SCHOOLS OF DEMOCRACY

The opening of schools throughout America, although just to be gathered by most of us, is probably the most important "defense project" undertaken since the schools closed last June. That is, it is the most important step when we consider in relation to what would happen if our schools did not open and millions of boys and girls ceased to be educated.

Last year, when schools did not open and millions of boys and girls ceased to be in school, the world was in the midst of the war. This year, when schools do open, the world is at peace.

Thomas Jefferson named the schools and the press as the cornerstones of a working democracy and ever since; Thomas Jefferson named the schools and the press as the coming generation is well schooled in the superiority of the democratic way of life.

To achieve those aims and to make them lasting will be the task of those boys and girls who are now busy learning the pledge to our flag, it meant more to this nation than any task of living which is worth protecting with their lives, if ever.
