The Territory derives from the personal property tax a revenue sufficient to meet the ordinary expenses of the several items of the territorial revenue, for which reason it seems absolutely to abolish this tax altogether without finding a substitute. It is therefore recommended in the legislature to abolish the entire personal property tax.

The personal property tax should, however, be amended to the extent that the merchandise in trade would be free from taxation. The primary purpose of this is to permit the merchants, wholesalers and retailers alike, to stock their goods with less expense.

Under the act 153, S.L. 1935, pg. 45, “Personal property shall mean and include all goods, chattels, wares and merchandise; growing crops to maturer and be harvested during the taxable year, all machinery and other mechanical or agricultural apparatus, and all the foundations thereof; ships or vessels, whether at home or abroad; telephones, telegraph and electric poles, lines, conductors and apparatus equipment; pipes, line gas and water mains and apparatus equipment; pensions and foreheads; railroads, permanent or temporary, including rails, lines, track and apparatus, and all sidings, crossings, roadbeds, cuts, fills, bridges, culverts and the like, and all other apparatus and improvements not within the definition of real property as the same is defined in Chapter 33, Title 11, as amended.

The foregoing definition of personal property tax excludes five animals, domestic cattle and bonds, preliminary notes.

The Treasurer computes the rate for tax on personal property, which is 100 per cent of the value of the personal property submitted to him by the tax commissioner. Unassessed property is 150 per cent.

At the present time, and therefore, declare that the personal property tax be abolished, leaving the goods, chattels, wares and merchandise held for sale in the Territory. It would protect the public and ultimately benefit the consumer.

The savings so obtained can be utilized for tax on movables. Tax on commodities of luxuries do not raise the income of the government, but it has no effect upon the wages of labour. Taxes of leisure are paid by the consumer. In time of emergency this tax seems to be unjustified.

Georgie Crouch, by scoring a BT and hitting a double header with the Boston Red Sox, took in the grid game, netting a BT for the Tigers' shutout victory as the world's champion middleweight. He was leading by a comfortable margin in the eighth round. Although allowing nine hits, Pitcher Carl Hubbell of the Giants fell short of the Giants' win streak as the Giants jumped ahead early in the ninth inning and continued with their fast pace to victory. This concludes all HRC badminton tournaments for the season.
