WORK ON FIRETRAPS

Town Preparing to Make Fight Against Fire Limits Ordinance.

HURRYING UP BUILDINGS

Units Asked for Almost Every Unoccupied Lot in Oriental District.

Attention to Log Cabin Insurance... The fire limits are beginning to show their effect. Those whose lots are in the district which will be covered by the ordinance will be asked to hurry up their buildings.

Several local scientists have of late discussed the advisability of endeavoring to secure an observatory for Hawaii independently. In case the plan of Professor Jagger of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology should miscarry, in most cases they are unwilling to come out with any proposition until they learn the fate of the Jagger plan, however.

The Massachusetts Institute has $25,000 ready for the work, but it demands that Hawaii furnish something more than $30,000. Recently a letter was received by the College of Hawaii asking that institution to furnish $7500 toward the work. This the college is unable to do, as no part of its federal appropriation can be diverted to such a purpose.

On the other hand, were the College of Hawaii to take up the research work itself, it could use a part of its federal funds to purchase instruments for a volcanic observatory. It could also provide a man to take charge of the research work, the observatory being considered in the light of a branch to the Kaimuki observation station.

GOLD MEDALS FROM SEATTLE

Some Pieces of Bronze Inscribed to Show They Are Gold Medals.

A dozen of the "gold medals" which were awarded to the Hawaiian people by the Seattle exposition have been sent to Hawaii for the exhibit at the Alaska-Yukon exposition. They are all of bronze, but are inscribed with the words "Gold Medal".

They bear a somewhat complicated design, representing George Washington, some of the medals being inscribed with the words "Gold Medal". They are all of bronze, but are inscribed with the words "Gold Medal".

OBSERVATORY OF OUR OWN

Hawaii Should Be Independent of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

THE STUDY OF THE VOLCANO

Educators Object to Having It Under the Boston Institution's Control.

There is a growing sentiment in many quarters that Hawaii should undertake the erection and maintenance of a volcano observatory herself, and not leave the direction of so important a project in the hands of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "Under the plan at present contemplated, all scientific data regarding Kilauea would come from Boston, and not until that institution had passed upon it would Hawaii know of the information gathered at her great volcano."

It is believed that this research work should be conducted by a Hawaiian institution and should be under the supervision of local scientists. It is to be seen why Hawaii should delegate to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology a task which she should take up herself.

Several local scientists have of late discussed the advisability of endeavoring to secure an observatory for Hawaii independently. In case the plan of Professor Jagger of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology should miscarry, in most cases they are unwilling to come out with any proposition until they learn the fate of the Jagger plan, however.

The Massachusetts Institute has $25,000 ready for the work, but it demands that Hawaii furnish something more than $30,000. Recently a letter was received by the College of Hawaii asking that institution to furnish $7500 toward the work. This the college is unable to do, as no part of its federal appropriation can be diverted to such a purpose.

On the other hand, were the College of Hawaii to take up the research work itself, it could use a part of its federal funds to purchase instruments for a volcanic observatory. It could also provide a man to take charge of the research work, the observatory being considered in the light of a branch to the Kaimuki observation station.

Under Professor Jagger's plan the Massachusetts Institute of Technology would have the power to appoint the director of the observatory. That director would then be entrusted with the job of naming his assistant, the assistant to be chosen from among the members of the faculty of the College of Hawaii and to be a person satisfactory to the other professors of the college. This plan would not work satisfactorily, it is believed, in that it would place one of the professors of the College of Hawaii under the direction of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

MUCH BUILDING BY JAPANESE

Thirty-One Cottages Recently Erected by a Single Propertyowner.

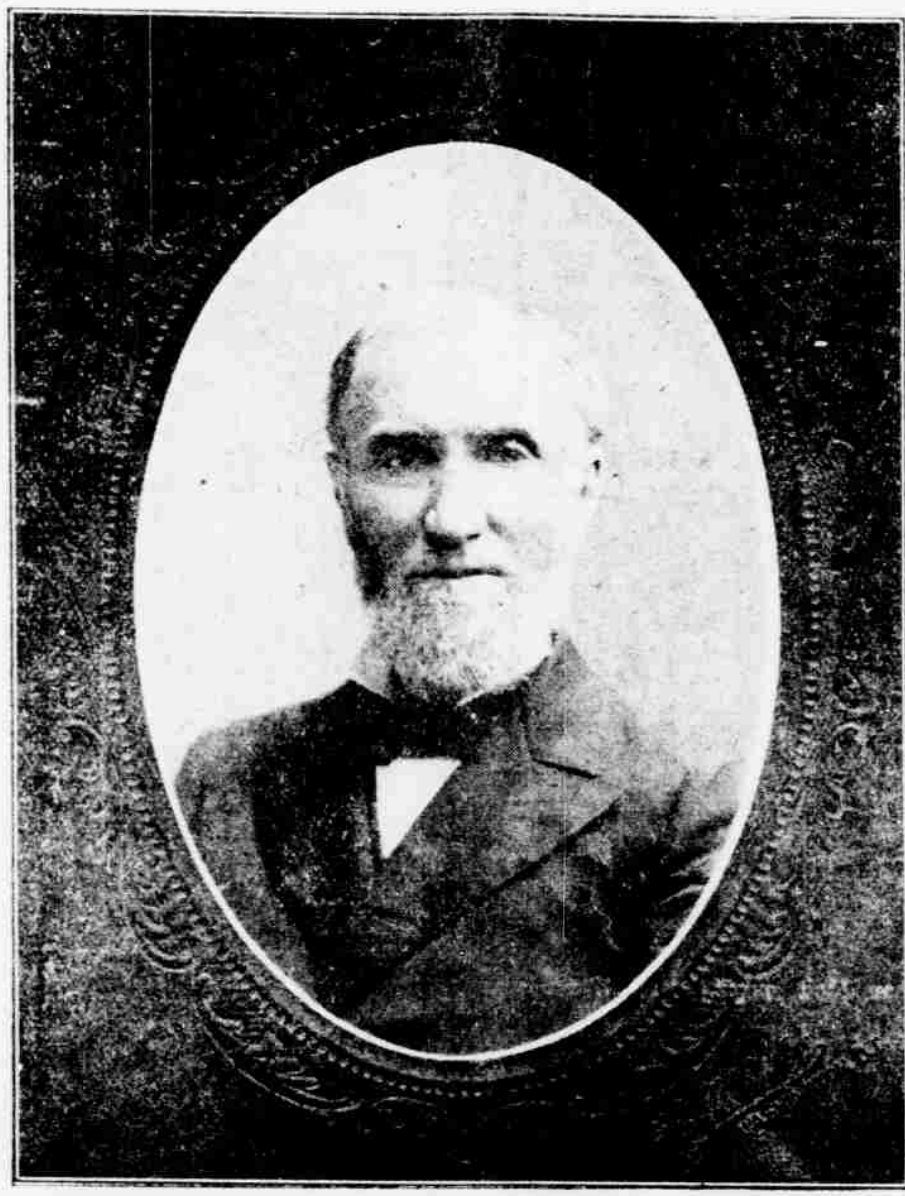

A Japanese land under the name of the Hawaiian Lumber Company is going into the building business here on a large scale, and seems likely to start a large war with the well-known local building contractor. The company has just completed a building of thirty-one cottages, and is now erecting another of the same kind. The building is a large, two-story structure, and is being erected on a large lot in the center of the city.

SPEAKER CANNON GETS ANOTHER SLAP FROM HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The house of representatives yesterday turned down a proposition to allow Speaker Cannon an automobile. The vote is taken as another indication of decreasing strength of the Speaker in the house, and the insurgents are happy over the rebuke given to Cannon by rejection of the proposal to provide him with a machine to ride in on government business.

STARTED FOR ATLANTIC CITY

Promotion Secretary Wood and Loyd Childs Leave on the Lurline.

H. P. Wood, secretary of the promotion committee, and Loyd Childs left last night on the steamer Lurline, en route to Atlantic City, where they will look after Hawaii's exhibit. The blue apple scheme which was such a big hit at the Seattle exposition is to be carried out again. Stead promoters will be served at the Hawaiian exhibit, and it is confidently predicted that this feature will make a big hit at Atlantic City as it did in Seattle.

The material for the Hawaii exhibit is to go forward by the freight steamer Virginian. The original intention was to send it direct to San Francisco and ship on to the continent, but the prospect of railroad strikes in the West caused a change of plan, and the stuff will be sent across the isthmus. It consists of a couple of thousand dollars' worth of oranges, the pineapples, and the furniture which was used in Seattle.

Wood will be away several months and in the meantime W. J. Cooper will be acting secretary of the promotion committee, as before.

REMEMBERING THE MAINE.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—An appropriation of half a million dollars for raising the wreck of the battleship Maine in the Havana harbor was favorably reported to the house today.

BOARD PASSES FIRE ORDINANCE

Achi Protests for Chinatown Propertyowners and Tenants.

The ordinance extending the fire limits passed second reading at last night's meeting of the board of supervisors, and when the board adjourned the adjournment was to a special meeting to be held next Friday evening for the purpose of passing the ordinance finally. Achi voted "no" on the second reading, but didn't say why, and no one knows why.

The ordinance was opposed by W. C. Achi, as counsel for various property owners who will be affected by it. Achi gave some solid threats of a political nature, reminding the supervisors several times that there would be an election in a few months, and declaring that a lot of poor people would be put to expense by the proposed ordinance. Achi said he represented many landowners and occupants of tenements in Chinatown.

LAND LAW ASKED FOR BY HAWAII IS GOING TO PASS

The House Will Follow the Senate in Amending Organic Act as Requested by Our Legislature.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The bill to amend the Organic Act of Hawaii, as passed by the Hawaiian legislature, is now almost certain to pass congress, with some minor amendments, among them being changes of salary schedules. The measure was discussed yesterday in the house committee on territories, and the trend of the discussion indicated a unanimous report in favor of the bill.

Opposition developed to the section providing that the legislature may loan public money to homesteaders and guarantee loans of corporations for increase of transportation facilities. This section was stricken out by the senate. The house committee will settle the question at its next meeting.

The bill has already passed the senate, and today's discussion by the house committee foreshadowed a unanimous report in favor of it, excepting the loans proposition.

ILLICIT BOOZE BY AUTOMOBILE

Chauffeurs of Honolulu Garage Are Accused of Running Blind Pig at Lelehu.

Honolulu booze is being carried to the military reservation at Lelehu in automobiles and distributed by the chauffeurs and their agents to the enlisted men of the cavalry. At least, such is the belief of the military and federal authorities, and it is along that line that the grand jury is doing its investigating.

The automobiles of a garage on Hotel street are suspected of being the ones engaged in the work of supplying booze to the soldiers and the authorities are morally certain of being able to obtain indictments against the automobile men concerned in the illegal traffic.

The carrying of liquor onto a military reservation for sale is a violation of the federal law and the violators of this law render themselves liable to severe punishment.

A large number of the enlisted men of Lelehu were before the grand jury yesterday and the day before. Lieutenant Quinlan of the Fifth Cavalry was also a witness. It is said that the fact of the illegal traffic was conclusively established and that the evidence was strong against certain chauffeurs. Indictments are expected to be returned next week when the grand jury, which was dismissed yesterday for the rest of this week, reassembles.

TAFT WRITES TO DEMOCRATIC EDITORS

SPRINGFIELD, Illinois, March 15.—A letter has been received from President Taft by the convention of Democratic editors now in session in this city, in which the chief executive urges harmony and support of the administration measures.

A letter was also received from Senator Cannon in which he defended the new tariff laws and severely criticized the Republican insurgents for their methods against the policy of the administration.

IMMIGRATION BILL TO BE POSTPONED

WASHINGTON, March 15.—No legislation on immigration will be enacted at this session of congress. This decision has been reached by the leaders who are in favor of postponing the report of the immigration commission that will be made to the next session of congress.

STILL PLANNING A BIGGER STRIKE

Efforts Now to Call Out All the Union Men in Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—The federation of labor has directed all the labor unions in the State of Pennsylvania to take a vote on the matter of ordering a general sympathetic strike. The order extends to all kinds of labor throughout the State, and is a preliminary move to attempting a complete tying up of all lines of industry in which union labor is employed. The radicals in the unions urge such a strike, unless an agreement satisfactory to the unions is reached in the Philadelphia street car strike.

Union leaders were in conference today with the director of the rapid transit system of Philadelphia. The object of the conference was to reach a basis of settlement under which the strike of street railway employees may be called off.

The conference was without any definite result. The car companies decline to make any concessions.

DEMANDS HONOR IN THE UNIFORM

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The house committee on naval affairs has reported unanimously in favor of Hobson's bill to make it a penal offense to exclude soldiers or sailors in uniform from any place of public resort. The bill was drafted as a result of the action of some resorts of amusement which attempted to shut out soldiers and sailors in uniform. According to its terms any manager of such resort who attempts to exclude men in either army or navy uniform will be subject to federal prosecution.

STEEL STRIKE MUST NOT BE CONTINUED

WASHINGTON, March 16.—It has been decided that the government will intervene in the Bethlehem steel works' strike, owing to the delay which the strike threatens to cause in the production of armor plates for the navy. A thorough investigation at the places leading up to the strike is being made, and steps will be taken to see that work is resumed at the steel works.

NEW FIELDS OF INDUSTRY.

The project of President Gilmore to establish a marine biological experiment station in connection with the college of Hawaii deserves careful consideration. Much attention has been given to the development of diversified industries on land in this Territory, but the possibilities of the waters have been overlooked, except as a means of transportation.

President Gilmore is authority for the statement that sponges should be raised with ease in Hawaiian waters. If such should turn out to be the case, cost of establishing and maintaining the experiment station would be more than made up for by that one industry. The sponge industry is one of the most profitable known and should be developed that Hawaii can produce high-grade sponges in quantity, an industry could be built up which would rival sugar in importance and yet could not encroach upon the rights of the planters.

The exploiting of her waters as the breeding ground for shellfish could not but be of the greatest benefit to Hawaii. Canneries would spring up and the ease with which the product could be placed on the market would give this Territory an immense advantage in competing for the business of the world.

A high-grade sardine raised in Hawaiian waters would be worth a fortune to the islands. The better grades of these fish packed in olive oil retail at twenty-five cents per tin and the market is always good. This applies equally to other fish suitable for canning which thrive in the warmer latitudes.

The countless coxes and bays in these islands afford ideal ground for fish hatcheries and once it is learned what fish can be raised to the best advantage, progress should be rapid.

The old hit-or-miss methods of fish raising have been relegated to the past along with haphazard farming. Modern methods have reduced the raising of fish to a science. Given suitable opportunities to examine and test the plant and animal life in these waters, experts will soon be able to tell what can be raised and what the probable returns will be.

The exploitation of the waters of the Hawaiian Islands means the opening up of unknown fields of industry, fields never thought of in the past. The great natural basins formed by the coral reefs may offer a treasure field for the person who takes advantage of their possibilities. Certainly the matter is worth investigating.

The fish that inhabit these waters are wonderful specimens of the fishy tribe. Concerning their habits but little is known, however. There has been all too little systematic endeavor to learn of the mysteries disclosed by the rolling billows. Professor Bryan, who despite the handicaps which he has encountered has done valuable research made in the waters of Hawaii, has perfected a photographic apparatus for making pictures under water. By this means he hopes to get the world to know of the wonderful life of existence which he believes he has discovered. That the world will be fast to accept his claims is to be hoped.

A Letter Home From "Bob" Burdette

Rev. Robert J. Burdette—he never will be other than dear Bob Burdette to me, for I have known and loved him these thirty years—is charmed with Honolulu, where he and Mrs. Burdette are having a glorious stay. Robert's delightful contributions to the editorial page of the Times have given a joyous illumination to that otherwise rather forbidding portion of my always esteemed contemporary—it advocates high tariffs, ship subsidies and other insensate measures that affect me adversely—and that he intends to remain in Hawaii for several months is indicated by the following letter, which reached me this week. It is dated Honolulu, February 14, and reads:

"My Dear Samuel—I want a valentine. I intended to ask for it before I sailed, but forgot all about it, my time being taken up in purchasing preventives of sea sickness, which after ward proved to be such provocatives for the same that they deranged the compass and affected the steering gear until the captain ordered the medicines thrown overboard. But about my valentine—send me The Graphic—Seaside Hotel, Honolulu, until further orders. And say, if the office boy can find back numbers, beginning with January first up to date, send them along also, and give the boy one (1) quarter (¼), and charge it to my subscription. I am so well that I get tired of it. Because, as long as I am well I have to work. Good-bye! I do love you. Yours, as ever, ROBERT J. BURDETTE."

Admiring the letterhead is a view of the ocean with the Seaside Hotel in the background. A speck far out at sea, evidently a swimmer, is marked "ME," and on the shore, leaning a telescope at the reading figure is a woman in white, presumably Mrs. Burdette, wondering if Robert is about to swim back to San Francisco, just for the sake of exercise. Los Angeles Graphic.

HAWAIIAN ISLANDS ARE THE KEY TO THE PACIFIC, SAYS DEPEW

WASHINGTON, February 24.—Declaring that it is a remarkable tribute to the self-governing powers of the Hawaiian people that they should have received in the Organic Act conditions of self-government which have not been given to any of our other possessions or Territories, Senator Dewey of New York addressed the senate today in support of the measure amending the law for the government of the islands.

The most important of the proposed changes relates to the disposal of the public lands. "From now on, these lands," said Senator Dewey, "shall be managed by the Hawaiian people, and the proceeds of their sale shall be used for the benefit of the islands. This is a most important step, and it is one which the Hawaiian people have earned. The Hawaiian people have shown themselves to be capable of self-government, and they have shown themselves to be capable of managing their own lands. This is a most important step, and it is one which the Hawaiian people have earned."

Senator Dewey also declared that the Hawaiian people have shown themselves to be capable of self-government, and they have shown themselves to be capable of managing their own lands. This is a most important step, and it is one which the Hawaiian people have earned.

Pearl Harbor in Hawaii is of incalculable value. It will accommodate our whole navy. It is reached by a long and deep channel, which can be easily fortified. On its shores can be built shipyards, coal yards, and all the equipment of a first-class, up-to-date naval station. The position of the Hawaiian Islands and the situation of Pearl Harbor give to the United States for war, for peace and for commerce the command of the Pacific Ocean."

AFRICA.

Editor Advertiser.—The following anonymous verses are transcribed from Harper's Magazine for July, 1872. Although published nearly thirty-eight years ago their mild satire is peculiarly applicable to Mr. Roosevelt, now returning from "Africa's wilds."

RALPH TURNER.

In Africa's wilds, how sad thy lot,
Where suns shine hot and hotter;
Where even the very Hottentot
One sees grow hot and hotter!
What though the choicest fruits be thine,
That mortal's eye set eye on—
What though thou take on "tender line"
Cut from the tender lion—
What though the sacred river's founts
Prove blest hygienic fountains,
And crystal landscapes nature mounts
In Abyssinian "mountains"—
Yet thou dost at the mercy be
Of every scribbling liar;
Each week some dreadful death doth die
From correspondents dire!
Better the sword thy life cut short,
Or cannon shot cut shorter—
Better to fall by one report
Than by each fell reporter!

Under the law Miehlestein has no choice but to issue the desired permits, providing that they comply with existing regulations. The applications have come in such numbers that it will be several days before he will be able to finish those which he now has on hand, however.
"I had no idea that there were so many vacant lots in Chinatown," said the building inspector yesterday. "Why a permit must already have been demanded for every unoccupied piece of property in the whole district. I have no idea how many applications have been received for I have not been able to go over more than half of them. If they keep on coming at this rate I don't know what the final total will be. And I don't know where they'll put their buildings either."

MANY CITIZENS
ASK FOR LIGHTS

Tell the Supervisors It Isn't Safe to Go Home in the Dark.

A petition for the installation of lights in the dark streets of Honolulu was presented to the Board of Supervisors yesterday. The petition was signed by many citizens who are concerned for the safety of their families and property.

The Board of Supervisors is expected to take action on the petition soon. It is believed that the installation of lights will be a necessary measure for the safety of the city.

Army and Navy News

Ensign P. O. Griffith, of the U. S. cruiser Washington, died late yesterday afternoon of smallpox at the U. S. quarantine station at Diamond Point. Since he was landed at the station he had shown marked signs of improvement and the surgeons at the station felt certain that he would recover. Yesterday afternoon a change for the worse took place and he gradually became worse until death relieved him of his sufferings. Since news of his illness reached his aged mother who resides at Palo Alto, California, she has been in daily communication by wire with her boy and encouraging words for his recovery were sent her. Yesterday just before he passed away a bouquet of choice California roses had been received at the station from the mother and they were presented to the boy. The news of his death will be a severe blow to the mother.

Ensign Griffith joined the navy in 1903. He was 25 years of age and a native of California. The death of Ensign Griffith is the fourth to occur among the crew of the Washington since she left Honolulu to come to Pago Pago. The first to die was a boy named Frank, who died just after he was landed at the station. The second was a boy named William, who died while he was being brought ashore at the station. The third was a boy named Robert, who died while he was being brought ashore at the station.

GOOD NEWS

Many Honolulu Readers Have Heard It and Profited Thereby.

"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Honolulu are glad to learn that prompt relief is within their reach. Many a lame, weak and aching back is no more, thanks to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. Thousands upon thousands of people are telling the good news of their experience with the Old Quaker Remedy. Here is an example worth reading:

Elmer E. Pitts, 10 Pine St., Saugus, Mass., says: "If there is anyone who has reason to be grateful to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills it is I. Several years ago I was employed as a motor man on the street railway and it was while thus engaged that I felt the first symptoms of kidney trouble. I believe the complaint was caused by constant standing and the jarring I received. The first symptom was backache, which brought me directly over to the doctors. I paid little attention to this at first, thinking it would soon pass away of its own accord, but such was not the case. I gradually grew worse and after a hard day's work it was all I could do to get home. My health continued to decline and I was finally compelled to take to my bed. I remained there for four months and was unable to work for over a year. I had a constant backache and at times my back felt as if it were dislocated. A kidney weakness set in and I was bothered both day and night by a frequent desire to pass the kidney secretions. My feet and limbs were badly swollen and the doctors said I had dropsy. I took any amount of medicine, but I did not improve and finally the doctors told me that they could do nothing more for me. I had lost flesh until I weighed but ninety pounds and I was in despair. At this critical period my wife noticed an advertisement about Doan's Backache Kidney Pills and was convinced that they would help me. She procured a supply and though I had but little faith in them, I began their use. I had taken Doan's Backache Kidney Pills but a few days before I could see a slight improvement and by the time I had used seven boxes I was able to get up and around. From that time on my health and strength rapidly returned and I was able to go to work. As I took no other medicine at the time I was using Doan's Backache Kidney Pills I give them the full credit for my cure. Last fall I caught a severe cold which brought on a return of the trouble. I again used Doan's Backache Kidney Pills and the contents of three boxes drove away the attack."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and stockholders at 25 cents per box (six boxes $2.50) or will be mailed on receipt of price by the H. J. Doan Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. There is no telling when it may be wanted as a result of an accident or emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. For sale by all dealers, Benson, Smith & Co., Agents for Hawaii.

QUEEN'S CLAIMSSay in Answer That She Was Advised Instrument Was Irrevocable.The three trustees of Queen Liliokalani's trust deed, A. S. Cleghorn, W.
O. Smith and Curtis P. Lauen, yesterday filed their answer to the suit brought against them by the Queen for restitution of her property recently conveyed to them by the deed of trust.The answer is, in general, a denial of all the charges made by the Queen, particularly the charge that she did not know and was not advised when she signed the deed of trust that it was irrevocable. The defendants contend that the Queen was fully advised by both A. S. Humphreys and W. O. Smith, who drew up the deed of trust, that it was not in the nature of a will but that it would be irrevocable and could only be amended by consent of the trustees.The statement is made in the answer that the Queen first consulted Humphreys
in regard to the final disposition of her property, and after talking it over with her, he suggested that a deed
of trust would probably meet the requirements of the situation more effectually than a will. She agreed to this and asked him and W. O. Smith to draw up the deed of trust. This they did. The Queen, they say, did not rely merely on the advice of counsel of Lauen, nor did he refrain from informing her that the deed was irrevocable. Before she signed the instrument, it was read aloud to her by Humphreys and carefully explained.NEW WORK FOR HAWAII COLLEGEPlans to Experiment With Fish Hatcheries and the Raising of Sponges.If the plans of President Gilmore are carried out, a department of marine biology will be established in connection with the College of Hawaii and a marine biological experiment station will be maintained for the purpose of experimenting with fishes, sponges and other sea life. The project will probably be brought to the attention of the next legislature and an appropriation will be asked for the purpose of carrying on the work.At present there are no facilities
here for biological research work among the inhabitants of the deep and comparatively little is known concerning the possibilities of Hawaiian waters for raising sponges, various food fishes or shell fish. The faculty of the College of Hawaii has received many inquiries from scientists regarding the convenience here for research work,
and in each case it has been necessary
to send back word that at present there are none.The extensive fish hatcheries maintained in most of the maritime States of the Union were established as a direct result of the reports of the biological experiment stations devoting their time to marine research work, and it is believed that not only can many new industries be developed here, but that the quality of the food fishes can be improved and the price reduced.It is believed by those who have given the matter some attention, that sponges can be raised to good advantage in Hawaiian waters. Some of the best sponges in the world come from about this latitude and scientists declare that there is no conceivable reason why experiments along that line should not be successfully carried out.It is pointed out that food fish is more expensive here than should be the case in an island Territory located in this climate, and it is believed that scientifically conducted hatcheries would make a great advance in this regard. The college does not contemplate undertaking raising fish for the market, but it does propose to experiment with this view to telling those who may embark in the industry just how they can carry on their work to the best advantage.

IS "THE PRICE OF POWER"

LEO COOPER.

Toby Claude, the dainty little Lun-non comedienne, was generous last evening at the Orpheum, for she graciously added an additional verse to one of her risqué songs, and the house went wild with enthusiasm. It seems impossible not to fall entirely in with the happy mood of the cute little singer. From her first appearance in her tiny little slip of a gown, to her exit
in her gown en train, she held the audience on tenterhooks. The house was filled to the doors and it is certain that Toby will continue to fill the house.
Her songs, while risqué, are not naughty, and even if they were, Toby has a way of winging them which makes them merely risqué. She does have a naughty little wink and a Frenchy nod to her pretty little head, all of which she brought from Lunnion town and the Gay White Way.By far one of the most artistic duo that have appeared in Honolulu is LeoCooper and Miss Elsa Von Brahm.
They so fill the stage with their one-act sketch, and hold the audience, that it seems as though an act of a drama,
in which an entire company participates, was being presented. Their sketch is "The Price of Power," and in it Mr. Cooper and Miss Von Brahm prove their worth as excellent interpreters of one of the best vaudeville plays. The sketch is tense and powerful. It moves in dramatic progression to a climax that is logical, forceful and true. Mr. Cooper plays the role of the governor with an even dignity. This piece was written especially for Mr. Cooper by H. Cottrell, a well-known author. The act is not only on a high plane from a literary standpoint, but is intensely powerful,
gripping the audience from the start.
It is a sketch in the class of society problems.Toby Claude and Leo Cooper and Miss Von Brahm will continue as the headliners for the remainder of the week.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

"The Heir to the Hooraah."

The opening of the reserved seat sale of the Henry McRae Stock Company
assures a capacity house to welcome that well-known organization.Mr. McRae, his leading lady Miss Margaret Oswald and associate players will find congenial roles in the play
selected to introduce this organization to Honolulu."The Heir to the Hooraah," written by Paul Armstrong, is a play of the great West, the "Hooraah" being the name of a mine. The scene of the play is the State of Colorado, the characters are human and the play natural, its popularity being attested by a record run of eight months in New York, without one unfavorable newspaper criticism.As for Mr. McRae and his company, the Tacoma papers speak of them as "the best stock company Tacoma has ever had."The plays selected for presentation
here will be high class, royalty productions only, and will include many of the bigger of last season at New York and other Eastern cities.Following "The Heir to the Hooraah," which will run up to and including Wednesday evening, the McRae company will present that sterling play by that popular author, Chauncey Pollock,
"In the Bishop's Carriage," with a popular matinee on Saturday.

The Last Night.

This will be the last appearance of the world famous jugglers at the Park Theater, as they go to the Coast on the Alameda tomorrow. These people have created a furore here and they will no doubt capture theaters on the mainland, in connection with the feature there will be one of the famous Lathrop pictures, "A Romance of the Andes," being a drama in which real society is a feature. The McRae company has five different theaters and three excellent companies of actors who give directed performances for the motion pictures. The "Romance of the Andes" is one of them and the scenery is genuine, the company proceeding to the Andes for the production. There is now in Hawaii a representative of this firm engaged in making pictures.

The Empire.

"Panoramic Pictures" is another of these educational story pictures for people who can not travel and see the world, so we bring the world to the people, thus saving time and money."The Duke's World" is a heart to heart story which brings out the sympathetic side of our nature.A comedienne, "Romance of an United Kingdom," and "A Christmas Legend," are the feature of the week.

MOORE SPEAKS TONIGHT ON Y. M. C. A. ACTIVITIES

Tonight at seven-thirty in Central Union church, John F. Moore of New York, one of the traveling secretaries of the international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, will give a lecture on "World-wide Y. M. C. A. Work." Mr. Moore's lecture will be particularly illustrated by stereoscopic slides, showing the different parts of the work as they appear in practice.

Mr. Moore is well known throughout the States as a strong speaker and his years of experience in association work as traveling secretary, have given him a wealth of knowledge regarding the Y. M. C. A. work in every part of the world.

LECTURE BY BISHOP HUGHES.

It is hoped that Honolulu people have an opportunity to hear two of the most distinguished lecturers and orators in America within one week. All who heard Doctor Barlett Monday evening were delighted. Bishop Hughes, who will deliver his famous lecture on "The Biography of a Boy," Thursday evening at the First Methodist Episcopal church, will not fail to give his audience a rare treat. His lecture abounds with wit and humor. No admission fee will be charged.

ADVOCATES DEER FARMS.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The problem of the high cost of meat will solve itself and the price will be reduced two-thirds if the people will raise deer on their farms and are permitted to kill them," declared Dr. C. Hart Merriam, chief of the biological survey, before a house committee today. He said that deer farming could be carried on profitably in any part of the United States.

Doctor Merriam told the committee of the slaughter of wolves, prairie dogs, gophers, rats and ground squirrels in California. The latter, Doctor Merriam said, were infested with bubonic plague germs and the department was doing everything possible to exterminate them.

If these animals are allowed to carry the disease, the whole country will be in danger," he said.

The following letter has been received by Treasurer Trott from New Zealand.

Rotorua, North Island, New Zealand, January 25, 1910. To the Honorable, the Deputy City and County Treasurer, Honolulu, Hawaii, U. S.

Greetings to you!

Dear & Kind & Honored Sir:—The undersigned, a humble and lowly organ grinder, salutes you and the staff at the Treasury, and the Chief Treasurer, and acknowledges the receipt of your message, 111 P. M., and thanks you for your pleasant reply, which informs me that there is no reason why organ grinding should not be permitted in the City and County of Honolulu, and elsewhere in Hawaii. The Hon. the Collector of Customs, E. R. Stackebly of Honolulu, wrote to me, acknowledging receipt of my letter of Nov. 7th, 1909, and notifying me that he has referred my letter of Nov. 7th, '09, to the Hon. the Inspector of Immigration, and to the Hon. the Sheriff of Honolulu, and that no doubt these gentlemen would reply to me. I have replied to the Hon. the Collector of Customs, thanking him for his pleasant and lengthy message. Now I expect a message from the Hon. the Sheriff. I hope his message may be as kind as yours and the Collector's, and I hope the Inspector of Immigration may favor me with a reply as to my right to grind. I hope I may get permission to grind and grind my organ if I get permission to do so.

Dear and kind sir, Hoping my message may, please you and that it may find you in good health and in good humor, and I hope you will enjoy good health and happiness many years and that no one will vex or ruffle or rouse, or annoy or worry you and that your Wife will ever love and never scold or nag you, and that the lady will not vex all night and day, not keep you awake and not make you cross and ill humored and unhappy and blue! I salute you and I remain, Very Resp. and respectfully Yours, JOSEPH NEZEL, a citizen of San Francisco, and ex-private of Marines, U. S. Marine Corps. I have left Pressa for Australia in 1888, and have been away ever since. I suppose I'm expatriated.

THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY March 17, 18 and 19

The following letter was sent to 400 customers whose addresses appeared in our ledger:

Hotel York, Corner 36th St., New York, January 31, 1910.

It is with very great pleasure that I am able to report my present buying trip was made under exceedingly favorable circumstances.

The show of Wearing Apparel now being held at the Madison Square Garden brought out the best efforts of Leading Makers of Ladies' Garments with original designs for the coming seasons, and after exceedingly careful comparison I placed our orders for merchandise equal to that ordered by the Leading Fifth Avenue Stores. We are also fortunate in securing the services of a competent lady to manage our Ready-to-Wear Department.

Among other attractions we will show beautiful creations in imported Millinery.

Our stock of the latest ideas in Silks and other piece goods cannot fail to meet with great favor.

The water can confidently state that the shipments to go forward shortly will prove undoubtedly the finest line of merchandise ever shown in Honolulu. The opening date will be about the 10th of March.

Faithfully yours,

G. B. CURTIS.

Manager for E. W. Jordan & Co., Ltd.

The merchandise has arrived, and we can confidently state that the display we will make this week, will far exceed any showing ever attempted in Honolulu. The special features are style, exclusiveness, variety and good value.

Ladies, who send away, will now find they can do probably better right here.

PRESIDENT IS FORCED TO WAGE FIGHT ALONE

Inertia of Congress Places the Chief Executive in a Hard Position--Results Must Come Soon or Not at All.

By Ernest G. Walker.

(Mail Special to The Advertiser.)

WASHINGTON, February 24.—Looking from the last stages of midwinter over the threshold of the period when congress begins to think of quitting and the White House contemplates "getting away" to Beverly, there is what the newspaper correspondents describe as "an interesting situation" in Washington. For while the disagreeable days of gusts and blizzards and sunshine, which fill a Washington March are still some distance off, the feeling is in the air that the heat of the winter is over and that the hour is at hand for clearing decks and getting into action.

The President has not been able to move his legislative cohorts on the bill. He returned to Washington, after his New York speech, full of hope. He girded himself for a busy campaign. Summons was issued to the leaders to attend and a number of parleys, covering a wide range of legislation and politics followed. The goose seemed to be honking high. The leaders made fine promises of what they were going to do. They demonstrated to the President their readiness for a forward movement. There were a few days of this opera bouffe. The telegraph wires carried many an article about the brisk plans of the senate and the house and the marvelous record that would be made in handling those measures which the President has close at heart.

But gradually in recent days the curtain has been drawn aside. The sorry spectacle of congress promising to the ear and breaking to the hope is now appearing. The cold facts of the President's hard plight in an amicable struggle with congress are developing. There are indifference and inertia to be overcome and the President must do the work alone. He has few enthusiastic friends in senate and house. The insurgents have no faith in him. The regulars believe in him but do not believe in his measures.

Very soon, the President must get results if he would have them at all. It is now almost three months since he took up his legislative campaign with congress and today the prospects are worse than they ever have been. By that is meant the President today seems likely to obtain less from congress than he seemed likely to get in January or December. There is no enthusiasm for his bills. He has widely emphasized the fact that the country is criticizing him. That emphasizes to congress that it can well afford to dissent from his program. Congress is always loth to do. It will not crowd a session with general legislation, unless there is a militant public sentiment prodding it to action.

Congress has discovered that there is no militant public sentiment back of the President or back of his legislative bills. That is probably the key to his present difficulties. The bill was endorsed by the Republicans in their national platform. Therefore it ought to be enacted into law. That is the sum and substance of the President's argument, which he has been repeating into the ears of the lawmakers for weeks. The lawmakers respond, "Yes, Mr. President, that is so." They assure him they will do what they can to pass it. They emerge from the White House offices, detail once more the bills that are to be included in the President's program, take an automobile back to the capitol, and in their committee corners tell another kind of story.

"Why," say these same White House congressional visitors, "what does it signify that the postal savings bank bill was endorsed by the Republican national convention? Few men completely pay any attention to what gets into the platform. A determined group holding a position of advantage, can get almost anything without reason adopted as a plank. The postal savings bank was the work of George von L. Meyer, then postmaster general."

And from this line of argument, to diffuse upon the absence of evidence that there is a popular demand for the postal savings bank bill. No petitions are presented for it. No resolutions are introduced in the house or senate for its passage. The newspapers are writing precious little about it. People do not appear to be talking about it, except to contradict about the franchise. The President has in getting the senate to vote for it.

And so the bill hangs fire in the senate. "Cable Tom" Barber, of Missouri, with those white procession of speech and with great precision of speech, said he would occasionally ask the bill for a vote. He promises that the bill will be moved this week, or next week, and this fact it has always turned out to be a bluff. The senate has been in many weeks but no accepts it. It is the best good natured. For a few days, the senate has been discussing the bill, and a few days ago, Senator Stewart, of Utah, brought forward one that struck a note in the Westerners. It provided for the deposit of funds, collected in the savings banks, in financial institutions in the vicinity where the postal savings banks were located. This was intended to keep the funds from getting away to New York to use at high rates of interest in wicked Wall Street.

The senate adopted this with a grim humor. The leaders did not crack a smile. There was no particular opposition. The consideration of the bill drifted on days and days. Finally some one suggested that the bill was clearly unconstitutional. Such a great lawyer as Senator Root subscribed to that view. He put in an amendment to correct that. He proposed to connect the bill up with the fiscal system of the United States. He would use the deposits to purchase government bonds, thus making a market for those securities bearing a low rate of interest. The President approved of it, said the bill would be of doubtful constitutionality without it, and so on, all of which in those rapid days is more or less ancient history.

And what followed? A week of great activity that promised much progress in the direction the President has urged proved a week of demoralization and despair. The senate leaders rushed to the President with the advice that the Root amendment would kill the postal savings bank bill, if it were not already dead. The hour was near for the use of resuscitators. Of course, the senate was concerned! It wanted to help the President! It wanted so much to pass his bill!

With all this show of sincerity, the grand old game of procrastination proceeded. There was a particular milepost the senate wanted to pass. That was a speech by Senator Bailey, of Texas, on the constitutionality of postal savings banks. He is admitted to be a great constitutional lawyer—when it serves the purposes of the senate Republicans! But it takes time to prepare a great constitutional speech and to examine the decisions. First Senator Bailey had to go to South Carolina to make a speech before the legislature. That body had issued an invitation to him. The United States senate has well-defined practices about waiting for a senator who has views to present. Ordinarily if it had to wait for the South Carolina legislature or for any other legislature, there would be thundering from the old senatorial forum.

This time, however, there was nothing but complacency and amiability. "We must give Bailey a chance," said the leaders. "He should be able to throw some light on this question." And the Texas returned from South Carolina, and disappointed for days in his office in the marble palace across the way from the capitol. Law authorities were conveyed to him thither by the earload and finally early the present week, after the senate had been adjourning nearly every afternoon at 2 p. m. and adjourning over Saturday and adopting other fine devices for consuming time, Bailey was ready with his speech. The further tactics of inaction and delay will now be unfolded and will probably demonstrate whether the postal bank bill is or is not to be rescued from a lasting sleep.

The President has seen the danger in these tactics. They were intended to wear him out and, in some measure have succeeded. He was in the plight of having recommended in his New York speech the Root amendment which the leaders had frankly declared in advance would kill the postal savings bank bill. "We must vote that amendment down," said the few staunch sports, who are really trying to help him out. They made this statement before the President delivered his New York speech and were amazed when he went on record for it.

Then they started upon a new task—the elimination of all amendments. There were many parties at the White House offices, the apartment at which was the President's willingness to abandon the Root amendment and his readiness to accept any kind of a postal savings bank bill that will pass the senate. "I want the bill in some form, in any form," he said in substance. "Fix it up in any shape that can command the votes. Perhaps we can get it re-modelled in conference. But any way let us get it upon the statute books. Let us make a start this session, perhaps I can get it amended at the next session."

The Democrats will nearly all vote against the bill, on the plea that it is unconstitutional and not workable. As now framed, it will be difficult to amend many regular Republican senators hold many regular Republican senators in line for it. It profits no for preventing the deposits from getting into Wall Street is not adopted. Many of the Western Republicans will look at the measure. Their eyes and the votes of the Democrats will likely make a majority of the senate.

Negotiations were started. It have been tried in a preliminary way and wearing the President out. He feels and works over the debate. He is issuing various statements. He is talking frankly about senators. One of them he could see with back eyes through a keyhole. Of course this makes some senators and but it gives the President's statements are to be squared with reality. There is much going on, and of all grades of politeness and about the senate and about the senate having already been set and the signal having been given to steam ahead.

Accordingly one of the first requisites, if the President is to maintain the prestige of his authority with congress, is for him to get the postal bill through the senate. If he fails in that there will be a great sagging with his other measures. Republicans will back slide merrily and leave the President in the lurch.

It is almost open talk around congress that practically every one of the President's bills, except the one making amendments to the interstate commerce law, is in danger of being ditched. This applies to the conservation bills, of which there are several, to the statehood bill, the federal franchise bill, the ship subsidy bill and the anti-injunction bill. Some of them may pass the senate. Others may pass the house. Some may even pass both houses and be hung up in conference. It is an odd story that confuses and wrangles terribly when they have a bill before them in which the senate and house leaders are not tremendously interested. There are half a dozen well tried ruses for preventing a bill from reaching the President at a long session and leaving it to the short session when it is easy as can be to kill almost any measure outside of an appropriation bill.

The President himself ditched some of his own bills. He consented to do this a few days ago when he beheld the desperate situation that confronted him. There was the Alaska government bill, which he virtually drew himself. It provided for a legislative council, whose members should be appointed, not elected. The senate committee on Territories worked it over for a time and finally got it before the senate. The measure was vigorously attacked and it was claimed would give the governor and council of Alaska the power to veto an act of congress. It was also charged that such a law would give the "Guggenheims and the J. P. Morgan's advantage in the Seward purchase, where, as subsequent hearings have developed, they possess enormous holdings in railroads, coal and copper mines and in other industries. There was such a fuss over the bill that it survived only one day in the senate and has now been as good as withdrawn. The President, however, has served notice that he will not have an elective council in Alaska. "I have had opportunities to observe the operations of a council, such as was provided for Alaska," said he the other day. "It worked splendidly in the Philippines. And congress need not waste its time on an elective council, for I will veto any bill containing such a provision."

The Alaska bill was jettisoned partly in the interest of the statehood bill for Arizona and New Mexico, which the house has passed. That statehood bill was bottled up in the senate committee on Territories. Every old Tom, Dick and Harry, who wanted a hearing upon any provision of it, was being given a chance. The program was to get it out very late in the session, so late that there would be insufficient time to pass it, or if it had to be passed, to get it out of the senate with so many amendments that the conferees would start a quarrel which would carry their deliberations over into the short session of congress. That is the program still. The President is trying to prevent this on the plea that the platform has committed the party to statehood legislation. But the platform argument in this case is accepted about as seriously as the platform argument for the postal savings bank bill.

Many of the men who formulate sentiment in the Senate are really for the President's federal franchise bill. He wants it himself, but the platform did not declare for it, and therefore he has as good as agreed to abandon that measure upon which Attorney General Wickham, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel and other first lieutenants of the administration, representatives of the corporations and the like have been working for months. The President's abandonment of that measure at the eleventh hour, when he saw Republican platform measures going to the lead, not more noses at the Capitol out of joint.

There is much derogation of bills made to order by the President any way. The idea has always been offensive to congress. President Taft has gone farther in that direction than ever President Roosevelt went. He has advertised in his messages to congress and in his public speeches that his cabinet members were drawing bills which would be handed over to congress in due season. In the Roosevelt days, however, there was strong public sentiment behind the measures which he passed and passed to congress. He took care to steel every act of cooperation with the lead of senate and house, to whom there was popular aversion. President Taft, on the other hand, has accepted of time and again that he must use the uncertainties for legislation which he holds at hand and in the best to do with them. He turns the administration made bills over to Senator Arthur for instance, and asks him to get them upon the statute books as the administration bills. He sends them over to Senator Aldrich for instance, and asks him to get them upon the statute books as the administration bills. He sends them over to Senator Aldrich for instance, and asks him to get them upon the statute books as the administration bills.

Whether it be through the just as he is to Senator Arthur, the public is suspicious of anything that is done in this way. The fact that so a President Taft's bills are passed in congress with such a strong public sentiment behind them is a fact which the President and his cabinet members are well aware of. They are well aware of the fact that the public is suspicious of anything that is done in this way.
