HEADLESS FOUR LIVE IN LEGEND

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 24 (UPU) — The last grave yard of Bald Head, where the shade of a lovely lady is said to stroll in the moonlight accompanied by three headless Spaniards, is the object of an exciting search launched by a troop of Gentlemen. Bald Head island... officially Smith's island... was the earliest settled point on the lower North Carolina coast. It lies at the mouth of the Cape Fear river, off Southport. The original settlers were pirates, and doubtless picked the island because of its strategic location as a barrier to the mainland trade routes.

America's first Charles Town was settled on Cope Four, six miles above Bald Head. But the pirates made things so hot for the settlers they moved their town to the Cooper river mouth in South Carolina and subsequently changed the name to Charleston.

Settlers eventually outwitted the pirates and drove them over to it. For a few years the island was a law-making community. Then the malnourished town of Smithville... south Southport... was formed, and gradually Bald Head's residents moved over to it.

For years the island was uninhabited, save for light-house keepers and Coast Guardsmen. The jungle reclaimed the cleared lands of the settlers. The gravestones with their name of the early settlers, homes and otherwise. Among the simplest handiworks was a more permanent work of red bricks. The bricks were brought from England with those for St. Phillips church at Orton's plantation, a few miles away.

The lady about the place was the widow of Bald Head supposed by the late Theodore Burr Atkins, daughter of Aaron Burr, and wife of an early South Carolina governor. Mrs. Atkins left Charleston on the ship Patriot, bound for New York. Shortly after a violent storm struck the Carolina and the vessel was lost. Mrs. Atkins was never heard of again. Many believed she was found on Cope Four shores off Bald Head and that she died there. It was said she was found all alone, including Mrs. Atkins, a regaling beauty of her day.

As to the three headless Spaniards, even legend is confused. It is generally supposed that they were pirates. Perhaps they had their heads in their combat with their fellow buccaneers. Anyhow, according to legend, they now roam on Bald Head with a troop of brave Roy Scouts band on their heels.

RIGHT AT HOME ON MOVING DAY

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UP) — Moving day for the McMillan family took about a week, but the McMillans were right at home in their new location. Forced to move their home a quarter of a mile from its original location, members of the family went about their regular tasks during the day, only stopping to anchor the house for the night.

Faller said that the Indians were finished as fast as the American League championship was concerned as early as April 1.

"From there on it was just bad," the pitcher said. "Some of those guys should have been fined $100 for the mistakes they made and I guess I made a few myself." On second thought, the left-hander admitted that he might have been rated according to starters. I should have paid the $100 bucks for my bad pitches and they should have paid in their salaries for all the things they did wrong."

Bob Faller avoided discussing his military future, but admitted that his hand is very much keeping him idle. However, with or without him, Faller believes that the Indians will finish in the third division next season.
