While Ann McCarthy is doing her best for Army Recruiting in Cove Inn, Jerry Delaney is doing his best for Army Recruiting in the other half of the same town. By midnight, the two are so occupied that they have no time to wonder if they are doing anything but filling out forms, signing papers, or explaining how to become army material for the war.

Ann is a bit more than a bit excited. She has been at this for a while now, and she is beginning to feel that she might be able to make a real contribution to the war effort. She has been working hard, and she is beginning to feel that she might be able to make a real contribution to the war effort.
