The spider spun his silken web
Across a store-door wide,
And when he had his work complete
He looked at it with pride.
"For building it," a fly remarked,
"Across a door—see that,
The customers who come in here
Will knock the whole thing flat."
"Oh, that's all right," the spider said,
"You ain't so awful wise;
This merchant is a friend of mine;
He doesn't advertise."

Sailor's Declare War In Federal Court On Shipping Masters

Wm. McCarthy and "John Doe" Edwards were before Federal Judge Dole this morning on charges connecting them with interfering with the rights of seamen, soliciting mariners to desert. Hearing was continued until tomorrow morning and, in the meanwhile, the men are under $50 bail each.

McCarthy and Edwards are more or less well known waterfront characters. McCarthy has figured in numerous Police Court, Territorial Circuit Court and Federal Court cases; he served a short term in Oahu prison as the result of a strenuous altercation with a woman, whose ear he is alleged to have bitten while otherwise maltreating her. His business is with sailors, supplying them to ships; he also conducts a shore retreat for sailors. The business in which McCarthy is said now to be engaged is sometimes associated in waterfront conversation with what is generally termed "crimping".

The Standard dictionary says "crimp" is "an extortionate man who preys upon sailors"; sailors use the term indiscriminately in speaking of sailors' boarding-house agents or runners, often without regard to whether the alleged "crimp" is extortionate or whether or not he "preys".

It is said that there is considerable doing back of the present charge; that the Sailors' Union and the Seamen's Institute have made up their respective minds to abolish crimping in this port, if it exists. These powerful institutions are believed to be behind the present allegations.

Following is a copy of an affidavit filed in the present case, the complaint being partially based on this showing: Honolulu, T. H., June 22, 1904.

I hereby state that I am a seaman on board of the American schooner Solano, which vessel arrived in the harbor of Honolulu, Oahu, on the morning of June 22, 1904, and that after the vessel docked at the wharf, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 5 p. m., while I was still a seaman belonging to the Solano, two men, viz: Wm. McCarthy and John Doe Edwards—supposed boarding-house keepers—did come on board the said ship, and did solicit with liquor; and McCarthy and Edwards did return again twice, and did speak to me with words from their mouth, and did say to me, "Come on shore; times are good. I can get you a ship at $60 by the run, and you can make your wages ashore. Come and stay at my house"; and I wish to say that through this soliciting and fine speech that I was persuaded with four other men to go ashore, and that the aforesaid Wm. McCarthy and Edwards took us to a tailor's store by name Lee Koe, on Nuuanu Street, and told us we could order clothes for $15, which could easily be settled up later when we were paid off or shipped again; after which we went with the said men, McCarthy and Edwards, to a saloon and had drinks, and then went with them to a boarding-house, which was run by aforesaid Wm. KAUAI POSTMASTER HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Levi P. Kauhoe, charged with embezzling $1891 of Federal funds as postmaster at Kapaa, Kauai, was examined by U. S. District Attorney Dunne before U. S. Commissioner Judd this morning and committed to the custody of the Marshal in default of $4000 bail, to await the action of the next Federal Grand Jury, October 10.

Postoffice Inspector Frank Hare, U. S. Marshal Hendry and the sureties on Kauhoe's bonds as postmaster, appeared as witnesses. All testified that Kauhoe had offered no explanation of the shortage, that he had said he knew nothing of how his accounts in the money order department had come to be behind.

Inspector Hare discovered the shortage on June 15; Kauhoe was appointed postmaster in January, 1902.

The Government is secured against the loss by the joint note of Kauhoe's father and a prominent Kauai Chinese. Penalty provided under Section 4015, Revised Statutes, is from six months to ten years imprisonment and a fine equal to the amount embezzled.

AGED WATCHMAN DIES.

Mr. Cahill, the night watchman at Hackfeld's wharf, died last night at 10 o'clock at the residence of his son, Wm. Cahill, in Christley lane. Mr. Cahill was over 80 years old. In accordance with a wish expressed by the deceased his remains will be cremated. Wm. Cahill, his son, is an engineer on board the steamer Mauna Loa, which is due to arrive from Hawaii tomorrow.

LAVINIA'S PLANS VERY INDEFINITE

Thetis Captain Forbids Weisbarth's Taking Bird Skins

SCHOONER MAY RETURN TO THE WRECKED BARK

WEISBARTH ALSO MENTIONS A PLAN OF GOING TO LAYSAN ISLAND WHERE HE HAS INTERESTS.

Captain Weisbarth has finally returned from French Frigate Shoals with something to show for his labors on the wrecked French bark Connettable de Richmond. The schooner Lavinia, in which Weisbarth made his expedition, returned from the Shoals last Saturday afternoon and docked at the Fishmarket wharf. She had spent three days on the outward and eleven days on the homeward voyage. During the voyage as well as during the stay at the Shoals fine weather was enjoyed. The whole trip took sixty-two days.

The little schooner was well laden with all manner of stuff taken from the Connettable de Richmond. The wrecked bark was a finely equipped ship and Captain Weisbarth took as much of her portable gear as he could carry away. Pumps, engines, anchors, chains, needles, one topgallant yard and a great many other things are today being taken out of the Lavinia. Captain Weisbarth values the stuff in the neighborhood of $4,500.

Captain Weisbarth is discharging the stuff as hurriedly as he can. He stated today that he would give it in charge of Jas. F. Morgan, to sell it for him. He does, however, not want it sold at auction, as he does not think that the goods will bring their full value if sold in this manner. In spite of the long time they have been exposed to the elements the things brought back by Weisbarth are in a remarkably fine state of preservation.

Collector of the Port E. R. Stackable stated this morning that duty would be charged on the articles Weisbarth has brought back. As they are foreign goods without any doubt it seems absolutely reasonable that duty should be charged. The duty will, however, be the only trouble Weisbarth will have to settle before he can call the goods absolutely his own. The French Government will make no claim on Weisbarth's plunder in the name of the wrecked bark's owners or otherwise. Albert Raas, who was acting French Consul at the time of the wreck of the Connettable, and who managed all the vessel's affairs, stated this forenoon that no claim whatever would be made.

Captain Weisbarth is in a great hurry to go to sea again. He states that he expects to sail either tonight or tomorrow morning. A well-defined rumor has it that the Lavinia is going to Lisianski Island to get the valuable cargo of bird-skins, which was left behind by the Japanese bird-catchers when the revenue cutter Thetis

REPUBLICANS ARE STRONG IN KOOLAU

Sheriff Lane Secures Highest Vote Of All Officers.

PRECINCT CLUB ELECTION SECOND OF FIFTH

KEKAUOKA IS PRESIDENT; OANA, SECRETARY; KEAUNUI, PAR- KER AND HAMANA THE JUDGES.

The result of the Second Precinct, Fifth District, official election for Republican Precinct Club officers reveals eighty-one good Republican votes as against less than one hundred votes, all told, Republican and Home Rule, at the county elections last year, thus marking a wonderful amount of hustling in the cause on the windward side of this island.

The precinct is a big one and, in order to get these 81 voters together, men gathered from Kahuku to Kahana, Sheriff Richards Lane of Koolau, whose headquarters is at Hauula, was most active in getting things and people together and did everything possible with a view to having the various sections of the precinct represented among the club officers.

Following is the result of the election:

President—George Kekauoka, 35.
First Vice President—J. Kekuku, 25.
Second Vice President—L. K. Naone, 53.
Secretary—H. K. Aana, 38.
Treasurer—L. B. Nainoa, 36.
Judges of Election—L. M. Keaunui, 49; John Parker, 26; Hamana, 23.
Executive Committee—R. C. Lane, 56; Jim Aylett, 38; Geo. Akao, 45; S. U. Nuuhiva, 43; M. Kaanaana, 31.

Lane secured the largest vote of any officer elected.

The vote that elected Kaanaana had to be recounted. S. W. Logan secured 30 and the closeness demanded a recount.

Kekauoka, Kekuku, and Nainoa are lawless men; Naone is jailor at Kahuku. The election was held Friday at Hauula.

The magistrate has many trying ordeals.

'OLD HANLON' AT BAY POLICE WOULD PROVE HIM A VAGRANT

THE OLD IRISHMAN OF KAKAOKO PRODUCES A BOOK OF AC- COUNTS SHOWING BUSINESS.

"Old Hanlon", a quaint old Irishman who is quite a well-known character here, is meeting with treatment at the hands of the Police Department. Hanlon was charged with vagrancy before Judge Lindsay this morning. The police say he is a nuisance.

Hanlon has for some years past lived in a little shack in what is known as the "sand lot" in Kakaako. This is one of the toughest quarters in town. The scum of humanity living in the neighborhood have for a long time past been in the habit of amusing themselves by throwing rocks and stones at the old man's poor shelter, breaking the windows and doing other damage. As a consequence Hanlon has been besieging the police station seeking for protection. Generally he received only "joshing" from the witty lesser lights from the department. If he got any of the protection he so much sought for, it must have been very inadequate, for there has been no cessation of the usage of the Kakaako toughs. Hanlon unfortunately is fond of beer and at times shows the evidence of this taste, but he has never been other than a poor old man whose quaint Irish wit made him liked by many people; at least he is certainly harmless.

In the Police Court this morning Detective McDuffie said that he had known Hanlon for a long time. He had never seen him do any work.

High Sheriff Brown testified that Hanlon was in the habit of "bumming" drinks from friends. He had a regular boat from the police station to Nolte's restaurant. He depended on small contributions given him by friends. The Sheriff knew that Hanlon had certain property, but its affairs were so entangled that he had not collected anything from it for a long time.

Hanlon took the stand. He was much surprised at the part the High Sheriff had taken against him: "And, sure, I thought you was my friend and

Mailes and Kams 4-3 Defeat 1-0 Elks and Punahous

Two of the best contests of the season were pulled off in the baseball arena Saturday afternoon, to the steady maintained delight of a great crowd. Both games were close all the way through. Defeating the Elks by 4 to 3, the Maile Illimas scored their second victory over the team mentioned. In the closest fight for honors seen on the diamond this year, the Kams bested the Punahous, 1 to 0, shutting them out again; on the first occasion the score stood 8 to 0, Punahou played a magnificent, errorless game, and it is said, if Wilder's decision concerning Woods' connection with first base, noted below, had been different, results might have been otherwise. The Kams put up a warm series of good stunts, finding their luck in the seventh. Desha in the Punahou box did great work, accomplishing twelve strike outs. Richards, pitching for the Kams, was in splendid trim. A bad knee which put him out of the game a week ago, did not interfere with his operations on Saturday. Zmloch, of the Elks, struck out twelve men to Hampton's three. Cogswell, the Maile's captain, was fined $5 for talking back to Umpire Bowers.

The present standing of the teams is as follows:
Team, P. W. L. Per.
Kamehameha..... 6 4 2 666 2-3
H. A. C..... 6 4 2 666 2-3
Elks..... 3 4 428 4-7
Punahou..... 7 3 4 428 4-7
Maile Illima..... 6 2 4 333 1-3

Following is a record of Saturday's games by innings:
First game: Mailes vs. Elks. Called at 1:45 p. m. Mailes batting. Cusack hits two-bagger to left; Hampton singles to center and steals second. Cusack gets home on passed ball; Roberts brings in Hampton, hitting to center; Davis swipes to Russell, who nabs Roberts at second and chucks it to first, who doesn't connect; Cunha annexes the ball and fires to second, a fatal throw for Davis; Ryan shuffles off the diamond, second to first. Elks to bat: Bushnell strikes out; Moore grounds and dies, short to first. Russell repeats the stunt.

Second inning: Cogswell out, third to first; Delorie and Grady strike out. Elks to bat: Cunha flies out to left; Wilder is executed by short to third; White base hits; Kaal centers; center errors, permitting White to reach home and Kaal to land next door; Kia knocks to short, who also errors; Kia gets safe and Kaal tops on the plate; Zmloch strikes out.

Third inning: Mailes batting. Robinson strikes out; Cusack flies out to center; Hampton base hits to left; he steals second in the face of a swift throw to that baseman from catcher, second being off the bag when he copped the ball and runner sliding prettily. Roberts strikes out. Elks batting: Bushnell foul flies but catcher fails to hold it; batter out, pitcher to first; Moore gets base on balls; he steals second, desperately; Russell out, pitcher to first; "Toots" Cunha flies out to second.

Fourth inning: Mailes batting. Davis, with a little grandstand play with the umpire, strikes out; Ryan out, short to first; Cogswell flies out to right. Elks batting: Wilder safe on first by a near-liner to right; White hits to pitcher, who puts Wilder out at second, who just fails to put White out at first; White steals second, colliding with that baseman, knocking him down. "Doc" Monsarrat howls "dirty play" from the grandstand: "Don't stick your fingers in a man's eyes to get second!" he shouts. White stole clean; remarks funny but correct. Kaal strikes out; Kia flies out to left.

Fifth inning: Delorie strikes out; Grady follows suit; Robinson gets base on balls; Cusack (left-hander) hits hard past short and earns three bags, bringing Robinson home; Hampton hits to left for first and brings Cusack across the plate; Roberts puts it past pitcher and gets to first, Hampton on third; Davis flies out to short; an exciting inning. Elks batting: Zmloch safe on first, short throws to first, who lets it pass; Zmloch steals second; Bushnell out, pitcher to first;

Zmloch on third. Moore makes his base on a skyer missed by short and Zmloch comes home; Russell out, pitcher to first; Moore out (very close) at third on first's throw.

Sixth inning: Ryan strikes out; Cogswell follows suit; Delorie is tagged by catcher. Elks batting: Cunha hits a hot one to Hampton, who stops it, drops it, loses it, finds it, gets it and lands it with first in time to put his man out; Wilder hits to Hampton, who stops it as before and delivers in time to first; White strikes to third and is thrown out at first.

Seventh inning: Grady out, ground-er to first. Robinson out, second to first; Cusack out, pitcher to first. Elks batting: Kaal is hit and takes base; Kia flies out to center and Kaal is caught off first; Zmloch out, second to first.

Eighth inning: Hampton strikes out. Roberts grounds to first, Russell covering that base while baseman meets ball. Davis flies out to Russell. Elks batting: Bushnell safe on first on hit to short; he is caught stealing second; Moore hits safe along left boundary; Russell out, second to first; Cunha out, third to first.

Ninth inning: Ryan safe on first, short fumbling ball; Cogswell out on foul bunt; Ryan steals second; Delorie strikes out; Grady out, third to first. Elks batting: One run wanted to even the score. Wilder to bat; strike one—cheers; ball one, and then—he gets safe on a hit past short; White batting: Wilder caught off first, catcher to first, Wilder slipping; White out, third to first—great excitement; Kaal safe, hit to second; he steals second; Kia flies out to center. Maile win: 4 to 3. Last innings occupied 17 minutes.

Second game: Called at 3:28 p. m. Kamehameha vs. Punahou; Punahou to the bat; Woods safe, hit to right, just over first's head; Steere flies out to second and Woods is out, off first base; Lishman gets base on balls; Ahrens to bat; Lishman steals second and then third on first's bad throw; Ahrens out, second to first. Kams batting: Sheldon out, second to first; Lemon flies out to left, Tucker ("the old reliable Tucker!" cries "Doc" Monsarrat); Jones foul flies to Woods, a splendid catch.

Third inning: Punahou batting; Woods strikes out; Steere flies out to Vanatta; Lishman hits to left fence and makes second; Lemon makes splendid try for fly; Ahrens out, pitcher to first. Kams batting: Koki strikes out; Kekuewa follows suit; Plunkett does likewise—1, 2, 3 order.

Fourth inning: Tucker safe on center's error, center drops fly ball; Campbell flies out to pitcher; Tucker steals second; Desha flies out to short, Sheldon, who runs way to left, beyond foul line, catching on the run, falling and rolling but holding the sphere; Robinson flies to center; a fly inning. Kams batting: Sheldon flies out to Tucker; Lemon makes two-base hit to left; Jones strikes out; Vanatta to bat; Lemon caught by catcher at third, stealing.

Fifth inning: Williams strikes out; Woods flies out to center, Koki; Steere flies out to Plunkett in right field. Kams batting: Reuter strikes out; Richards gets base on balls; Koki batting; Richards steals second; Koki flies out to short, who puts Richards out on second.

Sixth inning: Lishman flies out to Jones on first, a hot liner; Ahrens strikes out; Tucker flies out to Lemon in left field. Kams batting: Kekuewa strikes out; Plunkett flies out to Williams in center; Sheldon base hit; Lemon flies out to Campbell on third, a beauty.

Seventh inning: Campbell flies out to Vanatta; Desha flies out to Jones;

Eighth inning: Williams hits to center and is safe; Woods bunts, gets safe to first but is called out by Wilder; a poor decision; Steere flies out to Vanatta; Lishman out, short to first. Kams batting: Sheldon, base on balls; Lemon flies out to Steere; Jones strikes out; Sheldon out, stealing second while Vanatta is at the bat.

Ninth inning: Ahrens grounds to first and is out; Tucker gets base on balls; Waterhouse (in Campbell's place) hits to right, hard, and is safe; Tucker moves to third; Waterhouse steals second; Desha flies out to Sheldon; Robinson strikes out. Kams win, 1 to 0.

THE ADVANTAGES CEMENT ROOFING

POSSESSES OVER TIN, IRON AND STEEL ROOFING

IT CANNOT RUST

Gases, fumes, moisture, coal soot and smoke cannot injure or affect CEMENT ROOFING. It is better adapted for application over uneven surfaces, such as old shingles or metal roofs, obviating the expense of removing the same. It will not rattle from wind and storm, nor create any noise from rain falling upon it. The materials used in cement roofing are the best non-conductors of heat and cold known; therefore it will keep the building warmer in winter and cooler in summer than a metal roof. Samples and full particulars mailed on request.

MONDAY, JUNE 27, 1904.

Judged from its precinct vote Kooiaulou should cast a unanimous Republican vote in the fall election.

A Tammany envoy seeking Dick Croker's support for Cleveland is not unlike a delegation from purgatory petitioning the Devil to adopt Holy Water.

It will make all the difference in the world whether the failure of Oku's and Kuroki's armies to unite was the result of voluntary or forced change of plans.

After writing existes to the press for many years past John Hanlon has apparently come to the conclusion that the pen is not as mighty as he has heard tell about.

Kapa's postmaster had possibly been impressed with the Territorial topic of the day, that Uncle Sam is making too much out of Hawaii and giving too little in return.

Former Judge Kalua's first experience in the precinct elections of Lahaina indicates that the people require a local kamaaina certificate before advancing residents to official station.

Some Honolulu people appear to believe Territorial progress is promoted by knocking Hilo or any other outside district that comes handy. The knocker has never been known to promote the progress of anything.

As Mississippi is one of the Democratic strongholds, the National Convention to meet next week should not fail to express its opinion on government by lynching as well as government by injunction.

The man who said Hilo is not awake was by general consent indulging in the pastime of a dreamer. If memory serves correctly it was Governor Carter who spoke of Hilo as a town with good American sentiment and plenty of energy.

The death of Monsignor Guidi, apostolic Delegate to the Philippines, comes at this time as a National calamity. Guidi has done a most important work in settling the difficult Friar land problem and his intimate knowledge of the situation made him the man of all others to exercise a proper guiding hand during the period of Philippine reconstruction.

Admiral Togo's dispatch regarding the recent injury done the Russian fleet at Port Arthur does not increase public confidence in the damage suffered by Russians. The dispatch is not positive and explicit beyond the failure of the Russians to injure Togo's fleet. The most convincing feature is Japan's record for making a conservative statement of its successes in official dispatches.

Hilo contemplates publishing advertising literature of its own. This is a line of independent cooperation in the promotion of Territorial progress that furnishes a good example for Maui's Improvement Association and the organization Kaula has in mind. The Hawaii Promotion Committee is doing as much as its funds will allow to cover the field, but the work can never be so complete that every hamlet of the Territory cannot assist by adding its quota to the work.

THE MEETING AT KIEL.

Some of the British politicians are "viewing with alarm" the results of the meeting of King Edward with Emperor William at Kiel. As soon as the contemplated visitation was announced the London Spectator gave expression to its fear of what might happen. Great Britain's ruler, much as he is loved and revered, is credited with being unable to do politics. It is sometimes stated that he is held down harder than the President of the United States. Edward VII, however, has steadily shown a desire, intent and faculty for "taking a hand" in international politics. He has already done enough to make his people believe that when he exchanges visits with European potentates, the incident bids fair to be accompanied by more serious doings than an exchange of courteous social nothings.

Mr. Balfour has sought to quiet the British gossips by telling them that a military alliance with Germany is not contemplated. It would be remarkable, indeed, if such a radical step should furnish a topic for kingly conversation. Incidents are not lacking, however, indicating that the British ruler and his German neighbor frequently join forces in a manner that does not meet the approval of the British public.

The joint naval demonstration against Venezuela has been put down as a blunder of the British ministry. It caused deep resentment in this country and gave Kipling an opportunity to voice British opposition to what was considered an unnatural alliance. Though this joint demonstration was charged up to the ministry Sir Charles Dilke declared in the House of Commons that the notes purporting to have been exchanged between the British and German Foreign Secretaries were in fact exchanged when the British and German Foreign Secretaries were under the same English roof. No one has seen fit to deny this charge.

There is good reason for the British and German people to look up when King Edward and Emperor William are in conclave. Other nations have cause to be watchful. King Edward appears to be ambitious to be more than a figurehead, and equally solicitous that his good opinion of the German Emperor shall be accepted by his subjects. Not a few thought Great Britain was made a catspaw in the Venezuelan embroglio. To such the contemplation of further conferences is not pleasant.

would ha' lent me $50 had I asked it," said Hanlon to the Sheriff. Hanlon produced a small note-book in which he kept track of his loans. Many well-known people figured as Hanlon's creditors. Marshal Hendry had lent him $1. Another party had lent him 25 cents for six years, etc., etc. Hanlon swore that he always paid back his loans. Hanlon had great trouble with his creditors. Many people owed him money for rent but would not pay him. He had now placed his affairs in the hands of a collector and expected early returns. He had admitted that he had threatened to take the law in his own hands if the police did not help him.

"Were you not locked up for drunk a short time ago?" asked the High Sheriff.

"So I was," said Hanlon. "But that was your fault."

"You want to go back to Australia, don't you, Hanlon?" asked the Sheriff.

"I don't think so," answered Hanlon emphatically. He then explained that he was too old to go back to a country where he expected to find most of his relatives and friends dead or gone away. Regarding the fact that he had carried a pistol, Hanlon said that he kept it merely to scare the "larrikins" away from his place. This was the only way he could make them leave him alone since the police would give him no protection.

Judge Lindsay found Hanlon guilty. High Sheriff Brown stated that he did not wish to see Hanlon go to jail and asked that sentence be suspended until Saturday. As the steamer Manuka will sail for the Colonies on Saturday this probably means that the decrepit old man will be forced to go to a country which is practically new to him since he has probably lost all his friends there. The white-haired old man left the police station bowed down by grief over his unkind fate.

Dog Returned 1800 Miles To Old Home

Omaha, June 2.—A Newfoundland dog taken to Portland, Oregon, a year ago has returned to Omaha, having tramped the 1800 miles in search of familiar scenes and faces. The animal belonged to Jerry Sullivan, formerly sexton of Holy Sepulchre Cemetery here. When Sullivan and his family moved to Oregon, the dog, which was ten months old, was taken along.

THAT HILONIAN KICK STILL RESOUNDING

Editor Evening Bulletin:—I think if Honolulu has any more Smiths or any one else in need of a vacation, they had better come to Hilo—for that is the only way we get any advertisement from Honolulu. If Mr. Smith would only take the time to go to the department of Public Works, or to the Treasurer, and satisfy himself as to just what is being handed out to Hilo by way of appropriations and from the Loan Fund, he would "go way back and sit down." Hilo has not yet had one dollar of the Loan Fund and no signs of those in charge "loosening up." We now draw the monthly stipend of $700 for our roads. Think of it, $700 for all the roads in this district.

Last Saturday all the old buildings were sold on the government land on the mauka side of Fort street. Since the buildings have been removed, Front street does not seem the same. I do not know what the government expects to do with the land. Some think it will be sold, while others prophesy that it is more probable that it will be exchanged for another street in Honolulu.

Your readers will think I have a "grouch" on. It does make my American blood boil to know that we have to get down on our knees and beg for every dollar we get, and then have a man come up from Honolulu and "rub it in" is almost the limit.

Yours truly, KAMAAINA.

500 Heirs Fight For Chicago Street. Chicago, June 1.—Five hundred heirs of the original owners of land now occupied by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's right of way in Stewart avenue brought suit today in the United States Circuit Court, claiming ownership of the land. The suit is one of the largest ever begun in Cook County. It involves $3,500,000. An injunction is asked for to prevent the Pennsylvania Company from operating trains in Stewart avenue and to restrain it from elevating its tracks. The canal trustees, representing the State of Illinois, are the largest claimants. They want about $1,000,000 for their interest in Stewart avenue. The family of President Roosevelt is represented among the plaintiffs, and so are the heirs of the late Mrs. Sanger, mother of Mrs. George M. Pullman. The descendants of many prominent pioneers of Chicago also are parties to the suit. The claim on which the case is brought is that the owners of the land in the various subdivisions concerned platted Stewart avenue and deeded it to the city of Chicago for use as a highway. It is contended that the city had no right to permit the Pennsylvania Railroad to use the street, and that when Stewart avenue was vacated by a city ordinance it reverted to the heirs of the original owners. "That chap who just went out," said the bartender, "is forever dwelling on his wife's talents." "No wonder," replied the boss. "I'll bet he couldn't exist three days if forced to live on his own."—Chicago News.

CRICKET ON FOURTH

MATCH AT MOANALUA SCOTCHMEN VS. WORLD

MARRIED MEN BEAT THE BACHELORS AT MAKIKI ON LAST SATURDAY.

An interesting game of cricket was played on the Makiki grounds last Saturday afternoon between the Married and Single teams. Neither side scored as much as usual. The Married men came out victorious, defeating the bachelors to the tune of 81 to 65.

Stanley Beardmore, who at the last Single vs. Married match made almost a century, not out, met with hard luck Saturday. He had made six runs when Bob Anderson got in his deadly work, catching a ball bowled by him self.

W. T. Greig managed to get together five runs before his career was ended exactly as was Crook's, by a catch by Kelley off a ball bowled by Bob Anderson.

SHORT STORY FOR EVENING HOURS

PUTTING TWO AND TWO TOGETHER

There never was such a hand as Mrs. Marshall for putting two and two together. No matter how infinitesimal the scraps of information she got...

"I am confoundedly blue, Mrs. Marshall," Sylvester had said, on the occasion of his post-prandial disclosures. "I have been blue for several months. Everything goes against me, and I feel that I have got about to the end of the string."

Mrs. Marshall had been properly shocked at that revelation, and had replied with emotion: "Dear me, Mr. Sylvester, I do wish you wouldn't talk so." Whereupon Sylvester had said: "I can't help it. Bad luck has the upper hand, and I feel that I must end the whole business soon one way or another."

"A prescription and a telephone call," she said. "I do wish Mr. Sylvester would get up in time to attend to his own affairs."

Mrs. Marshall's husband took her remark as a personal affront. "It is your own fault," he said. "You should not have humored him so at the start."

"Oh, yes," she replied, "but he does ask me to do such funny things. This morning he wants us to get a prescription filled and leave the bottle outside his door so he can find it there when he gets up and to call up telephone No. 20-13 and tell Mr. Robinson that he will be ready for him at 2 o'clock and would like him to call then."

"Who is this for?" he asked. "Mr. Sylvester," she replied. "He lives at our house." "What is he going to do with the stuff?" the clerk persisted. The unexpected catechism in regard to her lodger's unexplained intentions stirred up a spirit of antagonism in Mrs. Marshall's soul.

the soda water fountain, but for the honor of her house she braced up in the presence of the druggist. "I can't help that," she said. "I suppose Mr. Sylvester knows what he wants the medicine for. At any rate, I would like you to put it up. He has a doctor's prescription, so no matter what comes you will not be to blame."

The prescription called for a large bottle of medicine. "You've got enough poison there to kill off half of New York," said the druggist as Mrs. Marshall turned toward the telephone booth.

That assurance as to the deadly potency of the half pint of liquid she carried did not tend to allay Mrs. Marshall's incipient suspicions. Indeed, by the time she had entered the telephone booth and closed the door behind her, her suspicions had passed from the stage of incipient to maturity.

"Sally," she cried, as she broke into the pantry, where the maid was cleaning silver. "It has come at last."

"Never!" returned Mrs. Marshall with sudden energy. She hurried into the kitchen and Sally followed. Both approached the coal scuttle. "I didn't call up the undertaker," said Mrs. Marshall, "and I have dropped the bottle and spilled the medicine."

"Mrs. Marshall," he said, "did Sally find those notes on my door this morning?" "Sally took refuge in the pantry, but Mrs. Marshall held her ground like a veteran. "She did," was the firm reply.

"Then where is my bottle?" continued Sylvester. "In there," said Mrs. Marshall, pointing to the coal scuttle. Mr. Sylvester gave signs then of being the really bad man he had represented himself to be when he engaged board with the Marshalls.

"I don't see—," began Mrs. Marshall. "Of course you don't see," continued Sylvester severely. "I had a deal on with a man named Robinson. Not Robinson, the undertaker, but another fellow—the undertaker's brother, I believe. Come to think of it, I believe they do both use the same phone, but that would have made no difference. If you had delivered my message either would have understood what I meant. I was to let him know by 11 o'clock whether I would go in with him or not. If he didn't hear by that time he was to take somebody else into the scheme, and so, as you didn't deliver the message, I am out for good."

thinking. "Well," she said at length. "I must say that I think it very queer that you should intrust an important engagement like that to Sally and me. Still, I am sorry for your losses, and will make good as far as possible. I will buy you a new bottle of poison, but I will not give you $500."

"Of course not," said Sylvester, "but I hate like the mischief to have that deal with Robinson called off."

"I knew," she said, with a shade of triumph in her voice, "that I couldn't have lost my knack of putting two and two together. What have you got to say for yourself now?"

"Sally," she said, with a shade of triumph in her voice, "that I couldn't have lost my knack of putting two and two together. What have you got to say for yourself now?"

And to this day Mrs. Marshall does not know whether Mr. Sylvester had suicidal intentions or whether he had not—Emma M. Wise in Philadelphia Ledger.

Miss Roosevelt and Picture With Igorrote

New York, June 4.—Faults in composition have been found in the group of photographs representing Miss Alice Roosevelt and other distinguished visitors recently taken at the World's Fair in St. Louis. It seems to have been the intention of the officials that the pictures should be dignified and conventional. Yet the presence of a Filipino in the foreground tends to defeat that object.

Those who study the amenities of life are wondering what the fair managers were thinking of when they permitted this child of the tropics to remain within range of the camera. His attire consisted of one very slight garment, evidently cut in accordance with the summer fashion of the natives of the islands. Friends of Miss Roosevelt think he should have been eliminated in the dark room or banished in the retouching of the negative and they are highly indignant that the picture should have been given circulation. If it were intended that the Philippines should have representation in the group, these friends believe the object could have been attained in a much less objectionable manner than it was.

RIVAL LOVERS' CONTEST.

Spokane, Wash., June 8.—Two marriage licenses were secured within twenty-four hours by rival lovers seeking to wed pretty Alice Patterson, the 17-year-old daughter of Mrs. W. A. Thompson of 1066 Broadway avenue. W. A. Hopkinson, an upholsterer, led the assault upon the citadel of his lady love Tuesday by appearing at her home with a marriage license. His would-be mother-in-law, however, sent him defeated from the house without seeing Alice, who had ceased to love him since he left for the coast two months ago. In his anger and disappointment the young man left his license behind. Bright and early this morning W. A. Thompson called up the Auditor and said to issue no more licenses for the marriage of his daughter unless he or Mrs. Thompson appeared in person to give consent, as the girl was under age. A few hours later, however, C. P. Vincent, aged 23 years, who is employed in a cigar store, appeared in the Auditor's office and asked for a license to marry Alice Patterson. Mrs. Thompson, mother of the girl, accompanied him to give her consent. The marriage ceremony was performed by Dean Pertine later.

WHY APPOINT GURNEY

Editor Evening Bulletin:—Without reflecting any discredit upon the qualifications of Mr. A. S. LeBaron Gurney, who has just been appointed by Judge Parsons to the position vacated by Mr. Daniel Porter, the veteran clerk of the Fourth Circuit Court, considerable criticism is being made upon his selection to a position of such considerable importance without consulting the various committees in the Republican party. Not only were the party managers and the executive committees not consulted, but the Young Men's Republican Club, upon whose shoulders the new Circuit judge rode into office, was not asked as to what recommendations it had to make. While possibly the judicial branch of the Government ought to be free from any political strings, yet inasmuch as the Governor in naming the judiciary for Hilo was influenced by the recommendation of the Young Men's Republican Club as against that of the regular line officials of the Republican party, it seems that other offices in the judiciary of Hilo should be accorded the same treatment by the appointing power as the present incumbent received, and should in their disposition be subject to the recommendation of at least the Young Men's Republican Club. We cannot help but be reminded of the fact that the satiated child soon forgets the parent that nurtured it. Politically the new appointee is unknown except that he voted the "ticket-state" headed by Carl S. Smith at the last primary election. Chas. Hitchcock, a haole and kaamaaina, born within the district, has held the position of deputy clerk for several years past and was in line of promotion. A member of the Young Men's Republican Club, with the endorsement of precinct and district committees, he is the logical successor to the clerkship, and the choice of the Young Men's Republican Club. There are others upon the rolls of the latter organization such as W. H. Beers or Norman K. Lyman, any one of whom are well qualified for the post and whose selection would have met with general approval. But why the appointment of Gurney? HILO FAIR PLAY.

LAVINIA'S PLANS

Brought them here last week. While a Bulletin reporter was talking with Captain Weisbarth an officer from the Thetis boarded the Lavinia. He told Captain Weisbarth that he could not go and take the bird-skins. Captain Weisbarth told the officer to assure his captain that the Lavinia was not going after the much-discussed bird-skins. After this Captain Weisbarth told the reporter the same thing.

Weisbarth's tale of his future plans was a little indefinite. First he said that he was going back to the French Frigate Shoals to get more stuff from the Comnetable de Richmond, which he had not been able to pack away this trip. A little later he said that he was going to Laysan Islands. He and Max Schlemmer had bought out H. Hackfeld & Co.'s interests in that island as well as on Lisiansky Island. Schlemmer was on Laysan gathering guano while Weisbarth was to go and take away the product. As Lisiansky is very close to Laysan it seems indeed very probable that gallant Captain Weisbarth may go to Lisiansky from Laysan to have at least a look at the valuable bird-skins. It is, however, very doubtful that the skins will be on the island very much longer. The Japanese Consulate has received cable advice from Japan to the effect that the bird-catchers' schooner, Ryu Maru, left Yokohama almost thirty days ago for Lisiansky Island. As the schooner goes to make the trip about 2,500 miles, in about twenty-five days, it is probable that she has already arrived there or at least that she will be there long before any vessel from Honolulu could reach the island.
