the first time I had seen her. She was a tall, slender woman with dark hair pulled back from her face. She was wearing a simple, light-colored dress and had a gentle smile on her face. I introduced myself and asked if she was the new teacher at the school. She nodded and said yes. I asked if she would like to have a cup of coffee with me. She agreed and we sat down at a table in the hallway. We talked about the school and the students. She seemed very interested in the students and their progress. I asked if she had any questions or concerns. She said no, but she did say that she was looking forward to getting to know the students better. I told her that I was happy to help in any way I could. She thanked me and we continued our conversation. It was a pleasant meeting and I enjoyed getting to know her.
