SEARCH POVERTY IN PACIFIC'S PARADISE

And Best People on Earth Discover Plenty of It in Spite of Doubts.

HAD EIGHTY BASKETS READY

Christmas Hereafter Becomes a Day of Labor for the Antlered Ones.

Prepared to meet a poverty it did not know existed, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, yesterday morning, doled out its best Christmas spirit, loaded into eighty baskets as many Christmas dinners, chartered a flotilla of automobiles and armed capable with smiles and turkey sallied forth to conquer the wolf of poverty.

The venturesome quest was an experiment and, like most Benevolent and Protective experiments, was a complete success. As a result the Elks have dedicated themselves to Christmas day and taken it to themselves, monopolized it, as it were, as their particular day of good endeavor. Not that they intend to confine their good endeavors to that day!

The matter of dispensing their Christmas spirit in the substantial form of turkey gobbler and gabbling geese was brought up when the Christmas shopping was a very young thing just growing into major proportions. There were skeptics who did not believe that there was any poverty in Honolulu, and were not backward in coming out and stating it as their honest belief.

Poverty Phases.
Consequently a committee of full-antlered Elks, headed by "Jimmie" Dougherty, was appointed to delve into the question of sociology and its poverty phases. While not claiming any more experience in the sociology line than they had before, the committee members are sadder but wiser men.

The Associated Charities furnished, on request, a list of the poverty stricken, and while even this list did not entirely dispel the well fed doubt of existing poverty, eighty baskets were pledged rather than take chances of passing the day and forgetting the really needy.

The tour had not been of long duration before absolute poverty was found, within three blocks of the home of one of those who had doubted the existence of need in the Paradise of the Pacific.

The old grandmother of the family was sleeping beneath burlap, and the children, half starved, were so overcome by the sight of the unboarded quantity of good things that the benevolent Santa Claus got out of the gate before the little ones recovered sufficient breath to express their gratitude.

Spanish Sufferers.
Contrary to the general expectations, cases of poverty among the white people were frequent, and other cases were found among the Spanish, although little absolute poverty was discovered among the Portuguese.

Before the tour might have ended the autos returned to town, minus their eighty baskets, but full of animated, giggling information about poverty, especially the possibilities of starvation in Honolulu, where the hills and bays are supposed to contain food for the asking.

As an experiment, the Elks' Christmas yesterday turned out rather more of a revelation, and it is now proposed by the Best People on Earth to repeat the same "stunt" every Christmas, with the skepticism hereafter missing.

They also put forward the proposition that every like society set aside a certain holiday for the entertainment of the poor, who are always with us.

CHILDREN ENJOY SANTA CLAUS TREE

Last night at the Waikiki Inn, Mr. and Mrs. Bergin entertained a large number of happy children at a Santa Claus party. An enormous Christmas tree was set up in the large dining-room and presents for all the children were suspended thereon. The part of Santa Claus was taken by a well known theatrical man, and everyone helped out as much as possible.

The happy faces of the little ones were a treat to see and, when all the good things had been distributed, the place looked like a huge toy store. Upon every side were to be seen children struggling with a drum, doll or some other kind of toy.

After the children's part of the evening was over, some of the musicians from the Bijou theater gave a fine selection of instrumental pieces. The whole affair was a great success and the children and grown-ups at the close of the party, thank Mr. and Mrs. Bergin heartily for their generosity.

MORE TROUBLE IN HAYTI.
SAN DOMINGO, December 26.—Word was received here yesterday that Haytian rebels and government troops have fought an engagement on the Haytian border. A gunboat has been sent from here with troops to preserve order in the district affected.

SUPERVISORS INITIATED

CITY OFFICERS LAND IN JAIL

Four Supervisors, Police Officials and Mayor All Held in Custody.

Temporary incarceration within the walls of the city jail was the fate of most of the city officers yesterday afternoon, as well as many of those who will become city officers after January fourth next. Jailor Asch was for the nonce Mine Host Asch, presiding at a choicely laid feast which was spread in the hospital of the jail, the one room equal to the occasion.

In the courtyard of the jail on the other side of the building, three long, heavily-laden tables were spread for the prisoners, unfortunate enough to own sentences extending over the merry Yuletide, and here the man pig and the man yam held full sway.

Seated at the tables set for the visitors, whose experience with prison walls lay mostly in appropriations for them, were Supervisor and Supervisor-elect William McClellan, Supervisors-elect Kruger and Dwight, Supervisor Ahia, Mayor Fern, Sheriff Jarrett, Deputy Sheriff Rose, Chief Clerk Julius Asch, Jr., of the police department; Jailor Asch, the host, and his deputy jailor, William Punohu. Several other invited guests were also present.

Inspect Quarters.
Just before the diners commenced on the man yam they were taken around the new splendidly fitted-up quarters of the jail, shown the jail itself, the jailor's and deputy's quarters, surrounded by one of the prettiest lawns and gardens west of Fort Street, the carpenter, tailoring and shoemaking shops, the hospital, bathrooms and other conveniences which have been installed under Asch's direction during the two years in which the county has had jurisdiction over the city jail.

Asch made the first speech after the immediate call of appetite had been satisfactorily answered, calling attention to the harmony that had existed between the board of supervisors and the jail, how much had been done and how little had been left to do. He thanked the retiring board, represented by McClellan and Ahia, and greeted the new board, represented by McClellan, Kruger, and Dwight.

"Of course," he added, "I might not be here after next year. That all rests with the sheriff."

But as the feasters unanimously voted to cut off Jarrett's supply of soda pop, in case Asch was not reappointed, this possibility is a remote one. It might be explained that soda pop washed down the toasts during the dinner.

Respond to Toasts.
Mayor Fern and Supervisor Ahia responded, backing up Asch's statements in full, and voting him the right man in the right place. Samuel Dwight, the proposed chairman of the new board's road committee, pledged his vote to all progressive measures and appropriations relating to the jail.

The improvements installed during the year include a shoemaking establishment, where prison labor lays the foundation for the city's convict system. It was predicted when Asch first installed this system that he could not make a success of it; as all the men entrusted to his care were short-term men and would no sooner learn the work than they would be released. In spite of this evident obstacle, however, all the shoes worn by the city's prisoners are now made in this shop.

The tailoring establishment does likewise with all the clothing worn by the prisoners, who are thus clad entirely in clothes made by themselves. A large and completely equipped carpenter shop is the medium for many of the prisoners learning a trade before they are released, and the men trained in this shop have constructed all of the five or six buildings which are in this compound, erected sheds in the prisoners' courtyard and made improvements in the jail itself.

Some Improvements.
An immense fireplace for heating water for sanitary purposes has been built out of concrete, with a concrete floor surrounding it five or six yards on each side. The concrete work was all done by prisoners, and is among the

CHRISTMAS DAY AT LOCAL CHURCHES

Special Services, Decorations, and Singing are Order of Day Throughout.

On Saturday night the air was rent with discordant sounds, last night the only sounds that disturbed the calm of the evening was the ringing of the church bells relaying the everlasting message of His birth round the world. Special services were held in all the churches and most of them were decorated for the occasion. Churches are all the same the world over and in many a one yesterday silent prayers were sent up by gray-haired men and women for sons and daughters scattered far over the globe.

Central Union Church.
The Central Union Church was picked out in red and green effects, one special feature being the Star of Bethlehem, which was cleverly shown waving its way across the heavens. In the morning the service was opened by the "Christmas March" as an organ prelude by A. B. Ingalls, and during the service the choir filled the air with harmony. Among the songs they sang were "Noel," "Sleep, Holy Babe," "Some Old Christmas Carols," "What Child Is This," and the "Nativity," which was rendered as a solo by Mrs. C. S. Wright. The sermon, which was on the subject of His birth, was a strong and powerful one, in which not only the idea of the day, but also the whole lesson which it teaches, was well brought out. The collection was in aid of the Hawaiian Board, whose good work was dealt with last week.

In the evening the singing was again a great feature of the service. Adolph Adams' Christmas hymn, "Cantique de Noel," was sung by Mrs. Allen and Philip C. Hall, assisted by the choir. Following this came a solo from the same gentleman, "The Song of the Angels Song," "Folk Song from the Tyrol" was given by the quartet and later Mrs. Riley Harris Allen lifted her voice in "Rejoice Greatly," from the "Messiah." Assisted by the quartet Mrs. Allen also sang "Alleluia! O Lord of All!" and after an interval of prayer was followed by Chester Livingston with a solo entitled "An Old Sacred Lullaby," and later by Mrs. C. S. Wright with "The Virgin's Lullaby." Charles Vincent's grand anthem, "There Were Shepherds," concluded the vocal numbers.

St. Andrew's Cathedral.
St. Andrew's Cathedral was decorated throughout with red and green, and the music of Hugo Herzer was excellently rendered. The Bishop preached in the morning, while in the evening Pastor Savelly, of Chicago, was the preacher. During the morning the Hawaiian choir, which is made up of members of the congregation, sang the anthem. Offerings for the general missions were taken up and were very large.

Leahi Home.
A very cheerful service was held at the Leahi Home during the afternoon. After the reading of the scripture and

MALIHINI CHRISTMAS TREE WILL BLOOM, RAIN OR SHINE

This morning, about nine o'clock, the Malihini Christmas Tree will be a blaze of glory for over two thousand children, a blaze, not of incandescent lights or candles, but of emblems of love for the little ones of the city, that they, too, may partake with more fortunate ones of the glory of Christmas and its remembrances.

Rain or shine, the Malihini Christmas Tree will be in great evidence. It is probable that it will display its wonders to bright and admiring eyes on the Capitol building steps, where it was proposed to have it from the beginning; and there it will be if the sun shines, or the clouds remain in Manoa.

But in case it should rain, other arrangements must be made, and all who intend to take part in the festivities will be able to find out just where this beautiful tree will bloom at the Capitol, for it may be necessary to hold the Malihini celebration under cover.

The Clerk of the Weather was appealed to last evening to arrange for a clear day, but it must have been that there was no sugar in his cranberry sauce yesterday, for he refused to make any promise. In fact, he informed a member of the Malihini Christmas Tree committee that it rained yesterday, but he did not know if it would rain today or not. The committeeman felt that he knew almost as much as that himself.

But, anyway, don't forget that the Malihini Christmas Tree is forecasted to be on deck, rain or shine, and if there are any children missing an automobile may catch 'em.

SETTING A PACE FOR OAHU CLUB

The Trail and Mountain Club of Hilo Working for Great National Park.

HILO, December 22.—The Trail and Mountain Club of the Island of Hawaii is setting a pace for its namesake on the Island of Oahu, which the latter will have to sit up and take notice of, if it is going to keep in the running. The Hilo club has already started the ball rolling to secure the setting apart of Kilauea and Mokuawao as a national park, and has advanced so far that maps and descriptions have been prepared.

The outing committee has successfully pulled off one expedition, down the coast, east of Hilo, and has arranged for one to the volcano and along the new trail to the "Seven Craters,"—altho it turns out that there are nine craters—which are proposed to be included in the park reserve.

The following call has been issued by President E. N. Holmes, for the January outing:

Trail and Mountain Club.
Hilo, Hawaii, Dec. 22, 1910.

To the Members:
January 7th is the date set for our next outing. Let us make it a success. The enclosed announcement was made shortly after the first meeting of the outing committee and published in the local papers. It gives you about all the information in connection with the trip that you will need.

Do not fail to attend this outing yourself and try to secure at least one new applicant for membership before January 7th. An applicant for membership can attend the outing. Let us know the beauties of our island so that we can tell of them and show them to others.

Your notice of attending the outing must be in Chairman Wright's hands on or before January 5th. Yours truly, E. N. HOLMES, President.

The January Outing.
The committee decided to make their second outing on the first Saturday in January, to the volcano, with a view to introducing the members to the new automobile road to the crater and the "Seven Craters" lying on the Puna side of the volcano.

The plan is to leave Hilo on the afternoon train, spend Saturday night at the Volcano House and making the trip in question on Sunday, returning to Hilo Sunday afternoon by train. (Continued on Page Four.)

AND IT SAVED THEIR CHRISTMAS DINNER

Even street cars got tired some times, and the strain of the Christmas traffic must have been too much for the power station yesterday. The usual Sunday crowds had been out to Waikiki, and crowded the cars coming back in time for the big dinner at night. Just before one of the cars reached the turn from the avenue into the short cut it behaved like the usual run of automobiles, and slowed down until it finally stopped altogether.

The motorcar climbed down from its perch and had a sorrowful look underneath, but there was "nothing" done, and the crowd had to just sit and wait. Victims of turkeys being rapidly demolished by more fortunate ones at home rose before their eyes, and one gentleman got off the car to ring up and ask them to save a bit for him. All of a sudden someone down at the powerhouse must have tickled the dynamo, however, for the car got a move on itself again, and the situation, to say nothing of the turkey, was saved.

DYNAMITE USED TO WRECK PLANT

Llewellyn Iron Works, Los Angeles, Partially Destroyed by an Explosion.

UNION MEN BLAMED AGAIN

Long Strike Lost and Dastardly Act One of Revenge—Reveries Offered.

LOS ANGELES, December 26.—A desperate effort was made here last night to blow up the great plant of the Llewellyn Iron Works, on North Main street, within a stone's throw of the Riverside station of the Southern Pacific railroad.

The explosion of what is believed to be a large quantity of high-power dynamite wrecked part of the main building and the machine shop, but failed to destroy the plant.

Evidently the men responsible for the dastardly act chose a time when few workmen were on the premises, as only one watchman was injured.

Union Men Blamed.

In spite of denials by local labor union leaders, it is the generally expressed opinion in this city that the explosion is the work of the militant labor union men who blew up the Times building on October 1, when twenty-one men lost their lives and a great number were injured.

The business men of the city are aroused and the merchants and manufacturers association will offer a large reward for the arrest and conviction of these dynamiters, the members feeling convinced that the principle of rule or ruin, held by the labor union fanatics here, must result in the stamping out of such organizations.

Strike Was Lost.

Since last April there has been a strike among the iron workers in this city and many threats have been made, the result of which was that police protection has been granted all of the mills. But recently the strike was acknowledged lost, and it is asserted that the explosion last evening was the last desperate resort of the inner circle of fanatics, who seek revenge.

Reese Llewellyn, head of the great establishment, which has supplied the iron work for many of the largest buildings in the Southwest, believes the outrage is the result of the strike and the company will supplement the other rewards to be offered.

SHIPS GO DOWN IN SIGHT OF PORT AND MANY DROWN

ANTWERP, December 26.—Just a few miles outside of the harbor gates of this city, the Norwegian steamer Baltique and the Belgian steamer Finland collided yesterday, the former going to the bottom of the West Schelde so quickly that but six of her crew were saved. The rest found a watery grave.

The collision took place at the mouth of the River Escant, the Baltique being headed for the port and the Finland leaving it to commence a transatlantic journey to American ports.

The Finland is a steamer of 8643 tons, commanded by Captain Ball, having just unloaded a New York cargo and taken on another for that port. The Baltique, a steamer of 1576 tons, was arriving from Port Vendres, where she had discharged a cargo from Marseilles.

LONE BANDIT MAKES BIG HAUL IN TEXAS

KANSAS CITY, Missouri, December 26.—Telegraphed information reached this city last night from Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, that the Missouri-Pacific express 243 been stopped near that place and the passengers robbed of large sums.

The deed was done by a single bandit, who overpowered the engine crew and held out more than one hundred passengers, all of whom were afraid to make a single move in defense of their own property. After going through the engine train and ripping the baggage, the lone brigand slipped into the darkness and has not been seen or heard of since. According to all reports, he made one of the largest hauls ever secured by train robbers in many years. Posses have been started and detectives detailed to trace the man down.

SPECIAL COMMISSIONER OF HONOLULU MAKES REPORT

Fred L. Waldron Tells Chamber of Commerce Interesting Particulars of Visit by Party to China.

Not only interesting, but of importance, is the report submitted by Fred L. Waldron, who was special commissioner from Honolulu during the special trip to the Orient as guests of the Chinese chambers of commerce. The report was made at the last meeting of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, and the hearty thanks of the chamber and of all the citizens of Honolulu are due Mr. Waldron. The report is as follows:

James F. Morgan, Esq., President Honolulu Chamber of Commerce.

Sir:—As your delegate to visit China in response to the invitation of the Chinese chambers of commerce and in connection with the delegation invited from the associated chambers of commerce of the Pacific Coast, I now have the honor to submit the following report:

The different cities represented in the delegation with the number of delegates actually attending were as follows:

San Francisco, three; Seattle, three; Tacoma, three; Spokane, three; Portland, one; Oakland, two; Los Angeles, three; San Diego, two, and Honolulu, one, with the exception of four days in Canton, when we were favored with the presence of Mr. E. C. Brown, your other appointee, who, much to his own and my regret, was, for business reasons, unable to join the party at an earlier date. Accompanying the delegates were Mr. Chas. V. Bennett, secretary of the commission; Mr. C. H. Tribe, assistant secretary; Mr. Chas. J. Field, American Press representative and historian of the party; Mr. Hamilton Butler, official interpreter, and seventeen ladies, mostly wives of the delegates, making a total of forty-two.

In handing you my report, I wish to state that my hardest task has been to condense matter, and in so doing I feel that it is an injustice to hundreds of Chinese official and commercial gentlemen who knew of no limit in their endeavor to extend in their welcome and hospitality a reception never before accorded a party of visitors in any country.

Date Advanced.

At the time that your delegate left Honolulu, the proposed date for meeting in Shanghai was September 20, which was afterward changed to September 15, so that I was a few days late in joining the commission. I am indebted to Mr. Chas. J. Field, the historian of the party, for a few notes relative to the Shanghai entertainment, which I include in my report.

Upon the arrival of the Korea at the anchorage off Woosung, she was met by the specially chartered tender Vulcan, gaily decorated with flags and with an excellent Chinese band on board. Among the large reception party to greet the commissioners were Taotai Chow Ching Sen, president of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce; Mr. Shao Ging-dow, vice president; Mr. Chu Li Chi, the general secretary of the chamber; several other Chinese officials and commercial men; also Dr. A. E. Wilder, United States Consul-General at Shanghai, and Dr. J. C. Ferguson.

As soon as greetings were exchanged, the Vulcan conveyed the party to the Customs jetty at Shanghai, some twelve miles distant, each member receiving handsome silk badges embroidered with the Chinese and American flags, the entwined emblems which were to be continually within our sight for the following six weeks and along a distance of three thousand miles.

To illustrate the impossibility of embodying more than the principal events of the trip, I shall here mention the program followed at Shanghai and Hangchow, similar programs being the order of the day in all other parts of China which we had the pleasure of visiting.

Entertainment Program.

Garden party at Chao's garden, given by the Associated Chinese Chambers of Commerce.

Reception by the Chinese Young Men's Christian Association.

Evening reception by the American community of Shanghai.

Reception by the Shanghai taotai (corresponding to mayor).

Banquet by Shanghai Chamber of Commerce at Chang Su Ho's garden.

Reception by the International Institute.

Dinner by the Chinese press of Shanghai.

Trip by houseboat to Kashi, thence by train to Hangchow, thence by sedan chairs to Westlake.

Banquet given by the governor of Chekiang Province at the summer of the commissioner of foreign affairs at Hangchow.

Witness the Hangchow "here"—a monthly tidal phenomenon, although having a much greater volume of water in the full months.

Entertainment at Kashi, Fengting and Suchow stations on the return trip to Shanghai.

Reception by the Imperial Polytechnic School.

Theater party to see the Opium Play, a composition designed to impress upon the people the evils of the opium habit.

Visits were made to the following places of interest, elaborate collations being prepared for the visitors at each place and each institution being profusely decorated with Chinese and American flags and bunting: The Foo Fong flour mills, the Ten engine works, the Tung Chung oil and cotton mills, the municipal water works, the Kiangnan Dock and Engineering Company, the Imperial yacht Lien Hsing, the Yit Hwei woolen mills, the Yu Sung cotton mills, the Shui Lue silk factory, the chamber of commerce and provincial assembly building, the Bankers' guild, the Sin Wan Pao (which is the principal Chinese newspaper), the Ta Shing Bank (otherwise known as the Imperial Bank of China) and the La Hing Chiao Memorial Temple.

Inasmuch as a lengthy report could be made on almost any one of the places, and as all other points visited in China had an equally elaborate program, a great many interesting features will have to be slighted, in an ordinary report.

By Government Train.

A special train was furnished by the government to convey the party to Nanking, distant from Shanghai about two hundred miles. Stops were made at Soochow, where a banquet was tendered, and at Wush and Chang Chow, at each of which places a reception was held, committees from the chamber of commerce being lined up to receive the party, as well as great crowds of the populace, at each station, to get a view of the visitors.

The commission was much surprised and very favorably impressed with the excellent railway service of the Shanghai-Nanking railway. The cars are up to date and the road well ballasted. Our visit to Nanking was most interesting from many standpoints. It was our first real sight of rural inland China, although with the immense mileage of natural and artificial canals one never appears to be very far inland. Nanking is one of the oldest cities in China and was formerly the capital.

Approaching by train, the walls of the city look very formidable, but upon our entering the city at night the sight which greeted us made it very hard to believe other than that we were approaching a great exposition in a modern city. Of course, this applies only to the exposition grounds, the numberless buildings of which were brilliantly lighted by thousands of electric lights—making a veritable fairy land.

Nanyang Exposition.

The Nanyang Industrial Exposition is the first exhibition ever held in China, and marks a great step in the forward movement of the Empire. The buildings were of modern architecture, well arranged, and the exhibits from all the different provinces of China, besides a great many foreign exhibits, were very creditable.

Notable among the many entertainments at Nanking was the banquet given us by the Viceroy, and I must not forget the reception tendered the ladies of the party by the wife of the Viceroy, Lady Chang, who not only speaks excellent English, but is in every way thoroughly accomplished.

From Nanking the party went by train to Chinkiang, by which time the commission were getting accustomed to looking forward to a banquet at each stopping place when traveling by sedan chair, and when traveling by rail, about three banquets each time the engine had to take water. In this respect we were not disappointed when we reached Chinkiang, and among other entertainments at our disposal was a beautiful launch and houseboat ride to the Golden Island Monastery, in connection with which is one of the most stately pagodas we saw in China. Nearly all these pagodas are occupied by Buddhist priests.

Great River Trip.

Chinkiang lies at the junction of the Grand Canal and the Yangtze River, and it was here that we boarded the steamer Kiang Hsin, which steamer was not only put at the disposal of the commission for the trip to Hankow, but was remodeled and painted throughout especially for the comfort of the party. This steamer is the fastest of the line, and the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company have the gratitude of each one of the party for the comforts attending the six-hundred-mile trip up the Yangtze River to Hankow.

The river runs through a wonderfully fertile country, most of the land lying flat, with just enough occasional hilly landscape to break an otherwise possible monotony. The principal crops through this section are cotton, rice and corn, and not one square inch of the land but what is utilized. Even hills which in any other country would be too steep to consider cultivation possible are terraced to the top, and are reputed as having been cultivated in this manner for the past two or three thousand years.

On the way to Hankow, stops were made at Wuhu, Tatung, Nanking, Kiangnan and Suifu. Each of these places is a large trade center, with populations running from seven hundred and fifty thousand to a million or more. The manner of landing at each of the river ports is by means of bulks, mostly old sailing vessels of a large type, anchored from two hundred to three hundred or more feet from the shore. The transferring of freight and passengers is done by the junks and sews, and the river up as far as Hankow can accommodate vessels drawing twenty or more feet.

Wages of Miners.

At Suifu we took the train for the great Tai Yeh mine, which is about sixteen miles from the landing. In place of seeing underground workings as we had expected, we found large hills, almost mountains, of solid ore which runs sixty to seventy per cent pure. At this place I enquired particularly as to the wages paid the labor, and found that the eight to ten year-old boys carrying dirt and ore for about six hours per day received twenty cash, or about nine-tenths of a cent gold, per day. The men were paid at the rate of fifteen cents "meex," or seven cents gold per day.

For the luncheon provided by the management for our party, a large corrugated iron building had been specially erected and profusely decorated with flags and foliage, and it kept a large guard of soldiers busy in their efforts to keep back a crowd of thousands of the curious populace, all of whom appeared to be in the best of humor over the event.

Arriving at Hankow with the usual comment as to first impression ("that we were in the Chicago of China"), four days were spent in Hankow, which was all too little for so much of interest. From a commercial view, the Hankow Iron and Steel Works is the most important enterprise. The ore is supplied from the Tai Yeh mine, and the view from the outside of the immense plant, or watching the molten metal and the steel rails being made in the interior, reminds one more of Pittsburg than anything one would expect to see in China.

Iron May Come Here.

Captain Dollar has recently contracted for a yearly supply of pig-iron running into several thousand tons, which he will transport to the Pacific Coast, and it is probable that Hawaii will derive most of her future supplies from the same source, as the iron has met with particular favor from the foundries.

At Wuchang, across the river from Hankow, we visited the Boone University conducted by the missionaries on the principles of a military school. We were privileged to see the students in their neat and attractive uniforms give a drill exhibition, in connection with which they have an excellent band.

Banquets by the Viceroy of Hupeh Province at his palace in Wuchang and by the Hankow Chamber of Commerce at the Chinese Race Club were events too elaborate not to mention at this time. At the chamber of commerce banquet each member of the party was presented with a solid gold badge, in a horseshoe design, with the United States and Chinese flags crossed. The names of the ladies in full and the initials of the gentlemen were engraved on the bar of each badge.

Missionary Work.

It was at Hankow that we were brought into close contact with the work of the missionaries, and I must confess that my opinion took a decided change from my former unfavorable ideas, to a great appreciation of the work that these people are doing in China. The biblical teaching of these missionaries is by far the smallest feature of their work, their time being taken up with the practical education of the Chinese students, who will in turn become valuable teachers of modern methods and of what the Chinese are most in need of—System.

To turn the tide of thought of the stupendous population of more than four hundred millions is a task that most of us ordinary mortals would shrink, but these missionaries are not only starting, but will finally succeed, in making the average Chinaman a man to be envied.

From Hankow we were furnished with a special train to Peking, a distance of eight hundred miles; a guard of soldiers patrolled the platform at each station whether the train stopped or not. The sleeping accommodations as well as the meals were all that could be desired, and the eighteen hour trip was made so that the party arrived in Peking refreshed and rested, rather than tired out, as is generally the case on a long railway journey.

It was hard to bring ourselves to believe that we were on the ground of the Boxer troubles of only ten years ago. An escort of several officers were sent about two hundred miles down the line to greet us, and it was at Peking that we began to realize that the friendly feeling of the Chinese toward the United States extended from the lowest coolie to the throne.

Entertainment at Peking.

The principal entertainments at Peking included a visit to the Great Wall of China, one of the seven wonders of the world. No doubt you are all familiar with its appearance from the various illustrations you may have seen. The wall averages twenty-five feet in height, about eight feet wide on top, and is fifteen hundred miles long. It is in a wonderful state of preservation, a large proportion of the wall being in perfect condition, notwithstanding that it was built 2300 years ago.

Visits were made to the summer and winter palaces, and also to the summer palace of the late Empress Dowager, each of which contains a wonderful collection of antiques in marble, jade, wood, porcelain, and cloisonne.

The party was also honored by the Prince Regent graciously giving an audience to the commissioners at the palace in the Forbidden City, at which time we were accompanied by United States Minister Calhoun. After the audience a grand banquet was given at the Foreign Office.

After four busy days in Peking the party took train for Tientsin, which, on account of its wide streets, especially in the European section of the city, is quite different from any other city in China. There are a number of well-regulated schools and colleges in Tientsin, and among others visited were the Industrial and Polytechnic Schools and also a training school for nurses, in connection with a hospital for women and children.

Great Coal Mine.

I shall not tire you with going over the list of banquets and receptions in Tientsin. A very interesting day was spent in visiting Tang Shan, which is eighty miles from Tientsin. Here we found coal mines, one of which, belonging to the Chinese Engineering and Mining Company, turns out over three thousand tons of coal per day, besides their manufactures of tiles and bricks. There are also two large cement works. We also visited the Tang Shan Engineering College, which institution will no doubt turn out some very bright Chinese professionals.

At Tientsin we boarded the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company's steamer Hsin Ming, a fine new vessel in which we were to make the trip down the coast to Hongkong, touching at Chefoo for about twelve hours' stay, Foochow about fourteen hours and Amoy about twelve hours. All of these cities were profusely decorated and gave us the same cordial welcome we had been receiving at the cities previously visited.

Chefoo has a winery which turns out a good grade of claret, sauterie and hock. There are also several silk mills and we had the pleasure of seeing the process of silk making from the cocoon to the finished fabric.

Poochow is a large tea center and exports a large amount of Brick Tea. This is a process of pressing the tea into cakes, which have the appearance of cakes of chocolate, and is, I believe, shipped mostly to Russia.

Growing Sugar Cane.

From Foochow we went to Amoy, in the vicinity of which I noticed small areas of sugar cane. At the present time they have no modern mills, but I was informed that the Japanese were figuring on putting in a plant.

Hongkong was not in the itinerary planned by our hosts, but they furnished a special steamer, the On Lee, to take us from Hongkong to Canton. We arrived just after dark, and on approaching Canton, we saw the most brilliantly illuminated waterfront that it has ever been my pleasure to witness. It seemed as though each successive city was trying to outdo in its welcome the city we had just left.

The admirably placed gunboats at our service in visiting different places of interest up and down the river. The Government Agricultural Experiment Farm was visited and is one of the institutions which marks the beginning of the new China.

Balance of Trade.

At each place visited there was an allotted time insisted upon for us to talk over business conditions and prospects of trade between the two countries. It was generally conceded that the Americans had not gone after the business as had other nationalities, particularly the Germans and, later on, the Japanese. This was more or less explained from the fact that the Americans had met with such prosperity at home that it was not necessary for them to compete against lower priced labor of foreign countries. In my opinion, under present conditions, the balance of trade between the two countries will be much in favor of China.

It is my firm belief that the Chinese value the friendship of the Americans more than that of any other nation on earth. They missed no opportunity of expressing their appreciation of the action of the United States in returning to them the Boxer indemnity. Against this expression of good will they rightfully believe that the United States has done them grave injustice in shutting them out from the Philippine Islands. For the past four hundred years the Chinese from Amoy and Canton have furnished labor for and established enterprises in the Philippines, and are, in my opinion, the only people who can make it possible for America and Americans to realize a large revenue, which, without the Chinese, will be lost to both peoples.

Respectfully submitted,
FRED L. WALDRON,

IVY WINS FIRST RACE
FOR BOTH TROPHIES

Skipper Says That He'll Put Up Another if He Takes His Own Prize.

Max Bolte got the first leg on his trophy, winning the opening event of the series of Pearl and sea-wren races in Honolulu harbor, yesterday afternoon. The weather was misty, but there was a good breeze, and Bolte navigated his Ivy over the course in two hours and twenty-six minutes. Luther Hough brought his Pearl across the finish line twelve minutes later; then came the Elizabeth, manned by Friday, of the Myrtle Boat Club, and Campbell Crozier was last with his wren, the Galloping Mary.

There were only four boats in the race, the three Pearls and one wren. George Turner, the veteran starter, sent the fleet off about half-past one o'clock and timed the fleet over the course, whiling away the idle hours until the racers returned with jingles and jests which tickled the diaphragms of his hearers, producing combustions of mirth. Turner told why he didn't go to church and other things, not for publication.

The Ivy got away first and lead the fleet all the way. She crossed the starting line at one-thirty, on the dot; the Elizabeth followed her half a minute later; the Pearl crossed at one-thirty-one and the Galloping Mary hit the course at one-thirty-two. It was the first time the Elizabeth was in a race and Friday seemed to have some difficulty with her. He just completed the craft and hasn't quite gotten onto her ways. Off the stake boat, opposite the Moana Hotel at Waikiki, the Elizabeth left behind all the rest, but Friday made a good run over the home stretch, overhauling the wren Galloping Mary for third place at the finish.

Ivy's First Victory.

Putting up a trophy brought Bolte good luck. Although his Ivy is a trim little craft yesterday was the first time she has won a race. Maybe it was because Kenneth Ables went along as ballast, but anyhow Bolte says if he wins his own prize he'll put up another one. The fleet all arrived home within twenty-three minutes of each other. The Pearl followed the Ivy by twelve minutes; the Elizabeth crossed the finish line just five minutes later or seventeen minutes behind the Ivy and the Galloping Mary came in six minutes after the Pearl, making her finish twenty-three minutes later than the Ivy. Following is a tabulated summary of the race:

Yachts.	Start.	Finish.	Time.
Ivy.....	1:30	3:56	2:26
Pearl.....	1:30 1/2	4:08	2:37 1/2
Elizabeth.....	1:31	4:13	2:42
Galloping Mary.....	1:32	4:19	2:47

Two Boats Sold.

Arthur Myhre did not enter with his Viking, going to Pearl Harbor instead. Myhre has sold his boat to a Water-town chap, who wants the Viking for pleasure cruising, and Myhre delivered the boat to him yesterday. Asked if he intended to build another Pearl, Myhre said he expected to go to the Coast early in the year, hoping to locate about Portland, where he expects to break into yachting circles.

Today Myhre expects to sail the Alice L. up from Waikiki. This boat has also been sold recently. William McGilghe has purchased it from Frank Godfrey, and Myhre is going to sail it up to Honolulu harbor. The Alice L. is an old boat and in her day has won several races about here. She was built by the Walker Boat and Machine Company to race the old Myrtle about six years ago.

The Alice L. will mingle with the local fleet, but will not be used for racing, as she is out of class. The boat is larger than the pearls and the wrens and smaller than the yachts about here. She is a twenty-footer with a V bottom and a center board, carrying a jib and mainsail. The craft lies off Cassidy's place at Waikiki and Myhre said yesterday that he expected to sail her up as far as the Moana Hotel and hit the channel there.

The second race of the series for the Bolte trophy will be sailed today.

BULL FIGHTING STORY

A. C. McClurg & Co. have under way, for publication in the fall of 1911, what promises to be one of the most important fiction enterprises of the year. This is a translation by Frances Douglas (Mrs. Charles F. Lummis of Los Angeles) of Senor Vicente Blasco Ibañez' great story of bull fighting, "Sangre y Arena." Senor Ibañez ranks high among the novelists of Spain, and his story is a vivid and realistic picture of Spanish life, and especially of the national pastime, which has probably never been excelled in literature. Mrs. Lummis is an accomplished Spanish scholar, and her English rendering will have the approval of Senor Ibañez himself. The book will be brought out under the title of "The Blood of the Arena," and will be illustrated in full color by Troy and Margaret West Kinney, who are spending the winter in Spain partly to execute this important commission.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government's pure food expert, who heads the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture, soon will cease to be a bachelor. He is engaged to Miss Anna G. Kelton, of Washington, and they will be married next spring. Miss Kelton is an employee in the library of congress.

LEAGUE TEAMS PLAY
SOCCER GAMES TODAY

Highs and Iron Works Will Meet in First Match—Mailes and Puns to Follow.

The second event in the Hawaiian Association Football League soccer series is on this afternoon at the league grounds. The first game will be between the Highs and the Iron Works team, and the Mailes and Puns will hit it up for number two. The opening performance will start at half-past two o'clock, and the Hawaiian band will be on hand to cheer the players on.

T. W. P. Gray, who got kicked on the shin in the game between the Puns and the Iron Works a week ago last Saturday, has not sufficiently recovered from the bruise to play today, and it was announced last night that J. B. Walker would take his place in the Punahou lineup this afternoon. In the opening matches the Mailes beat the Highs in the first game and the Puns and Iron Works got a goal apiece.

There will be very little change in the lineup of the four teams, it was said yesterday, for today's games. Following are the teams that will take the field:

Iron Works—Goal tender, Pong Pong; fullbacks, W. Greig and Jim Hoao; halfbacks, E. Boyd, W. McDougall and Morse; wings, S. Smythe and C. Klemme; forwards, E. Schieber, Akana and Bolster.

TRIES X-RAY TO SEE
IF JOHNSON IS SANE

CHICAGO, December 5.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight, is at his home trying to discover if he is insane. He has been told that he is. He brooded over his condition and underwent several examinations to test his nervous condition. These tests did not satisfy.

His sanity had been doubted and he could not stop worrying. He wanted a picture of his brain to see if there was anything wrong, and Saturday evening the cranium of the world's mightiest fighter "posed" for an X-ray photograph. The examination was performed at the Washington Park Hospital and Johnson came through the test with flying colors. Drs. W. W. Lorimer and T. T. Matlock made the exposure.

"We took a skingraph of the head or an X-ray photograph of Johnson's skull to see if there was any depression in the skull that would affect the brain," said Doctor Lorimer. "The exposure shows an indentation on the external table of the cranium, but the internal table appeared normal. The X-ray picture shows no evidence that the fighter is in danger of insanity."

Johnson breathes easier, but his brain has played some tricks with him that he can't remember incidents perfectly and the next he can not recall the name of his oldest friend. He was told by a Boston physician that his days were numbered. Although not matched to fight he has started to train. Every day since he returned home he has plodded from five to ten miles on the roads and gone through boxing bouts and gymnasium exercises. He abstained from wine and became a real devotee of the simple life. Still he brooded over the threatened nervous breakdown.

He said last night that there was nothing wrong with his nerves he would have his brain photographed again in a few days.

RAIN HOLDS UP HOLIDAY
TENNIS TOURNAMENT

The tennis tournament at the Masdonald, on Pandion street, which was to have been continued yesterday, had to be postponed on account of rain. Only two matches have been played and there are seven teams to take the field before the winners begin to play off. It was expected that the tournament would reach the final stage yesterday and the championship match would have taken place today, but the postponement may prevent the series beyond the holiday season. If that weather permits play will be resumed this morning and the final may be reached tomorrow.

The engagement is announced of Lord Deedes and Miss Vivian Gould, second daughter of George J. Gould of New York.

PICK MCGURN TO WIN

Sports After Man With Coin to Back Three Winners of Bouts Tonight.

JOE MCGURN.

Who is picked to win from Jim Hoao in twelve-round battle at Asahi Theater tonight.

One sport in town wants to bet that he has picked the three winners of the bouts at the Asahi Theater tonight, and two others want to take him up. His choice is Joe McGurn, Trooper Banerocks and Bugler Sarcone. One fellow said last night: "I'll take that wager just on the chance that he can't pick three straight."

"I'd like to get a slice of that guy's coin," said another. "Sarcone is training on beer and if Young Gans puts one over to him the bugler will quit."

Others have figured out that McGurn will win the main fight in the eighth round or sooner, but no odds are mentioned for a straight bet on the result of the McGurn-Hoao go.

Jackson said last night that he has had the ring seats elevated so that everybody will get a good view of the show. The exact seating capacity, including the ring seats on the stage, he said, is thirteen hundred and ninety, and the promoter hopes to greet that many fight fans at the door if no more.

The three bouts are:

Gans-Sarcone, 6 rounds.

Fink-Banerocks, 8 rounds.

Hoao-McGurn, 12 rounds.

NEW YORK GIANT TO
COACH WASEDA TEAM

SAN FRANCISCO, December 12.—Japan is taking rapid steps toward adopting baseball as an extensive sport. The Waseda College of Tokio has gone so far as to engage Arthur Schaefer, utility infielder of the New York Giants, to coach and play with their nine, and Schaefer departed yesterday on the Pacific Mail steamer China to take up the work of instructing the Nipponese college ballies about the inside points of our national pastime.

The Waseda College is going to great expense in having Schaefer come to their country and teach baseball, as he was forwarded with transportation and will receive a large salary for the couple of months he intends to stay in Japan. Schaefer is a former Santa Clara University player. Three years ago he won the state championship of the nine, and in 1908 was taken East by Manager McGraw and given a tryout with the Giants. Last season he served as utility infielder and has quite a thorough knowledge of inside baseball, which should be profitable to the Japanese team.

GOLFERS HAVE MERRY
CHRISTMAS INDOORS

About thirty members of the Oahu Country Club had a merry Christmas yesterday over the special luncheon that was served at the clubhouse. Those who attended the function were old-timers who generally frequent the club. Some golf was attempted, but it rained too much for comfort out of doors and the afternoon was whiled away in comfortable indoors.

WANT KAM COMPANY
IN NATIONAL GUARD

The board of directors of the Kamehameha Alumni Association, at its last regular meeting, took up the question of forming a company and joining the National Guard of Hawaii. The board unanimously favored the idea and, next, William Ahia, Company B, N. G. H., was authorized to interview Colonel Jones and see what might be done toward forming such a company. There are a number of Kamehameha boys already in the N. G. H., and it is hoped that they may be allowed to transfer to the newly formed company, says the school paper, Handcraft. However, this is a matter for the Colonel to decide, and as yet nothing definite has been decided regarding those already in the service. As it takes about sixty men to form a complete company, and as all of the Kamehameha boys have had previous training in military tactics, it would be an easy matter to get the required number.

If the new law now in congress, authorizing pay to the National Guard men, goes into effect, it will be an inducement to the boys to join the service. It is expected that there will be some keen rivalry as to who shall be the captain of the proposed new company.

President Pahu of the alumni association, a veteran officer of the school battalion, is very anxious to see this movement go through, as he is a firm believer in the good results derived from exercise in drilling, and the making of character in young men through military discipline. Pahu has the full support of the board, and the matter will be submitted before the boys at the next regular meeting of the association, at which time the final details of forming the company will be discussed.

Capt. W. H. Winters, commandant of the Kamehameha Schools, has assured Pahu that he will do all in his power to help the boys in forming the company, and in giving them pointers in modern warfare.

PUN AND HIGH GIRLS
WILL PLAY BASKETBALL

The Punahou and McKinley High School girls are going to have basketball teams next term and will start in playing soon after the Christmas vacation is over. The Kam girls should get together and turn out a team against the Punahou and Highs, says the Handcraft.

HONOLULU'S CHRISTMAS LESSON.

What has been the lesson taught by the Christmas festivities in Honolulu this year? Of what benefit has been the outlay in money, in time and intense thought by the good citizens of this capital of the Territory in behalf of this Christmas celebration?

They are questions which might be answered in different ways, according to the viewpoint of the pessimist or the optimist.

In the first place, every man, woman, and child who has taken part in the festivities celebrating Christ's birth must of necessity have caught some of the spirit exemplified in the life of the Redeemer. Possibly not all have realized it, but the story of that perfect life has been accentuated in the services of the Day; its story has again touched the hearts of innumerable children, the beauty and self-sacrifice of His life and death has appealed to some sorrowful heart, to some human being on the verge of temptation; like an ever-running fountain of the water of life, souls are made young again in the promise that His birth means to mortals on their journey.

Of what benefit? Ah! ask the thousands of mothers who watched the joy of their offspring in the gifts received; ask the fathers who, so many of them, sacrificed some of their own pleasures to make their loved ones happier; ask the children who, in turn, have been taught the joy of giving, the pure delight of remembrance. Also ask the subscribers to the Malhini Christmas Tree fund. And from another point of view, ask the shopkeeper, the merchant, the workman.

The answer? It's fine.

It has been a prosperous time, purse strings have been loosened, and joy has been unconfined.

Yes, we are optimists.

FOR A MARINE CORPS TRANSPORT.

Maj. Gen. G. F. Elliott, who, before his recent retirement as commander of the United States Marine Corps, submitted his annual report, among other things makes the recommendation that a transport be provided for the exclusive use of the Marine Corps. This is not a new idea, but it is one which is growing in favor as the Marine Corps grows in strength and effectiveness, and congress will undoubtedly take action upon the recommendation of the distinguished officer in his last report.

There is no doubt but that such a transport would be found of great service in peace and of an almost absolute necessity in time of trouble, for it is the marine who is generally first upon the scene along with the navy, to which he is attached.

During days of peace a Marine Corps transport would be kept busy carrying the various details of marines from reserve camps to their stations in foreign or colonial waters. At this time the distribution of the details assigned to various ships and stations is made for the most part in army transports, when available, and there is a good deal of dissatisfaction registered in consequence.

In war time the mobilization of a regiment of the corps could be made in quick time with a transport, while a landing under the guns of a fleet would be facilitated.

Such a transport would also be a frequent visitor in the harbor of Honolulu, for it is here that a central reserve station for marines in force is contemplated, available to be transported to eastern or western waters, on cable notice, in any emergency. Thus the recommendation of General Elliott is of special interest to Honolulu, which is more and more becoming accentuated as "The Crossroads of the Pacific."

Yesterday morning was the morning after the night before—and looked like it. Talk about the good old-fashioned English Christmas with the snow lying all over the ground, it isn't to be compared with Honolulu. They can only have white snow over there in the tight little island, while here we have all the colors of the rainbow. In parts of Fort Street it was lying six inches deep, and in the gutters, where the rain had got a good chance, multi-colored streams wound their way toward the escapes. Broken horns and bottles lay side by side in the rain, and the whole street looked like a chicken that had been out in the rain for three and a half days and had returned home—well, via Honolulu.

When the new board of supervisors gets wound up for action next week, we sincerely hope it will not run down for at least two years. Now is the time for the members-elect to register their good resolutions, and an affidavit with each one. Amen!

When that ship line gets started between the islands, maybe special excursions to the Volcano, with special rates for a round-trip ticket, will prove an attraction.

The trouble with some chronic prisoners is that they don't mind going to jail a bit, especially around Christmas time, when it is certain they will be guests at a luau, which otherwise they might miss.

HANG TOGETHER

The Garden Island, Kauai.

We heartily second the comment of The Pacific Commercial Advertiser, expressed in its editorial of December 18, on the importance of the people of these Islands in general, and of Honolulu in particular, standing together in working for any desired improvement, instead of working at cross purposes when an important result is to be attained, as has been the case too often in the past. It would be a very easy thing to let the majority decide when any important step is to be taken. That is always a safe rule to follow, in the end, in spite of the fact that the few who compose the opposition may sometimes have what is in reality much the better side of the argument. In such case the only thing to be done is to go to work and touch the majority, or enough of them to turn a minority into a majority on the other side. This procedure is always feasible, if the farseeing few who know they are right will only have the patience to go slowly with the majority and take time enough to "show" them, in detail, the arguments upon which they rely for their convictions.

The trouble seems to be that it is much easier for most people to stand up and have the satisfaction of speaking their own minds, even though such action will make impossible the accomplishment of what they at heart desire, than to accept a seeming defeat, which is in reality only a temporary setback, for the sake of a certain victory in the future.

The reason for this state of affairs is, we believe, that the best class of people in these Islands contains too many men who have so much self-assurance—truly a very commendable trait on most occasions—that they are unable to give up their cherished ideals, knowing that the aim of the majority are not so safe nor so public-spirited as their own. But they must learn to sidetrack their

PEARY GIVES MEDALS TO NATIONAL MUSEUM

WASHINGTON, December 13.—Capt. Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the north pole, has turned over to the United States national museum sixteen gold and two silver medals that have been awarded him.

Among these are the gold medal presented to him by the National Geographical Society of Washington, D. C., for his discovery of the north pole and the gold medal of the Royal Geographical Society of London, presented to him for "Arctic exploration, 1886-1909." This medal was designed by Mrs. Scott, wife of the leader of the British south polar expeditions.

Captain Peary also deposited in the national museum the flag of his polar expedition, presented to him by his brothers of the Delta Kappa Epsilon, and the peace flag given him by the society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. He carried both of these flags with him to the north pole.

Toveji Morimoto, a Japanese, was sentenced to life imprisonment at Tacoma, for the murder of a countryman.

ETHICS HARD TO APPLY, SAYS T. R.

Modern Morality Must Be Efficient. He Declares in Nobel Lecture at Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, December 14.—In speaking on "Applied Ethics," as the Nobel lecturer in Sanders Theater tonight, Colonel Roosevelt touched briefly on the building of the Panama Canal, the progress of conservation and the movement toward universal peace, as typified by recent fisheries decisions at The Hague.

The Nobel lecture at Harvard is provided by a fund given by Mrs. William B. Nobel in memory of her husband, an Episcopal clergyman, and is for the benefit of students and the faculty.

Colonel Roosevelt's visit to Massachusetts was expressly for the lecture, although he attended a meeting of the Harvard overseers at the office in Boston. He was elected a member of the board last June.

Just before going on the lecture platform tonight Colonel Roosevelt learned of the Carnegie peace foundation fund. He hailed the announcement with delight and was especially pleased with the selection of Senator Elihu Root as permanent representative of the United States at The Hague.

Gives Praise to Carnegie.

Toward the end of his lecture he referred to the gift as providing the means of making "real progress" in bringing about the results which Mr. Carnegie desires to achieve.

"He is entitled to the hearty praise of all good citizens here," said Colonel Roosevelt, "and of all patriots in all countries."

"But remember," he said warningly, "that the ultimate worth depends on the good practical sense, the judgment and ability of the men who, administering the fund, succeed in translating the theory into action."

This translation of the moral theories of government into practice, or what he termed "applied morality," he sought to illustrate by the Panama Canal, under the direction of Colonel Goethals; conservation as exemplified by the labors of Garfield and Pinchot, and the peace movement as furthered by John Hay and Elihu Root.

He favored the fortification of the canal and a larger navy as the best guarantee of peace.

Application Difficult.

In his address the colonel said in part:

"It is the easiest thing in the world to sketch out in the closest a system of government, and it is one of the most difficult things in the world to make a government really functional. In just the same way it is proverbially easy to preach morality, and still easier to applaud it when preached, but it is difficult to do the only thing that counts, which is to apply the morality in practice."

"For that reason when I speak of applied morality—using morality in the largest sense, that is, for the efficient application of the principles, the carrying out of which means really good government—I wish to give concrete illustrations."

"For instance, it is greatly to the credit of any nation, of any government, when it performs some vast undertaking which will last for many centuries and which adds perceptibly to the sum of achievements of mankind."

"Such an undertaking is the Panama Canal."

Two Great Achievements.

"Last spring when in Europe I was struck by the fact that every statesman I met deemed two acts of the American people during the past decade preeminently worth notice; these two being the voyage of the battleship fleet around the world, and the business-like efficiency with which we are doing the work of the Panama Canal."

"Now our own people have largely been ignorant of the really wonderful work that has been done on that canal. No men in our history, save only some of the men engaged in the great wars which founded and perpetuated this nation, have such a claim on the gratitude of the nation as those who have done such efficient work on the Panama Canal."

"That work represents one of our greatest national assets, one of the greatest feats to be credited to our nation throughout our entire history. Enormous sums of money have been spent, and yet there is practically no hint of corruption in connection with spending them."

High Standard Set.

"Very, very few private business concerns, no matter how well administered, can show such a high standard of probity and efficiency as has been obtained among the men doing the work on the Panama Canal."

"Many men have rendered high and honorable service to the United States in connection with the work of the Panama Canal, but by far the greatest and most important work has been rendered by Colonel Goethals. It is to him more than to any other one man that we owe the successful accomplishment of one of the great business and engineering feats of the age."

"Now I thus speak of Colonel Goethals and of those associated with him and working under him because what they do illustrates just what I mean when I speak of applied morality in governmental life. Of course, in government, you can hardly speak of morality as being such unless it is also efficient; public morality is a matter of integrity combined with efficiency."

Conservation Difficult.

"Again, take the question of conservation of our natural resources, of preserving our forests, our water supply, our soil, and not only of preserving them, but of seeing that they are preserved for the use of our people as a whole and not exploited merely for the benefit of a few people of great wealth. It is by no means difficult to make speeches and deliver lectures on that subject, nor to hold conventions in its favor and applaud declarations in favor of conservation."

"But as soon as men in actual practical work begin to apply the doctrine they meet with all kinds of difficulties, they are brought face to face with all kinds of selfish interests, and they are exposed also to the even greater danger of being misunderstood by honest men."

"Those who actually do the work of conservation have, therefore, a peculiar claim upon me. While I was President there were no two men to whom I felt I owed more, from the standpoint of the public service, than Messrs. Garfield and Pinchot, for the work they did in connection with conservation."

"Their work was done, not only with a zeal and disinterestedness, but also with the utmost efficiency. They actually put into practice as working principles the theories which a great many men, including myself, for instance, thoroughly approve, but which were reduced to action in satisfactory shape for the first time by these two men."

"Let me take one more illustration. For over half a century there have been repeated and organized efforts to further the cause of international peace. Great peace meetings have been held again and again, in country after country. Now real good has been accomplished at some of these peace meetings; they have sometimes resulted in furthering the cause of peace."

Hay Preserved Court.

"For instance, it was a fine thing to establish The Hague court; but having been established, the court was never used, for it was found to be infinitely easier to pass lofty resolutions as to its existence than actually to get any nation, under any circumstances, to take advantage of it. The court would, in actual fact, never have come into existence, its memory would have vanished, if it had not been for John Hay, who, as secretary of state, succeeded in getting Mexico and the United States to submit to the judgment of the court a claim involving the two nations. It was this act of John Hay's which literally saved the court."

"What has been accomplished by friendly treaty during President Taft's administration represents a mass of substantial achievement of triumph over the formidable obstacles."

Toward the end of his lecture, Colonel Roosevelt deviated from the topic of "peace" and spoke about the Carnegie fund, announcement of which was made today.

"A great and notable gift to the cause of international peace has just been announced today. Mr. Carnegie has done many things for the cause of peace, but none quite so important as that announced today. He has provided means which will enable very real progress to be made in bringing about the results which he desires to achieve."

Must Be Sensibly Used.

"He is entitled to the hearty praise of all good citizens here, of all patriots and lovers of their country, no matter what that country may be, in every part of the world, for what he has just done. But remember always, that the ultimate worth of this foundation which he has made will depend primarily upon the practical good sense, the judgment and the ability of the men who, administering the funds or working under them, succeed in translating the theory into action."

Returning to his lecture, Colonel Roosevelt said that peace must come, if it is to be of the slightest good, as the child of justice, and not of weakness. The efficiency of the United States navy, and its ability to guarantee the neutrality of the Panama Canal would, he said, add immensely to our practical efficiency as a people in working for peace.

"The surest way to render our conduct in seeking peace a subject of derision and contempt among the nations of mankind," Colonel Roosevelt declared, "would be to abandon the work of upbuilding the United States Navy and to refrain from fortifying the Panama Canal."

CHRISTMAS DAY AT THE LOCAL CHURCHES

prayer a beautiful selection was given by Mr. and Mrs. Bischof, with zither and guitar accompaniment. Mrs. E. Damon gave a talk which was appropriate to the day. Epworth League, First Methodist Episcopal Church, was led by Mrs. E. R. Smith, wife of the pastor, who took for her subject, "This day and the lesson to us and to the world." In the morning the Rev. E. R. Smith preached a powerful sermon on the humanizing influence of Christ.

At the Catholic Mission special services were also held, and again the singing was quite a feature of the day. Special sermons were preached touching on the day.

At the Jail.

Rev. John Wadman held a special service at the jail yesterday afternoon and was assisted by two Japanese pastors. After prayers had been offered up, three men who had been under observation for the last two years, were baptized and received into the church. At half-past two o'clock a general service was given by John M. Martin, who was assisted for some time by the Rev. Mr. Smith and his wife. Mrs. Marshall told a Christmas story and illustrated it with drawings on the blackboard. The Christmas day feast will be held at the jail today and great preparations have been made to give the unfortunate inmates a good time for once.

which will leave Glenwood at 5:30 p. m. The Hilo Railroad Company and Volcano Stables have agreed to give to a round trip rate from Hilo to the Volcano House and from the Volcano House to a point on the new automobile road only half a mile distant from the first pit crater, and return, for $5. A trail has been cut from the new automobile road directly to the "Seven Craters" making a much shorter trip than has ever heretofore been possible. The trail is over firm, sandy ground and smooth pavement, making easy walking for any one.

The committee will interview the Volcano House Company to see whether special terms will be granted the club at the Volcano House; results will be announced later.

It is intended to make the trip not only one which will inform the members as to the physical features of the country visited, but to make it a social

HOW TWO WAITERS ROSE TO WEALTH

Part Owners in Big Chicago Hotel Once Accepted Tips, and With Pleasure.

CHICAGO, December 13.—Twenty years ago Col. Richard H. Southgate, principal stockholder in the Congress Hotel, handed Max L. Teich $1 as a tip for serving him a good dinner. Carl C. Rossler, waiting at an adjoining table, congratulated his chum.

Teich and Rossler, who bought 6150 shares of stock in the Congress Hotel Company last week, from Colonel Southgate, have become big factors in the management of the reorganized concern, as the result of a meeting of the directorate yesterday.

J. Edward Kennedy, vice-president of the company, and Thomas H. Joyce, treasurer, offered their resignations.

Teich was elected to the vacancy left by Joyce's resignation, and M. M. Kauffman, of Marquette, Mich., to the place formerly held by Kennedy, as director and vice-president. Kennedy and Joyce will remain for the time being in the management of the hotel, but Teich and Rossler are named as "supervisory committee."

CHRISTMAS IN A NUTSHELL.

Saturday.

The day it is done,
With its frolic and fun,
And the lamps are shining bright.
The horns are blaring,
The people sharing
In frolic and banter light.

Ribbons are flying,
Small boys are hieing
Round town with their tincan band.
Santa is laughing,
Young fellows chaffing—
Fun is abroad in the land.

Sunday.

The day is breaking,
The children waking,
Stars given way to the sun.
Toy drums are banging,
Church bells are clanging
Their praise to the only One.

Tables are creaking,
Little ones seeking
The cheer of a Christmas Day.
Old folks remember
Days of December,
And those who have passed away.

Monday Morning.

Mothers are making,
Little ones taking,
Doses from bottles of oil.
Fathers are cussing,
Growling and fussing—
The same old return to toil.

event as well. Arrangements will be made for music so that those who are so inclined may indulge in dancing Saturday night at the Volcano House.

Members desiring to do so can go to the "Seven Craters" trail in their own vehicles. All who desire to go by way of the railroad and the Volcano Stables' conveyances are requested to report to Chairman Wright at their early convenience so that he can make arrangements therefor. Also notification should be sent to him of all desired accommodations for Saturday night at the Volcano House so that reservations can be made.

THREE-COUNTY PLANArgument Is That Running Expense in Kona-Kau Would Eat Up All the Income.The Hilo Tribune does not think much of the suggested three-county division of the Big Island, voicing its own objections and those of others editorially, as follows:"The assertion made in the Honolulu press to the effect that the Governor is in favor of the plan to divide the present County of Hawaii into three separate counties, has been the cause of considerable surprise here. In spite of the arguments which the Governor is quoted as having made in favor of the proposition, it still seems that the effect of the plan, if it is carried into operation, will be detrimental to the island as a whole. It is quite possible, even probable, that one or two of the new counties might do quite well under the changed order of things, but the county left which would be deprived of a corresponding sum would suffer in the same proportion. It would be a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul, and the credit of the entire island and of local county government in general would suffer.""Furthermore, the Governor argues from mistaken premises when he makes little of the duplication of county offices which would of necessity follow.
Three supervisors for each of the small counties would mean two supervisors more than we have now, and then the electorate of the Hilo-Puna-Hamakua county would have less representation than it now has, where these districts have four supervisors. In Kohala the situation might be quite satisfactory, but in the Kona-Kau county Kona would, by virtue of her large population, have two supervisors, and Kau but one. The result would be that Kau would pay twice as much in taxes as Kona while Kona would spend most of the money.""As a matter of fact, the three-county plan is impossible of execution, if for no other reason, at least because of the fact that the Kona-Kau county would be doomed to die at birth from malnutrition. A calculation, based on the revenue and expenses of these two districts during the past year, will give an approximate idea of how the finances of that county would pan out. The income of the two districts would be about as follows: Share of general taxes, $22,000; total taxes, $40,000; licenses, $6,000; and fines and costs, probably about $500; making a total of about $32,500. The salaries of police, jailers, district magistrates and deputy sheriffs are about $14,000, those of three supervisors would be $1800, and the salaries of the county attorney, auditor, clerk and treasurer, even if they were reduced to say $125 a month, would amount to $6,000, making the expense of salaries alone amount to about $21,800.""In other words the Kona-Kau county would have about $10,700 a year with which to meet all expenses outside of the salaries mentioned above. Out of this amount it would have to pay all its incidental expenditures and for the maintenance of jails, courthouses, school buildings and for road and other public work. It would also have to rent or build a county building, and when the expense of installing the new government, the purchase of furniture, fixtures, books, etc., is taken into consideration, it will readily be seen that it would be impossible to even start, at least, one of the little counties.""On the whole the three-county idea seems to be open to just the same objections as the old two-county plan, only it is even worse."HINDUS ANXIOUS TO BE CITIZENSPORTLAND, December 14.—Hindus working at St. Johns and at Bridal Veil have collected a large sum of money for the purpose of waging a court fight to ascertain if they are entitled to be naturalized as citizens of the United States. A test case has been begun in the name of one of their number, application being made yesterday by Attorney C. W. Garland to Presiding Judge Oeland for the issuance of first papers to F. Mohammed, a Hindu.
The application was taken under advisement by the court.The application is based on the argument that Hindus are members of the Aryan race and are therefore free from the operation of all restrictions placed upon citizenship. The Hindus are said to be keenly aroused over the subject and have contributed liberally to the fund for the trial of the case, with the intention of carrying it to the highest courts if necessary.An unofficial opinion was requested from the office of the United States district attorney, and is said to have been unfavorable to the pretensions of the Hindus. It is also said that a similar application was recently passed upon unfavorably in California and that the case is now on appeal.
There are in Oregon at present nearly 1000 members of the race to be affected by the decision. They live principally at the largest lumber camp and at Bridal Veil, St. Johns and Astoria.Mother (indignantly)—You naughty

REAR-ADMIRAL, U. S. N.Rear-Admiral James H. Gillis, U. S.
N., retired, a gallant officer of the old navy, died December 6, 1910, at Melbourne Beach, Florida, of paralysis.
He had made his winter home in Florida for several years. Mrs. David Murray of Binghamton, New York, is his daughter, and other surviving children are H. H. Gillis and Lyle N. Gillis of Washington, and Lieut. Comdr. I. V.
Gillis, U. S. N. A brother, B. W. Gillis, also survives.Rear-Admiral J. H. Gillis was born near Ridgeway, Pennsylvania, May 14, 1831, of Scotch ancestry, his father being an officer in the War of 1812, and afterward one of the pioneer settlers of Pennsylvania. He entered the United States Navy in 1848, cruised in the West Indies and on the coast of Africa in the frigates Karitan and Dale, and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1854. He had a wide range of service and a fine record.
In 1859, while a lieutenant on board the United States steamer Supply at Montevideo, he saved the lives of three men, whose vessel, the Argentine schooner Filomena, had been wrecked in a pam-pero. For this act of heroism he received the thanks of the Argentine government, and thirty years after the officers of the Argentine navy presented to him a medal of steel and gold mounted in diamonds, commemorative of the exploit.He participated in the first naval encounter of the Civil War, between the United States frigate St. Lawrence and the Confederate privateer Petrel, the latter being sunk. He served in the Susquehanna of the Mediterranean squadron; was with the South Atlantic blockading squadron, and after being ambushed at Slams Bluff by a battery and two regiments drove them off, for which he received a commendatory letter from the secretary of the navy. He was in command of the steamer Commodore
Morris at the battle of Jamestown Landing. In the taking of Mobile his vessel, the monitor Milwaukee, was blown up by the torpedoes in Mobile Bay. After this he volunteered for and received command of a naval battery on shore and assisted at the taking of the Spanish fort. He was afterward promoted for gallantry by act of congress and received the special commendation of the secretary of the navy.While in command of the Elk he went to the assistance of Admiral Porter's fleet, when he was up the Red River with Bank's expedition. He was also in command of the Monongahela and Scioto of the West Gulf blockading squadron. While in command of the United States steamer Wateree in the harbor of Arica, Peru, his vessel alone escaped total destruction by the tidal wave and earthquake of 1883. The receding waters left the Wateree safely lodged between the hillsides half a mile inland, uninjured, and none on board the worse for the involuntary cruise.
For his services to those rendered destitute by the catastrophe he afterward received the thanks of the English government. He reached the grade of captain in 1887.In 1881, while in command of the United States steamer Lackawanna, he successfully arbitrated and concluded a treaty of peace between the rival kings of Samoa, Mallietoa and Tamasese. In 1888 he was placed in command of the South Atlantic Station. In 1892 he was ordered as a member of the Lighthouse board, on which duty he remained until his retirement, May 14, 1892, he having reached the limit of age on the active list. He spent a number of years with his family in Binghamton, and was well known to most of the older citizens.The funeral of the late Commodore J. H. Gillis, U. S. N., took place at one-thirty p. m. December 9 from the Church of the Covenant, Washington, D. C., and the burial was at Arlington, with full military honors. The pallbearers were Rear-Admiral H. L. Cone,

HIGH PRICES DO NOT CURTAIL RATIONS

Bacon Still Basis for Meals of Enlisted Men. Though It Is Traded for Extras.

Estimates have just been submitted to the war department for feeding the army for the current year, says the Washington Star. The same sort of ration that he has always had for twenty-one and a fraction cents.

This may seem a little surprising to the private citizen who has been paying thirty-four cents a pound for breakfast bacon. For the current conception of the army ration is beans and bacon, with bacon and beans by way of variety.

The fact is that foodstuffs of all sorts have gone up. It is costing more per man to feed the army than it has ever cost before, but even at that the enlisted man has the best of the private citizen in what he eats and what he pays for it.

Not the Lean Bacon.

Bacon costs more and the soldier does not eat the sort of bacon that the householder insists on having with his eggs in the morning. But the government buys in such huge quantities and the army contracts are so sharply contested for among the bidders that the commissary department is able to buy for much less than the retail market price.

With pigs selling at ten cents a pound on the hoof, the more weight a farmer can make his pigs put on, the more he will realize in the market. The light weight pigs, out of which the finest breakfast bacon is made, are a luxury. Nature would grow them, but the farmer intervenes. The result is he feeds his pigs to the waddling point.

The army can get this fat bacon for nineteen cents a pound. Five years ago the department was paying from eleven to thirteen cents a pound for the same bacon and thought that was high.

Food Prices All Up.

The army officers who do the buying say that everything else has advanced in proportion. Potatoes, flour and fresh meat have all gone up almost in the same proportion as bacon. The purchasing officers say there is no prospect of their coming down.

The dealers, the farmers and the customers have all been gradually educated up to the higher prices. Farmers and dealers are not going to let the education go to waste, if they can help it.

In spite of big crops and production overtaking population, which it is doing, according to the report of the secretary of agriculture, the commissary officers say no material drop of prices is likely.

So the enlisted man keeps on being fed as usual. The army ration this year is as it was five years ago. No healthy, hungry man could eat it all if he tried.

Commissary Swaps Bacon.

It is not intended that it should all be eaten, at least not in just that form. Each company commander looks after his own mess. What is left over, in the way of regular rations not consumed, he is at liberty to commutate into other edibles.

So that, with the aid of the unmetten part of the regular ration, the mess can buy things not on the regular ration list and thus secure variety. How much this saving is and how great the variety depends on the managing capacity of the company commander and his mess sergeant.

They are housekeepers like other housekeepers. On their personal skill and attention depend what sort of a bill of fare is served to the men.

So prices have gone up. And the problem of the commissary general and the officers under him is to make a dollar do what fifty cents would have done a few years ago.

They are doing it as well as they can. By buying carefully and in quantities, they have so far managed to keep the price of the ration down to figures that would astonish the average housekeeper.

That is the reason the enlisted man still has bacon, even if it is fat. The secretary of agriculture says the housekeepers of the cities can solve the problem to some extent by cooperative buying, but the question is whether they will.

SPEND THE YEAR END AT KILAUEA VOLCANO

Next Sunday there should be two hundred interested visitors at the volcano. Interested because it will be something new and wonderful to those who have never been there before. And it will be still wonderful to those of the island folk who go on the popular inter-island excursions two or three times a year because of the interest nature holds for them.

Hitchcock's book, "Hawaii and Its Volcanoes," has done much to enlighten the community on the geological formation of Hawaii and it is for those who have read to go and see what nature is doing during this great upheaval. No one who has not seen the volcano in activity can imagine the stupendousness of it all.

Words can not paint the colors of the lava for they are ever changing and the formations vary from hour to hour so they are wonderful to behold. Boiling, seething, twisting and turning and swinging around like the whirlpool at Niagara. Imagine the water to be a sulphurous yellow and blood red color in turns and you have the crater of Halemauuma as it is seen by those who go there at this time.

Trails have been made to places of interest in the vicinity of the crater and guests of the Volcano House find much in the visits they make to some of the dead craters which for many years, centuries, perhaps, have been covered from view by dense growth of shrubbery. The descent into Kilauea is another trip that is made with a great deal more pleasure than ease by the young folks in the great scenic section of Hawaii. It does not take so long to get to the bottom of this supposedly small crater, but the coming back to earth takes time, strength and endurance. But it pays at the end. The mere fact of being able to say that one has been at the bottom of this crater in something.

The Mauna Kea, the flagship of the Inter-island company, is to leave on an excursion to Hilo, carrying volcano passengers, next Friday afternoon. It will arrive in Hilo early next day and passengers will have time to watch Hilo grow before taking the train for Glenwood, twenty-two miles from the city, and as many hundred feet elevation above sea level. Here automobiles and carriages will meet the train and convey the party to the Volcano House, through the great ohia forest of Hawaii, a distance of nine miles. Arrived at the hotel will be in time to allow the guests to visit the nearby places and look forest before going into the crater.

Sunday will be spent as individuals elect and late in the day carriages will convey the party back to Glenwood to meet the train that will take them to the wharf in Hilo where they will embark for Honolulu arriving here Monday morning without loss of time from business. The fare for the round trip, covering all expenses, is fixed at thirty dollars or about half what a regular trip would cost under ordinary circumstances. A large number of berths have been sold and those who intend going on the trip are advised to make their reservations without delay.

SPRAINED ANKLE.

A sprained ankle will usually disable the injured person for three or four weeks. This is due to lack of proper treatment. When Chamberlain's Pain Balm is applied a cure may be effected in three or four days. This balm is one of the best and most remarkable preparations in use. For sale by all dealers, Benson, Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii.

ELEVEN MILLION AGAINST WAR

Andrew Carnegie Donates Fortune to Hasten Abolition of Carnage.

WASHINGTON, December 14.—Andrew Carnegie today loaned to a board of trustees $10,000,000 five per cent. first mortgage bonds, value at $11,500,000, the revenue of which will be used to "hasten the abolition of international war," and establish a lasting world peace. The formal transfer was made at a meeting in the rooms of the Carnegie Research Foundation, the trustees choosing as president, United States Senator Elihu Root, the prominent representative of the United States at The Hague, tribunal. President Taft has consented to be honorary president.

Foundation Is Perpetual.
The method by which the annual income of half a million dollars shall be expended is left by Mr. Carnegie in the hands of the trustees. The foundation is to be perpetual, and when the establishment of universal peace is attained, the donor provides that the revenue shall be devoted to the banishment of the next most degrading of evils, "the suppression of which would most advance the elevation and happiness of men."

The trustees of the fund include among others United States Senator Elihu Root, ex-secretary of state and ex-secretary of war; Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University; Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the advancement of teaching; Joseph H. Choate, lawyer, ex-ambassador to Great Britain; Albert K. Smiley, Lake Mohonk educator and humanitarian, and Dr. Charles W. Elliott, President Emeritus of Harvard University.

The Trust Deed.
The informal trust deed presented by Mr. Carnegie to the trustees today reads as follows:

"Gentlemen:—I have transferred to you as trustees of the Carnegie Peace Fund, ten million of five per cent. first mortgage bonds, valued at eleven and a half-million dollars, the revenue of which is to be administered by you to hasten the abolition of international war, the foulest blot upon our civilized nations."

"Although we no longer eat our fellow men nor torture prisoners, nor sack cities, killing their inhabitants, we still kill in war like barbarians."

"Only wild beasts are excusable for doing such in this twentieth century of the Christian era. The crime of war is abhorrent, since it decides not in favor of the right, but always in favor of the strong. The nation is criminal which refuses arbitration and drives its adversary to a tribunal which knows nothing of righteous judgment. I believe that the shortest and easiest path to peace is in adopting President Taft's platform, which he announced in his address before the Peace and Arbitration Society in New York March 22, 1910."

"I have noticed exceptions in our arbitration treaties as to referring questions of national honor to courts of arbitration. Personally, I do not see any more reason why matters of national honor should not be referred to a court of arbitration than matters of property or of national proprieties. I know that I have gone farther than most men are willing to go, but I do not see why questions of honor may not be submitted to a tribunal composed of men of honor, to abide by their decisions, as well as any other questions of difference arising between nations."

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR BROUGHT TO MIND

Like a dream of the past, is the story told by J. J. Pierce, an Australian, who is at present employed on the staff of The Advertiser. Pierce was born in Queensland, and when the Boer war broke out, was quite a youngster. He, like many other newspapermen, volunteered to go to South Africa, and joined the second Queensland contingent that left for the darkest continent. Arriving in South Africa, Pierce was quickly sent to the front and saw active service almost immediately. After a year's service he joined the R. H. Artillery and helped to man the guns for many months. Upon the day gallant little Mafeking was relieved, Pierce was with the first column that marched into the town.

Although offered a commission in the British Army, the young Queenslanders decided to return to his native heath. After a sojourn there he returned to South Africa again and had some adventurous times in the interior. Then began a trip around the world and, after visiting all of the civilized and many of the uncivilized parts of the globe, the anchor was thrown out in Hawaii, where, in Pierce's opinion, the "Garden Spot of the World."

DISSATISFACTION IS FELT IN PORTUGAL

Republican Institutions Do Not Please Selfish Soldiers or Shopkeepers.

LISBON, November 26.—The Portuguese republic is already in difficulties, and the confusion among its ministries is considerable, says the Washington Evening Star's special correspondent. The only person unaffected by the state of affairs is Senhor Braga, the provisional president, who is far too much of a philosopher to do anything in the matter of statecraft but devise futile laws, such as the establishment of divorce by mutual consent, which has been decreed within the last few days. The government is mightily afraid of the army, and, having arrested several generals and a great number of officers for plotting against the republic, does not know what to do with them. The truth of the matter is that the soldiers of all ranks are disappointed at not getting the prize money which they were promised for their support of the revolutionary movement, for the excellent reason that there is no money to make prizes of, or, rather, no prizes out of which to make money.

They therefore argue that a military government is the only government likely to reward them for their services. It is certain that many officers of high rank are for inviting the king back again on condition that he gives an undertaking, to be countersigned, as it were, by Great Britain and Spain, to maintain the constitution in all circumstances.

The proletariat, having had its little ding of "gunpowder, treason and plot," has looked in vain for springs of milk and honey. The shopkeeping class of the big towns realizes that it has all to lose and nothing to gain by the suppression of court pomp and royal pageantry, and is horrified by the reports that many rich families have declared their intention to keep up a state of quasi-mourning, and, if not actually to leave the country, at any rate to keep their houses shut for some time to come. The aristocracy naturally wants an aristocratic system, as, of course, does the church, and, for the matter of that, the army, although it scarcely knows its own mind yet. The chances of Manuel coming back are pretty strong, although the queen will not come with him.

CHRISTMAS DINNER A LA MODE

It was the family Christmas dinner. People had come from all over to attend.

The host—a genial, hearty looking soul—flourished the huge carving knife over the glistening turkey.

"Cousin Jane," he asked, "what part of the turkey do you prefer?"

Cousin Jane smiled a superior smile. "None, thank you. I am a vegetarian. Haven't eaten a bit of meat for one year, and look at me."

"Um," said the host, passing on to Uncle Jake. "Uncle Jake, what part?"

"I'm on the buttermilk diet," replied Uncle Jake. "Greatest thing you ever saw. No impurities in the system. Don't bother about me. I don't even have to drink buttermilk any more! I just swallow every other day a tablet containing two billion lactic acid bacteria, and make it myself inside."

The host passed on to the next.

"Well, Cousin Adelaide," he said, "what can I help you to?"

Cousin Adelaide moved away slightly and scornfully from Uncle Jake.

"If you please, one ounce of turkey. I'm a Fletcherite. Half an ounce would be my usual portion, but this is Christmas, and I'm going to be real reckless. Oh, if you only knew how it makes me feel!"

The host turned to brother Sam.

"Well, Sam, what can I do for you?"

"No protest today, thank you. I eat nothing but vegetables that grow underground. Roots—if you have a few of them they will be all I want—or possibly a little bran. You see the primitive man lived on roots. Our chief trouble today is that we do not get back to a state of nature."

"Pass him the celery," said the host. "I guess that is the best we can do. Bertha, what can I do for you?"

Cousin Bertha, a wan little thing, smiled brightly.

"Nothing, thank you. I'm living on hot water. But I had my glass at eleven."

... ..

RECRUITS AND CHILBLAINS.

There are every year many among army recruits who suffer from chilblains, causing them great trouble in their drilling, says the Japan Gazette. Especially in the Bodyguard Division, for which soldiers are recruited from all parts of the country, those who suffer from chilblains number more than in other divisions, because of the difference of the climate. The authorities have been, therefore, taking all possible means to prevent the trouble, but with comparatively little success. They have now come to attribute the principal cause of the trouble to the fact that recruits have little time to take care of their bodies, as they are not yet used to their new life and are too much occupied with their training. For that reason they rarely suffer from chilblains when they are in the second year service. The authorities think there is another cause which is that recruits do not keep their bodies as clean as their seniors. Recruits will, on the one hand, be instructed on these points, and on the other hand, more effective measure will be taken to prevent the trouble.

SMUGGLED NECKLACE

PROVES EXPENSIVE

NEW YORK, December 12.—A pearl necklace worth $8000 has cost Mrs. Ada F. Adriance of Poughkeepsie more than $25,000, because she attempted to smuggle it into the country on her return from Europe last August. The terms of the settlement were announced today. Mrs. Adriance made no mention of the necklace in her declaration. The customs examiners searched her clothing, and the necklace was found concealed in the lining of her hat. It was seized and Mrs. Adriance was indicted for smuggling. She pleaded guilty and was fined $5000.

Mrs. Theodore E. Shonts, wife of the president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, from whom goods worth $20,000 were taken when she arrived from Europe last week, was told to appear for a hearing today.

BORN.
