China War Losses Estimated by Japan.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20— The War Department in its latest estimate of the losses of the Chinese army in the war for China, published Thursday, showed that the aggregate of the losses in men and property is estimated at about $60,000,000.

It was estimated that more than $2,000,000 of the losses were due to military action in the interior of China, and that the balance was due to the loss of men and property in the south.

China's financial situation is rapidly worsening, and the war losses are likely to have a serious effect on the war effort.

China has been forced to seek aid from foreign sources, and the increased debt is likely to place a burden on the Chinese economy.

VAST FINANCE PROBLEMS OF OUR GOVERNMENT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—The Government is facing a vast finance problem, according to the War Department, which estimates that the cost of the war will be approximately $1,500,000,000.

The Government has already borrowed more than $1,000,000,000, and it is estimated that more than $200,000,000 will be needed to meet the war expenses for the remaining months of the current year.

The Government is also facing the problem of how to provide the necessary funds without increasing the burden on the taxpayers.

The Government is considering different methods of financing the war, including borrowing from foreign sources, the issuance of war bonds, and increased taxes.

Where Allies Seized Vital Mines

Says they captured Japanese target at Rabaul.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Japanese today were threatened with an attack on the southeastern coast of the island of New Britain by American forces which captured the Rabaul airfield in the University of New Guinea late today.

The capture of Rabaul was announced in Sydney today by Mr. Downey, the Australian Minister for War, who said that Allied forces had occupied the airfield. The capture of Rabaul was described by Mr. Downey as a "magnificent" military achievement.

Mr. Downey said that Allied forces had occupied the airfield without serious interference, and that the capture of Rabaul was a "magnificent" military achievement.

British Indian Troops in Burma Train to Meet Von Thadden

These Indian troops, training for their coming, are typical of British Allied forces preparing in increasing numbers on borders of Japan-controlled French Indo-China for attacks that may soon unseat the French dominated empires, which serve to guard the rich, because of spy centers, inroads and intrigue, on the east coast.
