Some Straight Talk While Waiting For a Quorum

CENTRAL COMMITTEE'S UNOFFICIAL IDEAS

The Republican Territorial Central Committee met at Republican headquarters Saturday evening to hear a report of the sub-committee on revision of party rules. Less than half a dozen members were present at the time appointed for meeting, 7:30 o'clock. Others dropped in and waited for a quorum, which was never obtained, and the time was passed very pleasantly and profitably, too, by as much of a discussion of general topics as would have been indulged in had a regular meeting been held; indeed, the discussion was perhaps more free in the informal chat than could have been expected of an official meeting.

The following was said while the faithful few were waiting vainly for a quorum:

John Hughes—"Your sub-committee has a preliminary report to make, if we ever get a quorum. This report is the nucleus of something to come after."

A. G. M. Robertson—"I wrote to the three other islands, asking for suggestions on revision of rules; the only reply I received was from Rice."

Senator John Lane—"I think everybody is too busy with County affairs to give much attention to suggestions for revision of rules."

Silence; everybody but Senator Lane meditating over pipes and cigars.

Senator Lane—"Did we approve Frank Turk for appointment to a position in the jail?"

Robertson—"We did not!"

Harry Murray—"Henry says he's got eight positions over there at the jail that he will give to the men that Brown has fired."

Enter, Beal, bowing.

Beal—"Do you allow spectators?"

Chorus of voices—"Come in; take a seat; glad to have you; the meeting's open; it is not even a meeting; we can't get a quorum."

Beal seats himself and displays remarkable fitness.

Fifth District Charlie—"Every man Brown's fired, Henry has appointed to the jail, without any recommendation from this committee. Now he wants to fire the Wainane jailer because he didn't vote for him; but Atkinson told him to wait a bit. Now Carter's back—a changed man—we can't say what will happen."

Robertson—"That Wainane matter has been smoothed over. It does seem odd that everybody in Henry's department has suddenly become inefficient. He let them out in a bunch."

Senator Lane—"Johnson would make a good jailer; Vida would make a good jailer."

Two more committeemen drop in.

Lane—"I wonder what old (used in its affectionate sense, no doubt) Roosevelt told the Governor?"

Chas. Clarke—"To go home and talk it over with Robertson."

Robertson blows smoke.

Lane—"To smooth things over." Clarke—"To go to—I hear he has a new—"

Lane, interrupting—"No doubt the reports back on the mainland were stretched a bit; the reporters must have stretched things a bit."

Clarke—"I don't think there was much stretching."

John Hughes—"We should have lots of time to consider the revision of the party rules. Every Republican should help the committee. Don't let's be too quick in cutting out rules; we may cut out something good. Here is a chance for everybody to get in and make suggestions; let those who are already—"

NOEAU PICKS UP TWO LOST ANCHORS

Captain Lane of the steamer Noeau ran into a bit of surprise last week while he was on the rugged Hamakua coast. The Noeau was at Kukuhaele and was in the act of weighing her anchor to depart, when it was found that the useful hook had seemingly tripped in weight. The chain strained and the bow dipped under the weight as the winch labored asthmatically under its burden. Lane thought that he was pulling up a couple of tons of geological sea bottom formation until the anchor appeared above the surface when he found to his glad surprise that he had hooked a prize. The Noeau's anchor brought up no less than two other mid hooks, weighing 1200 and 1000 pounds respectively, which had on former occasions been lost beneath the rocky landing. Accompanying them was about forty fathoms of chain, all of which was a find worth having.

LABOR DAY FUN READY FOR TAKING

Outing At Pearl Harbor Calls Crowd To Peninsula

TERRITORY OFFICERS REST, COUNTY SERVANTS TOIL

GOOD WEATHER PROMISED FOR BASEBALL, GAMES AND EXCURSION—DANCING AT THE LOCHS.

There's too much blue smiling between the raindrops to cause any worry about the weather at the Peninsula this afternoon and evening.

At this delightful retreat the Honolulu Trades and Labor Council have arranged a great attraction for city folks. Merrymaking in varied forms is on the program, and an outing worthy of Labor Day, and one that will be long remembered, will give pleasure to hundreds.

This afternoon games will fill the time and make glad the excursionists. Refreshments will be on hand, enough to go around and more. Picnicing at the Peninsula, Pearl Harbor, is an experience in itself worth having, talking about and writing to friends about.

When twilight comes hundreds of feet will point their itchy way to the pavilions and the merry dance will invite to pleasure.

The Trades and Labor Council have done everything to bring about a great success and an unqualified triumph of entertainment is assured.

Trains will leave Palama depot at 2:15, 3:20, 5:15 and 7:30 p. m., and will leave the Peninsula for Honolulu at 4:30, 5:30, 7:30 and 11:30 p. m.

Seventy-five cents will be charged for the round trip.

The following are the officers and committees:

Chairman of the day, M. Heffernan; floor manager, T. O'Brien; committee of arrangements, L. Toomey, F. Larsen, J. Remwik; finance committee, T. Cahalan, F. Crozier, C. Colden; reception committee, F. McLaughlin, F. Schmidt, W. P. O'Brien; games committee, J. E. Langren; J. Hackett, F. Sackowitz.

Labor Day was observed by the happy wights in the Government employ by an almost general absence from the sacred precincts of the Capitol. The Governor, Secretary Atkinson and Chief Clerk Buckland held forth, but no heads of departments, excepting Attorney General Andrews, offended upon labor by a semblance of work.

In the Judiciary building M. T. Lyons used the spare time left him from attending to the wants of the new Palolo settlers by finishing up some other work. The Federal officials on the other hand appeared in all their glory. Marshal Hendry and his deputies, Winter and von Roentz, were all in their office, while United States District Court Clerks Maling and Hatch were working as hard as usual.

County offices were not supposed to be open today, but Treasurer Trent, Auditor Bicknell, Clerk Kalaokalani and his corps of experts and County Attorney and Deputy County Attorney Douthitt and Milverton saw fit to toil, already so used to public service that habit takes them to their posts even on a holiday.

Around town closed doors and open doors seemed about a tie, with all bets off, but this afternoon it is likely that everything will be shut.

With the Peninsula doings and baseball, and a bunch of other things folks find to do on a holiday, there will be enough to make the air pink with pleasure.

NEVADAN IN PORT

The American-Hawaiian freighter Nevada, Capt. Greene, arrived in port yesterday from San Francisco, with a general cargo, including a deck load of 283 hogs. The vessel brought fourteen bags of mail. She will load 1000 tons of sugar here, sailing for San Francisco via Kahului probably on Wednesday evening.

THE LAST TRAIN.

The last train from the Labor Day picnic tonight will arrive in Honolulu at 11:20 p. m. to connect with the street cars.

PEACE

GREAT BASEBALL TODAY

H. A. C'S AND ELKS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

WEATHER REPORTED FINE AT PARK—KAMS AND MAILLES PLAY FIRST FOR TAIL-ENDERS.

Baseball is king today. What promises to be the biggest crowd of the season and perhaps a record-breaker for the ground, will see the game that will either make the Elks monarchs of the diamond or make a deciding series of three games with the H. A. C.'s necessary for the championship. Not even polo has taken the attention of Honolulu sports as this baseball game today.

Reports from the Baseball Park up to the time of going to press were that no rain had fallen at the Park, and the games will be played as scheduled. The Kams and Mailles play the first game. This has no bearing on the cup championship, but will be fought out to the finish since it will determine the tail-enders of the race. The Kams have a percentage of .285, the Mailles .142. Should the Kams win they will stand .375 as against the Mailles'.125. Should the Kams lose they will tie the Mailles for last place, each team with .250 per cent.

After the Kams and Mailles have fought it out for the submarine championship the biggest game of the season will be battled between the Elks and H. A. C.'s. These teams are tied for first with .714 per cent, each team having won five and lost two games. If the Elks win, the second series goes to them with a percentage of .750 against the H. A. C.'s .625. If the H. A. C.'s win the percentages will be reversed, and since the Elks took the first series the championship will be decided by a series of three games.

Betting has been rather active, odds favoring the H. A. C.'s on account of their two victories against one for the Elks this season. The H. A. C.'s rely on their batting to win the game, while the Elks' mainstay is fast fielding.

The teams will probably line up in the following batting order, the player's batting average to date following his name:

H. A. C.—En Sue, .229; Fernandez, .23; J. Williams, .26; .327; Bruno-Louis, .26; .288; Aylett, .25; Joy, .222; R. Williams, .26; .260; Gleason, .16; .189; Soares, .214.

Elks—Hampton, .327; Moore, .36; .160; White, .354; Cogswell, .16; .245; Vanatta, .26; .177; Kia, .26; .260; Wilder, .276; Ringland, .300.

SURVEY IS MADE OF ALEWA LANDS

Good Property Will Soon Be Opened For Settlers

POSSIBILITIES OF ROAD AND WATER SUPPLY

ROADS ARE POSSIBLE FROM WYLIE STREET AND THE TERMINUS OF JUDD STREET.

The surveying of the lands of Alewa, which will in the near future be opened for settlement, will probably soon be completed. A field party from the Survey Department has been working on the ground throughout the past week.

The government lands at Alewa are situated on the hill at the Ewa end of Judd street, where a sort of a promontory juts out just above the residence of the Lane brothers. In many ways the land resembles that on Pacific Heights, except that it is probably more easily accessible. The soil is very good and should with the aid of sufficient water for irrigation purposes be able to produce various products.

The two principal questions connected with the opening of the Alewa lands is that of a road to them and of a water supply. As the Nuanu reservoir is above the Alewa land in elevation it would be quite possible to bring water from there up on the heights, but as this would involve considerable expenditure in the way of a pipe line, it seems probable that the new small farmers will have to get their water from the sky and preserve it in tanks for some time to come until an appropriation for a pipe line can be made. As Nuanu valley, which Alewa borders on, was never known for a spring rainfall, it is not probable that the water question will cause much of a hardship.

With regard to a road up the Alewa ridge there are two feasible plans. A road might be run from mauka, beginning in the neighborhood of Wylie street and proceed by an easy grade to the plateau above. This plan would be the preferable one, were it not for the fact that it would have to run through certain private holdings, which may prevent its being carried through. As an alternative a road could be run from the end of Judd street up the hill, but owing to the topography of the place this would hardly be as easy a road as the mauka one.

Japanese Invent Plan By Which They Can Dodge Tax Collector

BORROW RECEIPTS FROM EACH OTHER

Local tax officials have of late run up against a new and peculiar condition of things in the line of tricks of wily Japanese, who try by foul means to evade the eagle eye and vulture scent of the tax gatherers. To the tax official the members of the Japanese ho-poi-oi look more or less alike, and this causes some difficulty in their work. The wily sons of the sunrise flag have evidently discovered that the tax officers labor under this disadvantage and have taken advantage of this fact by borrowing and lending each others' personal tax receipts, so that one receipt will work for several Japanese.

The scheme was first discovered when it was worked by Japanese who intended to depart from the Territory. The tax officials do not believe in having any Japanese leaving the sunny shores of Hawaii not without paying for the privilege of using the most excellent roads which prevail in abundance in the Japanese quarters, and without putting up for the privilege of being nabbed by the police when they have indulged in carrying up a wife, or some other popular Japanese pastime. For this reason a tax collector holds forth at the gangplank of every departing steamer and holds up every departing steamer and holds up every departing steamer and holds up every departing steamer.

Oahu Polo Team Wins First Game From Maui

CAPT. DILLINGHAM RETIRES FROM INJURY

And Oahu won. It was in the closing minutes of the game that Maui pulled her team together and carried the ball down the field with an irresistible rush. With ten seconds to play Maui got a long chance at goal, and Fred Baldwin took that chance. The white ball sped straight toward the posts. Then sounded the gong across the field for the call of time and before the echoes had died away the ball had flashed between the posts—too late. It was Oahu's day, and the wearers of the Blue and White had won the game, 4% to 4.

It was polo from start to finish, and that tells the story of a hard and beautifully fought game. Oahu won because her men were the more accurate in goal-shooting, but it was the closest kind of a victory. Oahu scored five goals, and lost a quarter point on account of a safety. Maui scored four times on Oahu.

Captain Frank Baldwin of the Maui team protested the game on the ground that the time-keepers had not allowed enough time, and that the last goal should count. He based his decision on the fact that time had been taken out for George Angus, of the Oahu team, to change horses in the last period. Umpire A. W. Carter declared that the time was correctly kept, and awarded Oahu the game.

It was an unfortunate ending to a splendid game. Only one accident marred the day. At the beginning of the third period Capt. Walter Dillingham of the Oahus, leaning far over to make a difficult stroke, wrenched or tore the inside muscles of his thigh, and had to be taken from the field. Up till then he had been the star of the game, and the Oahu team was out-playing its opponents. George Angus took his place, and played hard. By desperate work the Oahus held their advantage and won out. Dillingham will probably be out of the game next Wednesday, and this means a great loss to the team.

It was an ideal day for the game, and the crowd was a large one. In automobiles it came, in surreys, hacks, dog carts, tally-hos, busses, carriages, riding all manner of beasts, and some tramping afoot the dusty miles from the car line.

When three o'clock came, around the big Moanalua field stretched an endless chain of vehicles. The sky was almost cloudless, a keen fresh wind blew down the beautiful valley, and the green turf was firm and springy. Ideal polo weather, ideal polo grounds. There was not an accident among the throng of vehicles and horses, due to excellent police arrangements, under the supervision of Lieutenant Sam Leslie. The accommodations for spectators were very good. Most of them were grouped along the western side of the field, and the heights above even were scaled by skillful drivers.

Maui's tent and field stables were at the upper end of the field on the eastern side, Oahu's at the lower end. The spectators were about evenly divided in sympathy, according to colors displayed, Maui's black and gold flaunting alongside the blue and white of Oahu.

The game itself was fast and pretty. In the early periods Oahu's horses held their own. In the last two periods the strain began to tell, and the Maui horses outfooted their tired opponents. Maui had fresh mounts throughout, using twice as many horses as did Oahu.

Brilliant plays were executed by the members of both teams. Until forced to retire on account of injury, Captain Dillingham played fine polo. He was in the thick of every rally, directing his men intelligently and his own clean, long hitting was directly responsible for goals. Harold Castle had a bunch of men and horses, picking out the ball, and carrying it down the field. His little black mount, Gypsy, was the best horse on the field, fast, quick as a cat, and a marvel for gameness and staying qualities. Judd's backhand strokes and riding off were very good, and Cooke played beyond any form he has previously shown. Angus won applause for well executed strokes.

Capt. Frank Baldwin and Fred Starred for the Maui. Frank is a hard rider and a very aggressive player, Fleming and Harry Baldwin both did some very good work.

THE GAME.

FIRST PERIOD—OAHU, 2; MAUI, 1. The game started a few minutes after three, Oahu defending the south goal. Frank Baldwin made a long run down the field but the ball rolled out. Dillingham broke through the scrimmage and took the ball towards Maui's goal. A short stand in front of the goal and Maui went down again. Frank Baldwin made a pretty backhand stroke, scoring the first goal for Maui. Time, 4 minutes.

Judd got into the thick of battle and secured the ball, making a fast race down the field till Dillingham drove a long shot through the goal, and the crowd began to wake up and cheer. Time, 1 minute.

Castle and Dillingham ran the ball down between them for a second goal in half a minute. Gypsy took Castle the length of the field in brilliant style, but the ball misses by a few feet. Time is called with the ball in the center of the field.

SECOND PERIOD—OAHU, 3; MAUI, 2. Frank Baldwin shot the ball between the posts a few seconds after play is resumed. Fleming did some good riding off on the play. Dillingham nursed the ball down the field, scored goal on a short stroke in half a minute. In a brilliant rally in front of Oahu's goal Castle drove the ball out of danger by a long hard stroke up the field. Maui carried the ball down, but Castle rode off finely and the ball missed goal by six inches. A few moments later Frank Baldwin leaned over and made a quartering shot between the posts. Time, six minutes. Frank Baldwin's pony, Bob Wilcox, rolled over on him, but the plucky captain was in the saddle again quickly. Time was called with the ball out of bounds.

THIRD PERIOD—OAHU, 4%; MAUI, 3. Dillingham was hurt, in attempting a stroke on the western edge of the field; Geo. Angus taking his place. Cooke was playing brilliantly. Maui missed three chances at goal. After six minutes of play Fred Baldwin shot a difficult goal while going at full speed. Castle's horse kicked the ball across the goal-line for a safety, losing Oahu a quarter of a point.

Castle and Gypsy were responsible for Oahu's next goal. Castle picked the ball out of the crowd and carried it down the field with right and left strokes, outrunning Fred Baldwin and shooting a gallery goal in one and one-half minutes. Geo. Angus came into the limelight by getting the ball from a mixup in front of the Maui goal in driving it through in 35 seconds.

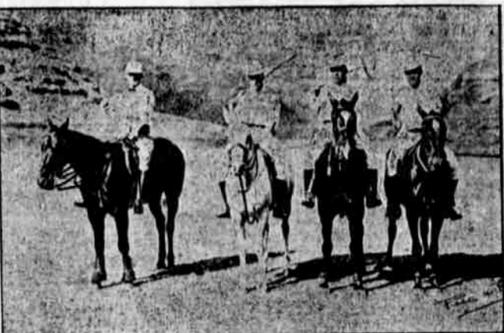

FOURTH PERIOD—OAHU, 4%; MAUI, 4.

Maui opened playing fast and desperately. Over anxiety spoiled two easy chances at goal, one for Fred and the other for Frank Baldwin. Fred got a cornering shot through the posts, in one minute. Castle made two brilliant runs, but could not get goal. Maui lost another chance when the ball took a bad bound. Fred Baldwin drove the ball from a difficult angle toward the fatal posts. The bell rang before the ball was through and the goal did not count.

The Alohas won the first series of the Midwinter League yesterday without even playing a game. The Aalas needed yesterday's game with the Makiki to tie the Alohas for first place, but the Makiki's hammered out the game in the first inning and were never headed. Larsen, "Togo" Michi and Tom Ulukou were successively used in the box, but the Makiki's pounded all unmercifully. Ulukou pitched good ball for about two innings, then he blew up and added to the slaughter by an error at a critical point.

The second game was better, but the Diamond Heads got the jump on the iron men at the start, and kept going. The Anvil chorus began to get dangerous toward the last, but four tallies for the Diamond Heads in the eighth inning broke their hearts.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1905.

Won't it be glorious if H. P. Woods actually succeeds in making some Honoluluans pull together and others Wake up.

It's a dollar to a split polo ball that the departments head find the Governor's dinners just as good as they ever were.

From the standpoint of the outsider, Maui won the game. The rules, necessary to conducting every form of sport, gave it to Oahu.

Theodore Richards with a coffee saloon would be a poor imitation of Bishop Potter's Subway venture. The Bishop dealt in the real thing.

The Advertiser is trying to make Governor Carter keep quiet by telling its readers every other day that Carter always makes a row wherever he goes.

It is always one of the world's sure things. That no sooner have others stopped real war than Turkey comes in to produce the regular quota of clouds.

Labor Day will not be the real American Labor Day until every arm that guides the implements of the skilled mechanic in Hawaii is an American arm.

Judged from outside demonstration Honolulu's wide-awake citizens are bearing the sorrows of Secretary Taft passing Hawaii with great fortitude and uncompensating Christian spirit.

One of the blessed things about the new Normal School is that the style of architecture displayed on the building is no indication of the character of the work done within.

It is reported in the cable dispatches that the peace brought about by Roosevelt will cause a change of government leaders in Japan. Thus it is demonstrated that the pacific national friend of today can undergo lightning changes when pressure is exerted by a militant people.

There is no suggestion of a lack of good sportsmanship in the protest made by Maui's polo captain. The point was decided by such a close margin that it is properly open to argument, and the man who falls to make a fight for his own team is a weak sporting asset.

along the northern American border than does New Orleans with its yellow fever scourge. Should cholera once get into the northern States, it would give disastrous proof of how little attention the smaller if not the larger communities give to sanitation.

The Advertiser is telling funny stories of how Boyd was "forced" out of the Promotion Committee. The funniest part of it is, the alleged friendship of that paper after the change has been made. A real interesting story would be a full account of why the Advertiser religiously and regularly weeps on Boyd's shoulder but never comes to his rescue.

Since there is a Labor Day, why not a Corporation Day. Or do the corporations celebrate the other 364?

LABOR DAY IN HAWAII

Labor Day in Hawaii furnishes ample food for reflection. It is somewhat of a question whether the people of the Territory are really in sympathy with the spirit of the day. And being out of sympathy with it, how closely they are in touch with the foundation of free American institutions.

If Labor Day represents anything in the scheme of American holidays, it is the more complete emancipation of the laboring man, greater independence, strong individuality, better recognition as a factor in the community. It may be heresy to assert that Hawaii is not in sympathy with the American spirit of independence and dignity of labor. It is nevertheless so tremendously near the truth that it hardly furnishes ground for argument. Hawaii worships labor—it must have labor to maintain its prosperity—but Hawaii doesn't worship labor in the manner that the American Labor Day suggests.

It would be unfair however to hold that there has been no improvement in the sentiment of this Territory. Whether this improvement has been voluntary or not is of little importance so the gradual change is being brought about. There are less American laborers in Honolulu at least than in the days of isolation, but the decrease has brought more than one citizen and employer to realize that low wages is not everything and a thoroughly Orientalized Hawaii means an American Territory with the Americanism left out. Aliens do not view such a denationalization with special apprehension. Some Americans who love a dollar more than all else in the world look upon Americanism in Hawaii, as applied to labor, more to be approved in theory than in practice.

The main body of American citizens however among the large employers of labor are thoroughly in earnest in their effort to dignify labor where it has been degraded, and do their utmost to bring about conditions favorable to the laborer whose birthright is a share in the emoluments as well as the responsibilities of his country's growth. These efforts are yet barren of great results and while this condition prevails, Labor Day in Hawaii is more a suggestion of ideals to be attained than celebration of great victories gained.

BRITISH COOLIE AS PLANTATION LABORER

Editor Evening Bulletin:— Might I be allowed a little space to make a few remarks, with reference to the interview that your reporter had with Mr. B. T. Rogers of the Vancouver-Fiji Sugar Company.

The writer agrees with Mr. Rogers that, in the introduction of the Hindoo coolie lies the salvation of the sugar industry in Hawaii.

The present scribe spent many years among the Hindoos, on sugar plantations, speaks their language (Hindu)

And) fluently, understands their customs and castes, and thoroughly respects the Hindoos as an inoffensive, hardworking, thrifty race of people. The Hindoo coolie is recruited from all parts of India—excepting Nepal.

In the writer's opinion the Central Province men are best for field work. The Punjabis are good men for plow work, but otherwise are not the best of labor—that is, under the indenture system, at present existing in Fiji, Natal and Demerara.

The Punjabis are a fine race; light-colored, tall and of fine appearance. As free men they should do well. The natives of Madras are next to useless in the fields. Still, they make excellent house servants and stablemen.

In the Fiji Islands, the plantation coolie (men) get a shilling a day—that is, if he earns it. All work is on a set task basis, and the laborer is paid pro rata for the amount of work he completes. In the event of non-completion—providing it is proved to have been a fair task, which, say, 50 per cent. of the gang had completed—the offender is taken to court and fined.

With the exception of horse work and cane cutting, the women do the same work as the men.

The women's daily task is three-fourths of the men's. They, therefore, if they complete their allotted task, earn 9d. a day.

The Hindoo coolie—they are all called Hindoos, although at least 50 per cent. of the immigrants are Mussulmen—is a patient, hardworking plantation hand, when not maltreated.

Of course every shipment of coolies includes a few "bad eggs." Still, most of these "black sheep" settle down under stern management and turn out fairly well.

Caste prejudices are hard to contend with in India, but once the coolie mixes with the other recruits in the depots at Calcutta and Bombay, the Hindoo and the Musselman blend together, and the writer knows of hundreds of cases, where a high caste Hindoo (a Brahmin), has married a Mahomedan woman and vice versa! This would have been simply impossible in India.

The coolie soon adapts himself to circumstances, both as regards food and matrimony.

The Hindoo women are splendid workers, especially at stripping and thrashing. The men are excellent cane cutters and two tons (long tons) per man, per day, is the usual day's work. That means that one man cuts, packs (100 feet in plant 150 feet in rafts), and loads a car of cane, weighing two tons (4,450 pounds). He, in Fiji, receives the magnificent amount of 1s. 1d. (26 cents) for this work—and thinks he is treated very well indeed!

Cane is grown in those islands for $8. ($1.50) per ton!

The cost of cane cutting—including laying of portable track, transport to main railroad (in some cases two and three miles), and in fact, all the work necessary to take off a crop of cane never exceeds 25 cents a ton (2,340 lb.).

It is not a case of "Can the Hindoo be introduced into these islands?" It is a case of "May he?" Will the British Government allow the Indian to leave India for America territory? God knows they should. At the present moment millions of Hindoos are starving, and famine rations are being distributed by the Imperial Government.

If the immigration matter can be settled satisfactorily, there should be no trouble whatsoever in recruiting thousands of Indian coolies for these islands.

When, for the miserable wages and wretched life of other places, Indians can be induced to sign agreements for five years' slavery, can there be any doubt that a few recruits, knowing the people and language, would be anything but successful, in obtaining as much labor as could be required for Hawaii?

The pay in these islands is about three times as much as in other places. The labor houses are palaces compared with the earth-floor shanties, in which coolies are domiciled in the Fiji Islands.

The coolie, being a free man, would be the greatest inducement of all, and the fact that they would be protected from assault and abuse, would seem too good to be true!

The whole business hinges on the one question, "Can the labor be introduced with the sanction of the British Government?"

If that can be answered in the affirmative, the writer would only be too pleased to give all the information in his power, as to cost of introducing Indian coolies; the methods of recruit labor, and the best way to transport the labor to these islands.

It is not of much use going into the details of the Hindoo matter, until it is settled whether or not the coolie can be brought to Hawaii.

Hoping this will be of sufficient interest to print. Yours very truly, J. V. STEVENSON.

MARINES TO PLAY BALL

CONGRESS GIVES THE APPROPRIATION

PASSES ACT AIDING OUTDOOR SPORTS—LOCAL CORPS EXPECTING OUTFITS SOON. FOOTBALL.

By virtue of an Act of the last Congress, the local U. S. Marine Corps will soon blossom forth in brand new base ball suits and take the diamond ready for all comers. This will be in the way of an innovation for the Marines, for, though they had a real team last year, this year Uncle Sam is footing the bills for equipment.

The Marine Corps has had an appropriation for indoor games, but for the first time the appropriation has been made available for outdoor games. The law was passed by the last Congress and went into effect on July 1.

Lieut. W. C. Harlee of the local Marines, some time ago sent in a requisition for baseball outfits, and is expecting them to arrive soon. Then the Marines will be ready for games. The team is not picked yet, but the men practice regularly, and will go out for diamond honors in earnest. The talk among the men is that an attempt will be made to put a team in the Midwinter League, but Lieut. Harlee states that the team will not enter the League, but will meet other teams whenever opportunity offers.

The last appropriation by Congress, making it possible to equip outdoor teams, is evidence of the interest Uncle Sam is taking in his fighting men. The appropriation is generous enough to cover all needful expenses.

There is talk of putting a Marine football team on the gridiron this fall, but this is not likely. Such players as there are among the Marines will probably play with other teams.

WEISBARTH FLOPES WITH FOUR GERMAN DESERTERS

While Captain WeisbARTH and his famous schooner are on their cruise to Laysan Island, the Federal authorities have been looking up a matter in which the vessel is connected. It appears that four sailors of the German ship Marie Hackfeld, which was in port at the time when WeisbARTH's schooner left for Laysan, decided to seek their fortunes under the modern viking's banner and deserted their sea-crafter for this purpose.

The story goes that WeisbARTH, Othello-like, appeared on board the Marie Hackfeld and spun thrilling yarns of his voyages under the southern skies. The four sailors listened to his siren song and decided to jump their ship and go with WeisbARTH. The wily lent them a boat belonging to his schooner and stood out to sea. The four Germans went on their boat as far as Diamond Head, where WeisbARTH picked them up. The whole outfit is now on the Laysan voyage.

When the desertion of the four sailors was discovered the German Consul made a request to the United States Marshal that they be apprehended. The Marshal looked up the case and found that the men were at sea. In the meantime the Marie Hackfeld has departed and consequently the Marshal's jurisdiction in the matter ceases. On the other hand, the deserters are still liable to get into hot water when they return, as the Immigration authorities will probably pounce upon them for being unlawfully in the country, as they have not passed the immigration examination, as required.

A baseball enthusiast turns to the sporting page with less eagerness than the man who wants to buy a house turns to the real estate ads—and there could hardly be a stronger comparison than this.

FIREMAN'S MASCOTT "SI" GOES TO GLORY

SI's dead! SI was a dog, and a good dog. He knew lots more than some people but, alas, he didn't know enough to steer clear of fatal stomach disorders through indiscriminate gorging. In this particular he was peculiarly human.

SI was the mascot of the fire laddies at the headquarters of the Honolulu Fire Department, Beretania street, and many's the time he has yelped to the tune of the fire whistle telling of the district of the blaze or false alarm. He was a pet and the friend of every soul on the force, the big, strapping, soft-eyed horses included.

Some folks don't know what it is to have a dog for a friend. It's a good thing to know. There are blue boys at headquarters today. Their faces match their uniforms, for SI is gone.

"SI" was short for "Silas." SI spent two years on this earth. His friends believe he was accidentally poisoned. He complained the night before last and at 6 o'clock this morning he took a through bill of lading to kingdom-come.

Hogan, the department's expert veterinary, was appointed funeral director and Driver Joe Francis of the chemical wagon assisted at the last sad rites. Intermment occurred this morning in the plot behind the central station.

SI was a fox terrier and bright. He enjoyed running to fires. If there's a dog-heaven SI won't be barred. It doesn't follow that just because he was a fire dog he must go to the other place.

The central station fire fighters will always remember SI.

FAREWELL LUAU

(Special to The Bulletin)

Spreckelsville, Maui, Aug. 31.—A farewell luau was given at the home of Mrs. W. H. Daniels on Saturday evening in honor of her daughter Nancy who departs for Honolulu on Wednesday to enter school. The event was also to commemorate the 20th birthday of her youngest son Harry. Estates of various Hawaiian dishes were spread on a table forty feet long at which the invited guests sat down at about 7 o'clock and it was well between 8:30 and 9 o'clock before they had the inner man contented.

The tables were then cleared and dancing was indulged in until way after midnight. The feature of the evening was the music furnished by the Punene Quintet lately organized by J. R. Shaw. Much credit is due him as from the playing and singing rendered by them it shows that after this there is no necessity of sending to Honolulu for musicians to come to Maui to play for any of our big dances. Among those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. William Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. James Fantom, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gossin, Mrs. C. Hansen and daughter, Mrs. Betts and three daughters, Mrs. Ordway, Mrs. E. F. Dinert, Mrs. W. H. Cornwell Jr., Misses Nancy, Mollie, Etta, Hannah and Rose Cummings, A. Buchanan, Rose Daniels, Ellen Daniels, Helen Wrenn, Messrs. A. J. Case, George Mayfield, H. Amundsen, E. C. Campbell, A. Voss, A. S. Prescott, T. A. Lloyd, C. R. Show, W. E. Smith, H. Sullivan, H. Shoemaker, A. C. Betts, W. Lougher, J. B. Thomson, Edgar Morton, T. Nicholson and J. H. Nelson.

The Adventure of the Three Students

No. 9 of the Series

"I must explain to you, Mr. Holmes, that tomorrow is the first day of the examination for the Porteusue scholarship. I am one of the examiners. My subject is Greek, and the first of the papers consists of a large passage of Greek translation which the candidate has not seen. This passage is printed on the examination paper, and it would naturally be an immense advantage if the candidate could prepare it in advance. For this reason great care is taken to keep the paper secret."

"Today about 3 o'clock the proofs of this paper arrived from the printers. The exercise consists of half a chapter of Theoclydes. I had to read it over carefully, as the text must be absolutely correct. At 4:30 my task was not yet completed. I had, however, promised to take tea in a friend's room, so I left the proof upon my desk. I was absent more than an hour."

"You are aware, Mr. Holmes, that our college doors are double—a green baize one within and a heavy oak one without? As I approached my outer door I was amazed to see a key in it. For an instant I imagined that I had left my own there, but on feeling in my pocket I found that it was all right. The only duplicate which existed, so far as I knew, was that which belonged to my servant, Bannister, a man who has looked after my room for ten years and whose honesty is absolutely above suspicion. I found that the key was indeed his, that he had entered my room to know if I wanted tea and that he had very carelessly left the key in the door when he came out. His visit to my room must have been within a very few minutes of my leaving it. His forgetfulness about the key would have mattered little upon any other occasion, but on this one day it has produced the most deplorable consequences."

"The moment I looked at my table I was aware that some one had rummaged among my papers. The proof was in three long slips. I had left them all together. Now I found that one of them was lying on the floor, one was on the side table near the window and the third was where I had left it."

Holmes stirred for the first time. "The first page on the floor, the second in the window, the third where you left it?" said he.

"Exactly, Mr. Holmes. You amaze me. How could you possibly know that?"

"Pray continue your very interesting statement."

"For an instant I imagined that Bannister had taken the unparadiseable liberty of examining my papers. He denied it, however, with the utmost earnestness, and I am convinced that he was speaking the truth. The alternative was that some one passing had observed the key in the door, had known that I was out and had entered to look at the papers. A large sum of money is at stake for the scholarship is a very valuable one, and an unscrupulous man might very well run a risk in order to gain an advantage over his fellows."

"Bannister was very much upset by the incident. He had nearly fainted when we found that the papers had undoubtedly been tampered with. I gave him a little brandy and left him collapsed in a chair while I made a most careful examination of the room. I soon saw that the intruder had left other traces of his presence besides the rumpled papers. On the table in the window were several shreds from a pencil which had been sharpened. A broken tip of lead was lying there also. Evidently the rascal had copied the paper in a great hurry, had broken his pencil and had been compelled to put a fresh point to it."

"Excellent!" said Holmes, who was recovering his good humor as his attention became more engrossed by the case. "Fortune has been your friend."

"This was not all. I have a new writing table with a fine surface of red leather. I am prepared to swear, and so is Bannister, that it was smooth and unstained. Now I found a clean cut in it about three inches long—not a mere scratch, but a positive cut. Not only this, but on the table I found a small ball of black dough or clay, with specks of something which looks like sawdust in it. I am convinced that these marks were left by the man who rifled the papers. There were no foot-marks and no other evidence as to his identity. I was at my wife's ends when suddenly the happy thought occurred to me that you were in the town, and I came straight round to put the matter into your hands. Do help me, Mr. Holmes. You see my dilemma. Either I must find the man or else the examination must be postponed until fresh papers are prepared, and since this cannot be done without explanation there will ensue a hideous scandal which will throw a cloud not only on the college, but on the university. Above all things I desire to settle the matter quietly and discreetly."

"I shall be happy to look into it and to give you such advice as I can," said Holmes, rising and putting on his overcoat. "The case is not entirely devoid of interest. Had any one visited you in your room after the papers came to you?"

"Yes; young Daulat Rao, an Indian student, who lives on the same stair, came in to ask me some particulars about the examination."

"For which he was entered?"

"Yes."

"And the papers were on your table?"

"To the best of my belief they were rolled up."

"But might be recognized as proofs?"

"Possibly."

"No one else in your room?"

"No."

"Did any one know that these proofs would be there?"

"No one save the printer."

"Did this man Bannister know?"

"No; certainly not. No one knew."

"Where is Bannister now?"

"He was very ill, poor fellow! I left him collapsed in the chair, I was in such a hurry to come to you."

"You left your door open?"

"I locked up the papers first."

"Then it amounts to this, Mr. Soames, that, unless the Indian student recognized the roll as being proofs, the man who tampered with them came upon them accidentally without knowing that they were there."

"So it seems to me."

Holmes gave an enigmatic smile.

"Well," said he, "let us go round. Not one of your cases, Watson—mental, not physical. All right; come if you want to. Now, Mr. Soames, at your disposal."

"I should like to have a glance round. What a charming, old-fashioned room! Perhaps you will kindly wait a minute until I have examined the floor. No, I see nothing. What about this curtain? You hang your clothes behind it. If any one were forced to conceal himself in this room he must do it there, since the bed is too low and the wardrobe too shallow. No one there, I suppose?"

As Holmes drew the curtain I was aware from some little rigidity and alertness of his attitude that he was prepared for an emergency. As a matter of fact, the drawn curtain discloed nothing but three or four suits of clothes hanging from a line of pegs. Holmes turned away and stooped suddenly to the floor.

"Hello! What's this?" said he.

It was a small pyramid of black, puttylike stuff, exactly like the one upon the table of the study. Holmes held it out on his open palm in the glare of the electric light.

"Your visitor seems to have left traces in your bedroom as well as in your sitting room, Mr. Soames."

"I think it is clear enough. You came back by an unexpected way, and so he had no warning until you were at the very door. What could he do? He caught up everything which would betray him, and he rushed into your bedroom to conceal himself."

"Good gracious, Mr. Holmes, do you mean to tell me that all the time I was talking to Bannister in this room we had the man prisoner if we had only known it?"

"So I read it."

"Surely there is another alternative, Mr. Holmes. I don't know whether you observed my bedroom window?"

"Lattice paneled, lead framework, three separate windows, one swinging on hinge and large enough to admit a man."

"Exactly. And it looks out on an angle of the courtyard so as to be perfectly invisible. The man might have effected his entrance there, left traces as he passed through the bedroom, and finally, finding the door open, have escaped that way."

Holmes shook his head impatiently. "Let us be practical," said he. "I understand you to say that there are three students who use this stair and are in the habit of passing your door?"

"Yes, there are."

"And they are all in for this examination?"

"Yes."

"Have you any reason to suspect any one of them more than the others?"

Soames hesitated.

"It is a very delicate question," said he. "One hardly likes to throw suspicion where there are no proofs."

"Let us hear the suspicions. I will look after the proofs."

papers which would tell you that he had been there. You were not aware of any hurrying feet on the stair as you entered the outer door?"

"No, I can't say I was."

"Well, he wrote so furiously that he broke his pencil, and had, as you observe, to sharpen it again. This is of interest, Watson. The pencil was not an ordinary one. It was above the usual size, with a soft lead, the outer color was dark blue, the maker's name was printed in silver lettering, and the piece remaining is only about an inch and a half long. Look for such a pencil, Mr. Soames, and you have got your man. When I add that he possesses a large and very blunt knife you have an additional aid."

Mr. Soames was somewhat overwhelmed by this flood of information. "I can follow the other points," said he, "but, really, in this matter of length—"

Holmes held out a small chip with the letters NN and a space of clear wood after them.

"You see?"

"No, I fear that even now—"

"Watson, I have always done you an injustice. There are others. What could this NN be? It is at the end of a word. You are aware that Johann Faber is the most common maker's name. Is it not clear that there is just as much of the pencil left as usually follows the Johann?" He held the small table sideways to the electric light. "I was hoping that if the paper on which he wrote was thin some trace of it might come through upon this polished surface. No, I see nothing. I don't think there is anything more to be learned here. Now for the central table. This small pellet is, I presume, the black, doughy mass you spoke of. Roughly pyramidal in shape and hollowed out, I perceive. As you say, there appear to be grains of sawdust in it. Dear me, this is very interesting. And the cut—a positive tear, I see. It began with a thin scratch and ended with a jagged hole. I am much indebted to you for directing my attention to this case, Mr. Soames. Where does that door lead to?"

"To my bedroom."

"Have you been in it since your advertisement?"

"No, I came straight away for you."

"I should like to have a glance round. What a charming, old-fashioned room! Perhaps you will kindly wait a minute until I have examined the floor. No, I see nothing. What about this curtain? You hang your clothes behind it. If any one were forced to conceal himself in this room he must do it there, since the bed is too low and the wardrobe too shallow. No one there, I suppose?"

WOODBURY IN PORT

SCHOONER ARRIVES AFTER LONG PASSAGE

BUCKS HEAD WINDS AND SEA FROM LAYSAN — JAPANESE HELMSMAN DIES AT WHEEL.

After bucking a head wind, a head sea and a westerly current for twenty-three days in a badly crippled vessel, Capt. Harris brought the schooner Chas. Levi Woodbury safely into port yesterday morning. Since the announcement a few days ago that the schooner was safe, at Laysan Island, no serious fears were felt for her on her homeward trip. But, according to Capt. Harris, the schooner nearly met with a mishap on the last passage that would have made her chances of getting here rather slim. The patched main boom sprung again in a heavy wind. If it had given way completely the schooner would have been practically unable to beat against the trade winds.

Among old skippers and sailors along the waterfront it is regarded as extraordinary that Harris should have attempted to beat against the trade winds with his vessel crippled as she is. One old sea captain said this morning that the schooner should have run northward out of the trades and then made her easting, asserting that this course would have been far less hazardous, and about as short in the end.

The schooner Woodbury left this port on July 1 and made a quick trip to Laysan Island, arriving there in a little over four days. At the island 150 short tons of guano were loaded, and on July 13 the Woodbury sailed for Honolulu. The second day out in a gale she lost her staysail and foresail. The pumps became clogged and to free the decks from the water of the bulwarks were knocked away. At this time the schooner was running under bare poles. After three days the storm subsided. On Wednesday night, when the storm seemed to have blown itself out, Captain Harris went below to sleep. About 9:30 o'clock he was awakened by a crashing overhead and ran on deck. He found that the schooner had been struck aback by a sudden squall and the mainboom broken off just over the house. Capt. Schlemmer, who was aboard, fixed up a fairly good boom, and the schooner was headed for Laysan. Then Captain Harris found that he was far to the westward. Therefore he ran down to Lisianski Island, and from there made for Laysan, which was reached on August 9.

On the way to Laysan one of the Japanese sailors died at the wheel, and when found some time later, with his hands still clutching the spokes. He was buried the next day.

At Laysan Island the main boom was repaired, being spliced up with the old boom of the schooner C. Kennedy. The schooner sailed from Laysan Island on August 11, and after 12 days at sea ran into strong trades. The main boom sprung again and from that time on the mainsail had to be partly reefed. The schooner continued to buck head winds all the way to Kaula. From that time, last Tuesday morning, until making port, variable winds, alternating with calms, were experienced. The Woodbury was picked up off Diamond Head and towed into port yesterday morning. She is tied up at Railway wharf No. 2, and is discharging her guano today. She will need an overhauling of her rigging before another trip to Laysan.

DELIGHTFUL DOINGS AT HALEIWA HOTEL

The weather was splendid at Haleiwa, Waialua, on Sunday, and the hotel had a very lively day. Dr. Howard Humphris and Mr. C. W. Case Deering made the trip down in Mr. Deering's auto, the party intending to spend Labor Day at Haleiwa.

Over 50 guests sat down to an excellent luncheon and dinner and speak in eulogistic terms of Manager Bidgood's catering.

Mr. Joseph Aea played some selections on the piano during the evening, and everyone had a glorious time.

The golf links are in excellent shape just now, and many pleasant matches were brought off. Mrs. Phillips and Mr. Oswald Mayall are matched against Messrs. Bottomley and Phillips on Labor Day, in a two ball foursome, a good game is certain.

Cleveland, August 9.—The World-News today says: At conferences now taking place at Forest Hill between John D. Rockefeller and President William R. Harper of Chicago University, plans are being formulated for the further endowment of that educational institution by Mr. Rockefeller.

President and Mrs. Harper arrived in Cleveland today. The visit of the Harpers to the home of Mr. Rockefeller is said to be one of a social nature, but it is known that plans involving the outlay of $50,000,000 are under consideration by Mr. Rockefeller, who desires to make the university the greatest seat of learning in the world. It is believed final steps in the matter will have been taken before President Harper leaves, and his return to Chicago will be followed by the announcement that the work of enlarging the university will be begun at once.

NEW MILL AT HOEA

FOR HANDLING HAWI CANE WILL BE ONE OF THE BEST

PRESENT CAPACITY 45 TONS. THIS WILL BE INCREASED TO 50 TONS IN TWENTY-FOUR HOURS.

(Special to The Bulletin)

Kohala Club, Hawaii, Aug. 25.—The new Hawi plantation mill at Hoeha ground its first cane upon July 27th last year, yet it is not completed and will not be working up to its intended capacity until many necessary improvements have been made.

From January 17th this year until the 19th inst. the mill has turned out 1557.86 tons of sugar. The present capacity is 45 tons in 24 hours, but this will be increased to over 50 tons for the same number of hours.

One more 8-ton and one 3-ton pan, four new centrifugals and another set of triple effects, when operating in conjunction with the mill furniture now in use, will make Hoeha one of the most attractive and up-to-date 9-roller mills upon the island.

UNION MILL PROGRESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Kohala, Club, Hawaii, Aug. 25.—Union Mill closed down August 16 and is undergoing a thorough overhauling under the supervision of Engineer Joseph Meinecke.

The old three-roller mill, which has been in use for many years, is being torn down and a new mill which is now in the shops of the Honolulu Iron Works will replace it.

The old rollers were 26x54, while the new ones will be 30x60. Among the other extensive improvements which are to be installed will be a new Corliss engine from Hamilton, Ohio; 14 or 16 knives for chopping the cane as it goes from the carrier to the rollers; an engine 8x12 to drive these knives and four more new centrifugals of English make. A 14x36 engine, which was taken from the old mill will drive the eight centrifugals which the new mill will contain.

Ed. Quinn, boss carpenter of the plantation, will have charge of the construction of the wood work in the new mill which will probably be ready to begin upon the next crop by January 1st.

MOOKINI HEIAU

MARKS PLACE WHERE KAMEHAMEHA WAS BORN

OLD HAWAIIAN WOMAN NEAR BY WHO RELATES THE DETAILS OF SOME HISTORIC EVENTS.

(Special to The Bulletin)

Kohala Club, Hawaii, Aug. 25.—Mookini Heiau, the largest and best preserved heiau in the Islands, is situated but a short distance from Hoeha mill near the road leading to Honolulu. In olden days it was there that the Hawaiian gods of Kohala, Hamakua and Hilo congregated and it was there that the serfs and plebeians came to worship their heathen gods and bow down their humble heads to the ground in obedience to their chiefs and masters.

The Heiau, like all others still remaining in the Islands, is but a large enclosure surrounded by stone walls, which were built by piling stone upon stone until the desired height was reached. Mookini sanctuary is some where in the neighborhood of 200 feet long, inside measurement, and about 100 feet wide. It runs makai and mauka, the wall upon the windward side being from 15 to 20 feet high, the stones being so arranged at each end that one can walk up over the wall and down into the interior.

Just below Mookini is a large, hollowed out pohaku, where human sacrifices were made, and to one who has made a study of Hawaiian history and is somewhat familiar with the ancient customs and religious rites of the Hawaiians, this stone is of extreme interest.

The sanctuary is of more than ordinary interest, because, according to the most authentic reports, it was near here that the great Kamehameha, the master mind of the Hawaiians of all times, was born.

A few hundred yards mauka of Mookini lives a very old and decrepit Hawaiian woman named Kekaula, who tells a vivid story of Kamehameha's birth and early youth, she having been told these things by her grandmother, who lived in the immediate vicinity during Kamehameha's time. This old lady cannot speak a word of English, yet when asked to tell what she knew of Kamehameha and the ancient heiau during the years that have long ago faded away, her mind seemed to wander back to the scenes of her childhood and to the stories she had heard, for in her native language she told of happenings which were enacted in Kohala several generations ago, as clearly as though they had occurred yesterday.

Kamehameha's parents lived towards the Kohala mountains from the heiau and Kamehameha's mother, anticipating his birth, set out for Mookini, as it was customary for children of high rank to be born in the sanctuaries. The all mother, with her retainers, not being able to reach the heiau, camped at a place not far away from it that night and it was here that Kamehameha, who afterwards became king of all the Hawaiians, was born. A stone today marks the spot, which is sacred to loyal Hawaiians.

Kamehameha was kept in Mookini heiau for a short time and then was taken to a place near Halawa, where his life could be protected from jealous rivals, who envied him on account of the power which was to be his. At Halawa he grew to young manhood, and after all dangers had passed away he went forth into the little Hawaiian world, the only world which he knew, and fought his way, amid almost unsurmountable obstacles, to fame and glory.
