NOTICE!

On and after this date all advertisements of over two inches in length must be handed in at the Bulletin Office before twelve o'clock noon, to insure publication the same day. All advertisements of less than two inches must be received by one o'clock p. m. if intended for publication the same afternoon. No deviation will be made from this rule.

Notice is also given that no communication will be received for publication the same day, after ten o'clock a. m.

Patrons and correspondents will please make note of this announcement, as there will hereafter be no deviation from the rule of going to press at an established hour, except upon extraordinary occasions.

Honolulu, Feb. 23, 1891.

Daily Bulletin

Pledged to neither Side nor Party, but established for the benefit of all.

THURSDAY, MARCH 26, 1891.

The Advertiser of this morning declares the Washington Star "is one of the most independent journals in the United States," etc. Such an allegation is certainly necessary, as made by the English editor of the Advertiser, to substantiate his slurs against the last American Congress. Certainly, just so; we tumble to the political defect in the "great newspaper."

A despatch states that the "Right Rev. William Reeves, Bishop of the united dioceses of Down and Connor and Dromore" has lately excommunicated the perhaps too famous Parnell from the Church of God. Not only is the alleged patriot, Parnell, condemned but also are those persons who agree with him. The despatch in question states that all who have supported Parnell have supported a "public scandal." Thus much for the news of the day; time is a terrible avenger.

Hawaii has hopes that the Nicaragua Canal will be finished by American capital. It is fit. The last Congress, however, adjourned without passing the Senate Bill on this question. Had the bill been put forward with the proper force and spirit it would certainly have been passed. This delay does not argue that there will be any delay in putting forward the enterprise so dear to American hearts,—an enterprise which will eventually control the commerce of the Pacific.

A new electric light company has been organized with Mr. Jona. Austin and Wm. V. Lockwood, electrician under the late Government, at the head. Any new enterprise which is for the advancement of the business interests of the country is to be commended. Until, however, a feasible basis upon which to subscribe to the capital stock of the company is set forth, beyond the present prospectus advertised in this morning's paper, it behooves investors to ask for further information, as solicited in the advertisement mentioned.

"MARTHA."

In acceptance of Mr. Oscar Herold's services rendered to the New York Opera Co. the following correspondence has passed between the parties concerned. In accordance with the following correspondence the fine opera of "Martha" will be reproduced here on next Tuesday evening:

MR. OSCAR HEROLD, Dear Sir:—Being desirous of offering you some public appreciation of your valuable services as Musical Director to the New York Opera Company during the season which is about closing, we beg to tender you the Opera House and the services of members of the opera company as a testimonial benefit to you for the evening of Tuesday the 31st March and request you to name the opera that you would prefer produced on that occasion. Yours very truly, LEWIS J. LEVEY, Lessee & Manager. W. H. HAMILTON, Stage Director. Honolulu, March 24, 1891.

MESRS. L. J. LEVEY AND W. H. HAMILTON, Dear Sirs:—Accept my acknowledgments for the generous and considerate proposal stated in your favor of yesterday which I accept with thanks to you and the members of the New York Opera Company. In compliance with your request I will select Flotow's opera "Martha" for the testimonial evening. I have the honor to be, Your obedient servant, OSCAR HEROLD. Honolulu, March 25, 1891.

DEATH OF MR. KATSUR.

Mr. K. Katsura, whose death is reported today, had lived here five years. He had been troubled with heart disease three years, but was only laid aside from his office duties three days before his death. Mr. Katsura was a man of much ability, a member of the Hawaiian Bar—the first Japanese lawyer licensed in this country. His funeral will take place at 4 o'clock Sunday from his late residence on Emma street.

POLICE COURT.

THURSDAY, Mar. 26. Wong Wai, for assault and battery on Lee Yun, was fined $20 and $3.50 costs, and bound in $25 with one good surety to commit no offense against the person or property of Lee Yun for one year. Appeal noted. S. M. Kanukai for defendant. Bail was forfeited in two cases, and a reprimand given in another case of drunkenness.

PRESENTATION.

Copy of the Scriptures from George Lucas to the Oahu Pythian Lodge.
An interesting meeting of Oahu Lodge No. 1, Knights of Pythias, was held last evening at its hall on Fort street. About 18 members had assembled and the Chancellor Commander, Bro. Richard Cayford, presided. After two candidates had been admitted and charged in the Knight rank of the Order, a presentation of a Holy Bible was made to the Lodge by Bro. George Lucas, Past Chancellor and one of the charter members of the lodge. Some improvements have lately been going on and the meeting hall has been renovated, so that in appearance and comfort it is one of the finest halls in this city. Bro. Lucas, with his usual liberality, was aware that the lodge was in need of a new bible, the old one having been in use since the institution of the lodge in 1872. After announcement of the presentation, it was voted unanimously by the lodge to convey a letter of thanks to Bro. Lucas under seal of the lodge.

The book, which is hand-ome in every respect, is one of Wm. W. Harding's (Phil.) royal edition of 1873, richly bound with two brass metal clasps, and contains nearly 400 engravings, an illustrated introductory history and synopsis of the Old Testament and of Christ; parallels of the Old Testament and of the Lord Jesus; a chronological index to the book; a biblical dictionary with illustrations, besides a table of contents. In the four corners of the cover on both sides of the book, are the following scriptural passages: "In God have I put my trust, I will not fear what man can do unto me;" "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path;" "My tongue shall speak thy word, for all thy commandments are righteous;" "I have longed for thy salvation, O Lord, and thy law is my delight."

The members of Oahu No. 1 now boast of a fine lodge room, and it is intended in future to give periodical socials for the entertainment of its members and friends. Several new members have lately been added to the roster of the lodge.

TOMORROW being Good Friday the Second Congregation of St. Andrew's Cathedral will hold services as follows: 9:45 a. m. morning prayer with sermon, hymns 467, 114 and 103; 6:30 p. m. evensong with sermon, hymns 117, 111 and 109. The pastor, Rev. Alex. Mackintosh, invites all to be present at these services.

OSWALD SCHUSSLER was summoned to appear before the Supreme Court this morning, to show cause why he should not pay costs of Court and attorney's fees in the divorce case of Annie Schussler vs. Oswald Schussler, to be heard at the April term. The woman was present with her attorney, Mr. J. L. Kaulukou. The man failed to appear, and Mr. Justice Bickerton ordered that he be required to pay $75 into Court forthwith.

JUDICIAL DECISION.

A Competitor From a Land-Holding Suit.
Mr. Justice Dole has rendered a decision in equity, in the case of J. W. Puni, Kini (w.) and Kauwila (w.) vs. A. K. Mika, Administrator of the estate of Nene, and Nalau. The bill of complaint recites that in 1882 and 1883, in the lifetime of Nene, the plaintiffs furnished him with $200, for the purpose of buying for him, but in his name, "an undivided part interest in the land of Mahalepuni, which said land was then and now is owned and held by an association of persons as tenants in common under the name of the Hui of Mahalepuni," that the purchase was made accordingly, the property standing in his name until his death in April, 1887, that they have demanded the same from the defendant, Mika, who has refused to relinquish it.

The prayer of the bill is that the defendants be decreed to be trustees of the plaintiffs as to such property and be ordered to convey the same to the plaintiffs. The evidence for the plaintiffs gave the reason for the alleged arrangement as being that Puni and Walewale, father of Kauwila and grandfather of Kini, were employees of the Koloa Sugar Company, which company was anxious to obtain possession of the land of Mahalepuni, and they were afraid the company would make them trouble if they knew that they bought an interest in the hui.

After weighing the evidence the Justice says: "I think the plaintiffs have made out their case and that Nene bought the property with the money furnished him for that purpose, as an agent, and that the interest is in those who furnished the money." He finds that Puni and Walewale were the parties interested, that Kauwila was the devisee of Walewale, who is dead; but does not find that Kini, who is Puni's wife, has any interest in the property. The decision concludes: "Reference is made to Nalei, the wife of Walewale, and it is not shown whether she is living or not. Neither is the status of the defendant Nalau as regards this case alleged or shown in any way. I will take such evidence as may be offered concerning Nalei and Nalau, and will thereupon decree according to the foregoing opinion and the findings upon such evidence."
W. O. Smith for plaintiffs; A. P. Peterson for defendants.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

Interesting Lecture by Captain Taylor, U. S. N.

Before the Geographical Society of Japan.

Probable Influence Upon Japan.

Notes and Facts Relating to the Influence of an International Cable Upon the World and Upon Commerce in the Pacific Especially.

Of Suez it may be said that its office, its principal office, is to connect two sections of a trade world, not two distinct, ever separated, commercial world spaces. Those sections were not strangers in trade to each other before Suez was opened; since the dawn of history slow lengths of innumerable caravans toiling through sand and desert have incessantly deployed upon the shores of the Eastern Mediterranean, bringing the rare and costly products of Persia and India to the ships of Phoenicia, of Greece, of Rome and later to those of Venice, Genoa, Spain and England. The Suez Canal did not create a new trade—it improved and increased a trade already existing between sections and only between sections. I will not be suspected in saying this of trying to belittle that great and noble work, whose usefulness to mankind cannot be over estimated. It has doubtless been of greater service for that very reason that it has not created new trade, but has vastly helped that which was already existing.

The Nicaragua Canal, on the contrary, will connect two areas of commerce hitherto without connection, independent of each other—nay, almost ignorant of each other, each with its own trade channels and currents circling and eddying in response to the various and changing demands of merchandise and the needs of its transportation. It is true that the Atlantic system reaches out in some degree to Australia, China and Japan, and that Alaskan fish and lumber, Chilean guano and nitrates pass in limited quantities around Cape Horn to New York and Europe, but the intervening distances are too great to produce anything like a union or joining of the trade systems of the Atlantic and Pacific. They are distinct and separate, and will so remain, unless joined by a waterway through the American Isthmus. This done, we should with reason expect a gradual mingling of the elements and factors of transportation and, as the new necessities were felt and the new conveniences realized, there would gradually be effected changes of great importance to the commerce of the world—far more so than the changes which Suez effected as between the Atlantic and Indian oceans. More remarkable still, however, in my belief, will be the great increase of trade; the creation of new productiveness in many fields hitherto unworked, resulting from the completion of the canal and the consequent opening of convenient markets and active demands for the various commodities produced.

Let us go a little more into detail and, with our eyes upon the map, once more discuss the effects of the canal's completion. I shall be glad at any time to be interrupted in this description with suggestions, for there are many doubtless among you who have studied the trade routes of the Pacific and to whose knowledge as to details I will readily defer in this division of my subject. The most marked of the immediate effects will be observed between New Orleans in the Gulf of Mexico, and Guayaquil and the other ports on the west coast of South America and Mexico. The distance by water now from New Orleans to Guayaquil is 11,683 miles; by the canal it will be 2340 miles, a saving of 9343 miles.

New Orleans is the natural port of the populous and productive states of the Mississippi Valley, while the Peruvian coast has for exchange its guanoes and nitrates. Next in order of benefit is the communication between New York and San Francisco—between Philadelphia and Puget Sound—as well as the Alaskan coast. Also the trade of England and Germany with the west coasts of North and Central and South America. By the Nicaragua Canal the saving in distance between New York and San Francisco is 10,080 miles, between Liverpool and San Francisco 7182.

The bulk of the traffic passing through the canal will at first consist principally of shipping plying between these last mentioned localities. Upon these lines will, I believe, be seen the development of new trade increasing with great rapidity. The difficulties and expense of the voyage around Cape Horn have restricted the transportation, and hence the production of many commodities to the point almost of prohibition. When the products of Peru and Chili, the coffee and cocoa of Mexico and Central America, the grain of California, the lumber of Vancouver and Alaska can be placed in the markets of the United States and Europe at prices largely reduced by the cheaper transportation afforded by the canal, then we shall see a greater demand for these products, and hence larger areas of those almost virgin coasts will be utilized, and the present traffic now ready to use the canal will be dwarfed by the volume of new trade, whose existence will depend upon such a canal. There is as we all know a railway across the Panama Isthmus, but the necessity of breaking bulk twice makes its general use for large trade impracticable. It need not therefore be dwelt upon as a serious factor in this discussion.

I have said that the first and most notable users of the Canal would be the ships plying between the ports of Europe and the East of America on the one hand, and the West Coasts of the American Continent on the other. The trans-Pacific countries would need more time to become convinced of the advantage they would derive from a Nicaragua Canal.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

President David Dayton reported to the Board of Health meeting on Wednesday regarding his visit to Molokai. He arrived there with Capt. W. H. Tell, the new Superintendent, Saturday morning. At one o'clock Sunday afternoon a large number of the lepers gathered at the board's office, Kalapapa. The assemblage was briefly addressed by the President, who introduced the new Superintendent, Capt. Tell and Mr. Hutchinson, a former Superintendent, followed with short speeches. Rev. Mr. Waiwale, the resident Protestant missionary, closed the proceedings with prayer. Mr. Thos. E. Evans, the retiring superintendent, left the settlement by the Mokili for Lahaina on Saturday.

The Board has added the district of Puna to the care of Dr. Williams, District Physician of Hilo. Recently Dr. Lutz reported a death from diphtheria in a very populous locality near Smith's bridge. The Board of Health at once established surveillance over the place, but no new case of the disease has appeared.

ACCIDENT TO MR. ROBT. MORE.

Just as the BULLETIN forms were ready for press this afternoon it was learned that a bad accident happened to Mr. Robert More, Superintendent of the Union Iron Works. Mr. More was directing workmen in the yard, when a scissor overhead gave way. He called to the others to get out of the way, which they did, but while trying to get from under himself he was caught by the falling timbers.

His left arm was broken above the elbow and his right leg between the knee and ankle. He was carried into the office, and after attentions from the men, was carried on a stretcher to the Queen's Hospital.

imagine because the Acrotator is a new thing on these Islands that it is not a good machine. The antique wheel affair was new once and people looked upon it as being a fairly good mill but this is an age of improvements and new ideas are nearly always better than old ones. People who have tried the Acrotator consider it superior to any other mill in the market, you will
