BIG DIVIDENDS ARE HANDED OUT

Hawaiian Agricultural and Onomea Increase To 2 and 4

Business on the Stock Exchange was rather dull this morning despite the announcement of two large increases in the dividends of two leading plantations.

Hawaiian Agricultural announced that beginning September 20 the regular monthly dividend will be increased from 1 per cent to 2 per cent. This means a regular monthly payment of $24,000 in dividend.

Onomea, another Brewster & Co. plantation, also had good news for its stockholders. Beginning with October 5 the regular monthly dividend will be increased from 2 1/2 per cent to 4 per cent. This means a monthly dividend payment of $40,000.

Hawaiian Agricultural's advance shows the effect of two inches of rain in the Kau district. With that much rain the splendid crop is assured. Onomea most always has something good for its stockholders in the prosperous years.

There is very little trading however on the Exchange. Four Refinery bonds sold between boards for 101. A few shares of Ewa sold on the board at thirty and a fraction. Hawaiian Commercial is not over strong at thirty and a fraction, and Oahu sold in a small lot. The money is steadily com-

PROGRAM FOR CONGRESSMEN

All persons attending the reception given by Prince Kalaniana'ole at Waikiki this evening are requested to enter the premises on Kalakaua avenue and stop at the main driveway. Upon the guests leaving their carriages or automobiles, said vehicles shall turn to the left and make their exit along said main driveway to Kaitiaki Road.

Mott-Smith Sheds Light On Molokai

In clear and convincing language E. A. Mott-Smith, president of the Board of Health, gave the members of the Congressional party an enlightening idea of the conditions at Molokai in his address delivered Tuesday evening at the Young Hotel before the moving pictures of the life at the Settlement were shown. The Congressman listened with intense interest to the remarks of the chief executive of the health department who spoke as follows:

Pleasure is hardly to be reconciled with the consideration, and certainly not with the presence of individual or community ill, be such leprosy, its brighter side, typhoid, or other of the more malignant diseases. It is not intended, therefore, that this paper shall either make or mar your pleasure but that it may arouse your interest in this problem and attempt to awaken your belief in its brighter side.

In attempting to show the brighter side of the leprosy problem I do not wish it to be understood that this disease may be regarded lightly, particularly in Hawaii. Far from it. Even those of us who daily come in contact with the disease appreciate that it can be acquired or perhaps communicated in some way or other and, more important still, that this community should be rid of it. The object of this paper is then not only to remove some of the erroneous ideas popularly entertained concerning leprosy, pointing out that the disease may be met

No Street Parade of Pacific Fleet Here

Admiral Sebree Says There Is Too Much Work For The Men--Captain Rees' Reception To Fleet Officers To- night--General News

It has been hoped by a number of people here that Admiral Sebree would allow the officers and men to take part in a large parade, joining with the different branches of the Army in one of the biggest military pageants ever seen in Honolulu, but these hopes will have to be postponed for some time to come, as the Admiral will not allow the fleet to take part.

Admiral Sebree, when seen this morning on the quarter deck of the flagship, and asked if the fleet would be ordered to parade, replied that they would not.

"I am very sorry that I will not be able to grant the wishes of the people for a naval parade, but under no circumstances will my men be ordered out. With work that is ahead of us on our cruise, and the coming target practice at Manila Bay makes it impossible for me to give the desired orders."

"I know that people are always anxious to witness parades, but they don't seem to realize that we have something else to do besides getting out and marching."

"I am sorry that the Honolulu public will have to go without seeing my men marching, but it is out of the question."

Captain's Reception.

This afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock Captain and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees will receive at their home, the Pleasanton, for Admiral and Mrs. Sebree, the officers of the fleet, local society people, and the visiting Congressional party. This event will no doubt be one of the greatest social affairs of the early autumn.

All morning a large force of men have been on hand competing the decorations, and arranging the final details for this afternoon.

A detail of several officers will go with the Captains of each ship, and it is probable that a good many other officers will be present.

Now that the sailing is over for a time on board the ships, the general public will be allowed to visit the ships any afternoon in the week from 3 to 5:30, and on Sunday from 1 to 5:30.

A number of inquiries have been made if the ships would be open to the public this year, and through the courtesy of Admirals Sebree and Barry anybody who will conform to the above hours will gladly be shown over the crack cruisers of our navy.

CONGRESSIONAL GIFT TO MCCLELLAN

Members of the Congressional party this morning called on accounting Mr. George B. McClellan, who has acted as their guide, counsellor and friend since they started from Chicago for the tour of Hawaii.

Mr. McClellan was called to the pavilion of the Young Hotel and there Congressman Bartlett, acting for his associates, presented to Mr. and Mrs. McClellan a magnificent silver tea service as a token of their appreciation of his many courtesies.

A farewell reception by Prince and Princess Kalaniana'ole to the Congressional party will be given tonight at Pualeilani, their Waikiki home. All necessary arrangements have been made and the reception will be a grand affair. Out on the beautiful grounds tents have been pitched and lights strung all over the trees. Honoluluans, both kamaainas and malihinis, will also be received and presented to their Royal Highnesses.

The interior of the Delegate's house is attractively decorated today with rare Hawaiian relics and mountain greens, American and Hawaiian flags are conspicuously placed over the entrance to Pualeilani. The band will be there during the reception.

After the reception Henry Clark will sing a few Hawaiian songs. He will be assisted by his sister.

Besides prominent people of Honolulu, members of the Hawaiian societies, including those of the Kaahumanu, Kamehameha, Kaulikeaouli, Hui Oiwai, Kamehameha, St. Louis and Royal School Alumni Associations will be there to meet the visiting Congressmen and their families.

Island of Mystery Owned By Territory

For a long period "an island of mystery" as to name and ownership, United States Attorney Breckons has "looked it up in the book" and finds that the Territory holds a valid title to the island about 1,000 feet off the shore of Kaula. There is no danger, therefore, of individual ownership to interfere with the lighthouse plans of the government.

On the records the name of the island is given as Molokaae, and Mr. Breckons is assured the title vested in the Territory is good as gold.

The island caused the Federal authorities considerable trouble for some time, as it was feared after the new light on Kilauea Point, Kaula, had been placed in service, that some person would come along, claim ownership to the mysterious island, and erect on it building, which would obstruct the rays of the new light.

The island is shown on the government maps, off shore from Hawaii, but neither Uncle Sam nor the Territory lay claim to it. There is an old story about King Kalakaua playing a poker game at one time with U. S. Minister Rollin M. Daggett on the island. Daggett, it is said, won all of the stakes and some of the moveable articles in the palace, and His Majesty is said to have put up the island with them, but this was not listed on the king's real estate list. The island is rocky, desolate, and none save a few native fishermen go there. The matter was put up to U. S. Attorney Breckons by Major Winslow's office to adjust.

SPIELNER EXAMINED IN RIOT TRIAL

The examination of August Spielner, Jr., occupied the attention of the court and attorneys in the riot case this morning. The Spielners, father and son, were those who arrived at the Higher Wage office at Waipahu while the riot was in progress.

Spielner reiterated his testimony concerning the sticks that were thrown, some of which hit the horses that he and his father were riding. This is the part of the prosecution's case which has been bitterly attacked by the defendants, any stick or stone throwing being absolutely denied by them.

The trial is proceeding in much the same manner as previously and no new witnesses have been called.

Prosecutor Cathcart, assisted by Mr. Prosser, is building up a strong case and the usual methods heretofore adopted by the defense are expected.

CANADA ANXIOUS TO HAVE HER OWN FLEET.

Wants British Shipbuilders to Locate Yards on Her Territory.

Ottawa, September 4.—Canada is extremely anxious to possess a war fleet of its own and efforts are being put forth to induce British shipbuilders to locate plants on Canadian soil. It is said that three world-famous shipbuilders are now considering proposals to locate branch yards in the Dominion and have been assured that the Canadian Government will grant every concession in the way of tariff or in any other line possible.

While the Canadian Ministers at the London conference on naval defense have kept the Government here advised on the different steps of the negotiations, the official account of what has been agreed upon has not yet been received. Britain expects Canada to continue the work of supplying cruisers of the Bristol class and it is known that the yards at Halifax and Esquimaux will be continued, but Canada desires permission and assistance to build up a formidable navy of her own, available for use on the Great Lakes in case of an emergency.

SPANISH PREMIER SEEKS TO RETIRE IN FACE OF WAR.

Don Antonio Maura, premier of Spain, offered his resignation to the king when the recent revolt opened at Barcelona, but the monarch refused to accept it. It was in Barcelona that an attempt was made to assassinate Maura five years ago. He was leaving the council chamber when a man approached him with a knife concealed in a handkerchief and slashed him across the breast. The heavy gold brooch on Maura's coat saved his life. The premier evaded much animosity several years ago by his harsh treatment of the students at Salamanca who were accused of robbing. He is particularly unpopular in Barcelona.

LOGAN GOES TO MINDANAO

Good Behavior of Men Praised By Local Police

During the stay of the transport Logan in Honolulu, the behavior of the 3000 enlisted men on her, who continued their voyage this morning for their destination in the East, has been remarkably good. Although a large number of them were given shore leave yesterday, no arrests have been made by the local police.

"These fellows on the transport Logan were all right," said a policeman today. "They made no disturbance while in Honolulu, and we had no trouble whatever with them." Owing to Captain Babcock's instructions from the Department yesterday noon, the transport will go direct to Mindanao, after leaving Guam, instead of going to Manila.

The receipt of this news by the quartermaster captain was most inconvenient to the lady-passengers, who had intended to do their shopping in

Fortune is ever seen accompanying industry, and is as often seen trundling a wheelbarrow as lolling in a coach and six.—Goldsmith.

Maul deserved it.

Halley's comet seems to have arrived ahead of time just to keep in touch with the spirit of the hour.

Governor Johnson's operation was a complete success, but we wait with apprehension the fate of the patient.

We can make it unanimous when talking of harbor improvements, and these after all are a ship subsidy of no mean order.

Honolulu's waterfront on Regatta Day should present a scene that will make a lasting impression on the minds of departing guests.

Kuhio is the next candidate for Delegate to Congress. The sentiment is general throughout the islands regardless of any suggestions that have been made by his associates in Congress.

It does Hawaii good to have the ships of the navy come to this section for business. The maneuvers and the target practice of next week will be the opening guns of another phase of our glorious future.

"The trip among the public schools was the best yet." This Congressional tribute to the schools of Honolulu shows that a good school touches the heart of an American more deeply than any exhibit that can be offered.

Has Hawaii County no sense of shame? Can't the people at least promise to reform after the Congressional delegation has been moved to stamp a Hawaii County road as the ne plus ultra of all that ought not to be?

Seattle is getting a new service for freight and passengers to Honolulu. Los Angeles is after one. All of them are looking to Hawaii, and there will soon be enough business to support transportation lines to the three great ports of the Pacific.

Torpedo boats going up the river to meet President Taft indicates that everything that can count will be brought into the campaign for improving inland water ways. Even Mr. Bartholdt will not disapprove such use of the engines of war that compel peace.

FREIGHT AND PASSENGERS.

That was a timely reference made by Congressman McLachlan to the freight-carrying steamship lines that take a very large percentage of the freight of this Territory and up to the present day do not reciprocate with accommodation for a single passenger.

Although one line has sufficient patronage between Honolulu and Pacific coast ports to maintain two magnificent freight steamers on a regular schedule, it does not provide for one passenger. And although the matter of passenger necessities was brought forcibly to the attention of the operators of the line both by local people and the local agent, the only recognition gained for Honolulu's passenger needs in the splendid new steamers now building especially for this route, was plans for only forty people.

We are pleased that this has attracted the notice of able thinking men coming here on a tour of observation, particularly a man who desires that the American merchant marine shall be retained in at least this portion of the Pacific.

There is not the slightest doubt that the passenger traffic of these islands would be amply taken care of if the lines that carry the freight of Hawaii made provision for the passengers offering.

One steamship line, we are happy to say, is building up on this basis. It has made a good start. Every steamer it has built and placed on regular runs has had some accommodations for passengers, not elaborate, to be sure, but nevertheless a recognition of local needs. This line will launch this week a new steamer that has accommodation for one hundred and fifty passengers. Unless some blow is struck at the American merchant marine, we feel confident that other steamers will be built by the same company.

This paper would solve our transportation problem, and it is a real problem, life size and full grown, by bringing to time the lines that carry our freight.

What an exhibition for this Territory that during the last fiscal year we should ship to and from Hawaii and the mainland merchandise valued at sixty millions of dollars, and still not have proper accommodation for passengers.

They say that passenger business alone will not pay. We grant this. But haven't we millions of freight to bestow? Are not the people of Hawaii captains of their own destiny? Have they lost the power to say to whom they will give their freight? Are the great interests of the islands in the grip of a great transportation combine if which they are afraid?

Or is it that the commanding interests of Hawaii have not given passenger transportation the place in their discussion that it deserves?

The solution of this transportation problem is in our own hands, and since this is so, and since it will eventually be poor business to turn our patronage over to the foreigners, it seems the better part of progressive citizenship to devote our energies to commanding the American owners and building up the American lines rather than opening the door to aliens.

HALLEY'S HISTORIC COMET.

Appearance of Halley's comet in the heavens almost co-incidental with the discovery of the North Pole furnishes all the setting for a revival of the portents associated with this famous heavenly body since it was discovered centuries ago.

This comet is one of the travelers of the sky that is not seen by every generation, and those who get a view of it this year have another cause for congratulation that their present tour on earth includes the year 1909. It is one of the greatest of astronomical exhibits.

The two most celebrated historical appearances of Halley's comet were in 1066 and 1456. The first date was that of the Norman invasion of England, and each side claimed the comet as a portent in favor of themselves. The Normans said that the comet was set in the heavens to guide Duke William across the channel, and those who have visited the little museum at Bayeux will remember that it forms a notable figure in the tapestry of the Duchess Matilda, which is kept in a glass case in the second room in the thirty-second scene of the tapestry is an object like a huge shuttlecock above a castle with a group of Normans staring and pointing at it, striking Anglo-Saxon attitudes by anticipation at the same time. The foremost of them is supposed to be prophesying evil for Harold, and the inscription above them is "Isti Mirant Stella." William I. was a great believer in portents, and he made the most of the comet in his attack upon Harold and the English.

The other famous appearance of the comet was in 1456, when it spread terror all over Europe, and in all the churches people prayed to be delivered from the Turks and the comet. Three years earlier Constantine, the last Emperor of Byzantium, had died the death of a hero on the Sandjakkdar Yokuskar, the Sultan Mohammed had entered the city, and the Church of St. Sophia had become a mosque. The Crusades were over, and Christianity seemed fated to succumb to Islam, for nothing was able to stop the conquering Moslems. Then in 1456 the comet appeared in the heavens, and Europe saw in it the scimitar of Othman, foreshadowing the subjugation of Christendom. Its appearance, according to the chroniclers of the time, was terrible: It stretched across the sky like a wavying flame, and was the color of molten gold. The Pope, Calixtus III., ordered that the bells of the churches should be rung every day at noon, and that universal prayer should be offered up to exorcise the portent and to check the advance of the Turks. Then at last, to the great relief of Europe, the fiery yaghtagan grew dimmer and fainter, and at last disappeared from the heavens.

When next it appeared, in 1531, Solymán I had just been repulsed at Vienna, and Europe had become accustomed to looking on Austria and Hungary as the barrier against the Turks, and so comparatively little notice was taken of the comet as a Mohammedan portent.

In modern times comets have been looked upon chiefly as the means which will bring about the destruction of the earth, and in 1832, 1857 and 1872 the end of all things terrestrial was positively predicted. However, like the comet of 1456, these visitants passed harmlessly away, and the most worldly-minded were content to note that the years in which a comet appeared were usually remarkably good crop years. In fact, visitants of comet years were greatly sought after, especially that of 1811. Although Halley's comet has never been famous for the excellence of the crops grown under it, let us hope that this year will be an exception to the rule in this respect.

Our citizens should realize that the condition of Hawaii County's roads is a Territorial disgrace and reflects particularly on the majority power of the electorate. Incompetents should be voted down and out if they do not or cannot follow intelligent policies.

Let's take off our coats and make a winning fight to bring the increasing number of people to Hawaii in steamers flying the American flag. Hawaii has the inspiration, the energy and should have the faith in our future to do it. If people who have made their money in Hawaii will reinvest it for the further upbuilding of Hawaii, we have the means.

NO PARADE OF PACIFIC FLEET HERE.

Second Division To Hilo.

Although permission has been given Admiral Barry by Admiral Sebree to go where he pleases after the speed trials on Wednesday, nothing definite has been decided by Admiral Barry, except that he may take his four ships to visit Hilo and the Volcano.

One of the officers of the West Virginia stated this morning that it was almost certain that the second division, consisting of the West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Colorado, would make the trip up from Maui with the vessels of the first division, Admiral's Reception.

Local society people who had the good luck of being present at the reception and dance given on board the cruisers West Virginia and Pennsylvania two years ago, will be pleased to learn that on Tuesday evening September 28th, Admiral Sebree and the officers of the fleet will entertain at a reception and dance on board the two flagships, and at the end of the Alakea street wharf.

Great preparations are being made to make this event the most gorgeous ever given in Honolulu, and it is unnecessary to say that it will be an event that will down in Honolulu's social history.

A meeting of the officers was held yesterday on board the Tennessee, and all the details were gone over, and committees appointed.

Preparing For Targets.

Outside of the regular morning quarters and drills, everything on board the ships of the fleet this morning is quiet. The speed trials of next week and the preparations for the annual target practice at Manila Bay are going on quietly, as everything does in the Navy.

The keenest rivalry exists among the eight ships in the fleet, as to the outcome of the target practice this fall, and every officer is doing his best to have his gun crew drilled to the highest state of efficiency. The Maryland holds the record at present in the fleet for record practice, and is second in battle practice.

In battle practice the range is unknown, while in record practice every angle and range is figured out to the inch.

AGENTS FOR THE REMINGTON TYPEWRITERS.

With a ship going ahead at nearly full speed, every man at a gun has to be constantly on the alert, and for this reason all the spare time from now until the practice in Manila Bay will be taken up in gun drills.

Admiral Sebree is very anxious to have his first practice as commander-in-chief a record breaking one, and for that reason every ship is having plenty of gun drill.

Near Death Explained.

As extensively reported in the Bulletin on Saturday, Coal Passer Holden of the Colorado, who was found floating stern face downwards Saturday morning and brought on board apparently lifeless and who was saved from death by the heroic measures of Assistant Surgeon Hayward, explains his present in the water by saying that he was taken, violently ill with nausea early in the morning when it was dark, and hoping to get relief in the open air, went to the rail along the boat deck, and while there fainted, and in some way fell overboard.

Guilty Being Tried.

Shortly after two bells, sea time, or to be more exact, 9 o'clock land time, a single gun was fired from the U. S. S. Colorado this morning, denoting that a general court martial was being held.

It is the general custom in the navy, when ships are cruising in fleets, to designate certain ships for court martial duty, so today a number of men who have broken some of the many regulations are being tried for minor offenses aboard the Colorado.

One of the officers of the Colorado, while ashore the other afternoon, lost his room on board entered by one of the mess attendants, and a sum of money taken. The guilty man was found and will probably not only be sentenced to dishonorable discharge, but will also do about a year or so in the naval prison for stealing.

GETTING IN TRIM FOR TEST

After the eight ships arrive back in port from their speed trials on September 25, the trying ordeal of coaling will again be the order of events for at least two days.

The first coaling, which was completed yesterday by the Maryland, drew over nine thousand tons from the coal piles, under the charge of the local Paymaster J. R. Horabarger, but on the second coaling over twelve thousand tons will be required to fill up the fighting ships under Admiral Sebree.

One of the officers in speaking this morning about the last coaling, remarked that "great credit should be given Paymaster Horabarger and W. H. Hoogs for the way things were done. If every port would do the same in preparing for coaling as Honolulu has done, coaling would be made much easier."

Clergy Calls.

Bishop Restarick, accompanied by several of the local clergy, called on the Flagship Tennessee this morning and were received by Admiral Sebree and staff.

Lovers of old-time minstrelsy will see a show to their liking at the Orpheum tonight, as the new bill will open with a regular minstrel first part, including end men and interlocutor.

REGATTA DAY ENTRIES FOR RACES

Up to going to press this afternoon the following entries had been received for the Regatta Day events. Many more entries are expected to be put in this afternoon. The man-of-war events are managed by the ships' officers, and the entries have not been turned in to the Hawaiian News Company. All the ships will have crews to represent them, and the races should be very interesting.

The entries are:
 Sealer six-oar—Myrtle and Healan. Six-paddle canoe—Kaimoekalani, Letitia A. A. Kalei and Nianani. Freshmen—Myrtle and Healan. Four-paddle canoe—Lei Ima, Kaimoekalani, Flying Fish A. A. Kalei and Nianani. Senior pair-oar—Myrtle and Healan. Sailing canoe race—Lei Ima, Kaimoekalani, Alabama and Kalei. Sailing canoe race (modern)—Good Time Haheo, Kamehameha, Hoku Kaimanu, Kiokealani, Palika, Lei Lehu. Four-paddle canoe (women)—Good Time.

Everything points to a fine day's sport, and the various races should be pulled off before an immense crowd.

A challenge has been sent to the feet by the Oahu League. The Oahu bunch wish to play a picked team of the best fleet men. Such a match is pretty sure to come off on Sunday.

The Washington and West Virginia baseball nines will play at the Athletic Park this afternoon, and it is possible that there will be two games.

PUGET SOUND FOR FINE SCENERY

SEATTLE, Sept. 12.—The early fall months of September and October are seen in no part of the world to the same magnificent advantages as in the Puget Sound country. The rare atmosphere of the mountains is sharpened and brightened, and with the first touch of autumn the entire country is presented in an air of wonderful clearness and temper.

It is difficult of description, an adequate picture of the surrounding white-clothed peaks and glittering blues of the inland sea waters. Standing at the head of the Cascades of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, the eye wanders through miles and miles of hazy, clear atmosphere, and rests on the tumbled tops of the rugged Olympics and serrated peaks of the Cascades and Selkirk mountains.

The air one breathes comes from the snow-covered hills, and, tempered by the miles of pine and cedar, supplies the greatest incentive to holiday making that can be found. The Exposition vine, its lakes and woods, its quaint and vital mixture of garbs and people, the throngs of visitors and the pageantry of fete and national festivals, makes a picture impossible to surpass. The brilliant blossoms of formal garden and stately bed have commenced to take on the more subdued colors of approaching autumn; in the vine maples and drooping alders the touch of fall is appearing, and from the steamer landings the sportsman leaves on his week-end excursion armed with gun and followed by hunting dog. If there is any place in the world where the call of ending summer draws more strongly on the leading strings of men than in Puget Sound, it has yet to be written.

TAFT TRAINS HARD AND BOXES WELL

HIS REGULAR ROUND TO REDUCE HIS WEIGHT.

How He Shapes Up With Great Pugilist John L.—Interesting Early Morning Gym Work—Dr. Barker His Trainer.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 20.—One year and one month before John Lawrence Sullivan was born in Paddy's Hollow in Roxbury, Mass., the latest celebrity in fistiana was learning to talk in Cincinnati. By the time John L. was eight years old he was a terror, at fourteen he was the ward champion, and at seventeen he was licking all of the dubs around Boston in a purely scientific way. By the time he was twenty John L. was standing up with the best of them and on the highway to the championship of America.

Ever since that time John L. has been close to the spot light on the stage of pugdom. Quite true, a young man named Corbett, now a "has been" put him out with a wallop to the jaw in New Orleans one September day in 1892. But John L. has never worn out, and only a year ago he was doing a vaudeville sketch as the mastodon and the elephant at play with Jake Kilrain in the squared circle, at 25, 50 and 75 cents a throw.

John L.'s Superior Found.

John L.'s superior in brawn, although a year and a half older, was not discovered as a likely looking lad for the game until a week ago. Then the country shivered with delight when it heard from Beverly that President William Howard Taft was doing his daily boxing bout with Dr. Charles E. Barker, his physical instructor. It also leaked out that the doctor, with his 160 pounds, only got the better of the President with his 305, by faster foot-work.

The President was born in Cincinnati on Sept. 15, 1857. John L. first peeped into the day near Boston on Oct. 15, 1858. The Boston lad's parents were working people, his father a puddler in a foundry. Mr. Taft's earlier entrance into the world in Cincinnati was under more auspicious circumstances. His father was a judge and was to be an Attorney-General of the United States. William, as the boy was named, later developed into "Bill," before he got to be "Will." It was "Bill" in school days and "Bill" in Yale except when "Will" went to dances and learned the waltz steps which won him all of the suffragette votes at Hot Springs, Va., and Augusta, Ga.

John L. had to fight to get along and "Bill" Taft laughed his way through life. His superior figure was a powerful argument against battle when he was a youngster and his good nature was too much for the most pugacious of his playfellows.

Getting Down to 280 Pounds.

The President's entrance into the ring this late day is not intended to edify the multitude or to furnish amusement for Dr. Barker. Its one and only purpose—and it is succeeding—is to keep the Taft flesh from going over the mark fixed by Dr. Barker as the healthy line.

Dr. Barker wants to bring the President down to 300. He once had him to 270, but that was three years ago. He has already dropped him from 326 to 301, and he has nearly a month of working yet before him. Giving Dr. Barker the same trust that the President gives him, and computing the President's build on the basis of 280 pounds. It was a good-sized man that was neglected in Cincinnati while John L. was being trained for battle. The last marks on John L. Sullivan give him 5 feet 10 1-2 inches of height and 196 pounds of flesh. John L. did better than this with flesh for many years, and before his team work with Jake Kilrain was closer to 275 than to 196.

Jeffries, ever since they dug him out of the alfalfa in California to whip the smoke, has been working on the high speed schedule. He has been talked to death, praised to the skies and trained until he had to go Europe to get his appetite back for an omelette. Jeffries, with his thirty-four years, has put in more nights watching the electric lights than has President Taft in his fifty-two.

The President's excellent condition is due, first of all, to his absolute faith in Dr. Barker. The President believes that when a man makes it his business to study human bodies says that it is healthy to do a thing and unhealthy not to do it, that man knows what he is talking about. So, when Dr. Barker told the President that he must diet the President began his diet. He is not the kind to break the training table.

President on the Water Wagon. The President was advised that alcoholic liquors were not good for him. So one day in Hot Springs, Va., before the rigors of the campaign were upon him, he cut 'em out. Before that he was not even a mild drinker. He took a little wine at dinner sometimes and enjoyed a little drink when it was in order for everybody to take one. But when Mr. Taft found out that all liquors were bad for him he turned down his glass and has not tasted liquor since.

Dr. Barker wanted the President to do some hard work. He picked golf as the best exercise for a man of Mr. Taft's weight and years. Thereafter Mr. Taft became a golfer. In addition to the health giving qualities of the game, it has been fascinating to Mr. Taft, and now he is a thoroughgoing golfer. He plays for good scores, and where once he knocked the ball around just to try his arm, he is now a finished player, capable of some tremendously long drives.

Dr. Barker's Career.

The President found Dr. Barker in Washington three years ago. Before that Dr. Barker was a practicing physician in Madison, Wis. Somewhat of a social leader there, Dr. Barker was recognized as the best golf player and the best all around athlete in that part of Wisconsin. Former Senator John C. Spooner knew him well, and one day while the two were chatting at the Madison Golf Club Dr. Barker suggested to the Senator that he needed more of a doctor's care than medicine; that he needed health giving exercise. The Senator agreed with him, and after talking it over several days persuaded Dr. Barker to come to Washington with him to help him through a long siege of Congress.

Barker came and pretty soon had Spooner feeling like a yearling colt. The Wisconsin Senator suggested his name to Mr. Taft, who was then Secretary of War. The Secretary sent for the doctor and they had a talk. Mr. Taft submitted to a physical examination and Dr. Barker told him that what he needed was hard work to keep him fit. He also had to cut out some of the foods he had been accustomed to.

Mr. Taft agreed that he needed the hard work and promised Dr. Barker fifteen minutes a day. "I am sorry, Mr. Secretary," the doctor said, "I cannot take your case. You need at least an hour a day. I can be of some service with that understanding."

Likes the Barker Style.

Mr. Taft was a pretty busy man those days. He was running the big War Department, keeping a weather eye on the Philippines and sitting on the lid. Between times he was listening to a host of friends who told him they were going to make him President. Mr. Taft was impressed with Dr. Barker's style. The young badger is a clean cut, manly looking chap of about thirty-five. He is as spare as a bone and every ounce of his 160 pounds is as hard as a nail. He is the niftiest looking man in Beverly today, and he exercises harder than any other man in town, but he takes exercise deliberately and without making it hard work.

So for three years the doctor has treated Mr. Taft intermittently. After the inauguration of the President he began daily morning visits to the White House. When the President came to Beverly Dr. Barker dropped in one day and rigged up a gymnasium in the garage. And now every morning before breakfast Dr. Barker motors out to Burgess Point. It takes only a few minutes to get ready, and then President Taft puts in an appearance. He wears light trousers, a pair of light shoes and an outing shirt. The doctor puts him through his paces in jig time. The Taft wind is better today than it has been in years, thanks to the days on the links.

The arm exercise machine, the rowing machine, the chest weights, dumbbells, the Indian clubs and the tug at wrestling do not faze him. Next he tries about four minutes of boxing with Dr. Barker. The doctor's style is of that jumping jack variety calculated to make the President exercise every part of his body from his eyes down to his toes. Hard at it for four one-minute rounds and Mr. Taft has worked up a perspiration which is as healthy as the work.

Then the doctor takes him in hand for a rubdown. In a method of his own the doctor massages the Presidential frame to diminish its uneven features without impairing the strength of any function of the body.

A good shower bath and Mr. Taft is done. He ambles back to his porch and waits for the breakfast call with a yearning which speaks volumes for Dr. Barker. After breakfast a fast ride of a few miles over the cool Massachusetts roads and the President is ready for his eighteen holes of golf. These he covers in a couple of hours and is ready for his lunch.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody, without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrup," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria. Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results." F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice, found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home." W. J. McCracken, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine." N. B. SHERN, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

MAUI TOO STRONG FOR OAHU TEAM

FRANK BALDWIN'S BOYS SHOW EXCELLENT FORM AND PLAY DASHING GAME OF POLO—BIG CROWD OF SPECTATORS AND MUCH ENTHUSIASM SHOWN MAUI 14; OAHU 3-4.

"I love my Oahu, but oh you Maui!" That about summed up the sentiment of all the Honolulu people who were present at the polo games yesterday, when Maui won by a score of 14 to 3-4.

A tremendous crowd of automobiles and rigs of all descriptions turned out at Moanalu, and quite a number of horsemen also rode to the beautiful park. The foothills were crowded with spectators, and many people wended their way out on foot and seized upon the vantage spots above the field.

Captain Berger was present with his band, and the music was much appreciated by the spectators. It was indeed an inspiring sight to see the silk jackets flashing in the sun, and to hear the band playing bright tunes and also to hear the "honk honk" of automobiles—would that they had signalled the victory of Oahu.

But it was not to be; Oahu was outclassed, and our men did not have a show against the Mauians. Frank Baldwin was everywhere, and there was no keeping the ball from him. He certainly played a magnificent game, and it was owing to his great head work, combined with his dashing riding and hard hitting, that Maui gave Oahu such a drubbing.

David Fleming also played a fine game, and his riding off was a treat to watch. He and John had many a tussle, and there was no giving away when Greek met Greek.

Henry Baldwin was a star performer, and the way he scored several goals was the result of some very clever work. Harold Rice went into the game with a vim, and his orange colored shirt was to be seen in the thick of every scrimmage. The goals he scored were the result of clean, hard hitting.

For Oahu Walter Dillingham did not appear at his best; he flashed out now and again, and stirred the hopes of the Honolulu fans, but something would happen—generally Frank Baldwin—and the ball would go sailing down the field towards the Oahu goal.

Sam Baldwin got going sometimes, but did not play his usual game. Dr. Baldwin, as usual, played a hard riding game, and his left-handed, back-handed strokes were much admired. John Fleming did remarkably well, and on the whole played about as good a game as any on the Oahu men.

Lieutenant O'Connor acted as referee, and his decisions were never questioned. He is a very competent man and knows the rules well. The timekeepers were Clifford Kimball and J. S. Walker. Ten periods of six minutes each were played—no time taken out—and there were intervals of three minutes between the periods. At half time a seven-minute rest was taken, and it was needed by both men and ponies.

The teams were: Maui—Harold Rice, No. 1; Harry Baldwin, No. 2; Frank Baldwin, No. 3; David Fleming, No. 4. Oahu—Dr. Baldwin, No. 1; Sam Baldwin, No. 2; Walter Dillingham, No. 3; John Fleming, No. 4.

FIRST PERIOD.
Oahu defended the makai end of field. At the hit-off Frank Baldwin got the ball, and made a clean hit down the field. Walter Dillingham blocked and then raced down the field at top speed, but Frank Baldwin stopped what looked like a dangerous run, and getting the ball, scored in two hits 40 seconds after the hit-off. Then there was some center field play until Frank Baldwin opened up again and centered in front of Oahu goal. In the scramble for the ball John Fleming's saddle girth broke and he came a cropper, his horse going down, too. Harold Rice, who was coming up at racing speed, ran over Fleming's horse and came down on top of the other man.

There was a moment of suspense, but both horses and riders soon got to their feet uninjured. Fleming changed horses and the game went on. Then Frank Baldwin shot for goal, but the ball hit the post and Harry Baldwin had the honor of doing the trick. Just before the scoring was done Oahu had to play safely and consequently were minus 1-4 to 2.

SECOND PERIOD.
Frank Baldwin got the ball and scored first rattle out of the box—20 seconds after the hit-off. Then Walter Dillingham got going, and racing down the field, passed the sphere out to Sam Baldwin, who scored the first goal for Oahu. Unfortunately, owing to the safety in the first period, Oahu could only count the goal as 3-4. Maui was now 3 to Oahu's 3-4.

THIRD PERIOD.
Frank Baldwin got going, and riding in brilliant form, took the ball down the field and scored an easy goal. Harold Rice then did some good riding off, and at one time looked like scoring. David Fleming also was riding like a demon and would sweep down on the ball and then race up the field until Walter Dillingham would block. The period ended with Maui 4 to Oahu 3-4.

FOURTH PERIOD.
Oahu scored through the agency of Sam Baldwin, after a pretty bit of work in which Dr. Baldwin and John Fleming assisted. Frank Baldwin then got his men together, and passing out to David Fleming, the latter quickly scored. Then a few seconds before the end of the period Rice nearly scored, but Dillingham blocked. However the evergreen Frank shortly afterwards did the trick. The score was not Maui 3, Oahu 2-3-4.

FIFTH PERIOD.
Shortly after the hit-off John Fleming got onto the ball, and making a fine run down the field, scored with a peach of a drive. Maui could do nothing in this period, and it ended with the score Maui 6, Oahu 2-4.

SIXTH PERIOD.
There was an interval of ten minutes between the fifth and sixth periods and the men came up much refreshed. Within fifteen seconds of the hit-off Harry Baldwin scored with a beautiful back-hander, the ball going through the posts like a flash. Then shortly afterwards Harold Rice shot for goal and scored a beauty. The bell went shortly afterwards, and the period ended Maui 8-3-4, Oahu 2-3-4.

SEVENTH PERIOD.
John Fleming bucked up a lot and made a fine save right in front of Oahu goal. Then Harry Baldwin once more got going and scored another goal for Maui. Oahu got one more goal through the agency of Dillingham, who got the ball and hit between the posts. Maui 9, Oahu 3-3-4.

EIGHTH PERIOD.
Within ten seconds of the hit-off Harry Baldwin again scored for Maui. There was some good all-around play for a few minutes till Frank Baldwin took the ball about half way up the field, and, racing along near the sideboards, finally scored at a most difficult angle. It was a wonderful bit of work and just shows what a command over the ball the Maui man has. Maui 11, Oahu 3-3-4.

NINTH PERIOD.
At the hit-off the ball went down into the Maui territory, but David Fleming, getting the sphere, made the run of the day, and did not stop until he had scored with a fine drive. Then Harold Rice got busy, and getting the ball, also made a goal for Maui. Maui 13, Oahu 3-3-4.

TENTH PERIOD.
There was no scoring in this period, and the play was very fast all around. A heavy shower of rain was falling and the ground was getting very wet. When the final whistle blew the Oahu team was in front of the Maui goal.

One goal scored by Maui was obtained just as the whistle blew, and it cannot be counted. The actual score was Maui 14, Oahu 3-3-4.

Jewels and Saints In New Series

After all, the suggestion of the B. L. L. that a series of ball games be played between the Diamond Heads and the St. Louis nine has been acted on, and the teams will meet in three games.

This is good news to the ball fans as everyone who saw the last game between the Jewels and Saints must be hankering after a chance to see the teams up against one another again.

Doubleheader At Park on Sunday

Next Sunday there will be two fine games of baseball at the Athletic Park. The Kailhis and Marines will play off their tied game, and the Oahu League will put up their best picked nine against a picked team from the fleet.

The Kailhi-Marine game should be a beauty, as so much hangs on the result. These two teams played a nineteen-inning game a few weeks ago and darkness prevented the game being finished.

But the game between the sailors and the landmen will be the real thing. Judging from the form shown by the Washington nine, which defeated the West Virginia team on Tuesday last, they should not have much trouble in putting it over any of the junior teams. But the nine that will go up against them will be a picked one from all four teams, and that is a different proposition.

Still the fleet can turn out a very strong nine, and it will surprise a lot of people if the Oahu nine wins.

California C. P. O. S. Best West Virginia

Yesterday afternoon at the League grounds the Chief Petty Officers of the West Virginia and the California met in a game of baseball. The California team won by a score of 11 to 8 after a really snappy game.

Vinegar and Kahle formed the battery for the Californians and both over did good work. Vinegar has a good command over the ball and he was well coached by his catcher.

Quite a number of sailors were present at the game and much enthusiasm was shown in the rooting line. The C. P. O. always play a match for a banquet, and the West Virginians will have the pleasure of paying for this one.

The West Virginians are getting it in the neck all round, as the Washington nine defeated their best team a couple of days ago. However, there is a payday coming and the tables may be turned with a vengeance before long.

Local and Coast Auto Doings

The following interesting letter, describing a motor trip from Santa Rosa to Fort Ross, has been received by L. H. Hill of the Thomas B. Jeffery Company from G. W. E. Bennett, a prominent motorist:

"From Santa Rosa through Trenton to Forestville is a pretty trip, through an undulating country, up hill and down dale, with roads dusty but fairly good; then on to Guerneville, following through the canyon—it's a fine ride and well worth the gas and your time. From Guerneville to Cazadero, look out! Don't let the novices, unused to his car or unfamiliar with his brakes, his gears, or with questionable brakes on it, try this route. I am not familiar with grades, but if a 50 per cent grade sounds too much reduce this estimate. Going up is all right, and with the good old 'faithful' plugging away at medium, or better still on the slow, for maybe there's a team coming your way, and the turn—well, the body should be built with a kink in the middle. But at last you're at the summit, on a road a little wider than the machine, and on either side thousands of feet—a sheer drop (should you drop) to the river below."

"But then there's the going down—not, however, until you examine both brakes and find them absolutely all right. About two miles an hour should be your speed, for forget not that when your car is going down a grade like Telegraph Hill 'brakes is brakes,' but don't ever let the old machine get backward."

"Cazadero reached, and you have a sigh of relief, bless the man that invented good brakes and the one who told you, in case of an extreme hill, to 'go into your slow speed,' and then on to Sea View, after refilling your water tank and filling up, for once again you're 'going up,' and although not as steep as the hill just passed, it's hilly enough, more wild and more beautiful. This is a trip worth taking, and should you possess a rod and reel and it's 'in season,' you might try these mountain streams. They look suggestive and reports are good."

"Sea View is a fine place for an ocean view, but near the ocean and the fog rolls in. But be sure you've got gasoline for the return trip—nothing doing here in the supply business, except for the inner man. Next morning, bright and early, down to Fort Ross, where stands the remains of the old Spanish fort and church—just about standing, that's all. That earthquake of ours certainly did business there. A fairly good road but—there's that hill story again."

JUST THE PLACE.

Sweet Singer (Indignantly)—"Sir, what do you mean by saying I should exercise my voice in a tar factory? I'm insulted."

Comedian—"Don't be offended, sir. You know you said you had such a fine pitch in your voice. I thought a tar factory would be just the place to render it."

FOILED AGAIN.

"At what age were you married?" queried the village gossip.

"At the parsonage," replied the lady who was visiting in the neighborhood. And the v. g. smiled a smile that looked the way a sour pickle tastes.

MUTT-SMITH SHEDS LIGHTS ON MOLOKAI

(Continued from Page 1) and treated with practical safety, but to show that there is a duty in this matter which the well owe the afflicted, a duty which has been neglected for centuries because of the hereditary prejudice against, and dread of, the disease.

Leprosy is associated in the minds of all of us with the admonition of the Bible, "unclean," and yet it is not altogether certain that the leprosy of the Bible is entirely the leprosy of today. Even if it were, more is known today of the real leprosy than centuries ago if any progress at all is to be conceded to medical science. The probabilities are that in the days when the admonitory words of the Bible were written every disease of outwardly unclean appearance was, for lack of distinction and classification, regarded as leprosy, and hence the issuance of the terrorized warning against it which has been listened to ever since. The fact is that many of the diseases heretofore classed as leprosy are now called by other names and under such names do not arouse the slightest bit of fear in the general community. It is then more in the name, association, and possibly appearance, that leprosy is now so generally dreaded.

What cause is there for such dread, I do not wish to be misunderstood at this point as not distinguishing the dread that knows no reason from the dread that pays due regard to the nature of the disease. While it is not yet definitely known how the disease is contracted there are several means by which it is known not to be contracted, means which have heretofore been popularly considered as infallible for the transmission of the disease. Experience in Hawaii has shown—and we have had experience enough in this matter since the middle of the last century—that it is seldom if ever communicated by personal contact, even though such contact is daily and intimate under conditions, such as prevail at the Leper Settlement on Molokai, and elsewhere in Hawaii of proper housing, food, sanitation, cleanliness and fresh air. There have been a few exceptions, traceable, however, more to non-observance of the conditions above described; and one or two notable exceptions not so clearly, but probably, traceable to such non-observance.

Leprosy is one of the least, if not the least of communicable diseases. That it cannot be transmitted under healthy conditions to a healthy person by the direct inoculation from an incision on the leper to an incision on the patient has been convincingly demonstrated by many investigators. While this may appear astounding, under the general conception of the disease, what is more astounding still is that there is eminent medical authority to the point that the disease is not even contagious. The weight of authority is, however, that it is contagious, though slightly so, and usually only under special conditions of filth, poor diet, close sleeping in dens, etc.

Since writing the above an article on "Some Facts About Leprosy," has appeared on page 375 of the September, 1909, "American Review of Reviews," to parts of which I respectfully invite your attention:

"The reference to leprosy in the Bible, and in certain popular works of fiction, such as "Ben Hur," have engendered a great dread of the disease; on the other hand, "there has been very little said or done to check, or lessen the popular prejudice in this direction, which has been too often, shared by physicians, who, not having devoted special attention to the matter, accept thoughtlessly the general verdict."

According to Dr. Bulkley, although the word "leprosy" strikes more terror "into the heart of its victim, or suspected victim and also into the mind of the average layman, or even physician, than that of almost any other disease known," yet to those who are well informed "it bears no comparison to either cancer or tuberculosis in the mental distress which it should cause in those afflicted, while many other diseases, should inspire far more dread of contagion."

Leprosy is considered incurable; so for a long time was tuberculosis. The cure of tuberculosis leaves the scars of tubercles and lesions, and is considered complete upon the disappearance of the bacillus. Treatment of leprosy, as given in Hawaii, has caused, and is causing, the healing of lesions and of tubercles and the disappearance of leprosy bacilli in so far, at least, that it is impossible after treatment at times to locate them. Such cases are, however, not considered complete cures here, though sometimes so regarded elsewhere. The reason lies in the distinction between leprosy and tuberculosis. Leprosy after apparent cure generally recurs in the patient. Tuberculosis generally does not. This explains the necessity of continued segregation of leprosy.

Medical authority is now practically unanimous that the disease is not hereditary; this also is the experience of Hawaii.

Though many more facts such as above given could be presented to show the brighter side of the leprosy problem it does not appear necessary to extend this paper for this purpose. Moreover, in one evening and in one brief paper to eliminate the universal dread of leprosy the kind of dread I have been speaking of is more than one could reasonably expect. If the disease is contagious the dread of leprosy undoubtedly has been a factor in the prevention of the spread of the disease in the past, but the presence of this dread has had a deleterious effect as well. Suppose tuberculosis were the subject of the same kind of dread, could intelligent isolation and treatment be given. Would not the majority of the afflicted do as lepers now do, conceal themselves in dark corners and consider themselves and be considered by others as outcasts thus ruining the prospects of fair treatment and efficient handling. Under such circumstances what protection would there be against the spread of the disease. Fortunately tuberculosis is more fully understood problem than dread in the sense that leprosy is now dreaded and hence its treatment is more intelligent. Because of unreasoning prejudice leprosy is dreaded too much while as a matter of fact tuberculosis, a more contagious disease, is not respected enough. The brighter side of the leprosy problem lies in the growing understanding in those not afflicted, as well as in those afflicted, of the nature of the disease and of the rational precautions that should be taken against its further spread. But so long as the well and the afflicted persist in the kind of dread with which this subject is now surrounded but little progress therein along intelligent, humane, and common sense lines can be made. Moreover, so long as the well look upon and treat the afflicted as outcasts so long do the well unjustly and inhumanely visit unpermitted sorrow and distress on those who have not sought but who have been so unfortunate as to have contracted the disease. In Hawaii we are treating the problem with these and similar considerations in mind, thankful for those who will see and understand the truth, and packing along, as best we may, those who are still reluctant so to do. We believe in thorough sanitation, dissemination of knowledge, and segregation as the factors that will eventually eradicate the disease—not the kind of segregation which mechanically places it in isolation there to take care of itself, but the kind of segregation which treats these people, in so far as possible, as it would those afflicted with other contagious diseases by placing them in isolation for the sake of their friends, families and the community, giving them house, food, raiment, medical care, and amusement as you will see by the slides that follow, and treating them, above all, in no sense, as outcasts, but as charges on the community entitled to its most humane and kindly treatment. Following out these lines, the administration took up the matter of segregation, care, and treatment of lepers during the latter part of 1907 with increased vigor. The law then in effect having proved defective in terms and not meeting the general views then entertained on the subject, attention was at once directed to drafting a new law for submission to the Legislature of 1909.
