of course with the approval and advice of the Ministry. If they confess that they all not understand the law at the time. is might be gathered from late remarks in the Ministerial organ, that would corre spond with the prevailing public impres-sion, which accounts in a measure, for the ncreasing desire for men in the executive who will and can understand what they are doing.

We find upon further examination of the records of the Legislature that Mr. S. B. Dole and Mr. Frank Brown were also on the Currency Committee, and that Mr. Dole presented a minority report, Mr. Brown signing the majority report. These additional facts do not weaken our arguent, that the currency law was a qu dministration measure but rather tends

We understand that the members of the Chambe f Commerce are prepared to undertake to accept and circulate silver certificates above ten dellars of Commerce are prepared to undertake to accept and circulate silver certificates above the distan-denomination as equivalent to gold, if the Govern-ment will undertake to deposit a margin of six-teen per cent on all silver coins held against san certificates:

Frowided, however, that the treasury will make the provision for the redemption of the certificates in gold on serue definite and reasonable terms.

It appears to us to be at the very foundation of any system that the bolder of a certificate should have absolute confidence in his ability to get gold, in an emergency, for his paper. We therefore suggest that the Government undertake that, in the event of the gold in the treasury being ex-hausted, they will pay, within a definite time from presentation (say sufficient to enable the Govern-ment to procure the gold.) all certificates in gold. As a check upon indiscriminate withdrawal of gold we would propose that all applications for redempsion of certificates in gold be maid, so far as practicable, through one or two houses—my leason & Co., and W. AUTO TO THEIR PROPER MANAGEMENT owing remarks and suggesti DUBEAU OF IMMIGRATION.

Honolulu, February 25, 1880.

Suggestions as to the management of Japanese contract servants and Jaboress:

1. The Japanese landed bare from the City of Tokio are all tenant farmers, and have not heretofore been laborers in the ordinary seare of the word. The same system of tenant farming in voges in Germany and in the Cuttral Kingdom evists in Japan. Most of those nem have had thair farm-holdings in their families for over 220 years, stiginally given to their forefathers as rewards for military services during the Revolution of 1628. These boldings they transferred, when leaving Japan, to their younger bridhers, or to other members of their families, to be held for them in trust. If they like Hawaii, and find them.

them in trust. If they like Hawaii, and find the selves well treated, their intention is to remi-ners with their families. Men of this stamp—s lish temant-farmer, will find that during rains or a other times of emergence, they will work many hours beyond the contract time, if it should be asked of them, without extra compensation: and they will be found withing to repair his bouse or their own quarters in extra hours for anyons they like (being, almost all of them, practical, ordinary corporators.) Kind words and deeds, and kind-mess to their children, will bring out that layalty which is inherent in the Japanese tenant-farmer.

2. Quarters.—In rooms of the size required by the Hawaiian Statute law, two Japanese families (consisting of two men and two women, with their children), or four single men, can live comfortably, or they will be willing to live all together in one or two large rooms of proportionate size. ably, or they will be willing to live all together in one or two large recens of proportionate sine. They do not require any furniture or beds or bedding, but if they are given some boards they will make she'ves or bureaus for their clothes.

3. Coomiss.—Each family, or two single men, will require a space of four feet square for cooking. This must be under a wooden shed, protected on the rainy side from the wother. They have their own cooking stensies. They will scoop out spaces in the ground for cooking, and should have some stones provided for them. They will also require firewood.

4. How Warks rea Barsing.—A smooly of new on at all, but was recommended to the

No doubt the remaining 199 men and 31 women will be willing to do the same.

6. Livias on Fourness.—The employment of Japanese as louns over their fellow countrymen and women is recommended, and the dispensing with all white men or natives in that capacity. The Japaness have elected for thruselves one head man for each coupany of from ten to twenty-five. Those so elected are perfectly competent to act as lanes or foremen, are honorable and trustworthy, and while overlooking the others will work themselves, requiring no extra compensation unless the employer sees it desirable to give it.

AYER'S Sursuparilla is a medicine that, during nearly 40 years, in all parts of the world, has proved its effi-ciety as the best blood alterative known to medical science.

SARSAPARILLA (extracted from sansaranilla the root of the genuine Honduras Sansaparilla) is its base, and its powers are enhanced by the extracts of Yellow Dock and Stilingia, the Iodines of Potassium and Iron, and other potent ingredients. Is your blood vitiated by derangements of the digestive and assimilator functions? is it tainted by Scrofula? or does it contain the poison of Mercury or Contagious Disease?

THE leading physicians of the United States, who know the composition of ATRE'S SARSAPARILLA, say that nothing else so good for the purification of the blood is within the range of pharmacy. ONLY by the use of this remedy is it ONLY possible for a person who has corrupted blood to attain sound health and prevent transmission of the de-structive taint to posterity.

A Proper Course of Procedure.

Exceptions, New Trials, and Appears, as following new rule has been promulg be Supreme Court for the guidance of cou-A.—Explanatory of Section 896, Civil Code: A.—Explanatory of Section 886, Civil Code:
Every exception taken in the progress of a jury trial to any order or ruling of the Justice presiding must be pat in writing by counsel before the close of the trial. All such exceptions, the effect of which, if sustained, would be the granting of a new trial, or the entry of judgment som observe wraters, must be embodied in a bill of exceptions and prescuted to the Justice before the final adjournment of the term.

Such bill of exceptions should embody such portions of the evidence as is essential to the full inderstanding of the case. Costs must be paid, and a bond to secure farther costs must be filed at the time of presenting the bill of exceptions.

B.—Explanatory of Sections 1,156 and 1,156, Civil Coole:

All exceptions to the verdict, as being contrary to the law and the evidence, or the weight of evidence, and a motion for a new trial on this ground, must be made at the time of the rendition of the verdict, and before the jury are discharged, and noted by the 'leck on his minutes.

If this notion must be perfected within terrdays, by being put in writing by counsel, and paying costs and filing a bond for costs to accrue, and if made by a defendant against whom a verdict has been rendered, a bond not to dispose of his property, as required by Section 1,155, Givil Code, must be filed. Argument on this motion may be made before the sustice who presided at the trial, on his minutes.

Mauritius, formerly the Isle of France, and still loved to be called Mocher side de France by the Creoles of the island, is, as most people with only a limited knowledge of geography know, a small island in the Indian Ocean, situated about five bundred miles to the eastward of Madagnesar.

With the exception of knowing its whereabouts, and that a certain amount of sugar comes from there occasionally to this country, it is pretty will an unknown lamb to the majority of the world's inhabitants. The first land sighted generally, after a long weasy overage in making Mauritius, is lake Ronde, or Round Island, which appears on the horizon, as like to a haystack as possible. On nearing that point Gabriel, Serpent, Flat Island, and the purent island Mauritius open out, forming a most beautiful panoramic view. The mountain peaks and pinnacles, form and riven asonder by the convulsions of former ages, have a most picturesque appearance; and well may the Mauritius love their fittle island home, and almost bear starvation rather than leave it.

The statistics furnished by Lloyds concerning the wrecks during 1884, show that as a usult of the absence of stormy or hurricans scatter, there were 411 less actual shipwrecks eported than in the year 1883. But although he shipping disasters have not been so disastrous in consequence of weather influences, other causes have been on the increase—viz., losses by collisions. These are alarming in the manner they multiply year by year. The number of disasters by this cause during the year is nearly 200, against smaller numbers in previous years, and of those during last years sunk by this cause over 120 resulted in ectual loss. More than 130 British vessels were sunk by collision, the majority being est off the coast of Great Britain, but some o these latter were recovered. The total actual shipwreeks were 1580, representing 776 Britis. vessels. Off the coast of England, Scotland and Ireland, 359 went down, of which 322 were British owned. The previous year 522 vessels went down off the British coasts, o which 411 were British vessels. The figure given below ahow a decrease throughout for th last five years, which is explained by the ex-ceptional weather during 1881. England's Sources of Revenue England collects customs on but fiftee articles, and these are chiefly articles which she does not produce, so that the tax is strictly for revenue and not for protection, going into the Treasury and not into the pockets of individuals. England's revenue from import duties, which amounts to about 20 per cent. of her total venue receipts, is raised mainly from the tariff on spirits, tobacco and tea; and she collects about one third of her revenu from the excise, a tax which the protect-ionists in this country are so anxious to abolish. Honolulu, February 24th, 1885.

Upon Consular authority it is asserted, that is economical and commercial circumstances the economical and commercial circumstances of the island of Cubs, from 1881 down to the beginning of 1881, have taken such an unfavorable shape, that without exaggeration, general ruin may be predicted. Any single one of the several causes of decay would be sufficient to stop the forward development of the island. The civil war of ten years, the sufficient to stop the forward development of the island. The civil war of ten years, the high rate of labor after emancipating the slaves, and chiefly, the retrocession of the sugar industry, these three are the main causes of the impending disaster. Colonial sugar, as is known, has received a shock from the competition of the bestroot industry, which enjoys each year greater perfection and facilities in manufacture. This reason com-pels Cuban sugar planters to stop producing, because it does not pay. Five-sixths of the export of Cuba is sugar. This explains the magnitude of the crisis in 1884. Those signs magnitude of the crisis in 1884. Those signs of wealth that formerly struck the visitor to the island, owed their origin to the sugar industry. At present the European markets are virtually closed to Cuban sugar. In the province of Puerto Principe the production of sugar has ceased completely, in that of Cuba it is strongly affected, and in Santa Chara it is near its cessation. The dues on sugar pro-duction consist of two per cent of the net production commat of two per cent of the net pre-fits of a plantation, aix per cent municipal dues, and the export duty of about $4 per bocoy of 1,400 pounds. The duty is estimat-ed equal to thirty per cent of the net value. From 1874 to 1883 the production of sugar shrunk from 681,000 tens to 460,397 tons; the ton, according to the quantity taken, and the result of the combination has proved highly beneficial to the shareholders of the various companies. The agreement is working admi-rably, and the severe competition which pro-vailed in several districts has been checked and higher rates established. Considerable quantities of dynamite are exported from Eu pe to the United States and Canada, and actically the trade is for the present at least sofined to Great Britain, Germany, France Italy and Spain. The trade is, however, in its infancy, and in course of time it may be expected to cover a wider area and to assume much larger dimensions.—Braistreets.

Geselshaft, of Prague, Austria, that this institution, one of the strongest banks of Austria, was about to fail, and that the only reason of their calamity was the large advances made by them to beet sugar factories and to beet sugar farmers. Inasmuch, as I have lately seen a cable-gram announcing the failure of this bank, I need not have any hesitation in giving the above details now. Let the Louisiana planters raise more cane to the acre, better nice in their cane, and extract all the juice they harvest, not invertany of the sugar in their sugar houses, and they can compete as sugar producers with the world. The manufacture of dynamite, though of com-paratively recent origin, has assumed the proportions of an important industry, and a large amount of capital is invested in it. For blast-ing rocks and ores the new material possesses many advantages over gan-powder. Its distinguishing properties are great power and rapidity of action, and by means of is many operations can be performed that were formerly difficult or altogether impossible. By an agreement which was recently made by the dynamite companies of the United Kingdon meet near Billingsgate, the gentleman will attend and arrange a match.

of our markets is a small quantity of fat, heavy bacon, which has been held ever since last season with no purchaser, whereas this market could have sold twenty tons more Berkshire bacon had they possessed in the description of the form of the possessed in the description of the form of t he way of copyright and sales.

"America" was written by Rev. Samuel francis Smith in 1832, and was first sung in Boston on the Fourth of July of that year.

By this market could have sold twenty tons more Berkshire bacon had they possessed it. The advantage to the farmer in raising the Berkshire is that it always commands the Berkshire is that it always commands ready sale at the highest market price, and it will mature in a year, while other breeds time comes. it will mature in a year, while other breeds time comes.

in Boston on the Fourth of July of that year.

"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," was written by Thomas a'Becket, an English actor, who, in 1879, was a teacher of music at Philadelphia.

The tune of "John Brown's body is tying in the Grave" is of Methodist camp meeting origin. It was adapted to its present use by an organist in Harvard Church in 1861.

"Woodman Spare that Tree" was written by George P. Morris, because the purchaser of a friend's sesate wanted to cut down a tree which his grandfather had planted. His friend paid the buyer $10 to save it. Morris was touched by the story and wrote the song.

For "Kathleen Mayourneen," Crouch, the author, received $25 for its production, and afterward became a begging tramp, while his publisher could have built a brown stone front out of its sales.

The Star Spangled Banner" was written by Francis Scott Key while watching the bombardment of Fort MeHenry, in 1813. The song was printed in the Baltimore American eight days after the battle, ander the title of "The Defense of Fort MeHenry" "Home, Sweet Home" was written for an opera by John Howard Payne. It was of the animal.—Exchange.

ing about Gordon's downfall, if the story publishers had cleared $10,000 from it.

"Maryland, My Maryland" was written by James R. Randall, of Washington, who is a modest looking, flark complexioned nam of 40. He was very young when he wrote that beautiful poem. His ideas are broader now.

"Hail Columbia" was written by Joseph Hopkinson, in the summer of 1798, and it was first called the "President's March." It was always sung when Washington came into the theater, and one of the objects of its writing was the cultivation of a patriotic sparit among the people of the new Republic.—N. Y. Graphic.

A sarcoplagus with four face urns has been recently found at Garzigur, near Koslin (Pemerania), and has been sent to the Antiquarian Museum of the Pomeranian Antiquarian Society at Stettin. A similar discovery was made last year at Klein
Barkow (another Pomeranian village.)
Round one of the urns was placed a bronze necklace, consisting of a stout bronze wire supporting eight so-called specificle spinals as ornaments. Prof. Berndt has proved in his work on Pomeranian face
urns that they are really of Greek origin, when with careful distinction the siner | M. INUMPOUR, ATTURNET AT LAW, going about the town they noticed that they were followed everywhere by a beautiful spaniel, of which they at first took no notice. Attracted however, by the animal's persist-ence, they looked closely at it and found that round its neck was a small padlocked box, with an inscription asking for alms for some poor schools. The professors are assured that poor schools. The professors are assured that the dog recognized them as tourists by their clothes, and as therefore likely to give wil-lingly. However this may be, M. Fontaine drew a penny from his pocket, and was about to put it in the box; but the dog prevented this by holding its head down over the opening, and, soixing the coin in its mouth with great and, seizing the coin in its mouth with great quickness, ran away. A few minutes later they passed a baker's shop, and saw their collecting friend scated on the counter, and apparently enjoying to its heart's content a loaf which it had purchased for the penny! This premarkable story seemed to the editor of the Revue Scientifique to need confirmation, which was supplied by the following terse note from professor Porchon, the other witness: "I add my evidence with much pleasure to that of my friend M. Fontaine, with regard to the Inverfriend M. Fontaine, with regard to the Inver-ness dog. I saw it refuse to allow a penny to be put in the box it carried, and taking the coin in its mouth, get on the counter of a ba-ker's shop, there depositing it and getting a loaf in exchange."—Pall Mall Budget.
