OPIMUM.

The views of this paper on the Opium question are well known to those who have been its regular readers for the past twelve months.

We see no reason for modifying the opinions frequently advanced in our editorial columns, prior to the passage of the Act legalizing the sale of opium in this Kingdom. We are quite aware that plausible arguments may be, and have been, adduced on the other side; but their weight is much lighter than the arguments and facts in opposition. We hold that opium is an evil, an unmixed evil, without one redeeming feature.

And if so, intelligent and just legislation can no more tolerate it than it can tolerate murder. The argument, that because it cannot be cured it should be regulated by law, might be applied to the crime of murder with as much reason and force. But who says that because murder cannot be entirely prevented, it should therefore be made legal within certain prescribed limits? Respecting the question of revenue, we cannot admit that a government is justified in resorting to illegitimate means for the purpose of procuring money, however much the cash may be needed.

Then that pet argument of opium advocates, that licensing the drug puts an end to smuggling, is so fallacious that one wonders they do not drop it. It is only the other week that a big seizure of opium was made here in Honolulu, while being smuggled; and yet its sale is licensed. The higher the cost of the license, the higher the selling price of the article licensed; and the higher the selling price of the article licensed, the greater the temptation to smuggle. The man who imports legally and sells under a costly license, can always be undersold by the man who imports clandestinely and sells without a license.

Our "open column," in which the people are at liberty to express their views of public questions, whether in accord with editorial views or otherwise, is, and always has been, appreciated by most of those who have views they wish to express. The BULLETIN is apparently the favorite for the purpose named, for it is used more than any other paper as a medium of ventilation by the public. All fair-minded people approve of giving an equal chance to both sides. Some people who do not take so broad a view pronounce a partial approval of the "open column." When they have something which they wish to see in print they are liable to be profuse in their commendation of a paper which is ready to admit their production. That is the paper to be supported! No one-sided sheet for them! And they hint a desire to double their subscription then and there. When something is admitted on the other side, or which is not in accord with their ideas, they suddenly change their opinions. The editor ought not to allow such stuff in his columns—it is a mistake! That paper should not be patronized! They feel it a sacred duty which they owe themselves and their country, to withdraw their subscription and read the paper on the cheap at Nolte's or some other public place! Some of these lopsided, one-eyed individuals live in the city of Honolulu.

Editor BULLETIN:—It is to be regretted your evening issue of this date should be allowed to contain an anonymous article signed "Curiosity" who is a falsifier.

The moral leper is doubtless a disappointed man and a sore head.

It is possible some of your readers may be deceived and cannot divine the scoundrel's object in attempting to put the Ministers in a false position as well as the Board of Health.

I put his brand upon him. Now let him come out with his name if he dare, when I will give him his quietus.

The Reform Ministry have the esteem and confidence of the community at large, except a few disappointed men, sore heads as well as men that should be the companions of Webb on the reef.

After this explanation I trust the only anonymous name you will allow him is that of "Libeler," a companion of the Honolulu San Francisco correspondent. In proof be sure much other I would inform you I have this day witnessed a kanaka weep, one who was lately in the employ of Mr. W. H. Rice, of Kauai. He said to me a leper. He had been examined by the Board of Health doctor and was on his way to the vessel to see him off for Molokai. I fear stolen tax money is being used for the purpose of disturbing the country and creating a false alarm.

JOHN THOMAS WATERHOUSE.
Honolulu, Oct. 24th.

THE OPIUM BRIBERY SCANDAL.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—I think the country will be surprised and shocked at the tone of the Government organ yesterday in reference to the opium bribery scandal. It is evident the Government has taken no steps to enforce a settlement of this scandalous affair, and judging from the tone of the "Gazette," it has no intention of doing so. Speaking of the unsettled state of this scandal the "Gazette" says:

"As it was taken up first by the public as a concern of national reputation, and not at all in the interests of a syndicate of bribees who deserved to lose their money, it is to be presumed that the public will persist in demanding its settlement for the sake of the country's good name. His Majesty promised to submit the matter to the investigation of the new Cabinet, but whether the Ministry are possessed of legal means for compelling such submission is another question. At all events, the country is entitled to a ventilation of the question at the approaching session of the Legislature."

This is a very different note from what was sounded in the "Gazette" "before the war," and what was said at and resolved by the great public meeting of June 30th, on the shoulders of which Ministers went into office. There was no suggestion that the Chinese bribe-givers "deserved to lose their money," and it never occurred to any one that national honor would be satisfied with "a ventilation of the question at the approaching session of the Legislature." If any one had suggested such a thing the meeting would have treated him much worse than it treated the Hon. Paul Isenberg for his sensible and moderate remarks. But that is what Ministers now suggest, through their official mouthpiece, the "Gazette," as a final settlement of the matter—a dressing of the bribery boil by Ministerial Surgeons Green, Brown, Thurston and Ashford.

The public will agree with the "Gazette" that "at all events, the country is entitled to a ventilation of the question at the approaching session of the Legislature;" but the Legislature should not ventilate the bribery transaction so much as the failure of Ministers to settle it according to their pledge and demand of the public meeting which made them what they are. It is no excuse to say, as the "Gazette" does: "His Majesty promised to submit the matter to the investigation of the new Cabinet, but whether the Ministry are possessed of legal means for compelling such submission is another question." This is a miserable subterfuge, and an unmanly attempt to shirk responsibility by insinuating that the King has broken faith with Ministers and gone back upon his written pledge. If the King has done that, Ministers owe it to themselves and the public who put them in office to compel an immediate settlement of this matter, to resign and make a full statement of the facts for popular action. But Ministers do not resign. They have been as close as an oyster on the subject. Akl, the bribe-giver, is dead and gone, no restitution has been made, and "at all events the public are entitled to a ventilation of the question at the approaching session of the Legislature."

But the position is this: On June 30th, the people in mass meeting assembled, led and guided by the gentlemen who are now Ministers of the Crown, made this "request" among others, which a deputation from it presented later in the day as a "demand" upon the King:

"Third. In order so far as possible to remove the stain now resting on the throne, we request of the King that he shall cause to be made immediate restitution of the sum, to wit, Seventy-one thousand dollars ($71,000) recently obtained by him in violation of law and of his oath of office, under promise that the persons from whom the same was obtained should receive the license to sell opium, as provided by statute of the year 1886."

And the King made the following reply in writing:

"To the third proposition, We reply that We do not admit the truth of the matters stated therein, but will submit the whole subject to Our new Cabinet, and will gladly act according to their advice, and will cause restitution to be made by the parties found responsible."

The case therefore is as plain as daylight. Ministers took office to give effect to the demands of the popular meeting or resign if they could not carry out that policy, and let the King take the consequences; and the King on his part, made a specific pledge to submit the matter to his new Cabinet and abide by their decision. That is an obligation upon him which he cannot set aside except by the flagrant connivance of his Cabinet. Just what has happened it is impossible to say, but the "Gazette" insinuates that the King has broken faith. There is no proof of this, no reason to suppose it true, and it is an impertinence to say that the failure of Ministers to perform a specific duty is owing to want of "legal means" on their part to compel the King to perform what he pledged himself to the people, under his own hand, to do. Ministers, not the King, should be "ventilated" in the coming session of the Legislature.

WHAT LOCOMOTIVE WHISTLES MEAN.

One long blast of the whistle is a signal for approaching stations, railroad crossings and junctions. One short blast of the whistle is a signal to apply the brakes—stop. Two long blasts of the whistle are a signal to throw off the brakes. Two short blasts of the whistle are an answer to the conductor's signal to stop at the next station. Three long blasts of the whistle are a signal that the train has past. Three short blasts of the whistle when the train is standing are a signal that the train will back. Three short blasts of the whistle when the train is running are a signal to be given by passenger trains, when displaying signals for a following train, to call the attention of trains they meet or pass to the signals. Four long blasts of the whistle are a signal to call in the flagman. Four short blasts of the whistle are the engine-man's call for signals from switchmen, watchmen, and trainmen. Two long followed by two short, blasts of the whistle are a signal for approaching road-crossings at grade. Five short blasts of the whistle are a signal to the flagman to go back and protect the rear of the train. A succession of short blasts of the whistle is an alarm for persons or cattle on the track, and calls the attention of trainmen to danger ahead. [Racine, Wis., Journal.]

It is probable that two torpedo cruisers of the Mohawk type, will be added to the war vessels on the Australian station.

The Times advocates an Imperial colonial subsidy of £60,000, for the purpose of establishing a monthly steam service between China and the Australian colonies via Vancouver.

TO NIGHT'S LECTURE.

A lecture on the Drama, written by Mr. Walter M. Leman, will be read by Mr. S. B. Dole in the Y.
M. C. A. Hall this evening. Mr.
Dole does the reading for Mr.
Leman because of the latter's blindness. It is Mr. Leman's brains with the eyes and voice of Mr. Dole.
The lecture will begin at 7:45 o'clock. The price of admission is 50 cents. It is confidently predicted that the lecture and its rendering will be an intellectual treat.

A FAREWELL PARTY.

The Hawaiian Social Club gave a farewell reception, dance and surprise party combined, to Henry Grube Marchant, the other evening, at their hall, King street. When the guest arrived at the hall he was met by the members of the club, and covered with leis. An enlarged photograph of Henry was hung up in the room, which was artistically arranged with evergreens and Japanese lanterns. Music, dancing and refreshments were the order of the evening. A glorious time was had until 12 o'clock when the party broke up.

THE BATTALION.

The Honolulu Rifles, companies A, B, C and D, in good force, assembled at Palace Square, last evening, and held a successful battalion drill.
Notwithstanding the number of recruits that have joined the Rifles lately, the marching and maneuvering of the several companies were creditably performed.

Lieutenant-Colonel V. V. Ashford has signified his intention of rewarding every man of the battalion with a silver trophy, who makes a good showing on the day of the battalion exhibition drill, Nov. 16th, at Makiki.

RECEPTION TO DR. BECKWITH.

The reception tendered the Rev.
E. G. Beckwith, D. D., and family, at the Fort Street Church, last evening, must have been gratifying to those concerned. Dr. Beckwith is the new pastor of the united congregations of the Fort Street and Bethel church organizations, and has come to labor in the interests of the united bodies. Last night's gathering was for the purpose of welcoming the pastor and his family, and the welcome was cordial and enthusiastic.
The parlors of the church were prettily decorated for the occasion, and the company assembled left no foot of sitting or standing room vacant. This reception presented a bright and promising beginning of what is hoped and believed will prove a successful era of Christian work.

SUPREME COURT IN EQUITY.

IN CHAMBERS.

Kelena (w.) vs. Reciprocity Sugar Co. et al. Bill to restrain defendant from holding sale of 100 acres land under a mortgage, to annul said mortgage, &c.
HONOLULU, Oct. 6, 1887.

BEFORE JUDGE, C. J.

Present Mr. Thompson for plaintiff; no appearance of or for defendant.

Mr. Thompson moves the Court for leave to file an amended complaint; files a copy of a notice of this hearing upon which is the statement that the original of it was served upon Mr. W. R. Castle, attorney for the Sugar Co. on Sept.
4th, 1887, at 2 P. M.

Mr. Castle not appearing, the Court ordered that the amended bill is allowed to be filed, and that the process therein prayed for be issued returnable Oct. 24th next, at 10
A. M.

MONDAY, Oct. 24th.

BEFORE JUDGE, C. J.

Return Day in re Amended bill of complaint.

Present Mr. Thompson for plaintiff, J. A. Magoon for plaintiff; also with permission of the Court, no appearance of or for defendant.

Answer of P. K. Kaumakao was filed on 15th inst. Answer of Kuikahi (w.) and G. P. Walehua (k.) was filed on 22nd inst.

Mr. Thompson objects to having Mr. Magoon associated with himself. The Court proceeds and files a letter addressed to the Chief Justice, requesting on the part of the plaintiff that Mr. Magoon so appear.

Mr. Thompson calls as a witness Kelena (w.), during whose examination he files a copy of Royal Patent No. 1,106 made, Exhibit "A." Exhibits for inspection only a deed Mahiole and Kelena to George Har-bottle recorded in Liber 10, pages 9 and 10; files a copy of mortgage from Walehua and Kuikahi and P.
K. Kaumakao, to Reciprocity Sugar Co. made Exhibit "B," states his willingness to produce additional evidence, but it being declined rests his case.

The Court states that on presentation by plaintiff of a decree in accordance with prayer in complaint, it will be signed.

Decree is presented and signed forthwith ordering that complainant's amended bill is taken as confessed against defendant, Reciprocity Sugar Co., to the end that such decree may be made against it as the Court shall think equitable and just.

HEROIC.

Though Captain Kaluhikai, master of the schooner Ke Au Hou, belonging to the Pacific Navigation Co., performed a heroic deed, last Saturday night, he did not tell of it until yesterday afternoon, when it leaked out in a casual way. The schooner was in the channel, on her way from Hawaii to this port. It was about 9 o'clock P. M., when one of the crew, Geo. Kapu, formerly a Kaimiloa boy, fell overboard. The Captain, who is an expert swimmer, divested himself of his clothes, and was over in an instant after the boy.
The lad was caught and held up.
The schooner lost the exact position of the persons in the water, but after tackling about for three hours and a half, got a little to the leeward of the Captain and boy, and heard their calls. When taken aboard they were pretty nearly exhausted, as might be supposed. A gentleman who admires such noble deeds, is exerting himself to have Captain Kaluhikai presented with a medal.

DEATH OF CHAS. W. CLARK.

Charles Warren Clark died at his residence, Liliha street, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, of heart de-sense. C. W. Clark was born in Portland, Maine, August 28, 1828.
He came to these Islands in the year 1850, on a whaler. For about 12 years he worked at the carpenter trade, afterwards entering the employ of Messrs. Castle & Cooke, where he remained for nearly 12 years. Later he entered into the draying business on his own account, and latterly into the employ of Messrs. Hustace & Robertson, carrying on the same business. The deceased was very well known here and respected. He leaves a widow, a grown daughter, and a son to mourn for him. The funeral will take place from his late residence, at 3:30 o'clock, Sunday afternoon.
The remains will be interred in Kawaiaha cemetery.

HOUSEKEEPING.

[COMMUNICATED.]

We often hear the remark that housekeeping in this country is very expensive, and seems to be more noticeable to new comers; although all agree that in providing the necessary articles for every day wants, we do not practise that frugality which thrifty householders in some other countries do. Or in other words, our means do not go so far in thus providing. It is true we do not manufacture anything for family requirements, and have to pay for any margin of profit in that line as well as the cost of transportation. Still the difference ought not to be very great. Statements have been made by reliable parties who say from experience that they could live as well as if not better than in California (say San Francisco) at 10 per cent less than in Honolulu.

One of the complaints, and one we have heard for years back, but at the present time seems to be more general, is the price of beef.
Some twenty years or so ago beef was both good and cheap; at the present time it is neither. Some ten years ago cattle for working purposes were in great demand and prices advanced from say $15 up to $40 or more per head.
That demand at the present time does not exist, and the same may now be purchased at from $20 to $25 per head. Still the beef remains the same, 12 1/2 to 15c. per pound, and that means beef and bone, and often bone and beef, and the quality so much inferior that many are using the imported article from the States and Australia. If the representations made to us are correct the treatment the animals receive after leaving the ranch until slaughtered, is anything but humane, and not calculated to improve the character of the meat.

As we have said, the beef complaint has become general and should have some consideration from parties who are interested.
There is no good reason why we should be compelled to resort to importing beef, while the country is overstocked with cattle.

HOW PILLS ARE MADE.

The Custom of taking medicine in the form of pills dates far back in history. The object is to enable us to swallow easily in a condensed form disagreeable and nauseous, but very useful, drugs. To what vast dimensions pill-taking has grown may be imagined when we say that in England alone about 2,000,000, 000 (two thousand million) pills are consumed every year. In early days pills were made slowly by hand, as the demand was comparatively small. To-day they are produced with infinitely greater rapidity by machines especially contrived for the purpose, and with greater accuracy, too, in the proportions of the various ingredients employed.

No form of medication can be better than a pill, provided only it is intelligently prepared. But right here occurs the difficulty. Easy as it may seem to make a pill, or a million of them, there are really very few pills that can be honestly commended for popular use. Most of them either undershoot or overshoot the mark. As every body takes pills of some kind, it may be well to mention that a good, safe and reliable pill should be. Now, when one feels dull and sleepy, and has more or less pain in the head, sides, and back, he may be sure his bowels are constipated, and his liver sluggish. To remedy this unhappy state of things there is nothing like a good cathartic pill. It will act like a charm by stimulating the liver into doing its duty, and ridding the digestive organs of the accumulated poisonous matter.

But the good pill does not gripe and pain us, neither does it make us sick and miserable for a few hours or a whole day. It acts on the entire glandular system at the same time, else the after-effects of the pill will be worse than the disease itself. The gripping caused by most pills is the result of irritating drugs which they contain. Such pills are harmful, and should never be used. They sometimes even produce hemorrhoids. Without having any particular desire to praise one pill above another, we may, nevertheless, name Mother Seigel's Pills, manufactured by the well-known house of A. J. White, Limited, 35, Farringdon Road, London, and now sold by all chemists and medicine vendors, as the only one we know of that actually possesses every desirable quality. They remove the pressure upon the brain, correct the liver, and cause the bowels to act with ease and regularity. They never gripe or produce the slightest sickness of the stomach, or any other unpleasant feeling or symptom. Neither do they induce further constipation, as nearly all other pills do. As a further and crowning merit, Mother Seigel's Pills are covered with a tasteless and harmless coating, which causes them to resemble pearls, thus rendering them as pleasant to the palate as they are effective in curing disease. If you have a severe cold and are threatened with a fever, with pains in the head, back, and limbs, one or two doses will break up the cold and prevent the fever. A coated tongue, with a brackish taste in the mouth is caused by foul matter in the stomach. A dose of Seigel's Pills will effect a speedy cure. Often-times partially decayed food in the stomach and bowels produces sickness, nausea, &c. Cleanse the bowels with a dose of these pills, and good health will follow.

Unlike many kinds of pills, they do not make you feel worse before you are better. They are, without doubt, the best family physic ever discovered. They remove all obstructions to the natural functions in either sex without any unpleasant effects.

A CHAPLAIN AFLOAT!

BEING THE ACCOUNT OF THE CRUISE OF H. B. M.'S SHIP OF WAR THE "BLUNDERBUSS" FROM PANAMA, U. S. OF C. TO HONOLULU, H. I.

Extracted from the Records of the Archæological Club.

[BY FRICIVAL LESLIE.]

After taking of a very palatable and substantial lunch the party started for an afternoon tour of sight seeing. The day being hot, and the streets considerably dusty, they sauntered along leisurely, taking advantage of every cool and shady spot that presented itself. During the walk the streets afforded innumerable objects of interest, the observation of which very materially assisted in passing the time away. The thoroughfares were crowded, and besides a number of very handsome and well appointed equipages, they were continually in danger of being run down by large droves of donkeys, whose huge covered loads of fire wood so filled the streets, that the drivers' continual shouts of "cuidado!" alone saved the pedestrians from coming in collision with them.

After walking for some time they finally stood in front of the Public Museum, a building of some considerable architectural pretensions, and most admirably adapted to its purpose. On entering the building the first room that attracted the eyes' attention was that which is known as "Rulers Room." Here are collections of old paintings the size of life, representing the Forty-five Viceroy who ruled Peru in the name of the Spanish King, from Pizarro to the time of the country's independence. The Viceroy is dressed in the various old Spanish costumes, that mark the rise, progress and change of the fashions. First the plain, sombre habiliments of black with lofty well starched ruffles. Then the change goes to the rich and gaudy embroidery, and continue until it develops into the complete armor of steel and gold. Then changing gradually again, we find the tide of extravagant embroidery ebbing until it consists only of light bordering around the extreme edges of the vestment. This room was so remarkably interesting that the party lingered there for some time commenting upon the history of the men as told by their faces. Here the stern, warlike crafty and cruel countenance of Pizarro stood boldly out in contrast with that of the weak, effeminate and lustful face as represented in the picture next him. Here is the gay, thoughtless, courtier, of the Rochester stamp of Statesman. The Chaplain here referred to Lord Rochester, the merry tool and amusement shaper of the English Charles II. who wore his peacock gaw with an easy grace and abandon. A little farther down the row was a face whose countenance was so murderous and so utterly devoid of humanity, that a thrill of horror involuntarily ran through the blood. At last they stood before one, whose lofty expression and grace of features stamped him as he really was a Prince of the blood. The face was purely Byronic in its delicate beauty; the pure, clear intellectual forehead, and the deep blue eyes bespoke him as one fit to rule men.

A touching little romance that led to his coming to the then new world, was told the party by the Courier that had them in charge. This Viceroy was the second son of the then reigning sovereign, and having wooed and won the hand of the beautiful daughter of an Andalusian Prince, was married with a pomp and show enough to insure a dozen happinesses. But on the morning after the marriage he awoke from a sweet slumber, where in imagination had drawn the softest pictures of bliss, to find the bride of a day, lying besides him, a marbled corpse, the work of a jealous, unsuccessful rival for the lady's hand. The grief of the Prince was so deep rooted that a melancholy took possession of him, and in order to rid him of this, the King sent him to Peru as Viceroy, thinking that time would assist him to bury his grief amid the imperial Andes. In a few years he died, however, a prey to his sorrow. His marriage song was his requiem. Leaving the room with hearts filled with pity for the unfortunate gentlemen, they were conducted into another room, whose touching and melancholy sights soon banished the thoughts of the lover's woe. Under large glass cases, they saw placed in either sitting or crouching postures, mummies, in the same state of preservation as when taken from the ancient sepulchres. Their legs were crossed and bent, the arms were crossed with the elbows resting upon the knees, while the chin was supported upon the hands. The mummies are those of the once magnificent race of men, who under the Incas so long ruled Peru. When the Chaplain beheld them grinning with their fleshless mouths and staring at him with their empty eye sockets he could not help but think, what a farcical mockery of life was here.

Perchance your known and stiffened form, was once a queen of beauty and grace, whose single look or smile could change the destinies of a people, or for the possession of whose fair white hand rival Princes fought—now a thing of nausea and disgust. May be this one, was a merry Andrew, "whose merry gibe" would set the table a-foam—your figure—for all one knows, in the days that unrecorded lay in the Caverns of the Past, may have been a Solon, whose wisdom won him the sobriquet of a "High Priest at the Altar of Nature," one could shut one eyes and picture him in those days, stern austere, and learned handling gods attribute Justice, with a fair and unflinching grasp.

How swiftly the records of life sped by, and who, standing as they stood in this gilded chamber of the Dead, could lay a hand on one of shriveled up forms and say, "Alas! poor Yorrick! I knew him once Horatio." None—the Dead—and down in the Valley of Past, will they lie unknown, until the blast of that trumpet gathers mankind to Jehosaphat, where the unknown shall be known, and all things that were dark, be made clear as the noonday sun.

Leaving the Museum, they retired to a cafe, and there enjoying the invigorating delights of a cool mixture, they relapsed into a momentary silence, to be broken by the Midshipman—who laying aside what he had been reading, burst into a fit of boisterous laughter—on being pressed for an explanation of his merriment he read a passage from an article commenting upon the arrival of the Blunderbuss "and more especially upon the Reverend Straight Choker." The article ended, "Judging from the unlimited scope of the Reverend Gentleman's Mission, he might be termed a new edition of the Wandering Jew, revised, corrected and issued after the most approved style—Gilt edged and fully colored."

DAILY BULLETIN SUMMARY

A REMARKABLE CASE.

Under the above heading the Doncaster Reporter of July 6th, 1887, publishes the following in its editorial columns—

Our readers may recall the circumstance of a young clerk, named Arthur Richold, falling insensible on the Westley Lane in this town some time ago, and being picked up, as he continued perfectly helpless, and taken in a cab by two gentlemen to the office of F. W. Fisher, Esq; the solicitor who employed him. On restoring him to consciousness it was ascertained that he was afflicted with what seemed to be an incurable disease. When he was able to speak he said he had been to his dinner and was on his way back to his work, when suddenly his head was in a whirl and he fell in the street like a man who is knocked down. On coming to his senses in the solicitor's office he thought what this might mean, and feared he was going to have a fit of illness, which we all know is a very dreadful thing for a poor man with a family to care for.

With this in his mind he at once sought the best medical advice, telling the doctors how he had been attacked. They questioned him, and found that his present malady was exhaustion of the nervous system resulting from general debility, indigestion, and dyspepsia of a chronic nature. This in turn had been caused by confinement to his desk and grief at the loss of dear friends by death. The coming on of this strange disease, as described by Mr. Richold, must be of interest both to sick and well. He had noticed for several years previously, in fact, that his eyes and face began to have a yellow look; there was a sticky and unpleasant slime on the gums and teeth in the morning; the tongue coated; and the bowels so bound and costive that it induced that most painful and troublesome ailment—the piles. He says there was some pain in the sides and back and a sense of fulness on the right side, as though the liver were enlarging, which proved to be the terrible fact. The secretions from the kidneys would be scanty and high-colored, with a kind of gritty or sandy deposit after standing.

These things had troubled Mr. Richold a long time, and after his fall in the street he clearly perceived that the fit of giddiness was nothing more than a sign of the steadily and deadly advance of the complaint, which began in indigestion and dyspepsia. His story of how he went from one physician to another in search of a cure that his wife and little ones might not come to want is very pathetic and touching. Finally he became too ill to keep his situation and had to give it up. This was a sad calamity. He was appalled to think how he should be able to live. But God raised up friends who helped to keep the wolf from the door. He then went to the seaside at Walton-on-the-Naze, but neither the change, nor the physicians who treated him there, did any good. All being without avail he visited London, with a sort of vague hope that some advantage might happen to him in the metropolis. This was in October, 1885.

How wonderful, indeed, are the ways of Providence, which dashes down our highest hopes and then helps us when we least expect it. While in London he stated his condition to a friend, who strongly advised him to try a medicine which he called Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, saying it was genuine and honest, and often cured when everything else had failed. He bought a bottle of a chemist in Piccadilly, and began using it according to the directions. He did this without faith or hope, and the public may therefore judge of his surprise and pleasure when after taking a few doses he felt great relief. He could eat better; his food distressed him less; the symptoms we have named abated; the dark spots which had floated before his eyes like smuts of soot, gradually disappeared, and his strength increased. Before this time his knees would knock together whenever he tried to walk. So encouraged was he now that he kept on using Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup until it ended in completely curing him.

In speaking of his wonderful recovery Mr. Richold says it made him think of poor Robinson Crusoe, and his deliverance from captivity on his island in the sea; and added, "But for Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup the grass would now be growing over my grave."

Our readers can rest assured of the strict truth of all the statements in this most remarkable case, as Mr. Richold (now residing at Swiss Cottage, Walton-on-the-Naze) belongs to one of the oldest and most respected families in the beautiful village of Long Melford, Suffolk, and his personal character is attested by so high an authority as the Rev. C. J. Martyn, rector of that parish, besides other excellent names. We have deemed the case of such importance to the public as to justify us in giving this short account of it in our columns.

A PAUPER'S DYING REQUEST.

An amusing and yet pathetic incident in what the poet Gray called "the short and simple annals of the poor," is told by Mr. John J. R. Micklejohn, one of the Inspectors of the Poor, at Sherwick, Shetland Islands. He says that some time ago an old woman, named Barbara Smith, came under the notice of the Board. She was extremely ill, and it did not look likely that she would long need care of any kind. She did not reside on the main land, but on a small island a few miles distant, and there being no parochial institutions in that place, Barbara necessarily occupied the position of a pauper living out. The trouble from which she suffered dated back many years. In better and more prosperous days she had in some way laid the foundation for Chronic Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and out of this had sprung other complaints as age and bodily infirmities crept space upon her.

Barbara was not ignorant, albeit she had fallen into poverty. In earlier life she somehow obtained the advantage of a fair education, and this, added to native shrewdness, enabled her to use good judgment in respect to her own situation and state of health. Although she had long suffered from asthma and a bronchial affection, Barbara was wise enough to see that these ailments arose from the disordered stomach and digestion, and that if the main trouble could be cured the others would soon leave her. It is probable that her disease began as others do, with the usual symptoms: headaches, bad breath, the rising of sour fluids in the throat, oppression and faintness at the pit of the stomach, loss of sleep, coated tongue, dull eyes, bad taste in the mouth, &c., and finally became chronic and hopeless through her not being able to find any remedy. The Inspector states that she had been under medical treatment for years, but to no effect. In this strait she one day made the following touching appeal to the Inspector: "I have been swallowing medicines for months. They do me no good. I am going on from worse to worse. I can endure it no longer. I feel that in a week or two I shall be dead. There is one last request I would make of you: give me a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup; it is my only hope. If it proves a failure and does me no good I will die in peace, and make no more expense to the parish."

It seems she had got hold of one of Mother Seigel's Almanacks and read of the great cures wrought by the Syrup in cases like hers.

The Board pitied the poor lone woman and granted her petition, believing, however, the syrup would prove as useless as the other medicines she had already taken. What was their astonishment to find, in the course of a few days, that she had not only been able to get out of bed, but to move about outside the house, and had taken journeys to a considerable distance, and was actually enjoying better health than since she was first taken ill. The asthma and bronchitis, which were no more than symptoms of her true disease (indigestion and dyspepsia), rapidly abated, and it now seems that Barbara will soon be as hale and hearty as the Inspector himself, and be one of the hosts of living witnesses to the power of Mother Seigel's Syrup to save the thousands who were just ready to perish.

Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup is for sale by all chemists and medicine vendors, and by the proprietors, A. J. White, Limited, 35 Farringdon Road, London, E. C.
