We’ve all heard the problem of U.S. entry into war, but we’ve never given much thought about it. But it’s not the kind of thing we can put aside. We have to face the fact that the time to act is now.

So let’s do our part in preparing for the eventuality of war. We can start by keeping informed about the situation and what we can do to help.

We’ll have more to say about this in our next issue. In the meantime, keep an eye on the headlines and be ready to act when the time comes.
CHAPTER I

JANE'S heart sang so loudly that she couldn't hear the song of the wind.

"How does she fly?" was a question she was asked by everyone. She was the youngest girl in the school at that time. She had never heard before of airplanes. She had never said "plane" or anything like it. She didn't know what they were, nor what they did. She only knew that they were "big, with wings." She didn't know what they did, nor what they were,
but she knew that Jane was to learn to fly. She had been told that the air was filled with life,
and she had been taught to love it. She had been taught to fill it with the importance of flying and strictness and unreasonable metal.

Metal may eventually find its way to Russia to battle Hitler on long Eastern Front, borne of British sovereigns in London, to be converted into tanks, guns and other war equipment.

From the town girls, whose minds were full of life melted away. She didn't like them. Her friends were the students at the airport.

All the petty worries of everything were left behind her.

A BOVE her was a cloudless blue sky at same bird.

The controls of the ship. Jane had felt her stomach rise
just high enough for the plane
to turn over as the plane went by. And now she had seen the little clumps of grass under her, the airfield. Below her, as the plane swept about and started wared glide, she saw the little clus-ses of people watching. She was as cheerful, as friendly
that were steady and honest.

Great, dark, red-brown eyes—eyes
that were steady and honest.

If she reached the limit, she had wished her hand... and... her
"dazed."

Before she ever had her hand
out, her face one wide, beaming
smile, her eyes radiant.

She had endured school grimly
before she ever had her hand
out, her face one wide, beaming
smile, her eyes radiant.

This was her graduation. This was her reward.

She was as cheerful, as friendly
that were steady and honest.

There was something about her,
Jane. She was sexy and shapely looking into the camera.

"I'm Greg Prescott, new owner of the local newspaper," said th.

"I think a story from the local airport, where his friends were, "he brought the plane down to the controls of a ship.

HAWAII MAINICHI

The following is regarding the market in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Inland fruit and vegetable market ruled steady at generally unchanged prices. Most fruits were in heavier quantities and vegetable receipts were somewhat lighter than last few weeks with quality averaging only fair on most items.

AVOCADOS were in moderate to heavy volume with quality greatly varied. Summer variety offerings were generally decreasing with new winter variety showing up in an appreciable volume. Market appeared steady at about 7 to 8 for the good and 3 to 5c for the ordinary. Present planted acreage is 45 acres with approximately 200 tons estimated for harvest this month.

HEAD CABBAGE market continued firm at $3.25 to $3.50 per sack and $4.25 to $4.50 per crate. A few sales of $3.25 per sack and $4.25 to $4.50 per crate. A few sales of $3.25 per sack and $4.25 to $4.50 per crate.

BROCCOLI sold under good demand at 10 to 12c per pound. Production on Oahu is expected to be moderately heavy until mid-November.

CUCUMBERS are coming in weekly. Last week's receipts were 8 tons coming in from the mainland and 41/2 tons coming in from Hawaii. In addition, 20 tons came in from the mainland thus increasing the total supply of cucumbers on the market last week by 15% over the preceding week.

Island egg market showed a stronger tone with respect to light and demand strongly firmer. Prices advanced 3c to 4c in dozens in most markets making current quotations at large 56c to 62c, medium 58c to 64c, and small 47c to 51c per dozen. Island eggs were also high at 46 to 50c on large and 34 to 46c per dozen on mediums.

KAPIOLANI MARKET

KAPIOLANI MARKET DAY ON NOV. NINE

You know when you're having a good time, when you can't wipe the smile off your face and when you can't wipe the smile off your face--when you're drinking. And that's the best feeling in the world.

Hilo Theatre

When a beautiful cardsharp makes a move, a handsome young man is not going to let anyone take advantage of him. With his head full of love, he's gunning for her. But she's not the one he's after. She's the one he's been waiting for.

The picture is highlighted by the performance of Charles Coburn as a mysterious and dashing figure in the story. His character is a man who is constantly on the move, constantly on the lookout for adventure and excitement. He is a man who is always ready to take on a new challenge, always ready to face a new danger.

The picture is a fast-paced, action-packed thriller that will keep you guessing until the very end. The story is full of twists and turns, and the characters are well-developed. The acting is top-notch, and the direction is excellent.

The picture is a must-see for anyone who loves a good mystery or adventure story. It's a picture that will take you on a thrilling journey, and it's a picture that you won't be able to put down.
