New Education Fellowship

PACIFIC
CONFERENCE

UNIVERSITY OF HAWAII
Honolulu, Hawaii, June 18-24, 1938
FOREWORD

THE PACIFIC CONFERENCE of the New Education Fellowship is a joint undertaking of the Progressive Education Association and the University of Hawaii. It is sponsored locally by many of the agencies interested in youth and civic affairs. Among these are: Department of Public Instruction, Hawaii Education Association, Hawaii Congress of Parents and Teachers, Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, Institute of Pacific Relations, Hawaii Tourist Bureau, Pan-Pacific Union, Hawaiian Civic Association, Honolulu Young Men's Christian Association and Young Women's Christian Association, American Association of University Women, Honolulu Business and Professional Women's Club. The encouragement and support of these organizations have been most helpful in developing a rich and varied convention program. As individuals, members of these civic groups have served on the various committees in the planning of program, arrangements, hospitality and other necessary details. Although too numerous to list officially, to each and every one of these is herewith accorded the sincere appreciation of the Executive Committee.

Concentrated in the week devoted to the conference is a program of interest and value to teachers and laymen. Visiting delegates are men and women who have won for themselves the recognition and esteem of their fellow countrymen. In this era of conflicting political ideologies, democracy as a way of living is definitely on the defensive. The pressure upon the school, in the interests of political and economic objectives, is a challenge to the progressive educator. This New Education Fellowship conference is designed to bring educator and layman together for the consideration of the basic issues involved in the perpetuation of the principles of democracy and the part that education must play in the unfolding drama of the present-day world of conflict.

Benj. O. Wist
Chairman, Executive Committee
The New Education Fellowship

THE NEW EDUCATION FELLOWSHIP is an international organization of educators and laymen who believe that education in home, school and community can be a more effective factor in building a better world in which to live. It has accepted the educational and social principles which in the educational world are associated with the progressive education movement, and in the social world are a part of democratic society. As an educational organization its chief concern is with study and experimentation to improve education. Through its journal, The New Era, regional conferences and international meetings, it seeks to carry on its work.

The New Education Fellowship was founded in Europe immediately following the world war. At the present time it has fifty-five national sections and fifteen journals in many languages. In the United States, this educational movement grew to strength under the name of the Progressive Education Association. In the international scene, this organization takes its place as the United States section of the New Education Fellowship.

The Progressive Education Association now numbers ten thousand members. Similar to the international organization, it carries on its work through its journal, Progressive Education, commissions and committees, conferences and field services. Essentially it is a pioneering organization, concerned with initiating and developing necessary changes in the educational programs of home, school and community. Supplementing national and state organizations, it strives to promote through experimentation and research a more rapid transition from stereotyped educational practices than can be achieved by the larger and more official organizations.

The Pacific Conference of the New Education Fellowship is typical of the activities of the Progressive Education Association. With the assistance of the University of Hawaii, the association brings to America's outpost in the Pacific a number of the leading educators and laymen interested in its objectives. In the promotion of its broader aims, it has secured the actual participation of the many socio-civic organizations of the Hawaiian Islands. Hawaii, with its central Pacific location, its culture heritages of Occident and Orient, its tradition of socio-economic experimentation, thus becomes the center of dispersion of new concepts which center about Education for Democracy in a World of Conflict.

Executive Secretary,
Progressive Education Association
REGISTRATION

All conference sessions, including enrollment in two Study-Discussion Groups, are open to delegates. Any individual may become a delegate by payment of the $3.00 registration fee. Official registration dates are Saturday, June 18, and Monday, June 20. On these dates delegates may register at the convention headquarters in Room 112, Hawaii Hall, University of Hawaii. Provision will also be made for registration at the Gymnasium on the latter date, and immediately before and after the evening session on Sunday, June 19. Delegates are urged to register before Monday, June 20, if possible. This will facilitate the organization of the Study-Group sections and prevent confusion. Prospective delegates who find it impossible to register before that date, may attend the morning meetings of their choice and effect registration later in the day. Attendance at the Monday evening session, and all sessions thereafter, will be by registration card or individual session ticket only.

To accommodate business and professional people, who may not find it convenient to attend all sessions, special tickets are available. Tickets for single sessions, morning or evening, may be had at 75 cents each. The price for a series ticket, good for all morning general assemblies or for all evening lectures is $3.00. These tickets may be secured from Registration headquarters or at the door. There will be no admission to Study-Discussion groups except to duly registered delegates.
