No. 8232

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 24—President Roosevelt de‐ clared on a recent conference that neutrality patrol vessels would operate as far as the coast of the seven seas in order to prevent defense of the American homelands. However, he added that the administration is not thinking of operating vessels at the present time but decided to recommend specifically or amplify his views of the convoy system. He also said that there is possibility of Greenland being partly occupied by American forces and agreed that his statement may be surprising.

The President further said that for eighteen months a na‐ tional patrol vessels have been operating as far as the coast of the seven seas in order to prevent defense of the American homelands. However, he added that the administration is not thinking of operating vessels at the present time but decided to recommend specifically or amplify his views of the convoy system. He also said that there is possibility of Greenland being partly occupied by American forces and agreed that his statement may be surprising.

Sally Martin, small-town girl, was used to her own way of doing things. She was strong and independent, and Charlie Porter, the man she loved, knew it. But when Charles Porter, the man she loved, decided to marry someone else, Sally's world came to an end.

She moved across the country to New York City. Sally knew she was different from the other girls in her apartment building. She had never had a boyfriend, and she was not interested in the usual things young women were interested in. Sally wanted to be independent, and Charlie Porter saw that in her.

When Charlie Porter proposed to her, Sally was overjoyed. She knew she had found true love. But when he called off the engagement, she was devastated. She knew she could never be as independent as she was when she was with Charlie. Sally was forced to confront the reality of her life, and it was not what she had hoped for.

Sally decided to make the best of her situation. She moved to Los Angeles, where she hoped to start a new life. She knew she could not go back to the way she was before she met Charlie Porter. She knew she had to change, and she did. She made a name for herself in the world of entertainment, and she became a star.

But Sally's new life was not without its problems. She was never able to forget about Charlie Porter. She knew she would never find someone like him again. Sally was forced to confront the fact that she could never go back to the way she was before she met Charlie Porter. She knew she had to make the best of her situation, and she did. She made a name for herself in the world of entertainment, and she became a star.

Railroad Union Fights Seaway

CLEVELAND, O. — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has begun a campaign directed to forming interest in opposition to the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway project. An editorial in the March issue of the Locomotive Engineers Journal said that "America's agricultural markets are jeopardized by this scheme" and that it is "unnecessary economically and politically."

"This so-called 'gate' to world trade...will swing back and smash the face of the very same former and business men, small and large, who would have to struggle to pay this enormous tax bill," the editorial said.

It asserted that most of the trade, except for war and defense transactions with Great Britain, would be with South America and argued that "slumping" of small-scale Latin American farm products into the American Middle West would "penalize" American markets.

It noted that a number of small South American grain ships, which are able to navigate the existing channel, would be unable to reach Great Lakes ports due to the man-made lake's reduced water levels.

"The reservoir's water surface has remained at a constant level between 1128 and 1146 feet. It is kept uniformly level by opening and closing the outlets at Coulee dam."

Legislative Sidelines

"There is a good possibility that the seaway would 'demoralize' American markets," the editorial said. "This so-called 'gate' to world trade...will swing back and smash the face of the very same former and business men, small and large, who would have to struggle to pay this enormous tax bill." The editorial stated.

Middle Age Defined

"As living in Past" middle age in the sense of various developments and changes in environment, you might say, 'Every man for himself.' Among farmers it was a period of what will develop. The fact is that the water level of the reservoir will be reduced by one and one-half feet, or about 17 inches, giving a gain of nearly 17 inches to the Pacific coast. The result is that the so-called 'gate' to world trade...will swing back and smash the face of the very same former and business men, small and large, who would have to struggle to pay this enormous tax bill," the editorial said.

Tailspin Tommy

""Come see me, Tommy, I have something to tell you,"" said the manager of the Olympic Theatre in Seattle.

""Sure, what is it?"" asked Tommy.

""Well, I've got a job for you,"" said the manager.

""What kind of job do you have for me?"" asked Tommy.

""I have a job for you to do,"" said the manager. ""You have to go to the Olympic Theatre and talk to the people who live there.""

""What do I have to talk to them about?"" asked Tommy.

""You have to talk to them about the Olympic Theatre,"" said the manager.

""Why do I have to talk to them about the Olympic Theatre?"" asked Tommy.

""Because the Olympic Theatre is going to be closed,"" said the manager. ""You have to go and talk to the people who live there and tell them that the Olympic Theatre is going to be closed.""

""But why is the Olympic Theatre going to be closed?"" asked Tommy.

""Because the Olympic Theatre is not making any money,"" said the manager. ""You have to go and talk to the people who live there and tell them that the Olympic Theatre is not making any money and that it is going to be closed.""

""But what can I do to help?"" asked Tommy.

""You can help by going and talking to the people who live there and telling them that the Olympic Theatre is going to be closed,"" said the manager. ""You can help by going and talking to the people who live there and telling them that the Olympic Theatre is going to be closed and that they should come and see the show that is being shown at the Olympic Theatre.""

""But what show is being shown at the Olympic Theatre?"" asked Tommy.

""I don't know,"" said the manager. ""But you can talk to the people who live there and tell them that the Olympic Theatre is going to be closed and that they should come and see the show that is being shown at the Olympic Theatre.""

THE WASHER

Laundering Complete in one unit. Washes, Rinses and Dries

These three machines have been developed to simplify the household chores of washing, rinsing and drying. They can take a load of laundry from the clothes hamper, wash it in warm water, rinse and dry it in 30 minutes, using water and nonelectric heat. They perform the work on a continuous basis, so the cleaning is done automatically, and the time saved is considerable.
