A Cargo of Pepper.
On the National line dock the other day there was a mountain of snuff colored bags just out of the ship. When the stevedores hauled them about everybody's nose was tickled. "That's nothing but pepper, all the way from Singapore via London," said the superintendent. "How much is there of it?" he was asked.

"Not a great deal; 300 or 400 tons," was the answer.

A muscular longshoreman at hand said: "Sure we drink it. The bar-keepers know we like a dab of it on the head of the growler."

Just then a clerk came along and began making complaint of the way the men were tearing the bags with their hooks. He pointed to a trail of the spice along the dock and said that his house would make the ship pay for the loss in weight. The superintendent ordered the men to sew up all leaky bags, and the merchant's apprentice smiled in satisfaction. In response to questions he replied: "Last December pepper was booming. Everybody thought there was going to be a scarcity of it, and they all wanted to buy, and they did buy. This is that same pepper just coming in. It is worth about a cent a pound less to-day than they paid for it. I think the most of it cost the buyers something like sixteen cents a pound. A good many of them are stuck. Pepper is apt to weigh less when it arrives than what you find charged for in your invoices. Some of it will leak out of tears in the bags; some of it will be 'sampled' when nobody is looking; but the great loss in weight is believed to result from the fact that it dries out. The native chaps that grow the berry ship it down all sorts of little streams in all sorts of junks, and it catches a good deal of salt water by the time it is shipped from Singapore. Water doesn't hurt whole pepper in the least unless it is kept wet too long and allowed to rot, but it adds to its avoirdupois. When you reflect that 60,000,000 of us are shaking it three times a day on almost everything we eat, is it any wonder we get away with so much pepper? Much of it I suppose is gobbled up by those concerns that make salads and sauces and pickles and catsups."—New York Sun.

Sickness Among the Indians.
The reports of the Indian agents show that during last year 65,356 Indians required medical treatment for sickness or wounds. The majority of them suffered from diseases of the eye, and diseases of the respiratory organs came next in order. Over 10,000 were consumptive and 7,000 were treated for disorders of the digestive organs. This large showing for dyspepsia would, no doubt, in an eastern community, have been unjustly charged to the account of civilization and pie. Of ethetic diseases due to immorality there was little to support the outcry that has been raised against the Indians, as less than 2,000 were treated for all diseases of this class. It is worthy of note, also, that only four Indians suffered from inebriation, and but one in 250,000 red men had the delirium tremens.—Frank Leslie's.

Various Ways of Making Change.
Some one has taken the time and trouble to figure out the various combinations of coins that might be used in changing a quarter, and places them at 215. The pieces used in making the changes are the 20 cent piece, 10 cent piece, 5 cent piece, 3 cent piece, 2 cent piece, and 1 cent piece. To be able to make all the changes would require one 20 cent piece, two 10 cent pieces, five 5 cent pieces, eight 3 cent pieces, twelve 2 cent pieces, and twenty-five 1 cent pieces, making in all fifty-three pieces of money, representing $1.38.—New York Sun.

The Foundations of Galveston.
The boring of an artesian well at Galveston shows on what peculiar foundations the city rests. In the first place it stands on a narrow sand spit between Galveston bay and the gulf of Mexico. After going through 32 feet of quicksand the drill passed through blue clay, 17 feet; coarse sand, 26; white clay, 107; sea mud, 57; olive clay, 116; sea mud, 130; blue clay, 26; sea mud, 11; blue clay, 147; total, 658 feet. At a depth of 500 feet several palmetto logs were passed through.—New York Sun.

Disadvantages of Egotism.
Egotism, while it brings great grit to the mill, feeding the brain with enormous energy and making a man or a woman succeed because one must and will and shall be prominent—this egotism is not an agreeable companion on the upland lawn or in a country house or in society. An egotist will not get invited to the "little dinners" which is reserved for the formal ones of twenty-four.—Mrs. John Sherwood in New York World.

LATEST NEWS.
Dates to the 23d of September, inclusive, by the Alameda.

The Royal Mail steamer Alameda arrived early yesterday morning from San Francisco, with dates to the 23d inst. Following is a summary:

Irish Affairs.
At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Irish National League, held in Dublin, September 13th, Henry Labouchere, Cashel Wright, J. T. Brunner and Robert Leak, all English, and Members of Parliament, were elected as members of the National League.

A magnificent demonstration took place at Dublin September 14th in the Rotunda. The room was crowded and overflow meetings were held. The Lord Mayor presided. A deputation from the English Home Rule Union was received with the greatest enthusiasm as it filed on to the platform. Michael Davitt proposed the resolution of the evening, "That this meeting of citizens of Dublin gladly accords its warmest welcome to the deputation from the English Home Rule Union, as a pledge of the progress and practical sympathy with which the cause of Ireland is now obtaining among the people of Great Britain." The motion was seconded by Justin McCarthy, M. P., and carried enthusiastically.

At a conference of Irish landlords held in Dublin September 15th resolutions were adopted by a unanimous vote denying that the present rates prevailing in Ireland were oppressive, or that reasonable abatement had been refused. "The landlords in Ireland," it is further maintained, "have rendered important aid to Irish agriculture, and do not, as alleged, neglect their duties toward either their property or the community. We deplore the alienation existing in Ireland between landlords and tenants, and we desire to restore amity. The recent evictions were forced on us through political advisers." In conclusion, the resolutions demand the Government to speedily and fully settle the land question in Ireland on just terms to all parties concerned.

Dillon, in an interview September 18th, said that it was impossible to deny the gravity of the situation. The outlook for the coming winter was a gloomy one. Balfour was apparently determined to get all the Nationalist leaders into the clutches of the law, and he would not be surprised if in a month or so the majority of the leaders, including himself, were found picking oakum. The Government's persistence in enforcing the Coercion Act would be certain to lead to trouble.

John Dillon presided at a great meeting held in the Limerick Town Hall September 20th, under the auspices of the National League. The hall was crowded. Dillon made the speech of the day, and went at length on the case of Editor "Brian" of the "United Ireland." Dillon said O'Brien would undoubtedly be commended a felon, and if so he would have sympathy of the whole civilized world. "The Government must not," Dillon continued, "think they can crush the League by any such means as those resorted to in the prosecution of O'Brien. Each arrest of that kind would add but little courage and spirit to the people of Ireland in the struggle for home rule and cease the gulf of separation between the landlords and the populace, and put fuel into the fire now burning." The United States of America, Dillon declared, was now back of the great Irish Home Rule movement.

William O'Brien states that in the event of his being sentenced to imprisonment he will absolutely refuse to wear a son garb or perform menial offices as a protest against the treatment of political prisoners as common culprits.

Mexico and Guatemala.
A dispatch from the city of Mexico, September 22d says: There is a good deal of uneasiness in political circles regarding the rumored attempt of Guatemala to sever the support of the United States Government as against Mexico. It is here that such a step would do much to disturb the pleasant relations existing between Mexico and the United States, which at present are inducing heavy investments of American capital here. The case against Guatemala is this: Insults have been offered to members of the Mexican Legation there which it is said have not been properly atoned for, and while the Mexican Government is not acting offensively toward Guatemala, it is demanding just compensation for the assaults on officers of the Legation. The fight in Guatemala is largely a clerical conflict and assumes the aspect of a religious war, and many politicians here say that they do not believe the United States will interfere in so delicate a matter.

German Politics.
It is asserted that the interview between Bismarck and Kalnoky, September 17th, means a new phase of the Bulgarian question. It means a check on Russian intervention, the neutrality of Europe toward Prince Ferdinand leaving him to his own resources, to sink or swim, and freedom of action for the Bulgarians, short of anarchy or troubling the peace of neighboring States. Emperor William and the Prince and Princess William, Prince Frederick, Prince Leopold and General Von Moltke leave Stettin to-day and arrive in Berlin this evening. The Emperor's sojourn in Sietin was an unequalled success, the report of the fainting fit being erroneous. The return of the Imperial party to Berlin finally disposes of the reports that the Emperor would have an interview with the Czar. The success of the German candidates at the elections for members of the Bohemian Diet places the Czech majority face to face with a compact body of German deputies, armed with a special mandate to insist on the division of Bohemia into two administrative districts, in accordance with differences in religion and language.

General Boulanger.
General Boulanger, in an address to the officers of his command after the maneuvers by his corps at Clermont Ferrand, September 18th, strongly urged the necessity of giving wider exercise of the offensive tactics which were proper to the French army. He concluded his remarks as follows: "We have to-day more need than ever of the qualities of a warrior. No, the hour has not yet struck for the disarmament of the people of all Europe. It is madness to believe it and a crime to say it, for it points to peace at any price, as the goal to which our country should aspire, and our enemies, who often appraise us at our real value better than we do ourselves, know well that we have not got so far as that. More than that, we must continue to work. It is for France."

French Affairs.
A dispatch dated Paris, September 19th, says: M. Rouvier, Prime Minister, will deliver a political discourse before the reopening of the Chamber of Deputies. This discourse will be a reply to the recent manifesto of the Count of Paris. Several Extremist Deputies propose initiating a movement in the Chamber of Deputies to secure the expulsion from France of all the Orleansist and Bonapartist princes. Deputies Basly and Camelinat will again propose that all the property of the above-mentioned princes that can be discovered in France shall be confiscated.

The carving of the inscriptions on the pedestal of the monument of Gambetta in the Place de Carousal, opposite the Louvre, has been proceeding for some days. The words will be: "Frenchmen, raise your souls and your resolutions to the height of the perils which weigh on the fatherland. It yet depends upon you to show to the universe the spectacle of a great people which will not perish."
The Bulgarian Muddle.
VIENNA, September 20th.—The Porte has sent a circular to the Powers, proposing that a general chosen by Turkey and Russia jointly be sent to Bulgaria, with power to restore order in accordance with the terms of the treaty of Berlin. The assent of Germany, France and Russia is considered certain, but that of England, Austria and Italy is deemed uncertain.

Miscellaneous.
The London "Standard's" correspondent at Shanghai says: The American-Chinese bank syndicate have accepted Li Hung Chang's conditions, and an American official will depart for China immediately to complete the arrangements. Banks will probably be started in Shanghai and Tientsin, and branches will be opened in Philadelphia and London in the spring.
A disastrous wreck occurred September 21st on the Gulf division of the Southern Kansas railroad at Guthrie, four miles south of Percell, I. T. A light engine and a construction train came in collision while both were moving at a high rate of speed. It is rumored that a large number of workmen were killed, but the details are meagre. Most reports say that eight or ten were killed or wounded.
The Department of Fisheries at Toronto is advised that up to September 22d ten Behring-sea sealers have eluded the United States cutter Rush and arrived at Victoria, B. C. The total catch is reported to be 19,046 skins by Canadian vessels and 2,539 skins landed in British Columbia by American schooners, at $6 50 per skin. The value of the catch reaches over $140,000.
The British steamer Romeo, Captain Williams, from New Orleans August

30th for Rouen, grounded at Villeguier September 22d and capsized. The vessel is submerged at high tide and is dangerous to navigation. An engineer and fireman were drowned and five of the crew and passengers are missing. Later advices say that six sailors and seven passengers of the Romeo were drowned. The steamer is a total loss.
The Trafalgar, the largest ironclad ever constructed, was successfully launched September 20th at Portsmouth. The vessel is of 11,940 tons and of 13,000 horse-power. She is to carry twelve guns, four of sixty-seven tons and eight of forty hundred weight. Her side armor is twenty inches thick.

The Paris "Temps" says it has learned that Count Kalnoky had obtained from Prince Bismarck the assurance that Germany will prevent any military action by Russia in Bulgaria.
Stanley writes under date of June 23d from his camp, saying that the Tipu Tibs people, with the exception of 500 slave traders, warmly welcomed him and paid ready obedience.
Prince Phillip, Duke of Orleans, eldest son of the Count Paris, is about to start on a journey around the world. He will proceed by way of India, Japan, San Francisco and New York.

Pearl Harbor.
A report was current in town yesterday that the present Government had agreed to Article 2 of the new reciprocity treaty, which reads: "His Majesty the King of the Hawaiian Islands grants to the Government of the United States the exclusive right to enter the harbor of Pearl river, in the island of Oahu, and to establish and maintain there a coaling and repair station, for the use of vessels of the United States, and to that end the United States may improve the entrance of said harbor, and do all other things needful to the purpose aforesaid."

Mr. Caswell, the Tuner.
Among the passengers by the Alameda was Mr. E. Caswell, one of the leading piano and organ tuners and repairers on the Pacific Coast. Mr. Caswell comes very highly recommended as a competent man in every respect. He is an old friend of Mr. J. W. Yarnley, and the two had quite a cordial greeting yesterday. It is probable that Mr. Caswell will be here three months, as he has lots of work to attend to. His services are in great demand, and whatever he undertakes will be done in a thorough workmanlike manner. Mr. Caswell is staying at the Duddo Hotel.

Colonel Spreckels Interviewed.

A New York "Herald" reporter interviewed Colonel Claus Spreckels in London September 15th. In the course of the interview the Colonel said he found Germany at present the greatest beet-sugar country the world ever saw. There is some marvelous machinery used for making beet sugar. He had bought 250,000 marks' worth of the principal parts of the machinery in Cologne and Prague for the purpose of establishing a beet-sugar factory in California, but the minor parts of the machinery he could get made in the United States. He was convinced that beet-sugar making with his new machinery will create one of the greatest industries the United States ever had. He should never rest until he had made the United States the greatest beet-sugar producer, manufacturer and market in the world. His new factory in California will be built to use 350 tons of beets every twenty-four hours, which will produce about 40 tons of sugar per day. The exact spot for its location he had not yet settled, but would do so as soon as he got back home.

The Pacific Cable.

The Chicago "Times" Ottawa special of September 23d says: The Government has received an intimation from the Imperial authorities that the British Government cannot undertake to pay for a special survey of the route of the proposed trans-Pacific cable between British Columbia and New Zealand and Australia, unless some guaranty is given that the line will actually be laid. Under these circumstances Sanford Fleming, who may be looked upon as the father of the intercolonial cable scheme, has suggested to Foster, Minister of Marine and Finance, that the colonies themselves should undertake to pay the cost of the survey. He proposes that Canada's contribution thereto should be a loan of a vessel. Foster is favorably impressed with the project and will at once lay the matter before his colleagues.

Sugar Refineries.

New York, September 22d.—It is currently reported that a new trust is shortly to be formed to represent a combination of all sugar refineries in the Atlantic seaboard States, including Louisiana. For some time a move of this kind has been contemplated by the trade and heartily indorsed by large refiners in this city, but the hitch in the carrying out of the programme has come heretofore from the unwillingness of some of our own firms to join in the movement. A representative of the Brooklyn Sugar Refinery said yesterday in reference to the reported trust: "A movement is most certainly on foot to establish a combination among the sugar refiners of the East, and to this end several plans are now being discussed by the parties in interest."

The Joran Concerts.

The British Parliament.

The British Parliament was prorogued September 16th. The Queen's speech closing the session was formal in character and contains the following: "I have agreed with the President of the United States to refer to a joint commission the difficult question respecting the North American fisheries, which have been recently discussed by the two nations."

Following is the reference to Irish matters: "The wants and difficulties of Ireland have occupied your close attention during a protracted session. I trust the remedies your wisdom has provided will gradually effect the complete restoration of order in Ireland and give renewed courage to a peaceful industry. In order to pass them it has been necessary to postpone many important measures affecting other parts of the Kingdom, which doubtless you will be able to resume without hindrance at the coming session." The speech concludes thus: "This year, the fiftieth anniversary of my reign, has been the occasion of the expression of fervent loyalty which has deeply touched me. I am, indeed, thankful for the warm, hearty proofs of affection which have reached me from all classes. In thanking God for the blessings he has vouchsafed me and my country I trust I may be spared to reign over a loving, faithful and united people." Parliament has been prorogued until November 30th.

boat Jesse H. Freeman, now on the way from Boston. She will be built at the yard in the Potrero, on the slip alongside the Charleston. Her dimensions are: Length 240 feet, beam 33 feet, total depth 26 feet, and she will cost considerably over $200,000. A SAVAGE BALLET.

Motley Multitudes and Barbarous Festivities in the City of Tangier.

The feast of Mohammed's birthday has recently taken place here, and, indeed, it took place rather unexpectedly. The prophet's birth was on the ninth day of the month of Molud, and it is the custom to begin the celebration on the first day of the month and keep it up for ten days. Now, the Mohammedan month is the lunar month, and it is the duty of the Bashaw, or Governor, to proclaim the beginning of Molud when he, or some solid citizen in whom he has confidence, has seen the young moon. This year, acting on uncertain information, the Bashaw started the festivities a day—or rather a night—ahead of time.

During all this period, preliminary to the celebration of the 9th, the country people are flocking into Tangier, coming generally by villages, or if from greater distances by "kabyles" or tribes, and they are to be seen coming along the beach in crowds composed of men mounted on horses or mules, or riding side-saddle on small donkeys, or on foot and all carrying guns, generally long flint-locks of Moorish make, and with these many women, some with babies slung over their shoulders. Where all the people slept I do not know; there were many tents on the market-place, and you could see men sleeping in the streets at night, but the majority must have gone back a distance into the country at nightfall. In the day, time this crowd was very interesting to watch. The different tribes have distinguishing marks. For instance, the "Rif" men shave all the head except the space above and behind the right ear, where they wear a tuft or cue. Others leave a tuft on top, and so on. These countrymen are the descendants of the barbarians, the Phoenicians, Greeks and Romans found here, and are not of the race of their conquerors, the Arabs. That there has not been much admixture of blood is apparent in their features and color, which, though sun-darkened, is uniform in the race, and has not shades from white to black, which marriage with negro slaves have generated among the Arabs.

Some of the foreign ministers and residents have tents put up at the head of the slope and invite their friends to witness the performance. The view from one of these tents, where I was, was very striking. In the foreground a dense moving crowd; dark mountaineers, with their long guns and their arsenals of pistols and daggers; women shrouded in coarse sacking, exposing only an eye and a bit of a nose to view; grave, bearded Moors in white haiks, as they call the vast white folds they put over their other raiment and turban; Jews in their long gaberdines; in the middle distance the town of Tangier, its white cube of houses rising like a pile of child's blocks, to the Kasbah or citadel, and in the distance the blue entrance to the Mediterranean, bounded by the Spanish hills, and thirty miles off, the rock of Gibraltar, showing clearly against the eastern sky. The mountaineers indulge in much powder play, constant discharges, sometimes so near that as the guns are discharged on the ground the gravel is blown into one's face.

One savage ballet I noticed; about twenty of these ruffians, divided into two platoons, face each other, and at the sound of pipe and drum dance forward and back, passing through each other's lines, brandishing their guns high in the air, until at a point in the dance when one platoon gives a wild shriek, reversing the muzzles of the guns to the ground, and giving a simultaneous leap in the air, they fire off their guns all together. Then this platoon runs off to an attendant who stands by with an open bag of powder to reload, and its place is taken in the dance by a fresh troop. I saw this thing kept up for an hour, to the intense delight of performers and audience. The feet and legs of some of the participants were bleeding from wounds made by careless discharge of guns, but this was quite disregarded. Generally some eyes are put out and some lives lost by explosions in these celebrations.—Tangier Cor. Boston Transcript.

Saved by a Horse.

A gentleman in Massachusetts once told me the following story; and the style of the man should be mentioned as part of the scene. The narrator was tall and muscular, of manly, almost noble presence. He said: "I once owed my life to the good will of a horse, and it was thus: I was farming in Vermont. It was winter; the ground was covered with deep snow. That snow was coated with a hard, sharp crust. I was driving in a sleigh a pair of horses. At a place in the road, where but a single track had been broken, and where to turn out into the cutting icy crust would give pain to horse and trouble to man, I met an old couple driving a single horse in a cutter. I tried to turn my horses out into the crust. They would not turn out. I jumped out and took them by the bits to compel them. One of them sprang upon me, threw me down in the deep snow and knelt on my breast. I was helpless; I could not stir. I thought, my end had come, when my other horse seized her mate by the cheek with her teeth, pulled him off from me and held him till I got up and was safe. Then with voice and movement she showed joy and delight as plainly as ever did man or woman."—Swiss Cross.

NATIONAL LIBRARY AT WASHINGTON.

Rare and Curious Works—Queer Old Bibles—Valuable Autographs.

The National library contains many rare and curious works. It has some of the most valuable books ever published in America, and among these is the first American Bible printed in European tongue in this country. It is a German Bible, which was printed at Germantown in 1743 and which Mr. Spofford bought at a book auction about two years ago. It is kept in a box like case in one of the alcoves of the ground floor, and is truly a curiosity. Though not as thick as Webster's Dictionary, it weighs about as much, and though printed over 120 years ago, it is still in good condition. It is about six inches thick and eight inches wide, by ten or twelve inches long. It is bound in oak boards, covered with a rich brown leather, and on its corners there are heavy brass bosses, with little heads jutting out of them to keep the leather from resting on the table. Its clasps are of leather, with brass fasteners, and its paper, now yellow with age, is printed in queer old German type. The first page is in colors, and on the fly leaves there are several genealogical records. It was originally owned by a German, but in 1798 it was bought by Enoch Rittenhouse, a member, I doubt not, of the old Rittenhouse family of Philadelphia.

Another Bible that the library has is that printed for the Indians by John Eliot in 1663. This is the first Bible printed in America. It was printed in Cambridge, and in the Indian tongue. The library has a chapter devoted to Bibles, and the chapter of theological works is the largest one in the library. I looked at this big bookcase of Bibles the other day; they are of all sizes and shapes, from the little vest pocket edition to one big enough almost for a mounting block for horses. They are in all dialects and languages, and the Chinese Bibles look like so many bunches of manilla wrapping paper. The print of these Bibles is as queer as the languages in which they are printed, and they have every style of types, from the illuminated script of the monks of the middle ages to the common print of to-day.

The manuscripts of the National library include many valuable autographs. Among them are two autograph journals of George Washington, one of which was made during Braddock's expedition and one in 1787, at Mt. Vernon. Here is a private journal of Arthur Lee while he was minister to France, at the breaking out of the revolution, and there are two volumes of an original military journal of Maj. Gen. Greene, written now over 100 years ago.

The National library was founded about 1801, and the first instalment of books was carted to Washington in trunks. They were ordered from London, and they cost altogether $5,000.—Frank G. Carpenter in The Cosmopolitan.

Soda Water for Everybody.

Mono lake is another sheet of water that is full of soda, borax, and other minerals in solution. The waters of both Owens and Mono lakes is a natural detergent. The dirtiest and griest of clothing is made clean in half a minute by simply rinsing the article in the lakes. If lathers naturally when agitated. When there is a high wind a wall of suds three or four feet in height is seen along that shore upon which the waves beat. This quivering wall—in which are seen all the colors of the rainbow and as many beauties as are shown by the kaleidoscope—would grow to a height of ten or twelve feet before toppling over, but that when it attains a certain height the wind catches it up and wafts great balls of it far inland.

Some of these floating balloons of lather are as big as a flour barrel. As the prevailing winds are from the west, all vegetation on the eastern shore of the lakes is killed for a distance of many rods. When there are unusually high winds the balls of suds are blown so far inland as to reach clumps of willows and other bushes, the leaves of which are then seen to be scorched as though by fire. The water, just as it comes from the lakes, would make an excellent shampoo for the use of barbers; and the solid matter resulting from evaporation would make a fine washing powder for laundry use.—Virginia City Enterprise.

Fiction Must Be Interesting.

When all is said and done the first business of fiction is to interest. If this business be accomplished in a seemly manner, without any violation of decency and morality, (to be sure, there is much virtue in this!) there can be no right reason for complaint. The late George Henry Lewes was not, perhaps, an extremely wise man, but he made one very sensible observation on this head. "If an author," he wrote once in an essay on Dickens, "if an author makes me laugh he is humorous; if he makes me cry he is pathetic. In vain will any one tell me that such a picture is not laughable, is not pathetic; or that I am wrong in being moved." Beyond this there is no passing. Mr. Lowell (and you and I, good reader, with him) may prefer, when we settle down in our arm chairs with a book in our hands, to be taken out of ourselves and away from our neighbors, as far as this psychical transportation is possible—those neighbors, whom in the flesh we are always so glad to see, and whose affairs we are never weary of discussing. But if our neighbors think differently, so let them think.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Leather Shoes for Horses.

The day will come when the present mode of protecting the foot of the horse will be discovered to be a mistake. His horny substance was never intended to be pierced by nails. No wonder that so many horses fall lame and are perpetually ruined. We were recently shown a horse shod in leather. It struck us an excellent idea and worthy of adoption. We should not be surprised that leather shoes had superseded shoes of iron. If, however, iron be a necessity, let it be nailed on the leather shoe. Now, shoemakers please get up a neat set, and show them to all your horsey friends. Don't take "no" for an answer; stick to them till you have overcome their prejudices. When you have succeeded apply to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for a medal, and if they decline to give you one be content to know that you have done more good than the society in question with all its wealth.—Scotch Paper.
