THE HOUSE of Representatives demanded on Friday the immediate removal of Ramon S. Guerrero, executive director of the Commonwealth Utilities Corp., in exchange for assistance in appropriating money to pay CUC's $4.8 million debt to Shell Marianas.

"Such removal must be substantive to the extent where his involvement with the utility agency (after his ouster) is strictly prohibited," Speaker Thomas P. Villagomez said in a letter to acting Governor Benjamin T. Manglona. "Only until this non-negotiable demand is met would the House of Representatives assist in the identification and appropriation of the requisite funds to meet CUC's current and old debts to the tune of $4.8 million."

The speaker gave the letter to Manglona during a meeting Friday to discuss CUC's problem with Shell. Senate President Juan S. Demapan also attended the meeting, which was called by Manglona.

Sources at the Legislature said the officials failed to agree on a solution to CUC's problem but agreed to meet again yesterday. None could be reached for comment.

Villagomez said CUC's financial problem "lies in the inability of the executive director to exercise prudent financial management of CUC's financial resources."

"We need not remind you that this is the third year in a row when we are asked to bail out CUC, which further goes to reflect the ineptitude of the executive director in managing the financial sector of the utility agency," Villagomez said.

"May I remind you that a $7 million deficit is inevitable and to encumber additional $4.8 million might have tremendous impact on the delivery of other essential services, government operations and the Public School System," he said.

Thus, he said the only way to re-establish solvency for CUC is for the administration to call upon the CUC board of directors to institute unconditional removal of the executive director.

Guerrero himself offered to resign last year but was not allowed to do so by the board.

Rep. Heinz S. Hofschneider, who chairs the Committee on Public Utilities, Transportation and Communication, earlier said CUC's problem was more of a $7 million and $4.8 million past obligations. "To be able to order diesel fuel, CUC must provide an irrevocable letter of credit, on Jan. 15 from a bank," Sen. David M. Sablan said.

The fuel supplier said it was unable to order diesel fuel for CUC because it was unable to obtain a letter of credit.

Shell has issued a notice of default to CUC following its failure to pay for fuel deliveries. CUC also failed to comply with a memorandum of agreement signed last year for monthly amortizations on $3.1 million past obligations.

The fuel supplier said it would terminate its contract with CUC on Jan. 29 if the debt is not paid. The contract expires in May.

Sablan, in an interview Friday, said CUC's current fuel inventory was expected to last until Feb. 10. On the other hand, Sablan said he needed "something" to keep CUC afloat.

State of emergency only option left?

By Nick Legaspi

The only way to raise money for Commonwealth Utilities Corp.'s $4.8 million debt to Shell Marianas is to declare a state of emergency and take out funds currently deposited in local banks, according to David M. Sablan, special assistant for planning and budget.

Martin Luther King Day

Dear Editor:

One Day Only

The New York Times calls it a holiday to the nation. The New Times calls it a loss to the world. "We lose the kindness, self-sacrifice and reparation of a great life," the Times said.

Young Americans still see Dr. King as a great leader, but a quarter and one percent of the young people in the United States know little about him.

And as a national holiday, Martin Luther King Jr. Day was "sad and inadequate," said The Washington Post.

"The nation weeps at the loss of Martin Luther King Jr. Day," said The New York Times. "But we also remember his legacy of love and hope for a better world."

"The legacy of King has not been fully realized," said The Washington Post. "There is still much work to be done to ensure that the principles of justice and equality that he fought for are realized in our society."

"King's dream of a world where love and respect reign supreme has not been fully realized," said The New York Times. "But we must continue to strive for a world where everyone is treated with dignity and respect."

CIVIL ACTION NO. 92-1526

Plaintiff,

DOES I, II, III, IV, and V, ROBERT W. WATSON

Defendants.

At the same time, there was a widespread movement in the beginning. It was Martin Luther King who in that year, 1963, in his "I Have a Dream" speech, in which he spoke of the need for equality and justice for all people, regardless of race or color. Dr. Martin Luther King was chosen as the leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, a group of thousands of African American churches and civil rights organizations. He was not only a great leader, but he was also a great man. He was the most important figure in the fight for racial equality in America during the civil rights movement.

Dr. Martin Luther King was born on January 15, 1929, in Atlanta, Georgia. He was the son of Martin Luther King Sr. and Alberta Williams Williams. He was the second of four children. His older sister was Christine and his younger brother was Andrew. King attended Morehouse College in Atlanta, where he studied economics and sociology. After graduating from Morehouse, he went on to attend Harvard University, where he received a master's degree in divinity.

In 1953, King became the pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in Montgomery, Alabama. He remained there for eleven years, during which time he became involved in the Montgomery Bus Boycott. The boycott was a successful campaign to desegregate public transportation in Montgomery, and it helped to bring national attention to the civil rights movement.

In 1959, King moved to Atlanta to become the pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist Church. He continued to be involved in civil rights work, and he helped to organize the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, a group of hundreds of churches and civil rights organizations.

King was assassinated on April 4, 1968, in Memphis, Tennessee. He was shot by a sniper as he stood on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel. The shooter was James Earl Ray, a former member of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

In 1964, King received the Nobel Peace Prize for his role in the civil rights movement. He was the youngest person ever to receive the Nobel Peace Prize.

In his "I Have a Dream" speech, King said, "I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live up to the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal.'"

King's dream continues to be a source of inspiration for millions of people around the world. His legacy lives on through the work of the civil rights movement and through the ongoing struggle for equality and justice.

Men with steady weight have less heart attack risks

By Paul Darrow

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Middle-aged men who kept their weight steady — even if they were overweight half a dozen times through the years — had roughly half the risk of a heart attack as those who gained weight repeatedly, researchers said Monday.

The study of tens of thousands of study reports suggests that people who lose weight five times or more are at risk of having a heart attack. The study showed that weight gain is associated with a higher risk of heart disease.

The study is the first large-scale report to suggest that weight loss is a more important factor in heart disease than weight gain.

Researchers from the University of California in San Francisco looked at data from the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute’s Multi-Ethnic Study of Atherosclerosis, a study of men and women aged 40 to 80.

They followed nearly 45,000 people for 13 years and found that those who lost weight had a 50% lower risk of heart disease than those who gained weight.

Further analysis showed that the benefits of weight loss were greatest in those who lost more than 15 pounds.

The researchers said the findings suggest that weight loss could be a key to preventing heart disease.

They also found that weight loss was associated with a lower risk of type 2 diabetes, which is also linked to heart disease.

The American Heart Association recommends that adults maintain a healthy weight through a combination of healthy eating and physical activity.

Today, January 18, 1993, we recognize the birthday of the Reverend Doctor Martin Luther King, Jr. In doing so, we look with sharper focus at his life and deeds and are reinspired by his dream of brotherhood and world peace.

We pause today to help keep his noble dream from fading.

We pause, too, to reevaluate our own individual responsibility for eliminating discrimination. Each of us must do our part to live out the meaning of: "We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all persons are created equal."

We, the many peoples who form our CNMI family, come from cultures which value love, understanding, respect, equality and fairness. In many ways the uniqueness of our social situation dictates that each of us serve as a leader for positive human relations and redeeming human rights.

All of us must restructure the way we conduct our daily lives remembering that liberty and freedom find their true meaning in community life-styles. No one of us is free or has liberty in our community as long as anyone of us suffers discrimination.

Let us join our hearts and hands today and everyday in love, understanding, respect and fairness. Let us recommit ourselves to each other as equals regardless of race, color, creed, religion, sex, age, or physical function.

Let's keep Martin Luther King Jr.'s dream alive.

Kan Pacific plans to build race track

By Gaynor Dumat-ol

KAN PACIFIC Saipan Ltd. is planning to build a motorcarts racing facility in Marpi that would cater to tourists as well as the local community.

Brian P. Reyes, consultant for Kan Pacific, said Friday a permit application for the plan was submitted to Coastal Resources Management Administrator Joaquin P. Villagomez last Jan. 4.

The facility will allow tourists and aged licensed motorcart racers powered by gasoline and maneuver hilly terrain through challenging race tracks near the Malesa Grand Prix, Reyes said.

Motorcarts racing, Reyes said, is a "thrilling experience for the young and old."

Game No. 5 ends in draw

SAN LORENZO DE EL ESCORIAL, Spain (AP) - Nigel Short of England and Jan Timman of the Netherlands played to a draw Saturday in the fifth game of the world chess candidates' final, leaving Short still in the lead.

The game ended when Timman, playing white, accepted Short's offer of a draw following the 46th move. It lasted 5 hours, 13 minutes.

Short now leads Timman 3-2, with victories counting one point and draws a half-point.

The first player to reach 7.5 points wins the match and 187,500 Swiss francs ($124,000), as well as the right to challenge reigning world champion Garry Kasparov for the world chess crown this summer.

The loser receives 112,500 Swiss francs ($76,000).

Some experts thought the 27-year-old Short relinquished a good chance for his third victory in as many games. After an early exchange of queens, Short took the lead at move 18 and appeared to have a winning position with his continued on page 8
