TEN-PAGE EDITION

THE POSITION IN THE PACIFIC

Insular Acquisitions by England. Germany, France, and the United States.

(From the London Times .- Concluded.) During the last 46 years France has been so eager to obtain empire in the Pacific that one is apt to wonder why she has succeeded in appropristing so little. Germany, who only came into the field four years ago, has fared much better. New Caledonia, with the Loyalty Islands, may cover an area of about 5,000 square miles, with a total population of 60,000, mostly convicts and Kanakas. The total commerce only amounts to £350,000 annually, but, as the latest Consular Report reminds us, New Caledonia is a "penal settlement first and a colony afterwards." The most reputable French colonial authorities, men like M Leroy Beaulieu and M. Paul Deschanel, insist that until France ceases to send the scum of her population to her colonies they can never prosper, and advise her to take England as her colonial pattern as far as she can with her scanty surplus population. At present French colonies exist mainly for a crowd of needy officials, as her Pacific possessions did until recently for the labors of Jesuit missionaries. It is not ten years since the unhappy natives in the Marquesas and Tuamotu groups were freed from an inquisitorial oppression which made their lives a burden and threatened their extinction. It is no wonder that the Australians should object to the extension of French influence in their neighborhood, since it practically means the increase of penal colonies and the condemnation of the New Hebrides to commercial stagnation. Besides the New Caledonia group, there are four other groups in the Pacific which may be regarded as more or less under French domina tion-these are the Marquesas, the Tusmoto Archipelago, the Society Islands, and the Tubuai group, lying between 8 deg. and 30 deg. south latitude and 125 deg. and 155 deg. west longitude. The whole land area of these islands probably does not exceed 1,000 square miles, and the total population 50,000. No doubt the original population was much exaggerated, but there is quite as little doubt that through various causes since the advent of the white man it has decreased at an alarming rate. The hold which France has over the remoter islands of these groups is necessarily feeble, in spite of her many officials; and the other day when her flag was raised on Raiatea in the Society Islands, as a result of the abrogation of the agreement with England of 1847, the natives showed themselves decidedly bostile. The whole group may now be regarded as distinctly French. and of all four groups mentioned above the trade, and virtually the administration, centres in Tahiti, the largest island in the whole region and one of the most picturesque islands in the Pacific, with an excellent harbor. The entire trade of all these islands as represented at Tahiti, does not exceed £250,000 annually. Theisland of Mangarewa, in the southeast of the Tuamotu group, has also an excellent harbor, though little has been made of it. Only a few months ago, as was intimated at the time, France annexed Wallis or Uea Islands, a tiny group half way between Samoa and Fiji, where French missionaries have held sway for a long time. The value of the acquisition from any point of view is not very great. Much more serious is the rumor that attempts are being made to draw Raratonga, the chief of the Hervey or Cook Islands, under French protection. Indeed, it is expressly admitted that the active assertion of dominion over Raistea was but a move towards the annexation of the group to the southwest, between which and the Tahitian group the relations are intimate. But Raratonga and its neighboring islands may be regarded as the headquarters of the London Missionary Society in the Pacific. It was there that John Williams met with some of his most signal triumphs; and, no doubt, the Sydney authorities would take the annexation of the group very unkindly. At the same time a glance at the map will show how natural it is for France to extend her protecting arm around the the French possessions in this part of the Pacific. Their entire area is not 400 square miles. Their destiny seems certain, and Raratonga will ONE COPY EACH OF JUNE for French vessels sailing from Pabecome the leading coaling station nama to Australia; it lies directly in

TO AMEND SECTION 6 OF CHAPTER XI. OF THE PENAL CODE. Be it Enacted by the King and the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom: SECTION 1. That Section 6 of Chapter XI. of the Penal Code be amended by adding after the word "deceit," in the first line of said Section, the words, "or under

Germany, under the guidance of Prince Bismark, always knows her mind, and goes straight at the ac-complishment of her object. It is thus that she has been able within the last few years to create a colonial empire in the Pacific much larger than that of France, who began about 50 years ago. New Guinea, New Britain, the Solomon and the Marshal Islands, with a land area of about 100,000 square miles, give Germany a stake in the Pacific far more important than that of France, both from strategical and a commercial point of view. Of course these possessions can never be much more than "colonies of exploitation;" but the New Britain and Solomon Islands

are among the finest in the Pacific, and as far as the exploration of German New Guinea has gone, it promises to afford a fine field for the establishment of plantations for var ious cultures, while it has several ex-lands may become of increased im portance as the trans-Pacific trade

The consternation of Spain when

Germany threatened to take possession of the Carolines, to the west of the Marshall group, will be remembered. These and the Marianne Islands and the Pelews Spain has long claimed, but she has done nothing to develop them. These form the bulk of Micronesia, where Spain may be considered supreme; France has the lion's share in Polynesia, if we ex clude Hawaii; England rules in Australia; while Melanesia is divided among the three great Powers, Germany so far having the largest stake. Of the islands which remain unattached, besides the New Hebrides,

the most important are the Tonga and Samoan groups, to the east and northeast of Fiji, and the Ellice and the Gilbert groups, between Fiji and the Marshall Islands. There can be no doubt that, in spite of existing agreements, Germany has her eye on the two former groups, both of them very desirable for their commercial and strategical importance, as well as on account of the character of the natives. The annexation of Tonga by Germany would certainly not be relished either by the Fijians or the Australians. Yet there can be no doubt that the famous Hamburg

house of Godeffroi and their successors have had intimate relations with both groups for many years, as, indeed, they have had over nearly the whole of the Pacific. The little Ellice group, with their pleasant inhabitants, ethnologically should go with Samoa, and if so Germany might wish to appropriate the Gilbert group, and form one continuous protectorate from the Marshall Islands southeast. At the same time it should be noted that Germany has distinctly recognized English interests in both these groups. Among the Gilbert Islands are two which on German maps are marked American. Lying between French Polynesis and Hawaii are a multitude of islets and reefs, many of them unappropriated, and probably not worth

In the same way, north of the Carolines, we find a number of names the significance of which is doubtful,

until we come to the Bonim group, which, with others further north, are generally regarded as belonging to Japan. Easter Island, the extreme eastern outlier of Polynesia, is worth annexation, if only to guard its mar-vellous antiquities. Practically, in the Pacific, as in Africa, nearly all that is worth appropriating (except Hawaii) has been swept under the influence of one of the three great colonizing Powers; it would be conducive to good feeling and the development of trade if some agreement were come to in a friendly way as to the division of what remains, for annexation is inevitable. As to ourselves, three great islands, and a part of a fourth, besides a big archipelago and many scattered islands, for our share,

EST MODUS IN REBUS.

TUESDAY, : : AUGUST 28, 1888.

THE bill to facilitate the segregation of lepers passed its third reading Thursday. Every Hawaiian voted against it, excepting Kaubane and Kalaukoa. Doubtless these facts will not be forgotten at the next election.

Mr. Atkinson informs us that a class of teachers has been started in Lahainaluna, which numbers twenty-five-seventeen teachers and eight aspirants. The class is to last one month, from August 6th to September 6th, is intended for Hawaiian teachers of English schools and is attended by some teachers coming as far as from Puna, Hawaii. The class is under the charge of Mr. Moore. This is a great boon for the cause of education, and in every way a most encouraging sign. There are a number of men here who are not merely experienced teachers, but full of an intelligent interest in educational science. It is not too much to hope that the schools of this country will be put on a basis equal to that of the most favored countries of the world.

THE Act abolishing the office of Governor was passed over the veto Thursday by a vote of 40 to 2. The King signed the bill assigning the duties of governors to other officials, so that nothing was left to Governors, Messrs, Widemann and Nakaleka voted to sustain the veto. Mr. Widemann said he saw po reason to change his vote.

We believe the veto of the governor's bill, taken in connection with the signing of the other, was an outrageous conspiracy on the part of His Majesty to make the supporters of the veto ridiculous in the eyes of the country. The scheme was a neat one, but luckily only two members of the House were entrapped into voting for a costly office without any duties attached to it.

THE Legislature has been despatching business lately with a push and energy which has surprised their best friends. If anything like the same diligence is manifested during the coming week, we may expect it to be the last of the session. The Appropriation Bill is practically through with the second reading and is not likely to occupy much more time on its third than is required to read it through. There are still some important matters which have not been dealt with. The Chinese Constitutional Amendment is still to be discussed, as is also the Ramie Bill. The House, or a quorum of it, will also have to sit until all the bills passed have been returned by the King, but with due zeal we may look for an adjournment by the early part of next week.

THE Bulletin is in a state of great excitement because we said that Kauhane and Kalaukoa were the only native members who voted for the Leprosy bill. We knew perfectly well that Richardson, Maguire and Daniels voted for the bill. but we did not happen to think of them as natives. Of course the classification is not important, but when it comes to a question of accuracy, they may just as properly be classed among foreigners as natives. We believe the three gentlemen taken together derive just as much blood from their fathers as from their mothers, it may be presumed, and their names are all foreign. Everyone knows that in questions of mixed nationality, it is very natural to class according to the name. It is more natural to class according to the nationality of the fathers than of the mothers. The whole question is unimportant, but if these gentlemen think we intended to misrepresent them, of course we regret it.

THE result of the late election should operate as a warning to the voters who stayed at home because they were so sure that Mr. Wilder would be elected. of the previous election shows that Mr. Kaulukou's zeal and good management brought out almost the whole of his adherents, while considerably more than half of those who presumably would have | into the hands of these adventurers, who voted for Mr. Wilder never took the trouble to go to the polls. The result is that his majority in the third precinct the King. In the meantime the great was larger than his total majority in the city and nearly equal to his total majority in the entire Island. There are over They knew and cared nothing about the 1,700 registered voters in Honolulu and conduct of affairs. The bill is a most im- ment into politics, the votes, vir., of the

As everyone knows, the cause of good government in that country depends on hardly anything more than on the rigid enforcement of that law and its extension to branches of the public service to which it does not at present apply. There may perhaps be reasons why a law of the kind is a good thing for America, does not at present appear what these reasons are. Doubtless Mr. Townsend's bill was introduced rather late in the session, but at least a reference of it to committee was due to the importance of the subject, and courtesy and fairness demanded it. If the committee had then seen fit to commend postponement of consideration of the subject until the next session of the Legislature, well and good. The strenuous opposition of the Minister of the Interior simply lays his conduct and motives open to misconstruction, without any compensating advantages. It looks as though he thought the new law might necessitate some immediate removals in his own department. It would have been more decent to let the opposition to the bill come from some other quarter.

THE House Thursday reconsidered the secret voting, and rescinded their former vote by 20 to 8. This meant a change of eight votes. The deal was effected undoubtedly in the interest of the Chinese. They will be in the field probably at the next general election with a campaign fund of a hundred thousand or more, which would have been perfectly useless if the original section had passed. The House has doubtless acted in the interest of trade. From the standard of mere self-interest they have been very shortsighted. Everything will now be done at the polls, votes will be hawked for the pitiful sum of a dollar or two apiece, whereas a legislator will have no value at all. If they had taken a course tending to prevent bribery at the polls, their own vote might one day have been marketable commodity at all.

The Attorney-General perpetrated a by the company he was in. If he had of the frying pan and in the fire, for he has now got all the low fifth-rate politicians in the United States in his company. The eagerness of the Attorney-General to avoid bad company is highly proper and commendable, but we can-

We do not for a moment doubt the we entertain a very high respect. In this case we must feel that they have shown an imperfect confidence in the highest and best political methods, in short, a lack of confidence in the working of republican institutions, when the ballot is perfectly free. They have refused to let the experiment of such a ballot be tried here. They may be right. It may be true that a ballot free from any influence except argument is not going to be a good thing for us, but we cannot avoid a pretty keen regret that the refusal to bring the matter to a test should have emanated from a reform legislature.

EVERYONE who attended the meeting of the nominating Convention the other night must feel that in spite of a certain suggestion of demagogism about it, it still furnished most encouraging signs for the political future of this country. The immense enthusiasm which prevailed, the widely diffused interest which showed itself, the size of the crowd in attendance, all mark the beginning of a new political era. A great drawback to the political progress of the country hitherto, has been the fact that the class of people who have had political weight, and who have taken any part or felt any interest in the government of the country, has, outside of the Hawaiians, been exceedingly small. It has practically consisted solely or chiefly of the early settlers of the country and their children. This class has been too small, and has had too little numerical weight at the polls to counteract the influence which unprincipled adventurers have been enabled to exercise over the native vote. The result was that the government fell were the only persons who were despicable enough to play into the hands of mass of foreigners here, the small traders old residents of the country) were but a small minority, and lacked the numbers, and some of them the spirit, to bring but generally diffused. This it is which makes conventions, and political parties themselves, possible.

We believe that the best interest of the country will ultimately be forwarded by the rise into power of this new element. We rejoice heartily that the mechanics and retail traders and the and yet not a good thing for us, but it young men of Honolulu generally have made themselves felt as a political force. Here in Honolulu this class constitutes a large fraction of the voting population. It is very tond of shouting, Down with the missionaries, without having any clear idea what that means, but the rank and file of this class we believe are the friends of sound and honest government. As long as they stick to that, it makes no great difference what they shout. No one who cares to perpetuate the prosperity of the country can wish to exclude these voters from power. The fact that they are awake and grasping after it, is one of the most hopeful signs of the times. It was the deadness of the foreign population which has constituted the weakness of the country. Their becoming awake and alive is, after making every proper deduction, its hope and its strength. There are a great many worse things in the world than government by "the boys," although we confess we do not want "the boys" to do all the governing. The fact that the young men turned out so largely at the convention Saturday night is matter for general congratulation. It shows that parties are forming, and that means that ideas and principles are becoming active and generally diffused.

THE report of the Finance Committee on the state funeral of Her late Royal Highness Princess Likelike has been printed, and contains a good deal of matter well calculated to vary the monotony of legislative life. The report shows that the occasion was simply regarded by certain persons as an opportunity to fling money broadcast, without quoted in Chinatown at $5,000, or even any restraint from prudence or economy, $10,000 apiece. Now they will not be a or from anything which a decent foresight must inevitably have suggested. The total expenditure was about twice the average upon similar occasions. The capital joke on himself. He says he orders seem in general to have been changed his vote because he was scared given by the King personally, accompanied in some cases by a more or less the faculty of seeing beyond his nose, he definite representation that the Governwould speedily discover that he was out | ment would assume them, or that the Privy Council would pass a resolution to settle the bills.

Some of the claims are bona-fide, being, so far as we are enabled to judge for expenses necessary to be incurred. not help thinking that in this case he and moderate in amount. Others are has given an injudicious exhibition of it. perhaps bona-fide on the part of the claimants, but excessive in amount or altogether improper, while some are honesty of intention of those who have plainly fraudulent, involving collusion opposed the cause of secret voting, and on the part of all parties. As an exfor the opinions of many among them ample of the recklessness and wanton profusion of the expenditure, the following facts will suffice : 813 suits of clothing for men and boys, 458 shirts, 740 hats, 716 pairs of shoes, 887 dresses, to say nothing of the other articles of attire, masculine and feminine, were given out, the aggregate cost being over $22,000. The committee find that commissions were paid to certain parties for orders, and that from a natural ambition to enhance the "dem total" of these commissions, as Mr. Mantalini would say orders were pressed on persons who had no possible use for anything of the sort. Another expedient which was practised was to take out the amount of the order in other things-an order for a black mourning suit-in baby clothes, for in-

The whole makes a tale of extravagance, rascality and fraud, which would better befit the Government of Turkey than a country where the elements of civilized order are supposed to be understood. The merchants are in this partially the victims of the "unprofitable servants" who ran the government of yore. The committee have evidently spent a great deal of time looking into the accounts, and have spared no pains to reach a just conclusion, a conclusion which shall not unduly sacrifice the rights and interests of either party. They have examined the record of expenses of other state funerals and, formulating from them a scale of expenditure to be deemed just and proper, they have recommended the payment of claims to the amount of something over $10,000, designating certain claims which are clearly for legitimate and necessary expenses, to be paid in full, and declaring that the rest be divided among the different claimants as shall seem proper. As to the residue the claimants should proceed against His Majesty's estate, which according to the showing and mechanics, were politically dead. before the committee, seems clearly liable for the amount.

This raft is 592 feet long, fifty-four feet beam, thirty-eight feet deep, and draws twentythree feet of water. It comprises 214,000 spruce logs, valued at about $50,000. To transport such a mass of timber by ordinary methods would require over forty lumber schooners, and would cost $30, 000. The successful passage of this log ship from Nova Scotia is regarded by lumbermen as a great innovation, destined to revolutionize lumber transportation on that coast.

A parade of sixty or seventy delegates to the national convention of the Ameri-can party in Washington took place in that city on Aug. 13. It is said that one-eighth of Texas, onesixth of Colorado, more than one-eighth of Wyoming, and one-fourteenth of California, are in the hands of Englishmen. The Republican tariff bill, to be offered in the Senate as a substitute to the Mills bill, is making progress in its preparation. Its framers have availed themselves of all the information possible from the tariff debate in the house. That debate is said by Senator Frye to have been the most remarkable that ever took place in any country in the history of the world. He probably referred to the variety of information adduced under the rule limiting speeches to five minutes. A greater diversity of opinion is shown among Senators on the subject of sugar and lumber than any other, but it is probable that a 50 per cent. reduction on sugar and possibly a small reduction on lumber will be recommended. The outlook at the present time is that the bill will not be taken up for discussion in the Senate before the 1st of September, and it may be that the session will not come to an end until October, for as many as fifty-five Senators are said to have announced themselves as prepared with tariff speeches, and that number would take up a month in delivery. It is even probable that the session may continue until the Presidential election

PETITION.

Noble Smith presented a petition from Mr. J. M. Herring, relating to his son, August Herring, and moved the same be referred to the Education Committee. The petition was so referred. REPORTS OF COMMITTEES,

Rep. F. Brown reported three bills, and also the report of the Finance Committee on the matter of the state funeral of the late Princess Likelike, printed. Noble Hitchcock presented the minority report of the Judiciary Committee on the oill to abolish the hospital tax collected from passengers arriving at this port. Considers that this tax ought to be abolished and recommends that the House pass this Act, and lay in its grave that old moss-grown fossil of a past generation. Rep. Kinney moved the indefinite postponement of the minority report. Rep. F. Brown moved it be adopted. Rep. C. Brown moved it be laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

Indefinitely postponed, 21 to 16. A point of order was raised in the discussion of the hospital tax report, on the five minutes rule adopted. 21st inst. The Chair ruled that the five minutes includes the interpreter's time Noble Smith appealed from the ruling of

The bills referred to were then placed on the order for third reading to-day.

RESOLUTION. Rep. Kamauoha moved that the five minute resolution adopted on Tuesday be held to mean five minutes, exclusive of the interpreter's time. Carried. ORDER OF THE DAY. Commercial Paper-Third reading of the Segregation—Third reading of the bill relating to commercial paper. Passed. Segregation—Third reading of the bill re-lating to the segregation of lepers. Rep. Kamauoha moved indefinite postponement. The motion was defeated on Ayes-Luhiau, Hitchcock, Naone, Ka-uhi, Kamai, Kamauoha, Helekunihi, Kawainui, Nakaleka, Paehaole—10. Noes—Green, Thurston, Ashfor I, son, Young, Jaeger, Wight, Notley, Wall, Townsend, Richardson, Makee, G. N. Wil-cox, Dole, Dowsett, Kalaukoa, C. Brown, Deacon, Kinney, Maguire, Kauhane, Paris, Daniels, Horner, A. S. Wilcox, Rice-26.

Afternoon.

Re-assembled at 1 o'clock. Proof of Service-Third reading of the bill relating to proof of service of process in civil cases. Passed.

Lunalilo Trustees-Third reading of the bill relating to the conveyance of certain land to the Trustees of Lunalilo Home. Judges-Third reading of the bill relating to the number of Justices of the Su-preme Court. Passed. Tax Costs-Third reading of the act to authorize clerks of courts to tax costs, Exempt Steamships-Third reading of the bill to exempt steamships, etc. Passed. Fish Protection—Third reading of the bill to provide for the protection of certain fish in the waters of the Kingdom.

Rep. Nakaleka moved the bill be indefinitely postponed. Minister Thurston said the bill might work serious hardship in some districts al-though necessary in others. The law might be made applicable to where its pro-visions are needed.

Rep. Kinney thought the bill ought to go through. He had been surprised at the extent and stringency of the fishing laws of Nova Scotia, Maine, Massachusetts and other countries having fisheries. Rep. Brown said that if the provisions of the bill are limited to Oahu, we shall soon hear a howl from other islands about the destruction of their fish by the Chinamen who would resort thither from this island. The law should have a trial; if found bad, it can be abolished by next legislature. Rep. Pachaole thought the bill would in terfere with many people's main source of livelihood. If it cannot be amended to answer the purpose intended without being a hardship to the people he would favor in-efinite postponement. Rep. Nakaleka thought the gist of the bill is in the fact that the hon. member for Koolauloa is largely interested in cattle ranches. If the people will stop eating fish, they will want more Kahuku beef,

The motion for indefinite postponement was lost on the following division Ayes-Lubiau, Kamauoha, Nawahine, Daniels, Gay, Nakaleka, Pachaole-7. Noes-Green, Thurston, Ashford, Rob-inson, Young, Jaeger, Smith, Waterhouse, Foster, Wight, Notley, Townsend, Bald-win, Richardson, Widemann, Makee, G. N. Civil Service.—Second reading of the bill introduced by Noble Townsend Aug. 16, to regulate and improve the civil service of the Hawaiian Islands. Rep. Kinney moved it be referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Noble Foster moved it be indefinitely

Minister Thurston said it is too late in the session to give the measure proper consideration Noble Townsend said it will not require much work to get it into shape. The op-position already met seems to indicate that the spoils system has too firm a hold now. The motion to indefinitely postpone car ried, 19 to 17. Ramie,—Second reading of the bill intro-duced 14th inst. by Noble Hitchcock, to

Rep. Paehaole moved reconsideration of the vote by which section 74 passed yesterday. Carried.
The bill and substitute sections were taken up in Committee of the Whole, Rep. F. Brown in the chair. Noble Smith moved that section 42, as recommended by the committee, pass. Rep. C. Brown moved section 42 of the original bill, pass.

The original bill reads:
Section 42. The Inspectors shall prepare for holding the election, at each polling place: 1, One suitable compartment or space for a polling booth or shed, and one or more inner compartments separate from, but opening into, the polling booth; 2, in the polling booth shall be put, in a place convenient for voters, the two ballot boxes prescribed by Section 41 hereof; 3, a sufficient number of ballots as provided in Section 50; and 4, a sufficient number of pencils and a stand, desk or table in each of said inner compartments for the use of voters. The Committee recommend as follows: Section 42. The Inspectors shall prepare for holding the election, at each polling place, a suitable compartment or space in which shall be placed at a point convenient for voters the two ballot boxes prescribed by section 41 hereof. No polling place shall on any account be in any premises where the sale of intoxicating liquors, beer or wine is licensed.

Rep. C. Brown's motion was lost on the following division: Ayes - Robinson, Castle, Waterhouse, Luhiau, Notley, Wall, Hitchcock, Dole, Hustace, Kalaukoa, Kauhi, C. Brown, F. Brown, Maguire, Kamauoha, Nawahine,

Section 46 passed. A question was raised on the point whether it was the section of the original bill or the substitute section that had passed. The chairman under-stood it to be that in the bill. While the dispute was in progress a mo Committee rise was carried.

The house resumed and the chairman of Committee of the Whole reported sections 42, 43, 44, 45 as recommended by the special committee, and section 46 of the original bill, passed.

The report as to the first four was adopted and section 46 referred back for further consideration Recess at 4:30 to 7 o'clock.

Evening. Re-assembled at 7 o'clock. Consideration of the election bill, in Committee of the Whole, Rep. Kinney in the chair. Noble Smith moved that section 46, as recommended by the special committee, be adopted. Rep. Kamauoha moved the section pass as in the bill.

Noble Smith said the section in the bill is not adapted to section 42 already accepted.

Rep. C. Brown said he was in favor of secret voting as provided for in the orig-inal bill, but the House had adopted the recommendation of the special committee as regards section 42, and it will be as well to stick to it all through. It has been de-cided to have the same method of voting as at yesterday's election and at the elec-tion of 1887. For his own part he did not like it, but the majority preferred it and the majority must rule.

Noble Smith's motion passed. Further sections, recommended by the special committee: 47, 51, 53, 57, 61, 62, 63. amended, and 48, 49, 50, 52, 54, 55, 56, 58, PRELIMINARY ANSWER BY MINISTER. Minister Thurston asked further time for his answer to the questions asked on Friday by Rep. Nakaleka. About the same time as these questions were placed in his hands, he was appointed on a special committee on the election bill, on which it had been necessary to work day and night and part of Sunday. A great deal of talk was being indulged in outside about Interior Office affairs. The doings of the Interior Office are open to the examination of any member of the House.

* RESOLUTIONS Noble Makee moved the following: Be it resolved by the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom-It is the sense of this House that the Cabinet should act upon their own responsibility, irrespective of any previous action taken by this House, in determining upon further suits or prosecutions in respect of duties upon wines and spirituous liquors withdrawn from the in it. As it is, he did not see anything seriously objectionable in it.

Noble Waterhouse wished to know if the Attorney-General, on the passage of this re-solution, would still go on with proceedings in terms of the resolution adopted by the House in December last.

Minister Ashford said that he would do his duty so long as he should hold the present office, irrespective of whether this solution fail or pass. He should not be deterred from shooting, merely because large game was afloat and flying high.

Noble Smith asked to have the resolu-tion of December 3, 1887, read. The resolution consisting of an adopted recommendation of a special committee was

And your committee do therefore recom mend in accordance with the above suggestions and also that His Excellency the Attorney-General be required at once to institute an enquiry into all of the matters involved in said statement, and if it shall appear that any amounts are properly due to the Government for goods improperly withdrawn, proceedings shall be had to recover the same, and if it also appear that any person or persons are liable to any fines or penalties or to any punishment under our statutes that proceedings ac-cordingly be instituted. And they also recommend that if it be found on such examination that any licensed dealer has been guilty of any fraud or such gross carelessness as to amount to fraud in the premises, that no spirit hoenses be granted them or any of them in the future.

Noble Waterhouse did not think the House should go back on its former in-structions to Ministers by interfering with them in any way. Rep. C. Brown could not agree with the last speaker. The law has been vindicated and he thought the ends of justice had been fulfilled, and the Attorney-General has assured the House that, if there are any matters outside of those already disposed of, he will do his duty.

Noble Baldwin said the House had adopted a cast iron resolution at last session. Circumstances may have arisen since to call for a modification of the terms of that resolution.

Noble Young said the resolution of last ession was not east in the foundry. He favored the present resolution. Thought we better now look to ourselves that we do not get wrong.

In answer to questions by Reps. Kinney and C. Brown, as to whether the Govern ment had refused to renew the licenses to Macfarlane & Co. unless they furnish bonds for the amounts of any judgments that may be recovered against them in the Court for duties on goods illegally drawn from the Custom House; the At-torney-General said the whole matter is at present under consideration by the Cabinet. Some correspondence had taken place and several interviews held between nembers of the firm and Ministers. The latter have certain duties to perform and must perform them irrespective ot all per-sonal considerations. Strenuous efforts have been made to arrive at a compromise or basis of septlement, but hitherto, the firm maintains an attitude of defiance and refuses to settle.. Rep. Kauhane said that the passage of this resolution would be a backing down on the part of the House. Noble Smith said if the present resolution passes, the former one will be man-datory as regards the license. As to the question of the license, he would be willing that the Capinet have discretion, but he would not have the mandatory part of the former resolution as regards amounts due the Government, changed. If there are moneys due the Government, every taxpayer has a right to see that they are paid. Rep. C. Brown moved to amend the resolution by inserting "also the matter of issuing licenses for the sale of spirituous

Noble Widemann wished to ask Noble Smith if he supposed that if these Min isters see anything due the Government. they'll not go and get it? He, the speaker, never had any doubt on that point. Minister Ashford moved that the Ministers be excused from voting on this resointion, as it involves instructions to them selves. Carried. The ayes and noes were called on the notion to indefinitely postpone the resolu-

Under the headings of: "An Iron Wall. A Bit of History that Casts Volumes of Light on the Character of the Czar:' the New York Herald publishes the following despatch from its Paris Bureau,

A tempest of indignation swept over England in 1885 when it was discovered that the Russians were operating slowly but surely on the Afghan frontier and were threatening India. In England people talked of sending British troops to encounter those of the Czar.

Then it was that M. de Giers informed his sovereign of the alarm spread throughout Europe by England's threatning attitude.

HE SET THE LIMIT OF ADVANCE. The Czar pointed to a map that was ying open on the table, drew a line upon t and said to his Minister, "We will go as far as that line."

"But, sire, it is war if we go to that "We will go to that line, come what

"But it will cost hundreds of millions if we have war, and the finances are --- ' "Very well. If the Treasury should be unable to furnish the necessary sum the Imperial family will provide two hundred millions and we will go to that line," and the Czar pointed all the time at the line he had drawn on the map,

"But, sire, my responsibility is engaged, and, although thoroughly devoted to Your Majesty, I confess that if we go to that line I should prefer to tender my resignation."

"In Russia, monsieur, Ministers do not possess that right. The Emperor can permit them to retire-he cannot accept their resignation." THE TROOPS WENT THERE.

Thus spoke the Czar, and the Russian troops went where the Czar wished them to go-to that line. England did not declare war, nor did M. de Giers think any more about resigning.

This conversation, which throws such volumes of light upon the character of the Czar, is published in the Paris Gaulois. At the time alluded to I was in Russia, and I am in a position to confirm the accuracy of the Gaulois' narra-

The above conversation took place at Gatschina and it is now a matter of history. The Gaulois, however, does not touch upon another result of this conversation, which caused a sort of consternation in diplomatic circles. All Ambassadors and Ministers, not only in Russia, but in Germany and Austria, and even in England, had hitherto regarded the Czar as a sort of amateur diplomatist, who would follow implicitly in the leading strings of M. de Giers, just as to-day they expect Kaiser William II. to follow in the leading strings of Prince Bismarck.

WILD REPORTS SET AFLOAT.

The result was that reports-clearly traced to one of the most ignorant embassies in St. Petersburg—were spread abroad to the effect that the Czar was a sort of a wild, frantic, volcanic madman, ready to plunge Europe into war at his slightest caprice. History has since proved the clean contrary.

In a few days hundreds of wild rumors will emanate from Peterhof. Readers of the Herald will be able to read between the lines of the official and semiofficial utterances with which Europe will soon be flooded if they simply bear the above incident in mind. No matter what inducement or temptation or flattery Emperor William II, may offer it is certain that the Czar will remain inflexibly devoted to his own policy, and that, too, with an unfettered hand. Whatever the Czar wants he seeks with the tenacity

A Sydney despatch of Aug. 12 says the Maritime Labor Council has fixed September 12 as the, date when all vessels employing Asiatics must replace them with European crews, otherwise the Council will pursue similar tactics to tricity applied to its street railway in any those adopted in the case of the mail form that will produce such effects as steamer Mariposa.

The Oceanic Company About to Withdraw Its Steamers.

A strong probability exists that, in consequence of the refusal of the New Zealand and Australian Governments to vote the annual $200,000 subsidy, the mail service between this country and the Australian colonies will have ceased to exist after October next. The Oceanic Steamship Company for the past two years has held the contract, and the line being a popular one, has made considerable profit out of it. The service by the San Francisco route is more rapid by several days than via the Suez Canal. and of late has almost paid for itself, the Government receiving back the entire money paid in subsidies in the shape of postage on mail matter. The Spreckels contract expires in November, and the Oceanic Company's agents in New Zealand have spared no trouble to have it renewed. The Colonial Governments, however, objecting to bear the entire burden of a service which was beneficial to the people of this country as well as to the New Zealanders, asked the aid of Postmaster-General Vilas, and later of his successor, Postmaster-General Dickinson, in securing a subsidy from this Government to keep up the service.

The replies received were not satisfactory. As interpreted the Washington postal authorities agreed to make an annual payment of $6,000, but only on certain conditions. These conditions were understood to give the Government exactly the same, if not more rights, as regarded withholding payments for delays, etc., as possessed by the Colonial Governments, which paid much larger subsidies. The ministers of the colonies named some time ago announced their practical agreement to this, but when this subject came up in the lower houses a few weeks since the matter was thoroughly discussed and the proposed subsi dies were voted down, the principal argument against the bills being, as under stood, the lack of more liberal action by the Washington authorities. Private letters to the Oceanic Steamship Company by the Alameda to-day confirmed all previous reports of this action. As understood, this means that the company will not be paid something like $200,000 a year which they have been receiving from the Colonial Govern-ments. This is a serious loss. Freight and passengers cannot alone pay the expense of the steamer service, and it was announced at the Oceanic Company's offices here to-day that in consequence of the action, or rather inaction, noted, all steamers-the Alameda, Zealandia and Mariposa-ewill be withdrawn from the Australian service after October 18tn, if the situation at that time remains unchanged. The Australia will continue running to Honolulu as heretofore, and possibly one of the other steamers will be added to this line. The Oceanic Company owns all these steamers, and it is under stood that already arrangements for their service on another route from this port are being made. The Colonial Government are planning for other steamer service for the transportation of the English mails. Propositions have been made for Canadian Pacific steamers to run between Vancouver and Australian ports. A plan to run steamers to Fiji, where the connection for Auckland and Sydney would be made, has been proposed, but rejected by the New Zealand Government. There is just a possibility that the Colonial Governments may yet vote the subsidy denied by the Oceanic Company, but private advices say that all indications are against such action. If the steamers are taken off all Amercan exhibitors at the Melbourne Exposition will have to return their products by a very roundabout route. -[S. F. Call, August 5th.

A Questionable Improvement.

Connecticut's only electric street-railway, at Ansonia, still causes a great deal of trouble and frequent accidents, oft n ludierous, though none of them serious. Owing to a miscalculation, the freight motor refuses to go around curves, and the trucks have been returned to the manufacturer to be readjusted. It often happens that a passenger finds his watch almost stopped by the magnetism it has collected on the trip, and it costs $3 to put it in running order again. One person, whose watch was so highly charged as to e illect pins and all metallic scraps in its way, buried it in the earth, and, it is said, found the electricity was conducted off in that manner. Several others are following his example. Honolulu does not want to have electhe above.

THE MAIL SERVICE.

statements of the Auckland Press-Interview with a New Zealand Legislator.

The latest from New Zealand regarding the prospect of a renewal of a subsidy to the San Francisco mail route is as follows:

The Auckland Herald monthly summary per Mariposa says: "The whole question of the mail services is to be debated within a few days. The Auckland members are unanimous in the desire that the San Francisco service should be continued. It is far more speedy than any other service, while the whole of the subsidy is recouped by the postage paid. A number of the members of the House of Representatives, however, are interested in the New Zealand Shipping Company, and they are agitating to withdraw the subsidy from the San Francisco service, and to transfer it to the direct boats."

The Auckland Star says it is understood that the Cabinet "will bring down alternative proposals, designed to satisfy the cry for retrenchment and at the same time give the colony efficient service. Their proposals will include a service via San Francisco; a weekly service by way of Australia, Suez and Brindisi; and a fortnightly service by the direct steamers now plying between England and New Zealand. The service by Australia would be most economical, as mail subsidies would be entirely abolished were it adopted; but it is possible that sentiment may so far sway hon, members that they will prefer to pay a substantial sum in order to secure the colony a service of its own, with all the commercial and other advantages contingent there-

A Wellington, N. Z., dispatch says the British Government are willing to contribute to subsidizing the British Columbia route but not the San Francisco.

The ADVERTISER reporter had an interesting conversation at the Hawaiian Hotel with Hon. Dr. Grace, member of the Legislative Council of New Zealand, upon this subject and general affairs of that country. Dr. Grace was very positive in the opinion that the subsidy would not be renewed. New Zealand was very liberal in steamship subsidies, at present giving subventions to no less than four direct lines-two fast and two slow ones-besides that to the American line. The subsidies for the mails were divided between the two fast lines, thus securing a fortnightly service, and the San Francisco service was really not a necessity. Prospects of a line connecting with the Canadian Pacific Railway also were such as to make against the renewal of the Oceanic subsidy. Space, it is to be regretted, does not permit of giving in this issue the interesting facts and figures quoted by the honorable gentleman regarding his country. Dr. Grace is accompanied by his wife and three daughters, bound for the grand tour of America and Europe. Although

THE House did a good deal of work Wednesday, some of which would have been better left undone. They got in a fit of despatching business by laying useful bills on the table, and indefinitely postponing others. The passport bill, the object of which was to put the country on a par with free countries like England and the United States, by abolishing the passport system, was indefinitely postponed, and the consequence is that we are going to be relics of barbarism for another biennial period. The argument for the passports is that the system protects tradesmen. So it does in their bad habits. Hawaii is not so far as we know the only commercial country in the world with seaport towns. One would suppose that there was no other country in the world offering the slightest facilities for absconding debtors, whereas there is hardly any country which does not offer much more tempting opportunities for running away from financial obligations than our little Kingdom, with its limited outlets, can possibly afford. We are sorry that the House has taken the action which it has, but it only reflects in this matter a diversity of sentiment which seems to ing of Horace's saw-"The mountains be general throughout the community.

half in the discussion of the bill to facilitate the segregation of lepers, although it only contained a few sections, and dealt with a subject which has already been thoroughly agitated, and upon which the opinion of a majority of the House was well known. The time wasted on the discussion was spent by the native members, most of whom fought the bill section by section to the end. The bill has already been explained in these columns. The gist of it is that it makes it penal wilfully to conceal persons who are lepers or suspected of being such. Some such law is absolutely necessary if the Government is to succeed in the vigorous crusade it has begun against leprosy. The report of the President of the Board of Health shows that the Gibson Government did practically nothing to check the spread of leprosy. No effort was made to carry on the work of segregation. The number of patients at Molokai decreased, which meant, unfortunately, not that the disease was being checked, but that it was being left to destroy the Hawaiian race without an permission of the Government to be effort being made to save them.

Since the present Ministry came into power, this criminal care lessness has ceased, and a determined effort bas been made to weed out every case in every district, and send every one infected to Molokai. The effort has been attended with partial success, but that success cannot become complete until the efforts of the Ministry are reinforced with properly effective laws. At present the hands of the Government are tied. The bill now before the House will go far toward furnishing the necessary conditions to a vigorous effort to stamp out the disease before it has destroyed the Hawaiian race. The bill is one which is just and moderate in its provisions, and lays no grievous or improper burden on anyone. It is a measure conceived in the interest of the Hawaiian, who is far more deeply interested in it than anyone else can be, because the very existence of the race is at stake. What then should be thought of those Hawaiians in the House, who, for political purposes, or to gain a momentary popularity, have set their faces against the bill, opposed it by their voices and their votes and gone on the record as the worst enemies of the Hawaiian race, enemies who stab insidiously, while wearing the mask of friendship.

This is a subject of supreme importance and one on which a definite understanding may as well be reached without delay. It ought to be clearly understood by the native members and their supporters that every one who takes the stand that most of them have on this a question, forfeit thereby forever the respect and confidence of their compeers in the Legislature, and every one in the country who has its interest at all at heart, of all in fact except those who are base and unscrupulous enough to be willing to step to power over the dead body of their country's prosperity. No matter from what point of view the action of these members is regarded, the result condemns them. If they voted according to their consciences, all that remains to be said is that men who can take the stand they have are not possessed of the qualifications requisite for a legislator. are not in fact possessed of intelligence sufficient to fit them for any position which makes the least demand upon the thinking faculty. On the other hand, if these members voted as they did knowing they were taking the wrong side, they have of course deprived themselves of public confidence. Let them think to make capital out of their action before the electors in '90, if they choose. They will find they have reaped a harvest of contempt. It is of no use for Mr. Kamauoha to get up and say publicly that he is "not particularly opposed to this hill" with other talk of an equally

They have strengthened their position with the country as men who are in the House to save it, and not to propi-

Last Friday week the House went into Committee of the Whole to discuss the bill providing for the issuing of licenses to workingmen, and spent four hours in a fruitless discussion of it. The bill has already been explained and attacked in public, so that no detailed explanation of it is necessary here. It is aimed of course at the Chinese, and the debate Friday afternoon practically resolved itself into a discussion of the Chinese question. The weakness of the defense made for the bill lay in just that fact. Glittering generalities were forcibly indulged in, but not very much said which was directly in point. Several excellent speeches were made. Mr. Kinney, for instance, made an address which was admirable from the rhetorical point of view. It contained an allusion to the upas tree which is an effective metaphor, though a somewhat overworked one. We could not help thinkare in labor, a ridiculous mouse is born." The rhetoric was wasted, for THE House spent nearly a day and a after all when the smoke of battle had cleared away nothing seemed to have come of the contest. Mr. Kauhi summarized the matter admirably when he said the House had fished all the afternoon and caught a crab.

> The object of the bill is to establish a system of registration by which the Government can keep a careful watch over the Chinese, be enabled to enforce the vagrancy laws, and in general know where it stands with reference to the Chinese population. The objections to the bill are that the registration secured by it will be very imperfect, and that the expedient adopted to bring about even this imperfect registration is equally imperfect and barbarous. Why the Committee should have hit on the idea of licensing laborers in order to compel them to register is not easy to imagine. There is something in the very idea of licensing a man to work that is repugnant to Anglo-Saxon ideas. That the right to perform manual labor shall depend for its existence upon the purchased by the payment of a license fee, is revolting to one's love of liberty and sense of personal independence. Perhaps we are appealing to prejudice, to mere sentiment, but be that as it may the prejudice is a very deep rooted one, and we doubt if anything can overcome its operation in the present case short of the clearest proof of the absolute necessity of such a system of licenses. It is sufficient to say that no such proof was offered during the course of Friday's debate, and it is very unlikely that anything of the sort will be produced.

Doubtless there would be a good many advantages following from a complete system of registration of Chinese in this country, but why must those advantages be secured by putting every skilled laborer in the country who has not paid a fee to the Government, a criminal if he attempts to lift a spade! If it is desirable that laborers of a certain grade be registered, let them be registered, but not licensed. If it is necessary or desirable strictly to enforce this registration, let a failure to comply with the law be made a misdemeanor, with a proper penalty. But the registration should be entirely free, and the right to work should not be dependent in any way upon compliance with the provisions of the statute, any more than the right to eat. If it is necessary for purposes of identification that a photograph be furnished, that too might be required, the Government incurring the expense. We do not see why a bill draughted in accordance with these suggestions would not meet the objects aimed at, and certainly it would obviate the principal objections to the original bill. If any system of registration is adopted, however, it ought to be made complete. We are not sure that any attempt to introduce such a system is at present advisable, but it is worth considering. Every one admits that the Chinese question is troublesome and must be dealt with, but it must be dealt with in a just and reasonable way, and by laws which can afford some prospect of accomplishing their object. We are unable to think that the bill which the committee have draughted in this case promises any fruitful or valuable results. That being the case all the upas trees in the world (we say it without disrespect to the upas tree) can-

> (From our special Correspondent.) Sugar.

Sugar has again advanced, and, on the 11th inst., raw was quoted in New York at 614 cents for 96 deg. The market remains firm at the advance. The San Francisco market for refined has been in a flurry since the last steamer left. The following changes will show what has transpired: On July 28th sugar declined 1/6 cent, granulated being 73/6 cents; July 30th declined 1/6 August 1st declined 1/8 cent; August 2d declined 1/4 cent; August 4th declined 16 cent, making granulated 634 cents. On the same afternoon there was an advance of 16 cent, and on August 6th there were three advances each of 1/8 cent. On August 9th there was anothe advance of 1/8 cent, bringing granulated back to 73% cents.

The beet sugar outlook in California is regarded as very satisfactory, the beets in fine condition and promising a heavy return of sugar. At Pittsburg Mr. Spreckels and his engineer, Mr. Watson, have been conducting experiments with a new directconnecting process of refining. This will be patented all over the world, and will, it is claimed, greatly reduce the cost of refining sugar.

Gen. Roger A. Pryor has commenced suit in New York, on behalf of the Government, against the Sugar Trust. The complaint alleges that the North Sugar Refinery Co. is a corporation that, for establishing and maintaining a monopoly of the manufacture and sale of refined sugar and controlling the market, has diminished its production and thus enhanced the price; that the defendant combined, about August 16th last, with all other refineries in New York, and others in other States; that the ownership of the capital stock should be assigned to a Board of eleven members styled "The Sugar Refineries Company; that in return the Board should issue certificates of stock. In conclusion the plaintiffs demand judgment that the North River Refinery Co. be dissolved. its charter vacated, its corporate existence annulled and a receiver be appointed. The defendants have twenty days to answer, which will expire on August 27th. The Austrian Government has announced that it will join the Sugar Bounties Convention if the United States and Brazil will do the same.

American planters are agitating in Cuba for annexation to the United States owing to financial troubles.

A number of mango, tamarind, guava and avocado pear trees, that were imported from Honolulu, are thriving well near Redding, Cal.

F. L. Clarke has been doing some good work for the islands among tourists visiting San Francisco, and he proposes now to extend his work east, delivering illustrated lectures, if he can receive any support from Honolulu. He has received encouraging offers of assistance from the east.

In the case of Minnie Schultz the Secretary of the Treasury upholds Dr. McAllister in his efforts to prevent her from landing. He has prescribed that in future steamship owners bringing passengers from a foreign port must give a bond as a guarantee that they will return all passengers who are not permitted to land.

The Oceanic Steamers.

The S. S. Mariposa left the Colonies on her contract time without taking a crew of Sydney Union sailors, as the Alameda did, notwithstanding the threats of the Sydney Labor Unions. Captain Hayward appears to have been successful in fighting them, and the Alameda takes back the Union men that she brought from Sydney without shipping them.

The Alameda will sail on August 25th with a full passenger list, having a large number for Honolulu, among whom are Prof. W. F. Frear, Miss Frear, Miss Hopper, Miss Louisson, Mrs. Dr. Brown, R. Lillie and wife, Mrs. and Miss Forbes, Mrs. David Center, Miss M. A. Brewer, Miss H. E. Cushman, Miss G. Brewer, Mrs. L. L. Renney, W. H. Lewers, Edgar Lewis, C. Carter and wife, O. P. Downing.

There has been a good deal of talk about the Oceanic Company's steamers being withdrawn at once from the Australian trade. Nothing is definitely known, however, and it is probable that they will continue to run for another year. The North German Lloyd's Company has been enquiring into the San Francisco trade with the Colonies.

He Sports a New Name and the Insignia of a Grand Officer of the Order of Kapiolani.

"Kamilomilanalois Bishop" was what was written on the Palace Hotel register by a passenger who came from Honolulu on the steamer Alameda vesterday. A Chronicle reporter sent his card to the suite occupied by Kamilomilanalois, and being invited into the parlor was astonished at finding himself in the presence of Washington Irving Bishop, the mind reader, whose many exploits and whose sudden departure from San Francisco caused much speculation on the part of his friends.

Bishop has very much improved in health since he was last here, there being now a ruddy color in his cheeks and so much fat on his bones that, as he Murphy of England and Jack Havlin of | jokingly remarked, "my clothes don't fit change in his appearance was wrought tons to the acre. "My experience while in the islands were of a very pleasant nature," said Mr. Bishop. "I was treated royally by both commoner and King, all vying in showing me every courtesy. Kalakaua and his native subjects were both delighted and astonished at my power of mind reading. His Majesty bestowed upon me the name which I wrote upon the register, and which means "Favorite Son of the Heavens." He also presented me with a large walrus tusk, inlaid with a plate of gold, on which is engraved my Hawaiian name. The Princess was also very generous, and before I took my departure Hon. John Cummins presented me with a valuable parcel of land, on which I intended to erect a summer residence. After a breakfast to which l was invited by the King I was decorated with the insignia of a Grand Officer of the Order of Kapiolani.' Speaking of his departure from this city, Mr. Bishop states that he went direct to Honolulu, and that the reports of his having been seen in Oregon and British Columbia were false. He denies that his reason was ever impaired, and said that he was invited to spend a few days in a private lunatic asylum in this his, who wanted to get him away from 'the boys," who were making things too lively for him, so that he could have a few days' rest .- [Chronicle, Aug. 5.

Capt. Nilsson Drowned.

The Hawaiian schooner Waiehu arrived at Kuau, Maui, with freight from this port, on Saturday morning, 18th inst. Captain Charles Nilsson, who was both master and owner of the vessel, gave instructions to his mate (a Hawaiian) and crew to remain on board for the night and watch the vessel until of New York itself. morning, when they could land and go to church if they desired. The Captain then went ashore in a boat and went to the house of a friend. On Sunday morning about 9 o'clock Captain Nilsson from the house saw his mate and crew making for the shore in a boat, and he concluded to go on board the vessel. got in his boat, and rowed for the schooner; but the wind blew stronger and stronger till, unable to make headway, he was obliged to let the boat go adrift and trust himself to the mercy of the wind. The wind increasing in fury the heavy sea tossed the boat hither and thither, while the crew on shore helplessly viewed the peril of Capt. Nilsson, until he suddenly disappeared from their sight. They then hurriedly made for the shore and pulled out toward the direction of the drifting boat. When they reached the boat they found nothing in it but the unfortunate Captain's gloves and coat. They cruised about the spot for a while, but Captain Nilsson was not to be found. They returned to the shore and informed the authorities of the Captain's fate. The deputy sheriff engaged a native diver to search for the body, but his labor was fruitless. The schooner left there on Tuesday in charge of the mate, and arrived here Wednesday morning, the flag flying at half-mast, The late Captain Nilsson was a Norwegian, over 30 years of age, and leaves a widow and a young child. He was formerly master of the schooner Waioli, again of the schooner Mana which was wrecked in the South Seas last year when returning contract laborers to the

AN EXCURSION.

The Coronet Party and Friends Visit Walanae Plantation and Pearl Harbor -Visitors Delighted With Both Land and Water Scenes.

Monday week at the untimely hour of half-past five a. m., and that an hour later than appointed, the steamer Waimanalo slid out of her berth and alongside Mr. Bush's famous New York yacht Coronet in the stream. From the yacht there embarked on the steamer Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Bush and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Denslow, Dr. Abbott and Mr. Martin, joining a shore party consisting of Rev. Dr. Lowell Smith, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillingham and two children, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Brown and Miss Humphries, also a representative of this paper ignoring Neptune's lessons of a recent trip to Kanai.

After a smooth trip of four hours, the morning breath of the waters being very refreshing, the whole company were safely landed at Waianae plantation. A short walk brought them to Hon. H. A. Widemann's mansion, where a hospitable edict from that gentleman preceded them by telephone, which Mr. August Ahrens, the manager, was prepared to execute and did so with an offhand cordiality of his own. The visitors were delighted with the beauties of this typical Hawaiian rural home, its broad and long verandas, profuse curtaining of vines, and wealth of aromatic foliage and bloom, all behind a grove of majestic cocoanuts. They only regretted that his public duties prevented the owner from adding his genial presence to their number and receiving their thanks for the honors so well dispensed by his able deputy. Having refreshed themselves with a laving of faces and hands in cool water, the company sat down to an abundant breakfast, that was all the more relished from the knowledge that nearly everything in the bill of fare was the product of the plantation, including excellent coffee and sugar, tender chicken and fresh-caught akule fish. Immediately after the meal, there being no time to spare, a rapid inspection was made of the mill, now in the resting season. This being completed under the lead of Mr. Ahrens, a locomotive and train of seated cane cars were found in waiting on the main track, and the party were soon merrily rolling through the divisions named Waianae and Lualualei, the latter, just under the shadow of the Waianae mountains, containing the more advanced growth of cane. Thence back the train rattled through the fertile valleys, past the mill and on to the verge of Makaha valley containing the most northern division of the plantation. The prickly growths on the sides of the track made it inadvisable to proceed further than a point from which a fair view of the fruitful expanse could be obtained. The whole plantation comprises an area of about 6,000 acres all told. There are some 550 acres under cultivation, off which 2,300 tons of sugar have been produced the past season, a portion of the The mind reader said that this land vielding the high average of six proaching to the Waianae mill in extent and perfection of equipment, or to this plantation in the luxuriance of cane growing at Lualualei. It was an agreeable revelation to Mrs. Bush that there was no counterpart in a Hawaiian sugar mill to the sight witnessed in Cuba, of plantation laborers (let alone the fact that they were black slaves) mixing the molasses with their feet.

About the middle of the afternoon the company again went on board the Waimanalo, that forthwith steamed homeward by way of Pearl Harbor. A brisk southwesterly breeze had succeeded the morning's calm, making a rather active sea in rounding Barber's Point-so much so that the younger members of the party gave a truce to their diversions, being soon engaged in making wry faces, as were some of the elder ones, at any monsters of the deep which might be lurking round the sides of the vessel. However, the agony was not for long, the steamer shortly striking off at a tangent for Pearl Harbor, the approach to which was comparatively smooth. The Waimanalo crossed the bar and penetrated a mile or two, literally out of sight of ocean, up the broad and deep east arm of the magnificent haven. Only the lateness of the hour prevented farther city by the proprietor, who is a friend of exploration, including a trip up the west arm or round one or more of the emeraldelad isles. All the visitors uftered ex-pressions of amazement at the grand scene disclosed from every point of view reached. There were the immense rising plain in front, stretching forward out of sight over the summit and across for an unbroken mile or two from the Waianae foothills; the surpassingly beautiful peninsula, islands and borders of the harbor, and, last but not least, the vast maritime capacity of the landlocked waters beneath. Mr. Bush declared that he had seen no harbor in the world to compare with it, excepting perhaps that > Homeward the gallant little boat throbbed her way, as she ran out beyond the reef favoring the company with the view of sunset in the ocean horizon. Through a choppy sea she safely carried her satisfied passengers into the smooth passage and harbor. The Coronet party were safely transferred to their noble craft, bidding their friends good-night at half-past seven, with the most hearty assurances that they had spent an extremely pleasant day. When the steamer touched the wharf the venerable Dr. Smith was the first to spring lightly and unassisted upon solid ground, a fact at once attesting his wondrous juvenility of spirit and the rejuvenating virtue of an excursion on the bright Pacific.

W. C. Wilder Elected-Good Majority in a Small Vote-A Quiet Election.

The election held on Wednesday for a Noble in place of the late Hon. S. G. Wilder, of the Island of Oahu, passed off very quietly. There was no excitement visible, even at the polling places. Only a small crowd was to be seen there at any time, while elsewhere all that indicated the event consisted in such interrogatory salutations, with their answers, "Have you voted yet?" "How is the election going?" which passed between people about the streets. It was evident by noon that a very small vote was going to be polled, and during the day no little indifference was manifested toward the exercise of their privilege by many citizens. Before the result of the voting in the city was counted, returns from the country districts, excepting the polling place at Koolauloa, were received by telephone. The total results are as follows, showing the return of Mr. W. C. Wilder, the Reform candidate, by a majority of 141 over Mr. J. L. Kaulukou, the Opposition candidate:

The meeting of officers of the volunteer companies announced for Monday, evening, 20th inst., for the nomination of a person to be commissioned as Colonel, in accordance with the Act passed, 14th ult., relating to the military forces of the Kingdom, took place at the Armory. A large number of military men and citizens assembled to see the question which has for several weeks been agitating the community, both in uniform and out of uniform, definitely decided, as well as to gratify a natural curiosity to get a view of the "dark horse" that was promised to appear. Supreme Court Decisions.

A decision was filed by Mr. Justice Preston on the 23d inst., in L. A. Thurston, guardian of Pakuakini (k), a minor, vs. Willfam Aylett, bill in equity to set aside a deed, on the ground of wrong inducements to above minor, who is a leper on Molokai. The conclusion of the decision is as follows: "The deed must therefore be set aside and the defendant ordered to reconvey the property. The plaintiff must return the purchase money to the defendant. There must be an enquiry (if the parties cannot agree) as to what if any rents or profits the defendant has received from the property, which may be set off against the purchase money. Defendant must pay costs. Further directions reserved." W. O. Smith for plaintiff; A. Rosa for defendant.

Mr. Justice Preston on the 25th filed a decision in Charles Lorsen vs. J. T. Waterhouse et al., executors of J. D. Mills; action of assumpsit; motion for new trial. His Honor, after stating what the proceedings were, thinks that, the defendant's counsel appearing to have misapprehended the rule as to the necessity of giving notice of motion for a new trial at the time of taking the exception, no injustice will be done by overruling the objection. He could not say on a review of the whole evidence that he was satisfied with the verdict except as to the amount. "The evidence was left to the jury, and they arrived at a conclusion which there was evidence to support. The plaintiff's counsel undertook to abandon the excess, five hundred dollars, awarded by the jury, and on that being done the judgment may stand for seven hundred and sixteen dollars, otherwise there must be a new trial." C. Creighton for plaintiff; W. O. Smith for defendants.

Samoan Affairs.

Our reporter renewed a casual acquaintance with Mr. H. M. Sewall, United States Consul-General to Samoa, at the Hotel on Friday evening. He stated, in reply to enquiry, that affairs were unchanged in Samoa since the accession of Tamasese. A German gunboat was still there, as was the U. S. S. Adams.

Germany had not advanced the degree of her control, further than to effect a treaty with the existing Government. Neither America nor England had recognized Tamasese, except that the latter country acknowledged the "de facto government," whatever that might mean. The American and British Consuls still retained control in matters immediately affecting citizens of their respective countries, although the revolution had caused the dissolution of the 442 consular municipality. Mr. Sewall denied the truth of a statement cited to him from a Sydney paper keeping the natives quiet, the principal duty devolving upon himself being, how-24 ever, to look after the interests of American residents.

Mr. Sewall gave no support to a current impression that there existed an understanding between America, Great Britain and Germany conceding to the latter the exercise of whatever she willed in respect to Samoa. The Consul-General has a furlough of two months, but does not apprehend a serious change in the before the lanse of that period He is looking very well.

Kaumakapili Organ Recital.

The third organ recital by Mr. Wray Taylor, A. G. O., in Kaumakapili Church, was attended by more people than the preceding ones, and from a more varied nature the programme was better appreciated. The organist of this church, who is named above, himself played on the great instrument Chipp's procession march, Batiste's offertoire in D. Delbruck's Berceuse in A. a sketch (The Lake) by Dr. Spark, and Tours' fantasia in C major. Mr. M. H. Jones, organist of Central Union Church, played Wely's offertoire in F and Haydn's andante in C minor. Both performers developed a wide range of the seemingly infinite capacities of the splendid instrument. Mrs. J. H. Paty sang the solo, "Angels ever bright and fair," so beautifully as to neutralize whatever disadvantage there may be in having to face naturally high anticipa-tions. The Honolulu Arion Society, led by Mr. J. Hubash, nobly sang two choruses-"The Day of Our Lord" (Kreutzer), and, "Knights' Farewell" (Kinkel). It is probable that these recitals will continue, but be free in recognition of liberal public subscriptions to the building fund.

Pictorial Exhibits. Mr. J. J. Williams has had a series of ten books of his photographic views of Hawaiian scenes, numbering up to fifty in each, neatly bound for the Melbourne Exhibition. One of the volumes contains all pictures in and about the Makee Sugar Co.'s plantation and mill, Kauai, including views of Col. Z. S. Spalding the manager's beautiful residence. Another series of similar books goes forward to the Cincinnati Permanent Exhibition. When the Australian exhibit has served its purpose in the great exposition, it will be deposited permanently in one of the large museums of that country. These views will doubtess attract much attention to the Islands both in the Colonies and the States. There is, however, a noteworthy deficiency in the want of a printed catalogue, with descriptions of the pictures and general articles on the attractions and resources of the Islands.

A House Burned.

A house belonging to Mrs. Holt and tenanted by Mr. Slessinger, on Fort street, near School street, was badly damaged by fire that broke out about five o'clock Saturday evening. The origin of the flames is left to conjecture; they seem to have started between the walls. The roof was burned out and the interior of the house pretty completely wrecked. All the furniture, or most of it, was saved. It was superior furniture on which there was insurance of $3,000. There was insurance also on the house in the office of Mr. Cartwright. The building is near the site of Mr. Louisson's burned two or three years ago. Engine Company No. 4 (Hawaiian) was struck, consequently got away quickly ground later and laid on a stream.

The Rifles Hop.

There was a very large and brilliant assembly at the Honolulu Rifles Battalion annual hop on Friday evening. Invited guests comprised many officers of the warships in port, officers of the Second Battalion of Volunteers, foreigners from the steamer Mariposa's passengers, and prominent residents, with a gay and numerous accompaniment of the fair sex. Dancing was kept up with spirit throughout the programme, the string contingent of the Royal Band led by Prof. Berger furnishing the music. About eleven o'clock refreshments, including the best coffee the world can produce-viz., Hawaiian-were dispensed by Mr. Steiner of the Elite Parlors, the naval guests, ladies, and visitors from abroad being served at tables in the rooms of the different companies. The Portuguese company -C-" took the cake" for decoration of their room, but the whole Armory interior was splendid with flags, tropical flora and illumination

The Anglo-American Concert,

Thursday evening's band concert complimentary to the Captains and officers of H. B. M. S. Espiegle and U. S. S. Dolphin was a fine one in all respects. Brilliant chromatic illuminations with electricity and the ancient candle, a large and fashionable attendance besides the guests and superb music by the Royal sese as King. The British Consul and himself had used all their influence in keeping the natives oniet the visconian band combined to make the event noteworthy beyond the conventional acceptation. The Echo piece was a grand hit, having to be reconstituted. ists on the far end veranda did the echo business very effectively.

House Notes.

About five minutes after the Governor abolition Act had passed over the veto, a medium-sized gray cat came in from the lobby with a quantity of red tape fastened round his neck, and large blue and red paper seals on his back. feline visitor strolled through the House for some time at his leisure, to the great amusement of members and spectators. The Attorney-General occupied two Ministerial chairs during Rep. Kauhi's discussion of the "something to eat" paragraph in the election bill. His Excellency's attitude was decidedly unparliamentary. See Cooley's Constitutional Limitations.

COLONIAL NEWS.

When the steamer sailed from Sydney the threatened strike in the shipping industry had been postponed indefinitely. The Telegraph calls the situation "an armed peace," and has the following editorial reference to the Mariposa difficulty: "The Maritime Labor Council committed a mistake of policy when they tried to force an Australian crew upon the Mariposa. Captain Hayward will sail out of Port Jackson to-day with his open letter to Mr. Davis flying from the masthead of his ship as his token of victory. But he will commit a blunder of policy if he brings his Chinese back again to Sydney. In that event he will have to reckon with the Australian nation as well as with the Maritime Labor Council." The open letter referred to above is from the Secretary of the Maritime Labor Council named above. It severely criticises the Oceanic steamers for taking men from San Francisco to work their passage to Sydney, contrasting such action with the Pacific Coast protests in the Eastern States against cheap labor, and saying,

During the short period the ships of your company carried American firemen the departure of each vessel left behind it a trail of deadbeats." Captain Hayward's letter contained the following passage: "Of my crew of over 100 men barely 33 are Chinese, and yet you refer to these ships as the 'Chiuese-manned vessels,' and to Mr. Spreckels as the Chinese Mogul' of the Sandwich Islands. Messrs. Spreckels employ in San Francisco, on their ships, and in the Sandwich Islands, about six thousand men. Of this army, the overwhelming majority are white men, not a Chinaman being employed around their extensive refineries, or for domestic purposes, nor on their ships, saving the few who are passers or firemen. So far from enteraining any repugnance towards Australian labor, it is our constant practice to ship men in San Francisco who are anxious to work their passage, knowing that we can fill their places here with capable men." The Sydney press is down on the Council.

While at the Solomon Islands recently Mr. Palmer Bevan, Government labor agent, was brutally killed by a native recruit to whom he had just handed a tomahawk. Natives on shore afterwards fired upon the boat's crew, who retaliated Opinion of the Court by McCully, J.

This case comes up by appeal from a Justice of the Supreme Court holding what is known as the Intermediary Court of Oahu, upon the following certificate of findings and rulings,

On the evidence adduced herein I find that the defendant in Hong Kong, China, bought the passport herein filed, and came to this Kingdom on the steamer City of Peking. and while said steamer was in the port of Honolulu the 13th day of May last with the defendant on board, the defendant on demand presented the said passport to a Custom House officer, and afterwards was sent by the Board of Health to the quarantine grounds near Honolulu harbor, also that the defendant is a China-

"Wherefore I adjudge and rule that the defendant is guilty as charged, and that the sentence of the police court herein is affirmed with

"Frem which ruling and judgment the defendant appeals to the Supreme Court in banco, on the grounds that the facts so found do not in law constitute the offense charged."

The charge is of unlawfully attempting to land at the port of Honolulu without a legal permit, contrary to the provisions of Section 3 of Chapter 28 of the Laws of 1887,

Section 3. If any master of a vessel shall land or attempt to land any Chinese without such permit [a permit to enter the Kingdom issued by the Minister of Foreign Affairs | as aforesaid, he shall be liable on convic tion to a penalty of two hundred dollars for each Chinese unlawfully landed or attempted to be landed; and such passenger landing or attempting to land, shall be liable on conviction to a penalty of fifty dol-

The passport filed is of date March 12th, 1885, and reads that 'permission is hereby granted to Ah Firun [Chinese characters], formerly residing at Waimanalo, Oahu, to enter the ports of this Kingdom on his return from China.' It is not doubted that this passport would have legally admitted to the Kingdom the person to whom it was issued. The defendant had bought it in Hong Kong, and was not the person named therein. On this we hold, without question, that for the bearer it was not a passport. By the regulation of March 25, 1884, under which it is expressed that it was issued, passports were issued only to Chinese residents in the Kingdom, and desiring to go abroad and return here, and [2] to the wives and families of Chinese residents here. For these passports a fee of one dollar was charged. This forbids the construction that they were issued for the purpose of revenue. It can only be held that it was for the purpose of regulating and restricting the entry of Chinese into this Kingdom. This passport was a permit to the person named therein, who had resided here at a place specified, going hence to re-enter the Kingdom. It is altogether unlike a passenger ticket, which might be held to be assignable as a contract to carry one passenger over a specified route for a money consideration paid. The passport is not bought of the Government. It is issued only to a person who is of the description of those to whom passports may be issued, who thereupon pays the official fee, which is for the paper, not for the privilege.

The question then of this case is, whether the defendant, being without a permit to land, did attempt to land. The facts found of the purchase of the passports in Hong Kong and coming into this harbor on board the steamer, tend to prove an intent to enter the Kingdom. On demand of a Custom House officer, he presented the passport to him. This is further proof of an intent to enter the King-dom. As far as possible the defendant made use of the passport, and the only use of the passport being to pro-cure admission to the Kingdom, it must be considered that the defendant's intent to enter is established.

Our Statute on Attempts, Chapter 44 of the Penal Code, prescribes that amere preparation of the means of committing an offense, nothing being done in execution of the intent to commit the same, is not an attempt to commit the same. Purchasing the passport and taking passage for Honolulu was a mere preparation of the means. The offense is landing, coming ashore, entering the Kingdom, or attempting to do so. The defendant would have committed no offense if he had not attempted to leave, or left attended to. Send care of S. Roth's Tailor Shop Orders from the other Islands will be carefully, attended to. Send care of S. ROTH. 1230-6m

Supreme Court of the Hawaiian the steamer. So continuing on the steamer as he might, and leaving the harbor on her and proceeding to San Francisco, he would not have violated the statute, if he had not done an act towards committing and in part execution of the intent. But any act done in execution of the intent, constitutes an attempt whether it is successful or is frustrated. The act relied on as an attempt is presenting the passport. It is a fair inference from the statement of facts found, and from the law, that a proper officer was demanding who of the passengers claimed a right to land by the possession of a passport, and that the defendant presented this passport as giving him the right to land. His intent was to land, and his attempt was by presenting the passport, and by this means he succeeded in landing. If he had not presented the passport the Board of Health would not have thereafter taken him ashore. If it had been discovered that the passport presented was not a passport permitting the defendant to enter the Kingdom, he would not have been permitted to land. By law, the vessel which brought him was bound to take him away. His attempt would have been frustrated.

It does not seem material to consider in this case whether the successful attempt to land was merged in the offense of landing. This conviction may well lie on the proof of offering a passport which was sufficient to precure that the Board of Health should thereafter cause him to be taken from the ship. The question whether he had effected an entry into this Kingdom by being sent to the quarantine grounds near Ho-nolulu, does not affect the character of the act which we hold to be the attempt. Getting sent to the quarantine grounds was a step towards entering the Kingdom. He might have been stopped there to be reembarked on the steamer, as the statute provides, and by the authority of the case of Chow Bick Git, 4 Haw. 385, he would have been legally barred at the threshold of the Kingdom, and could not have been brought in by writ of habeas corpus. We hold that the conviction was the from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE. THE ORIGINAL and ONLY GENUINE. Advice to Invalids.—If you wish to obtain quiet refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage

CHLORODYNE is the bestremedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms. CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia Rheamatism, Cout, Cancer, Toothache Meningitis, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simia, January 5, 1889. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 23, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir.—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir.—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly exteemed medicine. Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has carned for itself not only in Hindostan, but ail over the East. As a remedy for general utility, we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are sorry to say, are now relegated to the native buzzars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhea and Dysentery, Spasms Cramps, Neuraigia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Chobraic Diarrhea, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm Conviction that it is decidely the best, and also from a sense of duty we one to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a DELIBERATE BREACH OF PAITH ON THE PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBER AND PAITENT ALIES. We are Sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co. Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britian, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.

CAUTION.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was, andoubtedly, the Inventor of Chiorodyne; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which, he regretted to say, had been sworn to.—See "The Times," July 13, 1884.

IMPORTANT TO STAMP COLLECTORS

HAVE TO THANK THE PHI-LATELISTS of Hawaii for the liberal ap-preciation which my late advertisement has received. It is safe to say that hundreds of thousands of Hawaiian Stamps have been sent away without receiving more than half their value in return, and what is far worse, every col-lector gets a quantity of useless duplicates. By the plan which I have so successfully worked up, everyone gets only such stamps as he needs; and besides, he gets full value for each and every kind of Hawaiian Stamp. The prices which I allow are better than these of ANY EUROPEAN DEALER, and are higher than most American Stamp Busilers are DEALER, and are higher than most American Stamp Bealers pay.

I receive fresh sheets of stamps by every steamer, and will send them on request to any address. The prices for these stamps are as low as those of the largest dealers. Hawaiian Stamps are good for exchange, and it should be to the mutual interest of all our Philatelic friends to massist me in my efforts to make every hundred stamps bring only what will add to collections, and not a host of worthless duplicates.

In less than pine months, have, an allow of In less than nine months I have an album of nearly Four Thousand specimens by confining myself to the above plan.

Noble Baldwin read the report of the Finance Committee on the petition presented 6th instant on behalf of Mr. Gibbs and others: Hon. W. R. Castle, President of the Legislative Assembly. Sir: -The Finance Committee, to whom sir:—The Finance Committee, to whom was referred the petition of J. W. Gibbs and four others, have had the matter under careful consideration, and beg leave to present the following report. The petitioners set forth that they worked on the Molekai water works from the 20th of Molokai water works from the 20th of February, 1888, till the 26th of May, 1888, during which time they worked 93 days, and that for 40 days of this time previous to March 31st they have received neither youchers nor cash; and further, that they understand that the money for the 40 days time has been paid to a certain party for their benefit, but that they are unable to ascertain who the party is. After full investigation, we have ascertained the fol-

The petitioners were employed on the Kalaupapa water works under Mr. C. B. Wilson, Superintendent of the Water Works, who from month to month drew the pay of all the laborers, which was de-posited with the Clerk of the Water Works. and the orders from the laborerswere paid from this amount whenever they were presented. On the 31st day of March Mr. Wilson drew from the Treasury the pay for the laborers for that month, and filed in the Interior Department as a voucher the pay roll signed by all the laborers.

Now, instead of holding this amount for the settlement of the accounts of the laborers for whom it was drawn, it was used to settle any drafts indiscriminately that were presented not only for the March labor, but also for the laborers that were working on the Kalaupapa water works in

At the end of the period, the 31st of March, the appropriation for "water pipes at Kalaupapa" being exhausted, it was decided to finish laying the pipe, charging the cost to the general appropriation for leper settlements, and such course was pursued. At the end of April, upon pre-sentation of the pay rolls to the Auditor-General for approval, he declined to approve, on the ground that the general appropriation for Leper Settlement did not authorize payments for labor in laying water pipe in Leper Settlement.

Meanwhile, some of the laborers at Molckai had continued during April to draw drafts for wages earned for April. Some of the men, however, had drawn no orders for either February or March. The result was that there being no money forthcoming at the end of April from the Treasury, the amount drawn for the laborers the 31st of March was all paid out to those who drew their accounts for February, March and April, and there was nothing left for those who had not drawn, or who had only drawn in part, among whom were the petitioners.

This method of handling the public funds in settling accounts which seems to have been practised by reprehensible, and should not be allowed. The petitioners claim that no cash was paid out to the laborers on the Kalaupapa water works for work done in April, but we have examined parties who received cash for work done in April, and the books in the Superintendent's office show that all the money drawn on this account previous to March 31st was paid to laborers. We find, on investigation, that George

Barker, who signed the petition, has been fully settled with, which he admits. The accounts of the other four who signed the petition stand as follows:

Days, March. Rate, Total, Amt. Bal. Champion. 40 $4 00 $160 $ 9 $151 W. Gibbs 40 3 50 140 60 80 McGregor 40 3 50 140 17 123 McGregor .. 40 3 50 140 71 J. Tague.

Your Committee are satisfied, after examining Superintendent Wilson's books, that his intentions were honest; that he paid the money drawn for the petitioners paid the money drawn for the petitioners to other laborers in April, with the full in-tention of paying the petitioners out of funds to be drawn on account of the water works in April, which would undoubtedly have been done had not the Auditor-General blocked all further payments on this account.

As soon as the Appropriation Bill for the current period is passed, the funds will be available for the settlement of these ac-counts, and the claims of the petitioners will unquestionably be settled in full.

Nevertheless, the Superintendent has rendered himself personally liable in law for the claims of the petitioners given above, should they not choose to wait till the new appropriations are available. As the Gov-ernment has paid these claims, it appears to be a question between Mr. Wilson and the petitioners, to be settled in Court or otherwise, we recommend that the petition be laid on the table.

The Attorney-General reported for the Committee appointed June 16th on the bill relating to importation and sale of alcohol for medical, mechanical and scientific purposes, introduced June 12th by Noble Recommend an amendment, and, with it, that the bill pass. The report was adopted. The bill passed to engrossment, to be read a third time on Tuesday.

The Attorney-General read a majority report on the proposed laborers' license bill, referred on the 17th inst.: Hon. W. R. Castle, President of the Legislature, Sir: Your select committee to whom was referred bill No. 120, "Relating to the License of Laborers," beg leave to report that they have considered said bill, and are unable to agree upon the question whether said bill, if passed, would contravene the Constitution.

Your committee are of the opinion, how Your committee are of the opinion, however, that the bill in question is impracticable and undesirable. It is proposed to confine it, in its operation, to "common laborers," but it contains no definition of the term "common labor" or "laborer," nor are your committee able to supply a definition of practical utility in the premises. Without such definition the futility of the bill is obvious.

mises. Without such definition the futility of the bill is obvious.

Unless we know who are "common laborers" we cannot know to whom the Act will apply. Even if a suitable definition of that phrase were supplied, the bill would still be open to the objection of an unjust and unreasonable discrimination against "common laborers." To discriminate against honest labor, and put it under the ban of the law, does not appear to your ommittee to be wise or statesmanlike. It has not been shown to, or discovered by your committee, that any similar dis-crimination against, or attempted regulation of common labor has found a place upon the statute book of any foreign state or country. While taxes, regulations and licenses in various forms have been im posed upon occupations as various in this and other countries, they are usually sus-tained upon one of the following grounds, viz., as revenue measures, for the purpose of prohibiting such occupation, or to regu-late such occupations as are, in their nature, or may be dangerous or mischievous to society or to the state. In no other place, we believe, has it been seriously asserted that the occupation of common labor" is one of such mischieyous tendencies as to require restrictive legislation. There is a lack of consistency in a policy that would forbid a man the right to exercise the God-given privilege to pursue " common labor" without a license while it professes to deplore the prevalence of idleness and vagrancy among those who depend upon "common labor" as a means of subsistence.

This bill is undeniably an anti-Chinese measure, designed to secure a more effec-tive police control of that race within our borders. But your committee feel assured that no restrictions of this nature can be effective (even if constitutionally and other wise unobjectionable) as against Chinese without being made so severe as to serious ly curtail, embarrass and obstruct the or-dinary liberties of the citizen, as known and enjoyed by the Anglo-Saxon and the Hawaijan.

Your committee have diligently sought a practicable substitute for this bill, in the form of an Act to provide such a scheme of registration, apart from a license system. But no such system, we conceive, could be of utility as a mode of better controlling the Chinese in the Kingdom, except it should embrace features of such severity, including the necessity of photographing as a means of identification, as would render it intolerable to the Hawaiian, American and European resident. The conclusions reached by your committee are that it was impracticable to pass useful legislation upon this subject, owing to the existence of constitutional inhibitions upon legislation which shall apply to the Chinese alone. We therefore recommend that the efforts of the Legislature be now directed to the securing of such an amendment to the Constitution as will permit restrictive legislation; within safe limits, against the Chinese, apart from the rest of the community.

In addition to thus amending the Constitution, we recommend that the Chinese Restrictive Act of 1887 be amended in some important particulars, to facilitate its workngs, and prevent, as far as practicable, the influx of strange or unauthorized Chinese upon our shores, pending the adoption of such amendment. Your committee are informed, that, in addition to the return Chinese permits regularly issued from the Foreign Office prior to the taking effect of the Chinese Restriction, March 1st, 1888, there have been issued and sent abroad, by a dishonest official of that office, a large but unknown number of such permits, and that about 900 of such permits, stolen from the Custom House in Honolulu during the past year, after being once used, but left uncancelled, are still abroad, and your committee think it desirable to further legislate to prevent the use of these permits by holders to whom or for whom personally they were not issued. If the Chinese are already too numerous in the Kingdom, is it not the part of wisdom to exclude from our shores all who are not, in the strictest sense, entitled to land thereon? As the Restriction Act now stands, there is no absolute prohibition, in terms, upon the landing of Chinese unprovided with permits, no vessel is made responsible for the penalty for the illegal introduction of Chinese upon such vessel, and the penalty for illegally attempting to land is now so low (being only $50) as to operate as a premium upon violations of this law. Many Chinese are not only willing but anxious to secure entrance into the Kingdom by paying a fine of fifty dollars.

We submit herewith a bill to amend the Restriction Act upon the lines above sug-

We further recommend that bill No. 120 be laid upon the table.

Respectfully submitted,

Following is the minority report on the same subject: Hon. W. R. Castle, President of the Legis lative Assembly. Sir:—As a member of the Select Committee to whom was referred Bill No. 120, relating to licensing laborers, I beg to differ with the report prepared by the majority of the Committee.

It is an easy matter to criticise and con demn the Bill, and descant upon the diffi-culties which surround the whole subject and to declare that nothing can be done in the premises. I admit that the obstacles to be overcome are great, but am not willing to abandon the attempt to do some thing to facilitate arriving at a solution of the question. The question relates to regulating a large element in the population and subordinating it to wholesome laws. In view of the provisions of the constitution which forbid class legislation, it is very difficult to adopt measures which will adequately deal with the class referred to and at the same time not be objectionable to other classes for whom such measures are unnecessary.

But as a preliminary step, a system of registration will be of value.

The Bill as presented was recommended for consideration, and is an effort to accomplish something in direction of controlling the class in question. Some of its provisions seem very objec-tionable, and therefore I have made some amendments to the same and return it herewith as amended. The chief amendments are as follows The law is to apply only to males over eighteen years of age; the charge for the license is removed, the provision requiring a photograph of the person licensed is stricken out; and Section 4 is stricken out With these, and a few minor amend-ments, I recommend that the Bill pass. As amended it is practically a registra-tion Act; the license is virtually a certifi-

As a police regulation, it is a wholesome law. It will, if properly enforced, pro-vide a means of identification far in advance of any means heretofore in force. As a revenue measure, it will, without doubt, prove profitable; for the additional taxes recovered, through the identification of those who have heretotore successfully evaded taxation, will far exceed the expenses of the registration.

cate of registration, and the penalties are not excessive.

While it cannot be contended that the proposed method is without objection, it is worthy of trial. I therefore recommend that this amended Bill be received and considered. Respectfully submitted,

Education of Foreign Children.

MR. EDITOR: I notice in the GAZETTE and other papers that a great deal is being done to improve the school system of this country. This is a thing which needs changing or improving as much as anything, and the sooner it is done the better for all parties.

As things now stand the white workman has no facilities or means of educating his children, and for this reason a great many poor men have had to leave here, and go to some country where the means of educating them is in the reach of all. It is not only true that a great many have left already, but equally true that a number are about to leave for the same reason. Many of these men did not wish to leave, but they saw a large family growing up in ignorance, and they were prepared to sacrifice their own interest for their children's good.

It may be asked why they do not send their children to the Government English schools. This can easily be answered. In the first place, they do not believe in mixing the different races, and in the second place they find their children learn more of evil there in a single day, than it is possible for them to learn of good in ten years. If any one doubts this statement all they have to do is to pass through any of the country districts and they can learn for themselves that the children of mechanics and the better class of workmen are growing up without any education excepting what little their mothers can teach them. Now it is a question whether anything can or will be done to remedy this subject. Something ought to be done for these children, everyone must admit. Then why is nothing done? Does it matter nothing that a great number of the most useful men we have are constantly leaving here because they can find no practical and safe means of educating their families? Does it matter nothing that in case they do stop here their children must grow up in ignor-

This is an important subject, and I consider it anything but creditable to members of the Board of Education, as well as to the committee of education in the Legislature, that nothing is done for these children. If $140,000 is to be spent on education, why not some schools be opened that shall be used exclusively for these white children? There are enough them; and this could be done without much expense, as there are plenty of rooms that are suitable for this purpose and could be got for little or nothing.

The thing is practicable and can be done, being only a question whether justice should be done the white working people or whether they are to remain in a more hopeless state than ever be-OBSERVER. fore. Spreckelsville, Aug. 23d.

The opinion of the full Court, signed by all the Justices except Dole, is rendered in sundry exceptions on behalf of the defendant, in the King vs. Geo. W. Macfarlane, conspiracy, tried before Justice Dole at the April term, 1888. Exceptions are all over-ruled. The Court sustains the manner of selecting the jury, quoting both the statute and judicial authorities. It is in the discretion of the Court to excuse any or all jurors summoned in the regular panel, and the Marshal, or officer charged with citing new jurors, may select men from "the circuit at large" and not only from the "bystanders." Other exceptions overruled by this opinion were against certain rulings and instructions of the presiding Justice at the trial.
