STOCK EXCHANGE ASSURED

MEETING TO ORGANIZE HELD THIS MORNING.

The Whole Subject Fully Discussed and a Committee Appointed to Draft Constitution and By Laws.

A stock and bond exchange is assured. The first step for its organization were taken today. A meeting was held, at which it was thoroughly discussed and a committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by laws.

The meeting was held in the office in the rear of the Bank of Hawaii. There were present George R. Carter, Colonel J. H. Fisher, Willard E. Brown, William A. Love, E. C. Macfarlane, Harry Armitage, B. R. Banning, J. Q. Wood, J. W. Luning, W. M. Graham, T. H. Lansing and Frank Hustace. E. Pollitz acted as chairman and explained at length and in detail the workings of the stock and bond exchanges, and their advantages to the broker, the investor and the corporations whose stocks and bonds are dealt in. He said that prior to the organization of the San Francisco exchange conditions there were similar to those here, though worse. There were no standard quotations and securities were sold at widely different prices on the same day, causing dissatisfaction to buyers and sellers, and in their minds discrediting brokers. With the organization of the exchange business had been increased and simplified and brokers relieved from the effects of the misunderstandings of their customers.

At first there was a disposition among corporations not to list their stocks on the exchange. But now they were not only willing, but glad to do it, paying a fee for it and a yearly amount to keep them listed.

At the time of listing the most exact and detailed statements as to the business of the corporation was required, so that investors had open to them all the information that could possibly be of service. The method of calling the various stocks listed for bids or offers was explained in detail. He suggested that until experience had shown exactly what was required to meet conditions here that the constitution and by laws of the San Francisco Stock and Bond Exchange offered working models.

A committee of five, consisting of George R. Carter, J. H. Fisher, E. C. Macfarlane, Harry Armitage and Willard E. Brown, was appointed to draft a constitution and by laws and to report at a meeting to be called by it as soon as its work was ready.

It is probable that the Chamber of Commerce will be secured temporarily for the use of the exchange. The number of seats will be limited and a price fixed for charter members and a higher price for those that come in later. The current expenses of the exchange are to be met by dues. The membership fees will go into a fund which will be invested and kept intact so that the seats will always have the value of their first cost and whatever additional value business has given them. Seats can be sold by members on the approval of the exchange.

PROF. PRITCHETT'S WORK

SURVEYING TWELVE HUNDRED MILES OF COAST LINE.

Eighteen Hundred Maps in the Surveyor General's Office Here at His Disposal—Has a Long Task Ahead.

From a talk with Curtis J. Lyons of the surveyor general's office this morning some idea of the vast amount of work to be done by the United States geodetic survey corps, under the direction of Professor Star, that gentleman said:

"Professor Pritchett has been agreeably surprised to find that the survey work of this office is as well advanced as it is, and that so much of our work can be utilized. As I understand it a complete set of hydrographical and topographical maps of the Islands are to be prepared in Washington and printed under the direction of the United States land and geodetic survey officers. Very little triangulation remains to be done here and the United States surveyors will use the bases we have already established to start from. They really go on with, elaborate and complete the surveys we have already made, and where necessary will verify them.

"You will perhaps be surprised to learn that we have about eighteen hundred maps on file in this office, and no one except a practical surveyor or like Professor Pritchett can appreciate the amount of work embodied in preparing these maps. We have so many little holdings or grants—kuleanas—everywhere about the Islands that make the work. Some of these maps are almost priceless, and all of them are valuable.

"Professor Pritchett comes to do hydrographic work, to survey our harbors and inlets, locate shoals and hidden rocks, and make soundings along the entire coast. The magnitude of this work may be estimated when I tell you that our coast line is 1,200 miles in extent. We have some twenty maps of various harbors and anchorages about the islands, but these will all have to be verified with the exception of Pearl harbor and possibly Honolulu. I understand that Hilo harbor is to receive attention almost at the beginning. We have a map of the harbor, but it is many years ago since I made it. Our coast lines are well established and there are numerous triangulation stations that can be used. All this work can be utilized, but what the United States wants is a complete survey of the coast line extending clear out into deep water. Soundings will be taken along the entire 1,200 miles and as far out as may be necessary. Every coral reef, sand bank or shoal will have to be mapped, and this is no easy task. Take, for instance, what we call the Maui sea, the water lying in the basin formed by the Islands of Maui, Lanai and Kahoolawe, which is a vast shoal, but it will all have to be sounded and the depth of water put down on the charts. The United States hydrographical maps are on a scale we have never attempted and they extend clear out to and sometimes beyond deep water. The new topographical maps can be largely prepared from data and maps furnished by this office, but the preparation of the hydrographical maps will take one or more survey vessels a long time."

AN OLD OFFICIAL.
Curtis J. Lyons Served Under the Third Kamehameha.

Of all the officials who took the oath of allegiance to the United States recently, probably there is but one who can say that he served under the third Kamehameha. Curtis J. Lyons of the bureau of survey first entered government employ on November 28, 1850, as surveyor under the first land commission, appointed by Kamehameha III. Judge Lee and Judge Robertson, father of Hon. A. G. M. Robertson, comprised the commission. The special work for which Mr. Lyons was engaged was in locating the position and size of the various kuleanas on Hawaii under the personal direction of the king and the commission, a task which carried with it a great deal of responsibility.

THE STAR IN THE STATES

IS VERY WIDELY QUOTED ON ANNEXATION.

Interviews on That Subject Published in The Star Reproduced in the Press of the Mainland.

Of all the published matter emanating from the Islands concerning annexation, that which has been most widely copied, reprinted and commented on in the press of the states has been the series of interviews with prominent men appearing in The Star immediately after the news of annexation was received here.

The exchanges received by the last mails in their articles on Hawaii, quote large from The Star, a large number of them reproduce some of the interviews in extenso. Some of them reproduce all of them. In most cases full credit is given to The Star. In several instances very complimentary remarks about the enterprise and journalistic qualities of The Star are made.

Naturally the most widely quoted interview is that from President Dole published the day following the receipt of the news of annexation by the Copley, and which is the only public expression on the subject which President Dole has made for publication in Hawaii.

But every man interviewed by The Star on that subject is widely quoted in the American newspapers. Among these are Minister Sewall, Consul General Hayward, Dr. McGrew, J. B. Artherton, George W. Smith, Colonel W. F. Allen, Charles M. Cooke and Judge Luther Wilcox.

PAWAA PROPERTY SALE

TWELVE ACRES TO BE AT ONCE SUBDIVIDED.

Deal Negotiated by T. S. Southwick—New Streets to be Cut Through and the Tract Otherwise Improved.

Another big real estate deal which will open up a choice residence district has just been completed.

T. S. Southwick has negotiated the sale for Mrs. McCully-Higgins of twelve acres in Pawaa on the mauka side of King street, just beyond the junction of the Walkiki road and adjoining the McCully homestead. The property extends through to Beretania street and has a frontage of 900 feet on King and Beretania streets, and 600 on McCully street.

W. C. Aeki & Co. will handle the property. A street is to be cut through the center of it parallel with King and Beretania streets and another crossing this and dividing the property the other way, parallel with McCully street. In the division into lots there will be frontage on all of these streets.

The deal involves something like $40,000.

The property has for years been used for the purpose of raising sorghum, formerly for the Pawaa dairy, and later for Woodlawn. The lease of the latter expired a short time ago. This transformation of land used for such purposes into building lots shows the growth and development of Honolulu.

THE PLANTATION WINS.
In Judge Perry's court yesterday afternoon the jury in the case of Chas. Notley vs. Kukaia Plantation company returned a verdict for defendant. Notice of motion for a new trial was given by the plaintiff.

PERMANENT BARRACKS.
A party of engineers from the Second Regiment United States volunteer engineers are making a topographic survey of a proposed site for a permanent barracks at Kahaiki. This is in the direction of Pearl Harbor, beyond the fertilizing works. The surveying party began its work yesterday. It is not known whether this site has been finally selected or whether its selection will depend on the result of the surveys now being made.

THE READING TENT.
The project of a number of Catholic ladies to establish a reading tent at Camp McKinley is still unsettled. There was never any idea of furnishing refreshments in connection with it. The matter is now in the bishop's hands.

JURY PANEL EXCUSSED.
In the circuit court at noon the regular panel of jurymen was excused by Judge Stanley till 9:30 tomorrow.

FOR ONE WEEK.
For one week only L. B. Kerr will give a reduction of twenty-five per cent on millinery. This is in addition to the present low prices, and means goods at prices far below cost. No lady should miss this opportunity to secure genuine bargains.

FRESH IMPORTS.
By the S. S. Mariposa, Camarinos received cherries, rhubarb, asparagus, celery, cauliflower, fresh salmon, crabs, flounders, oysters (in tins and shell), apples, grapes, figs, lemons, Burbank potatoes, pure olive oil, dried fruit, new crop of nuts, raisins, etc. California Fruit Market, King street.

BISHOP WILLIS' VIEWS

THINKS UNION WITH AMERICAN CHURCH PROBABLE.

It will Come About Through Mutual and Amicable Arrangement—He Expects to Attend Next Convention.

Much has been said in a vague indeterminate way, about a possible change of the Anglican church in these islands from its present ecclesiastical jurisdiction to the jurisdiction of the Protestant Episcopal church in America, following annexation. No clear or authoritative statement of the matter has been made, however.

Bishop Willis is preparing a statement of the ecclesiastical status of the diocese of Honolulu, and the conditions from which a transfer, if one is made, will have to come. This will go as fully into the history of the church here as is necessary for a clear understanding of the matter. This statement will appear in the next issue of the Honolulu Diocesan Magazine.

In regard to the matter Bishop Willis said this morning: "The change of flag in and of itself, will make no difference in our relations with the church of England or the church in America, because there is complete separation of church and state in the United States, just as there is and has been here. The change of sovereignty therefore, of itself, cannot affect the church.

"However, following what may prove convenience of administration, there may be, and I think will be, a change, and we will become a part of the American church. But this will not come immediately, I think, and when it does come will be the result of conference, concord and amicable arrangement between the church in America, the church in England and the church here, the three parties in interest.

"Without saying how the initiative for this change will come, it may be said that it may come through the Board of Missions of the church in America addressing the authorities of the Church of England on the subject. From that point there will in all probability be a mutual exchange of views on the subject taking into consideration all the conditions here and the best means of conserving and strengthening the work of the church.

"The subject will very likely come up in some shape at the church convention to be held in Washington in October. Whether I shall attend that convention or not I do not know. If I am invited I shall, and though I am not a bishop of the American church, I am a bishop of the church on American soil, and so I think it is quite likely that I shall be invited. But this will not make me a member of the House of Bishops of that convention, nor give me a vote or entitle me to speak except upon invitation of one or the other of the houses of the convention. My predecessor, Bishop Stanley, attended the convention in 1865, and was invited to speak."

Those in the church who are anxious for ecclesiastical union with the church in America are waiting until the bishop has given them, through the statement he is preparing, his official information on the status of the church here, before they adopt any plans to bring about the change they desire.

A CABLE MAP.
In the surveyor general's office there is a map showing all the submarine cables in the world and the principal connecting land lines, together with all the coaling, docking and repair stations. It is hoped that an addition will have to be made to this map before long.

STEAMER HAWAII.
The steamer Hawaii sailed for Maui and Hawaii ports today.

KAHUKU RANCH CASE.
In the case of the Hawaiian Agricultural Ranch Company vs. S. Norris, a bill for specific performance, defendant yesterday afternoon filed his answer denying having authorized J. O. Carter to make the sale of the property as specified in the complaint. He further states that owing to the political change in the country his property has largely increased in value and that it would be inequitable to force him to keep an agreement made by another party in his behalf prior to the change. Plaintiff this morning filed his replication to the above answer saying that the same is untrue, insufficient and uncertain.

The Rev. W. B. Costley, of Stockbridge, Ga., while attending to his pastoral duties at Ellenwood, that state, was attacked by cholera morbus. He says: "By chance I happened to get hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I think it was the means of saving my life. It relieved me at once." For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., wholesale agents for Hawaiian Islands. All druggists and dealers.

WHY NOT BUY A SINGER?

OUR FINANCIAL POSITION

THERE HAS BEEN ABSOLUTELY NO CHANGE.

Interest on All Hawaiian Bonds is Being Paid by Minister Damon, the Same as Usual.

Questioned as to the present financial status of Hawaii, Minister Damon said this morning:

"There has been absolutely no change whatever. Everything is going along just the same as it would have done without annexation, except that I have stopped the sale of bonds until Congress determines our right to issue more. This of course will delay all the improvements contemplated under the appropriation bill from the loan fund, but we can do nothing until Congress acts."

"About the interest on the bonds, Mr. Damon: who pays it?"

"As I said before," was the answer, "there has been no change. I am paying the interest coupons as they become due. While it is true the United States assumes four millions of our debt by the terms of the Newlands resolution, I have received no advice whatever as to when the transfer is to be made. Nor do I expect any, as my understanding is that everything of this nature is to be provided for by Congress. The commission will probably report on our financial problems as well as others. I am perfectly satisfied to let matters jog along as they are doing, for as long as the United States allows us the revenues from the custom house and postoffice I am perfectly willing to pay the interest on the national debt and ask no questions as to when the United States wants to assume it."

THE PARK COMMISSION.
At the meeting of the park commissioners yesterday Cecil Brown presided. The other members present were E. S. Cunha, Frank Hustace, George R. Carter and L. A. Thurston. The commission decided to grant privileges for maintaining refreshment stands in the park at $25 per month, subject to cancellation at any time. The itinerant push cart vendors of imitation ice cream, etc., are to be kept out of the park hereafter. Minister King will be requested to take measures looking to the increase of the water supply.

SUGAR IN SIGHT.
Sugar awaiting shipment on Kamaui is reported as follows: Kekaha, 1,384 bags; V. Knudsen, 240; Makaweli, 1,576; Koloa, 2,000; and Kealia, 1,600.

DOUBLING OUR NAVAL FORCE.
The Springfield Union says that with the Nicaraguan canal built the navy would be almost twice as useful. It would not have to be as large as otherwise to protect our interests. The canal would also be of immense benefit to our commerce. It would have been constructed some years ago had it not been for the opposition of the railroad interests that feared the competition in freight rates. There is no valid objection, either, to government ownership of such a waterway. It will not be difficult when the next Congress meets to secure an appropriation for constructing this canal.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL.
The Salvation Army will give an ice cream social at their barracks tomorrow afternoon and evening. In the evening there will be a regular Salvation Army meeting as well. All are invited.

ADJUTANT SIMONSON. Leaves for Salvation Army Work in Salt Lake City.

Adjutant Simonson, who has been in charge of the Salvation Army work in the Islands for a little over two years, is "farewelling" to go to his new field of labor, Salt Lake City.

He returned yesterday on the Ke Au Hou from the other Islands, where he has already said his farewells.

His farewell meetings in Honolulu will be held next Sunday. There will be knee drill at 7 o'clock in the morning; a holiness meeting at 11 o'clock; a meeting at Oahu jail at 12:30; a junior meeting at 3:00 in the afternoon and the farewell meeting at 7:30 in the evening.

With his family he expects to sail on the Coptic September 3, unless the Glengyle should reach here before next Wednesday, in which case he will sail on her.

After settling his family in Salt Lake and becoming acquainted with the work there he will go to Denmark to visit his aged mother, at his early home in the extreme northern part of that country.

He expects to be succeeded here by Staff Captain Watson of Salt Lake City.

Since Adjutant Simonson came to this work there have been 700 conversions through the Salvation Army, and the officers in the work have increased from six to ten.

There are now five posts instead of three, as when he came here. They are in Honolulu, Hilo, Waialuku, and Koloa and Waimea, on Kauai.

When he came there were 45 members of the army. Now there are 88, and 42 on probation.

The army expects very soon to take up work among the Japanese and later among the Chinese.

The Japanese work will be carried on by Lieutenant Loxton, who has been in the work in San Francisco and who has a sister in the work in Japan.

LEWIS & CO.

WHERE ENGLAND FAILED

FORMER ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE SANTIAGO DE CUBA.

British Expeditions Under Vice Admiral Vernon, General Wentworth and Rear Admirals Knowles.

In the capture of Santiago de Cuba American has succeeded where Great Britain failed on two occasions. The first attempt was made in 1742 and it failed because of lack of harmony between Vice Admiral Vernon and General Wentworth, commanding the joint naval and army forces. The expedition sailed from Jamaica July 1, 1742, and consisted of eight ships of the line, thirteen frigates and about forty transports, with 3,400 land forces. The fleet anchored in Waltham harbor, sixty miles by land from Santiago de Cuba, and Vice Admiral Vernon was so sure of success that he changed the name of Waltham into that of Cumberland, in compliment to his royal highness, the Duke. The Spanish fleet was at Havana, and there was no Spanish army at Santiago de Cuba.

The troops were disembarked and began their march against the object of attack only four days distant and a detachment of 150 Americans and negroes got as far as Elleguava, but failing to get support from the main body, returned to camp. In the meantime Vernon blockaded Santiago awaiting with impatience news of the army. General Wentworth frittered his time away until October 5, when he notified the admiral of his doubt about being able to do anything further, and after waiting more time in the bush and mountains, the army re-embarked November 20, and returned to Jamaica, without having accomplished anything except losing a lot of men from fever. The ships were thus forced to haul off from Santiago, and the Cubans were left to ponder over the incomprehensible conduct of the British troops, and finally came to the conclusion that the landing had been made without hostile intent.

The second fiasco was six years later, when Rear Admiral Knowles with ten ships, carrying 448 guns and 3,580 men, proceeded on April 5 to attack Santiago. As the squadron approached the narrow inlet to the harbor, Captain Dent, who was senior officer, led in the Plymouth—observed that the Spanish had been so discourteous as to lay a boom across the entrance, with four vessels moored within it, two of which appeared to be fire ships. The cautious captain correctly conjectured that these obstructions were placed to dissuade any attempt on the part of the British to force an entrance, and calling a council of his officers they agreed with him that the ships would be exposed to great danger.

The gallant Captain Dent and the other ships hauled off and returned to Rear Admiral Knowles, explaining why they had retired. The chief in command was furious, and wrote a complaint to the Admiralty against Captain Dent, and on the latter's return to England he was court-martialed, but honorably acquitted. Rear Admiral Knowles later on found the Spanish fleet between Tortuga and Havana, and gave battle, resulting in the Dons losing several ships and the remainder being forced to flee. Admiral Knowles failed to follow up his advantage and he was subsequently court-martialed and censured, but in the meantime the fleet was generally demoralized, charges and counter charges were made by the several captains, and there were more troubles than prize money to the officers and crews, and Great Britain failed to cover herself with even self respect, so far as the navy was concerned in the West Indies.

STATE OF PORTUGAL.

Among European nations Portugal ranks most decidedly as one which has fallen from power and high estate and conspicuously degenerated. Emigration at an alarming rate robs the country of its best and strongest men. Whole districts in Portugal are deserted and stand in need of colonization, while the peasants who remain in the land are illiterate to the extent of 80 per cent.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea, accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. BOGGS, Stumptown, Gilmer Co., W. Va. Made From Hawaiian Fruit.

The Guava, like the Mango, a fruit which furnishes food for many a people throughout all tropical countries, possesses medicinal virtues which are certainly beneficial. A famous English writer, in treating on the subject, stated that the Almighty might have made a better fruit, but if so it had not been discovered.

Guava

Within our shores we grow a bountiful supply of these fruits, and as their value is well known the introduction of the name is sufficient to insure the endorsement of most all who have indulged in eating the fruit.

Cordial

We have prepared a Cordial from the fruit of the Guava which cannot be surpassed for correcting bowel troubles. A sure panacea for dysentery and summer complaint. Safe to administer to children. The taste is quite pleasant.

Corrects.

Most bowel correctants produce unsatisfactory results on account of their constipating tendency. Guava Cordial will not constipate.

The "SHIRK" received 17,489 ballots against 12,377, the next highest. The stock exchange will be thoroughly satisfactory both to buyers and sellers. Each will be sure of getting the proper market rates; at present no one knows exactly what those rates are. There is many a seller who has disposed of his stock, say at 50 one day, who hears that the same stock has been bought for 75 the next.

The steam laundry proposes to go into competition with the Celestial wash-washee man, and claims it can undersell him. If it can it will do a very lucrative business, for a large number of people do not like the Celestial, but have to stick to him on the score of cheapness.

Mr. Damon is content to allow things to go along as they are in financial matters as long as the custom duties and the postoffice are left to him. There will be a considerable saving, too, in the withdrawal of the military from active service. This amounts to some $2,500 a month.

Hilo will probably be satisfied when the proposed improvements are carried out. Under the United States the policy of centralization ceases, and each part of a state or territory gets a pull. No doubt something will be done for Kealahou, which is really an ideal bay. Napopo, the village on the east side of the bay, would be a landing that would tap a large extent of country and the village will in time grow into a thriving town.

There seems to be some prospects of tourist travel from the Trans-Mississippi section of the mainland. The exhibit at Omaha, coming as it does just upon the annexation of the Islands, has proved a wonderfully effective advertisement for us. With a big tourist trade hotels, retailers, hack drivers and steamships will make a rich harvest, and the money will go into the general circulation afterwards.

Speaking of the new government for Hawaii the Sacramento Union says: "There is reason to look forward to the new government about to be established in the islands as a model one. The commissioners will have the benefit of knowledge of the virtues and defects of all other systems. They will have before them the laws of all the states, and know just how they have operated. They can therefore select the very best; those of the highest efficiency. Thus they should be able to give to Hawaii codes of unsurpassed excellence, the least frictional and the most beneficent."

According to a correspondent of the New York Tribune, a prominent Hawaiian resident, who "does not care to have his name used"—such people never do, it might not be healthy—"declares positively that the American Union party is largely made up of clerks and employes, whose political influence is small, and who represent no large interests." Seeing that the American Union Party is a strong political organization, represented in the former Senate and House of Representatives, whatever its elements may be composed of, it is a force to be reckoned with. The American Union Party has represented in the past the popular view against the close corporation scheme, and it will continue to do so under the Stars and Stripes. This is the era of the people and no longer of the individual.

A NEAT SWINDLE.

The age of the swindler is by no means over, and it is remarkable how the world will continue to be gulled. There are people who can still be taken in by the gold brick swindle, the forged note rascality and so forth, but these are petty thieveries confined to a few. There are greater minds which soar into higher fields. Some years ago there was a company formed to refine sugar by electricity. Experiments were shown, a most beautiful grade of sugar was produced and the stock was sold, but some sharp mind discovered the swindle, and the conectors fled.

Recently in the papers have appeared articles about a wonderful discovery of obtaining gold from sea water. It is known that sea water does contain gold, but that it hitherto has been commercially unavailable. Acting upon this for a basis one Jernegan, a clergyman, and some others, got up a gold-from-sea-water boom. They played quite a clever game. Before any one invested in the stock he was told that he should see for himself that gold in paying quantities could be obtained.

For this purpose a secluded spot was chosen, a rough wharf was built out into the ocean, at the end of which was a small shed. Through a hole in the floor a large bucket passed, raised and lowered, by a windlass. The prospective investors entered the shed, placed a certain quantity of mercury in the bottom of the bucket, saw it lowered into the water and then sat and waited for several hours, which, for the purpose of the swindle, always extended into the night. Electric wires were attached to the mercury and to a strong battery. This, according to Jernegan's "theory," was to attract the gold to the poles of the current and then it would be absorbed by the mercury. After this, all that was necessary was to have the mercury analyzed by any reputable analytical chemist—Jernegan did not care who it might be.

The unfortunate dupes would sit shivering for the required number of hours, the bucket would be raised and the mercury handed over to them. Analysis always proved that the mercury contained gold in paying quantities, that it was a commercial bonanza, and, having seen the process with their own eyes, why stock was greedily bought.

Like Kipling's great sending of cats the swindle was beautiful in its simplicity. As soon as it was dark a diver, with a supply of compressed air in a chamber at his back, walked out under the water, and replaced the original mercury with a gold saturated substitute already prepared. Unfortunately for Jernegan the man hired to help the diver wanted more money, and not getting it, blew the whole affair.

The Rev. Mr. Jernegan has retired to France with his ill gotten gains, which were not as large as they might have been, had his experiments continued instead of being brought up with a round turn. But how easy it is for a plausible rogue to take in the ever green public. The American police want the Rev. Mr. Jernegan, so there is the added interest of extradition in the worthy cleric's case.

A RUSSIAN CONVENT.

A most remarkable convent is to be found in the catacombs of the Russian Cathedral at Kiev. Deep down beneath the magnificent cathedral are miles of subterranean corridors, lined with cells, in which 1500 ascetics perform their daily devotion and duties, live, eat and sleep, in the grim company of their dead predecessors.

In a little church at Norristown, Pa., one hot Sunday recently, there were few worshippers when the worthy pastor opened services. Perspiration oozed from the faces of the just and the unjust alike. The pastor was a picture of discomfort when he mounted the pulpit to preach his sermon. He gazed at the faithful for a moment and began in this most unorthodox manner: "Brethren, it's hot, and so I say, 'comfort before pride.'" With that he shed his heavy black coat, hung it over the side of the pulpit, and preached his sermon in his shirt-sleeves.

NAHIKU SUGAR COMPANY

NEW ENTERPRISE TO BE OPENED ON MAUI.

Company Will Furnish Sugar Mill to Grind Cane for Individual Planters in the Vicinity.

The Nahiку company is the latest project before the public as an investment for superfluous capital. Senator Hoeking is the promoter of the company, but it is understood some heavy capitalists on Maui are behind him. The company is to be incorporated under the laws of Hawaii and to commence operations this year. The capital stock will be $500,000, divided in shares of $100 each, 10 per cent of which is to be paid before incorporation.

The company proposes to erect a sugar mill on land owned by the promoters of Nahiку for the purpose of manufacturing sugar from cane grown and planters owning land in the vicinity. The planter to plant, cultivate, strip, cut and pile the cane alongside the flumes or cars; the company to transport the cane, weigh it, and pay so much per ton of cane, manufacture it into sugar, and market the same. The price to be paid for the cane is based on an average per pound which the sugar will bring during the year in which it is manufactured and marketed.

Nearly all of the cane can be transported by flume, as there is an abundance of water available and the land slopes just right for the purpose. Irrigation of cane lands at Nahiку is not necessary owing to the heavy rain fall, but the company intends to provide against droughts by running ditches and pipes so that the land can be irrigated when necessary. The planters who own the land adjoining and who have agreed to furnish the cane are mostly men with families.

The promoters of the company have already entered into preliminary agreements with parties owning from 3,500 to 4,000 acres of good sugar land in close proximity to the proposed mill site and landing at Nahiку conditioned that they will furnish cane to the mill for thirty-five years. There is also another thousand acres available for planting either by the company or by private individuals, and some 2,000 acres a few miles distant which can be reached later. The mill will stand on land owned in fee simple by the company.

There will be about 700 acres planted for the first crop, to be increased so that after the second crop there should be cane taken off about 1,400 acres in each year.

The present intention is to put in a first class modern mill of larger capacity than is necessary for the first two or three years, as there is plenty of additional land available for raising cane, and as the crops increase the mill will be ready to take care of them without having to enlarge the plant.

The estimated expenditure for the first year is computed as follows: For buildings, $5,000; main ditch, seven miles, $30,000; thirty miles of flume, $26,000; tools and live stock, $4,000; tracks and car system at mill, $10,000; scales for weighing cane, $1,000; advances to planters, estimated at $35,000. Total, $111,000.

For the second year there will be needed a modern mill complete, $200,000; advances to planters, $50,000; operating expenses and marketing, first crop, $84,000; contingent fund, $65,000, or a total expenditure of $389,000. Deduct from this the returns of the first crop off 700 acres, estimated at 4,200 tons of sugar, at $90, $378,000, and advances returned from planters, say $50,000, or a total estimated income of $302,000. Out of this there will have to be paid the planters $126,000 for 33,000 tons of cane, at $3.75 per ton. Allowing for the payment of a 10 per cent dividend to the stockholders, $50,000, the company should have on hand at the end of the second year a cash balance of $126,000.

For the third year the receipts and expenses are estimated to be the same as the second, and allowing for a 10 per cent dividend the cash balance at the end of the year should be about the same as the previous year.

For the fourth year cane will be produced and a dividend of 15 per cent is figured out with an increased cash balance. For the fifth and ensuing years the profits of the company will be determined largely by the amount of surrounding land brought into cultivation in the meantime.

HE WAS THE ORGANIST.

The cleanest, brightest safest and really, in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe; nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: "Give me figures for wiring my house, and I want it done at once; no more lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks." This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light. Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawaiian Electric Company and tell them what you want. We have a complete stock of everything in this line and have just received a lot of the very latest designs in chandeliers

Ayer's Hair Vigor

What does it do?

It causes the oil glands in the skin to become more active, making the hair soft and glossy, precisely as nature intended. It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and thus removes one of the great causes of baldness. It makes a better circulation in the scalp and stops the hair from coming out.

It prevents and it cures baldness.

Ayer's Hair Vigor will surely make hair grow on bald heads, provided only there is any life remaining in the hair bulbs. It restores color to gray or white hair. It does not do this in a moment, as will a hair dye; but in a short time the gray color of age gradually disappears and the darker color of youth takes its place.

HOBSON TELLS HIS STORY

MERRIMAC HERO PRAISES THE "JACKIES."

Graphic Picture of the Dashing Incident Given by the Principal Actor in the Scene.

Lieutenant Richmond P. Hobson, United States navy, who immortalized himself by the sinking of the Merrimac at the mouth of the harbor of Santiago, was the magnet that drew thousands to the Metropolitan opera house in New York City recently.

After giving some of the incidents of his early life and having paid a tribute to "Jackie," the gallant lieutenant gave a graphic account of the Merrimac incident. He said:

It is known that when the call was made for the volunteers to go on the Merrimac literally the men fell over each other in their eagerness to volunteer. The list on the New York ran over a hundred and the Iowa sent over word that 140 would volunteer, before the order was passed that no more volunteers were needed. When the few out of this number had been assigned to stations on the Merrimac, the direction was given to them to lie flat on their faces alongside the particular piece of duty they had to perform. Two were stationed by the anchor gear, and two others by the torpedoes, while two were in the engine room. The directions were that no man should pay any attention to the fire of the enemy. It was agreed and understood by all that they should not even look up over their shoulders to see where the firing came from; that as the shots fell, they should pay no attention to them. If a man was wounded he was to pay no attention to it but place himself in a sitting-kneeling posture. In a posture so that when the signal was given each man, if wounded, could perform his simple duty; and, friends, they lay there, each man at his post, until the little duty of each was performed.

And I may tell you that five out of the seven torpedoes that were attached to the ship had been shot away, and the projectiles that were being hurled at us came more as a continuous stream than as individual projectiles. Yet those "Jackies" lay there without moving, each one ready to do his duty as he had been instructed. Then again when the duty was done, and the boys had assembled at the rendezvous on the quarterdeck when the vessel began to sink slowly, because there were only two remaining torpedoes of the seven, the other five and the starboard quarter anchor having been shot away, to be explained to sink the ship, the sailors remained there without stirring. For ten minutes the group stood there, amid a perfect rain of horizontal fire from the enemy vessels in the harbor and from the batteries, when it was only a question of death in the next projectile, or the next, or the next, or else of being struck with some of the fragments. They stood quietly on the deck grinding underneath them.

The single order was given: "No man move until further orders." If there was ever a moment when the order, "Every man for himself, jump overboard, get away from this," was justifiable, it was at this time, but not a man budged. A few minutes later when this same group was in the water, clinging, with their heads just above water, to the catamaran, when the enemies' picket boats came peering around with their lanterns, in the endeavor to find something living, when the impulse was strong to give up and swim to the bank, the same order was given: "No man move until further orders," and there for nearly an hour these men stayed—every one.

When that afternoon, the same afternoon of the sinking of the Merrimac, by the kindness of the gallant commander in chief of the Spanish forces, Cervera, the effects of the sailors were brought off from their ship by a boat that went out under a flag of truce to tell of their safety, one of the men in distributing these effects was allowed to come over to my cell. This man—Charette was his name, was the spokesman of the others, and after referring to what they had been through during the night, he said, "We would do it over again tonight, sir." Next day, when it seemed that perhaps a remnant of the inquisition was to be applied to get information from the prisoners, to ascertain what was the name of the ship that had been sunk, whether it was a battleship with a crew of 500 or 600, impertinent questions were put to the prisoners, and soldiers coming along by us would make significant signs, like this (here the lieutenant drew his hand across his throat), at which our seamen merely laughed. That was a fact. Charrette, who speaks French, was the spokesman for our party, and he was asked by the major who had charge of us: "What was the object of your coming in here?" Charrette drew himself up and replied: "In the United States it is not the custom for the sailors to know or to ask to know the object of his superior officers."

Now, friends, if you will draw the proper deduction and regard the men as simple types of the whole fleet; if you will properly look upon this little incident of the Merrimac as a simple indication of the material in the fleet, whose whole personnel was willing and ready, and is always willing and ready to do any work or duty, whatever be its end, when you make this proper deduction and consider these little features which I have related you will get an accurate and a more or less complete idea of the American sailor.

WITH AN EYE TO THE SUMMER Reginald—I wish you wouldn't keep putting me off this way all summer. Gladys—Then give me the refusal of you until October 1st.—Harper's Bazar.

THE MAD KING OF BAVARIA

HAD A MANIA FOR BUILDING CASTLES.

Spent Millions In These Vagaries —But He Had Belief In Wagner Which Time Has Approved.

A sudden revival of the interest in the extraordinary career of Ludwig II, the mad king of Bavaria, has broken out, says a writer in London Sketch. Two sensational articles about him have appeared in the sixpenny magazines within the last few months, while I have just received from Munich the first two parts of a book by Fraulein Louise von Kobell, entitled "Konig Ludwig II und die Kunst." Ludwig is of considerable interest to English people. To begin with, his cousin, Prince Ludwig, son of Prince Luitpold, who is Regent of Bavaria in place of King Otto and (who succeeded Ludwig and who also became insane), is married to the Archduchess Maria Theresa, whom the Legitimists claim to be the de jure Queen of England. Then poor Ludwig himself fell in love, first with the grandduchess, who is now Duchess of Edinburgh, and secondly, with the Princess who is Queen Regent of Holland to day and sister of the Duchess of Albany.

Ludwig inherited a love for building from his grandfather, Ludwig I and an enormous fortune from his father with which to gratify the craze. From first to last he spent £4,600,000 on his castles in the air. In the gorgeousness of their design and the splendor of their fittings they seem to belong more to the times of Louis XIV than to this matter-of-fact nineteenth century. His rooms in the palace of Munich were the first objects of his lavish expenditure, and everything, from the corridors, decorated with frescoes of the Nibelungenlied by a leading Bavarian artist, to the audience chamber with its throne of gold, is an example of the highest art of the sculptor, the painter, the silversmith and the architect.

Adjoining this suit of rooms is a magnificent winter garden of which Fraulein von Kobell gives a detailed description. A painting of the Himalayas forms the background to a grove of palms, rhododendrons, azaleas and orchids; brightly coloured birds swing upon the golden boughs; roses hang from the glass roof, lotos flowers bloom on a miniature lake, on which floats a boat of gold. Beyond lies a green meadow, through which a brook meanders and on the banks of which grow sweetly scented hyacinths. In this paradise the King sometimes entertained his guests at dinner, when softly coloured lights illuminated the scene, and a band hidden among the foliage played melodies from Wagner's operas.

Early in his reign Ludwig wished to build a magnificent opera house for Munich, with a road and a bridge over the Isar connecting it with the palace. The plans were drawn and the estimate for carrying them out amounted to 5,000,000 guildens. The Treasury officials vigorously opposed this enormous expenditure, and the plan fell through. Thwarted in this scheme, Ludwig determined to henceforward build for his own personal gratification alone; in fact, Fraulein von Kobell tells us that he expressed a wish that the numerous castles he had built should be blown up at his death. Foremost among these castles is the Linderhof, a so-called hunting lodge. It is in the style of the palace at Versailles, and nearly as gorgeous, with its beautiful stone facade, its lovely gardens and terraces, and its Temple of Venus. In most spots in Bavaria some masterpiece may be found to remind the inhabitants of their mad and splendor loving king, and none is more striking than the colossal representation in stone of the crucifixion erected on a hill at Oberammergau, and presented to the inhabitants by Ludwig in remembrance of one of his visits there. What Europe really owes him is his daring belief in Wagner at a time when the great composer was believed to be as mad as his Maecenas.

HAWAII AND PORTO RICO.

Hawaii and Porto Rico are the wings of the bird of freedom, according to the Cincinnati Tribune, and from the way they received the proposition to become auxiliaries we are satisfied they will do their work well and good. And it may be mentioned that they will prove to be helps of no mean kind; but the first thing to do is to make them practically impregnable. Hereafter they will be looked upon as fine winter stations for the regulars.
