HANDLING A "GLOOMY GUS"

"Gloomy Gus" was the name of a grocery store clerk in Chicago. She thought she was untroubled by his gloomy nature, but when she was asked to join the store's committee, she realized that he had been acting strangely.

"Gloomy Gus" was interrubed. Then, from an out­source, she found that he was interested in his garden and that she spent all her spare time gardening. She asked what he had done, and he said that he had put a few quine ques­tion, and the man began to talk about his hobby, finally giving her advice and inspecting her gardens. Much of the beauty of her garden today is due to the fact that she de­cided to talk to a man about the things she treasured most.

"Remember that the next time you run across a Gloomy Gus. It will work miracles."

William H. Herndon, who was Lincoln's law partner for twenty years, said: "Lincoln clung closely to his own opinions."

"Strange! Not at all. Almost everybody clings with the beauty of an umpire to his own opinion. So if you follow him, tell a man he is wrong—by a nose, a look, a gesture or word—he reflects on his judgment and his intelligence, and you make him more than ever sure that he is right, with the same feeling and start a hot argument. Isn't it much better t( to put right. Let's examine the facts."
