Current Topics.

(By Oscar Brenton.)

The disappearance of five hundred and twenty dollars, coin of the realm from the post office safe is not going to end with the repayment of the sum by Joe Kubey, the assistant postmaster and the last person to handle the money officially. While the matter has only just become known to the public the disappearance occurred on the third of July, the money having been sent by the postmistress at Leilehua. It is a rule that when money, funds of the post office department, is transmitted by one postmaster to the nearest first class office, a printed slip containing the divisions and description of the money so sent is filled and mailed separate from the coin package. In this instance the money, I believe, was mostly in coin and the official slip containing the count was put inside the bag. The money arrived here by the late evening train and was receipted for by the night clerk and by him turned over to the representative of the registry division and a receipt taken.

A half dozen men handled the package, with four other packages and the receipts are regular up to the time Kubey got it. Package numbered five is missing. There the trail ends and Kubey was called upon to pay the money which he did. He says he remembers leaving the safe open one night and it may have been the night the money bag was inside. Nobody really knows but the man who took the money and he is modest about telling. Unfortunately Kubey has been associated with so many different little gambling scrapes that the officials look askance at him. He was mentioned, merely mentioned, in connection with the Jack Stayton, affair. But Stayton, though arrested for opening letters addressed to the post office inspector, was not believed to have been mixed in anything crooked. He gambled a few and was one of the boys but when the end came and the grand jury did not indict him, or the petit jury freed him, I do not recall which, his funds tallied to a dot with the books of the department and he married the girl of his choice and flew the coop. Now comes little Kubey in a mix that, to the officials, is beyond ken. His last escapade was with the bunch of customs inspectors caught gambling within the sacred precincts of the Customs House. Nothing doing as far as he was concerned, and this, connected with other events in the life of the young man, has caused his friends to remark on occasions that Joe could fall overboard in deep water and come up with his pockets full of gold fish. Meaning thereby that he is lucky. Perhaps his luck is with him still. The inspectors are saying nothing but they are doing a lot of timebiding. Detective Burns says that no man can commit a crime successfully to himself. In other words there is always a loose string that the man on the trail picks up. I have a hunch that Hare sees the string now.

A. B. MacElroy, persistent bum, has been called to his fathers. I had the pleasure of examining the records of the county jail the other day and proved by them that McElroy spent all but twenty-two days of the two last years of his life in the county jail on charges of vag-

Traction Engines

A New Departure In Engines Recently Brought to the Islands.

A traction engine that will plow over soft ground, jump ditches, and accomplish results at a minimum cost is something the plantation men of the Islands have been dreaming of for years. There are sections of Hawaii, for instance, where plowing is out of the question on account of the quaggy character of the soil. A soil in which one may stick a hoe handle the full length and not find bottom.

Kauai, too, has some land in which the "Caterpillar" engine will travel well as a motor car on a macadam road. Over on Kauai recently the engine was given a trial at jumping ditches. Mr. Waldron, of the Honolulu Iron Works Co., is authority for the statement that the ditch contained about two feet of water over an extremely soft bottom, and that the sides of the ditch were four feet high. The engine with no trouble to the driver, gently dropped its front wheel into the ditch and as gracefully "walked" to the other side.

The "Caterpillar," Mr. Waldron states, is made in Stockton, California, the Honolulu Iron Works Co. being agents for Hawaii. The engine has a powerful four cylinder motor, using distillate as fuel, its consumption of which is well below the rated standard. This fact speaks for economy in maintenance. The cylinders are seven inches in diameter, and the pistons have an eight-inch stroke. Four rollers supported by heavy steel brackets run on the chain on which are the "feet" of the engine. Virtually it lays down its own track as it moves.

"It will plow land in which mules can hardly walk," said Mr. Waldron in explaining the machine, "and for that reason it is invaluable on soft land. The first one tried on the Islands was at Hakalau, and it proved its worth the first day. We recently installed one at Kilauea, and the way it tackled almost impossibly steep grades and skipped over soft plowed land was wonderful."

Attractions at The Orpheum.

Ed. Fernandez announces that next Tuesday he will arrive with a vaudeville attraction, direct from the Orient which he will put on in a connection with his pictures.

One of the features he will put on is Castleman, the great hypnotist and mind reader. This artist no doubt, will create lots of fun showing his skill at hypnotizing, and mind reading.

Another of his attractions is Miss Montgomery, the clever comedy sketch artist. Miss Montgomery is reputed to be a graceful dancer as well. The vaudeville attraction will remain a few nights only, and together with the high class pictures which Mr. Fernandez will continue to show, should prove a fine attraction.

The Salvation Army.

The new Salvation Army Citadel is nearing completion, and the captain in charge of the work here, is planning a grand three days celebration at the opening, Sunday August 27. There will be a delegation here from Honolulu to assist. This building is creditable to the army, and shows the result of hard and honest effort on the part of Captain Zimmerman and his wife. The building will cost about $2500, all of which is paid excepting a small balance of $500, which they hope to raise in the near future. This is an institution which is deserving of the good will and assistance of all citizens.

The Latest In Sports

What the Wrestlers, Boxers and Baseball Artists Are Doing.

The eyes of fandom are now centered upon Pitcher Martin O'Toole and Catcher James Kelly, late of the St. Paul club of the American association, but now of the Pittsburg club of the National league. This famous battery cost President Barney Dreyfuss of the Pirates the cool sum of $35,000. Of this, $22,500 was paid for the pitcher and $12,500 for the catcher.

This fabulous amount breaks all records in baseball and the purchase of this battery recalls to the minds of the fans that sensation of more than 20 years ago when John Clarkson and Mike Kelly were bought by Boston from Chicago. Boston paid $20,000 for this famous pair, which stood as the record till the St. Paul deal was made last week.

Promising as their futures may look, it is doubtful if these youngsters will ever win the fame and the glory which Clarkson and Kelly reflected upon the great national game. They have their Ty Cobbs and their Christy Mathewsons and their Hal Chases now, but the veteran fans all shake their heads and declare that the baseball diamond will never again know two such men as Clarkson and Kelly.

Both are dead, poor fellows. Both died practically unknown and almost without friends. As a battery this Kelly-Clarkson combination never has been approached. They invented most of the tricks which all of the modern day stars are using to advantage and which some of the fans consider new.

O'Toole and the namesake of the wonderful old Boston and Chicago catcher are both youngsters. Up to the present season they were unknown outside of the league in which they played, but during the past three months each has been making such a wonderful record that they began to attract the attention of several of the big league teams.

They started in to bid for the services of this far heralded battery. The bidding opened up brisk and started to get more brisk every day. Finally every club save New York and Pittsburg dropped out and Pittsburg finally stole a march on New York by offering $22,500 for O'Toole. This offer was accepted and the deal for the pitcher was closed.

Then O'Toole began to get homesick. He wanted his old side partner and running mate Kelly, with him. Dreyfuss looked up the dope and discovered that O'Toole was not an effective pitcher unless he had Kelly to catch him. This started another deal and more bidding was in order. Dreyfuss again had the edge and he landed the backstop for $12,500.

Back in the National league the O'Toole-Kelly combination is known as the "billionaire battery." The youngsters have joined the Pirates and will be given their first tryouts within the next couple of days. Pittsburg is now right behind Chicago for National league honors, and Dreyfuss says that if O'Toole and Kelly win the National league pennant for him, he will consider that he got the battery at a bargain for $35,000.

How near the American came to winning the recent Harvard-Yale and Oxford-Cambridge games in England was told on the arrival last night of the steamship Canadian, which brought George E. Put-

Notes of General Interest From Outlying Districts.

On the 12th and 13th, within 24 hours, two deaths from drowning took place in the Haiku plantation reservoir situated a short distance below the cannery.

On Saturday, the 12th, a Japanese on horseback attempted to give his animal a drink (so the supposition is) in the reservoir which was but half-full of water, thus making the side quite precipitous. The horse losing his footing threw himself and rider into the water so causing the death of the Japanese who could not swim either from ignorance of the art or because he was disabled by the horse falling upon him. Later a Hawaiian named Kalaina seeing the wet animal wandering about tied it up and gave the alarm after the discovery of a hat floating on the water. The body was not found until 8 p. m., then the government physician Dr. McConkey and the police authorities investigated the affair.

On Sunday, the 13th, another Japanese, an employee of Tanaka's store of Paia, went fishing with a net in the reservoir which was full of fish. The finding of his clothes upon the bank and the discovery of the net in the water caused the gathering of a crowd of people eager to find the owner of the articles in question. Though many people swam through the reservoir in every direction the search was in vain. At length two Filipinos offered to find the body in return for the payment of $20, which task they succeeded in doing at 10 o'clock p. m.

The theory is that the man in swimping out to adjust his net was taken with cramps and lost his life as his cries could not be heard owing to the isolation of the place.

On the 14th, a party from Wailuku and Kahului departed upon an outing of several weeks' duration around East Maui via the crater of Haleakala. Those included are Dr. G. S. Aiken, Rev. Wm. Short, Rev. and Mrs. Saylor of Honolulu, Misses Aiken, Short, and Jakins, Mr. Thayer of Honolulu, and Bertram Aiken.

nam, the Oxford Rhodes scholar, who threw the hammer 151 feet 5 inches and won the meet for England. Putnam was secretly married to a New Orleans girl, Miss Claire Edwards, whom he had met abroad just before the meet. He intended to sail at once with his bride, but the illness of his mother prevented.

Then, knowing that his marriage would disqualify him as a Rhodes scholar and realizing that he would be held as a traitor in athletic circles in England if he did not compete, even against the men of his own country, he went into the meet and made the single point which won for England against America.

Ad Wolgast, champion lightweight pugilist of the world, can earn $1000 a round if he will, and he can name the limit of his earning power—can say whether he wants $10,000 or $20,000—according to Danny Morgan, Knockout Browns manager. Morgan says he is ready to guarantee this money and has $1,000 up as a forfeit that Brown will fight Wolgast.

"I'm so certain that Brown can whip Wolgast says Morgan, that I'm willing to match him against the champion in either a 10 or 20 round bout. I will guarantee Wolgast $1,000 a round for every round he fights Brown, whether it be 10 or 20. This is more money that Wolgast can obtain from any club or manager, and exceeds any sum he has been paid to date for a fight.

Reverse for the Kaiser's Diplomacy in Morocco.

CONTRARY to expectation, the tenor of advices from European chancelleries appears to indicate that Germany will recede from the position taken in Morocco, says the San Francisco Call. If this forecast is fulfilled the affair must be regarded as a distinct and unexpected reverse for German diplomacy. The sudden dispatch of German warships and their occupations of the harbor of Agadir on the west coast of Africa had all the appearance of a definite ultimatum, and if Germany recedes from that position it will inevitably be said that the retirement was due to the British threat of intervention on the side of France.

Perhaps it should be said that the kaiser's diplomacy is irritating and headstrong. The steps he has taken in Morocco were started without notice or any steps to feel his way, either at home or abroad. They appear to supply evidence that he still regards himself as absolute monarch by divine right, with full power to invite war without consulting his own people. It begins to be made clear that the German people, or a majority of them, are not hungry for new warlike adventures.

The kaiser must reckon with the strong party among his own people, classed under the general and perhaps misleading name of socialists, who appear to occupy the position held by the liberals of progressives of other countries. These elements everywhere all over the world want peace among the nations, and they realize that war is a game for kings and for those who sit in the seats of the mighty, while the burdens and the sufferings and the misery are the lot of the people. It may be laid down as a fact that there never was a war by which both parties did not suffer severely, and the world is coming to recognize this fact and is at length disposed to act on the obvious conclusion.

There seems to be a great difference of opinion regarding the most desirable location for a steamer landing on the lee side of the island. The great majority favor Maalaea Bay, while both Kihei and McGregors have their adherents. Each landing has its benefits and drawbacks. It seems that Maalaea Bay is the only place which would possibly be likely to suit all parties. Here crops up the argument that the appropriation is not available for Maalaea. Many favor Kihei in preference to McGregors, and it seems that with Maalaea Bay out of it, that Kihei could be made the most convenient to all points of the island. Another drawback to McGregors is the impossibility of ever getting a wharf where steamers could come alongside. As at present this landing is not only inconvenient, but positively dangerous. There has been a committee of the Chamber of Commerce appointed to make recommendations to the wharf commissioners, and it will be interesting to note just what they will recommend, or if they will dodge the issue altogether.

The contamination of the Wailuku-Kahului water supply was a subject taken up at the board meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last week. Few people realize that the intake pipe is not very far up the valley, and many people have been known to go up Iao Valley and bathe in the very water they afterward drank down in Wailuku. This state of affairs is serious, and while the Supervisors have posted notices forbidding bathing, still some other and more radical action should be taken to abate the nuisance. The public health is at stake and no citizen can afford to stand by and not raise his voice in behalf of pure water for Wailuku and Kahului.

They have another scandal down in Honolulu. This time it is Blanchard who is under fire. It is a newspaper man who is doing the charging, and for that reason if no other there should be an investigation. When a newspaper man makes a definite charge he comes pretty close to having the Indian sign on his victim.

The Dawn.

(By a Contributor.)

THE curfew tolls the knell of parting day"
(Or 'twould be tolling, doubtless, had we one)
The luna homeward wends his weary way,
(That is he does if all his work is done.)

"Now fades the glimmering landscape from our sight,"
We sadly say goodbye and watch it go,
Because how bitter, bitter dark the night
Will be when it is gone full well we know.

The old lamp-lighter with his ladder goes
From lamp to lamp, on duty bent, once more;
And now from each a smoking incense flows,
But still the world's in darkness as before.

Like fireflies in the gloaming are their beams,
Or distant stars that ever dimmer glow;
A Christian land is ours and yet it seems
We still must walk in darkness here below.

Yet there is hope for even such as we,
Benighted once of earth that blindly grope—
The welcome dawn of electricity
Is just at hand, so brothers, let us hope!

Remarkable Character

John W. Gates Was the Most Daring Speculator of His Time.

With the death of John W. Gates, better known as "Bet You a Million" Gates, passes one of the most interesting figures, one of the most daring speculators, one of the most remarkable characters that ever appeared in Wall Street. Like so many of the multimillionaires of America, Gates began life on a farm. He was born at Turner Junction, now a part of West Chicago, in 1855. After graduating from the little college at Naperville in 1873 he became part owner of a small hardware store and grain warehouse, and the following year married Miss Delora R. B. Baker of St. Charles, Ill. It was during this stage of his career that he met Colonel Ike Ellwood, which marked one of the most important epochs in his life. He hired out to Ellwood and started through Texas selling barbed wire. He made a great success of this work, but soon saw that the possibilities of the business were in the manufacturing line rather than in the selling end, and before long started the firm of J. W. Gates & Co. in St. Louis. The original investment was $20,000. The eight partners at the end of two years divided $175,000, and then Gates bought all out but one, his friend Clifford.

About that time some friend offered Gates a tract of land in Chicago. Seeing another chance, he bought the property, put up another mill and, with one that he already had in Pittsburg, planned to consolidate. In 1883 he lost one of the plants by fire. With the courage for which he was famous above all his business contemporaries, he was undaunted by this and proposed to William Edenborn, one of his former partners and later a successful competitor, that they combine. From this combination grew the American Steel and wire company, now one of the component companies of the United States steel corporation.

Gates was getting rich, but he found himself handicapped for lack of ready cash. Calling on J. P. Morgan, he secured a loan of $300,000, which loan later led to the formation of the steel trust. The inner story of this deal was revealed only recently at Washington before the investigating committee of the house. Gates admitted on the witness stand how Carnegie had been forced to abandon plans for extending his steel business, but who later received $320,000,000 in securities of the corporation for the interests he had formerly offered for $160,000,000.

The beginning of Gates' really big deals was in 1892. In one year he consolidated the Iowa barbed wire company of Allentown, the Brad-dock company of Braddock, Pa.; the Southern wire company, of St. Louis, the Baker wire company of Lockport, Ill., and the Lambert & Bishop wire company of Joliet, Ill., into the Consolidated steel and wire company, having a paid up capital of $4,000,000. Meanwhile he was secretly buying into the Illinois steel company. In 1898 he organized the Federal steel company and took over the Illinois steel, the Minnesota iron company and the Lorain company.

C. A. C. Play Today.

The Chinese Athletic Club baseball team arrive this morning from Honolulu. It is proposed to have a series of four games, three of which will be played at Kahului and one at Lahaina. This team is a strong one, and it was these players who first started the losing streak of the Keio's when in Honolulu. Efforts are being made to put a good strong aggregation of players in the field to represent Maui, and though there is no chance to get any semblance of team work, still they should be able to put up a good game.

The game today will start at 4 p. m. and on Sunday there will be two games, the first one at 1:30, and the second between the Chinese and all Maui Japanese, at 4 o'clock. The game at Lahaina Tuesday should be a good one, as Lahaina has the best team on Maui.

A PEASANT who was on his way home from market sat down by the roadside to count over his money, and when he found that he had been stuck with a counterfeit dollar he raised his voice in lamentation. He was still howling when a robber stepped out of the bushes and exclaimed:

"What is all this row about? Hand over your dough or take a broken head!"

The peasant complied very willingly and made haste to get away, but before he had gone far he was accosted by a second robber with a command to shell out.

"Alas, but I met a robber back there who took my all!" he replied.

ROBBER THREATENS THE PEASANT.

and after some delay to search his hind pockets he was allowed to proceed. It turned out, however, that both robbers were arrested, and when he had sworn against them and they had been found guilty and sentenced the first one cried out to him:

"See what you have done! Had you not had that counterfeit money in your possession I could not have robbed you of it and would still be looked upon as an honest man!"

And the second robber took up the refrain with:

"I am to go to prison for long years, and thou art to blame for it. Hadst thou had money in thy possession when I stopped thee I could have paid my car fare into New Jersey and been safe."

We Need a Little Less Faith In the Mighty Dollar

By Rabbi WISE of New York

TWO problems at least are involved in any consideration of the ethics of business, the matter of BUSINESS and the manner of its CONDUCT. It is not only the methods of business which are on trial in our own time, but the fact of business itself.

To make of business the end of life instead of merely a MEANS OF LIVING is in itself unethical. Some men say proudly, others half ashamed, "I live for business." The man who lives for business is unethical, howsoever his business be conducted. Man is not to live for business, though business be needed to enable a man to live. We have got to accept the truth of Henry Demarest Lloyd, who maintains that business is the STEWARDSHIP of the commissary department of mankind.

We could not for a moment forget, even if we would, that commercial integrity is the FOUNDATION of a noble people. So did England win high repute throughout the world of trade. Men, not bricks, make a city was true not only in the classic days, but is true today.

A LITTLE LESS FAITH IN THE MIGHTY DOLLAR AND MORE OF DEPENDENCE IN THE MIGHT OF MANHOOD IS WHAT AMERICA NEEDS IN OUR TIME.

America Is Suffering From Too Much Politics

By ISAAC GUGGENHEIM, Financier

THE coal land situation in Alaska is A SHAME and an OUTRAGE. It is an enigma to the rest of the intelligent world. I heard it much discussed in Europe. They cannot understand why we let such a VAST FIELD of national wealth lie IDLE and unproductive.

Nothing can be done so long as nobody is permitted to touch the coal. That necessary commodity costs $12 and more a ton in Alaska at present. It could be mined and distributed for $5 or $6 a ton.

With UNMEASURED MILLIONS of tons of coal in accessible parts of Alaska not an ounce of it can be touched by anybody.

POLITICS—POLITICS—THAT'S ALL THAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE UNITED STATES. IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE FOR SUCH A SITUATION AS WE ARE NOW FACING TO EXIST IN EUROPE.

A Few Don'ts For the American Girl

By Dr. MARY CRAWFORD, First Woman Surgeon in Brooklyn

THE American woman who wishes to be well should begin the battle for health in her teens, and her mother should help her. In the hands of the young girl lies the future of the woman. Food, clothes and exercise should all be designed to assist her development, not to retard it. For instance, no girl should be allowed to put on corsets before reaching the age of twenty, because they hamper her growth.

- A few don'ts which the growing girl would do well to notice are: DON'T wear French heels or tight dresses. DON'T lunch between meals. DON'T eat a pound of candy a day. DON'T fail to take a daily bath. DON'T stay up late nights. DON'T walk in thin, low shoes. DON'T fail to exercise outdoors every day. DON'T be afraid of work. DON'T grow up too soon.

Keep the Babies at Home

By Dr. HENRY D. CHAPIN of New York

THE moment a baby is taken from its home its growth and development show a steady LOSS. I don't believe an infant should go to an institution under any circumstances.

A FEW SURVIVE, BUT EVERY ONE LESS THAN HALF A YEAR OLD DIES.

I don't care how well the institution is managed; the results are the same. One reason for the great mortality rate in institutions for babies is the spread of INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

Baseball Last Sunday.

The least said about the fiasco on the Wailuku grounds last Sunday the better. It is deplorable that anything of this nature should have happened just when interest was being revived in the sport. The Puunene team came over here with the best intentions, but that they should have allowed outsiders to influence them so far as to leave the grounds, does not speak very highly for their sense of sportmanship. True, they had provocation, but that does not excuse them for quitting. Umpiring a ball game is a thankless task under ordinary conditions, but when a man undertakes the job who don't know how, as was the case last Sunday, there is sure to be trouble. There were a number of close decisions, and, urged on by the rooters the players were doing a lot of kicking, while the umpire was becoming more rattled every minute. Finally he gave a decision on a fly ball, which it was impossible for him to judge from where he was standing behind the pitcher. This caused the Puunene team to go up in the air completely. They were urged to quit by Billy McGerrow, who showed his lack of sportmanship, so uniformly found in every Japanese. Captain Larsen pleaded with his team to remain on the field and finish the game, but to no avail, and McGerrow had the satisfaction of seeing the game broken up.

It is to be sincerely hoped the Puunene boys will never repeat such a performance, and that if they desire advise they will accept it from sports and not pikers. We should like to see the Puunene boys play another game in Wailuku, and thus set themselves right with the fans, as they can play ball, and another game would be worth seeing.

Lloyd George's Ultimatum.

Below we give in full Lloyd George's speech, in which he unequivocally stands for a strenuous foreign policy:

"But I am also bound to say this, that I believe it is essential in the highest interests not merely of this country, but of the world, that Britain should at all hazards maintain her place and her prestige amongst the Great Powers of the world. (Cheers.) Her potent influence has many a time been in the past and may yet be in the future invaluable to the cause of human liberty. It has more than once in the past redeemed Continental nations, who are sometimes too apt to forget that service, from over-whelming disaster and even from national extinction. I would make great sacrifices to preserve peace; I conceive that nothing would justify a disturbance of international good will except questions of the gravest national moment. But if a situation were to be forced upon us in which peace could only be preserved by the surrender of the great and beneficent position Britain has won by centuries of heroism and achievement, by allowing Britain to be treated where her interests were vitally affected as if she were of no account in the Cabinet of Nations, then I say emphatically that peace at that price would be a humiliation intolerable for a great country like ours to endure. (Cheers.) National honour is no party question. (Cheers.) The security of our great international trade is no party question; the peace of the world is much more likely to be secured if all nations realize fairly what the conditions of peace must be; and it is because I have the conviction that nations are beginning to understand each other better, to appreciate each other's point of view more thoroughly, to be more ready to discuss calmly and dispassionately their differences, that I feel assured that nothing will happen between now and next year which will render it difficult for the Chancellor of the Exchequer in this place to respond to the toast proposed by you, my Lord Mayor, of the continued prosperity of the public purse." (Cheers.)

rancy. He would not work, in jail or out but he would booze—when he was out. The industrious "malfeasants" get three meals every day, those who will not work get scarce two. Mac would go on the road or in the parks for a couple of days and then fall down on the job and tell the jailor he wanted to be a "hobo," a term applied by the industrious bums to those who refuse work. As near as I am able to learn MacElroy had good health and enjoyed it. He was a man, it is believed here, who had during a portion of his lifetime enjoyed a reputation of which some would be proud. He had been educated but knocking around with men who had no aim in life robbed him of the English he once commanded. His death was due to a stroke of apoplexy experienced while in the jail. He never regained consciousness after the first attack and in two days he was dead. He was unquestionably the best known bummer in Honolulu. He was a joke to the police force and for a couple of years it was a rule of the department not to arrest him for drunkenness because it meant keeping him without a quid pro quo.

I have read two or three excuses for the members of the Outrigger Club not entering the aquatic sports events which were pulled off here on Saturday. They were trivial and, if I am correctly informed, away from the real point. Nearly all of the entrants were members of the club and were members of the other sporty organizations, principally the Hui Nalu. Now, a theory is that the youngsters are not too much in love with Ford, the promoter of the Outrigger Club. The organization has been presided over so much by Ford and his satellites that the little fellows seem not to be satisfied. For instance: Duke Kaimoku, who made a new amateur swimming record, happens to get his livelihood making surfboards and occasionally taking tourists canoeing at so much a head. According to the ruling of Ford this bars him from competing for the Clark cups, or anything else under the auspices of the Outriggers. This ruling drove some other members from the Outriggers to kindred organizations. There is no reason why the club should not have had the honor of winning Saturday's events through the efforts of its members. Some day, perhaps, there will be enough men among the members of the club to outvote Ford, or the men he has drilled to vote as he tells them. At present, while an organization that should have the backing of the public, it is too much of a one-man-one-rule affair to suit the young men.

Since the crusade on the mosquitoes started the pests have been real pests. There is more pleasure sitting on a bee hive than in a chair on a Honolulu veranda these moonlit nights. Personally I have no hope that the section of the islands where I live will be rid of mosquitoes. Nay, not even if Ex-Governor Carter were to be made inspector or in chief instead of James Rocks, the man who led the mosquitoes out of the canal zone. We have too much of an indifferent, cosmopolitan population for anyone to accomplish any good result. About half of the lots around town have litters of cans within sight of the garbage men who pay no attention to them and maybe it is not within their province to note such things. This may belong to the inspectors who fail to inspect. Complaint comes from persons who visit the fishmarket that the law providing that the markets shall be screened is openly violated there and in plain view of the inspectors on guard. Screens are so placed that flies have no trouble reaching the meat and stuff exposed for sale. This being the case I am surprised that the citizen committee on sanitation does not use the stick and put an end to it.

I am told that the young man on Maui who was recently indicted for a statutory crime is apt to feel the weight of the law. The lady who went into the discard together with her two children says she will have justice or pelf and the latter does not seem to come forward. Better dig and be good.

The ground for the Carnegie Library is to be broken today. I fail to understand the plan. I was under the impression it was to occupy the lot once owned by the late J. A. Hopper at King and Likelike Street but the fact that a slender school house has been removed from the back to the front of the lot I am obsessed with the idea that the one hundred thousand dollar building is to be given a place on a lot behind the schoolhouses. This is out of place and I would recall the fund, if I were in Carnegie's shoes.

For the life of me I cannot remember the name of the society, with headquarters in Washington, and composed by ladies, but the object of it seems to be the enforcement of respect for the uniform of the United States soldier and sailor. Recently the president of this society began proceedings against the proprietor of a restaurant in Washington, D. C., who refused permission to a couple of soldiers who wished to be served in his place. I love the ladies whose aim is to force respect on anything belonging to, or representative of, the United States, but I think the dear souls slipped a cog here or are ignorant of the lack of respect shown by fifty per cent of the enlisted men who come to Honolulu on transports, to the uniform worn. It occurs to me that the mission of the ladies in this instance should start off with the education of the men in respect to their actions when in uniform.

On Sunday I saw a goodly number tanked to the hilt, and they were in uniform. I saw fifty or more coming along King street from the direction of Palama and each laden with pineapples from which the tops had been cut. Some men had them tied in handkerchiefs others in sacks and others, again, wrapped around with their belts. I marvelled at the number and the uniform cutting but did not associate the soldiers with a raid on private property. Now, it transpires, the men had raided the cars of the Hawaiian Pineapple and Hawaiian Preserving Companies and looted against the protests of the watchmen. It is reported by the officials of the companies that upwards of two carloads were stolen by the soldiers in uniform.

It is the fear of rough house that compels a proprietor of a hotel or restaurant to say nay to the private soldier who wishes to be served in a place where respect must be shown and consideration given other guests. I believe it is as necessary, in a community invaded by strange soldiers, for divisions in the cafes and saloons as there is to separate the sheep from the goats elsewhere.

Soldiers, and sailors, are all right in their places and the people feel grateful for the good they have rendered their country in time of war but when they come ashore from a transport they are entitled to no more privileges than any private citizen. If they take them they court the same punishment. The society in Washington had better get back to its tating.

E. P. Irwin, the local "Josher Bluffem" of the press, has charged Food Inspector Blanchard with incompetency and with protecting the Dairymen's association in that he attempted to keep from sale here a quantity of cream imported from the mainland by a firm in which Irwin's brother is associated. Irwin produces statements which, if confirmed, will go far toward discrediting Blanchard as an official. But they do not surprise those who have followed the course of Blanchard since he has been the analyst for the territory. During the cholera fuss, and the tabu on poi, he made an inspection of the shops and came out in an interview which, though quite untrue in fact, was destined to injure the machine-poi business of the Waterhouse Company. Being so wide of the mark one of the officers of the company called upon Blanchard and demanded proof that the factory was "as bad as the rest of the shops." Blanchard failed to make good and presented a modified statement that was satisfying to the makers of machine poi. It seems that in the present instance he was ready to draw back his statement that the cream sold by the importers was carrying preservative in greater quantity than the law permits. It is said he admitted he had made a serious mistake and added that the cream was good. The Dairymen's association, it would appear, would like to build up a trust in violation of the Sherman law and just there Irwin will fight. He is a forcible writer and were he in a position to express his views in a print that had widespread circulation there is no doubt in the minds of his friends that he would make the owners of the electrocuted milk plant dizzy. The fact is the cows of Honolulu do not supply cream in sufficient quantity to suit the demands of the public. Hence the importation of refrigerated cream. It is good stuff and has all of the butter fat needed for any purpose. Raising the standard for the teachers in this territory has its advantages—for the service and drawbacks for teachers. Then, too, there are some advantages for the teachers who win. An average of eighty for some of the country teachers is pretty high and I doubt if all can reach it. Those who do not get sufficient points to win out will have to get married. Those who do will have, practically, a life certificate and may remain single.

Canada's New Governor General.

Arthur, duke of Connaught, who will go to Canada as governor general, is one of the most popular men in England today. The popularity of his brother, King Edward, seems to have fallen to the duke. During the coronation, when he was much in the public eye, the duke was picked out oftener than any other member of the royal family and always given a hearty reception, the cheering on many occasions being greater than that for the King. Like the late king, the duke of Connaught has the faculty of putting people at their ease. While every inch the prince, he mingles freely and always has something friendly and jovial to say. He is recognized as a soldier of no mean ability, and was applauded for his action in refusing to remain in the position of commander in chief of the Mediterranean, a place more social than practical. He is a soldierly looking man and appears much stronger than any other member of his family.

The appointment as governor general was the idea of King Edward, who requested the duke to take it some time before his death. The duke is sure to become as popular in Canada as he is at home. Diplomatic and democratic, he is just the man for the place, and it is hoped that his appointment will put an end to the movement for absolute independence, which some people in England believe is spreading in Canada.
