MUCH COUNTERFEIT MONEY AFLOAT

Two Chinese Arrested For Passing the Base Coin.

PRESENTED FOR EXCHANGE AT BISHOP'S BANK

Counterfeits of United States silver currency are abroad in dangerous profusion right here in Honolulu. Referring to the case of two Chinese in custody for shoving the base coin, District Attorney R. W. Breckons said at noon today:

"We have discovered enough of it to know that there's a whole slew of that money out. We have found a hundred and fifty dollars of it already."

It was a bold attempt to pass a quantity of the counterfeit at Bishop & Co.'s bank yesterday afternoon which caused the startling discovery of the traffic. A Chinese presented a bag of silver there to pay for a bill of exchange. Ho Pon, the Chinese clerk, on examining the pile of silver, found that the greater part of it was counterfeit.

The High Sheriff was notified and the man arrested where he stood. He gave his identity as Hu Young, a tailor doing business in Nuuanu street next door to the Encore saloon. Hu Young said he had received the money from Lai Wing with the statement that it came from a Hongkong firm to be exchanged for gold.

Lai Wing was promptly arrested at Young's store, where he was waiting, and both men were turned over to United States Marshal Hendry, along with the spurious money. Warrants charging them with the offense were later served on the prisoners.

The coins consisted of American half-dollars, quarters and half-dimes, dated back to 1855, also some Hawaiian halves and quarters. It was all newish in appearance and the workmanship dangerously exact.

The preliminary examination of the men before Commissioner E. S. Gill has been put over until next Monday. A search through banks and stores of the town resulted in increasing the amount seized in the possession of Hu Young.

The penalty for counterfeiting is a fine of $5,000 or ten years' imprisonment, or both such fine and imprisonment.

The steamship China arrived from the Coast at 3 p. m. today. Superintendent Boyd, who was expected to return by this steamer, is not on board.

CLOSING OUT SALE. During this week only Beal's fine line of Wall Papers will be sold at less than cost.

As the Senatorial Commission will finish its labors this afternoon and adjourn, the die is cast for the early start was made today and at 9 o'clock Judge Robinson of the First Circuit Court was the first witness to appear.

Robinson Wants Three Judges. After being sworn witness made a statement in substantiation of the claim made for the necessity of the continuance of the three Circuit Judges.

On account of his position he had hesitated about making his statement before the Commission but deemed it his duty to do so in view of the fact that cases were piling up and the calendar becoming more and more congested as time went on.

He stated that the First Circuit comprised the whole island of Oahu with a population of some 65,000 inhabitants and having the chief offices of the great corporations and business concerns located in Honolulu. By reference to a statement of Chief Clerk Henry Smith of the Judiciary department, Judge Robinson showed that most of the important litigation of the Territory was handled by the courts of the first cases.

By virtue of the Organic Act about 65 per cent of the nisi pruis cases of the Territory are handled by the First Circuit Court and on account of the petty offenses which were indictable by the Grand Jury and made infamous by statute, the work of the courts of this circuit was trebled.

Some Comparisons. In 1898 there were 465 cases commenced, while in 1901 there were 780 cases commenced, while at the present time there are 441 cases pending. In the county of Alameda in California where the jurisdiction of the court is about the same as in this Territory, there are five Superior judges to do the work that they do here.

The court in Alameda county is always in session not having the time divided into terms.

Henry Smith Substantiates. Henry Smith, Clerk of the Supreme Court, substantiated what the previous witness had said regarding the work of the court and necessity for three circuit judges. He stated that in 1900 there remained 342 cases unfinished with two judges on the bench.

In 1898 there had been 1023 cases commenced while in 1901 1427 cases were begun. Unless there were three judges the courts would be tied up and the calendars drag along full for an indefinite period.

Humphreys Supplements. Judge Humphreys here asked permission to make a supplementary statement. He said that during the plague epidemic, the courts had been closed entirely for from sixty to ninety days. This had been the first cause of the congestion. Then cases arising out of the acts of the Board of Health in the conduct of the fight against the plague had added materially to the number of cases brought in court.

There were over 150 suits brought alone against insurance companies many of which still remain on the calendar although in test cases the Supreme Court has decided the claims and the cases had really been disposed through still appearing on calendar.

Simplified Mode Wanted. If the courts were open all the time and a simplified mode of practice introduced it would do away with the necessity for more than two judges. The chief reason for the congestion was the indisposition of the bar to try their cases.

Silliman on Appeals. Judge Silliman appeared to state the necessity of a law permitting an appeal from the Territorial Supreme Court to the United States courts. He stated that in the case of a citizen of another State suing a citizen of the Territory had no appeal as was granted him by law.

Reasons for Resigning. Asked regarding his reasons for resigning from the Circuit Bench, Judge Silliman stated that in sending his resignation to Washington his reasons given had been that the pay was inadequate and the position intolerable.

Plague Expenditures. Dr. Sloggett, Dr. J. T. Wayson and Auditor Austin were called to be interrogated regarding the expenditures during the plague epidemic, and were excused until this afternoon, when Auditor Austin will have prepared a statement of expenditures.

Dole on Treasurer. Governor Dole recalled. Senator Mitchell—Who is the Treasurer of the Territory? Governor Dole—W. H. Wright was yesterday. He was appointed by me and confirmed by the Senate.

The Registrar of Public Accounts has charge of all the Territorial moneys in the Treasury; he gives a receipt for money received and takes receipt for money paid out. There is no law under which the Treasurer gives a bond. The Registrar of Accounts is under a bond to the Treasurer in the sum of $20,000.

Why Not Treasurer Today? Mitchell—Why is not Mr. Wright Treasurer today? Dole—Because I am of the belief that he has left the country and I take this as a resignation. He has admitted that he took about $18,000. He admitted to Secretary Cooper. The defalcation was discovered on Tuesday of this week. The money was taken from the Chinese Laborers' Fund, which had been accumulated under the immigration law for the return of laborers to their country after the expiration of their term of service as field laborers.

By What Provision? Mitchell—Do you know what provision of law did this fund go into the hands of the Treasurer? Dole—By no law, but on account of the abolition of the Postal Savings Bank operated under the Republic of Hawaii.

Is It Advisable? Mitchell—Do you think it advisable for Government officials to act without bonds? Dole—Not in the light of late events. It has been the custom with the Treasurer as the Registrar of Public Accounts is the custodian of the public funds except in this case, where he had nothing to do with this Chinese fund. I had nothing to do with the appointments made in the Treasurer's Department. I had an agreement with him that I should approve of his appointments, but in no instance was this agreement carried out by him.

Cooper Asked to Take Charge. Yesterday, I asked Mr. Cooper to take charge of the Treasurer's office after Wright failed to appear as he had promised. There was no warrant sworn out for him. As to Embezzlement Charges. Mitchell—Within the last few months, have any Government officials been charged with embezzlement? Dole—Yes; B. H. Wright, chief clerk of the Board of Public Works. He was not under bonds, either; but ought to have been. Other Indictments. Mitchell—Were there not two others indicted? Dole—Yes; two in the Tax Office; I don't know their names. I think they were clerks. Public Lands Statement. E. S. Boyd recalled—I have here the statements asked for by the Commission regarding public lands. The income from the Crown Lands proper from January 17, 1893, to the first of this month, has been $432,378.06.

The area of the Crown Lands is 920,333 acres. I have also filed the report of the Crown Lands Commission for 1894. Along with it is the first report of the Commissioner of Public Lands for the year 1896-97. The money from the leases has been used for the benefit of the Territory. Crown Lands Value. Judge Humphreys of counsel for the Queen here asked Mr. Boyd what the value of the Crown Lands was now and the yearly rental from same. To the first question the Commissioner placed the value at about $2,000,000 and to the second, $36,000 a year, Governor's Council.

A. B. Loebeinstein of Hilo then asked Mr. Boyd if he considered it right for the Governor's council to act with him in the management of the public lands. Conferences All Right. Boyd stated that he thought conferences of the heads of departments were all right and that the Superintendent of Public Instruction was entitled to take his share in the discussion of the administration of affairs.

The statements made about the administration of the public lands under my incumbency have been general and in no one case has maladministration been proven," said the witness. "I don't want to go into personalities to disprove many statements that have been made, and it would be the only way in which I could refute them."

Hapai on Defalcation. Henry H. Hapai, Registrar of Public Accounts, was here called to testify as to the defalcation of Treasurer Wright. He told his age, birthplace and official position and was questioned by the Commissioners with the following result: He is under a $20,000 bond to the Treasurer. His duties are to sign receipts for all cash paid in to the Treasury and account for all money paid out. He is in charge of all public moneys in the Treasury. Sometimes there is as much as $600,000 in the vault at one time. The average is about $200,000. The Treasurer has control of about fifty or one hundred thousand dollars.

"I have been Registrar since Wright was promoted from that position to be Treasurer," said the witness. "Treasurer Wright appointed me. He also appointed Tax Assessor and Collector J. W. Pratt. Mr. Pratt is under a bond to the Treasurer. We found that the only money taken by Mr. Wright was from the Chinese Fund, amounting to a shortage of $17,949.91."

J. F. Brown's Views. J. F. Brown, former Commissioner of Public Lands here, asked to be permitted to give his views upon the land system of Hawaii. He was sworn and stated that through lack of time he had not been able to reduce his ideas to writing. The public domain consisted of 1,700,000 acres of lands in the aggregate. Of this 500,000 acres are unclaimable, 1,000,000 acres forest and grazing, while about 200,000 acres are fit for cane cultivation, taken up by the plantations.

Burton—Do you recommend a continuance of Hawaiian land system? Brown—Yes, by all means. It can be better administered here by people on the ground. Burton—What is your estimate of the value of the lands. Brown—About $5,000,000 is conservative. Burton—The income from the leased lands is $116,000. They are valued at $5,000,000 and it costs $16,000 to get in the income and conduct the office. Do you think that this income is a fair return on the value? Isn't it a fact that it costs the Government much more to run a business than it would a private corporation? Don't you think that leaving the system alone but putting it into the hands of the Federal authorities would be the best? Brown—No. I think it can be better administered by local people. I believe in local self-government. Burton—As exemplified in the election of a Legislature and a Delegate to Congress, and nothing else? Are not these auction sales of land practically a farce? Brown—Yes; they are in that the shortage was found was the money deposited by the planters to secure the passage of Chinese for their return to China, after the contracts with the planters had expired. When the United States Treasury Department took over the Postal Savings Bank and liquidated it, this money was deposited by Wray Taylor, Commissioner of Immigration, in the First National Bank. About a year ago as Acting Governor I ordered the money turned over to the Treasury, holding that it was a fund over which the government had supervision. This money was specially in charge of Treasurer Wright and was kept separate from the money over which Registrar Hapai had control. It was kept in the safe, but in a separate box, to which Mr. Wright had the key. Mr. Hapai's accounts were found to be absolutely correct. The Auditor will be asked to go over the books of the Treasury Department tomorrow. As far as shown there appears to be no falsification of the books, the shortage being in the cash which should have been on hand."

Attorney General E. P. Dole was the first department head seen this morning by a Bulletin reporter. He answered questions with the information here following: "The first I knew that there was anything wrong was day before yesterday, when Secretary Cooper gave me a hint that affairs of the Treasurer's office might not be altogether right. "It was about 10:30 yesterday morning, I think I was out of my office, when I received a message that Mr. Cooper had asked the High Sheriff to institute a search for Treasurer Wright, who was missing. "No extradition papers were sent by the Alameda. It was not certain that Wright had got away, and extradition papers cannot be prepared in a minute. Yes, it is an extradition offense. "A warrant of arrest was not issued. No warrant was needed. He could have been arrested by the High Sheriff without a warrant had he been found. "The Attorney General was asked at what hour the authorities became convinced that Wright had disappeared. "We are not positive yet that he has got away," was the answer. "Secretary Cooper was asked if there were any new developments in the case. He answered in the negative and was then asked if there was anything further to be investigated in the Treasurer's accounts. "Nothing," the Secretary replied, "except to count the canceled silver certificates. I am going to do that today."

Destroy Certificates. The supposition was expressed that canceled certificates were usually destroyed. "They have not been," said Mr. Cooper, "but I am going to destroy them now after they are counted. "The certificates are canceled with a large 'Paid' stamp on the face. No, they could not pass in any bank."

WILCOX PROGRAMME IS DENOUNCED

Whereas, Robert W. Wilcox, Delegate in Congress from Hawaii, has heretofore advocated in the Congress of the United States, and in the public press, the transfer of the care and custody of the Hawaiian Leper Asylum from Territorial to Federal authorities, and also that the lepers from the Mainland be brought to and kept at Molokai; and

Whereas, the said Wilcox has presented to the Committee of the United States Senate, now holding sessions in Honolulu, a resolution of his desire that the foregoing policy should be adopted;

Be it resolved, by the Executive Central Committee of the Territory of Hawaii, that we believe that the opinion of the overwhelming majority of the people of Hawaii is totally opposed to the transfer of the control of the leper asylum to the Federal Government and to allowing any lepers to come here from abroad. The unfortunate of Molokai are a part of our own people and it is a privilege which we claim to provide and care for them, and pledge ourselves and our party to do everything within its power to prevent the consummation of this attack upon the people and the fair name of Hawaii.

The total amount of gold certificates issued was $255,000 which has all been redeemed but $315, for which the cash was on hand. Silver certificates to the amount of $312,000 were issued, all of which were redeemed excepting $660, and all redeemed certificates were found to have been cancelled, the account being found correct.

Land, Labor, Law, Politics THRESHED OUT By Citizens Before Senators

At the opening of the afternoon session of the Senatorial Commission, F. M. Hatch filed a Supreme Court decision and two reports touching upon the O. R. & L. Co.'s bonds.

Wahiawa Colony.
Byron O. Clark said he came from California five years ago, he being the organizer of the Wahiawa colony of thirteen families, and secured 1300 acres of land which was subdivided between the people. This land has been used largely for experimental purposes, the principal crop being pineapples. There has been much development work done and the efforts to make homes for Americans were an unqualified success.

Juen's Trouble.
Harry A. Juen testified that he was arrested at his home at 12 o'clock at night Jan. 8, 1895, by five or six armed men. At the time he was told the marshal wanted to see him, and no warrant was shown. Confinement in Oahu prison lasted forty-three days and there was no charge or hearing.

The government, he said, sent parties there with a proposition that if they remained they would not be tried perhaps for a year, but if they would sign a document and leave the country they could do so. Juen was advised that he would better do this and he did, going to California. The document said that he was being held for complicity in a revolution and would agree to leave and never return without leave of the Minister of Foreign Affairs. Juen said he was away six months leaving his family here. His return was due to oral information from the consul that he could come back. A claim was filed at the time where it still rests.

Another Political Prisoner.
Charles Creighton said he refused to sign the oath of allegiance to the Provisional Government, or the Republic. He told a story of arrest, imprisonment and exile. Minister Willis told him no charge would be made and if they did get trial it would result only in conviction. Without asking for it he was given permission to return and did so.

It seemed to him that in Honolulu it was necessary to have three judges. Also, it would be unfortunate to have one judge limited to when a judge might be laid aside by illness. Questioned by Mr. Burton, as to how they got along with one judge if now three were needed, he answered there was an increase of litigation. He would not say that two judges sitting continuously could not dispatch all of the business, but three judges would do it with more facility.

Witness considered the practice of calling in members of the bar to fill vacancies on the Supreme Court bench was most pernicious. Attorneys were not allowed the right to challenge the appearance of any conferee as a judge. The practice was liable to reduce the respect of both the bar and the public for the highest tribunal of the Territory.

Cost of Sugar-Raising.
W. O. Smith presented a written statement showing the cost of producing sugar on the different plantations. This was in response to a request previously made by Chairman Mitchell for statistics.

Another statement he presented was of the number of stockholders in plantation corporations. A third statement related to land holdings by sugar corporations. These were filed without reading.

Mr. Smith next read a statement on plantation labor, immigration and emigration of Chinese and Japanese, etc. It controverted certain statements by A. S. Humphreys.

Memorial of Hawaiians.
Mr. Smith, on behalf of John F. Colburn, presented a memorial of young Hawaiians on the subject of Chinese immigration. Its tenor was in favor of introducing a limited number of Chinese exclusively for agricultural labor. Prince David Kawananakoa headed the list of signatures. The paper was filed without reading.

Announcement of Closing.
Senator Mitchell wished, with the consent of his colleagues to be excused for the rest of the afternoon. Before retiring he would state that it was the desire of the Commission to close its sessions next day. If any person who had not been heard wished to have a hearing they should attend the sessions today, which, providence permitting, would be held morning and afternoon. At the close of this afternoon's session, it was hoped, the business of the Commission here would be concluded.

Paper by Iaukea.
Curtis P. Iaukea of Waihua, sworn, answered the usual questions as to public positions held by him now and heretofore. These included secretary to the Foreign Office, vice chamberlain to the Royal Household, collector general, crown land commissioner, etc. Mr. Iaukea had his views on affairs in writing and his paper when read was received and filed.

COL. IAUKEA'S STATEMENT.
To the Sub-Committee of the Senate on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico.
Honored Sirs:—I have deferred presenting this, thinking that in the course of your investigations, some one or other of our prominent citizens conversant with Hawaiian affairs, would speak or touch on some phases of the political situation that, to my mind, have an important bearing on existing local conditions. This has remained for me to do, however, and as far as I am able, place the matter before you now.

Hawaiian Sentiment.
Living and coming in daily contact with the native Hawaiians, speaking their language, in fact one myself, it is but natural that I should to a large extent share their views and sentiments, especially on questions affecting their political rights. The electorate is largely Hawaiian. To properly understand his position, and the reason of his present attitude towards the local administration, it will be necessary to make a brief reference to a period of Hawaiian history prior to and immediately preceding annexation.

Looked to Annexation.
After some years of political inactivity, the Hawaiians, seeing that all hopes of restoration had passed, naturally looked to annexation as the turning point in their political career, and as Americans enjoy all the rights and privileges of American citizenship, their expectations were not to be realized, however, for not only was the same monarchical system maintained under cover of the American flag in the new Territory, but all the local administrative power was to remain in the same hands. Thus was engendered and raised anew the feeling of resentment on the part of the electorate; resulting as was seen at the first general election, in the defeat of the Republican party at the polls. Here you have as well as I can describe it, the true feeling and sentiment of the native Hawaiian at the present time, and the position he assumes towards the local administration. Unfortunately for the Republican party in Hawaii, nearly all of the prominent men concerned in the overthrow are amongst its most influential leaders.

The Only Solution.
Like all good citizens having the interests of the Territory at heart, no one desires to see the present political tension continue. It must be remedied, if not by ourselves then by Congressional action. To my mind, county and municipal government affords the only solution. With all due respect to the opinions of those opposed to a complete change of our administrative system, I state it as my candid opinion that nothing short of the total disintegration of the present monarchical government will fully reconcile the electorate to their new conditions and accomplish which is very much desired in this Territory, a peaceful community. This may be a radical view to take, but it required radical means to overthrow the monarchy.

Road Board Bond.
In advocacy of the change, let me present some practical illustrations of the working of our present centralized government, as applied to the country districts. As chairman of the Waihua Road Board, I am required by law to furnish bonds. No salary is attached to the office. And yet many of the salaried officials in the central government, who have the receiving and paying of large sums of public moneys are not required to file any bond whatsoever. The people in the country districts have no voice whatever in their local administration. All officials being directly under the control of the department heads and subject to their direction. The local taxes of whatever kind or nature are collected and deposited in the Treasury, the taxpayer having no voice except through the Legislature, how the taxes shall be expended. The only exception is the road tax, an insignificant sum. Although the law distinctly states that this fund is available to the respective road boards, the moment it is deposited in the Treasury, by an arbitrary ruling it cannot become so until so notified by the department. Not only this. A recent order of the department makes it obligatory on road boards to first obtain its approval of contracts for road work of $100 and over, when the law governing public contracts specifically places the amount at $500. Even in the only instance where the law provides for local control of public funds, every restriction imaginable is imposed by department heads, rendering the object of the law practically useless.

Instance of Injustice.
An instance of the gross injustice in the distribution of public funds might be illustrated in the case of Waihua where I reside. Waihua's present taxation returns to the general government amounts to $60,000 in round numbers. Waihua received back to be expended in the district in the shape of road funds, salaries of officials, etc., less than $17,000. The sum of $43,000 or about 70 per cent of the total taxation, therefore constitutes the people of Waihua's contribution for the improvement of Honolulu's streets, and the benefit of other communities. If this is not taxation without representation, it is next door to it. These are only a few instances of the one-sided workings of our centralized system where the people who control know nothing of the needs and requirements of the outside districts.

Competent Electorate.
As I have already publicly expressed my opinion on city and county government in answer to the opponents of the measure charging the native electorate with incompetency and irresponsibility, I will not take up the time of your Commission by reiterating them here. Suffice it to say that, whatever the system, surely none can be found or devised that will equal the present one for extravagance. For when it is realized that for administrative purposes alone exclusive of current expenses, over a million dollars a year is expended, equal to a tax of $7 a head for every man, woman and child in the Territory, that alone aside from its oligarchical features, ought to afford ample reason why a speedy change should be made.

C. P. IAUKEA.
Burton—You believe the native people of Hawaii are fully capable of exercising the electoral franchise? And that nothing less than complete franchise will satisfy them?
Iaukea—I do. And that is my firm belief. Witness went on, answering Messrs. Foster and Burton, to amplify statements of the financial account between Waihua and the Territorial government. Salaries paid in the district amounted to $3000. The roads were in good condition. Taxes paid by the plantation amounted to $35,000 or $40,000.

He thought it necessary for the planting interest that limited Chinese immigration should be allowed, providing the people admitted were restricted to plantation labor. There were several hundred Japanese in the district not working on the plantations, but engaged independently in raising vegetables, fishing, etc.

Mr. Burton said there was no need to mention the Japanese, as this country had a treaty with Japan.
Witness could not answer Mr. Foster's question as to taxes paid by the railway company.
Boyd Recalled.
Land Commissioner E. S. Boyd was recalled to identify accounts of receipts and expenditures of his office.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1902.

The Bulletin is free to confess that the developments of the last twenty-four hours, in connection with the guardianship of public funds, have been such as to shake its confidence in the advisability of branching out upon any new form of government. This may be an extreme view of the situation, but at all events the men who are to frame and enact the county and municipal government laws, have before them all too serious proof of the extreme care that must be taken to safeguard every possible avenue by which a public trust may be betrayed.

GIVE ALL THE FACTS.

The defalcation of the Territorial Treasurer, following so closely upon the serious charges laid against the chief clerk of the Public Works Department, arrest of two employees of the Tax Office and continuous statements regarding actual or pending requests by the Governor for official resignation, have caused a profound sensation in this community. The general sentiment is a combination of surprise, distrust, regret and universal wonder as to where this line of defalcation and apparent corruption will end. Is the system of government at fault? Has there been almost criminal neglect of the public interests? Is the present condition the result of incompetence, incapacity or a scheme to raid the Territorial coffers? All manner of questions arise, to which there is no more positive answer than a variety of conjecture and a general expression that what has proved to be the fact would otherwise be considered impossible.

If there was one department used who held the confidence of our citizens irrespective of parties or factions, that man was Treasurer Wright. He had worked his way up to the position of Treasurer by his unfailing and exact attention to his duty in the Tax Office and as registrar of public accounts. Though an attempt is being made to show that the appointment of Mr. Wright was forced on the Governor, the Bulletin does not believe that Governor Dole ever doubted his honesty. Had there been the slightest question on this score, it can be taken for granted that Mr. Dole would never have sanctioned Mr. Wright's appointment to any position in the finance or any other department.

The political phase, however, is of very small moment compared with the universal and vigorous demand from every citizen that the scandal which has shocked the community and shattered confidence shall be probed to the bottom—not in private convalesce, but under the full glare of unrestricted publicity. The people want the facts and that without fear or favor. Governor Dole owes it to himself, to every Territorial official, to the citizens whose money has been taken. Whether justified or not, there has been a growing feeling that irregularities have not been treated with that sharp calling to account which should be expected of public officials. There is one, and only one, way to deal with the situation. Open the floodgates of publicity. Free the Administration and the party from every taint of suspicion by open, forceful statement of the facts in connection with every department in which any irregularity or loose methods have been found.

Count A. Quadt, Charge d'Affaires of the German Embassy, acting on instructions from Berlin, has invited the United States to a conference next spring which shall take steps for a thorough study of earthquakes.

HOME RULERS NOMINATE MEN

David Kupihea was in the secretary's chair.

Nominations were called for as soon as the minutes had been read. The following names were presented by the spokesmen of the various precincts: M. K. Kou, J. K. Prendergast, J. M. Kealoha, Wm. Mossman, S. K. Oili, J. K. Paele, Wm. Lono, Henry Vida, Sam Pua, J. A. Baker, D. M. Kupihea, Wm. K. Kaleihua, Ng Monwar, Wm. Ringer, S. P. Kanelihelu, Geo. Kala, Keliheenua, S. K. Mahoe, J. M. Kealoha, D. Damien, Asa Kaulia, David Al, Sr., D. Kamaliikane, Kaukall'u and Moses K. Nakulua.

The following delegates were then appointed a committee to attend to the printing of ballots and a recess until such time as this work should be done, was taken: George Markham, J. Lovell and Naholowaa. Before taking the recess agreed on, Wm. Ringer announced that he would pay for the printing of the ballots.

When the Fourth District delegates came together again, the committee on printing of ballots reported but before proceeding to vote, Umanua, the man who nominated McCarthy, stood up and stated that he wished to say a few words with respect to the man he had named. Col. McCarthy was a Democrat but he was also a man who would work for the rights of the people. It was a well known fact that the Home Rule party was weak in the Fourth District and in order to gain strength and carry the party to success, the only sensible move to make was to allow the Democrats representation. This referred to John D. Holt as well as to McCarthy but the delegates were well acquainted with this young Hawaiian and it was not necessary to say anything about him. If two Democrats were placed on the Home Rule ticket, it would mean undoubted victory in the Fourth and all over the island.

Chairman Kalaokalani next took up one of the ballots and reading the names down the list, made witty references to each one, asking the delegates, if they saw fit, to vote for them. Referring to Kanealii, he said that the delegates should not pay any attention to the fact that he had once been a Republican. The Home Rule party was continually calling out to those who had made the mistake of entering the other parties to come into its fold. As to Lapana, he stated that this man was a good Home Ruler as well as a good painter. Those who wanted their homes painted cheap should vote for this man. Kamakala was referred to in his former capacity as a boat boy, as a Home Ruler whose fame had been spread abroad. Hina, said the chairman, was a vendor of leis, and if the delegates wished to get wreaths to decorate themselves with after the convention, they should vote for him. David Notley was a staunch Home Ruler who was not afraid to get out and shovel coal on the wharves. In fact, he was the best coal worker in the place. Haiola was a hard driver and those who wished free rides should vote for him.

At this point, the delegates were asked to arise and hold up their right hands. They thereupon swore to uphold the principles of the Home Rule party and to vote for the men who, according to the dictates of their own conscience, were the fittest to place before the people as candidates.

The voting began and was carried on under the same system as that in vogue at the convention for the nomination of Senators, held in Waverley hall yesterday afternoon and evening.

The committee on printing of ballots called the turn pretty well for when the ballots were counted, it was found that the first six men on the list had been nominated. These, it might be stated, were not placed in alphabetical order.

The successful six were as follows: Joseph Aea, 32; L. K. Kentwell, 21; J. D. Holt, 27; D. Kaona, 24; Chas. J. McCarthy, 24; J. Nauha, 21.

The others, with their votes, were as follows: S. K. Kamakala, 14; L. W. Kanealii, 12; D. Notley, 12; Lapana, 4; W. H. Kapu, 3; P. Haiola, 2; J. P. Hina, 1.

Chairman Kalaokalani, when he had announced the result of the ballot, thanked the delegates for putting such a strong ticket before the people. They would constitute the right hand of the people in the Fourth District and with them, the Home Rulers would sweep the deck. God had guided each delegate in his vote and the result had been most satisfactory.

The chair then announced that the two district committees would meet in Waverley hall this evening for the purpose of swearing the nominees and of listening to speeches by them.

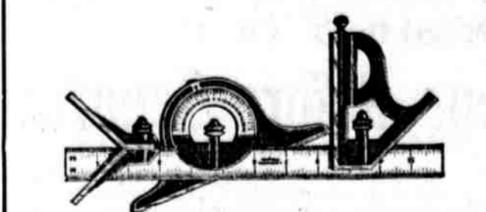

At this point, every delegate was asked to stand and, Keliheenua starting the refrain, fifty voices took up the national anthem of the Hawaiians—"Hawaii Ponoi."

The Fifth District got down to work very quickly and after each man on the ticket had been dwelt upon briefly by Chairman Kalaokalani, the balloting proceeded, the result being the election of the following as candidates for the House of Representatives: Wm. Mossman, 43; Ng Monwar, 37; D. M. Kupihea, 34; S. K. Oili, 34; N. K. Kou, 29; Damiano, 24.

The others were as follows: J. K.

Ng Monwar, the Chinese attorney, who secured next to the highest vote on the ticket, and who has promised to give both money and work to the party which he has adopted, has the proud distinction of being the very first Chinese to receive a nomination to any legislature on American soil. He is very happy at having achieved the distinction.

The appearance of the name of Henry Vida on the Home Rule ticket was a very great surprise to the delegates, he having already been nominated by the Republicans of the Fourth District, was nominated by Henry Baker.

When the announcement of the successful candidates had been made, Chairman Kalaokalani again called on all to stand and sing "Hawaii Ponoi," which the delegates did with great feeling.

Chairman Mitchell here read a set of resolutions from the executive committee of the Republican Territorial Central Committee, protesting against the statements of Delegate Wilcox regarding the conduct of the leper settlement of Molokai. The resolutions stated that all Republicans were opposed to it. Wilcox Won't Admit It.

Curtis P. laukea here spoke on the public lands, stating that they were greatly undervalued and that he estimated them to be worth $35,000,000 as a whole, while the Crown Lands were worth $20,000,000.

Secretary Cooper was recalled to substantiate the fact that Treasurer Wright had absconded. He stated that Wright had confessed to him, and on the request of the Governor he had taken charge of the office. DAVIS DEMANDS A JURY TRIAL

Ab Hing vs. Ah On, action of damages for false imprisonment, was before Judge Robinson this morning. H. A. Bigelow and C. S. Dole for plaintiff; G. A. Davis for defendant. The court will rule this afternoon upon a demand of Mr. Davis for a jury trial to determine the damages, if any. Mr. Davis complained he had not been fairly treated by Judge Humphreys in the same case, and he is positive in his contention that damages cannot be assessed without a jury trial when demanded.

Hawaiian Trust Co., Ltd., trustee for George A. Aldrich, has filed an amended petition to intervene in the matter of the estate of Robert William Holt, deceased.

Judge Robinson has dismissed the appeal of defendant in the case of Lovejoy & Co. vs. S. K. Kane.

The only "Dilly" Bill White goes to Honolulu, so he says, next Saturday to do politics. He has a strong hold on Maui and the Republicans will have to do some tail hunting to keep him out of the next Senate.

The four-masted schooner Honolulu, Capt. Stockebye, is taking on ballast at Kekaa. She will sail for Esquimaux this week.

Chas. Dudoit and family of Kekaa will go to Honolulu next Saturday so Mrs. Dudoit can be placed under the care of a physician.

Matt McCann will take a three weeks' rest on Molokai. Mr. McCann is a sick man and while he is away Mr. Vidy will take charge of his business in Lahaina.

The Bismarck Stables of Wailuku have opened a branch in Lahaina with R. P. Hosi in charge.

The L. A. C.'s and K. M.'s placed a very warm game of ball at Lahaina Sunday. A large and enthusiastic audience viewed the performance and at one time things got so hot that it looked as though a general mix-up would occur. Brown made five runs for the L. A. C.'s and in the sixth inning with two out and two on bases placed the ball out in the sand hills for a home run. At the end of the agony the L. A. C.'s had 15 runs to their credit and the K. M.'s 6.

The names of the players follow in the batting order: L. A. C.—E. M. Brown, Nilhua, Sam White, P. Espinda, Kahu, Kanihau, Kanihau, John Hosi and McCann. K. M.—Morris, Sinloy, Kaluaki, J. Espinda, Hauki, Kanwanoale, Joan All-ko and David.

LAND, LABOR, L'W, POLITICS

Threshed Out BY CITIZENS BEFORE SENATORS

which having been done the documents were filed as part of his testimony. Answering Mr. Burton he said the figures did not include cost of surveys, which amounted to about $20,000.

Mr. Boyd, in reply to A. S. Humphreys, said the accounts just filed did not include the expenses of his trip to Washington. These were charged to incidentals and amounted to about $1,500. They were for fares, living in Washington, etc. He was not paid his board in Honolulu. Mr. Boyd informed his questioner that the money had not been refunded him as yet. Since the question of authority had been raised he was withholding the vouchers until the Legislature passed on the question.

Spencer's Leasehold.

Mr. Boyd still examined by Mr. Humphreys, said the premises occupied by James G. Spencer contained 40 or 50 acres. They were under the Public Works department. Remembered, as former clerk in Interior department, that the land was bought for purposes of a water filtering plant by the government. He and that lessee had to keep house in repair, ward off trespassers, etc. Thought rental was $80 a year; did not think lease was sold at auction; did not know how many rooms in house, was never on the property; it formerly belonged to Queen Emma (To Foster)—Incidentals of Land office were $250 he thought.

Mr. Boyd promised to produce statement of revenue from crown lands tomorrow.

Instance of Favor.

Sam. Parker wanted him also to present a report on Punahou land, to which witness assented. Mr. Parker said a piece of 12,000 acres was leased at the center of a tract of 82,000 acres. Eben Low applied for it and it was cut out for him. He told of another piece on which a lease had run out and which he desired to obtain. "I have been trying to get it for the last two years and you won't put it up."

Boyd—I think the government will do the right thing by you.

Parker—I have no doubt they will if we live long enough.

Mr. Boyd bespoke a hearing tomorrow for J. F. Brown, his predecessor as Land Commissioner, which was granted.

Chief Justice Corrected.

Judge Gear promised to have the statement on certain laws presented in writing today. There was a misunderstanding about the necessity for three judges. At present he merely wanted to correct a statement by the Chief Justice, who he said never asked him to sit on the Supreme Court bench. Justice Galbraith once asked himself and Thomas Pritch to sit with him. Not that he cared for the distinction, but he wished to correct the Chief Justice.

More Plague Business.

Dr. C. B. Wood was recalled for further examination on the plague epidemic.

Wood—Could not state exactly. Quarantine began with the epidemic. It was necessary to take care of many people without means who had lost their homes. When the Chinatown fire occurred the inhabitants of that quarter had to be accommodated. Outside of the Chinatown people there were probably 70,000 to 75,000 people quarantined. When a suspicious case or a real one developed in quarantine, the period of quarantine had to be extended beyond the regulation time of fifteen days. Average detention was 20 to 30 days. The inconvenience and detention periods were reduced as much as possible by quarantining the people in small groups.

There were figures extant for everything relative to cost of construction and maintenance of detention camps. They were on file in the Board of Health office and would show what money was expended for. There should not be a great deal of trouble in obtaining the data, because matters were thoroughly gone over in the Auditor's office (To Foster)—Figures for the cost of the sheds were included.

Need of Detention.
Burton—Was there necessity of keeping all those people in detention camps?

Wood—It was the only way to keep them together. We did not wish them to scatter the niduses of plague all over town.

A large force of clerks and employes was required. Very few employes were kept at ordinary times. The force had to be increased. The regular and special forces were overworked. They slept at the office.

Burton—What kind of work?

Wood—Shipping, inspecting, sustenance of people in quarantine, etc.

IF YOU WANT TO VOTE IN NOVEMBER, YOU MUST REGISTER.

The Finance Committee.

J. B. Atherton asked was there not at that time appointed a finance committee.

Wood—Yes, I stated that the other day.

A. S. Humphreys asked if the committee was composed of members of the Board of Health.

Wood—No; it was a committee appointed by citizens. Could not say whether they were sworn or not. They were appointed at a meeting of citizens. He did not know of any law under which they were appointed; had lawyers at the meetings of citizens and left legal questions to them. Expenses of quarantine were $800,000 and odd; probably nearer $900,000.

Witness did not think the cost of maintenance was a dollar a head a day.

Humphreys—The cost should then have been $220,000.

Wood—There were other expenses. (To Humphreys)—Dr. Hoffmann was paid $250 a month; received no extra pay for post mortems. There was a corps of physicians receiving each $250 a month; four at least, number varied, possibly five at some times. Did not know that expenditures were a public scandal, in consequence of which the finance committee was appointed. A little champagne was bought; did not know how much; had nothing to do with its purchase. No cocktail shaker was paid for; believed one was bought for an employe. Some cigars were paid for. Heard of blankets at $8 a pair. (Humphreys later mentioned $12.50 a pair.) Believed purchases were ordered by C. Bolte.

No Disinfectable Articles.
Humphreys—Is it a fact that crockery, bric-a-brac, bronze ornaments, etc., that could have been sterilized were destroyed?

Wood—No. Everything of that nature disinfected and saved. (To Humphreys)—Had a plague suspect out of these hotel grounds. Cannot remember what kind of a night he was taken out in. Did not put the entire hotel in quarantine, only part of it; did not burn the cottage from which Levy was taken. Did not put anybody in the hotel under strict quarantine; for some weeks a roll call was held. Case was never declared plague. It was the only one where a positive diagnosis was impossible.

Loebenstein Recalled.
A. B. Loebenstein was recalled on his request to make a further statement on values placed on lands. Values were underestimated by the Government. He gave the names of several tracts aggregating 1,300 acres leased within three months past at $1 an acre. Other tracts were mentioned at $1.50, witness claiming that all such ought to bring $5 an acre per annum. He did not believe there was necessity of leaving these lands at all, in view of the demand for homesteads. Leases to corporations were for five years.

In answer to Senator Burton, witness thought the reservation of large tracts for forest preservation was adopted in unjust degree. Whenever an applicant without influence asked for land, it seemed the government had the pretext for refusal ready, that the particular land was necessary for the conservation of rainfall.

Hilo Has Some Rain.
Burton—Do you think that Hilo has a sufficient rainfall? (Laughter.)

Loebenstein—Well, we do have a few inches sometimes. Witness went on to tell of the leasing of 12,000 acres to Hing & Low, ranchmen, without putting up the rest of the tract in whose center this piece was situated. (This is the transaction mentioned by Mr. Parker when Mr. Boyd was testifying.)

Mr. Parker suggested that Mr. Loebenstein be present when Land Commissioner Boyd appeared.

Original System Successful.
Mr. Loebenstein wanted to speak of the Homestead Act of 1884. This was never put in force until L. A. Thurston became Minister of the Interior in 1887. That Act proved a success so far as carried out. Under Mr. Thurston's administration a large number of Portuguese took up homesteads and had made a good living thereon. If such a policy were adopted now the plantations would have an all-sufficient labor supply at their doors.

Witness told of Kaalaala land leased for $2000 a year, which contained 4500 acres of cane land, also of a tract estimated at $5000 valuation by the government which was assessed to a corporation for taxes at $40 or $50 an acre, its area being he believed 500 acres.

Leasing at Auction.
W. O. Smith asked if the leases in Hamakua and Kohala referred to were not put up at auction with 30 days' notice.

Loebenstein—Yes. But everybody knows when once a piece of land goes into the hands of a plantation company that is an end of it for homesteads.

Burton—How did the leases bring only $1.50 an acre at public auction when you say the land is worth $5 an acre?

Loebenstein—How can anybody compete with corporations for large tracts? Mr. Burton was not satisfied with this answer, and witness replied to the question differently put: Because the authorities here put so low a valuation on lands wanted by corporations, and everybody knows that the plantation company will not grind the independent farmer's cane. It is useless for individuals to take land within a plantation's sphere.

Incidental Small Farming.
Besides raising cane for the sugar mill if it were taken, small land holders could raise vegetables—what these people are laughing at. The reason farmers cannot make a success of varied products is that the corporations have control of transportation. Freight is carried cheaper a distance of 25 miles to Kawaihae than a distance of two or three miles to Honokaa.

Upset Price Deceiving.
Mr. Smith asked if the leases in question were not advertised at an upset price.

Loebenstein—The government has no right to accept the upset price tendered by a corporation. They should say: "If you cannot put your price at $5 or $6 an acre, we will not put that land."

Smith—Don't you know that this is the very reason why the country is being developed, land being offered for cultivation at a reasonable price?

Loebenstein—The lands are sold without sufficient notice to the people wanting homesteads. They are advertised in the Honolulu papers. The public doesn't get fair notice until the whole thing is done and then it is a case of, "What are you going to do about it?"

Mr. Smith was not prepared to concede the correctness of this statement, believing that Hawaii land sales were now generally advertised in the Hilo papers.

Parker's Shrewd Deal.
Mr. Parker explained the business. It was 30 miles from Waipio to Laupahoehoe. If Pacific Sugar Mill wanted a piece of land the other plantation would not travel that distance to compete for it. The rule worked similarly when Laupahoehoe wanted land. It was left alone by Pacific Sugar Mill. They were not going to run up land against each other.

He had thirty-three acres of land on Maui which he sold three years ago for $55,000. Why? Because he had Hawaiian Commercial and Waiuku plantations bidding against each other. One of them offered $15,000 and he went to the other, who raised on that bid and in the end he got the price mentioned. It was the only instance in these islands where land brought over a thousand dollars an acre.

Burton—An instance where an individual got ahead of a corporation.

How to Do It.
Parker—If the land were cut up into small lots it would probably bring higher prices.

Loebenstein—Would an ordinary in-

HOME RULE CONVENTION NAMES ITS SENATORS

Home Rule candidates for the Senate from the Third Senatorial District—Jesse P. Makainai, Edgar Caypleas and Chas. L. Nottley.

The big convention of the Home Rule party of delegates from the Fourth and Fifth Districts for the purpose of choosing candidates for the Senate from the Island of Oahu, met in Waverly hall at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but did not get down to actual work until about an hour later, this time being necessary to allow the committee on credentials to perform the work, the number of delegates chosen being ninety in all from the two districts. Senator Kalauokalani and David Kuehwa were in their places as chairman and secretary, the rule of the party being that the chairman and secretary of the executive committee shall preside over and record the proceedings of all conventions held for the purpose of choosing candidates for the Senate and House of Representatives.

An intelligent body. The convention was composed of perhaps the most intelligent body of Hawaiians that have ever come together for political purposes since Hawaii became a Territory. They were an orderly set of men and were bent on doing their work thoroughly. Among the number were noticed a large proportion of well-to-do natives—men of moderate means and comfortable homes from all over this island. It did not make any difference to them how long they remained at the meeting, just so they did properly the work which their constituents expected of them. This was well proven by the fact that, although the meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock, it was 7:30 before adjournment was taken.

At about 3 o'clock the committee on credentials reported thirty-five delegates present from the Fourth District with four proxies and three absent; also forty-eight delegates from the Fifth District, all present. The report was adopted, the committee discharged and then, upon motion of George Markham, the convention decided to proceed with the business of the afternoon under the regular rules of parliamentary procedure.

Would Exclude Outsiders. Henry Baker did his best to produce a rule by means of which all but the delegates should be excluded from the room, but his proposition was met by a tremendous storm of disapproval. The chair ruled that since it had been decided to conduct the meeting under the regular rules of parliamentary procedure, he would have to decide that the gentleman was out of order. Markham voiced the same sentiment as the chair, stating that it would be a very bad move to exclude outsiders. They were voters and the delegates should be willing to have all the business they might transact conducted in the open. He was not in favor of doing any work behind closed doors.

Henry Baker next tried to get a suspension of the rules for the introduction of a resolution (presumably for the exclusion of outsiders) but the motion failed of a second and the chair announced the nomination for Senators in order.

Nominations Made. Representatives from the various precincts thereupon stood up and nominated their men, the full list of nominations being as follows: Edgar Caypleas, A. K. Kaelikau, Jesse P. Makainai, Joseph Aea, Chas. Nottley, C. B. Kalle, T. C. Polikapa, G. A. Long, John Holt, Prince David Kawananakoa, J. A. Baker, J. B. Kawahawai, D. Damien, H. Kauahilo, J. K. Paele and S. P. Kellihenalu.

On motion of George Markham, a committee consisting of himself, Kellihenalu and Kellihenalu was appointed to attend to the matter of printing a hundred and fifty ballots with the names of the various nominees thereon. The convention thereupon took a recess for one hour to allow the committee to do its work.

One by One. Upon the calling of the convention to order again, the committee on printing of ballots reported, the report was accepted and the chair announced that, beginning with the Fourth District, the names of each of the delegates would be called, and as this was done, each man was expected to walk up to the table in front of the delegates and cast his vote. There was considerable objection to this mode of procedure on account of the length of time it would take, and there was any amount of spirited talk but the chairman ordered everyone to sit down. The convention had decided to conduct its business according to parliamentary procedure and that was what it was being sought to do. Someone from the back of the room shouted out that there were snakes among the names on the list and the answer, saying one of the ballots, made answer that if there were any snakes on the list, there was no way of getting rid of them. This quieted everyone and there was no further objection to the plan of voting as it had been mapped out by the chair.

As Conscience Should Direct. Previous to the beginning of the voting, Senator Kalauokalani made a short address to the delegates, admonishing each one to vote according to the dictates of his own conscience, but to vote for good men. The rights of the people were in the hands of the delegates present and they should think carefully before voting. There were three men to be chosen and these, if elected, would constitute a portion of the body—the Senate—that would examine into the doings of the local government and try to get some measure of good for the people.

The delegates were thereupon asked to stand and, raising their right hands, they swore to vote for good men—men who would see to it that the rights of the people were safeguarded.

This done, the balloting began and the shades of night were descending rapidly when the work was finally completed. Upon counting the ballots, the number cast was found to be eighty-one and this tallying with the figures of the secretary, the reading of the names began.

Makainai, Caypleas, Nottley. It could be seen from the beginning that Makainai and Caypleas would surely be nominated, but there was doubt as to the third man. Aea started out as if he would be the third man, but upon the tally reaching fifteen, Charles Nottley began to creep ahead, a large number of votes from the Fifth District being thrown his way. As he steadily increased his lead, the enthusiasm of his friends knew no bounds, and shouts of "That's right; force that man ahead!" could be heard on all sides. Holt bowed along to fifteen votes and then stopped. Five more were added later and then he stopped for good. Mossman promised to do a little something, but he too fell down and finished with ten votes. Damien was the only man on the list who did not get a single vote.

The result as it finally stood was as follows, Makainai, Caypleas and Nottley winning out in the order named: Makainai, 57; Caypleas, 55; Nottley, 41; Aea, 23; Holt, 20; Mossman, 19; Maille, 6; Kanahiko, 4; Kahahawai, 3; Paele and Polikapa, 2 each; Prince David Kawananakoa, Kellihenalu and Baker, 1 each; and Damien, 0.

Makainai Starts Speechmaking. The next thing was a demand for speeches and Makainai, having been given the highest vote, was called upon first to talk for five minutes. He stated that he was not looking for exalted position but was out working for the good of the people and the land. He stated that he and the other two men nominated with him had been highly honored, but the people would still have to remain behind them. If there was no strength shown in the work to elect them, then the nation would surely fall. If the land was once more to show a happy face, every man should get out and work for the men whom the convention had chosen. In no other way could the people expect to get their rights.

Were Home Rulers to Blame? The speaker then took up the aspersions that had been cast on the Home Rule party by its enemies. It had been said that the present stringency in the money market was due to the Home Rulers. The speaker wished to say that this was manifestly a falsehood and the present condition of affairs could be laid at the door of the very people who were casting the aspersions. The Custom House and post-office receipts were taken from the country by the Federal Government. Was that the fault of the Home Rulers? Wages to Asiatics on the plantations previous to annexation were $15 a month and the laborers were perfectly satisfied. Now they were getting $22, the difference meaning something enormous each year. This money was certainly not being spent here. It was being sent back to China and Japan, thus forming a continual drain on the country. Was this the fault of the Home Rulers? Again, about $3,000,000 had gone up in smoke during plague time. If all the burned places were doing business today, these alone would set thousands and thousands of dollars in circulation. Claims had been filed but not a single cent had been paid so far. Was this the fault of the Home Rulers? Certainly not. The Home Rule party could not be blamed in any way. If the county bill had gone through at the last session of the Legislature there would have been more prosperous times here now. Who was it that held up the county bill? Again, was the Home Rule party to blame?

Look Out for Fourth. In completing his remarks, the speaker stated that he did not anticipate any fear so far as the Fifth District was concerned, but he did want every man to get in and make a special effort in the Fourth. He wished to make everyone understand that the fight would be a hard one there.

Poetic References by Nottley. Charles Nottley took the floor amid a storm of applause and started in by making poetic references to the various islands of the group where the people with one accord were standing firm for Wilcox. He asked the delegates to stand firm for the nominees which they had chosen, for otherwise they must surely fail. If those present loved their country, their parents and their people, then they must stand by the party that would protect them and give them their rights. "God will guide us to victory," said the nominee. Continuing, he said: "Remember the Fourth District and get in and win. Show everyone by winning a victory there that your enemies cannot bring you. If I fail to do what you tell me to do, should I be seated in the Senate, you may take my life. I shall not fail you."

"Acts, Not Words," Says Caypleas. Caypleas was the last speaker. His remarks were made in English and interpreted by J. M. Poepe, who did his work exceedingly well.

After thanking the delegates for the honor which they had conferred upon him, the speaker said that, after all, it was the acts of a man in public life, rather than words, that proved his sincerity. It was nothing but words and promises that the people had been having for a long time past. The political conditions of the country and the relation of the masses to the powers that could be best demonstrated by the story of the two boys, one of whom had two and the other three cents. The boy with two cents said to the other: "Give me your three cents and I will buy a cigar and we can have a good smoke." The boy with the two cents got the cigar and started to smoke it and when the other one asked if he were not going to get a smoke, he said: "No; I'm the boss; I'll smoke; you can spit."

People Ones to Smoke. The speaker said he was standing on the Home Rule platform as a nominee for the Senate and if he had interpreted the platform correctly, it was to the effect that the people were the ones to do the smoking and the others could spit or not, as they saw fit. Speaking of Americanism, Mr. Caypleas said that the kind they had here was Americanism in name only. It would be his endeavor to get more of the real stuff here. He had heard so many people swell up and say: "I am the servant of the people." However, he always noticed that these people ate at the first table and the people at the second.

That Three-Fourths Vote. An awful cry had been set up against the bad Legislature of 1901. It was impossible for the Home Rulers to do any good and what they did do was all bad. That cry had been prevalent at the opening of the campaign, but he had noticed that there was not so much of this now. On the stump, the Republicans had a chance to point out the terrible wrongs the Home Rulers had been guilty of—wrongs that existed only in the minds of Dole and his gang. It would now be the chance of the Home Rulers to ask the Republican party what they had done in the last Legislature. The speaker asked what the Republican party had ever done for the Hawaiians. What benefit had the people ever derived from the Republican administration in this country? Who was it that went before the Senatorial Commission and asked to have a restriction imposed on the Legislature by making it necessary to have a three-fourths vote to pass a measure over the veto of the Governor? Who ever heard of such a thing in an American Territory? "That's what the Republicans are trying to do for the Hawaiian," said the speaker. "Was there ever a good thing done for the Territory that was not done by the Home Rule party? Mr. Caypleas stated that two years ago, upon going to his home out Makiki way, he was forced to wade through mud up to his knees. Now we could wear patent leather shoes. This was due to nothing else in the world than the work of the Home Rulers in the Legislature.

One Word—Nothing. There was plenty of time for him to tell the people what the Home Rulers had done. He would not enumerate these things, as the time was passing rapidly. However, he did not wish to say that all the Republicans had done for the people could be summed up in one word—nothing. They had done nothing but get off a lot of hot air and were this a cold country, they would charge for that. The speaker, in referring to the anxiety of the people for county and municipal government, stated that the promises of giving the people this kind of a government once, and they would be false again. Mr. Caypleas again thanked the delegates for the honor they had conferred upon him.

Nominations Made Unanimous. On motion of George Markham, the nominations of Makainai, Caypleas and Nottley were made unanimous. Senator Kalauokalani then read the platform to the candidates and with right hands uplifted, they all swore to stand firm on the planks contained. The candidates next signed their names to a paper pledging themselves to work for county and municipal government and to lend their assistance to all other Convention closes With Prayer. Home Rule measures.

Rev. Olli was called upon to offer up prayer which he did with the three candidates standing before him with bowed heads and every man in the room on his feet. BELIEVED INCENDIARY

TWO FIRES LAST NIGHT OF SUSPICIOUS ORIGIN

MAN SEEN NEAR LUCAS MILL. KEROSENE CANS NEAR LILHA BLAZE—HELD UNDER CONTROL.

Last night two fires, both probably of incendiary origin, brought out the Fire Department.

The first one occurred at about 10 o'clock in Lucas Brothers' planing mill on Fort street, just below the Hackfeld building. When the alarm was turned in the Fire Department quickly responded but when they arrived the back part of the mill, which was a wooden shed covered by corrugated iron, was already blazing badly. This part of the mill was where most of the planing was done, and there was also a rotary saw in operation there. Considerable lumber was lying in this part of the mill, which was practically all ruined. The front part of the mill and the engine room are built of brick and are not injured. A small building belonging to Hackfeld & Co. containing 800 barrels of lime and a large number of matches, was also on fire. Both fires were soon under control. This morning the lime, which was still smoking, was being carted away.

The whole plant was insured for $5,000. The damage is estimated by the owners to be about $1,000 or $2,000. This will be only partly covered by insurance. The owners stated today that they intend to rebuild the burned part of the mill immediately and expect to be in shape again in about a month.

That the fire was of incendiary origin seems evident. Last night a sailor saw a man by a small fire in the rear of the building. He passed on, however, but a few moments later, on looking back, he saw the building in a blaze. The fire started in a place in the mill where no smoking or any kind of fire is ever allowed. The only place in the mill where any fire is kept in the engine room, but an examination showed that the fire had not started there. All this seems to indicate that the blaze was the work of some incendiary, although the Lucas Brothers are at a loss to know who could have done it, as they have no enemies to their knowledge.

The second fire of last night was discovered at about 3 a. m. under an Oriental two-story lodging house on Lilaha street, a little above King. The fire alarm was sent in by a Chinese special officer of Condon's patrol. The fire was under the building, a lot of rags and paper being on fire. The building is on the front flush with the street, but several feet from the ground in the back. This leaves a triangular space under the house, and it was in this space, about in the middle, that the fire was. That this fire was the work of an incendiary was evident, as the burning rags had been saturated with kerosene and a nearly empty kerosene tin was found right near under the fire.

Two Japanese who lived in the building showed themselves as able fire-fighters and by bringing water in buckets and by beating the burning rags with sticks, had extinguished the flames just as the Fire Department had its hose out. Only very little damage was done, but had the fire not been discovered in time the whole building would undoubtedly have gone up in flames.

FIGHT OF PRISONERS.

The yard of the Oahu prison was the scene of a mighty battle this morning. A tall Porto Rican prisoner, Hollibro Espas, called a fellow countryman named Geronimo Rodrigues, who also was in the toils, some insulting name. Geronimo is a small fellow but nevertheless he attacked his lanky insulter, battering him about the head with a bucket with such effect that when Hollibro appeared in court this morning his head resembled a cabbage, so swathed was it in bandages. Geronimo was sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labor by Judge Wilcox.

BOOKS CORRECT; BUT MONEY GONE

"Even a Chinese merchant would hardly be likely to take them?"

"Hardly," Secretary Cooper said extradition papers were not necessary, since Hawaii is part of the United States. The absconder could be apprehended anywhere in the Union upon a request to the authorities.

It was after 10 o'clock that Governor Dole and the chief departmental heads already mentioned acted on the information that Treasurer Wright was in hiding.

Attorney General Dole was seen again this afternoon, as he left the office of Secretary Cooper, and was asked whether extradition papers were to be sent to San Francisco by the next steamer, five days hence.

"Nothing has yet been done in that direction," Mr. Dole replied. "In fact extradition papers will be no good until the man is located. We don't know where he is.

"No oral message was sent to San Francisco through the captain of the Alameda or any other medium. It would be no use. The chief of police in San Francisco would not dare to arrest Mr. Wright on verbal information.

"We might have arrested him here, but nobody could arrest him after leaving. A message of any kind could not properly have been sent for his detention, anyhow, because after the search we did not believe he was on board the steamer. Captain Flint went to sea in the steamer and returned in a boat without having discovered a trace of Wright.

"There was no definite information that could have been sent to San Francisco at the time, as the investigation of Wright's office had not yet been made. To inform the authorities over there that it was believed here that a certain official had absconded to San Francisco leaving a defalcation would not justify his arrest.

"No; I do not think he could be held as a stowaway by the captain and returned," Mr. Dole said in answer to the supposed case of the Alameda's speaking the China hither bound.

The Attorney General repeated the proposition that extradition papers could only be prepared when a definite case had been made out against the Treasurer and he located within a jurisdiction to whose authorities the request to extradite him should be addressed. It was not as yet a similar case to those of fugitives from justice under indictment or escaped from prison, such as are subjects of frequent regulations with photographs generally attached which are seen posted in Federal and local police headquarters here.

High Sheriff Brown was seen by a Bulletin reporter and asked for full particulars in regard to the steps taken by the police department in regard to Treasurer Wright. He was asked if any extradition papers had been sent to San Francisco by the Alameda or if the police department in any other way had taken steps to effect the arrest or detention of Wright either on board the vessel or in San Francisco.

In answer to these questions the High Sheriff stated that beyond the search of the steamer for the treasurer no steps had been taken to arrest or detain Wright. No one on the steamer had any authority to arrest or detain him and no extradition papers had been sent by the police to San Francisco. Wright could not be held in San Francisco without such papers.

"At 10:20 a. m. we began watching the Alameda," said Mr. Brown. "We had no warrant for the arrest of Wright but had orders that we were not to allow him to leave this Territory. A very thorough search was made of the vessel and he must have been exceedingly well concealed to have escaped us. We sent no papers to hold him, for, as a matter of fact, we did not think that he could be on the steamer. The police have taken no steps but of course I can not tell whether the Attorney General's department has taken any or not.

There will be a benefit to Francis J. Bryant at the Orpheum Saturday evening. Besides local talent there will be several professionals. Arthur Hahn, the famous Australian basso and Fred C. Rima, the musical soloist of the Gordon Minstrel, will participate. A most enjoyable evening is promised those who attend.
