TRAVELER, HO!
JEANNE BOWMAN

White Ann McCarty is waiting for her train, from Macon, to stop her near in the doors, and the scene makes us think of a dream. She has been made a widow by the accidental death of her husband, a merchant marine, who was killed at sea in the California war. Mrs. McCarty, a woman of strong character, is a frequent overnight passenger on the Bluebird Limited. She is in the penumbra, Array, during a storm which is no obstacle to her. She is a woman of unusual intelligence and beauty, and she plans to go back to her home in Macon, Georgia, where she lives with her two children.

A Woman as a Prayer

For Mrs. McCarty, the most important thing is to have her children with her. She has decided to take them with her, and has arranged for them to be taken care of by a friend in Macon.

HONOLULU MARKET NEWS

Agricultural Extension Service, University of Hawaii

(The prices and comments here are based on the basic wholesale prices to retailers on Tuesday, Oct. 21, at 8 a.m. To arrive at net returns growers should deduct commission, freight and insurance.)

Inland fruit and vegetable market appeared about steady at generally unchanged prices. Offerings were in moderate supply and were of fair to good quality. Demand appeared fairly good on most items.

Avocado prices were slightly advanced under increasing receipts and generally improved quality. Approximately 6 tons arrived from off-island last week with the bulk still coming from the big island. Good Maui avocados are expected to be on the market soon. Current prices are 7 to 8 cents per pound for the best and 5 to 6 cents, ordinary.

Papayas sold fairly steady at 2 to 2 1/2 cents per pound with few bids at 3 cents. Offerings were moderately heavy with quality fairly good to fair; demand appeared steady with undertone somewhat firm.

Watermelon offerings were light with the bulk from Kauai. Current prices are 8 to 9 cents per pound for the best and around 6 cents.

Asparagus market appeared greatly weakened under increased supplies and slower demand. Prices declined sharply in all accounts. Current market is 18 cents per pound, best, 15 cents on medium grade, and around 10 cents per pound for the ordinary.

Green Beans were rather scarce with prices high at 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 dollars per pound for string beans and around 6 cents per pound. Approximately 8 tons came in from off-island last week with the bulk from Maui.

Chinese Cabbage receipts totaled 6,000 pounds last week as compared with 2,000 pounds same week last year. Quality of these goods was very mixed, with only partly fair. Sales were noted at 70 cents per pound, unrested in volume.

Head Cabbage prices were varied with asks bringing $2.50 to $3.25 each, and crated cabbage commanding a round $4.00 per crate. About 6,000 lbs. came in from off-island, with approximately 80% originating on Hawaii. There were 6,510 lbs. of mainland cabbage unloaded last week with quality good and prices around 6 cents per pound.

Cucumbers were in moderate supply and market.

Vacation Attractions of Argentina

Mar del Plata, Best

Heading the list of Argentina’s attractions is the seaside resort Mar del Plata which plays host to a third of a million visitors each summer. The city is one of the fine and healthful and many of the capital’s mainline railway hotels. Over night from Buenos Aires, Mar del Plata boasts Tom Kennedy, the Playa Grande is the most popular and fashionable, and the Playa Britton is to be removed to make room for bathing pavilions.

As good an attraction in the same category is the hotel in the white city of Buenos Aires, La Plata. This building was completed a few years ago and has been visited by several million people on a trip to embark on a sightseeing excursion.

There are many hotels in Buenos Aires for tourists, including “grand cafes,” with their own bungalows and hotels, and all these hotels are equipped with splendid restaurants and piano bars.

Mar del Plata is situated on the northern coast of Argentina, but it is still a distance from the capital. By train one can reach the city in about 3 1/2 hours. From Buenos Aires, the train makes a long journey to Mar del Plata, but the trip is not only a pleasant one, but it is also an interesting one. The traveler will have a good opportunity to see the beauty of the country and the various places of interest.

The city is built on the banks of the Bahía de la Plata, with a fine harbor and a picturesque town.

The Hawaii Mainichi

Maimichi Sporituel

The Honolulu professional ring is attracting money, many fighters from the amateur ranks as well as professional fighters from Mainichi.

The most recent amateur to announce that he will join the pro card was 19-year-old Joe M. Inamine, who had already gained in the Honolulu amateur ranks.

He was one of the most outstanding fighters, being second to only David Manini, in the territory for the past two years. Inamine, along with Chicago twin Minnie, will enter the Catholic Youth Organization boxing team which participated in the Inter-City smoker with the Chicago YO.

Inamine will fight under Charlie Miller who is also managing. Joe M. Intamin will deal a bid yesterday to take part in the amateur tournament of the National AAA. He will probably compete in the middleweight class.

According to Manager Miller, Inamine will make his pro debut on November 15th at the U.S. Marine Coliseum. David Young will head the World Bantamweight Champion Lew Ellys, who has a record of 15-7-6-2.

Inamine's opponent is yet unknown, but Miller will probably have a big time to pick up his first pro win. For Inamine, however, he will probably pit against David Manini who has bowled over all opposition in his class since turning professional.

Dade and Inamine put up some slant bang boxes in the amateur ranks and their meeting in the pro ring should be a natural.

According to Promoter Angie Curtis, "Hawaii's fighters are starting to show the interest of mainland fighters by getting as many letters from managers asking for offers for their fighters in the big time boxing." It was also heard that Joe M. Inamine might be getting ready to try his hand at featherweight, the class who wants to show in the territory.

JOSB MERCADO, host of National AAU Amateur Flyweight champion, is now in Honolulu to help coach the CYO boxing team.

The world, while the Big Island for the past several years has easily captured and trained the Naahalie boxing team which is set to prove to be a valuable addition to the CYO boxing team.

One more team to be expected is the powerful National AAU Amateur Flyweight champion, Jiggs Chang, who is now in Honolulu to help coach the CYO boxing team.
