A man called out. "Mr. Blake!" Tom Blake turned around. He saw Jerry standing there! He was furious. He was too furious to say anything.

"What's wrong, Mr. Blake?" said Jerry. "I just had to talk to you." Mr. Blake looked at him. "I told you I didn't want to talk to you. Why do you do that?" Jerry looked at him. "I've had enough of this. I'm going home!" He turned around and walked out of the room.

Mr. Blake sat down on the edge of the table. He was too angry to say anything. He thought about what Jerry had said. He thought about how he had treated Jerry. He thought about how he had treated his family. He thought about how he had treated his friends. He thought about how he had treated his work. He thought about how he had treated his life.

He got up and walked out of the room. He went down the stairs. He went out into the street. He feltbetter than he had in a long time. He felt better than he had ever felt before. He felt better than he had ever felt in his life.

He walked down the street. He walked into a store. He bought a newspaper. He read it. He felt better than he had in a long time. He felt better than he had ever felt before. He felt better than he had ever felt in his life.

The next day, he went back to the office. He talked to his boss. He talked to his colleagues. He talked to his friends. He talked to his family. He talked to everyone. He felt better than he had in a long time. He felt better than he had ever felt before. He felt better than he had ever felt in his life.

He felt better than he had in a long time. He felt better than he had ever felt before. He felt better than he had ever felt in his life.
