On the day when the small merchant advertises more than he can "afford to," and the big merchant less than he should—less than he MUST, even to hold his place in the race—the small merchant has "taken a trick" in the game, gained a rung on the ladder; and is strengthened for the next trial of strategy.

RUSSIAN LIEUTENANT WOUNDED ON GUNBOAT IN HARBOR OF CHEFOO

Lieut. S. Petroff, who is a passenger on the China today, had his own experience in the war with Japanese war vessels, and he does not care to repeat it. As a result he had several bad months in the hospital and carries an ugly scar today on his breast.

Lieut. Petroff was first officer of the famous and ill-fated Russian gunboat Keshtels, which was prominently before the world's eyes last year because of an alleged breach of international law by Japan. While the Keshtels was lying dismantled in the harbor at Chefoo on August 8, 1904, the commander of a Japanese gunboat ordered the Japanese colors to be run up. The Keshtels and her officers and men were unarmed and defenceless, but they protested the action and as a result the Japanese vessel attacked the Keshtels. In the combat, which of course resulted in an easy Japanese victory, Lieut. Petroff received a severe wound in the breast. He was taken a prisoner of war, but paroled, and is now on his way to Russia with Mr. Goretseff, Russian Vice Consul at Chefoo. Both declare that the Japanese attack on the Keshtels was a flagrant breach of international law. The true name of the Japanese vessel, say the Russians, was never given out, even in the Japanese press.

IROQUOIS LEAVES FOR IAYSAN TODAY

The U. S. S. Iroquois will leave this afternoon to begin her search for the missing schooner Chas. Levi Woodbury, Captain Harris. By cable today the Iroquois was authorized to make the search for the schooner, and as Captain Niblack has the Iroquois ready for the sea, no time will be lost in setting forth to find the little schooner and the fifteen persons aboard her.

Yesterday afternoon the Naval Station was advised by cable from San Francisco that the U. S. S. Iris with supplies for Midway has been delayed a fortnight at Mare Island. Captain Niblack at once cabled asking authorization to take the Iroquois out on the search. About 1 o'clock today a cable was received giving the necessary permission.

The Iroquois has had her boilers newly repaired. She loaded coal this morning. Supplies are all aboard, and which refused to discuss the matter. The commander's name was Terashima.

The Russian lieutenant joined the China at Shanghai and neither he nor Goretseff left the vessel at the Japanese ports, fearing complications might arise.

STRUCK BY A FISH, JUDGE WHITNEY WAS BADLY WOUNDED

Police Magistrate W. L. Whitney met with a serious and very unusual accident while sailing in his gasoline launch at Pearl Harbor yesterday afternoon. He was sailing along unconcerned and taking in the beauties of the scenery, when a fish leaped from the water and he felt it strike his shoulder as it passed over the little boat.

The blow was not severe but when Mr. Whitney looked at his shoulder he found that spike on the fish had cut through his coat into the flesh, making a very severe wound. The wound bled so profusely that he left the boat as soon as he reached shore and Mrs. W. W. Hall assisted him in binding it up and checking the flow of blood.

The fish that struck Whitney was a Kaku which averages about three feet in length. It is a very strong fish and makes a vigorous fight when caught, but it is very unusual for this denizen of the deep to go out of its way to swat passing motor boat occupants.

Five Cases Decided In a Bunch By Tax Appeal Court BOARD'S WORK IS ALMOST COMPLETED

The Tax Appeal Court yesterday afternoon delivered a bunch of decisions which practically disposes of all the tax appeal cases of this island with the exception of that of the O. R. & L. Co., in which briefs are to be submitted. The decision of this case will be somewhat delayed, as Deputy Attorney General M. F. Prosser, who represents the Tax Assessor in all the Oahu appeal cases, has gone to Hawaii to prosecute in a Japanese murder case, and his brief will therefore not be ready for some time. The appeals decided are those of the Enterprise Mill Co., Ewa Bottling Works, Antonio Perry, Mary L. Peters and Eliza S. Wilder.

In the case of Eliza S. Wilder the taxpayer's return was $20,000 and the assessment $30,000. The court placed the valuation at $24,000. The property involved was a lot on the corner of Pensacola and Pihokoi streets.

In the case of Antonio Perry the taxpayer's return was $2,500. The court as of Jan. 1, 1905, as an enterprise for profit, to have been the sum of $11,325, divided as follows, to wit: leasehold interests, $7,000; machinery, $4,000; and building material on hand, $250; and places the valuation at $2,700. The

MAUI CELEBRATED WELL With Tennis and Dance The ANNEXATION ANNIVERSARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WAILUKU, Maui, Aug. 16.—Annexation day was generally observed all over Central Maui Saturday. The principal business places were closed at least half of the day.

The attractions and amusements were many. At Kahului, horse racing; at Paia, a baseball game and a tennis tournament, and luau and dancing at various points.

A chief event of the day was the tennis tournament held on the Sunny-side courts, Maunaloa Seminary, near Paia. Several hundred people were in attendance to view the first tennis tournament ever held on the Island of Maui. Two handsome silver cups were offered as trophies to the winner by the Punene Athletic Association. There were two courts, and from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. eighteen couples; the winners of each set of fours playing the winners from the other set—contests for the Maui tennis championship. Throughout the play the contest was highly interesting and not once during the day did the interest of the spectators lag.

The finals were played by C. C. Krumbhaar, Rev. B. V. Bazata and Rev. Wm. Ault and Sam Ball. The final play for this set of fours was for the best two of three. The first two were won by Mr. Krumbhaar and Rev. Bazata, with a score of 6-2 and 6-4, and they were awarded the possession of cups, until the next annual contest.

HEART AND KIDNEYS OF YAMAGATA WILL BE EXAMINED

The heart and kidneys of Yamagata, the Punene Japanese who is alleged by some to have been killed by Engineer Douse, arrived this morning in the steamer Maui, being brought by Captain of Police Copp.

Deputy Attorney General Peters notified the Japanese Consul and arranged for the examination of the heart and kidneys by Dr. Ushida and Dr. Mori. Peters and Dr. McDonald and Dr. Cooper will be present at the examination which will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Japan Terms Moderate, Thinks Russian Diplomat, Russia Likely To Accept

That Japan's terms of peace as offered to the Russian commissioners are not unreasonable, is the opinion of a Russian diplomat who is a through passenger today on the Pacific Mail liner China. Furthermore, this man has hopes so strong as to amount to belief that Russia will accept Japan's terms even to the cession of Saghalien and the large reimbursement, and considers that peace between the warring nations is not far off.

Mr. N. Goretseff, who expresses the above opinions, is on his way to St. Petersburg after a year in the Orient. During the war he has been Vice Consul at Chefoo, and has recently been recalled to the Russian capital. He came aboard the China at Shanghai, where he has been for some time. It is possible that he may go to Portsmouth, N. H., unless the peace conference is ended before his arrival in the States.

Mr. Goretseff is accompanied on his way to Russia by Lieut. S. Petroff of the Russian navy. Neither had heard Japan's proposed terms until told by a Bulletin reporter this morning. When told that most of the points had been agreed upon, the Russians were much surprised, but very glad. Neither regards peace as unlikely; in fact, they say that if Russia has all

HEIRS ARE AFTER MAGOON TRUSTEE

Antone Rodriguez, Anna Aloa and Joe Kulla, a minor, and Rosellina Kulla, minor, by their guardian, Kulla, have filed a petition to appoint trustee against Kalama Rodriguez, Peter Rodriguez, Maria Coelho, Simeon Rodriguez, a minor; J. A. Magoon, trustee, and J. P. Mendonca.

The complaint shows that Dec. 11, 1891, Antone Rodriguez died, leaving 290 acres of land in Kailhi and personal property worth $1500. His will was entered in probate in 1892 and a view of installing new machinery in Antone Rosa appointed administrator, trustee and guardian of the minors.

On Sept. 26, J. A. Magoon was appointed trustee of the estate.

Bruce Hartman, the manager of the Sanitary Steam Laundry, returned yesterday from the mainland where he has visited numerous steam laundries with a view of installing new machinery in the local plant.

The Board of Education will hold a regular meeting tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock.

Douse Held In Jail With Porto Ricans and Japs For Company

"I have no doubt that the final outcome of this will be all right for me," said Alfred Douse, who is now in the Wailuku jail on a charge of murdering Yamagata, "but I do not like this confinement," indicating with a motion the jail enclosure.

He was the only white man in an assembly of twelve or fifteen other prisoners, who were Japanese and Porto Ricans.

"Of course, I am glad to see some one I can talk to, but my attorneys have advised me to say nothing in regard to my case," he replied, when questioned as to whether he had any further statement to make for publication.

When asked if he expected to give bail, he said: "It is pretty big and I don't know."

Asked if he knew anything of the talk that his employers would go his bail if it were not for fear of inciting the Japanese to strike and possibly attempt his life, also of creating the impression that the plantation was protecting him, he said:

"I know nothing of this talk, and anyhow I am willing to accept bail from anyone if I can get out of here."

When Douse was seen yesterday evening by a Bulletin man, he had a Review of Reviews in his hand, which he had been reading. He is a man of perhaps 30 years of age, black hair, has a moustache a shade lighter than the hair, with grey eyes; in all, a rather pleasant countenance and of the intelligence of an average American mechanic. He has been working in the Punene Mill for two years; previous to that time in various parts of the Island. Among his fellow workmen he is well liked, and is the direct opposite of the men usually pictured as murderers, although one might judge him to be impetuous after an acquaintance or a short conversation.

The Court of Land Registration will take a vacation for the rest of the present month. Judge Weaver will spend his holiday in Koolau, while Clerk W. L. Howard will take a trip to Maui.

ATTEMPT TO KILL EMPRESS.

Tientsin, August 16.—An attempt was made today on the life of the Dowager Empress. One of her guards bayoneted her assailant, who was dressed as a soldier. As Li An, Dowager Empress of China, is the daughter of a Manchu soldier who was taotai, or governor, of Wuhu, where Li Hung Chang was born, and is one of the most remarkable women in the world. Originally one of the women of the harem of the Emperor Hsien Fung, she rose to be Empress of the Western Palace, her sister being Empress of the Eastern Palace or first wife of the Emperor at the same time. After the death of this Emperor in 1861, the two sisters, whose affection was very great, were made joint regents during the minority of T'ung Chih, and ruled in his name until he died in 1875. Then, according to law and precedent, they were allowed to choose his successor from among the male members of the imperial family, and selected Kung Hsu, son of the Seventh Prince. The sister of the present Dowager Empress died in 1881, and after that Tai An served as regent until 1889, when the Emperor was formally placed upon the throne. The Dowager Empress retired then, but afterwards returned to power, and her connection with the Boxer uprising is recent history.

WRITES SUPERVISORS FOR ORDERS FOR AUGUST

SPECIAL SESSION TO ARRANGE WARRANT FOR SUBMISSION TO SUPREME COURT. KEWALO KICKS.

A special meeting of the Oahu County Board of Supervisors was held yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the instance of the County Attorney, to settle the arrangement of the test case to be taken to the Supreme Court in the matter of the legality of blanket warrants. All Supervisors were present except Cox and Paie.

The reading of the minutes occupied some time. After their approval, Adams, for the Expenditures Committee, presented a supply demand for $200 for County office rent for July and August. Ordered paid.

For the Roads and Bridges Committee, Lucas reported having, at the request of business houses, ordered the repair in places of the road leading to the Hackfeld wharf. He thought $1,000 extra should be allowed for road work.

County Attorney Douthitt presented the matter of the blanket warrant test. The warrant to be used to determine whether blanket warrants are legal or whether all payments must be made by individual warrant, amounts to $14.25 and is for the Police and Fire Alarm System. A previous order, providing for payment of the men whose claims of a day or two are included in the warrant, was rescinded and a new demand was made. This warrant will be presented to the Treasurer and refused payment and then go to the Supreme Court with a submission of the facts in the case.

An anonymous letter, signed "Kewalo Resident," drawing attention to the bad condition of Queen street, was read, but no notice of it was taken by the Board.

The following was read by the Clerk and referred by the Chair to the Committee on Sanitation and Health: Mr. D. Kalauokalani, Jr., Clerk, County of Oahu, Honolulu.

Sir:—I beg to inform the Board of Supervisors that the Garbage and Excavator Payroll for the present month is made up and classified as follows:

Clerk .....	$5.00
Collector .....	$5.00
Office boy .....	40.00
Pump luna .....	55.00
Foreman .....	60.00
Watchman .....	50.00
Stableman .....	50.00
Two earth closet men at $50. ..	100.00
Total .....	$595.00
(All of these full time.)
One Stableman .....	45.00
Two Iwilei dump men at $45. ..	90.00
One Kalia dump man .....	45.00
Three excavator tenders—aver- age at $45 .....	135.00
13 regular garbage men at $45. ..	585.00
Total .....	1465.00

Extra dump, garbage and excavator men as required.

The men enumerated at $45 per month do not work the full number of days in the month. Heretofore it has been the practice to pay the laborers on the basis of calendar days in the month, adding the included Sundays to the total number of days worked and making this sum the number of days to which men were entitled.

Under the Territorial regime the men worked for the most part practically the full month. At present the payroll is made up so largely of fractional months that a more exact system would be to pay the laborers on the basis of the working days in the month.

In the present month there are 27 working days, and each laborer would be entitled by this system to as many twenty-sevenths of the month as he has worked days. By the former system, the laborer would be entitled to the number of days worked plus the additional Sundays allowed and his pay would be at the rate of 1-31 of $45 per day.

I request instructions from the supervisors as to which system I shall adopt in paying off the men for the month of August. I have my own ideas as to the best method, but as the two methods have been subjects of considerable acrimonious controversy in the community recently, I do not care to adopt either without the authority of the Honorable Board.

Very respectfully,
C. M. WHITE,
Acting Superintendent of Garbage and Excavator Service.

The Board adjourned until 7:30 p. m. next Wednesday.

CHINESE SKETCH AT ZOO SCORES GREAT SUCCESS

When the curtain fell last evening on the last act of the vaudeville show in the Zoo theater the crowd that had assembled filed out thoroughly pleased with the evening's entertainment, for it was a varied program and fund for much amusement.

The Japanese juggler after doing a little sleight of hand, balanced on a pole, set in the ground, and on top of this he made himself perfectly at home, and took things as easily as if he were on his feet. Following him, the bag puncher did a clever lot of hammering on the leather bag, and received good applause for his work.

He is young but he knows how to punch a bag in a heap of styles. The magician amused with some well taken tricks of bringing a myriad of umbrellas, string paper, etc., out of envelopes and after having been securely tied with ropes by a gentleman from the audience extricated himself in a couple of seconds without any difficulty. His act was very well received.

Mr. Ernest Kaal with his guitar, accompanied two young men on the mandolin, who played a very pretty selection for which they received well merited applause.

NEW AUTO BATTERY

New York, July 28.—Thomas Edison has made the unqualified declaration that he has solved the problem of providing cheap and serviceable electric traction for vehicles.

"By October my light battery will be ready for the market, and we will be ready to equip automobiles of all descriptions," he said. "To reach the goal for which I aimed and keep down the cost to a trifling portion of what present batteries cost to keep alive, I determined upon a simple combination of iron rust, potash and nickel rust. For a time it failed me, but now I have accomplished the result with these ingredients, and a new light battery is an accomplished fact.

"It will weigh one-half of the present batteries in general use, and will be about the same size, although it stands somewhat higher in its proportion than the other. As to its power there can be no question. A new factory where the cell batteries are to be manufactured is being erected in Orange, and the automobiles will be built and equipped there."

HOLLAND SENDS SEARCHER FOR FRANS HALS PAINTING

CONSUL BIGELOW IS ASKED TO DISCOVER IF IT IS POSSIBLE IN HAWAII

Acting Consul for the Netherlands G. L. Bigelow has received the following request to discover a lost work of art:

Washington, D. C., July 25th, 1905.
Dear Sir:—I have the honor to send you herewith a description of a picture of Frans Hals, which has been stolen from the Royal Picture Gallery, Mauritshuis, at The Hague.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs, in sending me this communication from the Minister of the Interior at The Hague, charges me to publish it extensively. I therefore request you to make it known as widely as possible in the States in which you are appointed Consul, in such manner as you may deem most suitable.

I am, dear Sir,
Yours truly,
The Secretary of the Netherlands Legation, Charge d'Affaires a. l.

E. DE TUYLL DE SCROOSKERKEN
To the Netherlands Consul, Honolulu.

The Minister of the Interior at The Hague, calls the attention of the general public to the fact that on the morning of the 7th day of July, 1905, between the hour of ten and eleven o'clock a small picture of Frans Hals, was taken from its frame in one of the rooms of the Royal Picture Gallery (Mauritshuis) at The Hague. The picture was painted on wood and was nine and one-half inches long and seven and one-half inches wide. It represented a man, half length, the body half turned to the left but full face. The upper right arm and the left arm as far as the ruffe are visible. The man is represented as wearing a cassock of black silk, a very large lace collar and a hat with a large border. His moustaches are turned upward and he has a pointed beard. The background of the picture is grayish blue.

A reward of 1500 (five hundred florins) will be given to anyone who will bring this picture back, or will furnish any details which will lead to the finding and restoration of this valuable article.

All information regarding this matter, kindly address, as soon as possible to the Director of the Royal Picture Gallery, (Mauritshuis) at The Hague.

WIFE HELD STOCK

Washington, July 28.—Dr. George T. Moore, physiologist and geologist of the Department of Agriculture, to day tendered his resignation to Secretary Wilson, and it has been accepted. This action is the culmination of a hearing at the Department yesterday at which it was alleged by two representatives of an agricultural publication that Moore's wife held stock in a company manufacturing culture for soil inoculation, while Moore, who had charge of the preparation and revision of bulletins regarding the enrichment of farms, directed the farmers to the concern in question for their supplies of the culture.

The resignation of Moore and its immediate acceptance were announced in a statement issued by the Department today. This statement consists of Dr. Moore's letter to the Secretary and an attached explanation of Moore's relation with the nitro culture company, the concern manufacturing the material for soil inoculation.

Dr. Moore says he resigns because of criticism against him. He says he did not wish to embarrass the Department.

Puunene appreciates the worth of fact found in the expression, "It never rains, but it pours".

To clothe the same idea in some what less harsh terms, will put the carbuncle ordinance among the long-tailt wants of Honolulu.

The people who escaped the second explosion are likely to remember that curiosity is not to be safely gratified in a dynamite establishment.

Russia's Vice-Consul at Cebu has been in the midst of war's defeats long enough to prevent his prejudice from getting the best of his judgment.

As reports from both sides thicken, it is steadily impressed upon the public that Maui has furnished a case that will put Justice in Hawaii to the sv peme test.

The Novoe Vremya has recently republished a plea for an alliance between Russia and America written in 1859. The trouble now is that Roosevelt has tried to reform Russia with ill-success.

Some Chinaman was of the opinion that China can never awake till the Empress Dowager is put to sleep. Though this may be true in a measure, murder does not aid the progress of any nation, however deep it may be in the depths of governmental darkness.

Aside from the idiotic Russian slur, the anonymous letter sent to the Supervisors regarding the condition of Queen street has an element of virtue. It is rather difficult to keep a rough portion of the town clean, when the public administrators don't set the first example by giving the roadways some semblance of decency.

Everything in the market to suggest that Hawaiian capitalists are passing through a season of bond fever. Since stocks are no less valuable than before, it is to be presumed that the affluent gentlemen have reached the point in life where they prefer the ease of cutting coupons to the worry of wondering whether the return will be five per cent. or twenty five.

COMMENT ON CARTER

There is no doubt that Governor Carter put himself distinctly in the limelight of the mainland critics which he made his trip to Oyster Bay. Incidentally the critics have not been slow to direct their shafts. The comment is not all one way. It is apparent however that the same thought has come to some mainlanders that has appealed to local people, namely, that Mr. Carter will have more difficulty in maintaining the dignity of his position now than before the resignation incident, for the reasons that are obvious to one who follows the detail of events.

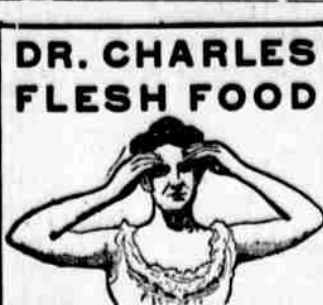

The point occurred to the Boston Herald and something of the same idea is voiced in Harper's Weekly which delivers itself as follows in its most recent issue received: We have sometimes thought that Dr. St. Clair McKelway's most striking and fascinating note—that of high, though judicial, morality—sounds less true in the summer months. Our readers will recall several instances of soft-pedalling about a year ago, although later there came a crash of righteous indignation over poor Corielyou that must have made the late Mr. Wagner's lamented dust turn green from envy. Now listen! We have a sort of Governor of Hawaii. All he has to do is to behave himself and not meddle too much with the innocent pastimes of the natives, who are anything but free, but have to be happy because they are associated with us in business under the star-spangled banner. Just now this official is Mr. George R. Carter, who got along so ill that he came home, and went out to Oyster Bay and handed in his resignation; but either the President took to him or nobody else wanted the job, and he decided to go back. At the station he was interviewed by the Tribune.

"What seems to be the matter out there?" the Governor was asked. "Well, principally my own inability to get along with the rest of the administration." "Who was to blame for your inability to get along?" "George R. Carter, mainly." Dr. McKelway quotes approvingly, congratulating the President upon having induced the Governor to return, and says, with characteristic emphasis: "A man who thus imputes blame to himself, when he could easily have laid it at the door of other folks 6000 miles away and unable to defend themselves, is capable of any good. Voluntary acceptance of the responsibility that implies censure is not so popular as it might be in these days." "Maybe so; maybe so. But what if the man is telling the truth? Suppose all the 'turmoil and turbulence,' as he himself describes it, really is the effect of his own faults—of temperament, tactlessness, or what not? Then he would better make way for another, wouldn't he? On the other hand, if he is not to blame, of course he does not tell the truth. No, no; the doctor's chivalric disposition leads him astray. Instead of indicating that Mr. Carter is capable of any good," this little interview very clearly stamps him as a conceited ass, capable only of a silly pose while trying to be smart, and having little or no appreciation of the real dignity and serious responsibilities of his position. Neither Harper's nor McKelway have it exactly right, though there are times in Hawaii who will hold up their hands and shout "Hear, Hear" for each. McKelway doesn't state the whole truth when he suggests that the Governor did not put any blame upon the people 6000 miles away. The New York Times correspondent, for instance, got the idea that Carter was about to return and make it hot for "the politicians." Hawaii doesn't understand yet what Carter or the Times means by the "politicians." The remark however carries with it the impression that in the conference not all the blame was shouldered by the good natured Governor. Harper goes astray when it puts the Governor down as making a silly pose. When Governor Carter is in good fettle, it is as natural for him to temporarily shoulder all the responsibility for everything that's wrong about him, as it is for him to eat. He changes his mind however—like other men—when the burdens get thick and the pathway full of brickbats and chuck holes.

The epitome of this varied mainland discussion shows that the peculiar position of the Governor's has attracted the attention of keen observers of public events. Therefore his methods of handling the situation will not be set aside indifferently when he once more gets in intimate touch with the real problem.

HIS LIFE WAS CRUSHED OUT. (Continued from Page 1.) the rails. The engineer slowed down his engine in order to prevent accident as the rails were slippery. Notwithstanding his efforts to prevent even the slightest accidents on the road, the first he knew was the front car was off the track and the passengers were scattered all over the ground. Fugl was standing in the front car and no one seems to know exactly how he fell. He was found by his comrades under the car in a very much lacerated condition, his face cut up horribly with one of his eye balls sticking out of its socket. The man was unconscious when he was taken out from under the car. He was immediately removed to the Puunene Hospital but he never regained consciousness until he passed away three hours later. Seven others in the same car were also injured and two of them very severely. These two are still confined in the Puunene Hospital. As soon as the news of the train accident reached Walluku Sheriff W. E. Saffery empaneled three jurymen from Walluku and the balance were selected from among the employees of the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company. The coroner's jury and the coroner in chief together with J. Love, Jr., Japanese interpreter, and E. H. Rogers, Sheriff's clerk, went to the hospital and viewed the body of Fugl. The following is the verdict of the coroner's jury: That Fugl, aged 28, a native of Japan, came to his death on August 14th, 1905, from injuries received from the accidental derailment of a car on which he was riding, at Puunene, through no fault of the engineer of the train. SCHOONER ENTERED WITHOUT INSPECTION

The little three-masted schooner Bertie Minor came near getting into trouble yesterday afternoon on her arrival here. She entered the harbor without waiting for health inspection, and was opposite the lighthouse before boarded by the doctors. The captain explained that he understood no inspection was made after five o'clock so probably nothing will come of the matter. The schooner is 21 days from Eureka with a cargo of 230,000 feet of lumber. An uneventful voyage is reported.

STILWARD DARING DEAD

CHIEF DIED ON BOARD THE CHINA

TUBERCULOSIS CAUSE OF DEATH ON AUGUST 13—IN EMPLOY OF P. M. S. CO. FOR 11 YEARS.

The homeward trip of the Pacific Mail liner China is marred by a death that occurred on board. J. G. Darling, chief steward of the China, died from tuberculosis early on the morning of Sunday, July 13. He had been unwell for some time past and a severe hemorrhage of the lungs caused his death shortly after. Mr. Darling was attacked by the first hemorrhage a year ago, and obtained a leave of absence. After his return he was in greatly improved health, and talked to friends hopefully of his condition. On the outward trip he once or twice complained of pains in his chest, but was otherwise well. About 11 o'clock on the morning of August 12 he was attacked by a severe second hemorrhage, which lasted about three minutes. He never recovered from the effects, dying at 12:30 o'clock on the morning of August 13. Darling was one of the best known stewards on the Pacific ocean. He is well known to Honoluluans and had hosts of friends here and at San Francisco, his home when ashore. He has been chief steward in the employ of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company for the past eleven years, entering the service in 1894. He was chief steward on the Coljon and the Starbuck and for five years has been chief steward on the China.

Darling was born in Portsmouth, England, in 1863, being 42 years old at the time of his death. He came to America 25 years ago, and was a naturalized citizen. He leaves a wife and two children, 13 and 11 years of age, in San Francisco. The body was embalmed and is being taken on the China to San Francisco, where interment will probably take place.

Blocks to be well bedded, laid true to line and grade and the joints between the blocks filled with cement grout. At street corners curb to be carried around on a curve, the radius of which to be not less than width of sidewalk. Section 2. All curbing laid under the provisions of this ordinance shall be laid, jointed and set in good, substantial and workmanlike manner and in accordance with the direction and under the Supervision of the County Road Supervisor. "The penalty for violation of the above, as proposed, is $100 fine. If the fine is not paid immediately the person so fined shall be committed to prison and the time of such imprisonment shall be deemed to discharge the fine at the rate of one dollar per day.

During the morning a six-inning game of ball was played on the field near the seminary, between the Hamakua-poko and Pauwela nines. The game was chiefly interesting in the vigorous rooting done by both sides. After six long innings, the Hamakua-pokos carried off the honors by a score of 16 to 4. Sam Kellewa acted as umpire. Dance at Paia. In the evening, twenty-five or thirty people gathered at the home of E. H. Ploper. The Paia quintet was sent for and, upon its coming, the evening was very pleasantly spent in dancing. During a wait between dances a motion was made that a social club be formed. This met with the hearty approval of everyone present. The club was organized and henceforth will give a dance at least once a month in Paia. Leong Hong of Kula gave a luau during the day to his Hawaiian friends. There was at least a hundred people present and at noon were served with a fine feast. After the feast many of the natives went to the Mormon chapel nearby, where services were held.

The Adventure of Black Peter

No. 6 of the Series (Copyright, 1904, by A. Conan Doyle and Collier's Weekly.) (Copyright, 1905, by McClure, Phillips & Co.)

HAVE never known my friend to be in better form, both mental and physical, than in the year '95. His increasing fame had brought with it an immense practice, and I should be guilty of an indiscretion if I were even to hint at the identity of some of the illustrious clients who crossed our humble threshold in Baker Street. Holmes, however, like all great artists, lived for his sake, and, save in the case of the Duke of Holderness, I have seldom known him claim any large reward for his inestimable services. So unworldly was he—or so capricious—that he frequently refused his help to the powerful and wealthy where the problem made no appeal to his sympathies, while he would devote weeks of most intense application to the affairs of some humble client whose case presented those strange and dramatic qualities which appealed to his imagination and challenged his ingenuity.

In this memorable year '95 a curious and incongruous succession of cases had engaged his attention, ranging from his famous investigation of the sudden death of Cardinal Toscani—an inquiry which was carried out by him at the express desire of his holiness the pope—down to his arrest of Wilson, the notorious canary trainer, which removed a plague spot from the end of London. Close on the heels of these two famous cases came the tragedy of Woodman's Lee and the very obscure circumstances which surrounded the death of Captain Peter Carey. No record of the doings of Mr. Sherlock Holmes would be complete which did not include some account of this very unusual affair.

During the first week of July my friend had been absent so often and so long from our lodgings that I knew he had something on hand. The fact that several rough looking men called during that time and inquired for Captain Basil made me understand that Holmes was working somewhere under one of the numerous disguises and names with which he concealed his own formidable identity. He had at least five small refuges in different parts of London in which he was able to change his personality. He said nothing of his business to me, and it was not my habit to force a confidence. The first positive sign which he gave me of the direction which his investigation was taking was an extraordinary one. He had gone out before breakfast, and I had sat down to mine when he strode into the room, his hat upon his head and a huge barb headed spear tucked like an umbrella under his arm.

"Good gracious, Holmes," I cried, "you don't mean to say that you have been walking about London with that thing?"

"I drove to the butcher's and back." "The butcher's?"

"And I return with an excellent appetite. There can be no question, my dear Watson, of the value of exercise before breakfast. But I am prepared to bet that you will not guess the form that my exercise has taken."

"I will not attempt it." He chuckled as he poured out the coffee.

"If you could have looked into Al-lardyce's back shop you would have seen a dead pig swung from a hook in the ceiling and a gentleman in his shirt sleeves furiously stabbing at it with this weapon. I was that energetic person, and I have satisfied myself that by no exertion of my strength can I transfix the pig with a single blow. Perhaps you would care to try?"

"Not for worlds. But why were you doing this?"

"Because it seemed to me to have an indirect bearing upon the mystery of Woodman's Lee. Ah, Hopkins, I got your wire last night, and I have been expecting you. Come and join us."

Our visitor was an exceedingly alert man, thirty years of age, dressed in a quiet tweed suit, but retaining the erect bearing of one who was accustomed to official uniform. I recognized him at once as Stanley Hopkins, a young police inspector, for whose future Holmes had high hopes, while he in turn professed the admiration and respect of a pupil for the scientific methods of the famous amateur. Hopkins' brow was clouded, and he sat down with an air of deep dejection.

"No, thank you, sir. I breakfasted before I came round. I spent the night in town, for I came up yesterday to report."

"And what had you to report?" "Failure, sir; absolute failure."

"None." "Dear me! I must have a look at the matter."

"I wish to heavens that you would, Mr. Holmes. It's my last big chance."

initials noticed that the door of the hut was open, but so great was the terror which the man caused that it was mid-day before any one would venture down to see what had become of him. Peeping into the open door, they saw a slight which sent them flying with white faces into the village. Within an hour I was on the spot and had taken over the case.

"Well, I have fairly steady nerves, as you know, Mr. Holmes, but I give you my word that I got a shake when I put my head into that little house. It was dripping like a harmonium with the flies and bluebottles, and the floor and walls were like a slaughter house. He had called it a cabin, and a cabin it was, sure enough, for you would have thought that you were in a ship. There was a bunk at one end, a sea chest, maps and charts, a picture of the Sea Unicorn, a line of logbooks on a shelf, all exactly as one would expect to find it in a captain's room. And there, in the middle of it, was the man himself—his face twisted like a lost soul in torment, and his great bristled beard stuck upward in his agony. Right through his broad breast a steel harpoon had been driven, and it had sunk deep into the wood of the wall behind him. He was pinned like a beetle on a card. Of course he was quite dead and had been so from the instant that he had uttered that last yell of agony."

"I know your methods, sir, and I applied them. Before I permitted anything to be moved I examined most carefully the ground outside and also the floor of the room. There were no footmarks."

"Meaning that you saw none?" "I assure you, sir, that there were none."

"My good Hopkins, I have investigated many crimes, but I have never yet seen one which was committed by a flying creature. As long as the criminal remains upon two legs so long must there be some indentation, some abrasion, some trifling displacement which can be detected by the scientific searcher. It is incredible that this blood bespattered room contained no trace which could have aided us. I understand, however, from the inquest that there were some objects which you failed to overlook?"

The young inspector winced at my companion's ironical comments. "It was a fool not to call you in at the time, Mr. Holmes. However, that's past praying for now. Yes, there were several objects in the room which called for special attention. One was the harpoon with which the deed was committed. It had been snatched down from a rack on the wall. Two others remained there, and there was a vacant place for the third. On the steel was engraved 'S. Sea Unicorn, Dundee.' This seemed to establish that the crime had been done in a moment of fury and that the murderer had seized the first weapon which came in his way. The fact that the crime was committed on 2 in the morning, and yet Peter Carey was fully dressed, suggested that he had an appointment with the murderer, which is borne out by the fact that a bottle of rum and two dirty glasses stood upon the table."

"Yes," said Holmes, "I think that both inferences are permissible. Was there any other spirit than rum in the room?"

"Yes, there was a tantalus containing brandy and whisky on the sea chest. It is of no importance to us, however, since the decanters were full, and it had therefore not been used."

"For all that, its presence has some significance," said Holmes. "However, let us hear some more about the objects which do seem to you to bear upon the case."

"There was this tobacco pouch upon the table."

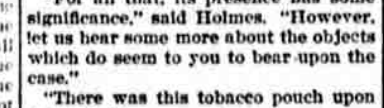

"What part of the table?" "It lay in the middle. It was of coarse sealskin—the straight haired skin, with a leather thong to bind it. Inside were 'P. C.' on the flap. There was half an ounce of strong ship's tobacco in it."

"Excellent! What more?" Stanley Hopkins drew from his pocket a dab covered notebook. The outside was rough and worn, the leaves discolored. On the first page were written the initials "J. H. N." and the date "1883." Holmes laid it on the table and examined it in his minute way, while Hopkins and I gazed over each other's shoulders. On the second page were the printed letters "C. P. R.," and then came several sheets of numbers. Another heading was "Argentine," another "Costa Rica" and another "San Paulo," each with pages of signs and figures after it.

"What do you make of these?" asked Holmes.

"They appear to be lists of Stock Exchange securities. I thought that 'J. H. N.' were the initials of a broker and that 'C. P. R.' may have been his client."

"(To be continued) Would All Be Wasted."

Glady's—You lazy boy! Make haste and wash your face and brush your hair before the visitors come. Willie—Oh, yes, and suppose they don't come?

"Doctor Luke of the Labrador." By Norman Duncan. Cloth; 12mo.; 327 p.p. Fleming H. Revell Co., New York. $1.50.

Mr. Norman Duncan has scored a deserved success in this novel which now enters upon its fourth edition.

The story would perhaps be called realistic; it is simple and true to the little known but most interesting life of the inhabitants of our Labrador coast.

There is the flavor of a wild sea coast on every page, with perhaps more of a very peculiar dialect than is entirely acceptable to most readers, but which will be endured for the sake of the narrative which shows real power and unusual literary qualities. The style is quaint and striking, being good English.

While the narrator exhibits a manly reserve of emotion yet he is very tender; a depth of feeling heaves up now and then which is irresistible.

Dr. Luke, a man who has had a "past" in London and elsewhere, comes to the forbidding Labrador coast and settles down to the life of a country practitioner. He does not come soon enough to save the reader a very harrowing chapter about the sickness and death of Davy's mother, but he stays long enough to marry Davy's sister which makes up in a great measure.

Alfred Henry Lewis, author of "The Sunset Trail," and other popular novels was born in Ohio. At present he has a beautiful home in New York where he lives.

SAD CANOE ACCIDENT IN OREGON BREAKERS
HAD MADE HAWAIIAN CANOE AND WERE SURF RIDING AMONG THE HIGH ROLLERS.
Seaside, Ore., Aug. 4.—Mild Dayton, of Portland, aged 18 years, was drowned in the breakers on Seaside beach at noon today, while returning to shore in a Hawaiian canoe.
Allen Prentice, aged 22 years, one of a party of five rescuers, came near losing his life. Dayton's companion, Charles Freeth, a native of Hawaii, came ashore exhausted and suffering from cramps, after having tried valiantly to save the unfortunate boy's life.
Dayton is the only son of Frank Dayton, the hardware dealer of Portland. The father has been sent for, and is expected to arrive tomorrow from Portland.
The mother and two sisters are here, and are bearing up bravely against the heartbreaking loss. The canoe was fashioned after a Hawaiian model, being a catamaran with a floating outrigger and was caught in a rapid succession of waves which turned it up on its bow and then capsized it. Caught by undertow.
Contrary to Freeth's instructions, Dayton jumped out on the seaward side before the canoe capsized, while Freeth jumped out on the beachward side. Dayton gained a narrow bar, where he stood waist deep, and Freeth says he supposed the boy was then out of danger, whereupon he dived under the capsized canoe for a life belt. When he came up Dayton had been swept out by the undertow and had disappeared.
Freeth endeavored to find his companion, and swam about, though cramps had partly maimed his swimming powers.
Meanwhile a party on the beach had manned a boat which is kept on the beach as a protection for bathers. In the party were P. A. Smith, Russell Smith, Allen Prentice, Henry Wessinger and a man named Oakes, all of Portland. Several of the rescuers were poor oarsmen, and the boat could not get out beyond the shore.
The craft capsized, throwing all inmates out. All gained the shore after tusseling against the waves, but Prentice was rescued with difficulty. Dan J. Moore headed an effort to run out a lifeline. Excitement ran high, and there was an unfortunate lack of life-saving appliances.
Rode Surf Wednesday.
Freeth comes from Portland, and works at the plumbing trade. He completed the craft early this week, and Wednesday he and Dayton launched it in the Necanicum, went out into the sea and sailed down the ocean to Hotel Moore, where they made a successful run in through the surf. Several trips were made through the breakers afterward.
This morning about 10 o'clock the two launched their craft and went through the breakers successfully. When they started in the breakers were rolling extra high. Dayton swam well for several minutes, but the breakers rolled him over one after another, giving him no chance to recover his breath. He was seen to throw up his hands and lie inert in the water for a few seconds, and then an enormous wave buried him out of sight.
When Freeth reached the shore he at once started back in the surf looking for his friend's body. He swam in to the surf and kept making his way north, hoping the current would bring the body within his reach. He, too, became exhausted, and came to shore. The spectators tried to prevent him from entering the ocean again, but he flung them off and plunged in the surf. This time he stayed so long that two swimmers went after him and brought him out almost a raving maniac. It took three men to hold him.
This evening Freeth is watching the shore for the body, sitting sadly in the Seaside, Ore., Aug. 4.—Mild Dayton, of Portland, aged 18 years, was drowned in the breakers on Seaside beach at noon today, while returning to shore in a Hawaiian canoe.

Allen Prentice, aged 22 years, one of a party of five rescuers, came near losing his life. Dayton's companion, Charles Freeth, a native of Hawaii, came ashore exhausted and suffering from cramps, after having tried valiantly to save the unfortunate boy's life.
Dayton is the only son of Frank Dayton, the hardware dealer of Portland. The father has been sent for, and is expected to arrive tomorrow from Portland.
The mother and two sisters are here, and are bearing up bravely against the heartbreaking loss. The canoe was fashioned after a Hawaiian model, being a catamaran with a floating outrigger and was caught in a rapid succession of waves which turned it up on its bow and then capsized it. Caught by undertow.
Contrary to Freeth's instructions, Dayton jumped out on the seaward side before the canoe capsized, while Freeth jumped out on the beachward side. Dayton gained a narrow bar, where he stood waist deep, and Freeth says he supposed the boy was then out of danger, whereupon he dived under the capsized canoe for a life belt. When he came up Dayton had been swept out by the undertow and had disappeared.
Freeth endeavored to find his companion, and swam about, though cramps had partly maimed his swimming powers.
Meanwhile a party on the beach had manned a boat which is kept on the beach as a protection for bathers. In the party were P. A. Smith, Russell Smith, Allen Prentice, Henry Wessinger and a man named Oakes, all of Portland. Several of the rescuers were poor oarsmen, and the boat could not get out beyond the shore.
The craft capsized, throwing all inmates out. All gained the shore after tusseling against the waves, but Prentice was rescued with difficulty. Dan J. Moore headed an effort to run out a lifeline. Excitement ran high, and there was an unfortunate lack of life-saving appliances.
Rode Surf Wednesday.
Freeth comes from Portland, and works at the plumbing trade. He completed the craft early this week, and Wednesday he and Dayton launched it in the Necanicum, went out into the sea and sailed down the ocean to Hotel Moore, where they made a successful run in through the surf. Several trips were made through the breakers afterward.

readily accepted the majority of the terms, the two main points of contention will probably be arranged.

"I do not regard a billion-dollar 'reimbursement' or indemnity as excessive," Goretssoff, "and I think Russia will look at it in this way: That were the war to go on it would cost us this billion without procuring peace except at harder terms. Better to pay the billion now than to fight for months and come again to the same proposition."

"We in the Orient expected that Japan would ask some such amount. Though it is not exactly fixed, doubtless it will be about the reported billion."

"The cession of Saghalien will come harder for Russia. We do not like to lose acquired Territory. Yet it is a natural request for Japan to make, and I hope and believe it will be arranged, perhaps with some reservations."

"On the whole, considering the eight conditions named by Japan, and nothing unreasonable in them. They are hard for Russia, it is true, but no harder than a continuance of war. The protectorate over Korea is certainly reasonable, the limitation of Russian naval power no more than fair, and the 'open door' beneficial not only to Japan but to all the world."

"Peace does not rest on these terms alone. It concerns the hundreds and thousands of soldiers, the people at large, and war's effect upon the country. I do not believe the true perspective of this war will be gained until thirty or forty years have passed. Then we can judge its effect on international commerce."

"What if peace is not declared? No one but those at St. Petersburg know what Russia will do then. But if the war continues, you may be sure that Russia will fight with every resource in her power, let the end be what it will. The armies are now waiting for the result of the conference, but neither is idle."

"It seems to me that the opinion which foreigners in the Orient hold for the Japanese is changing. At first of course they had every sympathy. Now, wherever I go, I hear 'We don't like these Japanese.' But war is a matter not alone of sentiment, but of policy. And foreigners express this policy in their way of talking about Japan."

"Japan began the war when both nations might have settled differences amicably. But she had a policy in doing it—a policy in showing the world that her army and navy could rank with the best. On this basis Japan claims a rank among the world powers."

"As far as I can judge, the opinion of thinking people in the Orient crystallizes into the belief that peace now is desirable, feasible, and probable."

HEART AND KIDNEYS

SENT TO HONOLULU BY

SPECIAL COMMISSIONER

(Special to The Bulletin)

Waikuku, Aug. 16.—In strict obedience to a wireless message from high authorities at Honolulu, Captain Harry Copp of the Waikuku Police, goes down to Honolulu this afternoon per steamer Maui as Special High Commissioner and Envoy Extraordinary in charge of the "heart and kidneys" of Yamagata, the Japanese who died at Punnene Hospital August 5th as a result of being burnt by gasoline.

When the order came from Honolulu last Monday to Sheriff W. E. Saffery to send down the needed organs of the deceased Yamagata to be examined by Japanese specialists, the Sheriff asked Dr. Deso of Punnene Hospital to bring down the heart and kidneys which have been preserved in alcohol and placed in a large glass jar, and yesterday Dr. Deso came to Waikuku and passed them over to the charge of the Sheriff.

When the order reached the Sheriff, he called Deputy Sheriff Thos. Clark into consultation as to the most fitting and dignified way of shipping to Honolulu the required organs. Deputy Clark was opposed to shipping them down as ordinary freight for the heart and kidneys would then virtually pass out of their custody and the trial jury might rightfully be given the benefit of the doubt as to whether they were the same internal organs or not.

Mr. Clark had probably in his mind the verdict of a celebrated jury during the time of the well known native attorney, Kauhau, who, through the magic power of his superb eloquence, convinced the jury that the "heart" which was introduced before them was that of a dog and not that of the victim. The jury gave their verdict accordingly.

So in order to obviate any troubles arising from such unexpected sources, the Deputy succeeded in impressing upon the mind of the Sheriff the utmost importance of sending a special commissioner in charge of the heart and kidneys of Yamagata, and after examination by Japanese doctors in Honolulu, the officer being instructed to be on hand all the time and never to allow them to get out of his sight for a single moment. Officer Copp would bring them safely to Lahaina and no petty jury would have the blind audacity to doubt whether they were the very identical ones, or new ones with the ravages of heart disease and kidney troubles in the most advanced stages.

Last Saturday, August 12, committing Magistrate W. A. McKay committed Alfred Douse, charged with the murder of Yamagata, to the next October term of the Grand Jury at Lahaina. Circuit Judge A. N. Kopoikai has fixed bail at $5,000, but so far the accused has not succeeded in raising the required amount. His attorney J. L. Cole, left for Kona per Mauna Loa last evening.
