

VOLUME I, NO. 142

OCEAN FREIGHT RATES MUST BE LOWERED

Why Honolulu Can not Trade With Sound Cities.

RATES ALL FAVOR SAN FRANCISCO

COAL AND LUMBER THE ONLY PRODUCTS FROM THE NORTHWEST.

Tacoma Business Man Discusses Possibilities of Business Between Hawaii and Tacoma—Why Order for Salmon Could Not Be Filled.

(From the Tacoma Ledger, Nov. 3.)
Francis D. Cooper has returned from a visit to the Hawaiian Islands confident that the opportunities for trade offered there will be taken advantage of by this state and particularly Tacoma exporters and importers. Mr. Cooper has made a thorough study of the trade possibilities and believes with a fair freight tariff in existence a large part of the island trade can be diverted to Puget Sound. The present freight rates from the Sound are too high, he says. Washington salmon, flour and other food products cannot be shipped in competition with San Francisco staples at present rates. Mr. Cooper brought back orders for over 8,000 cases of salmon, but the orders could not be filled from the Sound market owing to the discrepancy in freight rates, which gives all the advantage to San Francisco. Coal and lumber are taken from the Sound because there is no other place where the market can be supplied. Speaking of the prospects for trade, Mr. Cooper said yesterday: "Business in the Hawaiian Islands has resumed normal proportions, the effects of the plague being about outgrown. There are immense stocks of every kind of commodity on hand, for instance 26,000,000 feet of lumber and 70,000 tons of coal, and other lines in proportion."

Out of the Market.

"Our coal and lumber are well known and largely used, but our foodstuffs are practically out of that market for the reason that transportation lines from California provide ample facilities at a rate of $3 per ton, while the rate from the Sound is $5 per ton. Our flour can be sold at 10 cents per barrel less than the same grade from California, but our freight rate is 20 cents per barrel higher. With the improved facilities which the new steamship lines from this port afford it will be possible to increase the already large shipments of salmon, beer, etc., and to ship bay and feed, brick, terra cotta pipe, butter, eggs, cheese and many other products of this state, and with a competitive rate on flour a very large business can be done in that line."

The Sugar Plantations.

"I have visited several plantations, and at 'Waialua,' which is conceded to be one of the finest properties on the islands, situated fifty-five miles from Honolulu on the Oahu railway, I was shown over the entire plantation. There is a very fine hotel on this property, built by B. F. Dillingham, the promoter of this and several other plantations. 'Waialua' consists of 26,000 acres, 8,000 of which are under cultivation and irrigated by pumps of 15,000,000 gallons capacity, which elevate water to the 500-foot level. I also visited the rolling mills where the cane is crushed and converted into raw sugar, and the stores and offices on the plantation."

Much Development Work.

"The developing of the new plantations is sending a large sum of money out of the islands annually. During the past eighteen months over $17,000,000 in shares of new plantations were sold in Honolulu alone, and of this amount, which is nearly all paid in capital, at least two-thirds is sent out of the country, either to the Eastern states for machinery and supplies, or being paid to Chinese and Japanese laborers, it is sent to the Orient for foodstuffs or to be hoarded away."

"This drain has resulted in a temporary money stringency, which will, however, be relaxed in the near future, for within the next four months more than $15,000,000 will be received in return for sugar already exported and within a short time the monthly assessments on shares will cease as the stock becomes paid up."

"Sugar is the staple resource of the islands; in fact, so profitable is it that paying coffee plantations are being ploughed up and planted to cane. Rice is grown to some extent, but not largely for export. There is more than $60,000,000 invested in the sugar industries of the Hawaiian islands, on more than half of which dividends are being paid varying from 1 to 5 per cent per month."

Improvements at Honolulu.

"In Honolulu large business blocks are under construction, and the Rapid Transit Company is about to begin the construction of the electric line, the material for which has been shipped from the Sound during the past few months. The Honolulu Iron Works is erecting a larger and finer plant than any in the states west of Pittsburg, and is preparing to erect coal bunkers on a large scale.

"The Oahu Railway & Land Company is also making very extensive improvements and is providing docks and warehouses with capacity to handle the entire product of the nine large plantations on its line of road, and bunkers to store and handle the product of the Roslyn mines."

"The shipping business of Honolulu has developed wonderfully. There were thirty-seven ocean-going vessels there at the time of my arrival, and during the plague there were over 100."

"There is an extensive market for the products of this state, which has been taken advantage of by several business houses, and with regular transportation at competitive rates a large business can be secured for Tacoma."

TO WATCH CLOSE OF NINETEENTH CENTURY

Red Cross Movement That Will Circle the Earth With Vigils and Raise Money for Humane Purposes.

An end-of-the-century watch meeting on a most gigantic scale has been inaugurated by the National Red Cross Society. It is to celebrate the close of the nineteenth century, and as a side issue raise a big fund for a worthy cause.

The following letter was received by Governor Dole on the subject:
The American National Red Cross, New York, Nov. 6, 1900.
Governor Sanford B. Dole, Honolulu, Hawaii.

The American National Red Cross proposes to hold simultaneously in fifteen thousand towns and villages of the United States on the night of December 31st, watch meetings to see the old century out and the new century in. The meeting at New York City will be held at Madison Square Garden, where will be a chorus of 1,000 voices. Sousa's band will be there and speeches will be made by noted orators.

Senator Dewey will be asked to preside. Every representative of the Red Cross in all countries and every diplomatic agent of the United States abroad have been working together. We will receive from forty to sixty words of greetings from all the monarchs and rulers, as well as from the leading minds of the country as to the progress and value of the nineteenth century. I refer to Hon. John Hay at Washington, relative to the enterprise.

We would be glad to forward to you a set of these greetings for a meeting to be held in Hawaii on the same conditions that they are to be held throughout America and to the same advantage, namely, that you give one-half of the gross receipts to some local charity of merit and remit one-half of the gross receipts to the American National Red Cross at Washington, D. C.

I very much desire to have your own greetings and those of half a dozen citizens of your state, and hope you will favor us with them by return mail. Please have the greetings in the hand writing of the party making them, as we intend offering the whole grand collection to the United States government for permanent preservation and exhibition in the new congressional library at Washington.

Very truly yours,
FRANK D. HIGBEE,
Director of the Twentieth Century Watch Meeting.

This letter was accompanied by an enclosure signed by Clara Barton, certifying that Frank D. Higbee had been appointed to oversee this work.

THANKSGIVING WITHOUT GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

Territorial Secretary Merely Gives Notice That Public Offices Will Not Be Open for Business.

The territorial executive will issue no proclamation of Thanksgiving. The Thanksgiving proclamations of the governors of the different states and territories of the union, while generally formal and perfunctory in a way, are nevertheless looked upon with interest and are considered important by the public. The Thanksgiving proclamation, whether from state, territorial or national executive, is always read and taken seriously by the American people. They would as readily expect an executive to overlook his annual message as to neglect the annual call to return thanks to the giver of all good for the blessings of the year.

Governor Dole performs the privilege by having the secretary insert the following advertisement in two papers:

EXECUTIVE NOTICE.

The president having proclaimed Thursday, November 23, a day of national thanksgiving, the governor directs that notice be given that all public offices will be closed on that day.

HENRY E. COOPER,
Secretary of the Territory.
Capitol, Honolulu, November 23.

When asked yesterday if Governor Dole would not issue a proclamation at all, Mr. Hawes, his private secretary, after consulting with the governor, came out and said: "No, there will be no proclamation."

Some erratic and spectacular governors of states have attracted national notice in the past by the startling nature of their Thanksgiving proclamations. But the most original genius among them is not known to have observed the custom entirely in the breach.

Tillman of South Carolina always served up his Thanksgiving gem on a pitchfork, and approached the job in more or less of a profane mood. Bloody Bridges Waite of Colorado always put plenty of color into his liberations, and Penoyer was more famous for his Thanksgiving proclamations than for his acts as governor of Oregon.

Governor Dole has passed up a great opportunity.

HAWAIIAN RELIEF SOCIETY.

Splendid Financial Showing of Useful Charitable Association.

The annual meeting of the Hawaiian Relief Society was held yesterday at the home of the president, Mrs. S. C. Allen. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. S. C. Allen, president; Mrs. James Campbell and Mrs. Robert Lewers, vice-presidents; Mrs. Abraham Fernandez, treasurer; Mrs. J. F. Bowler, secretary; Mrs. E. S. Cunha, Mrs. George W. Beckley, Miss Agnes McIntyre, Mrs. Jos. Nawahi and Miss Peabody, directors. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $3,000 in the bank. Twenty indigent families are being cared for at the present time by the society.

The Hawaiian Relief Society was organized in 1895, when Honolulu was visited with the cholera scourge. The work of the society has been characterized by good management since its foundation.

Talk on Constitution.

The Rev. D. W. Westervelt will address the Triangle Club at the Y. M. C. A. hall next Monday night on "The Constitution of the United States." All members of the Young Men's Christian Association and their friends are invited to be present.

Musical Recital Tonight.

Miss Griswold's musical recital at the Hawaiian Opera House this evening will open promptly at 8 o'clock. Miss Griswold especially requests all persons arriving after the recital has begun to remain standing in the rear of the building until the conclusion of the number being given. A short pause will be given by Miss Griswold between each of the three opening numbers on the program to permit late arrivals to be seated without disturbing the rest of the audience. This pleasing innovation will be thoroughly appreciated by people who attend recitals for the pleasure of listening to good music.

MORE BUBONIC PLAGUE CASES AT SAN FRANCISCO

The Sacramento Bee of Wednesday, November 7th, says:
The Bee has information from San Francisco that two cases of bubonic plague were discovered there on November 2d, a mother and child, both dying at 802 Dupont street. Another case was reported from Children's Hospital on November 5th.

FOR A CITY CHARTER.

Proposal for a Mass Convention to Push the Matter.

"There should be a meeting of say adopted as soon as possible there is not the slightest doubt," said John Emmelhuth, of the dominant political party yesterday.

"It is the duty of all citizens who are interested in seeing a good one adopted to help prepare one before the legislature meets."

"There should be a meeting of say thirty citizens to discuss the matter. All classes of interests ought to be represented, so that the discussion may be thorough. If the opponents of a charter and others who do not take an active interest in seeing that we have one hold back, they will have only themselves to blame if a charter is finally adopted which they do not approve."

"That some kind of a charter will be adopted is settled. The thing now is for all to help in getting the best one possible. Already some are being prepared. It would be a good idea, too, if the registrar of voters would help in doing so, to have a sort of informal election and allow the whole public of the district of Honolulu to select men to frame a charter."

Mr. Emmelhuth promises that the independent forces, for which he claims some authority to speak, propose to bring the matter before a mass convention at the very earliest date.

MRS. MINER AND CHILD ENTITLED TO SUPPORT

Circuit Court Reverses Opinion Previously Expressed.

BASED ON TEN COMMANDMENTS

LEGAL CONSTRUCTION DEDUCED FROM COMPARISON TO SCRIPTURAL DECREE.

Attorney Silliman Takes a Glimpse Into the Court Records of Ex-Judge Magoon—Several Witnesses Testify Against the Doctor.

The court decided yesterday that Mrs. Rose Miner will be entitled to alimony and her child entitled to support at the hands of Dr. Frank Leslie Miner in the event that a divorce is granted on the ground of extreme cruelty.

This is a reversal of a decision on an opinion previously delivered by the court. At one time the court called it a decision, near the border line of conviction, at other times an opinion; but whichever it was, the present decision amounts to a reversal.

The other notable events of the divorce trial were the testimony of Mrs. Rosa, a Portuguese seamstress; Mrs. Blackman, Mrs. Frank Damon, Mrs. Miner and an intellectual attempt to introduce the testimony of Mrs. Wilson of the Maternity Home.

The reading of a decision of former Judge Magoon was another matter of considerable interest.

Mr. Silliman, for the plaintiff, made the only argument of consequence in favor of the granting of alimony and support. He said it was an equity proceeding fully authorized by numerous citations which he showed up to good advantage. The letter of the law here is that alimony is not allowable for divorce on any grounds but "adultery or other offenses amounting thereto." Mr. Silliman said the defense had based its arguments upon a statute that had been repealed four years ago. He drew several contrasts between husbands of wealth and grass widows of poverty, and read a number of authorities to sustain his contention that divorce statutes should invariably be construed liberally and equitably. He read an instance where a woman married, her husband tired of her the next day, provoked her to get a divorce. She secured relief and so did he. Should a man like that escape paying alimony? asked the attorney.

Mr. Silliman then, in a sort of peroration, poured a few drops of different kinds of metaphor into a bowl, shook them up nicely but not gently, and toasted his admirers with the following delicious cocktail:

"It is the duty of the court to disperse the chaff from the wheat, let in the light of day and the germ will sprout and the fullness of daylight will shine upon it." This in his opinion, would constitute a fair piece of equity, to put the matter right.

Mr. Silliman decided the advantage gained by this decided hit by citing an eminent local authority in the form of a decision by "no less prominent a jurist than J. Alfred Magoon," who as judge of the Second Circuit of Hawaii had granted alimony of $18 a month to the wife in the case of Lang vs. Lang, where the ground for divorce was extreme cruelty, and the decision was affirmed in toto by the supreme court. Sad to relate, Mr. Magoon had just the evening before delivered himself of a most convincing argument against alimony on that very ground in the Miner case, but this villainous reference to a man's past record received a sufficient reply—that is, sufficient to Mr. Magoon, for he told the court very promptly and very nicely that no one raised the alimony question in the Lang case. The libel for divorce with all of its prayers went through without a question. He did not think the supreme court had the alimony feature mentioned either.

"Are we to bring the judges in here and ask them what they meant by the decision?" asked the judge from the bench.

Mr. Hatch uttered a few words in the line that the supreme court controls the lower court and Mr. Thompson closed the panorama of argument by saying that the statute said to be repealed four years ago was only repealed in part, and counsel asked the court to repeal the other part. The noon hour was at hand as the attorney sat down and the court announced that the decision would be given at 2 o'clock.

The decision was something of a character sketch of the personnel and daily life of the ancient ecclesiastical courts that have left their imprint upon the marriage relation and its dissolution. The medieval judge could make law; the modern one cannot. The present judge must only construe the law, and the question was whether liberally or not. The question was to place the intent of the legislature in using the words, "or other offense amounting thereto."

The court next said that it would construe the meaning of the words by reference to the ten commandments, which prohibit several sins without saying that one is in any way greater than the other. Covetousness, according to that rating, would be an offense amounting to adultery, yet it is not ground for divorce or alimony. The court went on to say that the statutes should be strictly construed, but nevertheless sensibly. The objection to alimony was overruled.

The taking of testimony was resumed by first putting Mrs. Wilson, a nurse at the Maternity Home, on the witness stand. Before she hardly had time to venture a reply to the first question or two, Mr. Thompson demanded to know the object of her testimony. Mr. Silliman explained that it was to show that the doctor is addicted to violence and assault; that the doctor would not hesitate to lay hands on a woman, whether stranger or not, and that the real purpose was to show that he is not a fit person to have the care and custody of the young daughter. The court would not allow the testimony.

Mrs. Rosa, a Portuguese woman who has done some sewing for Mrs. Miner, told of a quarrel last August between the doctor and his wife. She heard the doctor talking in a loud voice and heard the woman scream and cry. The witness described the torn garments of Mrs. Miner, saying there were rents in the sleeve and skirt.

Mrs. Lackland told about being called in by Gladys Miner after the mother had been beaten or kicked, and of seeing the bruise on the arm. She proved to be a most important witness, for she was at the Hawaiian Hotel when the doctor came and shook the door of Mrs. Miner's room three times and called that he would shoot Gladys. The witness said that Gladys had in the wardrobe and that one door of the room was barricaded with a bureau and the other was locked. The witness had also been at the Occidental Hotel in San Francisco when the Miners were there in November, 1899, and knew a little about the trouble that took place at that time. She also was with Dr. and Mrs. Miner at the races in this city in June, 1899, and heard the doctor tell his wife that if she could not get a more stylish dress he would take her money and dress her himself.

The court asked the witness a few questions and thanked her for her testimony at the close.

Mrs. Frank Damon told of her home being thrown open to Mrs. Miner after the assault of 1898 and of the bruises on her body. The witness told of an effort of Mr. Magoon after the present separation to engage her and her husband to intercede for a reconciliation between the doctor and his wife. Mr. Magoon gave the witness to understand that he was not in the case, and that attorney later asked the witness questions for twenty-five minutes, more or less, to rightly align that occurrence as to his sincerity. At any rate, Mrs. Miner declined absolutely to be reconciled.

Mrs. Miner was recalled and told about the property held by the doctor. She said that at the time of the marriage he had very little, perhaps less than $5,000, in property, while now the home is worth $45,000 or $50,000. He also has property in San Francisco, land in California, stock in a local bank and shares in some two or three plantations. She said his income is about $12,000 a year.

Mrs. Miner testified that the result of their family has been nervousness and constant fear. She said his language in the presence of the young daughter was most obscene, and that as a wife she had been absolutely true. The court questioned her as to her future plans, and her main hope, she says, dwells in the education of her daughter. In response to a question as to her social station, she said her society was of a mixed nature. She has both married and unmarried sisters abroad, and a brother in Honolulu, but with the last she is not on good terms.

Mrs. Miner's cross-examination had begun and was under way when court arose at 5 p. m.

THE CASE WENT ON UNTIL PAST MIDNIGHT

Judge Humphreys held an evening session which lasted until after 12 o'clock. The question of reconciliation came up, but Mrs. Miner when interrogated by the court on that point said she did not think there could be any reconciliation. Asked if she was willing to let the father have the child, she declined to say one word about the child for the present.

The cross-examination was then resumed. The entire direct evidence was traversed and retraversed, and then once again, but the witness was not broken down or shaken in her testimony in chief. She told over and over again the same pitiful tale of cruelty alleged to have been received at the hands of her husband, the whippings and cuffs to which her child was subjected, and the humiliation that her husband heaped upon her in his alleged outbursts of passion, in which mood she likened him to a madman. She went into great detail under Mr. Thompson's close questioning and it was very dirty family linen that the Miners hung out to public view.

She declared that these avalanches of wrath fell upon her in consequence of the most trivial causes, from a badly cooked egg or bowl of mush to the training of the little one that should have served as an olive branch of peace in the family, and from the accidental breaking of a cheap jumping jack to the proper or improper management of the household expenses and the pin-money which Mrs. Miner says she ought to have had and didn't often get. According to her testimony, violence, verbal and physical, was so common in the household that she lived in constant fear and trembling. Some she would gloss over; others she couldn't.

An effort was made to develop what transpired when she visited Attorney Hatch for purposes of consultation, but as it was a professional visit Judge Humphreys said she need not answer the questions, and repeated efforts to get out the same facts by "whipping the devil around the stump" aroused the ire of the judge, whose emphatic censure put a stop to this line of questions.

The family ghost peeped out of family account books, was dragged out of the child's crib and followed into the husband's safe, to which the wife has not had access of recent years. The wife swore that Dr. Miner had assaulted her with all sorts of implements and pelted her with an assortment of missiles not usually employed as projectiles. Among others she enumerated cooked carrots from the table and ice-water in glasses and pitchers. She said he had beaten her with his fists, kicked her with his generous feet, with shoes and without, in bed, about the house and in the public streets. He had pounded her over the head with a fishing rod or long piece of bamboo, stripped her to her waist and thrashed her, and used a curved flesh brush in a way it was never meant to be used, by beating her black and blue with the wooden side of it. The foul language which she declared her husband indulged himself in only too frequently was awful and cannot be reproduced in a family journal like The Republican.

The cross-examination developed two new facts: First, that there are two kinds of angry faces, the red and the white, and that Dr. Miner belongs to the white variety; and, secondly, that his mother was incarcerated in an insane asylum in Canada. Mrs. Miner rather leaned to the idea that when the doctor gives rein to his anger he is not just level-headed himself. It is not very clear what the defense is going to do with all this information, now that it developed it, unless it was laid as the foundation for impeachment.

When asked if she had apprised Dr. Miner of her intention of leaving him and taking her daughter with her, Mrs. Miner promptly said:

"No; if I had I would probably be dead."

Many of the details of the unlively family life came out, names of other persons were dragged in, but the suspicions that originally brought "criminals and bitterness into this home were subsequently often found wholly unwarranted, and all such names are here suppressed that no injustice may be done to any one.

The case will go on at 10 o'clock this morning.

NEW TEMPLE OF BUDDHA.

Dedication Exercises Will Take Place Next Sunday Morning.

The dedication of the new temple of Buddha will be the event of the day in this city next Sunday. The building is a costly one, representing an expenditure of some $10,000. At 10 o'clock in the morning the worshippers of that branch of religion, dressed in black, will form in a sort of martial array at the British consulate, on King street, and the line of march will be on King, Beretania, River and Vineyard streets, with Head Priest Imamura at the head. The ceremonies at the temple will begin at 11 o'clock in the main auditorium, and a ceremony of thanksgiving will take place at 2 o'clock. Mr. Imamura will deliver a sermon and H. Matsumoto, K. Arai, U. Hirokane and C. Uchida will follow with brief addresses.

Following will be the program: Buddhist hymn by young Buddhists. Opening address by Head Priest. Address by a representative of the priest of the church. Address by Miss Herbert and several Japanese. Address by members of the chapel. Addresses by members of the Young Men's Buddhist Club. Addresses by members of Buddhist temples on the other islands. Song by the congregation.

Morning, afternoon and evening will be given to thanksgiving exercises.

GREAT SEND-OFF FOR DELEGATE-ELECT WILCOX

Robert W. Wilcox, delegate to congress, will leave for the mainland on the 20th on the Rio de Janeiro. On landing at San Francisco he will hurry on to Washington and will arrive there a few days after the convening of congress. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Wilcox and D. Kalaukiani, Jr., his secretary.

The independents will endeavor to revive some of the noise of the campaign on the evening of November 28, for Wilcox's benefit. Plans are being laid for a big torchlight procession, after which there will be a mass meeting in the ruins of Kaumakapili church.

Jas. K. Kaulia will give a luan to Wilcox on Thanksgiving night at his home in Kapalama. Kaulia is one of the independent leaders and will see that the successful candidate is given a proper send-off the evening before he sails for Washington.

Football at Punahou.

There will be a game of football on Saturday afternoon between the Maile Himaas and Punahou Varsity teams at the Oahu College grounds at 3:30 o'clock.

HAALELEA LAWN FAIR OF LADIES AID SOCIETY

The Women Work Hard to Raise Church Debt.

REFRESHMENTS AND FANCY WORK

HAWAIIAN MUSIC AND BRILLIANT ILLUMINATION ATTRACT A LARGE CROWD.

Proceeds of the Occasion Will Make a good start in reducing Church Debt Which the Women Have Pledged themselves to Pay.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church held a brilliant and successful fair yesterday afternoon and evening on the Haalelea Lawn. In the afternoon the place was visited by large numbers of people. The Hawaiian Quintette Club furnished excellent music and the attractive booths of refreshments and merchandise claimed attention and liberal patronage.

When darkness came the grounds were brilliantly illuminated. The Hawaiian Electric Company had gratuitously wired the place and hundreds of incandescent lights sparkled among the trees and shrubbery. On these wires were also hung numerous Japanese lanterns, giving novelty to the illumination. There were numerous booths stationed about the grounds in which were displayed a great variety of saleable things. The merchandise booth was conducted by Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Pearson. There was everything on sale from a $10 piece of furniture to a paper of pins. The stock of merchandise was worth several hundred dollars and represented the liberality of the Honolulu merchants. The display of Hawaiian curios, presided over by Mrs. Moore and Miss Ripley, caught the eyes of the visitors and did a thriving business. Most of the articles were collected by Mrs. Stone on her recent tour of Hawaii. A splendid display of fancy work was a prominent feature of the fair. These goods were under the management of Mrs. Bachelor, Mrs. Lyle and Mrs. Coyne.

Mrs. Howard presided over a fine collection of toys and children's novelties. The Japanese bazaar was a favored resort of the women. Tea was served in pretty china and each customer was given a dainty teacup to carry away as a souvenir. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Kerns dispensed the fragrant tea. Confectionery and lemonade was served by Mrs. McAllister. Coffee, sandwiches and Boston's favorite breakfast food were sold by Mrs. Clara Petrie. Ice-cream and the best cake in town were served by Mrs. Bemrose. Home cooking was for sale by Mrs. Bryan.

The Ladies' Aid Society, with a leader in the capable president, Mrs. Clara Petrie, has undertaken to raise a big fraction of the debt which stands against the Methodist Episcopal Church. This annual fair was made the occasion of a special effort, and when the footings are made it will be found that the aid society has made a fine beginning. Early last evening the sales had reached the $500 mark and the liberal handed crowd that was present and patronizing the counters gave good promise of making it an even thousand.

A large amount of unsold goods will be left over. It is the plan of the society to have a Christmas sale, when it is thought the entire lot may be easily sold. The concert by the Hawaiian band in the grounds of the hotel across the street made the Haalelea Lawn a doubly delightful place to spend the evening.

MEAT FAMINE THREATENED.

The Visible Supply Here is Quite Rapidly Fading Away.

Unless the Kilaua Hou arrives with bullocks from Hawaii today there is a meat famine staring Honolulu consumers in the face. The cold storage supply is almost exhausted and the demand is at present very large for meat. The change in the date of the arrival of the new steamers with a large supply of refrigerated meats from the coast has knocked out the calculations of the butchers, and so there will have to be some very careful handling of the visible and immediate supply of beef cattle to tide over the scarcity. As it was in former years, Kauai, Maui and Oahu all raised sufficient meat for their own consumption. Now that nearly all the available grazing land on the islands mentioned has been taken up for cultivation of sugar, the greater part of the meat used is brought from Hawaii. The big island is also becoming a great meat eater and is having its lands full to supply its own consumers and the markets of the other islands.

Maui Voters Deceived.

Delinquent taxpayers on Maui are reported to be very numerous. The natives on that island have been led to believe by campaign orators that the penalty for non-payment of personal taxes will be but $1.

YESTERDAY WAS a duller day along the front than an ordinary Sunday. With the exception of the C. F. Sargent at the old fish-market and the Albert at the Oceanic wharf, there was no deep water vessel alongside any of the town wharves.

The Moana. SYDNEY, Nov. 2.—The Union Company's steamer Moana has gone up to dock for an overhaul, prior to entering the New Zealand and intercolonial service.

There Are Others. Dame Rumor hath it that F. C. Hanson is not the only one out for the job of U. S. collector of internal revenue. It is said that Clarence Crabbe, senator-elect; E. R. Hendry, secretary of the republican territorial central committee, are also casting loving glances on the billet.

Coal from Australia. The annual shipping review issued by the Daily Commercial News and Shipping List of Sydney shows that Hawaii's principal trade with the Colonies is in the coal business. During the year the Colonies, according to the annual, have shipped 1,938,129 tons of coal. Of this amount Hawaii imported 185,956 tons, 15,966 of which went to Kahului.

Big Jim's Catch. Big Jim Kupiha, the turnkey at the police station, got wind of the whereabouts of three of the deserting sailors from the British ship Yola, and he gathered them in and locked them up at the police station. He notified the captain of the vessel and the men will be put aboard when the Yola is ready to sail. The men were found out at Kailahi, and instead of making a fight they were meek as lambs when Jim pounced on them.

To Restore the Constitution. Massachusetts women have finally taken definite steps toward the restoration of the old war frigate Constitution, that is lying rotting in the waters at the Charleston Navy Yard. A preliminary survey, made under government direction some time ago, when the matter was first broached, estimated the cost of rebuilding the ship and placing her in the water as she was in the days of "Don't give up the ship" to be $400,000. Even the necessity of raising such a sum did not faze the "Daughters of 1812," a Massachusetts society, that has undertaken the work. Congress having refused to do it. Last week a meeting was held on the old hulk, and the women, 200 or more, who attended selected a lot of committees and took the preliminary steps to a canvass for the necessary funds. These, it is hoped, may be raised wholly within the State of Massachusetts, so that the reconstructed frigate may be a fixture in the waters of Boston Harbor, once she is fixed so that she may be floated. There is talk of making the Constitution a schoolship, on which Boston boys may be trained for the merchant service. Rear Admiral Sampson, Secretary Long, Senator Lodge and Congressman Roberts have specially interested themselves in the restoration of this famous old vessel, and expect to assist the ladies in arousing the interest of the historical and patriotic societies in which Massachusetts abounds in the plan to make the work one for the State to carry out without outside aid.

For Quick Dispatch. The sugar conveyor at the end of the old railroad wharf is being torn down by the company and will soon be a thing of the past. Plans for the erection of a big new conveyor are made and the parts of the big machine are here, having arrived in the Zealandia from the coast. Under the new arrangement it will be possible to load five sailing vessels at a time with sugar. It is estimated that sugar can be handled easily at the rate of ten thousand bags in nine hours, and a vessel employing four gangs of men can load in two working days. The conveyor will be worked by electricity and is being put in on account of the big steamers that are working to arrive here. It will be in working order about the first of the year and will therefore be ready to handle the enormous crop of 1901, expected from Wailua, Ewa, Kahuku, Oahu and Honolulu plantations. New arrangements for handling the immense quantities of coal soon to begin to arrive here for the use of the railroad and the plantations on this island are not yet complete, but the railroad officials hope to devise some scheme for the loading of the coal cars that will greatly facilitate the work.

There Are Others. Dame Rumor hath it that F. C. Hanson is not the only one out for the job of U. S. collector of internal revenue. It is said that Clarence Crabbe, senator-elect; E. R. Hendry, secretary of the republican territorial central committee, are also casting loving glances on the billet.

Coal from Australia. The annual shipping review issued by the Daily Commercial News and Shipping List of Sydney shows that Hawaii's principal trade with the Colonies is in the coal business. During the year the Colonies, according to the annual, have shipped 1,938,129 tons of coal. Of this amount Hawaii imported 185,956 tons, 15,966 of which went to Kahului.

Big Jim's Catch. Big Jim Kupiha, the turnkey at the police station, got wind of the whereabouts of three of the deserting sailors from the British ship Yola, and he gathered them in and locked them up at the police station. He notified the captain of the vessel and the men will be put aboard when the Yola is ready to sail. The men were found out at Kailahi, and instead of making a fight they were meek as lambs when Jim pounced on them.

To Restore the Constitution. Massachusetts women have finally taken definite steps toward the restoration of the old war frigate Constitution, that is lying rotting in the waters at the Charleston Navy Yard. A preliminary survey, made under government direction some time ago, when the matter was first broached, estimated the cost of rebuilding the ship and placing her in the water as she was in the days of "Don't give up the ship" to be $400,000. Even the necessity of raising such a sum did not faze the "Daughters of 1812," a Massachusetts society, that has undertaken the work. Congress having refused to do it. Last week a meeting was held on the old hulk, and the women, 200 or more, who attended selected a lot of committees and took the preliminary steps to a canvass for the necessary funds. These, it is hoped, may be raised wholly within the State of Massachusetts, so that the reconstructed frigate may be a fixture in the waters of Boston Harbor, once she is fixed so that she may be floated. There is talk of making the Constitution a schoolship, on which Boston boys may be trained for the merchant service. Rear Admiral Sampson, Secretary Long, Senator Lodge and Congressman Roberts have specially interested themselves in the restoration of this famous old vessel, and expect to assist the ladies in arousing the interest of the historical and patriotic societies in which Massachusetts abounds in the plan to make the work one for the State to carry out without outside aid.

For Quick Dispatch. The sugar conveyor at the end of the old railroad wharf is being torn down by the company and will soon be a thing of the past. Plans for the erection of a big new conveyor are made and the parts of the big machine are here, having arrived in the Zealandia from the coast. Under the new arrangement it will be possible to load five sailing vessels at a time with sugar. It is estimated that sugar can be handled easily at the rate of ten thousand bags in nine hours, and a vessel employing four gangs of men can load in two working days. The conveyor will be worked by electricity and is being put in on account of the big steamers that are working to arrive here. It will be in working order about the first of the year and will therefore be ready to handle the enormous crop of 1901, expected from Wailua, Ewa, Kahuku, Oahu and Honolulu plantations. New arrangements for handling the Sailor Bound Over.

In the police court yesterday, Manu, a native sailor on the James Mabee, was bound over to the circuit court on the charge of assault with a weapon on Kaomea, a fellow sailor. The defendant waived examination. Tuesday night the two men quarreled, which led to a little knife play on the part of Manu.

Admiral Gherardi's Gallant Son.
[From the Philadelphia Record.]
Walter R. Gherardi of the United States navy and the schoolship Saratoga, which arrived in port from a four months' cruise last week, may, without hyperbole, be called a hero, for he has three gold medals that were given him for saving lives. The young man is a son of Admiral Gherardi. He is, unlike his father, six feet two inches in height and strongly built, in these respects taking after his mother's family, which is notable for its large men. He got his first medal aboard the Maine, when he went out in charge of a boat to pick up a drowning seaman. The heavy seas caused and broke the boat to pieces, but Gherardi saved the sailor single-handed. He leaped overboard after a man to win his second medal, and the third was given him for saving lives during the memorable Porto Rico hurricane. He was then in charge of a rescue gang and worked so hard and gallantly and was for so long a time in the water, that he was seriously ill afterward, and it was feared that his health was quite broken. Lieutenant Gherardi is now, however, as vigorous and bold as ever.

HIS DUTIES MANDATORY.

Should Sheriff Andrews of Hawaii attempt to issue a certificate of election to H. L. Holstein, as it would appear he contemplates doing, Dr. N. Russell should immediately swear out a warrant for his arrest and push the prosecution with the utmost vigor. Neither Sheriff Brown nor any other official has any power to go behind the returns of the election. The law explicitly says:

"Immediately upon receiving the returns of election from the several boards of inspectors of any election district, the Marshal or Sheriff, as the case may be, shall immediately tabulate such returns and ascertain the result of the election in such district. The number of persons to be elected receiving the highest number of votes in any election district shall be declared elected, and the Marshal or Sheriff, as the case may be, shall immediately deliver to the persons elected certificates of election."

Nothing could be plainer than this. It is explicit and mandatory. The sheriff has no power or authority to do anything but issue the certificate to the candidate receiving the highest number of votes. As to whether or not the candidate was legally placed upon the ballot is none of the sheriff's business, or none of the business of any other official of the territory. That is a matter for the courts to decide and for the legislature to determine. If Mr. Holstein feels that he is entitled to the seat in the senate instead of Dr. Russell he may proceed to establish his contest by asking the court for a writ of mandamus restraining the sheriff from issuing the certificate, and on the refusal of the court to grant the writ, which it would have to do under the Organic Act, he would then go before the senate with his contest and ask that body to seat him instead of Dr. Russell. The Organic Act expressly declares that "each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members."

For Sheriff Andrews or any other official to issue a certificate of election to Mr. Holstein instead of to the candidate on the ticket receiving the highest number of votes would be an attempt at nullifying the election which should result in his speedy indictment and swift infliction of the most severe penalty known to the law.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATIONS.

The setting aside of a day for the giving of thanks to the Creator for the manifold blessings of the year was inaugurated in America by the Pilgrim fathers of New England, from whom are descended many of the old families of Hawaii. President Lincoln issued his first Thanksgiving Day proclamation in 1862, calling upon the people to return thanks to the giver of all gifts for the favors shown the nation and for the repulse of the Confederate armies at Antietam. Since that time no president has failed to issue a Thanksgiving proclamation every year. Some of the early presidents of the nation issued proclamations of this character near the beginning of the century, but it was not until Lincoln's time that it became a regular thing.

Immediately following the civil war Thanksgiving was but little observed in the Southern states, but in recent years it has become almost as great a holiday in the South as in New England. So popular has the day become as the years rolled on that for the last fifteen or twenty years, and possibly longer, every governor of each and every state and territory in the union has followed the issuance of the president's proclamation by a similar one issued by the governor calling upon the people to assemble in their respective places of worship and return thanks to the Giver of All for the bounties of the year. This has become such an acknowledged custom that for any governor to neglect it would bring upon him not only censure but ridicule and contumely.

The freak governor of Oregon, of a few years ago, Penoyer, tried to make a spectacle of himself by appointing a different day from that named by President Cleveland, but with this exception no governor of any state or territory has tried to make himself notorious by any eccentricities in the issuance of a Thanksgiving proclamation.

It remains for the governor of the baby Territory of Hawaii to refuse to issue a Thanksgiving proclamation and to ignore the day. It remains for the governor of this territory, whose first white settlers were missionaries from the bleak coast of New England, and who would as soon have thought of renouncing their religion as to fail to observe Thanksgiving Day, to make himself conspicuous among all the governors of the forty-five states and six territories of the union, excluding the Philippines, by failing to issue a Thanksgiving proclamation.

The people can judge for themselves as to the stamp of patriotism and love of country and its customs that animates the breast of Sanford B. Dole.

In determining upon the creation of a city charter for Honolulu the independent members of the legislature are carrying out the platform pledges of not only their own party but of every party in Hawaii. It is well that the charter as now contemplated will separate the city election from the territorial. This will ensure the elimination in this campaign of much of the bitterness engendered in the territorial elections when party policies are at stake, and will tend to better government for the city. Various members of the legislature are now at work on a charter suitable to the needs of this growing city, and the suggestion of The Republican that a meeting should be held at which prominent men representing the various business and commercial interests of the city should be appointed to assist in the work ought to be carried out. Mr. Emuleth, who is in charge of the work on behalf of the members of the legislature, has expressed himself to this paper as anxious to have the help and support of such a committee in preparing a charter.

Oh, yes, The Republican is going straight to the boneyard—according to its morning contemporary and a lot of street barkers. A little more than one week ago it was going to be sold to the democrats, and the latest street rumor, rolled as a sweet morsel under the tongue, is that it will die in a short time. Yes, indeed. Its advertising columns look like it was on its last legs, don't they? Extensive contracts for new advertisements were made by the advertising man yesterday in addition to a good many dollars' worth of transient business coming in over the counter. Oh, yes, The Republican is going to suspend, and stop paying its bills and all—when he Pall drops into the sea.

How pleasant it is for telephone patrons to have "Central" break in, in the midst of a conversation between subscribers. Especially is this so under the present induction system when a shock that is nearly enough to destroy one's eardrum is received by this breaking in on the line. People of Honolulu will get an improved telephone system when they take the same action that the people of Seattle did, and not till then; that is, order out their telephones in a body.

With a municipal government Honolulu could provide very quickly for an examination for hack drivers and it would take only a short time to weed out the incompetent and careless drivers, whether they be Chinese or belong to the white race. One of the beneficent things of the present condition is to continue the old order of things regardless of whatever ill effects may result.

It used to be said in the South that white men could not cultivate cotton successfully; that negro labor was needed to raise the crop, but the success of hundreds and thousands of white farmers on small tracts of land in Texas and Arkansas shortly after the civil war soon exploded the theory. So with sugar cane in Hawaii. White labor can work in the cane fields, and work there successfully, if given a fair opportunity.

When the Pall drops into the sea.
When Diamond Head becomes a rich sugar farm.
When Koko Head changes its hue, then, gentle reader, The Republican will cease to exist; but not till then.
For a paper only five months old, The Republican seems to be causing some people a good many wakeful nights.
Another Este Decision.
Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Nov. 5.
Judge Este himself has finally knocked the wind out of all of the Democratic argument based upon his decision in Hawaii that the constitution extended over those islands immediately on their annexation.

This decision has been loudly berated by the Democratic orators and newspapers in this state, particularly, as being a substantial affirmation of the doctrine that the laws for the exclusion of the Chinese from this country could not operate with respect to the Chinese from Hawaii and the Philippine Islands. The question as to the right to exclude Chinese has come up squarely before Judge Este, and he commends the following report of his decision on the subject to the consideration of all of the voters who have been deceived by the Democratic argument as to the effect of his previous decision. The following is the report of the decision:

HONOLULU, Oct. 28.—United States Judge Este has made a ruling in a Chinese immigration case to the effect that the United States district courts are not called upon to review the decisions of the collectors of the ports in the matter of admitting Chinese. The court was appealed to in the case of Ching Afoo, who was refused admittance on arriving from Hongkong, and the judge ruled that the appeals in such cases would be made to the treasury department, except in urgent cases.

This is in strict accord with the language of the exclusion law and with the holdings of the courts on this coast in regard to it. The courts have uniformly refused to interfere in any of the recent Chinese exclusion cases. The decision as to the right to enter has been left to be determined by the treasury officials, and by them alone. All of the present treasury officials construe the law to be that no Chinese can enter this country from either Hawaii or the Philippine Islands, and consequently not one has ever entered this country from those islands since their annexation.

Mr. Bryan insists that these Chinese have the right to enter this country, and that the exclusion law does not operate against them. If elected he will require all the customs officials to follow his interpretation of the law; and the courts will be powerless to intervene in the correction or determination of a matter exclusively within the jurisdiction of the treasury officials.

Notwithstanding the clear and unequivocal wording of the law, which excludes all of these Chinese from the country; notwithstanding the language of the treaty with Spain, which has become part of the supreme law of the land, and which leaves the status and rights of the inhabitants of the Philippines to be determined by congress, the democrats announce definitely and as a portion of their political program that they will, if entrusted with power, open the door to the Chinese now in the Philippines and in Hawaii; and they have the effrontery to appeal to the votes of the laboring men of this coast to enable them to carry this program into effect. What value has their profession of interest in the cause of labor against such an avowed program as this, to which the democratic party is committed?

Band May Not Play.
Governor Dole has refused to allow the Hawaiian band to play at the football game on the Punahou grounds Saturday afternoon. He also vetoed the request of the Ladies' Aid Society for the band to play at their bazaar last evening.

MATTERS CONSIDERED BY EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Cemetery Propositions Seem to Be Promising Methods of Investment in the Vicinity of Honolulu—Local Holidays.

At the executive council yesterday Governor Dole read a communication from Mr. Pain of the Tramways Company, asking that the land proposed to be used for cemetery purposes at Diamond Head be put up at public auction, with right of way for the Tramways to extend its lines. No action was taken on this application.

J. A. McCandless read a letter from P. J. Berry on the same subject. Mr. Berry represents the rather up-in-the-air Pearl Harbor Cemetery, which protests against the sale of Diamond Head lands for less than their present actual value. The price which the Rapid Transit Company shall pay for the cemetery site at Diamond Head will determine the price of lots, and this fact moves the Pearl Harbor people to protest against too small a figure being agreed upon.

Governor Dole reported that Mr. Tell, who had been appointed district magistrate at Koloa, Kauai, some time ago, refused to accept the place, and that Mr. Kekoa has been appointed in his place. He begins his duties December 1st.

Governor Dole read a petition from Wailuku, signed by seventy men, asking permission to form a company of National Guards. No objection was offered to the petition.

An application for a retail liquor license from D. L. Meyer of Wailuku was read by Mr. Lansing. The application was accompanied by a petition signed by a number of citizens. The council refused to grant the license. Sheriff Baldwin of Wailuku was opposed to having the license issue.

Mr. McCandless exhibited a map showing the building owned by Sorenson and Lyle on the line of the proposed extension of the beach road.

Secretary Cooper was authorized to publish notices of the two holidays, Thanksgiving on November 29th, and Hawaiian Independence Day, November 28th.

Boiler Bursts. The steam boiler used on the street roller on King street exploded yesterday. The boiler had been in use for twenty-five years, and age had corroded it until it was too thin to stand the pressure. A piece the size of a man's hand was knocked out by the expanding steam.

The New Little Girl. [From the New York Evening Sun.] Where are the matinee girls of yesterday? Married many of them, and incapacitated by the moderate incomes of most young couples from sacrificing the dollars upon the joint dramatic and carnal altars as they used to sacrifice. The life of New York's theatre audiences is in no case, long. They change about every six years—a shorter time limit than the human body, to which is allotted seven years. But the matinee audience doesn't live so long as this. If it changes more often it reflects more readily whatever is characteristic of the theater of the times. Already this season's matinee crowd shows a distinct departure from its predecessors. Even men have observed it. It consists in the number of little girls, youngsters from 11 to 14, that now throng the matinees. There have been children at the theaters before this, but never in such a wholesale quantity. Never did the last or the beginning or the middle years of any century see just this kind of little girl, as is revealed to us by the autumn of 1900. They are not little girls at all, they are imitation young women, with their clothes made exactly like their mothers' and grown-up sisters; their hair worn as much as possible in the same way; their boots high-heeled, their very walk copied after their elders—and if anything is unworthy copying it is that walk. You see little girls holding up their short skirts with one hand in imitation of the way grown women do. Their opera glasses, their gloves, their fans, all are a miniature copy of the grown-up article. Their talk is all after the grown-up conversational model; a mixture of things superficial, artificial and largely vulgar. Every matinee audience this fall has been remarkable for its representatives of what we are forced to believe is the latest development of the little girl.

Little Known Tobaccos. [From U. S. Tobacco Journal.] Among the little known tobaccos of the world are those of Manchuria and Mount Lebanon. Manchuria tobacco is said to be highly prized throughout China, while the local consumption is enormous. Travelers say that the inhabitants of Manchuria, both men and women, begin to smoke from the age of 8 or 9, and continue the practice to the end of their lives.

The tobacco of Mount Lebanon is that which finds most favor among the devout Arabs. Travelers in that part of the world describe it as being exceedingly mild and fragrant. The dealers who follow the hajj to Mecca and Medina always supply themselves abundantly with Lebanon tobacco before starting out, and no booty is so welcome to the Bedouin robbers of the desert as a cargo of this weed.

Children, Photographs. Perhaps the most trying part of the photographic operator's life is the handling of children, yet Miss Haskins with infinite skill seems to find no difficulty in the matter.

It is surprising the variety of poses the little ones are led into by her skillful handling, all so natural and delightful.

Miss Haskins has a style of her own, and her efforts are highly appreciated by those who are competent to judge. King Bros. are to be congratulated on having secured her services in their new enterprise.

By Authority.

EXECUTIVE NOTICE. The governor directs that notice be given that Wednesday, the 28th of November, being a legal holiday, all public offices will be closed. HENRY E. COOPER, Secretary of the Territory. Capitol, Honolulu, Nov. 23, 1900.

SCHOOL HOLIDAY NOTICE. The public schools throughout the Territory of Hawaii will be closed on Thursday, November 29th (Thanksgiving Day), and Friday, November 30th. News of the Courts.

Paoakalani, who is named as a defendant in the ejectment suit of E. M. Makua vs. Fanny Strauch et al., has filed a disclaimer of any right, title or interest in the premises mentioned in the complaint. Fanny Strauch comes in with a demurrer based upon statutory grounds.

James A. Low, a cousin of David W. Low, deceased, has filed a petition for letters of administration in the estate. December 31st is set for the hearing. Emil Cornelius Peters, late of the bar of California, has applied for admission to the bar of the territorial supreme court.

Thomas Ray Keyworth, executor of the will of Eliza Luce, has filed an inventory of property amounting to $8,439.

The circuit court jurors were this morning excused from further attendance until Tuesday morning.

But His Suite Enjoyed It.

(From the Chicago News.)

An amusing story is told of Li Hung Chang in connection with his visit to Europe in 1896. Out of respect to the memory of General Gordon, the chancellor placed a wreath at the foot of his monument in Trafalgar square. The Gordon family were desirous of showing their appreciation of that act, and at last one of Gordon's nephews, a great lover of dogs, hit upon the idea of sending Li Hung Chang a prize bulldog of which he was the owner. The dog was sent just as Li Hung Chang was returning to his own country. Some months later a letter was received from the chancellor, in which he thus expressed his thanks: "I was much touched by the splendid present you were good enough to make me; the beast was magnificent. Unfortunately, my digestion is not equal to such a delicacy, but my suite enjoyed it thoroughly."

ALLEN DUNN'S PLAN TO ADVERTISE HONOLULU.

Would issue a Little Brochure Setting Forth the Many Charms of these Islands.

Following the suggestion of The Republican that Hawaii ought to make a bid for tourist travel and do something to advertise the territory and the city of Honolulu, Mr. Allen Dunn is endeavoring to interest the merchants and business men of Honolulu in getting out a brochure entitled "A Little Story of Hawaii." Mr. Dunn's plan is to place the reading and descriptive matter in the form of bright attractive letters purporting to have been written by a visitor to a friend in the states.

Mr. Dunn sets forth his ideas in the last number of "Naked Truth" which he is conducting during Mr. Clement's absence in the states. In it he says:

"The local papers are waking up to the necessity of bidding for the tourist trade. The Republican, as evidenced in another column, again returns to the charge, while the Balmain points pithily to the fact that while the steamship and railroad companies are spending big money in advertising the country, our own people, who will be the most benefited, have to all appearances allowed the tourist trade to drop from the schedule of serious consideration. The urgent need for some kind of advertising is apparent. The Republican evidently considers the situation up to the Chamber of Commerce. It must, however, be remembered that the Chamber of Commerce, while a merchants' organization, has never yet had such calls upon its resources to warrant its being the possessor of money sufficient to father attractively dressed and what must of a necessity be somewhat costly advertising."

"The solution to the problem could be reached by some of the talented advertising men of this city getting out an illustrated and well written brochure. The scheme could be fathered by the Chamber of Commerce and the expenses born by the merchants of the city contributing some small amount or by placing an advertisement within the covers. A fixed edition could be guaranteed and a free distribution made on the steamers and railroad offices and in all the prominent hotels of the Northwestern States.

Mr. Dunn proposes to issue not less than 5,000 copies of the brochure, and 10,000 if the patronage will warrant it, and distribute them throughout the northern states placing them in the leading libraries, hotels, club rooms and large depots throughout the country. It is a work that should be encouraged as it will result in good for Honolulu.

- Business men will tell you
- that an ad in The Republic
- an brings good results be
- cause the people read it.

The First National Bank of Hawaii at Honolulu has given up the intention of going into the Stangenwald building on Merchant street, and has leased the corner on the ground floor of the McIntyre building to be erected at Fort and King streets.

A Great Medicine.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says Mr. E. S. Phipps of Poteau, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux. I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise, of those who use it. The quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., general agents, Territory of Hawaii.

NEWS WORTH READING

L. B. KERR & CO., LTD., have much pleasure in announcing that they have been successful in purchasing at their own price a large portion of the stock of L. C. Thompson & Co., 898-900 Broadway, N.Y., who made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors, on September 16.

Our MR. KERR happened to be in New York at the time this stock was sold; but he had already purchased largely when this opportunity presented itself. Notwithstanding this he made an offer for goods suitable for this market which was accepted. We are now in a position to offer the finest stock of Dry Goods ever brought to Honolulu at prices never known before and probably will never be heard of again. There are bargains in every Department of this extensive stock. The following are only a few of the Leaders:

POTUGUESE INQUEST IS ONCE MORE ADJOURNED

Old Man Silva's House Standing in the Vineyard on Punchbowl's Slopes Thoroughly Searched Yesterday without results.

The coroner's jury sitting on the body of Jose Silva, one of the four Portuguese citizens killed by a poisonous decoction found in the home of Joaquin Silva, after his death, reconvened at the police station yesterday at 2 o'clock. Headed by Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth, they proceeded to the late residence of the elder Silva and made a thorough search of the house, the hothouse, the wine cellar and grounds generally. The search was not for the old man's riches, as the people in the neighborhood were led to believe, but poisons, notably hellebore, drugs of any sort that might be used in making liquors, for which the old man had a mania, distilled high wines, doctored wines or any other substance that might shed light on the recent tragedy.

The work was directed by Mr. Chillingworth, and was well done. But it proved futile; nothing whatever save some methylated alcohol and sour wine was found.

The names of some persons who are said to be conversant with facts bearing on the case were obtained and on returning to the police headquarters these were discussed. Indeed, the whole case was gone over, the upshot of which was that Dr. Shorey was asked to make some more analyses, and as these could not be completed till late Saturday, the inquest adjourned till then. Among the witnesses to be examined on Saturday will be Dr. Shorey, Dr. Prast, a number of pharmacists and three or four other witnesses.

Now that the jury has inquired so closely and exhaustively into the matter, they wisely determined to go to the very bottom and leave undone nothing that may shed light on it or lead to the adoption of ordinances that may prevent a recurrence of such mishaps.

Death of Rich. M. Brash.

Richard Miller Brash, an old member of the printers' craft, died on Tuesday last. He was born in Honolulu 53 years ago and had lived here all his life. He was a skilled pressman and served his time under Mr. H. M. Whitney. For many years he was a pressman in the employ of the late Robert Grieve and was a faithful workman. He had been ailing for some years with heart trouble. He leaves a daughter aged 14 years, three sisters, Mrs. Mary Ann Waterbury, Mrs. Elizabeth Roberson and Miss Susan Brash, and two brothers, Wm. G. Brash, bookkeeper for Wilder & Co., and Walter Brash, a job printer with the Robert Grieve Company.

LEGISLATIVE LEADERS ARE BEING DISCUSSED

The agitation of the organization of the next legislature has commenced. John Emmeluth has been brought forward by some of his friends for the speakership. The independents will have things their own way in the house, but the popular plumbier is reported as saying that he will not wield the gavel. He is looking for a place where he can do more effective work and assist in shaping much needed legislation. Emmeluth, however, will be at the caucus and have a distinct voice in forming the slate which is sure to go through.

The natives are pressing their desire that the presiding officer in each house shall be of their race. The most prominently discussed man for president of the senate is said to be John Brown of Hawaii.

Confessional is Sacred.

The story comes from France that Mile. L., in the presence of her brother and sister, met Pere Elisee, a Franciscan monk, in a convent parlor, and there talked with him for a few minutes. They were interesting, one to the other, and subsequently corresponded, but never saw each other again. Mile. L.'s conscience troubling her, however, she sought peace by confessing to the Abbe Breton, vicar of the cathedral of Meaux. The abbe caused her to deliver to him the letters from Pere Elisee, and he gave the letters to Pere Elisee's superiors. Pere Elisee, smarting under this act and its results, started proceedings against the abbe. The case coming up before the ninth chamber of the civil court of the Seine, the court held that no consideration of public or private interest justified the violation of the confessional in such a manner, and imposed upon the abbe a fine of 200 francs and costs for divulging the secrets of the confessional.
