The Boat Collision.

The following is Capt. Rice's statement to the Minister of the Interior, of the collision with the pilot boat, February 14th, outside the harbor, a brief notice of which appeared the harbor, a brief notice of which appeared in the GAZETTE of the 15th instant:

To His Excellency L. Aholo, Minister of the Interior—Sir: I regret to have to report that a collision occurred on Monday, the 14th instant, between the steam tug Eleu, under my command, and a whaleboat belonging to Capt. Babcock, a pilot of this port. I was proceeding out of the harbor taking provisions to the whaling bark Ohio, which was lying outside, and when near the bark Josephine, also lying outside, Captain McDonald wishing to speak that vessel, I approached her, and as I ran close to the starboard her, and as I ran close to the starboard quarter of that vessel, the whaleboat came around from the port quarter and I did not discover her, my attention being given to the ship I was nearing, until too late to stop the headway of the tng, which collided with the boat, damaging the same considerable and capsizing the occupants into the sea. I sincerely regret this accident, and its nearly fatal effect to those in the boat. But I feel that it was an unavoidable accident, that the best of care could not prevent under the cir-cumstances. I feel it my duty to report this matter to Your Excellency, and also beg to submit herewith the evidence of Captains Lapham of the Josephine and McDonald of the Ohio, which is voluntarily given in my

Your Excellency's obedient servant, JOHN RICE, Capt. tug Eleu.

We, the undersigned, testify as follows in the matter of the collision between the tag Eleu and Pilot Babcock's boat: We were just leaving the Josephine and rounding the stern, found the tug close upon us, and the accident occurred and was unavoidable, as they could not see us until too late to change their course or stop their boat. And I, Captain McDonald, also testify that I was on the tug Eleu at the time the accident occurred. curred on the way to the Ohio. We were desirous of speaking the Josephine, which vessel was directly on our route to the Ohio. Just as we were close to the Josephine the pilot's boat shot out from under the stern and the collision occurred before we could stop the boat or alter the course. It was simply under the circumstances an unavoidable accident. E. B. Lapham. H. W. McDonald.

Witness: A. W. PIERCE.

Resignation of Pastor Cruzan. At Fort-street Church, at the morning service, Pastor Cruzan read the following letter from the pulpit : To the officers and members of the Fort-street Church and Congregation:

Dearly Beloved: I hereby resign the pas-torate of the Fort-street Church, my resigna-tion to take effect at the close of my sixth year of service-September 1st next.

As it is my desire to sail for America at the beginning of my annual vacation, I present my resignation now in order that you may have ample time to arrange for a successor to take up the work at once on my In this connection I wish to express the heartfelt gratitude and appreciation of my wife and myself for the love which has ever marked your treatment of us; for your cordial co-operation and help in our work for the Master; for your large-hearted liberality in material things, and for the charity with which you have over-looked our short-comings. We never expect to find a more indul-gent, loving and thoughtful reople than you have been. In return we have tried faithfully to serve you and our Master, and to build up this church of Jesus Christ.

You will always have a large place in our hearts, and we shall not cease to pray for this church where six of the best years of our lives have been spent, that God's blessing may abide upon it, and that His favor and prosperity may rest not only upon the church as an organization, but also upon each worshipper before her altar.

I remain, yours, with regard, J. A. CRUZAN. Honolulu, February 19, 1887.

Wreck of the Selina-

The Selina, Capt. Matson, arrived at Hilo on Friday, Feb. 11th, 12 days from San Fran-cisco, with a full cargo of merchandise, cows, mules, hogs and six passengers, but on com-ing in the harbor just at dark, was cast upon the rocks under the high bluff 1/4 mile from the Wamaku Sugar Hill and became a total the Wamaku Sugar Mill and became a total wreek. By a miracle almost, the passengers and all on board were saved, but they had to be drawn through the surf, and helped up the almost perpendicular bluff over 180 feet high, to terra firms; and then conveyed by four and horseback over the worst possible of foot and horseback over the worst possible of roads—mud almost waist deep, for at least half a mile to a place where carriages could be taken. The following were the passengers of the ill fated brig: Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Burt of the Hilo Boarding School, Mrs. Geo. Paty and child of Hilo, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Gillen, Miss Low of San Francisco and Mr. McChesney of Honolula.

The anchors were both cast out when it was found that the Selina was drifting, but both chains parted and a sudden squall threw the brig apon the rocks a ship's length from the strand, with the breakers dashing foriously strand, with the breakers dushing foriously over the ship, at dark—6.30 p. m.

The first idea of accident to the Selina that any one at Hilo had was when the whistle blew at Wainaku, but it was so dark that nothing could be seen, save the rouning to and fro of lights on the shore. Soon after a gun was fired as a signal of distress and followed by a second one which told the Hiloites that there certainly was trouble and needed help.

For some days the surf had been very high and as the Selina came along it was found that her passengers could not land at the wharf, a loat—the club bost—went off to the Selina and the Custom House officer, Mr. Awai, took passage, in it. After the Selina anchored, it being about dark, the Club boat left and pulled for the shore which they reached with a boat full of water the boat full of reached with a boat full of water at about seven o'clock. The Hiloites had sent for boats to Wanakea and issued an order from Judge Lyman to call on all the vessels in the harbor for help. An attempt was also made to get the little steamer Ivy Holmes for help but her machinery was out of order and could not be repaired. All Hilo was astir. Soon word arrived that Awai the Customs officer had jumped over board and swam for the shore, but the task was more than he supposed and after being beaten about by the waves he was draged ashore more dead than alive, and was brought into Hilo to his home. For two hours all on board were being wet and thrown down by the waves that constantly dashed in fury over the vessel, throwing down all who attempted to stand. In time ropes were rigged from the shore to the ship and the passengers and crew, one by one, dlawn through the breakers to the shore, when they were cared for by willing hands. By ten o'clock the ship was entirely deserted. During the night the sea went down considerably, and an attempt was made on Saturday to save the freight on board. The passengers baggage was all re-covered, but in a wretched condition, everything soaked with water and a great por-tion of it ruined. The live stock, such as had not been killed by the falling mast and by the water, were taken through the breakers to boats lying some distance off-for no boat dare come near the wreck—and those conveyed to Hilo. Before the animals were all off, the ship was found to be on fire, the slacking lime having capgut the kerosene in the bold, and when the hatch was taken off the flames burst with in fury. The hatches were replaced to try and smother out the fire and the hogs on deck were thrown overboard to make their own way out through the breakers where they were corralled by boats, captured and taken to Hilo.

By Sunday morning, a hose pipe had been found and a flume built to the edge of the bluff and water was poured into the ship and the fire was subdued. On Monday morning, the brig Selina was sold at auction with everything on board for the benefit of whom it may concern for one hundred and ten dollars, Mr. J. A. Soott being the purchaser, who at once set about get-ting out the fire and saving all that by every

On Tuesday morning, the Selina was again found to be on fire which required much work to subdue. But little can be saved from the wreck except in a very much damaged condition.

They were stationed to watch the wreck of the Selina on Friday night and to prevent all stealing but instead of doing their duty they at least seemed to connive at the thieving. Portuguese, and natives seemed to vice with each other as to whom gould steal the most. Passengers, baggage was taken as well as other things. Cases of goods were opened and taken away. Natives were found wear-ing the apparel of the passengers. Hundrads of dollars worth of property were taken by these thieves and yet not an arrest

The Boat Collision.

The following is Capt. Rice's statement to the Minister of the Interior, of the collision with the pilot boat, February 14th, outside the harbor, a brief notice of which appeared in the Gazette of the 15th instant:

To His Excellency L. Aholo, Minister of the Interior—Sir: I regret to have to report that a collision occurred on Monday, the 14th instant, between the steam tug Elea, under my command, and a whaleboat belonging to Capt. Babcock, a pilot of this port. I was proceeding out of the harbor taking provisions to the whaling bark Ohio, which was lying outside, and when near the bark Lose. lying outside, and when near the bark Jose-phine, also lying outside, Captain McDonald wishing to speak that vessel, I approached her, and as I ran close to the starboard quarter of that vessel, the whaleboat came around from the port quarter and I did not discover her, my attention being given to the ship I was nearing, until too late to stop the headway of the tug, which collided with the boat, damaging the same considerable and capsizing the occupants into the sea. I sincerely regret this socident, and its nearly fatal effect to those in the boat. But I feel that it was an unavoidable accident, that the best of care could not prevent under the cir-cumstances. I feel it my duty to report this matter to Your Excellency, and also beg to submit herewith the evidence of Captains Lapham of the Josephine and McDonald of the Ohio, which is voluntarily given in my |

Your Excellency's obedient servant, JOHN RICE, Capt. tug Eleu.

We, the undersigned, testify as follows in the matter of the collision between the tug Eleu and Pilot Babcock's boat: We were just leaving the Josephine and rounding the stern, found the tug close upon us, and the accident occurred and was unavoidable, as they could not see us until too late to change their course or stop their boar. And I, Captain McDonald, also testify that I was on the tug Eleu at the time the accident occurred on the way to the Ohio. We were desirous of speaking the Josephine, which vessel was directly on our route to the Ohio. Just as we were close to the Josephine the pilot's boat shot out from under the stern and the collision occurred before we could stop the boat or alter the course. It was simply under the circumstances an unavoidable accident.

Wreck of the Selina-The Selina, Capt. Matson, arrived at Hilo on Friday, Feb. 11th, 12 days from San Fran-cisco, with a full cargo of merchandise, cows, ciseo, with a full cargo of merchandise, cows, mules, hogs and six passengers, but on coming in the harbor just at dark, was cast upon the rocks under the high blaff ½ mile from the Wamaku Sugar Mill and became a total wreck. By a miracle almost, the passengers and all on board were saved, but they had to be drawn through the surf, and helped up the almost perpendicular bluff over 100 feet high, to terra firms; and then conveyed by foot and horseback over the worst possible of roads—mud almost waist deep, for at least roads-mud almost waist deep, for at least half a mile to a place where carriages could be taken. The following were the passangers of the ill fated brig: Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Burt of the Hilo Boarding School, Mrs. Geo. Paty and child of Hilo, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Gillen, Miss Low of San Francisco and Mr. McChesney of Honolulu.

The anchors were both cast out when it was found that the Selina was drifting, but both chains parted and a sudden squall threw the brig upon the rocks a ship's length from the strand, with the breakers dashing furiously over the ship, at dark—6.20 p. m.

The first idea of accident to the Selina that any one at Hilo had was when the whistle blew at Wainaku, but it was so dark that nothing could be seen, save the ronning to and fro of lights on the shore. Soon after a gun was fired as a signal of distress and followed by a second one which told the Hilo-ites that there certainly was trouble and ites that there certainly was trouble and ites that there certainly was trouble and needed help.

For some days the surf had been very high, and as the Selina came along it was found that her passengers could not him at the wharf, a Boat—the club boat—went off to the Selina and the Custom House officer, Mr. Awai, took passage, in it. After the Selina anchored, it being about dark, the Club boat left and pulled for the shore which there boat left and pulled for the shore which they reached with a boat full of water at about seven o'clock. The Hiloites had sent for boats to Wanakea and issued an order from Judge Lyman to call on all the vessels in the harbor for help. An attempt was also made to get the little steamer Ivy Holmes for help but her machinery was out of order and could not be repaired. All Hilo was astir. Soon word arrived that Awai the Customs officer had jumped over board and swam for the shore, but the task was more than he supposed and after being beaten about by the waves he was draged ashore more dead than alive, and was brought into Hilo to his home. For was brought into Hilo to his home. two hours all on board were being wet and thrown down by the waves that constantly dashed in fury over the vessel, throwing down all who attempted to stand. In time ropes were rigged from the shore to the ship and the passengers and crew, one by one, drawn through the breakers to the shore, when they were cared for by willing hands. By ten o'clock the ship was entirely deserted. During the night 'he sea went down considerably, and an attempt was made on Saturday to save the freight on board. The passengers baggage was all recovered, but in a wretched condition, every-thing soaked with water and a great por-tion of it ruined. The live stock, such as had not been killed by the falling mast and by the water, were taken through the breakers to boats lying some distance off-for no boat dare come near the wreck—and those conveyed to Hilo. Before the snimals were all off, the ship was found to be on fire, the slacking lime having capgut the kerosene in the hold, and when the batch was taken off the flames burst with in fury. The hatches were replaced to try and smother out the fire and the hogs on deck were thrown overboard to make their own way out through the breakers where they were corralled by boats, captured and taken to Hilo. By Sunday morning, a hose-pipe had been found and a flume built to the edge of the bluff and water was poured into the ship and the fire was subdued. On Monday morning, the brig Selina was sold at anction with everything on board for the benefit of whom it may concern for one hundred and ten dollars, Mr. J. A. Scott be-

means could be saved. On Tuesday morning, the Selina was again found to be on fire which required much work to subdue. But little can be saved from the wreck except in a very much damaged condition. On Monday morning Anwai, the Customs

Clerk, was about hunting up the shipwrecked passengers from the Selina, demanding from each the two dollars hospital tax, the fee required to enter this Kingdom.

What are the Hilo police good for?
They were stationed to watch the wreck of the Selina on Friday night and to prevent all stealing but instead of doing their duty they at least seemed to connive at the thiering.

Portuguese, and natives seemed to vice with each other as to whom could steal the most. Passengers, baggage was taken as well as other things. Cases of goods were opened and taken away. Natives were found wearing the apparel of the passengers. Hundreds of dollars worth of property were taken by these thieves and yet not an acrest.

Escape and Recapture.

A prisoner named Lais, a Panama negro, escaped from the prison gang while working at Makiki, on Wednesday afternoon, and on Thursday morning a telephone message was received at the Station House, stating that the prisoner had secured a sword, and was making things lively for the Chinamen residing in Makiki. A posse of police was sent out to recapture Lais, whom they found putting his sword in order for work. As soon as the police put in an appearance, Lais made a furious onslaught on them, felling one of the officers to the ground and felling one of the officers to the ground and another receiving a severe cut on the thumb before Lais was captured and bandcoffed. The prisoner was also roughly handled in his capture. He was lodged in the Station House. Lais was originally convicted of vagrancy, and was in for six months' servitude. The Marshal is of the opinion that Lais is partially insane, and will have him examined on this point before resuming his serviture. The officers received the Marshal's reward of $25.

VINNA, Jan. 24.-Although the Bulgarian situation has improved, the military prepara-tions of the Austro-Hungarian Government continue unabated. In the event of mobili-mation four great armies will be formed, each corps having no less than 250,000 men. The commanders of these corps have already been designated. It is believed these gigantic preparations have been undertaken less from the fear of a war with Russia concerning. ing Bulgaria than with the view to a contingency of war between France and Germany, which would cause additional Eastern com-

Prince Bismarck, the despatch says, promised the Pope a complete absolution of the May laws in return for the Vationn's influencing the Centre party to vote for the Septennate. To this proposition the Pope responded that he was mable to interfere, but that he had caused the leaders of the Cutholies to know that he would be pleased if members of the Centre found voting for the Septennate consistent with their political duty.

The impression created by the re-bearsal was not oper-favorable. The music is not up to the standard of Sir Arthur Sul-livan. As a whole it is largely commonplace. Gilbert's dialogue in the first act is here and there very amusing, but in the second it is slow and tedious. As a spectacle the work is a great success. Effect of High License-

The high license law in Missouri seems to have been a success. Four years ago there were 0,901 liquor saloons in the State, which produced a revenue of $547,830. Now there are 2,880 saloons, a decrease of 771, or 30 per cent, and the revenue from them is $1,842,206, an increase of over 300 per cent. The lowest license fee is $550, and the high-ex $1,560. The Opening of Parliament-The Queen's Speech.

Lesson, Jan. 27.—At about 8 o'clock this porning the members began to arrive in the House of Commons, so as to secure good seats. The scenes at the opening of Par-liament were duller than those which usually attend this event. The crowds about the building showed little, if any, enthusiasm, and the members were evidently uncertain as regards the future. Gladstone reached the House at 4:30 o'clock. He was greeted with great enthusiasm on his way from his residence. Parnell entered the House and reached his seat unobserved.

After the formal opening of Parliament, in the presence of the Peers and Commons, the Queen's speech was read from the Throne. It is as follows:

My Lords and Gentlemen: My relations with

My Lerds and Gentlemen: My relations with all foreign Powers are friendly. Affairs in Southeastern Europe are still unsettled, but I do not apprehend that any disturbance of European peace will result from the unadjusted controversus which have arisen in that region. While deploring the events which compelled Prince Alexander to retire from the Bulgarian throne, I have not judged it expedient to interfere in the proceedings for the election of his successor until they reach a stage at which my assent is required by the Berlin Treaty.

The task undertaken by my Government in Egypt has not yet been accomplished, but substantial advance has been made toward the assumate of external and internal tranquility. Operations at Burmah have been conducted with bravery and skill, for the purpose of exierpating the bilgandage which has grown during the recent years of miscovernment. The bands of maranders by whom Upper Burmah has long been infested have been dispersed; many of the leaders have laid down their arms, and I entertain confident hopes that a general pacification of the country will be effected during the present season.

My Lords and gentlemen, the condition of Irciand still requires your anxious attention. Grave crimes in that country have happily been nare in the last few months than during the similar period of preceding years, but the relation between the owners and occupants of fand, which in early autumn exhibited signs of improvement, have since been seriously disturbed, in some districts by organized attempts to incite the latter class to combine against the fulfillment of their legal obligations. The efforts of the Government to cope with this cril have been seriously impeded by difficulties incident to the method at present prescribed by the statute for dealing with such offences. Your early attention will be called to proposals for reforms of the legal procedure, which seem necessarily to secure the prompt and efficient administration of the criminal law.

The speech excited little interest.

The Parnellites, after the reading, held a conference and discussed the advisability of offering an amendment to the address in reply to it. They adjourned without coming to a decision.

Messrs. Longmans have published relume which will be read far and wide, and quoted everywhere. Sir Francis Doyle, who is not only a poet and a wit, but a great authority on horses and horseflesh strange com bination is now seventy six, and has known most of the famous men of the century. MR. GLADSTONE'S GEEAT SPEECH AT THE OXFORD UNION.

Doyle's reminiscences of Oxford are patron saint. of course, extremely interesting. "The great cratorical effort of my time," he says, "was Mr. Gladstone's speech against the first Reform Bill at the Union." I may add that the debate as a whole being the outgrowth of genuine passion and an excitement shared by all, was better than the average. Most of the speakers rose more or less above their ordinary level, but when Mr. Gladstone sat down we all of us felt that an epoch in our lives had occurred. It certainly was the finest speech of his that I ever heard. During the debate he noticed an enthusiastic "old gentleman with white hair," and soon found out who he was. While the Reform debate was going on some earnest Ty ang Tory had denounced Lord Grey of a his colleagues as a vile crew of the had hardly finished. the summer term, with the boat races

SERMON. Here is a story of Mr. Gladstone, who used to take Sir Francis off to hear the University sermon: One afternoon I looked up and discovered, not without a glow of triumph, that, although the reverend gentleman above us had not arrived at his "thirdly," my menter was sleeping the sleep of the just. "Ho, ho," said to myself. "no more two o'clock sersame for me." Accordingly, on the Castle, he would have given him a very next occasion when he came to pension for life." cerry me off, my buswer was ready: No thank you, not to day; I can sleep just as well in my armenair here as at St. Mary's."

and Cambridge friends, naturally enough thought them headaches and it was made clear that his life had been a long struggle against incurable organic disease. A severe bout of influenza weakened him, and while he was travelling abroad for change of air, and to recover his strength, one turned upon him without warning. while he was still unfitted to resist it; so that when his poor father came back from a walk through the streets of Vienna, he was lying dead on the write his letters, and it was only by certain anxiety, in consequence of Arthur's stillness and silence, dawned upon his mind; he drew near to ascertain why he had not moved or spoken. and found that all was over. * * a He was cut off just as he was gaining the mastery over a deep original intellect, and bringing his great facul ties into harmonious combination.

A BEERFERING ENDERGRADUATE. Cotton, an Oxford contemporary of Doyle's, insisted on keeping bees. One But I him plainly that his bees must be cons away, because a gentleman com specimer had just been stung in Tom Quad. He ceptied instantly: "Mr. Dean. I assure you that you are doing us a great injustice. I know that bee well; he is not mine at all, but belongs to Mr. Bigg, undergraduate."

HORSE BACING IN 1824. Sir Francis Doyle is a great authority on horseflesh, and the undergraduates of 1824 were evidently as devoted to the turf as those of 1886. From the racing at York in 1824, (Says Doyle) I derived an impression never to be effaced that our present horses have been for many years gradually deeasing in point of stamina and endurance. These funcies of mine, I know, lead the worshipers of Admiral Rous to look upon me as a fossilized old fool; I return the compliment by looking upon them as a set of racing tradesmen who only care for our national sports as a trade. To them the superiority of our English thorough breds as one of the elements of Engthe horse that wins them the most motey they have no other criterion did him no harm, this double trial was considered to press on Carnival somewhat unfairly. In 1800 such an effort would have been so wholly in accordance with the ordinary routine, that the busiest of humanitarians would not have busied himself to wag a tongue on the horse's behalf, while in 1884, if the Rousites will find me an animal who, after galloping four miles in seven minutes and forty seconds, and running his antagonist to half a head, will be ready to face fresh opponents on the next day after, over the same distance at the same rate of speed, I will imitate Charles Greville's example and offer up a silver horseshoe at the shrine of the handicapping Admiral's patron saint, if he have a

A STORY OF THE IRON DUKE.

Here is one of some stories of the Duke of Wellington. This particular one was handed down to Doyle by his father, who was dining at Apsley House: "After the battle of Talavera I (the Duke) wanted the Spanish force to make a movement, and called upon Cuesta to take the necessary steps, but he demurred. He said, by way of answer, 'For the honor of the Spanish Crown I cannot attend to the directions of the British General, unless that British General go upon his knees and entreat me to follow his advice. Now I wanted the thing done, while as to going down upon my knees I did not care a twopenny damn, so dawn I plumped."

CARLYLE AND CLEAN SHIETS.

Here are a couple of stories of when up jumped my patriarch (it was Carlyle, in one of which he got decidedly the worst of it. He once be, gan abusing Lord Falkland: "Puir, meeserable creature, what did he ever do to be remembered among men!" "Well," replied Murphy, a brilliant Irish barrister and friend of the sage. "at least he put on a clean shirt to be shot in, which is more than you would

CARLYLE AND THE PRISONER. The second shows the other side of Carlyle's nature, and tells how he sympathized with an old scoundrel found guilty of some theft or other. There were at least twenty convictions recorded against this gentleman, and when these were read over in succession, he acknowledged, as one who saw the game was up, their truth with sub-lime indifference. When the magis trate asked him whether he had any thing to urge why judgment should not be passed against him, he an swered thus: No, gentlemen, no; least said is soonest mended.' These words went straight to the heart of the great silence-monger, and all the way home he kept muttering to him-self. 'Least said is soonest mended; least said is soonest mended; poor fellow, poor fellow!' I feit convinced at the time that if the result had been left in Carlyle's hands, instead of des patching this veteran pilferer to York

A NEW ANECDOTE OF SYDNEY SMITH. It is natural that Sir Frances, a wit himself, should appreciate wit in others. Here is a new story of Syd ney Smith; During all this time he As a boy he had suffered at intervals | kept me roaring with laughter, till my serious headaches. His Eton sides ached as if they were about to split. His inevitable and irresistible flood of fun rolled over me like a catnothing more, but when the end came aract, never ceasing, never slackening, never varying its pace for an instant. Most of the conversations, as in the case with all the finest and wittiest talk, have effervesced away forever. As for Sydney Smith, he is great in many ways in repartee, in quotation, of his usual attacks apparently, re- in easy banter-but his typical form of wit was a fanciful form. He fixed before you a scene or situation in some picturesque or original grotesqueness, and then took your breath away by his Indicrous exaggerations. As for sofa where he had been left to take a instance, when he lamented the sucshort rest. Mr. Hallam sat down to cessful intrusion of the Methodists into ordinary life, and then compared slow and imperceptible degrees that a their victims to the Puritans on the watch against Claverhouse and Dal siel. "I shall live," he said. "to see four elderly gentlemen playing at long whist on the hills with scouts on the look out for dragoons."

THE GOOD OLD DAYS OF THE P. B. What will Jem Smith, Sullivan, Mitchell, and other heroes of the P. R. of 1886 say to this story, which was told to Doyle by a parson who had been in the Hussars: As you may suppose, sir, while in the Hussars my life was very much the same as the life of other young officers. Among other things, I became a favorite pupil of the late Mr. Jackson's; you have heard of Mr. Jackson, sir! Now, at Eton, though not equal to Shrewsbury men in the manipulation of Greek participles, we are strong in our knowledge of Boziana, so I answered him CLAIMS PAID - . . $88,714,000 without a moment's pause, "Of course I have; why he beat the Jew Mendoza in ten minutes." Then his heart warmed to me at once, and he replied, True, sir, as you observe, he beat the Jew Mendoza in ten minutes; and, as I told you just now, I reckon myself to have been his favorite pupil." On arriving at my post, I found my parishioners in a thoroughly barbarous condition. One of their habits was that the women, stripped to the waist, with their hair cut short, had to fight pitched battles in the public house, their husbands giving them knees, according to the accepted rights of pugilism. I resolved to put a stop to the practice, and a contest having been arranged between two renowned land's greatness is perfectly indiffer-championesses, I stepped into the ent; to most of them the best horse is arena and forbade it. From the beginning, the Equitable has been the pioneer in all reforms affecting the security, convenience, and advantage of policy holders. It was the first company to issue incontestable policies; the first to make such policies payable immediately, instead of after the delay of a stipulated number of months; the first to simplify the policy contract, and remove from the business technical and confusing complications; the first to apply the Tontine principle to life assurance; the first to issue a policy guaranteeing the payment of the entire reserve and a full share of the accumulated profits to each policy holder at the end of a stipulated period the first to introduce the Semi-Tontine policy, which, in addition to all the ultimate advantages secured under the Tontine system, is "non-forfeiting," and has a surrender value during its earlier years.

THE news from Manna Los appears to point to another outbreak of lava. The flow this time seems to have commenced at or near the source of the 1881 flow. The fact that Judge Hitchcock and a party have started up the mountain on a fifty mile ride and climb, shows that they, at least, be heve that the flow is really running. and that it is a sight worth spending time and trouble to see. A savine of $30 a day is supposed to be made on board the Kaimilon by employing the Reformatory School boys. A far greater saving would have been made, if the precious old tub had never been purchased. At the rate improvements are being made as required by law -the 28th day of January. On her, there will be very little of the 1887 at the clock a. w., being set for a hearing at | Original $20,000 worth left when she puts to sea. But then there will be $30,000 worth of new stuff, and for that those who are fitting her up will doubtless be thankful. We doubt whether the general public, who will have to foot the bill, will have the same sense of gratitude. As to the saving made on the boys, that is extremely problematical; it is the kind of calculation which we would expect an inexperienced housekeeper to make. It reminds us very forcibly of the young woman who took up her residence in a certain quarter of New York because peacock's feathers were cheap there, though provisions were decidedly dear. She made a saving on peacock's feathers. The Reformatory no longer supplies itself with food, its support now has to come en-tirely out of the pockets of the noble and generous tax-payers.

> THE official publication, printed at the establishment of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, might give some useful information were its proprietors so inclined. We see headings for the Court, the War Office, the Naval Department, the Foreign Office, etc., but we see nothing of the Board of Health. Information from official authority on these points will be valuable, and as the tax-payers will have to pony up for the support of the official Gazette, they ought to get some satisfaction for their money.

Ir is currently stated that Mr. Kaulukou is a candidate for election to the vacant constituency of Wailuku at the election next Thursday. We can hardly believe this to be possible. Mr. Kaulukou resigned his seat for Hilo upon his appointment to the position of Attorney-General. But he has no more right to a seat as Mar shal than he had as Attorney-General. The Constitution is decisive on this point. It says:

> THE future of Hawaii is not bright. We are not building up; and our seven years of plenty have about come to an end. By persistent and foolish borrowing we have been enabled to stave off the evil day, and the new loan, contracted in England, will doubtless help the Government to keep affoat a while longer, but the day will come when the loan has to be repaid and there will be nothing to repay with. The spendthrift possessor of the Hawaiian estate has been cutting down the timber pretty freely, and one of these days it will be as bare as the palm of one's hand.

> Rulers who really had the future well being of the country at heart would have devoted themselves heart and soul to putting the country on a solid foundation, but no foundation has been laid. We have any quantity of tinsel pasted against rotten planks. but not a brick has been laid which will make the structure last.

Of laws for the benefit of the future of Hawaii, we have more than enough. the trouble is that the laws have not been properly carried out. Take for example the "Homestead Act," it is practically a dead letter. The Minister of Interior has not yet "caused to be surveyed and laid out" any lots of land for the purpose proposed in the Act; nor have we yet seen in any language the "Homestead Notice" which the said Minister ought to have published. Through failure to carry out the provisions of this Act, many valuable immigrants, brought at considerable expense into the country, after serving a specified term as laborers on the sugar plantations, have and sought an opening in California not to be thought of.

It would have been far better to have spent money in making country roads, in sinking wells, and opening up lands, so as to keep our immigrants in the country, than to have frittered it away in vain show and tinsel magnincence. The money which has been fooled away would have established a couple of hundred families who would have been taxpayers from the start | very little use in waiting, as the genand whose property would have kept | tleman had expressed his intention of constantly increasing in value.

are indeed inscrutable. In the Ga-ZETTE of February 1st. we called attention to the laxity of coroners, and cited a number of cases in point. The event which called our attention to the matter was the hustling out of the way of the remains of the prisoner Ah Fat, who committed suicide during his dinner hour, and whose case was never officially enquired into. Perhaps few people thought the death of a Chinese prisoner was worth mak ing much fuss about. The old rhyme might be suitably altered to run:

Ratile his bones over the stones. It's only a Pely whom nobody owns!

At the same time we drew attention to the fact that inquests in all cases of sudden death, by accident or otherwise, were a duty owed, not only to the dead, in order to see no wrong had been done them, but to the living, in order to officially clear them of responsibility in the cause of death.

A little over three weeks ago an accident occurred on Kilanea plantation. resulting in the death of two men. This precious document, an official one be it understood, is written in pencil.

Mr. Kakina does not fall back upon the time honored formula, "the coroner did not consider an investigation necessary." Oh, no! He has struck out an entirely new line. He tries to shift the responsibility off his own shoulders. He throws blame on the plantation manager for not letting him know of the accident sooner. But he himself, sweeps away this excuse when, in the concluding paragraph of his letter, he gives permission for the bodies to be buried, thereby showing that he expected the bodies to be kept unburied till the return of the messenger. If the messenger could return in time, why not the coroner? But there is not really the shadow of an excuse, for the coroner's duty was to ge to Kilauea under any circumstances, no matter when he was summoned.

But Mr. Kakina had another excuse handy: the state of the weather. He was not going to plod twelve miles through the wet, and risk the chance of catching cold, merely to do his official duty. If "those foreigners" would go and get killed, they ought to have been more considerate of his, Mr. Kakina's feelings, and have managed to expire near his door; then armed with a rubber coat, a pair of goloshes and an umbrella he might have been able to investigate the matter. But a twelve quickly gathered up their belongings miles ride in the rain-oh dear, no,

And then a brilliant idea struck Mr. Kakina's mind. Mr. Lawrence could do the investigating himself and save Mr. Kakina all the trouble. He says, "If it comes to your understanding that they died by the bursting of the centrifugal, without doubt, let them be buried without waiting." From the first paragraph of Mr. Kakina's letter it is very evident that there was stopping at home. What would have happened had it not "come to Mr. of the little desire our rulers display Lawrence's understanding that the for making any real advance. A let- men had died by the bursting of the ter from an unbreeched chieftain of a centrifugal, without doubt?" That Mr. Macfie should be much annoyed at the conduct of the coroner is not to be wondered at. He has cleared himself and THE ways of the Hawaiian coroner his plantation from blame by his own statements, but a legal verdict would have been more satisfactory.

We hope that this exposure of the ways of Hawaiian coroners will have the desired effect, and that for the full ture they will be forced to their duty Men and women are hustled into the ground, constantly, without inquiry. Carry out the law, in this as in many other things, is all we ask of the Government officials; but they too often ignore the law; the example is shown them by the head of the Government; is it any wonder that the minor officials are only too ready to neglect their duties. In the case under review the men were Russian subjects, how are the Hawaiian authorities to give a satisfactory reply to the Russian Government should official documents be asked for? It is now five months since the adjournment of the Lagislature, and the passage of the appropriation for dredging Honolulu the appropriation for dredging Honolulu harbor, and yet there are no signs of the dredge being placed in active operation to remove the superfluous soil which has accumulated in the harbor. It seems that any work which is calculated to benefit the city, and indirectly the whole Kingdom, seems to be quietly ignored, or set aside to some more convenient opportunity—while such work as fitting up the Kaimiloa and other useless objects seem to be prosecuted with a vigor jects seem to be prosecuted with a vigor which would do credit to a more worthy object. Now that Honolulu is rising in importance as a port, with the prospect of additional lines of steamers of the largest class calling here in the near future, it would be a wise policy on the part of the Government to lose no time in deepening the harbor and dredging the bar so that the largest class of resging the bar so that the targest class of ressels might enter with perfect safety, and in doing so would disburse large sums of money, which would go far towards building up the prosperity of the city and making it one of the most prosperous ports in the Pacific. Should the Government evince the proper spirit in making the harbor available, there is no doubt but that all these decimals. there is no doubt but that all these desirable results, and more, would be realized and Ho-nolulu would be noted as one of the thriftiest commercial cities to be found.

There is another phase of the question which seems to be ignored by the Government—by vigorously useing the dredge—and that is the reclamation of the shoal portion of the harbor, by filling up this part with the soil taken from the bottom. Already a large portion has been so reclaimed, and to-day is has a market value which will more than cover the dredging expenses incurred, and all this land, and more too, will be required for the future use of the shipping which will

Let the Minister of the Interior, therefore, lose no time in setting the dredge and the mud seews to work at what will not only benefit the Government but the whole com-munity, instead of allowing this costly ap-partus to lie idle as at present, and when wanted for active duty at some future day to find that the dredge and appliances would require half their first cost to make them available for the purposes for which they were originally intended. Give the army and navy business a much needed "rest" and let there be some life and activity thrown into objects which will prove beneficial to all, and not contribute to the gratificatin or whim of one man alone. Let this of w. be thoroughly agitated, and perhaps the dired result may be attained.

Death of Mrs. Thrum. Yesterday morning Mrs. Elizabeth Wharton McPhail, wife of Mr. Thomas A. Thrum, departed this life, at the residence of her son-in-law, Hon. D. Dayton, Liliba street, at the advanced age of 74 years. For some time post the late Mrs. Throm had been an tovalid, and her dissolution was not altogether unexpected by her numerous friends. Mr. and Mrs. Thrum arrived here in the year 1857, and have continued to reside in the city ever since. Mrs. I. was the first Matron of the Sailors' Home, and managed it successfolly for several years, retiring with the ighest honors for her management. Soon after her arrival here Mrs. Thrum became a member of the Bethel Cource, then in charge of the late Rev. Dr. Damon, and up to the time of her death remained a stanneh ad-herent to the Christian faith. Besides being a kind and loving wife and mother, she was also a faithful adviser and Christian friend at not understand the art. It is not the first to all who had the pleasure of her acquaint-

Dayton, and Mrs. J. Gurney, of this city, besides two sons and a daughter residing in California. The entire sympathies of the community are tendered to the venerable Mr. Thomas A. Thrum and family in this sore bour of their affliction.

An Explanation.

HONOLULU, Feb. 19th, 1887.

EDITOR GAZETTE :- The letter of Mr. R. A. Macfie &r., in your issue of the 15th inst., regarding the centrifugal accident at Kilanes. ed me; I was not aware that he had written you an explanation of the accident till I read it in this paper.
I do not feel called upon to submit any criticism of that explanation, nor shall I enter into any controversary on the subject, but I must protest against the manner in which my name is made to do duty in Mr. Maofie's letter, the writer of which must have misunderstood me, if he supposed that the percentage of dry sugar obtained from "masse-cuite," at Kilanes, cutered into my estimate of the cause of the accident.

Yours Truly, ROBE, CATTON.

THE FLANEUR.

"On doit tonjours finner !" The Kahuna stock came up in the market, when it was announced on "change" last week that the old maintain at the Custom House had been "fired" by John. This se-cures John from the dreaded smans.

I hear that it is not unlikely that the Great Hawaiian White Elephant, (the Legislature) may be convened soon to consider questions of grave importance to the nation n of Pearl Harbor for instance. Won't this be a godsend to those worthy patriots, I mean the $500 part of the "bir" and how readily they will comply with the August

I hear that all the good looking fellows who can hula a little were getting new suits of clothes last week, and I tried to "ring in" on this lay, but it was no use. I was told they were not taking sasiihins yet-in fact they had not got so low as that. They were perfeetly willing that you should pay the taxes and put up the shekels and that sort of thing. but they were going to run all the "shows

Admiral Grisley, I hear is slightly Andu at my remarks about the Grand Admiral's suit being too large for him, and expresses him-self in strong terms against the author of that he. I am confidentially told that Grisey's suit will be ornamented with a corkscrew on the collar and sleeves—so he may not be mistaken for the Grand Admiral, and also that the "ammunition" will not be under My letter by the Zealandia from Ned was not as reassuring as I looked for. Ned says as long as the "small stores" last, things will be lovely—but he says "one can't do much with only fifty cases of champagne-it ought to have been at least one hundred and fifty cases of "sand-paper gin," and then I could have accomplished something hand Ned says those foreign Consuls just turned up their noses at him and he in turn looks down on them. He hopes the "Old Coffee Mill" will soon put in an appearance, and with her ammunition (sand paper gin), he thinks he can do some good. The "sand paper gin" ammunition, Ned says, is what

The new Appraiser had a set back last week, and he has not recovered from the effects of the shock—and he won't. It seems the Luna Pau Los of the Hale Dute has been under the weather, and just dropped round for his little stipend, and discovering this for his little stipend, and discovering this new appendage to the Custom House, exclaimed—"Holy Moses, where did that chap come from?" Upon being told that was the new Appraiser, John just turned green with rage, and "fired" this old fortune teller off the premises, and ordered "Iewk" to see that he did not allow this seventh son to rus ticate about the Custom House-no matter who gave him the billet. That's right John-run the "shebang" yourself.

I hear that as soon as the Conundrum is ready for sea, Colonel I Bottle will receive a "roving commission," and will proceed in this "Ballahoo" to take possession of real estate in the shape of Islands in the Pacific, which have not already been "gobbled" up. The Board of Geneology have I hear made important discoveries by going back several million years and says there are a number of beautiful Islands, which formerly belonged to this group and had drifted off, that want to be captured and brought back to their true allegiance. I think Col. I Bottle will be able to manage the business success-

I had a late letter from You Lie, of Christmas Island, and he says things are going from bad to worse down there. He also says the Grand Duke down there "heep sayey too muchee." You Lie says after he had written You Lie says after he had written his first letter, be called on the Grand Duke to see if he would return him some of the shekels he had "beat" him out of for the opium license. The Grand Dake just repudit ated the whole affair—saying he had returned the docats, and showed You Lie the receipt for $70,000. This broke You Lie all up, and to make matters worse, Kiyi, who was pres-ent at this interview, and backed up the Grand Duke in all he said, just turned round and laughed in You Lie's face. You Lie said "him allee same one rascal." Oh! there is ots of fun ahead down there, and when the Chinese war-ship, the Guyascutis, (three decks and no bottom) heaves in sight, You Lie says she will knock "smithereens" out of the old "dug-out" and make that Grand Duke and Kiyl step high—so high their feet won't touch the ground.—Oh, my! don't I wish Bliff, and I were down there to see the cotillon, and take a hand in the waltz. There will be some good pickings lying around loose, which might come in handy, you know.

I heard Friday that Admiral Grisley had been presented with a next case of ammuni-tion, which the willy Admiral viewed with suspicion, while visions of nitro-glycerine and dynamits flitted through his fertile brain, and just how to find out what the package and just now to mild out what the package contained was the perplexing question it might be a plot, you know to wipe out the brave Admiral, and thereby paralyze the great Hawalian navy, and perhaps tectotally annihilate the great Conundrum. Finally, one of the spectators suggested that the suspicious mackage he operated in ported that the Queen Emus building was being put in proper shape for meetings. The improvements were being domaied, and it was not likely that there would be any expense to the Association.

Well, the man went at the job with a smiling visage and a will and in a jiffey the lid of the box was off, and the spectators were admiring the contents with a visible smile, which finally assumed a broad grin, terminating in a loud explosion—of laughter. The Admiral, on hearing the ex-plosion, and knowing that the danger was past, suddenly appeared on the scene with grim visage-destitute of fear-determined to do his best in the matter, ordering the man to immediately throw the infernal ma-chine into the water before it went off at "half-cock." Here another explosion of laughter greeted the brave Admiral. Says the Admiral, "what the —bem!—are you all laughing of Merchant and gt—this is no laughing matter." The Seventh Day Adventists.

Mr. Cartis, who recently arrived in the in erests of this Society, opened the campaign on Thursday evening at the Hall on Fort street. The attendance was good and the lecturer's remarks were listened to with attention. The subject discussed on this oc-cession was the second coming of Christ, which the speaker proved from quotations from the Bible, and handled his subject with ability. Mr. Curtis disclaimed all intention of entering into a controversy with other denominations, relying solely on the Bible to prove the correctness of his conclusions. It is Mr. Curtis intention to deliver a series of addresses, on the doctrines advocated by the Seventh Day Adventist to which the public generally are cordiall invited to be present

Arrival of the Gaelie

OPPUM GALORE. The S. S. Gaelic, which arrived yesterday afternoon about 1 P. M., brought sixteen Japanese and two Chinese passengers. They will be put in quarantine until the Soard of Health comes to some decision. The Gaelic also landed forty packages of opium, valued at 20,000 taels, or about $27,-000. Hence these tears. The opium had been telegraped for from San Francisco. There will be a boom in opinm smoking now. Somebody has got to pay for the heavy bribe given to the grantors of the license.

Rumors

Rumors have been rife relative to the Custom House. The latest change told by the quidamnes is that Mr. Pratt is to take Mr. Kapena's place at the Custom House, and Mr. John F. Colburn is to replace Mr. Pratt. The truth of this is not vouched for. Mr. Pratt would no doubt make a good head of the Custom House, but he is a useful man to the public where he is. The public have confidence in him.

all lands (2 Chron. ix). The King bought a chariot in Egypt for 600 shekels of silver (about £90 sterling), and a horse for 150 shekels, or about twenty guineas (2 Chron. i. 17). Probably this was a state carriage of elaborate design and costly material, like our Queen's state carriage, and this horse in particular was of high pedigree. Whether the carriage was drawn by this one horse only is not recorded. But certain it is that it was a state carriage, and the horse an attractive animal for pa-

But it is with Solomon's silver with which we have now to do. King Da vid, it appears, prepared for the House of the Lord a thousand thousand talents of (crude) silver (1 Chron. xxii. 14), and afterwards for the same purpose seven thousand talents of refined effer (xxix. 4.). Almost every school child has read this, or has been told of it over and over again, od nausoun, without attaching any particular value to it. A few may have gone as far as to compare it with "a million of money," without in the least knowing what a million means. Here, it is true, we have a million talents of silver spoken of in a very ordinary way: and it is not at all surprising, inas much as it is implied that Solomon made silver common as stone in Jeru-

Taking a talent of silver as weighing 3000 shekels, and the shekel as worth three shillings, we make the silver talent worth £450, and a million talents therefore worth £450,000,-000 sterling. Now, adding to this large amount the 7000 talents of refined silver, which may safely be val ued at three million sterling, we have the enormous amount of £453,000,000. which would weigh more than 150, 000,000 pounds troy. Now, if we add this silver value of 453 millions to the gold value, say, 595 millions, we have the unprecedented aggregate of more than one thousand millions sterling as belonging to one man! "The rest of the acts of Solomon and all that he did, are they not written in the book of acts of Solomon?"

This vast accumulation of gold. after reading the Biblical history of it, does not surprise me very much; for if the kings and princes and tribes and peoples of extensive auriferous districts set to work with a will for fifty years to please Kings David and Solomon by golden gifts, it could have been much more easily done than now, for virgin gold in the rivers of Havilah and elsewhere, under similar conditions, would have held its own, uninfluenced by oxida: tion, for the longest period of imagination almost.

But the natural wonderment may be about the silver, for virgin silver is seldom or never to be found in run ning streams, and silver sulphides and other ores will oxidise in water or by exposure to air. Archbishop Usher, Lenglet, and others estimate that Solomon's Temple was founded at Jerusalem 480 years after the deliverance from Egypt, 1012 g. c., and solemnly dedicated Oct. 30, 1004 B. c. This gives us only about 3000 years to deal with, and during that period there is no historical evidence that silver was found with the same facil ity as virgin gold.

In fact, silver appears to have been a rarer metal than gold, and that gold took pre-eminence in value mainly on account of its durability. It is more than probable that silver ores were found 3000 years ago much under the same conditions as they are now found. There is no reason framed to the contrary. The inference, therefore, to be drawn is fairly this, that the smelting of lead and copper ore was rudely and rather extensively practised, and silver extracted therefrom more or less richly. We read that David preparal brass (copper) in abundance (I Caron. xxix. 7).

Earlier than this even we read of Zillah's son, Tubal-Cain, who was an instructor of every artificer in brass and iron. It was he, probably, who instructed his brother in-law Jubal, who was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ (Gen. iv.). Again we read in the Old Book, "He is like a refiner's fire;" and again, "He shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver " (Eal. iii.).

Now, anybody who knows anything about refining of gold and silver knows very well that the approaches to the refiners' furnace and cupellation must have been of long gradua-tion. In fact, the methods of refining the precious metals remain to the present hour very much as they were 3000 years ago 1

It is not my province here to say a word as to that beautiful simile. "He shall sit as a reamer:" but anybody who has watched his molten silver until he has seen his own face in it will readily perceive to what I allude. I can come to no other train of thought than that silver 3000 years ago was obtained from silver ores. If so. Solomon's pile points to extensive mining industry. - Industrial Review.

The Late Lord Iddesleigh.

Lord Iddesleigh, better known as Sir Stafford Northcote, was born in London on October 27, 1818. He reresired his education at Ballion Col. Alapai St., 24 door from Beretania. lege, Oxford, taking a first class in classics and a third in mathematics.

He was called to the Bar at the inner temple in 1847, was made a c. s. (civil division) in 1851. In recognition of his services as one of the secretaries for the industrial exhibition, and was Captain in the first Devon yeomanry cavalry, and a Deputy Lieutenant for the country. He was returned member for Dudley in the Conservative interest in March, 1855; was an unsuccessful candidate for North De-von in March, 1857; was returned for Stamford in July, 1858, and continued one of the representatives of the borough till May, 1866, when he was elected for North Devon: Sir Stafford Northeote, who was well known for cessfully. The the interest he had taken in art and education, was private secretary to Mr. Gladstone when the latter was President of the Board of Trade, and was financial secretary to the treasury from January to June, 1859. He was appointed President of the Board of Trade in Lord Derby's third administration in June, 1866, and was Secretary of State for India from March 8, 1867, till December, 1868. He was elected Governor of the Hudson Bay Company January 12, 1869; presided over the congress of the ocial Science Association, held at Bristol the same year, and was appointed a Commissioner to inquire into the law relating to friendly societies, November 2, 1870. More recently he was a member of the Joint

Cabinet in February, 1874, Sir Stafford Northcote became Chancellor of the Exchequer. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society in April, 1875. Macheale & Urban For many years Sir Stafford was the Conservative leader of the House of Commons, which position he retained until his elevation to the Peerage under the title of Lord Iddesleigh. He was a member of Salisbury's Cabinet, holding the responsible position of Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. His administration of his department of the Government was not entirely satisfactory, and in the construction of the Cabinet, made necessary by the resignation of Lord Randolph Churchill, Salsbury took the Foreign portfolio himself and offered Iddesleigh the minor position of Lord of the Privy Seal. This place he refused to accept.

Me Have a Mild CIGAR!

THE ABOVE REQUEST IS heard daily in cigar stores, saloons and other places where cigars are sold, for it is an undispared fact that most smokers prefer a mild cigar, and that those who have for a long time smoked strong cigars, principally imported Mamilias, will, after having thoroughly injured the stomach and impaired the nervous system, surely want a mild cigar, if they could find the right kind.

How many thousands of smokers who suffer from loss of appetite, headache, nervous irritability, asthma, etc., and who have tried all possible remedies without success, might be cared if they knew that their sufferings were caused by the intemperate use of strong cigars, and that they should only smoke mild and properly prepared ones.

Advice to Invalids.—If you wish to obtain quiet refreshing sleep, free from heatdache, relief from pain and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simia, January 5, 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., & Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir.—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly estoemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has carned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a romedy for general utility, we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are sorry to say, are now relegated to the native banaars and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances of infisitum of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhese and Pysentery, Spaems, Cramps, Neuralgin, the Vonsiting of Pregnancy, and as a general redative, that have occured ginger our personal observation thring many years. In Cholerate Diarrhese, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used suy other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm Conviction that it is decidely the best, and also from a sense of duty we ow, to take profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a permeant Buracu of partin on the root that. THE SPRECKELS' LINE. Very Decided Stand Made by the Australian Unions.

A meeting of the Organizing Committee of A meeting of the Organizing Committee of the Federated Trades was held in the Phelan building, San Francisco, for the purpose of discussing the action taken by the Australian Unions in the igatter of the strike on the Spreckels steamers. Andrew White, the Ausinn delegate, read the following letter

The following review of the silver market - 1886, published in an eastern paper, shows box steadily the value of silver has depreciated since 1874 when the lowest price was Solver has remained upon a low level during the year. It cannot be said that any decisive effect has been exerted upon the value of the metal by the policy of the United States in connection with its coinage. Owing to the demoralized state of the Indian exchange the summer the price of silver bars in the London market fell on August 1 to 42d per ounce, the lowest price on record. The extreme low prices for silver, indeed, pointed at once to the closing of many west-ern mines and smelting works as unprofitable, but a stronger feeling appeared a little later on, which earried the price of bars back to about the opening figures of the year. The industries upon the market seem to have had reference mainly to Indian exchange and trade between England and India. The course of the London market for the year 1886, and the highest and lowest price of bar silver per onnce for several years back, are given in the following table:

Instead of Cane Sugar

The new substitute for sugar called saccharine, formerly known as anhydrous or sulphamine benzoic acid, was discovered se en years ago by Dr. Constantine Taulberg an German-American from New York. Its sweetness is so great that one or two parts of succharine mixed with 1000 parts of glucose will bring the latter up to the sweetness of cane sagar. This last-named mixture is not injurious in any way, and will be generally used by batters, confectioners, candy makers, anillers, and others.

What with highly subsided beet sugar, and glucose prepared in the way men-tinged above, the unfortunate cane planter and sugar manufacturer, has the market pretty well hampered when his produce rrives there. However it is not all beer and skittles for the opponents of cane sugar, as the following extract from the London Times, relative to Kussian beet sugar will shew. The Times correspondent says:

"The Russian government has given such an impulse to over-production by bounties and empluments that a large number of sagar manufacturers who have produced under this official encouragement, and canmot now place all their stocks on the foreign market, are threatened with complete disaster and rain unless they can induce the government to favor their present agitation for a compulsory reduction of the yearly production to a given level all around. Having posted on the trade to unnatural pro-portions by all kinds of enticements, the wernment is now usked to check over-proction by an imperial utase. The Moscow to prove, very properly, that if the government do this it will only play again into the bands of speculating manufacturers and merchants. The commission, I hear, is dividecion the proposition of reducing the pro-duction, with twelve members for and only four against it. It is expected that the Em-peror will decide for the minority, as he did in the question of closing free transit through

The Central Factory System.

The following paragraph which we take from Bruistreets, may strengthen an idea which our Sagar Manufacturers have of the considered. If Louisiana finds that the Central Mill System will pay, Hawaii ought not irritant. We, however, know that it to be behind hand.

The paragraph says:-The low price of planters of Lousians, has started an agitation while is likely to be far-reaching in results. competition of beet sugar has rendered sugar-growing so much less profitable that at a recent meeting of the sugar-growers of St. Mary's Parish, L. disiana, some interesting figures and facs were given out, going to show that a change is necessary, and pointing to the direction in which the change could be successfully made. The plan in brief is to divorce the growing of sugar-cane from the manufacturing branch of the trade. At present the raising of sugar is in the hands of large planters who grow the cane as well as possess machinery for grinding and boil-ing the groduct. Small farmers are thus not able to share in the industry. A central fac-tory system was proposed at the meeting which would provide for a general handling of all came on a sort of cooperative principle. The New Orienns Picayear, in commenting on the plan, does not appear to be greatly indicessed. It suggests cold storage wareduses in which the cane could be deposited until ready for working. Warehouse receipts could then be issued which could be made transferable and pass at their face value. In addition to the warehouse, of course the factory would contain the latest improved machinery for converting the product. The result would be a concentration of the indusresult would be a concentration of the indus-try accompanied by a considerable cheapen-ing of the finished product, which would en-able the sugar planters of Louisiana to com-pete with the best-root product. These are in brief the suggestions made by the Picognus. Some figures submitted of a central factory system show a considerable profit over the present system, which is universally admitted to be no longer possible with profit. No to be no longer possible with profit. No figures, of course, are as yet available as to the cost of the system proposed by the Picay.

The probable effect upon the sugar industry as stated above no doubt would be

The German Chancellor has no elevated opinion of the profession of journalism, and the remark he once ade in the Parliament, that journalists were men who had mis a it heir wocation, was only the essen e of an opinion expressed to a man of letters in 1862, and which has now found its way into a Paris journal. He said:-"In my opinion there is nothing in the world more useless than newspapers. They only serve to create strife among men and between Gov-ernments. Instead of directing public providing for future historians a Dear Siz: At a meeting of the Stewards and Cooks Union of Anstrain, on the 20thjof December, and ansociate meeting of the Maritime Labor Council held on the 25d of December, it was maximized that steeps be taken on and after the 1st of May next to prevent Chinese cross being carried on any of the Steamers in the San, Francisco mail service, and that the places of such Chinese be taken by members of the Anstralian Maritime Unions.

In conveying this resolution to you I need sancely capress to you the regret felt here by the respective Unions that the necessity for such a step being taken should have arisen; but as you are no deabl aware, our great contention is a chronicle of events, they spread abroad false news or pervert facts by enveloping them in fictitious surroundings; and all that because journalists have only learned one thing, to write well: because they know nothing of the world, and above all politics—the heel of my boot knows more than they do—and who speak like oracles on matters about which they are entirely ignorant. If I were the Geovernment I would not the the Government I would restrict them to recording simple facts. I would forbid them all discussion, or I would suppress them, which would be still better.

Sir William Gull and the Deafman.

Sir William told us the following delicious tale of simple unreasoning faith in quacks: An elderly man consulted him about stomach complaints, but there was a formidable obstacle to diagnosis in the patient being horn-deaf. "What do you have for dinner?" roared Sir William into his right lug. "Oh, no!" was the re-ply, "plenty of that—two miles regu-larly after breakfast, and two more before dinner." "How long do you lie abed of a morning." "Well, doctor, I shall be sixty nine this day three weeks." Without further parley the doctor gave him some simple prescription, the form and manuscript of which he seemed much to admire for a little ; and then, offering his fee, he retired. But at the door he turned round, and in the loud rattling tones of one long very deaf called out, "Doctor, can you cure deafness?" Sir William bowed, shook his head and made his lips express "No." "I thought so! You have been very kind to me ; therefore I make you welcome to this prescription," which he pulled from his pocket, adding, "It cured me!"

A New Remedy for the Headache.

We clip the following from the Physicians and Surgeons' Investigator-a good medical authority:

The remedy is nothing more nor less than a solution of the bi-sulphide of carbon. A wide-mouth glass stop-pered bottle is half filled with cotton or fine sponge, and upon this two or three drams of the solution are poured. When occasion for its use occurs the mouth of the bottle is applied to the temple or as near as possible to the seat of pain, so closely that none of the volatile vapour may escape, and retained there four or five minutes or longer. For a minute or so nothing is felt, then comes a sense of tingling, which in a few minutes—three or four usually—becomes sether savera, but which subsides almost immediately if the bottle be removed, and any redness of the skin that may occur will also quickly subside. It may be re applied, if necessary, several times in the day, and it generally acts like magic, giving immediate relief.

We believe that this was the basis of a once popular nostrum. The class of headaches to which it seems especially adapted is that which may be grouped under the broad term of nervous." Thus neuralgic, periodic, and hysterical headaches, and even many kinds of dyspeptic headaches, are almost invariably relieved by it. True the relief of a mere symptom is quite another thing from the removal of the cause, yet no one who has had the distress, and even agony, caused by severe and frequent recurring headaches (and who has not seen it?) but will rejoice to be able to afford relief in so prompt and simple a manner; besides, it is sure to secure the hearty gratitude of the patient if he has suffered long. As to the modus operandi, we have nothing more definite than a theory to offer, and that is that the vapour being absorbed through the skin produces a sedative effect upon the superficial nerves of the parts to which it is applied. We know by experiment that its influence is not due to its power as a counterdoes act, and if we do not clearly see in what way it acts, that is no more remedies which are firmly established in professional favour and confidence. -Otago Witness.

MAUNA LOA'S SUMMIT.

A Visit to Makuaweoweo.

KAPAPALA, KAU, HAWAII, Feb. 12, '87 EDITOR GAZETTE - The erst fountain of fire playing above Kahuku, which I visited Jan. 29th, I found to be, per aneroid, 5,600 feet above sea level, while Pele Kahuku, or the upper Mauna Loa out-crop of this same fountain, I found to be, per arenoid, 11,500 feet; reaching it, as I did, Feb: 9th. This last, Pele Kahuku, (which I so name to designate it) is a fissure in the very ancient as of the mountain side:—so ancient as to have been changed by disintegration into friable brick and brick dust;—the fissure in question being some 1/4 of a mile in length and the line of it pointing directly from the top of Mauna Loz to Hale Pahoehoe, (otherwise called Keau Hill) where the flow proper broke out and ran wholly above ground. Along this fissure were issuing, when I was there, heat, steam and sulphurous smoke, and the margin of it coated with sulphurous deposits and a good deal of pure sulphur; while on either side of it was a width of fresh, crumpled pahoehoe, showing the recent issu-ance thereat, of liquid fire. The crack rehill and even cut into the base of it, so that to follow the line of rent, one had to mount up the side of the hill. From this upper emergence to the surface of the Kahuku flow of 1887, was an unobstructed view of the cone, with its associate cones, 15 or 20 miles makai, near or at which spectators at the Kahuku Ranch, beheld that column of liquid redness, which kept itself high in the air for some 14 days. Standing by this upper rent, the beholder perceives at a glance, from Pele Kahuku above to Hale Pahoehoe below, the liquid fire pursued a subterranean channel.

Pele Kabuku and Pohakuohanalei are at almost the same altitude and distant from each other only a mile or so. Pele Kahuku begins a mile more or less, much to the west or towards Kona from Pohakuohanalei. Mokuaweoweo was heavily smoking in the entral portion of it, as I found on reaching it Feb. 10th. A rent or chasm having formed in the floor of the crater, which beginning near the middle of the floor, extended to wards, and disappeared under the western wall: the general line of the chasm being in the direction of Kahuku, and the chasm itself margined by fresh pahoehoe, which appeared to have been spit up from below, creating in one place a small cone. Mokuaweoweo, altitude 13,500 feet (so said aneroid) Pele Kahuku 11,500 feet and Hale Pahoehoe (Keau Hill) 5,600 feet, appeared to have been the three points where the Mauna Los lava flow of 1887 forsook its subterranean viadact and betook itself to the earth's surface.

The winter I encountered in upper Manna Loa was simply terrible. Striking snow, as I did, at an altitude of 11,000 feet, I traversed an unbroken stretch of snow, of from 12 to 15 miles in length and breadth. Deep, I can tell you; in some places 20 feet, in others 10 feet, in others one foot, in others still having no depth at all, (lava outcropping); the general or average depth being about three feet—the crust of it kindly bore up the exulting pedestrian, who made good time as he skimmed over the surface of it. O ye New England boys who love sliding down hill, (I. one of them) and Canadians who love tobog ganning, hie ye to the summit of Mauna Loa and take thence a 10 mile slide southwards from, say, Moknaweoweo to Pohakuohanalei only bringing up at the snow line upon the sharp and terrible as, would ye find yourselves essentially damaged at last. EDWARD P. BAKER.

Kohala Items.

Kohala, February 18, 1887. On the morning of Wednesday, February 16th, the trash houses of Halawa Sugar Com-pany was discovered in flames, and before an hour had passed were burned to the ground. Manager Wells discovered the fire, and says it started near the top of the middle house, and was evidently the work of an incendiary. A recently discharged German is the suspected party. The mill had not been grinding more than five minutes when the nire broke out, and there being no wind to speak of, the chances of sparks from the chimney being the cause of the conflagration are very slim. Halawa Mill has been working for some weeks now, its new machinery running in first-class order. It is about two years since the first trash-house fire occurred

Star Mill's new chimney stands out, forming a feature of the landscape, and the smoke coming from its mouth, as well as the almost continuous toot, toot of its whistle, would indicate that great things are being done there. Mr. E. G. Hitchcock has come to Kobala to live, and will practice law here. This is indeed good news, for the foreigners have heretofore been under the necessity of employing native lawyers to get them out of their difficulties, there being no white mem-ber of the legal fraternity in Kohala. A competent respectable lawyer would build up a good practice here in a short time.

How is this? I hear that the salary of Postmaster here has been out.

Postmaster here has been out down. Why? There is no less work attached to the office than before, and the former salary was considered only fair for a place like Kohala. If it is done to show condemnation of past offenses, it is hardly the square thing to punish the present incumbent for faults of his predecessor. Sad tales are told of rum drinking and boar can be spend in the studio opium smoking at Hawi. Who has a license to sell opium here; or, rather, who is there to give these smokers a license to use the adly drug? One rarely goes out that he does not encounter one or more drunken fellows, generally Hawaiians. The Chinese are seldom seen upon the road in an inebri-ated condition, but the Portuguese are evidently fond of the flowing bowl.

What is this story about the King becoming the head of a Board of Foreign Missions? We hear strange rumors from Honolulu, all about evil omens, kahunas, the Royal Family being in bad odor with the gods, and many other direful tales. Surely no one would be so disloyal as to anama the head of the Government. O, treason! Perish the thought!

Are you tired of roads? So are we; that is of ours. Their condition evidently does not prey upon the mind of our Road Supervisor, for we meet him every day looking as hearty and free from care as his best friends could wish. There are several spots where the driver halts as between Scylla and Charybdis, unce thin which side to choose; bog on one side, with almost a certainty of sticking fast, and water on the other, with almost the same certainty of a capsize. The hole into which cane trash was thrown, with the remark that it would be cleaned out as soon as carting was done, it is needless to say, has not been cleaned out. No one be-lieved it would be, for the same thing has en done before, and the trash left to rot and scent the air and prevent the drying up of the water. The approach to the present Postoffice, too, is another slough of despond. How long

Gazette's Hilo Letter-

EDITOR GAZETTE .- excitement attending the recent carbican on M Tha Los, with its preceding terrestrial disturbances, had scarcely subsided when all Hilo was again aroused by the wrecking of the brig Selina. Following is

CAPT. WM. MATSON'S REPORT. "Came in with fresh breeze from northeast, arrived at entrance of Hilo harbor at 5 p. m. There, the wind hauled to southeast and was obliged to tack. After tacking, stood out about half way through the channel when the wind died out and it became a dead calm. Dropped the large anchor (port anchor): In a few moments after a heavy squall sgrang up from the northeast, and we parted one chain, then we immediately let go startbard anchor which chain also parted. Got out large boat to land passengers in but found we were so close to the breakers that I ordered the sailors in her to shove off or they would get swamped. Saved one baby in this boat but could not get any of the other passengers into it. The passengers consisted of five ladies and two gentlemen.

Where we drifted ashore there was a per-endicular cliff of about one hundred and fifty feet in height, so got one of my men to swim ashore and make a line fast tola rock at the foot of the cliff. Then passed the passengers ashore by rigging a bowline. Next morning I found the bottom of the vessel about all gone, so cut away the main mast in order to keep the vessel from swaving so I could land the live stock. Found ship on fire it having been set on fire by lime and hay I saw I could do nothing to save the vesse so ordered her sold, but not before I had used every means in my power to save the vessel and cargo. Had very heavy bleakers at the time. Struck the reef at about 7p. m."

Special mention should be made of the en-ergy and bravery of Rexford Hitchrock in landing passengers; he, going and returning with each one across the swinging rope and around the base of the cliffs, through the tre mendous serf—a hazardous undertaking in daylight, doubly so in the storm-black night. Note must be made of the disgraceful mob of native men and boys who over-ran the vessel in spite of the presence of officers (in accord) and stole every available article in the cabin and forecastle. Some of the crew had every article of clothing stolen by the unscrapulous knaves. Credit is due to Judge Lyman, who stopped many of them at the top of the cliff and made them unload their plunder.

This morning both mountains were clear was seen to rise in a succession of puffs from the terminal crater of 1880-81. There was no previous sign of activity on the mountain, m. the day before indicated the pulsations that still must be going on in the leart of the old mountain. Everyone is expecting Carsley, Ge another outbreak, or rather a continuation of the recent flow in Kau, this time of Pahoe-D. H. Hitchcock and son start up on the 18th to visit the terminal crater as they are sure this is no spurt but an actual out-MIKADO. Hilo, Feb. 17th, 1887.

Stabbing Affray at Koolau.

On Wednesday last at Punaluu, Koolau, Oahu, a stabbing affray occurred, in which Capt. Dan McGregor, of the schooner Manuokawai, is charged with cutting ore of his sailors, named Kanaina, in the left side just below the region of the heart. From the accounts to hand, it seems that "all hands and the cook" were having "a good time" at the house of one Kuaii, at Punanu. The cutting was evidently the result of in bibing too much okolehao, but who was in fault at present does not appear. Upon learning the news of this afiray, Marshal Kaulukon last no time in communicating with the officers at Koolau, directing them to look after the wounded man, and see that he had medical attendance. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Capt. McGregor, and a police officer dispatched to Waikane, where the schooner was then lying. On the arrival of the officer | Isenberg, Otto at that place the vessel had sailed for Hono-lulu with the Captain and one man, where she arrived early Friday morning, and Capt. McGregor immediately gave himself up to the authorities. On Friday morning Mc-Gregor was brought before the Police Justice, and remanded for one week, awaiting the arrival of the wounded man, and the nature of his injuries. Bail was refused in the Captain's case. Later news states that the man's wound is not likely to prove fatal, and the Marshal fixed the bail at $1,000. Mt. A. C. Smith appeared for Capt. McGregor, The following certificate, as to the state of the wounded sailor, has been received by

Marshal Kaulukou: KANBOHE, February 18, 1881. This is to certify that I examined Kanama, at Punaluu, on February 17th, and found him suffering from a penetrating wound of the chest. The wound is in the neighborhood of the sixth costal cartilege—about one and one-half inches to the left of the median line, and is about three-fourths of an inch

It is said to have been made by a pocket-knife, and to have penetrated about one inch. The wound does not appear to be very serious, but it is in a dangerous locality, very serious, but it is in a uningerous sault, and there is a possibility of a fatal result.

The Lava Flow of 1887

Mr. Furneaux, the artist has beer exhibiting his great picture of the Lava Flow of 1887 at his studio, Fort street. A large number of people have visited the rooms and expressed themselves as highly gratified with this excellent work of art. The view is from the deck of the steamer W. G. Hall, and represents the spur of Mauna Loa, dwn which two distinct rivers of fire are desending to the sea, on the edge of which there are hissing steam and bursting gasses. On the summit is seen the column of lava at a white heat, a most striking object. Above is the well-known volcanic cloud, so common to all our eruptions, this is in many parts of a blood red and gives light to the whole scene. The swelling bosom of the Pacific is admir-ably rendered, looking glassy andweird with its crimson reflections and blue-black shadows. In the foreground to the right are the dark cliffs of Ka Kae, the southernmost point of Hawaii. Wr. Furnesur has truted a most difficult subject with great skill, and this greatest praise mus lie in the uninimous approval of all the e who netually saw the flow. They say that if anything, the williance of the flame is not strong enough. The picture is no exaggeration of one of natur's grandest works. Mr. Forneaux is always pleased to see any one, and besides the geat picture, there are many views of interest about the Islands to be looked at. A very deasant half

Lava Flowing Again.

A Hilo correspondent writes: Thursday forenoon Feb. 17th, the top of Mauna Loa is very distinctly seen from Hilo, and a large stream of lava is now flowing from a little south of the summit towards Kau. Its cone is distinctly marked by the dense column of smoke and steam ascending for a long dis-

The Mauna Loa is covered with snow and the jets of smoke and steam present a view to the beholder never to be forgotten. The stream is on the eastern or rather the south eastern slope of the mountain, starting from a point some 5 miles south-east of the summit. The snow banks on the ridge can be seen beyond the flow looking from Hilo. Another correspondent says: - The flow as I predicted has again broken out and this time very near if not exactly on the spot of the 1855-80 flows. It is now following down the Kau arm or, nearly in that direction, of the 1880 flows and of course is just as likely to make another break down this side of the mountain towards us, as it did in 1880-81. When it broke out we can't say, as it has been so dark with clouds that we have not seen the mountain for several days. We had a smart shock of earthquake yesterday, about 1 p. m., which may have been the time it

I take this all to be so, on account of the ong line of smoke going down the mountain side as it did in 1880.

MAUNA LOA'S SUMMIT.

A Visit to Makuaweoweo-

Kapapala, Kau, Hawaii, Feb. 12, '87. Editor Gazette.—The erst fountain of fire playing above Kahuku, which I visited Jan. 29th, I found to be, per aneroid, 5,600 feet above sea level, while Pele Kahuku, or the upper Mauna Loa out-crop of this same fountain, I found to be, per arenoid, 11,500 feet; reaching it, as I did, Feb: 9th. This last, Pele Kahuku, (which I so name to designate it) is a fissure in the very ancient as of the mountain side :- so ancient as to have been changed by disintegration into friable brick and brick dust;-the fissure in question being some 14 of a mile in length and the line of it pointing directly from the top of Manna Loa to Hale Pahoehoe, (otherwise called Keau Hill) where the flow proper broke out and ran wholly above ground. Along this fissure were issuing, when I was there, heat, steam and sulphurous smoke, and the margin of it coated with sulphurous de posits and a good deal of pure sulphur; while on either side of it was a width of fresh, crumpled pahoehoe, showing the recent issu-ance thereat, of liquid fire. The crack rehill and even cut into the base of it, so that to follow the line of rent, one had to mount up the side of the hill. From this upper emergence to the surface of the Kabuku flow of 1887, was an unobstructed view of the cone, with its associate cones, 15 or 20 miles makai, near or at which spectators at the Kahuku Ranch, beheld that column of liquid redness, which kept itself high in the air for some 14 days. Standing by this upper rent, the beholder perceives at a glance, from Pele Kahuku above to Hale Pahoehoe below, the liquid fire pursued a subterranean channel. Pele Kahuku and Pohakuohanalei are at almost the same altitude and distant from each other only a mile or so. Pele Kahuku begins a mile more or less, much to the west towards Kona from Pohakuohanalei. Moknaweoweo was heavily smoking in the central portion of it, as I found on reaching it Feb. 10th. A rent or chasm having formed in the floor of the crater, which beginning near the middle of the floor, extended towards, and disappeared under the western wall: the general line of the chasm being in the direction of Kahuku, and the chasm itself margined by fresh pahoehoe, which appeared to have been spit up from below, creating in one place a small cone. Mokua-weoweo, altitude 13,500 feet (so said aneroid) le Kahuku 11,500 feet and Hale Pahoehoe (Keau Hill) 5,600 feet, appeared to have been the three points where the Mauna Loa lava flow of 1887 forsook its subterranean viaduct and betook itself to the earth's surface. The winter I encountered in upper Mauna Loa was simply terrible. Striking snow, as I did, at an altitude of 11,000 feet, I traversed an unbroken stretch of snow, of from 12 to 15 miles in length and breadth. Deep, I can tell you; in some places 20 feet, in others feet, in others one foot, in others still having no depth at all, (lava outcropping); the general or average depth being about three feet—the crust of it kindly bore up the exulting pedestrian, who made good time as he skimmed over the surface of it. O ye New England boys who love sliding down hill, (I, of them) and Canadians who love tob ganning, hie ye to the summit of Mauna Los and take thence a 10 mile slide southwards from, say, Mokuaweoweo to Pohakuohanalei, Konala, February 18, 1887. On the morning of Wednesday, February 16th, the trash houses of Halawa Sugar Com-pany was discovered in flames, and before an hour had passed were burned to the ground. Manager Wells discovered the fire, and says it started near the top of the middle house, and was evidently the work of an in-cendiary. A recently discharged German is the suspected party. The mill had not been grinding more than five minutes when the fire broke out, and there being no wind to speak of, the chances of sparks from the chimney being the cause of the conflagration are very slim. Halawa Mill has been working for some weeks now, its new machinery running in first-class order. It is about two years since the first trash-house fire occurred at Halawa. Star Mill's new chimney stands out, forming a feature of the landscape, and the smoke coming from its mouth, as we'l as the almost continuous toot, toot of its whistle, would indicate that great things are being done there. Mr. E. G. Hitchcock has come to Kohala to live, and will practice law here. This is indeed good news, for the foreigners have heretofore been under the necessity of employing native lawyers to get them out of their difficulties, there being no white member of the legal frateruity in Kohala. competent respectable lawyer would build up a good practice here in a short time. How is this? I bear that the salary of Postmaster here has been cut down. Why? There is no less work attached to the office than before, and the former salary was con-sidered only fair for a place like Kobala. If it is done to show condemnation of past offenses, it is hardly the square thing to ponish the present incumbent for faults of his predecessor. Sad tales are told of rum adrinking and

opium smoking at Hawi. Who has a license to sell opium here; or, rather, who is there to give these smokers a license to use the deadly drug? One rarely goes out that he does not encounter one or more drunken fellows, generally Hawaiians. The Chinese are seldom seen upon the road in an inebriated condition, but the Portuguese are evidently fond of the flowing bowl.

What is this story about the King becoming the head of a Board of Foreign Missions? We hear strange rumors from Honolula, all about evil omens, kahunas, the Royal Family being in bad odor with the gods, and many other direful tales. Surely no one would be so disloyal as to anaana the head of the Government. O, treason! Perish the thought !

Are you tired of roads? So are we; that is of ours. Their condition evidently does not prey upon the mind of our Road Supervisor, for we meet him every day looking as hearty and free from care as his best friends could wish. There are several spots where the driver halts as between Scylla and Charybdis, unce thin which side to choose bog on one side, and almost a certainty of sticking fast, and water on the other, with almost the same certainty of a capsize. The hole into which cane trash was thrown, with the remark that it would be cleaned out as soon as carting was done, it is needless to say, has not been cleaned out. No one be-lieved it would be, for the same thing has been done before, and the trash left to rot and scent the air and prevent the drying up of the water. The approach to the present Postoffice, toe, is another slough of despond. How long?

CAPT. WM. MATSON'S REPORT. "Came in with fresh breeze from northeast, arrived at entrance of Hilo harbor at 5 p. m. There, the wind hauled to southeast and was obliged to tack. After tacking, stood out about half way through the channel when the wind died out and it became a dead calm. Dropped the large anchor (port anchor). In a few moments after a heavy squall sprang up from the northeast, and we parted one chain, then we immediately let go starboard anchor which chain also parted. Got out large boat to land passengers in but found we were so close to the breakers that I ordered the sailors in her to shove off or they would get swamped. Saved one baby in this boat but could not get any of the other pas-sengers into it. The passengers consisted of five ladies and two gentlemen.

Where we drifted ashore there was a per endicular cliff of about one hundred and fifty feet in height, so got one of my men to swim ashore and make a line fast to a rock at the foot of the cliff. Then passed the passengers ashore by rigging a bowline. Next morning I found the bottom of the vessel about all gone, so cut away the main mast in order to keep the vessel from swaying so I could land the live stock. Found ship on fire it having been set on fire by lime and hay. I saw I could do nothing to save the vessel, so ordered her sold, but not before I had used every means in my power to sive the vessel and cargo. Had very heavy breakers at the time. Struck the reef at about 7p. m.'

Special mention should be made of the energy and bravery of Rexford Hitchcock in landing passengers; he, going and returning with each one across the swinging rope and around the base of the cliffs, through the tre-mendous serf—a hazardous undertaking in daylight, doubly so in the storm-black night. Note must be made of the disgraceful mob of native men and boys who over an the vessel in spite of the presence of officers (in accord) and stole every available article in the cabin and forecastle. Some of the crew had every article of clothing stolen by the unscrupulous knaves. Credit is due to Judge Lyman, who stopped many of them at the top of the cliff and made them unload their

Stabbing Affray at Koolau.

On Wednesday last at Punaluu, Koolau, Edward John Oahu, a stabbing affray occurred, in which Evenger, Chas Capt. Dan McGregor, of the schooner Manuokawai, is charged with cutting ore of his sailors, named Kanaina, in the left side just below the region of the heart. From the accounts to hand, it seems that "all hands and the cook" were having "a good time" at the house of one Kuaii, at Punain. The Grub, Chas Green, Miss Goodel, Rev. the house of one Kuaii, at Punaut. The cutting was evidently the result of imbibing too much okoleinto, but who was in fault at Gordon, Geo F (2) present does not appear. Upon learning the news of this afiray, Marshal Kaulukou last no time in communicating with the officers at Koolau, directing them to look after the wounded man, and see that he had medical attendance. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Capt. McGregor, and a police officer dispatched to Waikane, where the schooner was then lying. On the arrival of the officer at that place the vessel had sailed for Honoshe arrived early Friday morning, and Capt.

McGregor immediately gave himself up to the authorities. On Friday morning McGregor was brought before the Police Justice, and remanded for one week, awaiting the arrival of the wounded man, and the nature of his injuries. Eail was refused in the List, August Captain's case. Later news states that the Ludwig, Hermann man's wound is not likely to prove fatal, and the Marshal fixed the bail at $1,000. Mt. A. C. Smith appeared for Capt. McGregor. The following certificate, as to the state of the wounded sailor, has been received by Marshal Kaulukou: KANBOHE, February 18, 1881. This is to certify that I examined Kanaina, at Punaluu, on February 17th, and found him suffering from a penetrating wound of the chest. The wound is in the neighborhood of the sixth costal cartilege-about one and one-half inches to the left of the median line, and is about three-fourths of an inch long. It is said to have been made by a pocket-knife, and to have penetrated about one inch. The wound does not appear to be very serious, but it is in a dangerous locality, and there is a possibility of a fatal result. C. B. WOOD, M. D.

The Lava Flow of 1887

Mr. Furneaux, the artist has beer exhibiting his great picture of the Lava Flew of 1887 at his studio, Fort street. A large number of people have visited the rooms and expressed themselves as highly gratified with this ex-cellent work of art. The view is from the deck of the steamer W. G. Hall, and represents the spur of Mauna Loa, down which two distinct rivers of fire are dessending to the sea, on the edge of which there are hissing steam and bursting gasses. On the summit is seen the column of lava at a white heat, a most striking object. Above is the well-known volcanic cloud, so common to all our eruptions, this is in many parts of a blood red and gives light to the whole scene. The swelling bosom of the Pacific is admirably rendered, looking glassy andweird with its crimson reflections and blue-clack shadows. In the foreground to the ight are the dark cliffs of Ka Kae, the southermost point of Hawaii. Mr. Furneaux has treated a most difficult subject with great skil, and this greatest praise mus he is the unanimous approval of all the e who actually saw the flow. They say that if anything, the crilliance of the flame is not strong enough. The picture is no exaggeration of one of natue's grandest works. Mr. Furneaux is always pleased to see any one, and besides the great picture, there are many views of interest about the Islands to be looked at. A very deasont half bonr can be spend in the studio

THE GREAT ERUPTION.

Lava Flowing Again.

A Hilo correspondent writes: Thursday forenoon Feb. 17th, the top of Mauna Loa is very distinctly seen from Hilo, and a large stream of laws is now flowing from a little south of the summit towards Kau. Its cone is distinctly marked by the dense column of smoke and steam ascending for a long dis-The Mauna Los is covered with snow and the jets of smoke and steam present a view to the beholder never to be forgotten. The stream is on the eastern or rather the south eastern slope of the mountain, starting from a point some 5 miles south-east of the summit. The snow banks on the ridge can be seen beyond the flow looking from Hilo.

Another correspondent says:—The flow as predicted has again broken out and this time very near if not exactly on the spot of the 1855-80 flows. It is now following down the Kau arm or, nearly in that direction, of the 1880 flows and of course is just as likely to make another break down this side of the mountain towards us, as it did in 1880-81. When it broke out we can't say, as it has been so dark with clouds that we have not seen the mountain for several days. We had a smart shock of earthquake yesterday, about 1 p. m., which may have been the time it I take this all to be so, on account of the long line of smoke going down the mountain side as it did in 1880.
