Dr. Nag joins the staff of the Oriental Institute in February 1937 to help us to organize our Indian Department
THE UNIVERSITY OF HAWAII had already made a name for itself in the field of Oriental Studies when, in 1935, the Regents decided upon the organization of the Oriental Institute. The Japanese and the Chinese Departments—the basis of the Institute—had functioned successfully for fifteen years; by 1930, according to a report published by the Institute of Pacific Relations, the University of Hawaii ranked third among colleges and universities of the United States in number of courses offered on the Orient or related to the Orient. In 1931 the School of Pacific and Oriental Affairs was organized as a department of the University's Summer Session, and has since then brought great credit on the institution by reason of the international character and the sound scholarship of its faculty. The Oriental Institute is, therefore, a natural development of these forces.

The Oriental Institute has two main purposes: (a) to train students in the languages and cultures of the peoples of the Orient; (b) to bring to a knowledge of the Occident the great beauties and excellencies of many phases of life and civilization in Japan, China, and India.

This bulletin is designed to inform interested people of the present status of instruction in Oriental Studies; it lists thirty-five courses; in 1930 there were twenty-two offered.

With the presentation of 15,000 books from Japan, China, and India, our library in Orientalia is one of which we may well be proud.

The undergraduate student who is interested in attending the University of Hawaii is referred for detailed information to the University Catalogue and Announcement of Courses; the graduate student is referred to the Graduate Study Bulletin.

The University calendar for 1937 is as follows:

February 18 . Registration, Second Semester . . Thursday
February 22 . Washington's Birthday . . . . Monday
March 26–27 . Good Friday Recess . . . . Fri.–Sat.

During the second semester a study will be made of the development of industrial and fine arts and art symbols, with special emphasis upon the pictorial art and its relationship to the Chinese philosophy of life.
GENERAL INFORMATION

The Oriental Institute is new in name but old in service.

The Japanese Department was organized in 1920 by Dr. Tasuku Harada, formerly president of the Doshisha University, Kyoto, Japan.

Prof. Shao Chang Lee came in 1922 to take charge of the Chinese Department.

The School of Pacific and Oriental Affairs was organized in 1931.

Dr. Kalidas Nag will help us to organize the Indian Department during 1937.

Dr. Nag is expected to arrive in Honolulu on February 19th on the Chichibu Maru.

He is scheduled to speak on “India’s Contributions to Culture,” February 23rd, Farrington Hall.

Japanese sources gave us 4,000 volumes last year.

Prof. S. C. Lee brought back 11,000 volumes from China in 1936.

The Oriental Institute offers undergraduate and graduate instruction in the fields of Oriental languages and cultures.

During 1936, the Oriental Institute was promised $35,000.00, of which $17,000.00 is available in 1937 for salaries of professors in the graduate division.

We have confident hopes that an amount equal to this sum, and in addition to it, will be subscribed; local friends have given us assurances that they will underwrite the salaries of our Graduate faculty.

The University is paying the salaries of all members of the faculty listed in this bulletin, except Dr. W. T. Chan’s and Dr. Nag’s.

The University is continuing its support of this great work.

We need scholarships for students.

Dr. Kalidas Nag has lectured in colleges and universities in India, China, Japan, France, Spain, Great Britain, Scandinavia, and Eastern United States.

Nearly four hundred students registered for courses on Oriental subjects in the first semester.

Dr. Charles A. Moore, recently of the Yale faculty, now of the Department of Philosophy here, and Dr. Wing Tsit Chan are compiling a Source Book in Oriental Philosophy.
The Director has two books in hand: Literary Criticism in the Orient, a source book, and An Introduction to the Literature of the Orient, a book of essays.

The Oriental Institute and the Honolulu Academy of Arts may jointly present Dr. Nag in a series of four lectures on Indian Art; see the newspapers for full announcement.

Prof. S. C. Lee's Chinese Culture—A Chart will be ready for publication in February, and his two-volume History of China should be ready by April.

Dr. W. T. Chan hopes to have his MS. on Chuang Tzu, the great Taoist philosopher and writer, in proper shape by May.

Teaching, research, writing—these duties made German universities great and German professors internationally famous; our professors will make Hawaii the magnet for students of Oriental subjects by teaching well, doing needed research, and by writing interestingly.

According to the I. P. R., eighty-nine colleges and universities have inaugurated courses on Oriental subjects in the last five years.

Contrary to belief in some quarters, our library is far from being first in number of books on the Orient; it probably ranks sixth among the college libraries of the country.

Prof. Tadao Kunitomo has set aside temporarily his translation of Six Modern Japanese Plays, in order to complete his History of Japanese Literature in the Meiji Period.

Prof. Yukuo Uyehara is working on a textbook for the study of the Japanese Language.

We welcome visitors; telephone us when you can come to see us.

Visitors from abroad who have looked us over recently include: Dr. Hu Shih, Dr. D. T. Suzuki, Galen Fisher, Kiang Kang-Ku, Dr. We Yi-Fang, Prof. G. W. Groff, Chih Meng, Dr. Edward Hume, Dr. Linden A. Mander.

The Oriental Institute occupies a large part of the second floor of the new wing of the library building—four private offices, with a large room for our four instructors, and a beautiful lecture room.

Confucius said: "Though a man may be able to recite the three hundred odes, yet if, when intrusted with a governmental charge, he knows not how to act, or if, when sent to any quarter on a mission, he cannot give his replies unassisted, notwithstanding the extent of his learning, of what practical use is it?"
