REP. J. DOI REFUTES CHARGE OF RESPONSIBILITY ON LAST MINUTE LEGISLATION!

BLAME IS LAID TO MAJORITY COMMITTEE FOR NON-ACTION TO AVOID AGREEMENT

In a special interview with the Hawaii Mainichi, Rep. J. Doi, who returned for a short visit last Saturday morning, denied that he was given any advice by the East Hawaii members of the House on the controversial Honolulu pier bill, who asked him to vote in favor of the bill. According to Rep. Doi, the controversial Honolulu pier measure became the center of a bitter fight after the majority in the Senate had amended the House proposal by "tacking" the provision to give Pier 5-A, 6, and 7 preference over Pier 15, and it was also the Senate majority who now are new to include the extra county appropriation as a rider on the measure.

Agreed With Doi

Rep. Doi added: "I cannot see why any one should blame me for the latest development in the House. The four East Hawaii members were the ones who called on me before the vote and we agreed to go along with the majority. I acted only after listening to their advice and I believe that their advice was sound."

CRITICS BLAME EAST HAWAII TRIO

"The crass cynicism of the House members, among whom were five from this Island, was reflected in their action," one of the House critics said. "The four East Hawaii members were the ones who led the charge against the pier bill. They were the ones who proposed the amendment to give Pier 5-A, 6, and 7 preference over Pier 15.

"I am not sure why they did it," thecritic added. "But it appears that they were trying to avoid the extra county appropriation as a rider on the measure."

RENO, NEVADA EXPECTS 1941 MARRIAGES WILL TOP 50,000

RENO, Nev.—More than 50,000 persons will be married to Reno this year, according to County Clerk Elwood H. Beemer.

Last year the all-time record was 37,972, which took out 10,891 marriage licenses. From the way they are flocking to the courthouse, Beemer believes it would have been at least one-million if marriage this year than he did last.

He is known for his conservatism.

Reno’s population is only half (25,000) the number of expected to be married here. Beemer says “no names” as early as Friday night, as the weekend rush starts.

Half those coming here to evade the California “gimmarriage,” physical examination or laws of other states have liquor on their hands. The other half shows guns. In between the two uncertain halves are a few who are “trying again,” but they don’t count.

HERE’S TYPICAL COUPLE

A typical couple is 24 and 26, respectively, and he puts her on the shoulder as they enter the license office. They timidly enter the clerk’s office and say “We want...”

They get no further, for the deputy clerks can tell a prospect immediately.

The prospective groom spells his name correctly to the clerk while she looks at him.

“Ever been married before?”

“Uh, uh,” he answers.

She giggles and squirms his arm. Then she spells her name and tells where she lives.

“Two dollars please,” says the clerk.

The groom-to-be waves his arm and produces although last year one swain had to hold an emergency meeting of the entire wedding party to avoid a $2 penalty.

“Marriage is a civil contract,” he begins.

“Uh, uh,” he answers.

“Trying it again,” but they don’t count.

“MAKE BELIEVE” IN EASIER WAY

CAMP ROBINSON, Ark. — The new army will have plenty of reserves if all recruits are like one of the big training center here.

A tough sergeant was getting a group of green infantrymen through a “make-believe” air raid drill. When he shouted that enemy planes were strafing the troops, the soldiers were supposed to dive into the brush and lie there until the “alldago” signal was sounded.

The boys of the group that day were plenty of strafing, and one soldier, after falling on his face a dozen or more times, grew a little tired. When the next order came, he calmly sat in the center of the road.

“What are you doing?” the sergeant bellowed, wondering.

“Trying to look for doughnut holes,” was the answer.

“It’s all make-believe anyway,” the unreluctant recruit announced, “so I’m pretending I’m sitting under a culvert.”

They are nearly all gone on Mondays, but the rush starts again Friday night. Police come in looking for missing persons expected to be married here. Hotels say “no rooms” at least one-third more marriage this year than he did last year.

and, Ren. William Payne and Rep. J. Doi from West Hawaii, taking the side of the Senate minority. Under these circumstances the League authors proposed that Rep. J. Doi have a vote, but Speaker Masutani refused to accept this suggestion. He stated that Rep. J. Doi and of course Rep. Bong may be removed from the committee that will examine the bill, and thus it was decided to let the Senate decide on the bill this afternoon.

The defeat of the proposal of House Bills No. 192 and 229, the measures turning over personal property collections to the counties and the gasoline tax to the Territory, respectively, almost certainly means losing some $250,000 to the Big Island as its share, seems to be also "lacked" on Rep. Doi, because of his failure to change his vote on the bill in the final moments of the 1941 regular session, by the same people who blame his stand on the Fil-15 measures. Here again an actual check show that Rep. Doi, Enge and Pachnold had signed the first conference committee report fully two days before the session adjourned, with other House members either withdrawing their signatures after signing the committee report or replacing their signatures at the last minute. The lapse of time change was made on the record, again Rep. Enge, Doi and Pachnold.

Taking the enrolment figures for the entertainment, the House members again showed their signatures on the committee report, recommending passage, with the senate conference body also adding their names again and having two House members and these members were: Rep. Kami Todo Lee, Macfarlane and Worrall of Hilo and Worrall of West Hawaii. Rep. Doi was again among the House members who act in opposition to the measures, and yet Rep. Doi is posted as the main House member who "sold this island down the river.
