ADDRESS.

Delivered by Hon. L. A. Thurston at Nuuanu Cemetery.

MEMORIAL DAY, HONOLULU, MAY 30, 1895.

MR. THURSTON said:

The life of a nation is composed of long years of common place detail; of providing the means of existence; of that which is honorable and conducive to material prosperity, but not particularly productive of public spirit and patriotism. But there stand out, like headlands rising from the sea, events in the history of every country which force it out of the deadening groove of daily existence and lift it above the level of the common place. Events which stir the blood, concentrate thought and action and leave their impress graven deep upon the history of the nation, of the individuals composing it and of the world.

Of such a character was that greatest event of the 19th century, "the war for the Union."

For nearly a generation the energies of the nation had been concentrated upon the commercial development of the country. The growing sectional differences had drifted along through varying phases of conflict and compromise, without radical change one way or the other. As is usual, the radical party was concentrated in council and aggressive in action; while the conservatives were divided and undecided. The bold and determined policy and the rapid and decisive action of the leaders of the South were viewed by the North with bewildered surprise and disbelief in the possibility that the Southern leaders really meant the dismemberment of the Union, while Northern sentiment was divided and councils uncertain.

Then came the event which up to that time had seemed an impossibility. The descendants of those who for long and weary years had fought, suffered and died, to put the stars into the ensign of freedom, turned their hands in anger against the emblem of liberty and union and the period of uncertainty was ended.

The story of Sumter will be a household tale when many of the decisive battles of history have passed into oblivion; for it was the opening act of the mightiest tragedy of the ages.

The issue of the giant conflict involved not only the honor of the flag, the unity of the nation, the freedom of the millions of slaves in the Southern States; but it involved the cause of freedom and liberty and progress, and advancement and representative government throughout the world.

It is impossible to conceive of the limits of the disaster to the human race had the great rebellion succeeded.

The sound of the guns which laid Sumter in ruins, reached but a few miles and a few ears; but the knowledge of what had happened rolled out across the country in thunder tones which reached every hamlet and every citizen within the bounds of the Union, producing such a profound sensation, such an obliteration of party differences such unanimity of spirit, such a spontaneous uprising in support of principle as the world never saw before and may never see again. PRINCIPLE—that is the distinguishing feature of the great conflict.

The funeral services over the remains of Monsieur Henri Leon Verley, the late Consul and Commissioner for the French Republic, will be held at the Roman Catholic Cathedral on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, after which the body will be conveyed to the Roman Catholic Cemetery on King street. Friends and acquaintances and the public generally are invited to attend.

Three Little Lawyers.

We sincerely hope that our compositors will get the heading to these remarks correct and not place us in the embarrassing position of calling the three eloquent orators of Wednesday, "three little something else."

Messrs. Smith, Hatch and Thurston found it necessary to appear before the hundred and score men who were gathered in the American League Hall, and explain their honest intentions, their solid determinations and their positive belief in annexation.

We do not know if the 120 men present at the meeting were sufficiently taken in by the eloquence of three celebrated attorneys. All we can say is that there must be some lie knocking around somewhere, and we are inclined to believe that the lie is in the bosom of the three little lawyers.

Mr. W. O. Smith stated that John Richardson "lied" when he gave out the statement that Smith was against annexation.

Let us see for a minute who of the two is entitled to the credence of the public.

Mr. John Richardson, a prominent lawyer, a leader among the Hawaiians and, as we have reason to believe, a personal friend of Mr. W. O. Smith, wrote a letter in the month of March to a relation in Honolulu, in which he stated that he had interviewed Mr. W. O. Smith, who had been on a visit to Maui, and had from him received a suggestion, or advice, or hint, to the effect that it would be well for the said Richardson not to throw his lot in with the rabid jingoists, the loud-mouthed annexationists, the unbridled howlers who howl, day and night for the destruction of the independence of this country.

Mr. Smith may give the lie to Mr. Richardson because the latter is absent. But who is interested in the matter, who will the thinking citizen believe in?

Mr. Smith's political life is imperilled if John Richardson tells the truth.

John Richardson has absolutely no interest in placing Mr. Smith in a false position politically or otherwise. We believe, in fact that he has proved his great confidence in him by nominating him as guardian for his orphan nieces and nephews a few days ago. Mr. Smith is not in favor of annexation except he and his crowd can control the government under the stars and stripes. He gave his honest opinion to John Richardson when he warned him against joining the new annexation party without consideration or hesitation. When Mr. Smith, in the presence of the 120 gentlemen present at the American League Hall, talks differently, he circumvents facts and he plays to the gallery.

Mr. Thurston denies that he ever approached anybody in regard to a Kaiulani monarchy. He admits that it was whispered upon his arrival here that he was in favor of such a movement. Now he has been here for several weeks and he must know that the American papers are teeming with references to his monarchial intentions. He admits that conciliation is a necessity and he dares not repudiate the accusations against him in the face of the prominent Hawaiian who sat opposite to him when he delivered his well prepared address, and who laughed in his face. Mr. Thurston in 1892, in the Legislature, stated that he would go into partnership with the devil if he thought that he thereby could gain his point. Would a man of the principle indicated by that utterance hesitate in telling an ordinary, commonplace lie to the 120 followers whom the League was able to raise on that right.

Mr. Hatch joined in the annexation song and he took the first part in his abuse of the planters. Does anybody believe for a minute that these three lawyers, each of whom is in the pay more or less of sugar barons, really mean what they say when they tell 120 horny-handed sons of toil that they are their bosses and that the planters are offensive, obnoxious and obstructive?

Thurston, Smith and Hatch are three very nice fellows when you meet them around the streets, but when they combine and as a trio try to throw dust in the eyes of the community they are not successes and their careers dine Museum freaks will be limited and "Auntie" General Nevin Armstrong, their exhibitor, will be out of a job.

Restless.

The Hawaiian man-of-war left port shortly after the return of the army from the memorial exercises. It is understood that the modern cruiser now carries three guns and will catch Ashford's whaleboat around the corner.

MEMORIAL DAY.

U.S. and Hawaiian Troops Escort the Battle-Scarred Veterans.

BEAUTIFUL DECORATIONS OF GRAVES.

Memorial Day, formerly called Decoration Day, was well observed in Honolulu yesterday. Outside of the United States for some years, the only post of the Grand Army of the Republic—an organization composed of those who had served in the defense of the Union in the great conflict between the North and the South of the United States—was Geo. W. De Long Post of Honolulu. Later a Post was established in Montreal, Canada, and another in the capital of Mexico.

Yesterday's celebration in Honolulu consisted of a grand military parade and literary exercises with military accessories at Nuanu Cemetery. At 3:30 p.m. the military procession formed in the following order:

Honolulu Police Force 36 strong under Captain Robert Parker.
Hawaiian Government Band.
National Guard Corps under Corporal W. O. King.
National Guard of Hawaii (six companies).
Pioneers U. S. Philadelphia.
Floral Decorations borne by detachment U. S. N. blue-jackets.
U. S. S. Philadelphia Band.
U. S. S. Philadelphia Band.
U. S. S. Marines, Captain Cochran.
Five Companies U. S. N. blue-jackets, Lieut. Ingersoll.
G. A. R.
President Dole, Adjutant General Soper and Capt. Kinney in carriage.
Ministers Hatch, King and Smith in car.
U. S. Minister Willis and Consul-General Mills in carriage.
Admiral Beardslee, Capt. Cotton and officers of the U. S. S. Philadelphia in carriage.

Colonel McLean, commanding the National Guard of Hawaii, Captain Pratt, Capt. Cooper, surgeon of the battalion, and Lieut. Col. J. H. Fisher and were mounted.

The U. S. N. bluejackets were under command of Lieut. Ingersoll. The National Guard regiment was commanded as follows: Co. E, Captain Good; Co. D, Captain W. C. Wilder Jr.; Co. C, Captain Canara; Co. B, Captain E. O. White; Co. A, Captain Paul Smith; Co. F, Captain Ziegler.

Every company of the National Guard was at full strength.

There were 31 veterans of the Union in the G. A. R. contingent. Solemn music was played by both bands on the way to the cemetery.

Comrade C. H. Eldredge was Marshal of the day.

Arrived at the cemetery the troops formed in a hollow square about the G. A. R. lot.

Post Commander J. N. Wright read "The Duty of the Day." After a sacred piece by the bard L. L. La Pierre offered the prescribed prayer.

P. C. J. N. Wright, read, "Today is the Festival of our Dead." The decoration of graves was led by W. McCandless, Officer of the Day.

After another reading by the chaplain and music by the Government band, Mr. Thurston delivered the oration elsewhere printed in full.

Adjutant W. L. Eaton called the roll of the dead:

Then the U. S. marines fired three volleys over the graves. They did this in perfect time.

A choir joined by the audience sang "America," after which Rev.

D. P. Birnie pronounced the benediction.

While "America" was being sung 16 men of Co. F fired a salute of three volleys over the graves of the Kala'au victims, and a similar detachment of Co. A fired a salute over the grave of D. L. Huntsman.

NOTES.

An obelisk of Hawaiian volcanic stone about 8 feet high has been erected over the grave of D. D. Huntsman, with the following inscription on a metallic plate.

"In memory of Comrade D. L. Huntsman, died March 23, 1893. Erected by Co. A, 1st Regiment, N. G. H. The grave lies between us and one we love. MOTHER."

The grave of Jules Tavernier the artist was not neglected. It had a small vase of flowers at the foot of the monument erected by the Bohemian Club of San Francisco.

There was a remarkably beautiful decoration over the graves of the late Capt. John Dominis and wife, parents of the late Prince Consort, Governor Dominis.

Among private decorations of graves, the palm should be given to those of the Cummins lot.

After decoration of the American Soldiers' graves the Hawaiian band played "Aloha Oe" with a pathos that drew tears from many eyes.

The graves of Harry Silverwood and H. Griffin, engineers of the S. S. Australia, were not forgotten.

A prominent lady of the "missionary" persuasion said to the Independent man that she hoped he would "burn up" some persons who kept up a talking and a laughing during the solemn ceremonies. She said they did not seem to realize that they were standing practically by the open graves of fellow creatures. Our representative said that probably they were not brought up better. "Oh, yes," was the lady's reply, "they belong to the best families of Honolulu, but they kept up a clatter that prevented us, who were near the speakers, from hearing anything."

Hurrah for the Cable.

Hon. Andley Coote, member of the Legislative Council of Tasmania and Consul for Hawaii in that country, was spoken to by an INDEPENDENT representative at the Hawaiian Hotel last night.

Mr. Coote, on being asked if he was on cable business, said he would prefer to talk about that matter after he had met with the Government.

He said, however, that Honolulu was bound to be buckled on to the Pacific cable system he represented.

Mr. Coote was asked if he was fighting Sanford Fleming's "all British" cable scheme.

He said he was not. The cable must be an international enterprise, with Great Britain the Colonies, the United States, and France co-operating.

In further conversation Mr. Coote gave information of great enterprises that he was prepared to enter into here, but of which he did not deem it advisable to make public mention at the present time.

Mr. Coote is going away from here by the steamer Australia on Monday.

Most of the prominent business houses closed yesterday at noon.

Economy is the watch word. Government and private concerns alike are interested in solving financial questions. The killing of the Income Tax in the United States has been a surprise party to many people, but at the same time it has not been an unpleasant surprise to the majority. We realize of course that the Cleveland administration will now have its hands full and we equally are aware of the difficulties of the republic of Hawaii. If the INDEPENDENT can be believed the government is running behind every day. No government can afford to do without the tax-payers being ready and willing to back it up and on the alert to dig up the necessary wherewiths and wherfors. To meet the times we have exerted ourselves and we have found a "baby" that will beat anything in its line. This "baby" is a sewing machine and it ranks with the smartest "babies" in the world. You can sew anything on it and do it just as well as on a patent—steam-foot—tramping machine. The "Baby" goes by hand and it fills the ticket every time. To meet the hard times we have reduced the price of this infant "sewer" and we sell it at $3.50 a piece. Three dollars and a-half doesn't buy a "baby" every day and hardly a government bond, but our sewing machine is there for that small amount.

We can also recommend a whistle to you. It is called the Develine Whistle and a devil of a whistle it is. It sounds like a syren and it makes noise enough to scare away Thomas Square hoodlums or even mounted police horses.

Our Seymour's trimmers are the shears called for by every household. They are sharp, cutting and irresistible. Once used never forgotten—especially if used for scalping purposes. In all the articles we have mentioned to-day, we have been dominated by a sense of economy. We know that taxes will go up and for the sake of our customers prices will have to go down. Now Whistle or Trim Sey-more the Baby.

The Anchor Saloon is the only place in town where you can get book beer. The ladies say that Major Potter is the handsomest officer in the army. Weather clear, wind fresh north, was the 10 p. m., report from Diamond Head. Commissioner Marsden received five cases of plants from Sydney by the Monowai. Today at 10 o'clock the great habes corpus esse will be opened before the Supreme Court. B. B. Bendall, the courteous purser of the Monowai, has our thanks for report of passage, Colonial and Samoa papers, etc. If you are tired of the hot and dusty town, there is no better place for rest and recuperation than at Haniwai Baths. Smooth bathing beach and fine surf. Walkiki cars pass the door. Mr. Dryden is still the royal mail agent on the Monowai. It is a pleasure to see his pleasant face again. Oyez, Oyez, Oyez! Don't you know that L. J. Levey is going to sell a big lot of dry goods at the store of M. S. Levy on Saturday evening. A large invoice of NEW GOODS arrived on the Australia for N. S. Sachs. For Stylish Millinery, fine Laces and Embroideries and pretty Wash Materials go to N. S. Sachs, 320 Fort street. There will be a French dinner at the Hawaiian Hotel on Saturday evening, with music by the Quintette Club and a following dance in the lanai. F. J. Kruger, practical watchmaker, Corner of Fort and Merchant streets. Repairing watches a specialty. The celebrated Wiener Regulators. Just the thing for an appropriate present to your friends. The Christian Church, of which Mr. Garvin is pastor, will build a house of worship on the lot now occupied as a lodging house by Mrs. McLean on Alakea street. There was lots of work done at Bishop's bank yesterday evening. The clerks figured, foiled and foamed. Tomorrow it will be Damon's bank, although it is understood that the name of the firm will remain intact. "20." is the number most frequently called over the telephone wires. It rings up the UNITED CARRIAGE COMPANY'S stand, where Superior Hacks with safe and courteous drivers, are always to be found. A complete livery outfit, including buggies and waggonettes, furnished at the shortest notice. J. T. Arundel, the guano merchant, who sold the steamer Explorer to the Hawaiian Government in 1886, is a through passenger by the Monowai. The Explorer's name was changed to Kaimiloa. Hon. Audley Coote, member of the Legislative Council of Tasmania, arrived by the Monowai. He is well-known as a promoter of the Pacific cable, and a subsidy to him and his associates was granted for such a work by the Hawaiian Legislature in 1886. Potatoes, onions mullit and beehives from New Zealand were among the merchandise landed by the Monowai. Twenty cases of limes and a case of curios came from Samoa, and general merchandise, tea, whisky and ale from Sydney. S. S. Monowai. The R. M. S. S. Monowai, 2136 Tons, Capt. M. Carey, after an absence of seven months, arrived in port at nine o'clock last night. She left Sydney on the 13th inst at 5 p. m., and arrived at Auckland on the 17th at 10 p. m. Left Auckland next day at 2:30 p. m., and arrived at Samoa on 22nd 10 p. m., made a stay of six hours and arrived as above. The Monowai resumed her voyage for San Francisco at midnight. The steamer had three passengers originally for this port, but several more stayed over to see the islands.

Observations.

Dear reader, in the wildest flights of your imagination did you ever dream that Mr. Sanferd Ballard Dole, President of the so-called Republic of Hawaii, would condescend to send an embassy to the court of the Honorable T. B. Murray, to plead for an extension of his tenure of the Presidential office. This is what he did on Wednesday night, just this and nothing less. Imagine the scene, if you can, with the aids which we can contribute. Look upon Boss Murray in the seat of honor, in the hall of the American League, surrounded by his faithful henchmen of the league, and entering the door the most puissant Minister of Foreign Relations, His Lilliputian Excellency the Attorney General, Special Pleader Thurston, and last but not least, Jester Armstrong. After bowing after the most approved Japanese style. Listen to the pleading of the ex-Minister to Washington, begging for an extension of time in which to meet annexation promises given at sixty days, over twenty-eight months since. The decision of the Boss was reserved. We wait patiently for it in the belief that the depths of humiliation have not yet been reached. Speculating upon the causes for the failure of the conspirators of January 17th, 1893, in their efforts to establish a popular independent government, for nobody believes now that they were honest in their cry for annexation, a gentleman advances the idea that it might reasonably be ascribed to the fact that there were too many lawyers, or what pass for lawyers here, in the government and councils. We read the other day in a United States paper that: "The fifty-third Congress (excluding vacancies) consists of 441 members in both houses, 85 Senators and 356 Representatives. There are 58 lawyers in the Senate, about 68 per cent of the whole number, and 229 lawyers in the House, nearly 64 per cent. Add to these the Chief Executive and the Vice President, and seven out of eight members of the Cabinet, and we have 296 lawyers out of a total of 450 members of the legislative, administrative and executive departments of the National Government, nearly 66 per cent, which is 15 per cent more than the majority." It goes without saying that the 53rd Congress failed in securing popular support, and deserved to, from our point of view, because they refused to support the President and his advisers in their righteous purpose concerning these islands. The failure of the income tax law to stand the test of constitutionality is a rebuke to the large legal element in both Houses. We also read that in "the composition of the British House of Commons we find only 22 Attorneys and Solicitors out of 640 members, 3 1/2 per cent as compared with 64 per cent in our (United States) lower House. Out of 17 members of the British Cabinet there is but one lawyer. Right or wrong, the masses in England do not favor the 'special pleader' as a champion of their claims, and they practically exclude him from the House of Commons."

SPORTS.

Race Track Notes.

The Mokuleia horses arrived Tuesday. They looked well but they and the trainer are mum like Colburn's oysters; there are some prospects that they will get there all the same. The tri tters did some very neat work last Tuesday morning. Fred Mac appeared with a bran new harness, a new "bike" and presumably some of Dr. Pottier's celebrated horse medicine on the tail. He surprised the spectators by doing three mile heats in 2:35, 2:33, and 2:30 1/2. Billy Button looked like a daisy and wormed around in 3:02, 2:50 and 2:45. Creole laid off, but as a matter of exercise jogged a mile in 2:39 1/2. Lord Brock stretched his legs and went around in 1:51. Well, it is unsafe to give horses away and the sporting editor is being growled at every morning by the racing fraternity. He can't even borrow Johnnie Hayward. It must not be forgotten, though, that Sam Wilder's "saddle" horse may be around and "trot." She is a beautiful little mare. Agnew sold her to Wilder and although she hasn't so far got a record she will soon have it, especially if she is entered in the 2:50 class. She is the daughter of Eros and is only five years old. A better bit of horse-flesh never came to these islands. As a bullock following, lasso-dispensing, ordinary kanaka saddle horse, Mr. Wilder may find Alvina a failure. Before the wheels of a light rolling bike she will be a success.

Boating.

There is beginning to be some interest in boating circles, and if the boys don't get "broke" on the race track or killed at the ball games the prospects are good for a decent boat race. The Leilani has got a professional trainer and the boys are doing some unusually good work every morning. The Healanis are going to have a little race of their own next Saturday. They have got two crews. One is composed of the government dudes and the other of the town dudes. Both are crews of six and the losers will pay for a dinner at the Arlington. The town dudes are supposed the winners. The Healanis have got an ex-member of the Pioneer Club of San Francisco in its crew and they feel way on top.

Baseball.

The Stars will beat the Kams next Saturday regardless of the fight between the alumni and the school boys. Lionel Hart, the handsome little Chinese "consul" and pitcher, cannot appear, and Harry Overend will throw the ball. The little "consul" has got the gripe very bad, but he hopes to have lungs enough to be around as a spectator and yell "lovely eyes" "well, well, w e-l-l" every-time "Duke" makes a base slide. Sam Woods says he is all right, but he looks as if he had fourteen ribs broken at the last game.

Y. M. A. C. Building.

As the extended portico of the Y. M. C. A. building is up in the rough, some idea can now be formed of the appearance of the pile when completed. The portico is of the same style as the old one, but it extends the whole breadth of the old building. It has Corinthian pillars and will, to some extent, relieve the building of the bastle likeness threatened by the stiff lines of the gymnasium annex. The portico comes flush with the front of the annex, which extends, say, eight feet beyond the front wall of the old building. It is regarded by many observers as a mistake to have brought the annex out from the front line of the old building. Perhaps the gymnasium required the extra eight feet or so, but the break in the line of the facade, together with the absence of a front entrance direct into the gymnasium, is considered anything but an architectural success. The rear of the building is made positively hideous with the prison-like, bare elevation of the protruding annex, and the squat walls and roof of the baths are in repulsive contrast with the lofty walls on their flank and rear. The gymnasium floor will be half a story below the ground floor of the old building, and reached by a descent of a stairway therefrom. There are three broad windows between the front room on the right of the entrance, looking in, and the gymnasium. Beyond the hallway leading to the gymnasium there is a room extending the whole breadth of the old building, which will be the reading room. Internally the alterations in the old building will, probably, provide in comfort what the exterior of the whole pile will lack in beauty. The gymnasium and improved reading room will be a boon to the rising generation, and doubtless a valuable counter attraction to places where youth should never be found.

A Great Benefit.

Miss A. M. Paris has recently opened, for the benefit of the traveling public and ailing ones, a first class hotel at Kailua, Kona, Hawaii, where one can obtain anything desired in the way of good-living. The bathing is excellent, and the climate of Kona is so well and favorably known, that it is unnecessary to say that it is as equal in the islands. The terms are very moderate. The house has been appropriately named S-a-Breeze on account of the cool breeze that prevails at all times.

(From the First Page.)

There have been wars of conquest; of revenge; to gratify the pride of rulers; but it is the proud fact that the two great wars which have been waged upon American soil have been for none of these; that they were fought in support of principle of such far reaching and penetrating character that the material, political and moral future of the world was involved in the issue.

The first Decoration Day celebration that I ever attended was fourteen years ago to-day, when I stood on Fifth Avenue, in New York City, and saw the Grand Army of the Republic, forty thousand strong, march down the Avenue, with a number of the old battle flags floating over them. The sight simply thrilled me, as it does to this day, when I think of it. It is one thing to read of soldiers in general. It is another thing to look in the faces of the men who were the actual participators in the conflict; who themselves faced death; and to see the flags, all tattered and torn and shot to pieces, which they and hundreds of thousands of others like them, had followed to victory and the brink of the grave. There were the very men who had deliberately exposed themselves during long years to the cruel exposure of rain, sleet, snow and wind; to the disease of camp and the shot and shell of the enemy; seeking no personal advantage; no aggrandisement of territory; demanding no indemnity when it was all over; giving back to their conquered opponents every foot of territory which they had bought and paid for with their blood and with the lives of thousands of their fellow countrymen and the tears of the widows and orphans at home—and all this, for PRINCIPLE.

It is a perpetual inspiration to think of it. Is it any wonder that the nation—that nation which exists today solely because of what these men did—has set apart a day out of each busy year to do honor to the memory of the brave men who laid down their lives that the nation might live?

In doing this the nation is not only honoring them, but it is sowing the seed which will ripen and make rich return in the years to come; when the war for the Union and the men who fought it shall have passed out of living memory and taken their places in History alone.

It is good for a nation to periodically pause and take its thoughts off from business and present cares, and call to mind the grand deeds in its history and the grand men who participated in them. What man has done man can do. The recalling of what the nation has accomplished; of the gigantic obstacles which it has met and successfully overcome; of the principles which the grand old flag stands for; of the heroism and the sacrifices of the men who made it represent those principles—all these are direct inspirations to loyalty and patriotism in the future, when but for such reminders memories might grow dim and hearts respondless promptly to the country's call in the hour of need.

It is peculiarly fitting that here, in far away Hawaii, we should simultaneously with the millions across the water be assembled for the purpose we are. Since the stars and stripes first fluttered in the friendly breezes of Honolulu, a subtle bond of sympathy has bound Hawaii and America together, which distance cannot break nor time interrupt.

When the echoes of Sumter's guns rolled westward across the prairies and mountains, thrilling the millions with their martial appeal, they did not stop at the Golden Gate. They rolled on across the vast void of the Pacific, until they reverberated through the volcanic fastnesses and the sunny vales of Hawaii, quickening the blood and stirring the hearts of those who were no less loyal to the land of their adoption because they were true to the principles of the Motherland.

And so it was through that long and weary four years of watching and waiting. For every throb of agony that swelled the heart of the nation, as each bloody battle multiplied the terrible roll of the dead, an answering wave of sympathy was wafted back from the shores of Hawaii, while from her limited resources men and money were freely and liberally contributed to the army, the navy and the Sanitary Commission in support of the great issues upon which hung the common fate of the Western world. And so it has been ever since. I sometimes think that a man's patriotism increases as the square of the distance that he is from home. Certain it is that nowhere, not even in Faneuil Hall itself, is there to be found more intense Americanism, more devotion to the principles that America typifies and represents than are to-day found in the Republic of Hawaii.

We know not what the future may bring forth; but this we do know; that, regardless of what else happens, Hawaii and America, their rulers and their people, in the years that are to come as in the year that are past, will each year unite in cordial sympathy with the Grand Army that is living to do honor to the sacred memory of the Grand Army that is dead—dead but not forgotten.
