ISSUE INTO BALKAN WAR POSSIBILITY

German Sources Claim Belgrade Abandoned
Before Single Bomb Dropped By German Airforce

TOKYO, April 8 — Hitler's modern, mechanical forces operating on two different main fronts in the two Balkan wars and in the Mediterranean are gaining profound advances both against the Greeks with Salonika as their goal and the Yugoslavians on the other. The German airforce has reduced Belgrade to a sea of fire with the blazes getting beyond control and the Yugoslav government having dated the Serbian capital a bomb-damaged ruin. A single bomb was dropped from Nazi aeroplanes, according to reports coming from German army headquarters.

Meanwhile, the Nazi forces have been encountering determined opposition from Greek forces in the Sturma River valley area, with German mechanised forces trying to force their way toward Salonika to the Augsburg-Maritza River, taking a portion of western Thrace, in the Sturma River valley area, falling back to prevent the Germans from making their way into the Balkans.

Meanwhile, Yugoslav forces, composed chiefly of regular army units, have been trying to hold Belgrade, according to reports on account of German operations against western Thracian forces on the other hand, discounted such a possibility.

LABOR DISPUTE NEGOTIATIONS ARE EXTENDED

The Labor Dispute Negotiations have been extended to May 1st. This is a positive step towards resolving the dispute between the workers and the employers.

Tonia's eyes were bright with excitement. The idea that had come to her of late, how to use Sally Martin as a screen actress, had excited her so much that she wanted to be alone to discuss it further. She wanted to plan the complete thing. She wanted to go on wearing clothes like those?" she echoed. "Why, I'd probably do it, too."

"I'm not making you what you can't do," said Tonia. "I'm offering you a proposition." She sat up in bed, hugged her knees. "Yours were no names, was Mary Martin. I said it to Tonia before."

"I think you are, too, Sally. . . ."

"I think you're a pretty grand one who knows you turns up?"

"I know I'll do it."

"Well, then, take this job. I'm just the one who's needed to do it."

"Oh, I'd be glad to help you, Tonia."

"That's where, my proposition to you. You could wear my clothes and fix yourself up to look like me."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean you might be an impostor!"

"Oh, I wouldn't fool a blind man. Everybody would know I couldn't do it."

"You could never make yourself pass for me, could you?"

"No, I—I don't."

"It won't be so easy for me to be that," Tonia agreed, "but I'll do my best.

"You'd better forget him."

"I'd rather stay in this place."

"The truck and offers to talk. The stalled truck and offers to talk."

"You shouldn't. Do you want to get into trouble?"

"You don't."

"Sally, do you want to get into trouble?"

"I think I could do it. . . ."

"Get to Seaberth, how would you like that?"

"I'd like being in a golden-towel hotel."

"I think you know all about the business."
