A POSSIBLE DANCER. In reference to the new regulation of the Board of Education, requiring all uncertificated teachers who have not-been ten years in the service of the Board, to Submit to an examination, it might be said that there is a possible danger of attaching too much importance to a teacher's possession of knowledge, while lightly estimating his capability for communicating that knowledge to his pupils. A man certainly cannot teach what he does not know. But he may be unable to teach what he does know. Ability to communicate knowledge does not always accompany the possession of knowledge. An examination may discover the extent of a teacher's acquaintance with English, Arithmetic, Geography, &c., but it can never teil whether he or she is gifted with that faculty which enables him or her to become a successful teacher of those branches. No amount of bill for the work done on a certain scholarship can, of itself, constitute a teacher. Besides, no man or woman can ever rank high as a teacher of youth who is not gifted with those heart qualities which capture the affections and confidence of children. Some of the world's best educators have been persons of no great amount of learning. But they have had the special qualifications which neither Normal Schools nor certificates can confer upon them. Teacher's of limited literary attainments, with the other essentials, are preferable to those of greater learning, but deficient in the other essentials.

A COMMENDABLE OBJECT.

It is always more pleasing to say a word of commendation for any act which we conceive to be in the line of right, than to utter condemnation of an act which we believe to be wrong. And we are now impelled by pleasurable feelings to refer approvingly to a new departure which we sincerely believe is calculated to be promotive of an improved tone of society. The new departure referred to, is the Queen's informal and quiet little tea party of Thursday last, which, we are given to understand, was the first of what is meant to be a monthly institution. The object sought, is the of a natural naphtha fountain, which

A FLAW.

A couple of weeks ago attention was directed, in the columns of this paper, to what was considered a flaw in section 21, on page 8, of the Rules and Regulations made by the government for conducting elections of Nobles and Representatives. The objectionable part is that which gives power to the Inspectors to "examine the ballot so far only as to determine whether the same contains more than one ticket." Within the past few days several gentlemen, acting independently, have asked us to again call attention to the matter, at the same time intimating their intention not to vote unless the re gulation is amended. As stated on the occasion when the subject was referred to before, the evident object of the regulation is simply to prevent a voter depositing two ballots instead of one. But anyone can readily perceive that while an inspector is opening a ballot sufficiently to see whether it is single or double, he may at the same time, if so inclined, ascertain for whom it is cast : or, at least, there is an easy possibility of his doing so. This should be carefully avoided, and no opportunity of the kind allowed for infringing the secrecy of vote by ballot. So far as our experience goes in countries where balloting is done on slips of paper and folded, similar to what is intended here, there is no opening or unfolding whatsoever, until the opening of the ballot box, and then if two or more are found wrapped together they are both or all rejected as informal. Thus while strict secrecy is pre-bringing together of the best elements of Honolulu Society and the creation of a healthy condition of sociality. The object is in the highest degree commendable and the intention worthy of all encouragement. It is to be hoped that the ladies of Honolulu will do all in their power to encourage the idea, and for the accomplishment of the object.

SUPREME COURT OPINION. DEPARTMENT JUDICIARY,

Honolulu, Aug. 29, 1887. Sir :--- The Chief Justice has had the honor to receive the communication from His Majesty's Cabinet of Aug. 24th, in which the opinion of the Justices of the Supreme Court is asked upon,

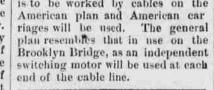

First, Does the Constitution prohibit Notaries Public, Agents to take acknowledgments (of deeds) and agents to take acknowledgments to labor contracts, from holding seats in the Legislative Assembly? In reply to this, I have to say that Notaries Public, receiving appointment by the King in Privy Council, on the nomination of the Minister of the Interior, being subjects, being required to take an oath of office, and holding office during His Majesty's pleasure (see Secs. 1266-7 of the Code) are officers and come within the prohibition of Art. 20 of the Constitution.

Agents to take acknowledgments to Labor Contracts are officers appointed by the Minister of the Interior (see Chap. 30 of the Acts of 1886).

Agents to take acknowledgments to deeds, are appointed by the Registrar of Conveyances under the direction of the Minister of the Interior. They hold office at the pleasure of the appointing power. The Registrar whose agents they are, holds office at the pleasure of the King. Such agents therefore come within the description of officers in Art. 20. The payment by fees, does not make the holder of an appointment less an officer than if he were paid by salary. They are within the mischief intended to be remedied by this clause in the Constitution, which was to prevent the Legislature from being filled by person holding or seeking Government appointments.

We beg leave to call attention to the phraseology of the question, "hold seats in the Legislative Assembly;" and to say, that in our view, the term of the Constitution "Eligible" to election plainly im-

A similar phenomenon occurred on the following night. It was soon discovered that an eruption from Lok Batan had taken place, and the following information was furnished by the railway officials at Ponta Station: "Quite suddenly, at eleven o'clock at night, the noise of an explosion was heard, and the summit of Lok Batan shot up an enormous column of fire, some 350 feet high. The whole country was instantly lit up brighter than day, and the heat could be felt at nearly a mile from the crater. There was scarcely any wind, so that the column continued to ascend quite vertically, carrying with it, as could be seen, large dark substances, which appeared to fall again into the volcano. This lasted, with short intervals of subsidence, all through the night and the following twenty-four hours, but luckily the matters ejected did not reach the railway station. The volume of muddy liquid thrown out is estimated at half a million cubic sojenes -the Russian sujene equaling seven feet-and has spread itself over more than a square mile to a depth of from seven feet to fourteen feet." The new Thames tunnel railway is to be worked by cables on the American plan and American car

The Third Ward electors' meeting at the Reformatory School, will commence at 7 o'clock this evening. Several short addresses will be delivered by residents of the Ward and gentlemen from other Wards. The meeting will be public.

A REJECTED CLAIM.

On Saturday last in the matter of the bankruptcy of John M. Kapena, before Preston J., was heard the petition of H. Macfarlane & Co., creditors, setting forth that the assignee of the estate had refused to pay their claim of $586.44 against the estate, and praying that the assignee show cause why he should not be ordered to pay said amount. P. Neumann appeared for the creditors; Chas. T. Gulick, assignee, in person. The claim, filed, showed that liquors were the items charged in account against the bankrupt for several years prior to 1882. The assignee claimed that he was liable only for the sum of $30 for liquors sold after the statute of 1882, which authorized the selling of intoxicating liquors to Hawaiians, and contended that the account as it stood prior to said statute was unlawful. Mr. Neumann asked that the Court file a decision, and argued that the rejection of the claim was irregular and the debt was a valid one against the estate. The decision on this point will be an unprecedented one.

and will involve the question as to whether the bankrupt or assignee owes the debt. By the bankruptcy laws now in existence, the bankrupt becomes divested of his title in all his property immediately upon his adjudication as a bankrupt. Then follows the proof of claims against (not the bankrupt) but his estate. Decision reserved.

BLAINE INDORSED.

CHOICE OF THE PENNSYLVANIA REPUB-LICANS FOR PRESIDENT. Harrisburg, August 17 .- Tha Republican State Convention was called to order by Chairman Cooper of the State Committee this morning, and Walter P. Lyons was elected Temporary Secretary. He thanked the convention for the honor and said this was a skirmish of the great battle of 1888, and therefore it became the party to act wisely and well and to see that the party platform was such as the great fight of the future could be made upon with safety. William R. Hart was nominated

State Treasurer by acclamation. Henry W. Williams was nominated on the first ballot for Supreme Judge. The platform as adopted reaffirms the declaration of 1886 in favor of submitting to the vote of people a prohibitory constitutional amendment and indorses the action of the last Legislature in the submission of an amendment making suffrage free by abolishing the tax qualification ; it favors a tariff for the sake of nurturing American manufactures ; demands the passage of more vigorous national laws for the scrutiny of immigration; expresses abhorrence of anarchistic ideas and demands that any violations of law by this class be met with severe punishment: favors the creation of American marine ; declares that the surplus of the Treasury cannot be better expended than in the enlarge-The Royal Hawaiian Band will ment of the general pension list, so play at Thomas Square this evening as to include all honorably discharged soldiers who may be in need: it arraigns the Democratic party and the present National Administration for general imbecility in dealing with all national questions, affirming that the only energy they have exhibited has been in the displacement of experienced officers in direct violation of the civil-service pledges; charges President Cleveland with readers for the original poet to wax relations between England and Irecold. "Most can raise the flower, for all have got the seed." Consequently the flower is apt to be taken for a weed. Another charge against Rosetti was the charge of morbidness, unwholesomeness and so forth. He never would have been thought half so morbid if so many people had not caught the complaint. Languid, lazy and emaciated figures of Loves in rosy wings, and with rococo musical instruments, became as common literature as Cupids in that of Alexandria. One or two of these very equivocal looking Loves are still wandering in the Grosvenor gallery. The invasion of such un-desirable figures was attributed to

Mr. Rosetti, With him this imagery was natural, and at first hand the

Loves strayed out of old Italian poetry into his. But his imitators with pen and brush begot so many felt. of these images of desire that they became a nuisance. "Then out-laughed the stern philosopher, and said to the grotesque, arrest me that agency." Mr. Rosetti did not seek oopularity, rather it was thrust on him. His extreme sensitiveness made it possible for him to suffer from the sling and arrows of an un-important and provincial piece of criticism. Since his death his private ways and the circumstances of his failing health have been written about, much as if he had been President Garfield after the fatal shot. His imitators have given a false air of cheapness to his work, as the chrysanthemum pattern on plates suffers from inexpensive copies in carthenware. But he remains, and will remain, a poet of great origin-ality and power in the re-creation of romance.

A CURE FOR ALCOHOLISM.

I was one of those unfortunates given to strong drink. It reduced me to degradation. I vowed and strove long and hard, but I seldom held victory over liquor long. I bated drunkenness, but still I drank. When I left it off I felt a horrid want of something I must have or go distracted. I could neither eat, work nor sleep. I entered a reformatory and prayed for strength; still I must drink. I lived so for over twenty years; in that time I never abstained over three months hand-running. At length I was sent to the House of Correction as a vagrant. If my family had been provided for I would have preferred to remain there, out of liquor and temptation.

Explaining my affliction to a felow-prisoner-a man of much education and experience-he advised me to make a vinegar of ground quassia; a half ounce steeped in a pint of vinegar, and to put about a small teaspoonful of it in a little water and drink it down every time the liquor thirst came upon me violently. I found it satisfied the cravings and diffused a feeling of stimulation and strength. When I M. W. MCCHESNEY & SONS. was discharged I continued this cure, and I persevered till the thirst was conquered. For two years I have not tasted liquor, and I have no desire for it. Lately, to try my strength, I have handled and smelt whisky, but I have no temptation to take it. I give this for the consideration of the unfortunate, several of whom I know have recovered by the same means which 1 no longer require to use .-- [Connecticut Home.

THE TOURIST SCHEME.

It may be remembered that not long ago a San Francisco tourist agent for the Hawaiian Islands was warmly spoken of and subscribed towards, by leading institutions of this city. The scheme was apparently obliterated by the late political troubles, and it was thought that it would never be revived. But it has been ascertained that one hunderd and seventy five dollars have already been subscribed towards paying a live man, not yet known, to secure tourists at San Francisco and ship them down here. The movers are now waiting for the return of certain gentlemen who are now abroad, and whose influence is required to further the venture.

endeavoring to nurture sectionalism in order to preserve the solid Democratic South by preference to distinguished stations of soldiers prominent in their efforts to destroy the Government ; by his refusal to sanction pensions to soldiers eminent in their efforts to sustain it, and by his rebel-flag order. The closing part of the seventh plank says: "The Republicans of Pennsylvania, the native State of Hon. James G. Blaine, will view with high pleasure his nomination for the Presidency in the campaign of 1888. An accident cannot abate the love of a great party nor the admiration of a great people for a statesman, true alike to his convictions and to his country."

Resolutions were also adopted denouncing discrimination against the colored race in the South and extending sympathy and greeting to Gladstone, Parnell and their associates. Atter the adoption of the platform, the convention adjourned with three cheers for the platform.-[S. F. Chronicle, Aug. 18, 1887.

ROSETTI AND HIS IMITATORS.

The London "Daily News," discoursing upon the recent unveiling of the memorial to Rosetti at Cheyne Walk, Chelsea, England, remarks: Part of Rossetti's charm for young writers and critics is doubtless the peculiarity of his style. No man can do much without a style of his own. Rosetti had plenty, and what he had was not free from the vices which are so seductive because they are so easily imitated. The young-est lady can make "thereof" rhyme to "love." Even a schoolboy could throw the accent on the last syllable, where some other syliable is commonly sounded more emphatically. Tricks of this sort prevailed among verse writers for some time after Rosetti's volume was published. These peculiarities certainly gave new sonnets and lyrics a complexion of their own. But the peculiarities were only tolerable when
