NYA Offers Health Rehabilitation

For Youths Found Unfit By Army

WASHINGTON (UP)—The National Youth Administra­tion is experimenting with a plan to rehabilitate young men who have been rejected for selective military training because of minor physical defects. The plan will be operational on an entirely voluntary basis.

Men turned down by local draft board physicians or by the army because of minor physical defects will be admitted to special NYA camps where their physical strength will be built up by the proper diet, exercise, work and adequate medical care.

Officials think it will take two or three months to determine whether selective service "rejects" want to be rehabilitated by the NYA.

Local doctors and hospitals will give medical services under a cooperative agreement with the NYA, since the Federal agency cannot provide medical services.

One experimental camp, established in Durham, N. C., went into operation recently, the NYA said, and a second camp may be established at Madison, Wis.

"This is definitely just an experiment," a spokesman for NYA said, "but we know these people can be helped if we have the cooperation of local medical people.

Officials hope to extend the camps to all parts of the country, perhaps establishing one in each state, but funds are not yet available for this work.

The camps will have a capacity of approximately 150 men each.

The NYA plans to operate these camps just as it does the NYA camps for the unemployed. 16, the youngest licensed woman pilot. She now is teaching and has more than 1,450 hours in the air.
