Iceland Dash Brings War Close To U.S.

US NAVY REPORTED GETTING READY TO SEND NEW TROOPS IN IMPORTANT IN AZORES AND WEST AFRICA

Diplomatic Circles Watch Nazi Reaction Against U.S. Move With Growing Speculation and Interest

TOKYO, July 8—Possibilities of armed clash between Germany and the United States unlikely mounted with the dispatch of United States naval forces to Iceland to replace British forces there, diplomatic circles here believe.

But observers, that while United States has entered the war the stage between Germany and Britain has not changed, some quarters believe that United States has been urged against German attack, and that keen interest attaches to Germany's attitude toward the move by the United States, which will be followed closely by British and U.S. naval forces to Azores or occupation of Dakar.

WASHINGTON, July 7—President Roosevelt today sent a message to Congress announcing that U.S. naval forces may be dispatched to Iceland to replace British forces that have been withdrawn for action elsewhere.

It was reported that since July 1st, the president has been considering the withdrawal of British forces in Iceland. The president's statement, however, was not the signal for the move, but merely a formal notice that a decision was being made.

Although nothing definite was announced by President Roosevelt concerning any other action by the United States at this time, it was reported that in the near future, U.S. troops may possibly be dispatched to Azores, the Cape Verde Islands and Dakar in west Africa.

FRANCO-SPANISH FRONT IS BUSY WITH NAZI PREPARATION FOR ATTACK ON BRITISH ISLE

GERMAN ENVOYS TO SPAIN AND PORTUGAL ARE ENROUTE TO BERLIN AS POSSIBLE MOVE AGAINST BRITAIN LOOKS NEAR

LISBON, July 8—Indications that Germany has not forgotten her past objectives, the economic and political domination of Europe, are seen in reports current here, in that (1) Nazi diplomatic agents, the French have been recalled by their governments, are blanking out talks with the French, (2) British naval bases have been removed from the Mediterranean.

Observers attach all the more significance in these reports here due to the return of Berlin, Dr. Eduard von Steiger, German Ambassador to Madrid, and Von Hoyne Eshly, German Minister to Lisbon.
