Chairman Sam Spencer is a Honorary Chairman Along with Goldsmith, Chairman.

Chairman Sam Spencer of Hilo Electric Light Company, the Honorary Chairman of the Defense Savings Committee, has informed the committee that he has lost his position as a director in the Honolulu Electric Light Company, and that he is unable to continue as a member of the committee. He has therefore asked to be relieved from his duties as honorary chairman.

Goldsmith, who is also a director in the same company, has also indicated his inability to continue as a member of the committee, and has asked to be relieved from his duties as honorary chairman.

The committee has therefore decided to appoint two new honorary chairmen, to be named by the board of directors of the Hawaiian Electric Light Company. These chairmen will be responsible for the promotion of the defense savings campaign in the territory of Hawaii.

The committee has also decided to hold a meeting of the board of directors on the matter of the defense savings campaign, and to inform the members of the committee of the results of the meeting.

The committee has also decided to send a letter to the Governor of the Territory of Hawaii, enclosing a copy of the report of the meeting of the board of directors, and asking for his support in the promotion of the defense savings campaign.

FAMILY SCHOOL CLOSES

POST TOWNSEND, Wash. (UP)—Schools are open for the E. L. Cases family, and graduation of the family’s seventh child ended the reign of the one-room educational institution maintained exclusively for the Casaes.

The school has cost Jefferson county about $1,800 annually in recent years. Located in the remote fastnesses of the upper Olympic peninsula, it was reached either by a six-mile trail or by crossing a river by canoe.

No other family with children lived in the district, but there has always been at least one member of the Cases family in the school.

This year Vista Cases gave up to nearby Parks school for eighth grade work. Her teacher, Cella Trail, who has been a private tutor at the district’s expense for the Chassel children, must look for a new job. The first Cases child was graduated in 1921.

The school recently was visited. In place of the modern highway hazards, the children had to maintain a dignified pace for couriers when they went to school. Once a year the county superintendent visited the school. He stood on the banks of the swift-running stream and shouted to let Cases know he was there. If Cases could hear over the roar of the river, he would ferry the superintendent across.

Some of the bodies were less than 7 feet long by 4 feet wide, and sometimes several prisoners were placed in such compartments. Prisoners frequently were beaten, and one of the instruments of torture employed was known as "the cement bat."—a heavy cement weight placed upon the prisoner’s head.

HONOLULU: The Halawa Ikee defeated the all-star baseball team for charity yesterday, 6-2, at Kapiolani Park. The match drew a large crowd of baseball enthusiasts who came to see some of the best players in the country. The game was part of the annual baseball tournament in Hawaii, which is sponsored by the CIO (Congress of Industrial Organizations).

The game was evenly matched, with both teams putting up a good fight. The Halawa Ikee team, composed of some of the best players in Hawaii, managed to come out on top with a score of 6-2. The all-star team, consisting of some of the best players from other states, was not able to match the Halawa Ikee's performance.

The tournament, which includes various teams from different states, is held annually to promote the sport of baseball and to raise funds for charity. The Halawa Ikee team has been participating in the tournament for several years and has always managed to come out as the winner.

The tournament is not just about baseball, but also about fostering a sense of community and giving back to the community. The funds raised from the tournament are donated to various charitable organizations, which help support different causes.

The tournament is a great opportunity for baseball fans to come together and enjoy a day of fun and excitement. The games are played in beautiful outdoor stadiums with a stunning view of the mountains and the sea. The atmosphere is lively and energetic, with fans cheering on their favorite teams.

Overall, the tournament is a great event that not only promotes the sport of baseball but also raises funds for various charitable causes, fostering a sense of community and giving back to the community.
