged to refuse one piece. At the last exhibition no less than sixteen were not up to the standard, and with great regret the committee were obliged to refuse to exhibit anything but work of which the members and the public could make only favorable comment. As the present exhibition is both ahead of any other in number and quality it is safe to say that the artists are still improving.

They are proud of their work and wish all to come before Saturday evening and view their work. The doors are open from 9 to 5 during the day and 7:30 to 9 in the evenings, Friday evening excepted. Admission and catalogues are free to all.

Tea is being served every afternoon between three and five. Members are invited to come and bring their friends or send them.

THE LANAI.

On Monday evening at seven-thirty, there will be a meeting held under the auspices of the City Improvement Circle of the League.

The first purpose of the meeting is for the exhibition of Mr. Gordon Usborne's plans for the inclosing the entrance to the stage and wooden parts necessary for the transforming of the Market place into "The Lanai."

The second purpose of the meeting is for the explanation of the plan by which they may be put in time for the Congress of Song, the entertainment of the fleet, and the Kennel show, three uses of the building for which Mr. Marston Campbell has given his consent.

The third purpose of the meeting is for the explanation of the plan by which, instead of the different committees, clubs, etc., wasting their efforts and money on temporary improvements, they may combine their efforts and make "The Lanai" a source of economy and independence and pride to all.

The ladies and gentlemen who have signified their interest in "The Lanai" and who have accepted the invitation to attend a meeting are given below with the club, committee or association they represent:

Art League—Mrs. W. M. Graham, Mr. A. R. Gurrey, Mr. D. Howard Hitchcock, Gov. A. S. Cleghorn, Congress of Song—Mr. Theo. Richards, Mr. George Castle, Mrs. A. B. Tucker.

Elks Lodge—Mr. John Hughes, Mr. Will McInerney.

Fleet Committee—Mr. E. A. Mott-Smith, Mr. J. F. Morgan.

Merchants' Association—Mr. G. W. Smith, Mr. Bush, Mr. Berndt.

Kunai Boat Club—Miss Myra Angus, Miss C. Hall.

Buckeye Club—Judge Kingsbury, Senator C. H. Dickey.

Eastern Star—Mrs. C. Schmidt, Mrs. C. Crabbe.

Engineer Association—Mr. E. G. Keen, Mr. Walter Wall.

Kennel Club—Mr. Littlejohn, Mr. Tom Sharp.

Chicken Association—Mr. L. C. Ables, Mr. R. C. Brown.

Polo Association—Mr. Walter Dillingham, Mr. John Fleming.

Myrtles—Mr. J. Soper, Mr. T. King.

Healians—Mr. Sam Walker, Mr. Clarence Macfarlane.

Yacht Club—Mr. Alex. Lyle.

Promotion Committee—Mr. H. P. Wood, Mr. F. L. Waldron, Mr. Lucas.

Automobile Club—Mr. G. Denison, Mr. G. P. Wilder.

Hawaiian Plant Society—Mr. and Mrs. Nakulua.

Symphony Society—Mr. D. P. Isenberg, Mr. Kopke.

Shriners—Mr. F. McStocker, Mr. E. M. Brown and others.

During the next year Honolulu people will not be allowed to get dull for there will be Congress of Songs, French Italian, German, etc., dinners and dances, circuses and parades, balls and card parties, exhibitions of dogs, chickens, automobiles, polo ponies and other horses, boats (from the Yacht Hawaii to a sampan), Symphony smokers under the Lindens, Arab Patrols exhibitions of fancy marching and the rest.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Briggs entertained at dinner at the Young Hotel last Wednesday evening. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Briggs, and their son Mr. Arthur Briggs, and Mr. W. G. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Briggs and their two sons and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Briggs left by the Korea on Thursday after a stay of several weeks in Honolulu. The latter have been here two or three times before and are very much in love with the Islands, as are also Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Briggs, who were making their first visit. Both Mr. A. H. Briggs and M. H. F. Briggs are interested in the Fairmount Hotel, and in others of the big enterprises of the Laws.

Miss Peck, who has been visiting her brother, L. Tenney Peck, is about to leave for her home in West Virginia.

Mr. W. M. Alexander, the San Francisco manager of Alexander & Baldwin, is on a visit to the Islands. He brought quite a party here with him. They are guests at the Young Hotel. Mr. Alexander will go with J. P. Cooke by the Nevada to visit the Alexander & Baldwin properties on Maui.

At her residence on Pensacola street on Wednesday, Mrs. M. M. Scott was the hostess of a buffet luncheon. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Richard Ivers, Miss Marion Scott and Miss Brown. The affair was a most enjoyable one. Among those present were Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Strong, Mrs. Holloway, Mrs. Herman Focke, Mrs. Rodiek, Miss Margaret Walker, Mrs. Kinney, Mrs. Paul Isenberg, Mrs. F. H. Humphris, Mrs. Gerrit Wilder, Mrs. James Wilder, Mrs. M. Campbell, Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Mrs. Charles Wight, Mrs. Davies, Mrs. George Davis, Mrs. Ralph Forster, Mrs. Leopold Blackman, Miss Edith Mist, Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mrs. W. Babbitt, Mrs. A. G. Hawes Jr.

Mrs. Mackall's recital which is to be given the evening of April 28th, in the ballroom of the Alexander Young Hotel, has created much comment in all quarters. Although it seemed unfortunate and unprofessional to change the date of her recital without a very good cause, it seemed to Mrs. Mackall the wisest course to pursue since the first performance of "The Mascot" has been set on the date previously announced by her. It must be understood, however, that the concert is not postponed in the proper sense of the word, but is to be given two days in advance of the first date published.

No program has ever been given in Honolulu at an affair of this kind, which was more attractive than this one in which our best known soprano is to be assisted by four ladies of widely known abilities.

Mrs. Mackall alone always attracts large audiences who are sure to feel wholly satisfied with the freshness and inspiration of her singing. The songs which she has chosen for Tuesday night will appeal to all, the simple music lover and the cultivated one. It is always a bit of education for a student to hear her, for her art represents that rare phase of being hidden in itself. In other words, she has conquered the technicalities of her art with naturalness and simplicity still paramount. Most of her songs are quite familiar to all with the possible exception of the German group. This will comprise four songs by modern composers, the first two by Richard Strauss, our master-composer of today. Anyone familiar with his works knows the difficulties one encounters in the interpretation. But one of the delights of Mrs. Mackall's singing is, that she never disappoints us.

Miss Grace Webster, who makes first public appearance in Honolulu at this recital will sing one English and one Scotch song—both charming and familiar, giving full evidence of the unusual range and power of her voice.

A last number has been selected by Mrs. Whitney for her solo. Her interpretation is full of artistic touches which only one of her ability can produce. Mrs. Humphris' three recitals will give full scope to her varied and delicate powers of expression and will be sure to appeal to all because of their widely different emotional qualities. Those who hear Miss Clarke in the accompaniments, will be eager to hear her in solos in the near future. She meets splendidly all the varied requirements of the songs.

The fact that Mrs. Mackall was forced to change her date has but added interest to the recital which promises to be the most pleasurable and artistic one of its kind given in Honolulu.

FIRE IN PALOLO VALLEY BURNS KILBEY'S HOUSE

The fire in Palolo valley early Saturday morning proved to be the burning of F. H. Kilbey's residence. Kilbey awoke about midnight awakened apparently by the smell of smoke. He found the front part of the house ablaze. He awakened his wife and together they took the children out of the house and to the barn some distance away. The fire spread so quickly that only a small quantity of the contents of the house could be saved, some clothing, jewelry, account books and papers, the dining room table, and the ice chest.

This house cost Kilbey between three and four thousand dollars. It was blown over in a tremendous gale of wind a year and more ago. The house and furniture was insured for $2000 in the Royal Insurance Company of which W. G. Irwin & Company are agents.

Kilbey believes that the fire originated from rats gnawing sulphur matches. The house was infested with rats between the double boarding of the structure.

COURT HAPPENINGS.

Judge Lindsay yesterday refused to release Harry T. Mills, on writ of habeas corpus. An appeal was noted to the Supreme Court, and Mills was released on his own recognizance. Mills was represented by Judge Quarles who contended that there was no sufficient judgment to support the mittimus. The sheriff was represented by Deputy County Attorney Milverton. Judge Lindsay refused to go into the question of whether there had been in fact a contempt of court by Mills.

THE APPALACHIAN BILL.

Forestry and Irrigation says: Even far away Hawaii is championing the Appalachian bill. The Pacific Commercial Advertiser (Honolulu) of March, urges the Territorial delegate to do whatever falls in his way to aid the Appalachian bill and any other legitimate measure of the same kind. "Broadly speaking," says the Commercial Advertiser, "it is a question of first economic importance to the Nation," and points out that, by deferring the timber famine, it will also help Hawaii. In addition, such an acquisition would be, it concludes, of first importance to the country at large. Would that some statesmen nearer home were as clear sighted as this Hawaiian editor!

DIED.

BURGETT—In Honolulu, April 25, 1908, I. A. Burgett, an old resident of the city, aged 62 years. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the undertaking parlors of H. H. Williams, Fort street.

The resignation of T. M. Church as supervisor of Maui was received yesterday by Acting Governor Mott-Smith to take effect April 30. Mr. Church resigns because he is coming to Honolulu to live. The Republicans have recommended the appointment of W. F. Pogue and the Democrats the appointment of Edward Wilcox.

PIRATES OF THE LADY GET LIGHT SENTENCE

DEUSBURY AND SMITH, THE TWO PIRATES. Advertiser Photo.

The pirates get a month and one dollar fine from Judge Dole. What they will get from the court-martial for desertion after they finish their sentence in Oahu jail remains to be seen.

Stephen Smith and Charles Deusbury, the two deserting soldiers from Fort Shafter, who took the schooner Lady out of the harbor, wrecked her near Waianae, and then took some of the material from her to make a camp, were sentenced by Judge Dole yesterday morning, on their plea of guilty. There was quite a crowd in the courtroom at the time, for it was understood that they intended to make an address to the court in their own behalf.

They were represented by Attorney Greenwell, who stated that they desired to withdraw their plea of not guilty and enter a plea of guilty. Judge Dole asked them if they understood this, and they said they did.

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced on you?" asked Judge Dole.

"Do you mean shall we tell you about stealing the boat, sir?" asked Smith.

"Yes," replied Judge Dole.

"Where do you want me to begin?"

"Tell your story," replied the Judge. "I'd like to tell my story in full," he began. "We took that there boat, sir, not with no intention of taking it away, you know, sir—we found the boat right there, sir, in the harbor, sir. We got on this here boat on a Thursday, and we stayed there two days, and we was going to stay there until we could stow away on another ship so we could get away from these Islands. We couldn't find no ship, sir, so we thought we'd have to go out on this boat; it was too late to turn back then, because we had gone into this thing, sir."

"Are you sailors?" asked Judge Dole.

"No, sir; I aint no sailor, sir."

"How did you get out of the harbor?" asked the Judge.

"We had a pretty bad time getting out, sir. I was at the wheel steering, and there was a pretty good wind, and I got steering and she kept going to one side and then to the other, and we nearly went into a wind-jammer, sir, a big sailboat, and then she went over to that side the other way, and just skimmed along, and I didn't know what to do; when we got out of the harbor I was still at the wheel, and Deusbury he was up at the bow, and would tell me to turn the wheel right or left, sir. It was a moonlight night going out there and we were going along fine, sir; I thought I was alright for a sailor; we was hitting it up about twenty miles an hour, the way it looked, looking astern, and we was going fast, and when we got outside, outside of them lights, it was going up and down like that, sir, and I wanted to go right back.

"We got seasick, sir, we were heaving up our stomach; there was nothing there, pretty near dead, sir, and I don't want to be a sailor no more after that."

"Well, sir; I went to sleep, tried to get to sleep down below, but everything was tony-turvy. After I had been down two or three hours, Deusbury went down below, and I came up and didn't see no land in front or on the side or on the left, and I began to get scared; it was late out there, and I looked around, away back—all sea—and then I saw what I thought was clouds, and then I saw it was mountains, and I thought we had got past Hawaii, and would be in Australia in a couple of days, the way it was going, and I twisted it around, some 'ow, and it took us all day Sunday to get back to land. And we got back to land, and I said, 'We are on another island, we are alright; we will just anchor this ship here and see if we can't go ashore,' and we dropped the anchor and we began to see something was dragging, and we thought the chain had broken in half, and just then it hit the ground.

"The next day—it was Monday—we got some things, a couple of pillows, and blankets and some biscuits—we was hungry—I had got over being seasick then, and we took an awning, all that is old stuff, other stuff besides that we didn't want, and we took that to protect ourselves from the sun, no value to the stuff, just to protect ourselves from the sun; we wouldn't take that other stuff; we took it about two hundred yards from the beach. Of course, if we had wanted to steal it, we would have taken stuff that would pay, but we only took these here—a little bit—it was too heavy for us to pack anyway. We had a few clothes, and we took them ashore too, and we slept there in the night time, rigged a tent up along the beach about two hundred yards from the ship.

"We had a good time there, had a box of cigars that was on the boat and had a good smoke there, and the next day them kanaka cops came there, with guns, and I put my hands up. I was lying on the ground, and I thought they wanted to get something; they went through my pockets and made a search, they still had the guns on me, they was more scared than us, and they had guns. Well, sir, they took us down—away to some town there—where there was what we thought was a lighthouse but it was a sugar chimney—and they put us in prison there. Next morning they put us on a train and fetched us down here, sir."

Mr. Breckons having stated that the defendant had been known in the Philippine Islands by the name of Dick Turpin, the court interrogated him on this point, and the defendant replied as follows:

"You see, sir; after I left England, sir—my proper name is Stephen Smith—when I got to the States, in Philadelphia, and going to the Philippine Islands, that is where I changed my name, sir; I just changed it because it was too common. I changed it to Richard Turpin. At the time I joined the army—I wouldn't join under a wrong name—so I took the name of Stephen Smith, and joined under my right name, Stephen Smith."

Deusbury made a brief statement, dwelling on the claim that their original intention was not to take the schooner, but having deserted the army they had to get away from here, for their safety, and no sailing ships departing, they at last took the schooner.

United States District Attorney Breckons said it seemed to him clear that there had been larceny from a vessel in distress, as alleged in the indictment. He did not think that the two men were criminal in their instincts; but that what they had done was rather in a spirit of adventure than of malice.

Mr. Greenwell made a brief statement. Judge Dole immediately sentenced them to one month's imprisonment each at hard labor, and to pay a fine of one dollar.

The two pirates felt very well satisfied, indeed, at the leniency of their sentences.

Captain Miller, when he heard of the sentence, laughed, and said he was satisfied.

KUBELIK'S APPEARANCE CONTINUOUS OVATION

Jan Kubelik stands today as one of the most successful concert violinists who have ever appeared in the United States. Unlike most of the "wonder children," who from time to time claim the attention of the musical world by reason of precocious ability, Kubelik has maintained a steady development of his art. Instead of remaining a youthful prodigy he has become a master whose technique and interpretation are ranked the highest. His exceptional success has enabled him to establish himself with his family on one of the most beautiful estates in Poland where he lives during most of the year.

This year in the United States, his tour has been a continuous ovation and there have been instances where his carriage was drawn through the streets by enthusiastic admirers of his ability as a violinist. In Saint Louis there were two combined concerts in which he appeared in conjunction with the Theodore Thomas orchestra. Ed. Deukum attended both and his comments on the performance of Kubelik are most flattering. "Attended both concerts," he writes, "at two dollars and a half a seat. It was the grandest exposition of violin playing I ever attended. Kubelik is a marvel and in all of his numbers he held his audience spellbound."

The outline for the program of the concert to be given here contains reference only to the star numbers to be played by the great artist. One of these, Mendelssohn's Concerto, is played only by finished artists. Fritz Kreisler of the Boston Symphony Co. plays it with tremendous feeling and a technique that is marvelous. Wieniawski's Faust Fantasia, is another number played by Kubelik and few others. The number of arrangements from this famous opera is legion but none equals this in the demands upon the artist for skill in technique and expression. The third great selection will be Paganini's "Witches' Dance," a great composition or it would not have the name of this famous composer at the top of it.

The public may guess from these three numbers what the concert will be. There has not been one here to equal it in any respect. The demand for seats continues and on account of this Manager Adams requests that all those who have asked to have tickets for reserved seats laid aside call for them not later than next Wednesday noon. This will avoid confusion in the rush which will occur on the date of the concert.

MILLING FIRM STARTS BRANCH

The Sperry Flour Co. of Stockton and Tacoma have opened a branch in the Robinson building on Queen street with Robert Innes Little as resident manager. These mills put upon the market a number of celebrated brands of flour, among them Golden Gate and Drifted Snow. There is no more popular flour sold than these. The name of Sperry is a household one on the Pacific coast and while it may not be known here so well the product of the Sperry mills has been coming here and has been sold all about the Pacific coast for the past half century. An evenness of quality and the high standard of the flour commends it to every housewife. In addition to these brands the mills have others of the same high character and Capitol Mill's cereals. The resident agent will carry all as well as bran, wheat and middlings which he will sell to the trade only.

A Strategic Recovery

A Tale of the Yukon

By May Grinnell.

LOOK out there! you muskrats: catch that line and make it fast. Farther forward there. Now then, who owns this wood? Come up here, all of you, and tell how much you've got. You, Jim, how many cords?"

"Four cord."
"How much?"
"Five dollar."
"All trade? All right. Get to work an' chuck her on board. Hey there, mate, tear yourself away from the lady passenger and lend a hand to measure up this wood. She won't elope with the captain while you're on shore."

"I was sure of that when I saw you go ashore an' leave her," and the mate started sheepishly from the side of the half-breed Indian girl who was leaning over the rail of the steamer watching the scene on the shore.

"It wouldn't be anything that's on shore that would keep me from eloping with the captain," cried the girl, pertly, glancing mischievously toward the bow of the boat, where the captain's broad back was visible.

"Not unless the captain's wife happened to be on shore, eh, sister Susy?" "Heave to there, young fellers, this here ain't no taffy pull. Plenty of time to hand out them bunches of nonsense after that wood's on board," remarked the captain, grimly, and the work on shore went forward briskly.

The steamer Alice was on her last trip of the season from Dawson to St. Michael, with a few belated passengers, a full cargo of provisions and instructions to deliver to the latter port every available stick of wood between the two ports.

At eleven o'clock the last stick on the little dock at Coltag was in the hold and the Indians gathered around the door of the purser's room, perspiring and noisy.

"Alle board."
"All aboard? All right! Now, Jim, you first. You had four cords, that twenty dollars. What do you want?" "Tree sackfour, ten pounds rice, five pound tea, five pound coffee, ten pound tobacco—"

"Hold on there, don't ask for the whole cargo. This company ain't no fairy godmother. Flour's five dollars a sack. Three sacks fifteen dollars. Ten pounds of rice at twenty-five cents a pound—"

But a storm of protest drowned the reckoning.
"Five dollar a sack too much! Tree dollar all Summer. Tree dollar nuff. Why five dollar?"

"Look here, you noisy heathens, who owns this flour?" demanded the purser. "You set your own price on wood. That's been three dollars all Summer; why do you charge five now for that?"

"Tree dollar not nuff now. Winter comin', wood worth more. Winter very long, can't sell no more till Spring. Worth five dollar now."
"Well, Winter's comin' in flour, too. Five dollars is what we ask and five dollars is what you pay. So speel out and say what you want and let's get settled up here."

There was more angry remonstrance and sullen murmurings among the Indians, but the boatman had the advantage, and the natives must yield to their masters. So they selected each one his merchandise upon the basis of a sack of flour for a cord of wood, with other merchandise at a proportionate value, and, following the deck hands below, received their goods and departed sullenly, muttering imprecations against the "big thief company", and swearing vengeance for the following season.

And the Alice cast off lines and pursued her way down stream to where another pile of wood and another crowd of eager Indians awaited her arrival.

As they approached the second landing the purser, standing beside Rampart Liz watching the crowd of Indians on the little dock, heard her call across in the guttural accents of her native tongue to the apparent leader of the Indians, and saw the man's alert interest awakened by her words.

"What did you tell him?" asked the purser.
"Asked him how much wood was worth, so you wouldn't make a mistake," answered Liz.

"How much did he say?"
"He said, 'How much is flour worth?'"
"Did you tell him?" demanded the purser, quickly.

"I said, 'It's worth what you have to pay for it,'" drawled Liz, mockingly.
"Little girls shouldn't talk to strangers," he remarked, with an air of parental severity. "I'll have to send you inside to keep you from breaking the hearts of the natives."

"How thoughtful you are of 'the natives,'" she retorted. "Were you ever a missionary, Mr. Williams?"
"No, but I find the native heart a very fascinating study," and with this parting shot the purser swung himself ashore and opened negotiations with the Indians for the purchase of their wood.

"How much is flour worth?" demanded the Indians as a counter question to his query for the price of wood.
"I'll have to ask the captain," replied the purser. "If you want to sell your wood get a price on it and we'll buy it."

Thus urged, the Indians named a price, "Seven dollars."
"All right, we'll take it. You put it on board and do it quick. Tobacco'll be worth two bits more a pound after two o'clock."

When they gathered about his door an hour later he had their individual accounts ready.
"Now, then, Pete, you've got thirty-five dollars coming. Let's hear what you want. Go easy, though: flour's seven dollars a sack, rice six bits a pound, sugar four bits a pound—"

But again a roar of protest drowned the enumeration of the unpopular price list.
"Flour only five dollars at Coltag. Seven dollars too high. We not pay that much. We pay five dollar."
"You'll pay seven or you won't get any," declared Williams. "We didn't bick on the price of your wood, did we? Seven dollars is too high for wood. We took it at your price. All right, the flour's ours and you take it at our price, or you don't get it."

"We take our wood back. We won't pay that much. Seven dollars. Ugh company damn thief?"

"All right, take it back. There won't be another steamer up the river before May, you know that. If you can eat your wood, keep it. We can get enough elsewhere."

And the Indians, grumbling and swearing, took their goods and departed, knowing that the purser's words were true and that not another steamer would they see until Spring, and that all the provisions they obtained in the meantime must be bought with cash and brought over the ice on sleds.

And so the battle was waged down the river shore, the natives striving to realize a slight advantage on this, the last of their season's wood, and the company determined to hold the values equal though the scale of imaginary prices should ascend to the last cipher of the natives' arithmetical knowledge.

There was but one stop to make after the steamer left "Jim's Landing," where wood had reached the stiff price of seventeen dollars a cord and flour had promptly risen to a corresponding price per sack. As the Alice swung into the little dock at Mission, Rampart Liz sprang ashore and was surrounded by a little crowd of native women, huddled together about the piles of wood. The men, she soon informed the purser, had that morning departed on a big hunt, leaving instructions with the women to sell the wood in case the steamer arrived during their absence.

"What did they tell you to sell for," inquired the purser, diplomatically.
"There was a few minutes of hurried guttural consultation and Rampart Liz stepped from her mother's side to face the purser.

"Is flour still worth seventeen dollars a sack?" she inquired.
"We might make it a little less to please the ladies, if you like," replied the purser, banteringly.
"How much less?"
"Suppose we call it sixteen ninety-eight?"

"All right, we'll pay sixteen ninety-eight for it."
"Then we'll fall to and put this wood on board."
"Wait a minute, we haven't agreed on the price of that yet. Hadn't you better find out what you're going to pay for it?"

"O, we'll fix that up when it's on board. We'll expect you to meet our little cut, of course."
"All right, we'll sell for nineteen ninety-eight,"

"Now you're joshing, sister Susy. Come, we'll talk about that when we get these lady friends of yours busy putting the wood on board. Fall to, there, men, and measure it up."
But the women drew a cordon around their property and stubbornly refused to allow the men to approach. The purser remonstrated.

"Promise us nineteen dollars a cord before you put it on board," demanded Liz.
The purser withdrew to consult the captain.

"How much flour have we left on board?" inquired the captain.
"Eight sacks," replied the purser, consulting his ledger.
"Then promise them nineteen dollars a cord," said the captain.

The purser obeyed and the women allowed the wood to be measured, and then all of them, with the exception of the daintily attired Liz, went faithfully to work and helped the men stow it on board.

When the loading was completed the women, chattering gutturally and triumphantly, gathered around the pile of provisions which had been heaped upon the deck to expedite the work of selection and distribution. There were no finished mathematicians among them, but each knew to a cent the amount of credit due her on account of wood delivered.

The purser began checking off their individual credits and making a list of their wants.
"We've only got eight sacks of flour left, so you'll have to go light on that," she said.

The women held an amiable discussion and settled the apportionment of the flour. Rice and barley were popular substitutes and they were willing to forego some of the more material luxuries in view of the enticing display of bright calicoes.

"How much rice?" demanded a wrinkled squaw, who was laboriously reckoning her account upon her withered fingers and keeping a suspicious eye upon the purser.
"Two dollars a pound," he replied, blandly, without lifting his eyes from her book.

A hiss and an angry sputter followed the announcement. The women saw themselves outdone, and the slight advantage they had gained in the few sacks of flour, wrested from them and restored to the boatmen in the unproportionate increase in the price of necessary substitutes.

And so it was. Not only was there the usual appreciation of values of all commodities save flour to maintain the relative values as established before leaving St. Michael, but an additional increase was made to restore the equilibrium which was momentarily destroyed in the discrepancy between flour and wood.

The women fought stubbornly to regain their lost ground, but the boatmen were practiced in their business and they kept the pile of provisions well surrounded, promptly doing out the articles selected, and inflexibly refusing to alter their schedule. The women exercised to the full the prerogatives of their sex. They deliberated over a decision between three pounds of rice and four of barley, or vice versa. They hesitated between a generous allowance of tobacco and a limited one of calico, or a denial of the grosser sense for the gratification of the more aesthetic.

The boatmen urged, exhorted and threatened, but the deliberations continued. The buyers were in the majority, and they squatted contentedly about the deck and held their friendly discussions, serene in the knowledge that forcible ejection was not feasible.

The captain fumed. Already the delay was unconscionable. He upbraided the purser and anathematized the women. Finally he signalled the engineer to make ready to depart. The whistles blew shrilly, the engine began to pant warningly and the deck hands cast off the stern line.

There was a scurry, a babel of protest and demand, followed by a hurried exodus across the gang-plank of laden and expostulating women. But Rampart Liz, whose heart was set upon possession of a roll of bright-colored calico, stood her ground. The purser insisted upon a price of two dollars per yard, and the maiden persisted in demanding the entire piece of twenty yards for the balance of credit due her family account, an amount of about three dollars. Her mother, withdrawn to the safe viewpoint of the wharf, alternately encouraged and warned her daughter to depart.

"Get out of this now. Chuck! Skeddadle! You'll go to St. Michael and be charged fare down if you stay here till the boat swings out into the river," urged the purser.

"You won't go till you finish payin' for your wood, I guess," said Liz, confidently. "Give me that calico an' I'll go quick enough."

"I'll give you a yard and a half of it. That's all that's comin' to you, an' it's all you'll get," answered the purser depositing the roll of cloth on a bench preparatory to measuring off the stipulated amount.

"Let go that bow line," shouted the captain, as the steamer's wheel began to churn the water.

Like a flash, Liz snatched the roll of calico from beneath the purser's hands and sent it flying across the steamer's rail, and the rapidly widening line of water, straight into her mother's arms. Then she turned and fled toward the open gate, with the purser in full pursuit. He caught her as she paused before taking the gigantic leap, and his arms closed around her firmly.

"Tell her to throw it back," he demanded, threateningly.
"Keep it, mother, keep it," shouted the struggling girl.

A frantic demonstration of mirth and excitement was convulsing the spectators on the wharf. They cried guttural words of encouragement to their champion on the steamer, and shrill maledictions against her captor. They waved their arms and doubled themselves up in an excess of enjoyment of this final triumph. The purser clung tenaciously to his struggling captive, appearing to have contracted some of the women's hysterical enjoyment of the situation. The steamer, swinging slowly outward, suddenly touched the current of the river and shot quickly ahead.

"Young man," broke in the grim voice of the captain, "don't you think you'd better take that precious cargo of yours aft an' hold it in your office for awhile, an' let this yere gate be closed? We don't go chasayin' around this river with that gate open, not even to let our men make yeroes of themselves by keepin' their goods from comin' in suicide."

"But we'll have to slow down, cap'n, an' set her ashore," said the purser, suddenly releasing his prisoner and gazing blankly at the forty feet or more of water that stretched between them and the bank.

"I reckon not," said the captain, laconically. "This ain't no pleasure yacht to go round gatharin' up folks an' puttin' 'em ashore ag'in to 'commodate their whims. When folks pulls out on this yere craft they stays on 'er till she makes port ag'in 'cordin' to skeelue."

"But she aint got any money with her, captain, an' she'll never pay. Besides, there won't be any way for her to get back before Spring," protested the purser, uneasily.

"That's your lookout, young feller. If the officers an' employes of this kempny as sails with me wants to barter the goods they has in their hands fer articles as takes their fancies, it aint no consarn of mine. I reckon they can squar' their accounts with the kempny. But of them articles takes the shape o' passengers, them as ships 'em answers to me fer their fare till the kempny accepts their own arrangements," and the captain moved grimly away, carefully repressing a chuckle until he reached the seclusion of his cabin.

"Well, I'm blowed!" exclaimed the purser, collapsing onto a bench and regarding the cause of his embarrassing predicament wrathfully.

"Not so blowed as you'll be when you've paid my fare, I guess," remarked that imperturbable young woman, coolly.

If her captor had expected to mitigate the ridicule of his shipmates by the spectacle of her wrath or entreaties he had mistaken the character of his captive. Two seasons of catering to the hungry miners in the dining-room of the most popular cafe in Rampart City had initiated her in the art of self-protection and showed her the real chivalry of the men among whom she would be thrown during the winter.

She accepted the situation quietly, evincing not the slightest concern for her present predicament nor her future prospect. She appeared to take the liveliest enjoyment in her trip down the river, and observed the strictest decorum in her attitude toward the purser and the other men on board.

On their arrival at St. Michael the captain made immediate report of the voyage. The purser also submitted his accounts and entered into a detailed report to the proper persons. Whereupon his stores were found to be short one roll of calico, containing twenty yards, for which it was deemed proper to hold him liable to the amount of forty dollars, that being the market price of the goods at the point where they were disposed of. Also, it was found expedient to charge his account with the fare of a passenger from Mission to St. Michael, inasmuch as the said passenger had refused to pay her fare, and had maintained, and been sustained therein by witnesses, that the purser was responsible for her presence on board.

The young man accepted the verdict philosophically. He was familiar with the strict accounting demanded of its employes by the vast company and the futility of resisting its decrees.

But he was moved to vigorous protest when he learned that credit against his account had been extended to Rampart Liz, upon her representations, again corroborated by members of the Alice crew, that she had been forcibly detained aboard that craft by the aforesaid purser and unwillingly transported to St. Michael, far from the shelter of her home and the protection of her family, and without the means to return to them or maintain herself elsewhere.

In the Land of the Congo

CURIOUS DWELLINGS OF THE COLLECTORS OF RUBBER FOR CONGO FREE STATE GOVERNMENT. These curious huts are found at Yambuya, one of the villages of the Congo Free State. They resemble remotely the shape of the Indian wigwam. The skeleton is made of poles, and the outer covering is of clay and thatch. Yambuya is on the left bank of the Aruwimi River, just below its lowest rapid.

As in every community where primitive conditions surround a population of highly civilized men, the instinct of chivalry was strong. Mr. Burt Williams was informed by the officials of the company, who, as he knew, voiced, in this instance at least, the sentiment of the majority of the citizens, that he would have to provide for the young woman whom he had arbitrarily caused to be brought into their midst until she obtained other satisfactory means of support.

Mr. Williams considered the situation. Being unable, apparently, to arrive at any satisfactory solution of the problem by himself, he began to frequent the society of the source of his trouble, probably with the crafty design of discovering from that quick-witted and resourceful young woman an elucidation. Whether or not he really did receive from her any suggestions on the subject, or is himself entitled to full credit for the highly diplomatic finale, is not known, but it is certain that the stratagem must have been abetted by her at some stage of its development, for early the next Spring he succeeded in recovering by process of law and through the cooperation of the mission church the identical piece of calico which had been so impetuously removed from his hands during the preceding fall. And as a further restitution, and as part and parcel of the same transaction, he also received, artistically enclosed within its folds, but sufficiently revealed to awaken the admiration of beholders, a no less award than the mischievous Liz herself.

THE FIFTH AVE. HOTEL

Last of a Famous Hostelry and Its Political Amen Corner.

NEW YORK, April 4.—At midnight tonight the Fifth Avenue hotel, one of the most famous hostelries of the city, ended its existence of half a century, but not until the old-timers had once more sat upon the plush-covered seats in the Amen Corner and once more breathed an acquiescent "amen" to the words of the "easy boss," whose political plans, there promulgated, gave the spot world renown.

In the old days "Tom" Platt was secretive. Tonight he confessed that the Amen Corner had "made and unmade presidents." Chauncey Depew spoke with caution when a part of the inner circle in days gone by. Tonight he fairly boasted that he had known governors "who thought they did things from the executive chamber, but they were done from the Amen Corner."

EASY BOSS WHEELED IN.

It was a jolly, half-sorrowful party that gathered to bid the old place goodbye. After forty-nine years of life as a hotel, during half of which time it served as the headquarters of the Republican party of the state, the house is to be torn down to make way for a monster office building.

Brought to the entrance in a wheelchair, and further assisted by a friend on either side, Senator Platt tottered to the amen corner and again heard the shouts of "Platt, Platt, Platt." The aged senator was visibly affected, but managed to speak for some moments to the crowd that surged about him and which was kept from pressing too closely upon the sacred spot only by a cordon of police.

Senator Platt, in a voice that was uncertain at times, though his eyes flashed as keenly as ever, said:

"Any effort, the very slightest, to express what I feel at the thought of the removal of the historic landmark which was my home for all of thirty years, would compel me to take my seat in silence, so I must avoid that subject, and assume a cheerfulness which I have not."

CENTER OF REPUBLICANISM.

"This noble edifice, in its day one of the most imposing in our city, even now in its majestic simplicity is good to look at. The Fifth Avenue hotel has entertained in its day a larger number of the great men of the earth, whose plans for social and commercial enterprises and improvements were here matured and executed than has any other house in America, but perhaps its chief fame will remain in its long association with the Republican party. It is no idle boast to say that it was the judgment which collected in the Amen Corner and there threshed out the issues of the day, which for a period of many years directed the destinies of the state of New York, wrote its statutes and decreed all its important acts of government."

"I shall not take this time to consider whether the changes that have latterly occurred are reforms or otherwise. At all events nobody can take away from the Fifth Avenue hotel the fame that it for years enjoyed, and as the place where from every city and county in the state there came and met and conferred the best and strongest minds in the Republican party, and the place from which, when their combined judgment had been finally reached, there went the sentiment in accordance with which popular judgment was molded and put into effect."

MADE PRESIDENTS THERE.

"That sentiment, born, as I say, of the large experience and considerable judgment of the popular leaders who composed the Republican organization, and who habitually assembled here, and from here dispersed throughout

Twelfth Century Castle, Restored by the Kaiser

The Hohkonnigsburg is the largest and finest castle in Alsace. In 1889 the town of Schlettstadt presented it to the German Emperor, and his Imperial Majesty at once decided to have it restored. The work has now been completed, and it is said that the Kaiser himself will inaugurate the building with much ceremony at no very distant date. Part of the cost of the work has been defrayed by the Kaiser, and the Reichstag and Alsace-Lorraine made a grant of 1,100,000 mks.

the state with a common purpose and a harmonious understanding, has made and unmade presidents and governors, has determined party platforms and policies both in the state and the nation, and has exercised a controlling influence upon affairs for a period of time within which the Republican party achieved its greatest successes, and the people of the state their largest measure of prosperity. That is a glory which will be associated with this spot for many years to come."

Then there were cries for "Chauncey," and Senator Depew stepped upon the historic bench.

"I have sat on this bench on and off for forty years. I have heard many great questions discussed as to what was the capital, and the capital has always been found in this corner. I know governors who thought they did things from the executive chamber, but they were done from the Amen Corner."

PLATT'S SEAT OF POWER.

"I know speakers who were looked up for the make-up of committees from the lower house of the legislature. They said they would consult with the members of their families in the rural regions, and I have found that the families they consulted were Senator Platt, in the Amen Corner."

"I have known conventions with 900 delegates who thought they would make up the state ticket, but they received their inspiration from the plush seats in the Amen Corner. Many a man who sat on these benches thought he would be governor, and was glad to get the nomination for assembly. I speak from the venerableness of old age. Years don't count now. What counts is your condition."

"Historic memories like this should be preserved. I saw Blaine, Conkling Grant and Arthur sit here. I have seen this corner filled with men in uniforms, but at other times by men who wanted to be decorated with uniforms. I do not believe there will ever be a spot in the state or country where so much of influence and power will go out to make for history as the Amen Corner."

Timothy L. Woodruff, Edward Riggs and Louis Seibold, president of the Amen Corner, made short speeches.

"RUM, ROMANISM, REBELLION."

There was a time when the Fifth Avenue hotel was probably the best known stopping place on this side of the Atlantic. The Fifth Avenue took the place of the Astor house as the city's premier inn. Presidents were familiar sights in its lobby and distinguished foreign visitors a-plenty patronized it. From the balcony over the Broadway entrance the Prince of Wales, in the course of his momentous visit, reviewed the torchlight procession in his honor which passed below.

The last person to be assigned a room was Dr. Hayes A. Clement of Philadelphia, who registered at noon. The political history of New York and of America is closely identified with the old hotel. On the great plush settees in what has come to be known as the "amen corner," have sat most of the men who have been prominent in the political history of the country in the last half century.

There have sat Grant, Conkling, Arthur, Platt, Depew, in fact practically all of the men whose names are graven on the annals of the Republican party in New York. On the stairway in the corner James G. Blaine heard Dr. Burchard deliver the "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion" speech, which cost him the presidency.

GUESTS OF FORTY YEARS.

Every corner of the old building, every room, is peopled with the ghosts of the famous men who have been known there during the time the hotel has been in existence. The old guests, many of them having spent thirty and forty years under its hospitable roof, have left for new homes, and the old servants, dozens of whom have been in the hotel for more than a quarter of a century, have secured new places or have arranged to retire altogether from labor.

For days hundreds of people visited the hotel to have a last look at the old familiar places. Among them have been white-haired couples whose honeymoons, many years ago, were spent in the hotel, and others whose daily walks have taken them through its corridors. Yesterday an old woman took her middle-aged son into the hotel to show him the room in which he was born.

HUNDREDS HUNT SOUVENIRS.

Hundreds of people have asked for souvenirs of the old hotel, the plush covered benches in the corridors, the great armchairs in the barroom, the clocks, the mantels, even the tiles of the floor. A score of offers have been made for the stairstep on which Blaine stood to hear the Burchard speech.

At the same time that the Fifth Avenue closed its doors, those of the old Sinclair House at Broadway and Eighth street were locked for the first time since 1840. This hotel also gives place to a modern office building. In 1863 the hotel was purchased by A. L. Ashman, and it is still being conducted by his widow. In other days it was a favorite resort of "Sam" Ward, Horace Greeley, William Cullen Bryant, Marlon Crawford and many other literary men of that time.

The reason cats dislike water is because there is nothing oily about their fur. Consequently it is easily wetted and does not dry quickly.

FOUNDED IN HONGUR.

No doubt you have seen in the papers such announcements as this concerning some medicine or other: "If, on trial, you write that this medicine has done you no good we will refund your money."—Now, we have never had reason to speak in that way concerning the remedy named in this article. In a trade extending throughout the world, nobody has ever complained that our medicine has failed, or asked for the return of his money. The public never grumbles at honestly and skillfully made bread, or at a medicine which really and actually does what it was made to do. The foundations of WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION are laid in sincerity and honour, the knowledge of which on the part of the people explains its popularity and success. There is nothing to disguise or conceal. It was not dreamed out, or discovered by accident; it was studied out, on the solid principles of applied medical science. It is palatable as honey and contains all the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. This remedy is praised by all who have employed it in any of the diseases it is recommended to relieve and cure, and is effective from the first dose. In Anemia, Scrofula, Nervous and General Debility, Influenza, La Grippe, and Throat and Lung Troubles, it is a specific. Dr. Thos. Hunt Stucky says: "The continued use of it in my practice, convinces me that it is the most palatable, least nauseating, and best preparation now on the market." You can take it with the assurance of getting well. One bottle proves its intrinsic value. "You cannot be disappointed in it."—Sold by all chemists everywhere.

DON'T PAY FOR DOCTORS' NONSENSE

When you pay a doctor for a drug prescription you pay for a lot of nonsense. That prescription may be an order for ten cents' worth of dope, yet you are none the wiser, and the druggist charges a dollar for it just because the order is written in dog latin. The reason for all this prescription nonsense is clear. You don't know what you are getting, and the druggist can charge as much as he likes. He then divides his profit with the doctor.

When I take your case my aim is to cure. You pay one price for my treatment, and that is all you pay. If I know that I can't cure you I'll tell you so in the beginning. I don't want money that I don't earn.

Drugs don't restore health, because they contain nothing that builds health. Nature wants nourishment, not poison. My way of curing is to help Nature cure. I do this by giving her the power to combat disease and drive it out of your system. This power is electricity. It gives strength to every vital organ. It vitalizes the blood and increases the circulation. It is food for weak nerves.

Electro-Vigor is the only successful appliance for infusing electricity into the body. It does this while you sleep. Its influence is powerful, yet soothing, and pleasant to the nerves. All night long it sends a volume of electric life into the ailing part.

Electro-Vigor is a practical, scientific body battery, not an electric belt. It makes its own power and never needs charging. It is curing people every day whom drugs had failed to benefit.

Electro-Vigor has done more for me than all the drugs I have ever taken. It cured me of a stubborn case of constipation, headaches and rheumatism, and I no longer have that drowsy feeling. I shall always be glad to recommend your method of treatment.

Stories by Prominent People

G. Bourcier St. Chaffray said at dinner in Michigan City of loss that he had more than made up:

"I made up that loss cleverly, did I not? It is like an old blind great uncle of mine whom my father used to tell of."

"My great uncle once buried $4,000 in gold louis under a pear tree in his garden. His neighbor saw him do it, and in the dead of night came and stole the money, replacing the earth carefully."

"Some days later my uncle brought fifty more louis down to the pear tree for burial. He soon discovered his loss, and, silently weeping, he, too, replaced the earth."

"He knew whom to suspect, and that night he called on his neighbor. He seemed thoughtful and distrustful, and the neighbor asked him what oppressed his mind."

"Well, I'll tell you, said my great uncle frankly. 'I have 1,000 louis hid away in a safe place, and today a tenant paid off a mortgage, and I have another 1,000 louis in cash on my hands. I don't know whether to seek out another hiding place for this money, or to put it where the other is. What do you advise?'"

"Why," said the neighbor, eagerly, "if your first hiding place is safe—and you declare it to be so—I should certainly put this other money there, too."

"My great uncle said firmly that was what he would do; it was the wisest course. Then he took his leave. "And when, next day, he went to the pear tree again, there, sure enough, was his lost 1,000 louis, all put back again."

"Rudyard Kipling, when he dined with me," said with some pride, a literary Chicagoan, "told me about Simla. "It seems that Simla is up in the mountains—the hills, as they say in India—and the ladies go there in the hot weather to escape the heat of the low country."

"Well, Kipling said that one lovely, cool morning at Simla, he was presented to a grass widow. They call those ladies grass widows whose husbands are detained by work in the hot cities of the plains."

"She was awfully pretty and charming, and as they talked together in the pleasant coolness, Kipling said: "I suppose you can't help thinking of your poor husband grilling down below?"

"The lady gave him a strange look, and he learnt afterwards that she was a real widow."

Charles Dalmores, the French tenor, lighted a cigarette and passed out of a Broadway restaurant, and the head waiter said:

"He is the most generous tipper who has visited America this year. It is odd for a Frenchman to tip lavishly. As a rule, the French are rather—er—modest with their tips."

"I will tell you a good one on Mr. Dalmores. "A day or so after he concluded his new contract with Mr. Hammerstein, he lunched here, and, at the end of luncheon, beckoning his waiter to him, he said:

"Baptiste, you always look after me well. What is the biggest tip you have received this year?"

"Five dollars, Monsieur Dalmores," said Baptiste.

"Well," said the tenor, "I'll make that tip look foolish. Here, mon vieux, here is $10 for you."

"And he handed the waiter a crisp $10 note, and then smiled and said: "Who was it, do you remember, who gave you the $5 tip?"

"It was yourself, sir," said Baptiste, as he gratefully tucked the ten in his pocket."

Discussing the spring rush to Europe, J. Stuart McDonald, the naval officer of customs in Baltimore, said the other day:

"During the last spring rush a friend of mine, a shy young man, had an adventure."

"My friend, the first night out, played bridge in the smoking-room till about 11, then took a night-cap and retired."

"But a few minutes later he rushed back, pale and worried."

"Purser," he said—the purser had been one of the bridge players—"there's a lady in my cabin. You've put me in with a lady."

"Rats," said the purser. "We don't make errors like that on this ship."

"And he got out his passenger list, 'You share your cabin with Captain Maybury,' he said. 'Go on back and you'll—'"

"Nothing could persuade me," the other interrupted, "to return to that room."

"Then I'll go," said the purser.

"And he did. But he soon returned, smiling and perplexed."

"There is a lady in there," he said. "I'll put you somewhere else for the night. Come and see me the first thing in the morning, and we'll look into this."

"Well, the next morning my friend sought out the purser, and the purser sought out the stateroom steward."

"I don't understand it," said the steward. "Captain Maybury's the gentleman assigned to that there room. Here's an unlocked portmanteau of his'n. Suppose we open it?"

"They opened it, and their eyes fell on a lace petticoat, a corset and hair-pins."

"By jingo," said the purser, as he took up a book that lay beneath the petticoat, "I see it all now. She sent her name in as Captain Maybury, but she never said she was in the Salvation Army."

George W. Rector, at the Lucullus Club's superb $20-a-plate dinner in New York, said during the terrapin course:

"The gourmet is a connoisseur of foods and wines. The gourmand is a low glutton."

"It was, for instance, a gourmand—never a gourmet—who reached his home at 3 o'clock one morning to find himself locked out."

"He rang and rang, and at last his wife protruded her head from an upstairs window."

"You can't just go away," she said. "I'm tired of this. You shan't get in tonight."

"But, my dear," bleated the husband, "I have brought home a broiled lobster and two bottles of champagne."

"Oh," said the lady, in a mollified tone. And she came down and opened the door.

"I'll make a light, dear," she said, leading the way through the dark hall towards the dining room."

"And then she turned on the electric current, and, looking at her husband, frowned."

"But where," she demanded, "is the lobster and champagne?"

"Here," said the man, with a coarse laugh, striking himself on the stomach."

CURRENT INTEREST.

WORKING GIRLS' HOTEL.

The most recent of hotels exclusively for women was opened the other day in New York. It is for working girls earning not more than $10 a week. It is non-sectarian and it is to be maintained by the young people of the Epworth League of New York. At present there are accommodations for only eighteen girls, but it is hoped soon to enlarge it. The board paid is $4 a week. The girls make their own beds and keep their rooms tidy, and the heavy cleaning is done for them weekly.

DISEASE HAS FREAKS.

No medical man needs to be told that even disease has its freaks, and that recovery has occasionally been brought about by means inexplicably trivial. One of the most remarkable of these unaccountable eccentricities of disease took place at Halver, in Westphalia. The case was that of a boy who, as the result of a very heavy fall backward on his head while skating, had for a year and a half been deaf and dumb.

One morning his brother went to awake him, and finding him sleeping heavily tapped him lightly on the forehead. To his amazement the deaf and dumb boy awoke with a loud cry. Both speech and hearing had been restored.

CANADIANS IN UNITED STATES.

In the United States, according to the census, are 819,264 Canadians 10 years of age or over. Forty per cent of these are engaged in manufacturing, 30 per cent in personal service, between 17 and 18 per cent in trade and transportation, about the same percentage in agriculture, and somewhat over 4 per cent in professions. The percentage in the professions. The proximately the same as that of the native born white population in the United States. The large numbers, as compared with the number left behind following the same occupations throw light on conditions in Canada—for example, the number of expatriated Canadian teachers and college professors, lawyers and clergymen.

TURKISH SCHOOL SYSTEM.

The Berlin Neue Korrespondenz publishes a letter from Constantinople, in which the writer dwells at length upon the fact that a "sentiment in favor of reorganization of the Turkish school system is steadily growing. The official Turkish organs of this city (Constantinople) have within the last few weeks published several articles on the subject. They declare the present system antiquated and demand at once more attention to the instruction of German, French and English and that the rising generation be better equipped for the work before them than those who have preceded." We know that no paper would be so open in its demands for reform if its views were not shared by the government, and for that reason there is good demand for a belief in the speedy betterment of the Turkish schools.

ENEMIES OF DANTE.

The enemies of the author of the "Divine Comedy" are not all dead, according to the correspondent in Alexandria of a Roman paper. The Dante Alighieri Society of that city offered to the municipal authorities a statue of the poet which the society wished to erect in a prominent place. The gift was rejected because of the violent protests on the part of the Moslem element. "It would be blasphemy," they said, "and an affront to Mahometanism, because it forbids honoring men by the erection of monuments." This excuse was faulty, because statues have been erected at Alexandria and at Cairo. "The real cause for objection," says the report, "is that the Moslem people will not forget that Dante gave their prophet a place in the infernal regions." The offer was finally withdrawn.

Face Study

By E. S. Goodhue, M. D.

In giving any specific hints under face study I want to have no misunderstanding as to what I say. My observations on the analogy between certain facial forms and particular traits of character, are observations only.

They bear no relation to analytical study, or to "phenology" or physiognomy so-called.

In this field we have scant data, the exceptions make a long series, but still there is a tolerable certainty that our conclusions are correct. And, on a few points different observers are well agreed. For instance, that a large nose, large ears and eyes are fortunate possessions if in agreement with other features of the face. Generally thick lips indicate sensuality, small eyes secretiveness, small ears stinginess, a small nose lack of force and originality and so on.

These features, however, must be defined comparatively, and you could not say that in our sense Mr. A's nose is larger than Mr. B's if Mr. A is over six feet in height and Mr. B only five feet two.

And so on in the typical difference between the sexes and races.

Taken in this way what I have jotted down may have some value for the observant person who is interested enough to compare or correct at his leisure.

THE FOREHEAD.

High for men and medium for women, are the aesthetic standards, but high or low are only relative terms, and as a measure of intellectual power are not infallible.

The hydrocephalic child usually has a very high, broad forehead, and such foreheads belong to many idiots, imbeciles, or at best, dull persons.

There is some truth in the remark of the cynic who said—"Tell me what sort of a life the man has lived and I will read his character from his head."

In many cases the head is really well shaped with a high forehead, but owing to low growing hair an observer is deceived. Or the reverse with a bald-headed man.

The very high, broad, white forehead sometimes see, generally belongs to the visionary, a man of small judgment but great self-importance, given to all manner of schemes which get him and his friends into trouble.

He acquires well, remembers easily, but is rather conventional, and as a rule he is argumentative and voluble.

Foreheads of medium in length and breadth, I have observed usually in well-balanced men, active, of quick perception—the doers of things in the world.

Edward Bellamy had such a forehead, so had Emerson.

They both possessed fancy and were contemplative, but both were eminently practical Americans who saw to their own business affairs. Browning, Bryant, Hardy, Harte, Holmes, Howell, Longfellow, Lowell, Stedman, Taylor, Tennyson, Thackeray, Dickens, may be put in this class.

A very low forehead indicates a low grade of intellect.

An uneven, knotty forehead is an indication of an original, investigating mind. Darwin had such a forehead. So had Theodore Parker and Freeman Clarke.

Heavy eyebrows are found in men of strong physical form and rugged health.

Foreheads in which the top tier as it were projects over the lower, show mental weakness.

And a writer has said that a "two-knob" forehead is a bad advertisement for the possessor.

High foreheads with close-drawn skin, showing no wrinkles—the "white forehead," indicate a selfish, shallow, conceited person.

A bad sign is a very flat forehead, or a forehead descending abruptly at the superior border; it stands for a limited apprehension.

Highly arched foreheads are found in men of cold, unsympathetic dispositions, and often of stupid perception; often in such the eyebrows are scanty.

The chief indication of a very broad forehead fashioning the whole face as to width, is obstinacy; pigheadedness. Mr. Carnegie has such a face, though perhaps Mr. Carnegie is not a good type.

Two perpendicular wrinkles running up the forehead between the eyes are indicative of a thoughtful person.

They are called lines of contemplation by the physiognomists.

Darwin had shaggy eyebrows; they belong to men of force and good judgment. Arched or curved eyebrows are a sign of the artistic temperament, and considerable width between the eyes and eyebrows show openness and sincerity of character; outspokenness and independence. The reverse are found often with the opposite qualities.

A forehead much shorter than the nose indicates dullness; such persons are poor letter writers.

Parallel oblique lines in the forehead indicate a weak mind.

Fullness of the temples is generally found in persons of a mathematical turn of mind.

If the fullness be in the lower part, it is indicative of a love for good food. Dumas is an example.

Horizontal eyebrows, well defined but not too heavy, are found in a perfect forehead.

A forehead which is long and reaches upward and outward is a sign of a servile, politic mind.

When the lower part of the forehead is smooth and the upper part wrinkled horizontally, you may look out for a disagreeable disposition.

A perpendicular, very high, very low, or protruding forehead is always bad and indicative of pure selfishness.

A music-loving disposition is shown by a fullness of the head above the ears; full temples.

A perfectly divided face is as follows: One third from the roots of the hair to the root of the nose; one third from the root of the nose to its tip, and one third from the tip of the nose to the tip of the chin, equal parts. In partes tres, like old Gaul.

Dr. Gower says: "Delicate features are never found in faces of men of low organization or coarse habits."

THE NOSE.

The nose is one of the chief landmarks of the face.

Without it the face is like a city without street numbers.

About the first thing one sees in a face is its nose, looming up in the distance like the mast of a ship on the horizon, and you judge intuitively of the person you see as the nose is large or small, broad or deep or sharp, pug or the reverse, red or pale, dignified or commonplace.

If I were a new King getting up a nobility or aristocracy, I should make a selection of noses; take all those who had good noses and make Dukes and Earls of them.

They might turn out badly, of course, but they would offer a better per centum and average than any of the aristocrats of the old world. The echo of Who Knows is, Whose nose?

Large noses are said to indicate generosity, and with the proverbial exception, they do.

But you must know what large means.

It is not very long noses but well proportioned ones.

If a nose occupies its proper place in the face, it will be large. Besides, you may have noses large at the tip and low bridged; such are not "large" in the right sense. Long noses which project from the tip—or eave over the face—and are larger there than at the bridge, are the very worst recommendation to their possessor.

They belong to smallfigited, jealous, disagreeable persons.

However, when you meet such a nose whose owner is the reverse of all this, you will know that he is an exception.

But this nose with prominent, protruding eyes is an almost certain indication of a coarse-grained individual.

On the other hand, long, sharp pointed noses belong to very exact, rather acid men and women.

They may have fine qualities but as a rule are disliked by those who are with them most. Benjamin Harrison had such a nose.

A man who has a nose of this sort, and who, when he laughs, wrinkles the skin at the bridge and adjoining cheek, is sly, and given to investigations of a scavenger nature; he loves to find out things about good people, and on the sly to prove that Mr. So and So is not all that he represents himself to be.

Many an old maid has this sort of a nose, and not a few ministers. They are generally savers of money.

Persons of small vital force and a tendency to phthisis, usually have thin nostrils which are very mobile.

The perfect nose has a bridge which is wide and almost straight.

The nose with thick nostrils, large spaces for air, thick and pulpy is found in people of a lower order.

A nose with a slight turn upwards is generally indicative of "upplishness," impudence, selfassertion without accompanying ability. But pug noses are also found in persons of a very sweet disposition and often in those who have unusual musical ability.

In such there is generally a modifying facial quality like a refined and pleasant mouth.

In all good noses there is a depression between the nose and forehead. Idiots have no such depression, as a rule.

A high, broad nose not projectile either upward or downward, is indicative of character and originality.

A nose of the same depth from the tip to the upper part of lip as from the bridge to the inner part of cheek, shows a refined, individual person.

Roman nose—character; Greek nose,—taste.

Persons whose noses taken in profile appear convex especially in the center, usually are lively in conversation and possessed of wit.

A well proportioned, prominent nose, refined mouth and strong chin are the best facial combination a person can have.

Regular, even noses are usually found in well balanced individuals.

Noses turned down and inward at the tip show a penurious often ill-humored person. Such a nose had Scrooge, I am sure.

Such noses abound among the money getters.

Turned up noses under high, broad foreheads are almost always found in men of despotic temperament, conceited and supercilious.

Such men usually make it a business to have a ready-hand knowledge.

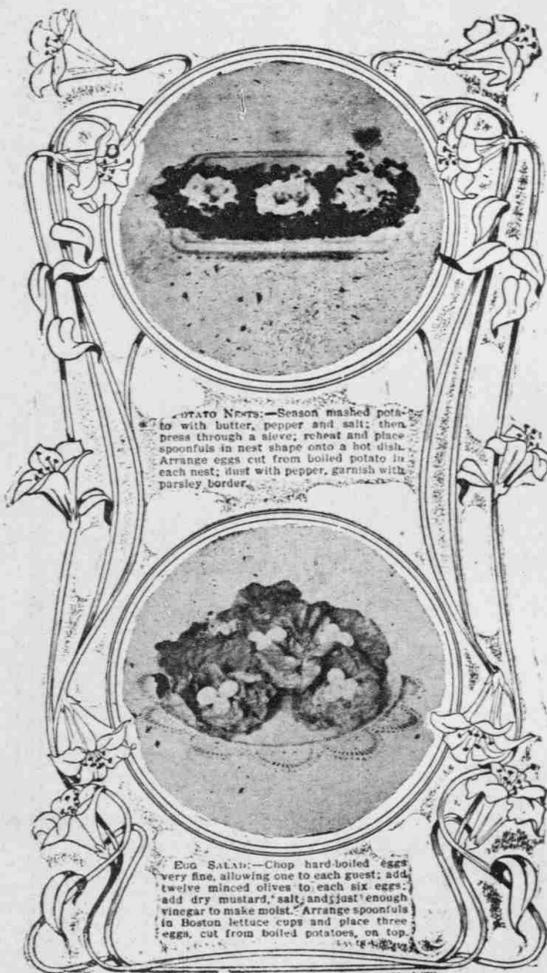

A habit I have noticed in such persons and in all egotists, is that of walking with the chin upwards and outwards, the reverse of the thoughtful man who walks with his chin down and his forehead forward.

CLEANING GLASS.

Place pulverized pumice stone between the layers of a folded piece of soft muslin and stich around the edge to keep the powder from spilling. Wipe lamp chimneys or window panes with this dry cloth and they will be clean and sparkling almost instantly. Enough powder will remain in the cloth to be used many times.

REMEMBER THIS.

A spot on polished wood caused by a hot dish being placed upon it will disappear if it be covered with a little salad oil and salt, which, after it has been left on for an hour or so, should then be rubbed off with a soft cloth.

LETTUCE NOSES.—Season mashed potatoes with butter, pepper and salt; then press through a sieve; reheat and place spoonfuls in nest shape onto a hot dish. Arrange eggs cut from boiled potato in each nest; dust with pepper, garnish with parsley border.

EGG SALAD.—Chop hard-boiled eggs very fine, allowing one to each guest; add twelve minced olives to each six eggs; add dry mustard, salt, and just enough vinegar to make moist. Arrange spoonfuls in Boston lettuce cups and place three eggs, cut from boiled potatoes, on top.

Delicious Candies

There is no better sport for young girls when they meet in the evening than candy making. Delicious varieties can be prepared with little trouble and small expense. Probably the most popular, however, are chocolate caramels or chocolate candies in all forms.

CARAMELS.

One-quarter of a pound of brown sugar, one-quarter of a pound of butter, one tumblerful of milk or cream.

Put all together and let them melt. Boil for twenty minutes, pour on buttered dishes and before quite cold cut in small squares with a sharp knife.

After taking off the saucapan add half a teaspoonful of essence of vanilla.

Be careful not to take the caramels off the fire until they are cooked. Test by dropping a little in cold water.

CHOCOLATE DROPS.

Scrape one pound of chocolate, lift and beat into it four pounds of sugar. Beat to a froth the whites of four eggs and add the sugar and chocolate. Beat as stiff as a paste. Grease a papered pan and drop the mixture upon it (about the size of a five-cent piece). Bake in a slow oven.

MOLASSES CANDY.

Half gallon of West India molasses, one pound of sugar, quarter of a pound of butter.

Boil for three hours, and just before the candy is done add the juice of a lemon. Try some by cooling it on a plate to see if it is sufficiently stiff.

Put as for sugar candy for half an hour.

A little vinegar on the hands will make the taffy crisp. It should be a light yellow color when pulled.

BUTTER SCOTCH.

Two cupfuls of sugar, two table-spoonfuls of water, a piece of butter the size of an egg, boil without stirring until it hardens on a spoon. Pour out on buttered plates to cool.

COCONUT CANDY.

Grate the meat of a coconut and have ready two pounds of granulated sugar and the beaten white of two eggs, also the milk of the coconut. Mix them all together and make into small cakes. In a short time the candy will be sufficiently dry to eat.

PEANUT TAFFY.

One pound of brown sugar, quarter of a pound of butter, one quart of peanuts toasted a light brown.

Put the sugar and butter in a skillet with two table-spoonfuls of water, let this boil until the taffy is a clear, dark color, then stir in the peanuts, boil for fifteen minutes.

Have ready the gridiron on which breakfast cakes are baked and drop one spoonful of taffy on at a time; it will cool quickly, and makes pretty cakes. Soapstone griddle is the best and it cools the taffy quickly and does not retain heat.

LEMON TAFFY.

One pound of brown sugar, quarter of a pound of butter, four table-spoonfuls of water.

Let it boil until a clear brown color, season with a little lemon juice after it is taken off the fire, then drop it on the soapstone griddle as in directions given for peanut taffy.

LEMON CANDY.

Put into a kettle three and a half pounds of sugar, one and a half pints of water, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, boil until it becomes brittle when dropped in cold water.

When cooked pour into a shallow dish which has been greased with a little butter. As soon as this has cooled enough to handle, add one teaspoonful of tartaric acid and the same quantity of extract of lemon, work them into the mass. The acid must be fine and free from lumps. Work this in until evenly distributed and no more, as it will tend to destroy the appearance of the candy.

WALNUT CREAMS.

One cup of granulated sugar, half cupful of hot water, boil hard for three minutes or until it jellies in cold water, cool it and beat fast until it creams, spread on a platter and put on walnuts split in half.

NOUGAT.

Blanch one pound of shelled sweet almonds and with a sharp knife split each almost into two slips. Spread them over a large dish and place them in a moderate oven.

Take two pounds of sugar, put it into a pan without water; set it on a dish with feet (a chaffing dish will answer), place this over a slow fire and stir with a wooden spoon until the heat has entirely dissolved it.

Take the almonds out of the oven and mix them with the juice of two or three lemons, put them into the sugar, a few at a time, and simmer until it becomes a thick, stiff paste, stirring all the time.

Have ready a mould or pan greased with sweet oil, put the mixture into it, smooth it evenly and set in a cool place to harden. When almost hard cut it into long slips.

Household Wisdom

MATCH MARKS.

Marks of matches on a kitchen will disappear if rubbed first with the out surface of a lemon, then with a clean cloth dipped in whiting.

Afterward wash the surface with warm water and soap, and quickly wipe with a clean cloth wrung out of clear water.

WHEN CLEANING COPPER.

When cleaning copper use hot vinegar in which a little salt has been dissolved.

A thorough washing with soap and warm water must follow, and every trace of the acid be removed before finally polishing with dry whiting. If any vinegar is allowed to remain, verdigris will appear and the article be completely ruined.

To keep copper articles bright for several weeks an immersion in boiling ale is recommended. Steep the outside of the copper in hot ale and put near the fire to dry. Utensils thus treated must not be wiped after being immersed.

ECONOMY IN FUEL.

Economy in fuel for cooking is not always practiced by cooks. It is a great mistake to fill up the grate to the top with coal and heat the stove so as to make the top red-hot. Keep the fire well burning, and add only a shovelful at a time.

If this is done at the proper time the

Good Things to Eat

The following recipes have all been tried and are recommended to housewives:

GOOD BREAKFAST DISH.

Put into the double boiler one large cup yellow cornmeal and four thin slices of bacon cut into dice. Add a little salt and fill the cooker with cold water. Let it cook about an hour and a half, turn out into a pan to cool, slice cold and fry. A good breakfast dish.

APPLE SAUCE CAKE.

Stir into one cupful sweetened apple sauce one teaspoonful soda. Cream half cup butter with one cup sugar and half teaspoonful salt. Beat this well into the apple sauce, adding one cup raisins or currants, or both, mixed, and spices to taste. Last of all stir in one pint of flour. Bake in a loaf in slow oven.

BROWN BETTY.

Slice apples fine, crumble your bread and put a layer of crumbs in pudding dish, then a layer of apples. Sprinkle with cinnamon and currants. Continue until you have amount required, then drop bits of butter here and there on top. Add a little water and cook in slow oven until brown.

CANNED PEACH PUDDING.

Slice a sponge cake into inch layers and cut with a round cookie cutter. Place in a glass dish and moisten with the syrup from a can of large half peaches. Place a half peach on each piece, with the inside up. Sweeten whipped cream and flavor it with vanilla. Chop nuts very fine and add them to the cream. Heap this on each half peach.

DROP CAKES.

Beat the yolks of three eggs with one cupful of sugar, add one cupful of molasses, one table-spoonful of melted butter, three-fourths of a cupful of sweet milk, two table-spoonfuls of soda dissolved in the milk, one cupful of raisins, nutmeg and cinnamon to taste. Add flour to make a drop batter. Drop by spoonfuls on a baking sheet, and bake in a moderate oven.

CREAMED OYSTERS.

Melt two table-spoonfuls butter in a saucapan and add two heaping spoons of flour; stir in gradually two cups of heated milk. Wash and pick over carefully one quart of oysters, boil them in their own liquor, then drain and add to the cream. Salt and pepper to taste.

oven will be in prime condition for baking, and the top will be hot enough for cooking purposes.

TO REMOVE DRIED INK STAINS. The best way to remove ink stains that have dried is to rub them with milk till the stain fades away, changing the milk as it becomes discolored; afterwards rub with ammonia to remove the grease.

Fresh ink stains should be sprinkled with salt, which absorbs the ink, and so prevents the stain from spreading. Brush it into a dustpan as soon as it is discolored, sprinkle with fresh salt, removing that in the same way.

LACQUERED BRASS.

Lacquered brass must not be allowed to get black, but should be cared for in the beginning, while it is still new and bright, and thus ensure a longer and brighter existence of it.

It should be washed occasionally with slightly warm, soapy water, then dried with a clean cloth and polished with a clean, dry chamois leather.

In damp weather lacquered brass should be well rubbed every day with a clean, dry leather. Treated in this way the lacquer can be kept beautifully bright.

FLUSHING WASTE PIPES.

Give thorough attention every week to the plumbing of the house. All waste pipes should be flushed with boiling water in sufficient quantities to eat away the accumulation of grease that coats the interior of the pipes leading from the kitchen.

A solution of permanganate of potash is invaluable for flushing the pipes, leading from stationary washstands. The solution in either case should be poured rapidly so that the pipes are full, and every bit of the interior surface is thus made sanitary.

A pound of copperas dissolved in a bucket of water is an excellent disinfectant, as is also a boiling solution of common or washing soda, one pint to three gallons of water.

TO MEND CHINA.

One of the latest known, though also one of the simplest and effective cements for mending china is white oil color, such as is usually sold in tubes, from which it is squeezed out in the desired quantity.

Broken things should always be mended as soon as possible after the accident, but, of course, there are occasions when this is not feasible.

Paint the broken parts with the oil, press them in position, tie them together and the operation is complete.

The only precaution to observe to insure perfect success is to put the mended article away to dry thoroughly for six weeks; after that period, however, neither heat nor cold, nor moisture should affect the cement.

If, after complete drying, any color remains, having possibly oozed out, it must be carefully scraped off with a knife.

If any kind of earthenware vessel is cracked and leaks it can be so treated as to be quite of use again.

Put the cracked utensil into a fish kettle or other suitable vessel that will hold it conveniently, covering it completely with cold milk. Set it over a moderate fire, let the milk boil up gradually and nearly boil itself away.

When the liquor has been absorbed by one-half stand the vessel aside and when the contents are quite cold the dish will hold water again.

If necessary to thin, add a little oyster juice.

COCONUT WAFERS.

Roll rich paste into a thin sheet and cut in strips five inches long and one inch wide. Brush these over with beaten egg and sprinkle generously with grated coconut. Place on a buttered baking sheet, chill thoroughly, and bake in a hot oven. Cool before serving.

IMPERIAL MUFFINS.

One cup milk scalded, one-half tea-spoon salt, one-fourth cup lukewarm water, one and three-fourths cups flour, one cup cornmeal, one-fourth cup melted butter.

Add the sugar and salt to the milk, and when lukewarm add the yeast and flour. Let rise until double in bulk, then add the cornmeal and butter, and let rise over night. In the morning cut down, fill buttered muffin rings or gem pans half full, and let rise until nearly full. Bake in a hot oven.

VIRGINIA FLAPJACK.

Make a biscuit dough, roll half an inch thick, bake into a cake the size of the spider; make over a moderate fire in the greased spider; cover with a lid until it is raised; when brown, turn with a cake turner; this saves heating the oven and is good for an occasional change. The cake may be scored, so it will break in squares. Spread with butter and sprinkle with brown sugar.

GERMAN EGG SALAD.

Eight hard cooked eggs, one head lettuce, six thin slices breakfast bacon, vinegar and pepper. Wash the lettuce and arrange it on a platter; slice the eggs on the lettuce and sprinkle with salt and pepper; cut the slices of bacon into very narrow strips crosswise and fry crisp; remove from the pan and sprinkle them over the eggs; to the fat in the pan add vinegar and pepper to taste; have the mixture boiling and well blended; pour it over the salad and serve at once.

BEEFSTEAK WITH OYSTER BLANKET.

Wipe a sirloin steak 1 1/2 inches thick; broil five minutes and remove to platter. Spread with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Clean one pint of oysters and cover the steak with them, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dot with butter. Place on grate in hot oven and cook until oysters are plump.

Many of our housewives who want the elegance of a course dinner, yet who are limited to the services of one maid, would be much amazed at the ease with which they can both cook and serve if a little forethought be used in the menu.

COCKTAIL.—A preliminary cocktail, prepared beforehand from a bottled sauce or catsup and marinated oysters or clams, makes a good beginning and can be made ready in the early morning and placed on ice to great advantage.

SOUP.—A clear soup with vermicelli or noodles can be cooked the day before and may simmer quietly for half an hour before serving time without further care.

FISH.—Fish is well represented by deviled crabs, seasoned and turned into little mounds in the center of cooked steaks. This may be done any time several hours previous to the feast and all they need at meal time is a simple browning in the oven.

MEAT.—Large and substantial roasts are not only hard to prepare and serve but also fill the oven to the exclusion of everything else, so why not have delicious little steaks, filet of beef, with canned French peas, and pomme de terre au gratin, served in ramekins and prepared early in the day from mashed potato and a sprinkling of grated cheese.

SALAD.—Most salads may, without serious injury, be mixed several hours before

KAPIOLANI SEA PARK

Rules for the New Public Bathing Beach at Waikiki.

The Park Commission met yesterday and adopted the following rules and regulations for Kapiolani Park beach resort:

- FREE USE OF PARK. 1. The use of the park, the pavilions and the bath is free to all. Bathers may bring their own towels and bathing suits. Bathers must wear clothes covering the body.
- BATHING SUITS. 2. Bath suits and towels will be furnished at the pavilion for 25c. for each person.
- WOMEN'S DRESSING ROOMS AND REST HOUSE. 3. The women's dressing rooms and rest house are at the makai, Diamond Head corner of the park. Men and boys are not allowed in these buildings, nor on the grounds immediately in front thereof.
- MEN'S DRESSING ROOMS. 4. The men's dressing rooms are in the basement, in the makai, Ewa corner of the park. Women are not allowed in this basement.
- REFRESHMENT PAVILION. 5. The refreshment pavilion is open to all; except that persons in bathing suits will not be permitted in the pavilion; nor in the women's rest house. Refreshments may be bought at the pavilion; or may be brought to and eaten therein, or in the park.
- CLEANLINESS AND TIDINESS. 6. The assistance of the public is requested in keeping the buildings and grounds clean and tidy. It is requested that waste papers, and other litter be placed in the boxes provided for the purpose. Bathers must not hang clothes or towels outside of the dressing rooms.
- LIQUOR PROHIBITED. 7. The bringing of beer or other intoxicating liquor into either the grounds or buildings is prohibited. BOISTEROUS CONDUCT AND LOUD NOISES. 8. Boisterous conduct and the making of loud noises is prohibited. It is particularly desired that the park may become a pleasure resort for women and children, and the assistance of the public in making it pleasant for them is requested.
- NUISANCES. 9. Cutting, marking, breaking, marring or defiling the buildings, furniture, grounds, trees or shrubbery is prohibited, under penalty of prosecution. The playing of baseball, football or cricket on the beach park premises is forbidden, owing to the danger of breaking the electric lights. Ample

NO WONDER.

A young couple out in Osborne County became the proud parents of a little girl the other day. They wanted to weigh the youngster as soon as it was dressed, but had no scales. Just then the iceman came along and they borrowed his scales. To their surprise, the little one weighed forty-four pounds.—The Lookout.

A DEFICIT.

Teacher—"Wait a moment, Johnny. What do you understand by that word 'deficit'?" "It's what you've got when you haven't got as much as if you just hadn't nothin'."—The Methodist Recorder.

COMPENSATION.

Mr. Powers—"Do you mean to say that you shopped all day and didn't get anything?" Mrs. Powers—"Yes, but I know what everybody else got."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

PECULIAR QUALIFICATIONS.

"In choosing his men," said the Sabbath school superintendent, "Gideon did not select those who laid aside their arms and threw themselves down to drink; he took those who watched with one eye and drank with the other."—The Herald and Presbyter.

Mistress—I want a girl for general housework; some one who is strong and willing to do everything. Bridget—Do yez take me for a Taft?—New York Sun.

room for such games is available across the street in the main park. HOURS OF OPENING AND CLOSING.
