WARS-WAR-TIME PREPARATIONS AGAINST GERMAN INVASION

MOSCOW, June 23—Kazuko Tiro, editor of a publication of the Yomiuri Shimbun, which is Japan’s largest newspaper, arrived on the last train before communications were slashed. Her story follows:

"If we were not for the treacherous treachery of Germany, it would have been impossible to talk with her now. She must have been engaged in following a common cause in so far as rendering every effort to defeat the forces inimical to the interests of free nations. We all know that making an effort to follow that course, we must fight as well as our moral forces to get at least to the starting line."

VON WAME, SWAPS HILTON FOR MICROPHONE IN COMBO GAME PLAYED

By Arthur Fowlison

In a surprising turn of events, Von Wame swapped his microphone for a basketball instead of a microphone in a recent combo game played.

"As we were discussing the next move in our strategy, Von Wame suddenly announced that he had a better idea," said the opposing team coach. "He suggested that we play basketball instead, and I have to admit, it was a brilliant idea!"

The game proceeded with a high level of intensity, as both teams tried to outscore each other in a unique format. Von Wame, known for his energetic and dynamic commentary, showed his versatility by participating directly in the game.

"It was a challenging game, but Von Wame's skills on the court were impressive," remarked the opposition team captain. "He really brought his competitive spirit to the table, both figuratively and literally!"

The outcome of the game was determined by a final buzzer-beater from Von Wame, securing a narrow victory for his team. The game was a testament to the unexpected and dynamic nature of sports commentary, as Von Wame seamlessly integrated his love for the game into his role.

The reception for this innovative approach was overwhelmingly positive, with many fans expressing their delight at witnessing such a unique and memorable event. It remains to be seen whether this hybrid format will catch on, but for now, it will be remembered as an extraordinary game played by none other than Von Wame himself.
