The Final Rallies

Held of the Campaign for Prohibition.

Sunday afternoon last as had been previously planned prohibitionists from Pauwela, Haiku, Makawao, Hamakua, Paia, Punehene, Kahului, Waikapu, Waihee, Waiehu, Wailuku and other places formed in line at the Wailuku depot and marched in procession to the Town Hall headed by the Wailuku band, under Geo. B. Schrader, where an open air meeting was held.

After prayer by Rev. Henry P. Judge, Hon. H. P. Baldwin addressed the gathering in Hawaiian. He related an interesting event of his early boyhood at Lahaina when a band of over 1000 people called "Ka Puali Inuawai" paraded the streets singing songs, and gathered at Waihee Church where speeches were made against the evils of the use of liquor.

Under the Kamehamehas from the earliest times no liquor was allowed to be sold to Hawaiians until 1882, when the law was changed under Kalakaua.

He stated from his experience on the plantations that men who got drunk could not be trusted. He said a vote for prohibition was a vote for the home and the family as against influences which break up the home. He had taken the stand in favor of prohibition with his whole heart and strength, and asked the women and children to exert their influence on the men to vote for prohibition.

Mr. Wm. White followed with remarks relative to the issues before the people, telling how a man can get up enough dutch courage on four drinks to attack a lion and at the same time forget all about the needs of his family.

Rev. E. B. Turner spoke of heroism. He was in New York when the Windsor Hotel took fire, and saw people jumping down to their deaths from the tenth story windows. Inside of the burning building was a crippled boy who ran from door to door warning people of the danger. He stuck to his post of duty until he fell down an elevator and was burned to cinders. That was what the prohibitionists are doing. Trying to save the people from liquor evil. Even if we lose day after tomorrow, we are only getting our fighting blood up, and are just beginning the campaign.

J. W. Kalua was the next speaker. He said on one side stood the wine, gin and whiskey, and on the other the schools, homes and the family. He wanted Wailuku to vote itself dry.

He was the last speaker, and the crowd variously estimated between 1500 and 2000 dispersed to their homes.

That evening leaders of the Japanese Y. M. C. A. held an open air meeting on Market street. The speakers denounced the use of liquor and asked the Japanese to take sides with the prohibitionists.

Monday night the anti held a big rally on Market street. The Wailuku band was in attendance and played in excellent form between speeches.

The first speaker was Senator Coelho, who made an eloquent speech, but could not refrain from making slanderous attacks on one of Maui's foremost citizens. He claimed the newspapers were misrepresenting him, which was his excuse

Mr. T. Awana Passes Away— Republican Officers.

Saturday the 23rd, T. Awana of Makawao died at his home of blood poisoning after a long illness.

Mr. Awana was for many years a storekeeper at Makawao and well-known all over the island. Recently he has been engaged in his rice plantation at Keanae and in other branches of business. He was born in China about 52 years ago and has lived in Hawaii 28 years. Though always a most progressive Chinese, he embraced Christianity but three days before his death.

The funeral took place at Pokela Church on Sunday afternoon, the 24th, and was largely attended by all nationalities. Rev. Mr. Santos of Paia and Yee Kui, the Chinese minister of Wailuku, performed the ceremony, though at the grave the Hawaiian Knights of Pythias of which the deceased was a member rendered in an impressive manner the burial service of their order, W. F. Crockett of Wailuku officiating as chaplain.

Eight children survive Mr. Awana: Mrs. A. J. Taite of Hawaii, Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Arnold of Honolulu, Miss Mikahala Awana and Mrs. Arthur Morton of Makawao, and three young sons of which E. Awana of the Wailuku bank is the eldest.

At a meeting of the Eleventh Precinct Republican Club held Friday evening, the 22nd, at Makawao Court House the following officers were elected for two years:

F. W. Hardy, president; P. F. Peck, 1st vice-president; Wm. Miner, 2nd vice-president; S. R. Dowdle, secretary; Arthur Morton, assistant secretary; M. Alameda, treasurer; W. O. Aiken, A. F. Tavares, J. A. Aheong, W. I. Wells and W. F. Cole, executive committee; Joe Morris, A. S. Medeiros, and A. R. de Souza, judges of election.

This meeting had been postponed from July 15th on account of bad weather.

On the 25th, Manuel Fernandez of Makawao died of pneumonia after a sickness of twenty-one days.

He was born in St. Miguel, in the Azores, and was 39 years of age. He was the son of Antonio Fernandez of Makawao and the brother-in-law of A. F. Tavares.

He leaves a wife and five children.

for reading portions of his speech from a manuscript. However no decent paper would want to print some of the coarse and vulgar language he used near the close of his remarks, which probably slipped out unnoticed by the speaker's insides.

He was followed by D. H. Davis and D. L. Meyer, both of whom confined themselves to the issues of the campaign, and while hitting their opponents pretty hard did not slander any one at all.

T. B. Lyons was the next speaker. He was given an ovation which lasted several minutes. After the demonstration had subsided Mr. Lyons spoke advising his friends to vote No.

Tom Clark and other speakers followed and kept the crowd till after ten o'clock. The crowd was a large one and must have numbered over one thousand people counting voters and non-voters.

Burchard Hits Hard

Illicit Liquor Sellers Will Get the Limit.

An aged, partly blind and decrepit Chinaman, named Ah Heong was recently arrested for running a blind pig at Waiehu. He had a small stock of wet goods, a five gallon demijohn and twelve bottles of wine, and when arraigned before Judge Burchard he pleaded guilty. His excuse for violating the law was that being partly helpless he had no other means of support. It was his first offense, but the police suspected he was merely acting as a blind for a Chinese store keeper nearby.

In sentencing the prisoner, after the plebiscite had settled the public view on the liquor issues Wednesday last Judge Burchard expressed himself in the following terms:

This defendant had pleaded guilty to a charge made in this Court of having sold intoxicating liquors without a license—in common parlance, of having conducted a "blind pig."

The defendant is old and blind, and yet it appears from the evidence taken that he has been quite an extensive dealer in the forbidden merchandise. I believe from all the facts that he is trying to shield others more guilty than himself, yet he persists in denying that he is so doing. Ordinarily a man in his condition would appeal strongly to one's sympathies, yet it is shown by the evidence that he has been a persistent dealer; he has carefully prepared a plan and actively engaged in disregarding this wholesome law, and by reason thereof all those sentiments that are a shield to the helpless and unfortunate do not obtain.

I cannot find words too strong to condemn the crime charged against this man. In fact, the Legislature has provided strong penalties to be administered in such cases as the one before us; we have laws regulating the sale of intoxicating liquors which provide limitations as to days of sale, as to persons to whom liquors may be sold, as to the character of liquors to be sold, and many other wholesome provisions intended to guard the public against imposition and fraud.

To men engaged in similar business as that to which this defendant has pleaded guilty, they know no law of society or decency; for mere avarice and gain they will sell any compound however injurious to the physical, mental and moral nature of their victims; as they do not pay a license and are not subject to any limitations they become unjust competitors of those who obey the law in order to conduct their business; they become a menace to society at large by producing the worst form of debauchery, and thereby their injury is far greater to society than that of the criminal who, led by impulse and emotion, or the sudden rise of passion may commit an act violating the law. These pestilential spots breed crime, dethrone reason, blunt the intelligence, ruin homes, make widows and orphans, and brutalize their victims. I need not draw the picture of their villainous influence upon the public at large; they produce calamities that cannot be measured in words; they worse than destroy human existence itself. They must and shall be suppressed, and no officer or citizen who has either respect for his office or his duty as a member of society,

Water Meter Installed

Wailuku's Water System Could Not Stomach It.

Sunday last District Overseer Bal installed a big water meter alongside the road and a little below the reservoir, for the purpose of measuring the amount of water drawn daily from the Government reservoir.

The work was begun early Sunday morning and by three o'clock in the afternoon when the flood gate was opened the big meter was at work registering a flow of 18,000 gallons of water an hour. Monday morning following the people of Wailuku, not all, but here and there were complaining, the Maui News printing establishment among them that they could get no water.

Finding that the meter was retarding the flow of water more than was expected, District Overseer Bal had it disconnected, and now everything is running as smoothly as it was before the water meter idea was ever thought of.

Fatal Accident on a Portable Railroad Track.

Saturday forenoon of July 23rd, Sayahara, a Japanese of the age of 47 years, was working in the canefields of the Wailuku Sugar Co. at Waikapu. He was tending to some cars on a portable track loaded with seed cane and while riding in front of one car tending to the brakes his foot slipped so that he fell in front of the car which was moving on a bit of down grade. The car passed over his body, first the oil box then the axle of the car, struck him on the buttocks and back with such force as to cause internal injuries. He was picked up by his fellow laborers and taken to the Malulani hospital where he died after three o'clock in the afternoon.

Sheriff Saffery held a coroner's inquest, and the jury after listening to the evidence and examining into the case rendered a verdict that said Sayahara came to his death on the 23rd of July from injuries received through falling off a cane car due to carelessness and neglect on his part.

will fail to do his utmost to suppress this evil.

It would be a mere waste of words to lecture this defendant. I doubt if he even now appreciates anything that may be said to him, but there is a class of men who, like himself, are engaged in this illegitimate business, or contemplate so engaging, to whom I would give an admonition.

In dealing with this case, in one sense I am inflicting punishment upon the taxpayers of this County, but it would be useless to fine this defendant a monetary fine. We can vindicate the law by closing up this particular dead-fall for at least a time.

I shall sentence this defendant to a shorter term than I otherwise would, by reason of the fact that this is the first offense of this character which has presented itself to my consideration. The defendant is sentenced to imprisonment for five months according to law and is remanded to the Sheriff of this County for the execution of said judgment.

This will suppress the operations of his place of business for that length of time, and I take this opportunity of saying that if during my incumbency of this office, notwithstanding this warning, upon a conviction of a similar offense no leniency will be shown.

An Institution It is about time the people of this Island should do a little practical promotion work for the good of Maui. We have the climate and we have the soil, and our farmers, such as they are, do produce wonderful crops on their little farms. In the Kula district corn readily grows ears over a foot in length, and the corn stalks run from ten to fifteen feet high, and farm crops in like proportion as to growth and productivity are raised everywhere. When watermelons readily grow to sizes running over seventy pounds; when beans, onions, potatoes and other farm crops yield good returns; when our pineapple lands hold the reputation of producing the biggest crops of any on the Islands, it seems to us we have the very best possible resource any country can have, great or small, rich or poor, known or unknown to make it both populous and prosperous.

If a farming population is what is wanted let us go about it in a way which will induce that class of people to come and establish homes for themselves among us.

In the states there is a regular institution where any farmer, horticulturist or stock breeder can take the best of what he raises, at the right time of the year, and have it exhibited. The small prizes given at such fairs coupled with the reputation that goes with it are incentives for producers to do their best which go a long way towards making them contented and prosperous besides giving the communities they come from a reputation which they should have.

The institution we are thinking of is the County Fair, where once every year the farmer can show the best he can produce, from chickens to yearling steers, from berries to pineapples or from turnips to turkeys.

Several small industries are in danger of becoming lost arts, among them the manufacture of mats and hats. Formerly the Hawaiian women were skilled in the manufacture of mats from the tough fiber of lauhala leaves, now the lauhala mats are a rarity. The making of straw hats was a common enough industry at one time, but today it is a neglected art. Shall nothing be done to revive them? Are all these little things not worth the trouble of trying to have them kept up since we have gone so deeply into big things that the country can afford to let them die out? These small industries once helped to make Hawaiians lead contented lives in their humble country homes. In schools and at home let something be done to keep the art alive. An exhibit of its choicest specimens now and then will keep it alive.

There are those who think we have not the right kind of an atmosphere for an institution like the County Fair to thrive in, but we think otherwise. The hardest part will be to get it started and while it may never become a financial success, yet, if it but give our plain people an incentive to better their surroundings something shall have been gained which will mean more for the happiness of our ordinary people than the looks of a satisfactory financial balance sheet will.

Senator Coelho in a letter to the Evening Bulletin make the assertion that the Maui News is opposing his senatorial aspirations. The present editor of the Maui News is not worried with what will take place in the near future. At present the editorial worry is confined to that of getting readable copy with which to fill up the paper. In the hunt for interesting copy we came across the following:

"I am working with my republican friends to be nominated by our own convention. At the same time and even now, I will permit Home Rulers and Democrats to use my name on their ticket as a senatorial candidate, without waiting for the action of our Nominating Convention. * * * if not nominated by my party I will still be a candidate for the people and will run as an Independent Republican."

We have taken the liberty of publishing the foregoing extract from the privately circulated campaign handbill issued by Mr. Coelho, to help him along in his campaign. He may not have favored some of the voters with a copy, and we are doing our best to let our readers—such as are interested in such things—see what sort of a senatorial boom the senator is nursing.

Judge Daniel Webster Burchard of the Wailuku district court is laying down a new rule for inflicting punishment on illicit sellers of intoxicating liquors. It is said his predecessor usually lets off the first offender with a fine not exceeding $100.00, and that the judge did not strictly follow the policies of his predecessor.

In this particular case the offender was an old, partly blind and almost helpless Chinese, and instead of getting any work out of him the jailer will have to board and care for him at County expense. A man of over seventy-two years of age, the offender is unable to do any severe manual work.

If the harshness of the sentence inflicted will deter others from selling liquor illicitly then the action of the judge is all right and the policy a good one. There are those who say, however, in this case, that if a monetary fine had been imposed the party whom the old man shielded would have paid the fine, and the blow would have struck the real offender.

Another Blind Pig Keeper Arrested.

Sonada, a Japanese resident of Waikapu, is another man to tempt Providence and Judge Burchard's policy on blind pigs. Sonada managed to sell a bottle of wine, in the jubilation following the result of Tuesday's plebiscite, and fell into the hands of a prying police officer. He was allowed his liberty on a $300 bail, and has engaged W. F. Crockett Esq., the Attorney, to defend him at the trial today.

About three months back Sonada's wife was arrested for a similar offense, and got out of it by forfeiting $150 bail.

A Pretty Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Jennie Hansen and Victor C. Schoenberg, which took place Thursday evening, July 28th, was as pretty a wedding as one could wish for. The ceremony took place in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Wailuku, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion with flowers and greenery. The bride, the cynosure of all eyes, looked a bit pale and was prettily dressed in her wedding gown of white crepe de chine made in the latest mode with bridal veil becomingly arranged.

As the bridal party preceded by the two flower girls, Miss Ruth Whitehead and Miss Edith Wilbur, entered with the bride leaning on her father's arm and the two prettily gowned bridesmaid following, Miss Pierce played the wedding march from Wagner's Lohengrin.

The groom and his best man, W. L. Decoto, met the bridal party at the altar, where the impressive marriage service of the Episcopal Church which made the twain of one flesh, was performed by Rev. Cannon Ault.

After the ceremony the newly wedded pair left the church to the joyous strain of the wedding march from Mendelssohn, and went to the home of the bride's father on Wells' Street, where a wedding supper was served. Later they left for their future home in Lahaina, where Mr. Victor C. Schoenberg holds a responsible position, as assistant cashier of the Lahaina National Bank. They received many valuable presents of silverware and cut glass from their numerous friends. The church was filled to overflowing with friends and well wishers, among whom were Judge and Mrs. Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Penhallow, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Walsh, and a hundred others prominent in business and social circles.

Lahaina Lines.

There was a little shower on Tuesday afternoon.

Noa Kaaa and Mrs. J. Kini Kaaa residing in Olowalu, were married in Lahaina on July 21.

Miss Emily Sinclair, a sister of Mrs. R. B. Dodge of Wailuku, was the guest of Mrs. C. G. Burnham on July 15.

Charlie and Willie Kahuakini are with their Uncle Charles Kahuakini at Waima, Hawaii. Charlie will probably remain there permanently.

The Woman's Guild of Holy Immaculata's Church have elected officers as follows: President, Mrs. R. P. Hose; vice-president, Mrs. L. F. Folsom; secretary, Miss Adeline Hose; treasurer, Mrs. A. Kahuakini.

The special election on July 26 passed off very quietly. There was some delay in opening the polls, and the first ballot was cast nearly an hour after the appointed time. Soon after 5 p. m. the result was announced as follows: Yes, 31; No, 188; rejected, 1.

As Mrs. and Miss Burt are about to sail for the Mainland, Dr. Franklin Burt gave a farewell dinner in honor of the ladies at the Pioneer Hotel on July 14. Among the invited guests were, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. MacDonald, Miss Ida MacDonald, Mr. Roberts and Mr. Decoto. Dr. Burt was toast master. Miss Burt will enter Wellesley College in September.

Fatal Automobile Accident.

Tuesday evening a very sad accident happened at Makawela on the beach road which runs to Kahului, when Wong Lum was killed by falling from his son's automobile while getting out of the machine, and striking his head on a rock by the road side. His skull was fractured and he died a little while afterwards.

Mr. Wong Yong, the son of the decedent who was driving the car, and was the only person present when the fatal accident happened made the following sworn statement to the coroner's jury. "My father Wong Lum was on the automobile and we were on our way from Kahului. The wind blew my father's coat from the seat where he had laid it. I saw the coat on the ground and stopped the machine. My father jumped off when the machine came to a stand still, and he fell on the rocks mauka side of the road. When I picked him up he was unconscious but breathing very rapidly. I put him on the machine, took him home, and went for the doctor."

He died a little while after the accident. Sheriff Saffery empaneled a coroner's jury and their verdict after hearing the testimony and examining the body of Wong Lum aged 53 years, was that he came to his death from injuries received, to wit: A fracture of the skull from an accidental fall from an automobile.

Another Man With a Ready Knife.

The evening of July 23rd last, Kasaku Matsunaga, who is not a very good character, stabbed Y. Doi in three places at a Japanese show in Waikapu. Matsunaga, who is of the quarrelsome rowdy kind, criticised the show in very unfavorable terms so that Y. Doi called him down.

Matsunaga promptly struck Doi on the back of the head with a bottle. At the blow Doi turned around and Matsunaga, who had pulled out a big knife let drive and cut his victim a deep gash on the face and below the right ear. He landed two more vicious knife stabs, one in the shoulder and the other on the right breast of his victim before the bystanders could interfere. He was promptly seized and turned over to the police. Wednesday last Judge D. W. Burchard committed him for trial to the October term of the Circuit Court.

Chin Tai Cuts up Three of His Friends.

Thursday morning last word was sent in to the police authorities that in a fight at Camp One, Punene, Chin Tai had badly slashed three of his countrymen with a big knife. Chin Tai was placed under arrest, brought over and locked up in the County Jail. He was battered some and had been felled by a stroke over his head, with a bit of furniture—probably what was used for a "Kitty"—from which the police believes the fight originated over a gambling dispute, although the prisoner and victims keep very close mouthed when asked as to the origin of the trouble.

Of the three victims one was badly cut up around the head, the scalp being laid open. Another received a deep cut in the palm of his right hand so that two of the fingers are almost as good as severed. It appears from the accounts of the victims that Chin Tai got mad over something, which the victims will not divulge, and proceeded to do up some one. His friends tried to stop him and he slashed them with the knife, with the result above noted.

Another Automobile Accident.

Monday July 25th, while an automobile from Sakamoto's garage with a Japanese woman passenger in it was going down the Market Street hill at Mill Street junction, the woman for some reason wanted to get out of the car. Instead of asking the chauffeur to stop the machine she got up and jumped off the speeding machine. She was thrown to the ground violently and slid about thirty feet before stopping being very badly bruised about the face and part of her body, but luckily no bones were broken.

Maui Sports' Enjoyed Banquet.

At the Maui Hotel Friday evening of last week about forty guests sat down to a fine banquet to dispose of the menu and listen to witty speeches and predictions about the future prospects of the Maui Racing Association.

The Fourth of July meet at Spreckels' Park, Kahului, this year was pronounced the most successful one ever had since racing was taken up on Maui.

Mr. W. F. Crockett's speech was voted the best of any made at the banquet, but the remarks of toastmaster D. H. Davis were second to none in keeping the spirits flowing in a merry mood all the while the banquet lasted.

It was said by keeping the sports clean and clear of all suspicion the racing events at Spreckels' Park has attracted visitors from all over the Islands, who come to look at the sports of kings for the sake of the sport itself.

Improvements were suggested to be taken up by the Association later which will make Spreckels Park the finest racing track on the Islands.

THE CAR OF THE AGE

Mitchell Automobiles Have Stood at the Front Season after Season

Not a year has passed that the MITCHELL has not demonstrated its extreme reliability

IT WAS NOISY IN THE PAST: "YES."

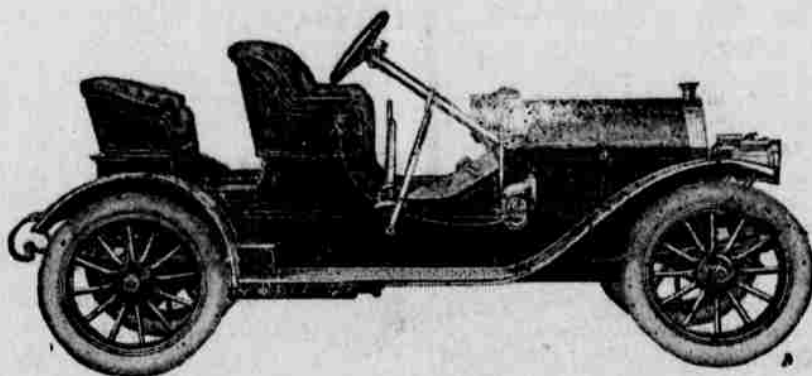

This noise displeased certain fastidious people, but what did that amount to? Was there not a feeling of confidence engendered by hearing the operation or listening to the purring of the engine?

It was said the "MITCHELL" is a good car, but noisy. We assert the "MITCHELL" is more than a good car. It is the last word in automobile construction for 1910.

We claim boldly, but confidently, that there is not a car on the market today which equals it at or near the price.
