Kuropatkin In Danger Of Destruction

(Associated Press Cable to The Star).

ST. PETERSBURG, March 7.—The position of the Russian army is growing desperate. It is rumored that Kuropatkin has given the order to retreat but it is believed this order is impossible to execute. The siege guns are causing great damage. If the Japanese crush the forces of General Kaulbars today Kuropatkin's army will be almost surrounded.

Chemists Find It This Morning Contents Of Stomach Finally Yields Results

SHERIFF HENRY SAYS THAT FOR THE FIRST TIME THIS MORNING THE CHEMISTS GOT RESPONSES TO THEIR TESTS WHICH PROVE THE PRESENCE OF STRYCHNINE IN THE STOMACH—THE POISON FOUND IN THE BICARBONATE OF SODA.

High Sheriff Henry this morning stated that the chemists had found evidences of strychnine in the stomach of the late Mrs. Stanford. According to the sheriff the evidences were found in the final tests made this morning by Chemists Duncan and Shorey. The tests developed the "color" which as the experts will testify are decisive proof that strychnine was present. No actual strychnine was developed in the organs of the body or their contents. Whatever was taken into the system was absorbed, as it would be very quickly in view of the fact that the stomach was empty of food, as testified at the autopsy.

The chemists have also found strychnine in the bicarbonate of soda from which Mrs. Stanford took a dose on the last night of her life. Henry stated that the discovery of the poison in the bottle had been definite. When asked how much, he stated that he was not able to say. It is believed, however, that the statement in yesterday's Star that there were 662 grains, is correct. The full statement of the two chemists will probably be given out this afternoon at the inquest.

It is some times possible to find the evidences of strychnine in such quantity as will admit of its being weighed. Had the strychnine been found in this quantity it is likely that the analyses would not have been as difficult as in the present case. On the other hand there are undoubtedly other processes in the chemical analyses which enable the chemists to determine the presence of strychnine even if the stuff or its component parts exists in minute quantity. It is not improbable that the chemists have had difficulty in securing the final proof of the presence of strychnine but from the line of policy pursued by Deputy Sheriff Rawlins yesterday in his examinations of witnesses at the coroner's inquest, it seems more than probable that the police have arrived at the conclusion that Mrs. Stanford died of poisoning and they are prepared this afternoon to strengthen the testimony of the physicians by the additional testimony of the chemists.

Strychnine was found, undoubtedly in the bicarbonate of soda. The cablegram which the High Sheriff is said to have sent to San Francisco Thursday indicated such to be the case. In this cablegram it was stated that the bottle marked bicarbonate of soda had contained 43 drachms in which were 662 grains of strychnine. Dr. J. D. Yost who is in charge of the United States Military hospital, attended the inquest yesterday. He has figured out that if the strychnine in the bottle had been evenly distributed this 662 grains would have made the teaspoonful contain $7\frac{1}{2}$ grains of strychnine a quantity sufficient to have killed a score of people.

While the testimony did not develop the fact clearly still Miss Berner is able to give testimony which may connect the bicarbonate of soda bottle with the first poisoning of Mrs. Stanford in San Francisco on January 14. Miss Berner testified yesterday that up to January 23 the bottle of bicarbonate of soda was kept in a small medicine cupboard attached to the wall in an alcove in the San Francisco house. The bottle was kept there up to January 23 when it was taken to San Jose. While Miss Berner did not so state, nevertheless it was a fact that the bottle was in that alcove on the night of the first poisoning. The two bottles of Poland water in one of which was the strychnine and from which Mrs. Stanford drank stood within a few feet of the bottle of bicarbonate of soda. Miss Berner testified that the last time she thought Mrs. Stanford had used the bottle of soda until last Tuesday night was about a week after New Year. If the poison was put into the bottle of Poland water on January 14 as now seems to be generally believed, it is not by any means improbable that strychnine might not also have been put into the bicarbonate of soda at the same time. The contents of the bottle according to the best recollection of Miss Berner had not been touched by Mrs. Stanford from about January 7 until March 1. These facts have all been laid before the San Francisco authorities by at least one local correspondent.

DROUGHT ON HAWAII ENDED

RAINS FALL IN BOTH SOUTH AND NORTH KONA—HAMAKUA ALSO VISITED BY RAINS.

The steamer Mauna Loa arrived this morning from her regular run to Maui and Hawaii ports, with good news of conditions on the Big Island. Apparently the drought has been broken for some good sized rains and numerous showers have fallen in the various Hawaii districts. Purser Lloyd Conkling makes the following report:

"There have been good rains in Hamakua for the past three days; light showers in Kau; heavy rains in South Kona.

"On the outward trip experienced smooth seas and no wind to Kona where it was smooth until Saturday last when a squall from the south brought rain and choppy seas. After leaving Kau experienced westerly winds and northwest swell along Kona. Crossing channels heavy westerly and northwesterly swell and wind.

"Heavy rains in South Kona have put an end to the forest fires. The drought in North Kona has been ended by light showers during the week past.

"Visitors from volcano report renewed activity and a beautiful sight at night. No rain on Maui during week."

ARBITRATION VS. LITIGATION

SHAW AND CANARIO MUST PAY $704 FOR EXPENSE OF SETTLING THEIR DIFFERENCES.

The dispute between Seeley I. Shaw and J. S. Canario over their liquor business has been settled by the arbitrators by a decision which has been filed, calling for an absolutely equal division of the property of the concern. The partners took an unusual method to avoid a legal controversy, but they didn't get off free as far as expenses go, for the three arbitrators charge $200 each for their services. The disputants decided to submit their differences to three arbitrators. They chose Wade Warren Thayer and C. T. Wilder and the two latter, according to agreement, selected a third, choosing T. F. Lansing. The arbitrators find that the net value of the assets of the concern is $20,611.91 and that each partner is entitled to one-half. They decide that Shaw shall take the Honolulu business for his own and Canario shall take the Hilo business. As the Honolulu business is more valuable, Shaw is to pay Canario $2,417.45.

The sake decision just given in New York means a large sum added to the assets of the firm, say the arbitrators. This sum is to be evenly divided.

The expenses of the arbitration were $700.04. This includes a fee of $200 for each of the three judges.

DEATH OF MRS. BALLOU

WIFE OF THE WELL KNOWN ATTORNEY SUDDENLY PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING.

Mrs. S. M. Ballou, wife of the well known attorney of Honolulu, died this morning at the family residence on Judd street. Death came very suddenly, in childbirth. Her little daughter is living and may survive. Mrs. Ballou was a niece of Senator Morgan of Alabama and a daughter of General Basil Duke, of Louisville, Kentucky. Her marriage to the Honolulu attorney took place in Louisville, Kentucky, on December 21, 1885. Mr. and Mrs. Ballou have lived in Honolulu most of the time since their marriage, the former being a leading member of the local bar. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made. Cables have been sent notifying Mrs. Ballou's relatives of the sad event.

TERRITORY SUED FOR WORK DONE

AMERICAN HAWAIIAN CONSTRUCTION CO. AND ITS CONTROVERSY WITH SUPT. HOLLOWAY.

The American-Hawaiian Engineering and Construction Company, which has had considerable controversy with the Department of Public Works over the Brewer's wharf contract, has brought a suit against the Territory for work claimed to have been done on the contract for the wharf formerly awarded to the company. This is the contract which was knocked out in the courts. The company declined to put in bids when new ones were called for, and claims that the Superintendent of Public Works' changes in the specifications shut them out from using material they had bought for the wharf.

The company's suit is for work on both the Fort street wharf and the Brewer's wharf. The contract for the former was made on April 20 and the company claims to have done work to the value of $2,644.89 on the job. On the Brewer's wharf it is claimed that $1,830.40 worth of work has been done. Castle & Withington are attorneys for the company.

Result Of Autopsy On Mrs. Jane Stanford

PHYSICIANS AGREE THAT NO SIGNS OF DEATH FROM DISEASE WERE TO BE FOUND IN THE BODY OF THE DECEASED AND THAT ALL THE SIGNS OF STRYCHNINE POISONING WERE PRESENT.

That Mrs. Jane L. Stanford came to her death by poisoning was practically established by the testimony given at the inquest at the Moana hotel yesterday afternoon and evening. The physicians both ante mortem and post mortem, agreed that all the symptoms and signs of strychnine poisoning were present and that there was no other discoverable cause of death. Mrs. Stanford did not die a natural death. Dr. Murray's incidental statement that the stomach was empty of food and the contents of the intestines were fully digested disposed of the theory that the deceased's death might have been caused by acute indigestion, which was a theory held by very many people. The testimony of Miss Berner and Miss Hunt did not bring out much that was new, but it strongly indicated poisoning and it showed that so many persons have had access to the bottle supposed to contain the poison that there is practically no chance of tracing the crime if crime there was, by tracing the history of the deadly bottle.

Miss Berner was on the whole very self possessed. Once, during the early part of the investigation, when reference was made to her late employer and friend, Miss Berner showed signs of a breakdown, and there were tears in her eyes after the brief silence during which she regained her self-possession. For the rest, she showed a remarkably clear idea of the main points of testimony wanted from her. She had schooled and drilled herself for the occasion, and she had talked so much with Deputy Sheriff Rawlins that she seemed almost to know his next question in advance. She showed herself a woman of very clear mind and before the testifying had gone far was apparently as well controlled as anyone in the room. At the conclusion of her testimony she carefully read it over, a recess of half an hour being allowed for the purpose. She made a number of corrections of the English, explaining that they were not important. After signing her testimony she turned to the jury and bowed and wished them good-day. All rose as they bowed in response and Miss Berner left for her room, escorted by Judge Stanley.

The witness' statement to the jury in response to Rawlins' questions was substantially as already published in The Star. Very little was added that was not contained in the exclusive interview with her published in The Star the day following Mrs. Stanford's death. Attorney General Andrews asked her a few questions, in the nature of cross-examination. They brought out further details of the history of the poisoned bicarbonate and for the first time here, brought the name of Nora Hopkins into the case. Miss Berner said that as far as she knew only three persons knew of Mrs. Stanford's custom of taking the bicarbonate. They are Miss Berner, Miss Hunt and Nora Hopkins, an employee in San Francisco. Miss Berner denied that Mrs. Stanford was in the habit of saying frequently that she wished to join her dead husband and son. "She was devoted to them," said the witness, "and hoped eventually to join them."

Dr. Wood, the first autopsy physician, did not go as far as others in expressing an absolute opinion that strychnine poisoning was the cause of death. But he declared that the body was that of a well nourished woman in good health and that the autopsy showed all the signs of strychnine poisoning and revealed absolutely no other cause of death. Dr. Wood began by saying that if he had not known the age of the deceased he would have placed it at about 65. He examined the body for external wounds that might have caused death and found none. Then he looked for external signs. The jaw was rigid and the teeth strongly clenched. Rigidity of muscles was one of the signs of strychnine poisoning. The muscles of the neck were not rigid, nor were those of the upper arm. This was not to be expected in a strychnine case, said Dr. Wood, but he found that the undertaker had released the rigidity of the arms after death. In order to drape the body in a gown. The forearms were rigid as were also the thighs and legs. The feet showed strongly the signs of the poison. The insteps arched and the toes extended were signs that are to be found in strychnine cases. The organs were found to have been in a healthy condition. Their contents were all turned over on the spot to chemist Duncan, who was present at the inquest. There was no natural cause of death to be found, the doctor stated expressly, and all the symptoms coincided with those of a characteristic case of strychnine poisoning.

Dr. F. R. Day, the second autopsy physician called, agreed with Dr. Wood. All the organs were in a normal condition. There was no discoverable cause of death by disease of any kind, and the signs of strychnine were generally found.

Dr. Murray, who was present just before Mrs. Stanford died, went a little further than the other physicians. He expressed the explicit opinion that the cause of death was strychnine poisoning. He was called on the night of the tragedy and when he arrived Mrs. Stanford was in her last convulsion. The soles of the feet were turned up and the insteps very much arched. The pupils were much dilated and the eyes bulging. I looked at Dr. Humphris and he asked if it was any use to disguise her condition any longer from Miss Berner. While I was examining Dr. Humphris had been telling me how he had been called and why.

Dr. Murray said that when he arrived Mrs. Stanford was in a spasm and life was practically extinct. The position of her hands and feet were unchanged after death, but her jaw had dropped open.

"I inquired from Dr. Humphris where the bottle of soda was from which she had taken a dose. He showed it to me."

Dr. Murray then described the removal of the bottle of bicarbonate of soda, the bottle of capsules the spoon the glass and the container containing vomit to Dr. Humphris' sitting room. There they were left in charge of Dr. Murray and Dr. Day while Dr. Humphris went to notify the High Sheriff. They turned the articles all over to Deputy High Sheriff W. T. Rawlins.

Dr. Murray tasted the contents of the bottle of bicarbonate of soda and found it quite bitter; evidently some foreign substance had been introduced into it. "I remarked," said Dr. Murray, "that I would not say it was strychnine but it was bitter enough to be."

Dr. Murray took part in the autopsy. There were present Dr. Wood, Dr. Day, Dr. Humphris, Dr. Pratt, Dr. Sawyer, Dr. Taylor, R. A. Duncan and himself. Dr. Wood performed the autopsy. The body was well nourished and well preserved and seemed more like the body of a woman of 65 than of 77 as was stated she was.

The body showed purplish red spots over most of the posterior parts of the body, the cheeks and face. The hands were still clenched. The feet still maintained their position with the soles turned in. There were no external wounds.

"There was practically nothing in the stomach but the water that had been administered to produce vomiting. I mention this because there has been something said of the lack of a stomach pump, any substance introduced in the stomach would have been absorbed and acted very rapidly. Even if there had been a stomach pump used, it would have done no good."

The contents of the intestines were in a perfect state of digestion. The condition of many of the muscles showed that she died in a spasm. The peculiarly contracted condition of the muscles of the hands and feet would indicate death from strychnine poisoning. Under the conditions if there had been nothing said Dr. Murray testified that he would have suspected strychnine poisoning.

Dr. F. Howard Humphris testified that he was called shortly after 11:15 and went at once to Mrs. Stanford's room whither he had been called. Mrs. Stanford, Miss Berner and Miss Hunt were there. Mrs. Stanford said: "Doctor I have been poisoned; get a stomach pump." She was then standing by the washstand drinking hot water. "How do you know you have been poisoned?" "Because I have been poisoned before," she replied.

"What do you mean by that?" I asked.

"Tell him about it, Bertha," Mrs. Stanford said.

"Miss Berner then said that Mrs. Stanford had been poisoned by drinking Poland water."

"What was in the Poland water?" I asked.

"Miss Berner said it was arsenic, but afterwards corrected this to strychnine."

"Mrs. Stanford said she was not in pain but insisted that she had been poisoned. I asked her what she had taken and she said bicarbonate of soda and a cascara capsule. I asked what she took them from, and Miss Berner said she had given them to her. I asked her if she had seen Mrs. Stanford take it. She said no, but Mrs. Stanford said she had taken them later."

"I went and got some mustard. When I got back Mrs. Stanford insisted repeatedly that she had been poisoned, though at this time aside from nervousness she showed no symptoms. I sent for my emergency bag. She repeatedly said she was poisoned; hoped that she was prepared to meet her family; and that it was a horrible death to die."

"I prepared some chloral and bromide and gave it to her in a glass to drink. She said 'My jaws are rigid.' I felt them and found they were. I took the glass in my hand. A spasm seized her. It lasted about three minutes and from the time it seized her I do not think she breathed. I had meanwhile sent for Dr. Murray. He came in at this time. After a decent interval after she had died we picked her up from where she had been seated and laid her on the bed."

"From the time I saw her first until the spasm seized her, aside from a little nervousness there seemed nothing the matter with her. Her mind was clear and she talked rationally."

Following this Dr. Humphris described his actions following death, his notification of Mrs. Stanford's brother and lawyer.

He was positive that she had died of strychnine poisoning. She had been thrown out of her bed by a spasm. She had lived apparently half an hour and had died in a spasm that was markedly that by strychnine poisoning. It bears no likeness to any other spasm except the spasm of tetanus or lock-jaw. But in the latter case there must be an external wound, while in her case there were no external wounds.

Dr. Humphris described the post mortem examination practically as previous witnesses had. In describing this he said her skull was unusually thick.

Miss May Hunt, Mrs. Stanford's maid, said she had been employed by Mrs. Stanford February 9 of this year. They sailed from San Francisco February 15. She packed the medicine

IN THE SENATE

The following was introduced by Dowsett from the county act joint committee in the Senate yesterday:

"The joint county act committee, to whom concurrent resolution No. 1 was referred, beg leave to report that they had the same under careful consideration, and as their time expires today, March 6, 1905, request of this honorable assembly that they be given further time within which to make a final report; and that pending such final report, the said committee be permitted to have for its consideration all House and Senate bills on local self government that were introduced therein."

The Senator explained that the committee had been hard at work, and so far had considered but one bill. The task was an arduous one. On motion of Bishop the report was adopted. On motion of Fickey the committee was given ten days.

Senate Bill 58, to point the decision of the Federal District court, was read for the second time, section by section, and then went over until tomorrow.

Senate bill 67, providing for a Board of Commissioners of public archives, on second reading went to the judiciary committee.

Senate bill 72, relating to land held by the Board of Public Instruction on second reading went to the committee on education.

Senate bill 71, relating to the commutation of government rights in lands awarded to quiet title, on second reading went to the public lands committee.

Senate bill 68, for the appointment of a leprosy commission, on second reading went to the health committee.

Senate bill 70 requiring second hand dealers to procure licenses, on second reading went to the way and means committee.

Senate bill 69, the pawn broker bill, on second reading went to the ways and means committee.

Senate bill 64, the vagrancy law, was read section by section on second reading and passed. It will be read for the third time on Wednesday.

Senate bill 12, the McCandless railway bill, on second reading went over until next Monday to give its introducer time to prepare his answer to the committee report.

Achi gave notice that the judiciary committee would meet at once. Dowsett gave notice of a meeting of the ways and means committee at 11:30 and McCandless that the public lands committee would meet at 2:30 and then the senate adjourned for the day.

RAILROAD POWER.

It makes, after all, comparatively little difference whether popular conception of the railroad power is altogether correct or not. The fact that the power exists, and that the people fear it, is a reason why both government and railroads should seek to establish some system that shall create a reasonable balance of control, protecting the railroads in their rights of property and the people against monopoly and discrimination.

It is a little late for the beef trust to take up a campaign of education. It would be to the trust's advantage if people would forget what they have already learned.

The Sunday Law Bill

Among the many bills before the present Legislature there is none of more general interest than that introduced by Representative Quinn regarding the observance of the Sabbath. It is not so many months ago since a sudden application was made of certain obsolete blue laws which have long been on the statute book. The laws were applied at the instance of the Governor who made no secret whatever of a belief in the theory that the best way to get rid of poor laws is to rigidly enforce them. The result of the enforcement is well known by everybody and now that the first spasm has passed it is very plain that the old time blue laws are receiving exactly the same respect that they did before the enforcement of them was attempted. There is just one exception, the band used to play in the Capitol grounds on Sundays whereas it now plays at Makee Island. This would seem to be the net result of a great reform movement.

The other minor restrictions which are imposed inflict no hardship on the resident of Honolulu on Sundays, but they merely serve to annoy any visitor who may happen to be here on the first day of the week without a knowledge of what are vulgarly known as "the ropes."

The bill presented by Rep. Quinn aims to do away with all the subterfuge which must now be employed for the rational enjoyment of the Sabbath. It is not a measure calculated to create a wide open town one day in seven, but it simply states in plain terms what may be done, by the sanction of law, of the things that are done now every Sunday without that sanction.

There will be little quarrel in this community with the proposition to allow flowers to be sold on Sundays. The opening of cigar stores and of soda water fountains will harm no one and the official allowance of games in such manner as will not annoy persons who do not play the games themselves will do harm to none.

Possibly on close reading and careful discussion there may be features in the bill as introduced which will need minor changes, but, generally speaking, a law which properly regulates the observance of the Sabbath in the light of present experience, deserves a place on the statute books of Hawaii.

Placed In a False Position

It is a singular thing that the United States of all nations should as a world power seem to stand like a great opponent of international arbitration. Certainly Americans are not disposed to war. They feel themselves to be leaders in civilization, citizens of a nation that is likely to do the best that can be done for humanity, whether it be in the arts of peace or in preventing war among nations. It would surprise most Americans as well as anger them, to hear from the lips of a German or a Frenchman that their country is backward or even worse in the great movement among leading civilized nations for the prevention of war. Yet this is precisely the position which America, by the force of politics or of legal quibble, according to the point of view, has taken, viewing the matter from a foreign standpoint.

Great Britain and France have made arbitration treaties with each other of the most comprehensive nature, and they have made similar treaties with nation after nation until in the case of Great Britain, the United States and Russia were in a class apart,—the only two great powers that had not reached agreements for peaceful settlements of disputes. As far as the United States is concerned, this was not because British and American statesmen had not tried to reach an agreement. Years ago, before the movement became at all general among the nations, Britain and America tried to make a treaty. During Cleveland's administration Richard Olney and Sir Julian Pauncefote made a treaty of arbitration, and the United States Senate rejected it. The Senate's course at the time was declared by some to be a great blow at the principle of arbitration and probably it was, but London has gone on making treaties elsewhere, and now has just tried it with Uncle Sam again, and has met the same sort of failure. The United States Senate has rejected Roosevelt's treaty of arbitration with Great Britain just as it rejected Cleveland's treaty years ago. In the eyes of the average foreigner this act is not viewed as in America it may be, as a legal or political difficulty having nothing to do with the fact that the American people really want arbitration. It is simply a rejection of arbitration by America.

The Senate rejected the Roosevelt treaty, or rather amended it so that Roosevelt was compelled to withdraw it, apparently because it takes away some of the powers of the Senate. Instead of a treaty providing that the two nations should arbitrate differences, the Senate made the treaty provide that the Executive might submit agreements to arbitration disputes as they came along, for ratification or otherwise. In other words a separate arbitration treaty would have to be made for each dispute. Instead of recognizing the principle of arbitration, this amended treaty made America utterly rejected it and declare against arbitration of any dispute which the governments could not separately agree to arbitrate. This was worse than no treaty and Roosevelt has pigeonholed it. Some of the Senators claim in the defense of their action that the treaty was unconstitutional,—that the Senate had no legal right to surrender its prerogative of ratifying international agreements as they are reached and that each separate agreement to arbitrate under a general treaty absolutely requires ratification. This is a matter for the lawyers and they are thoroughly disagreed about it. In any event whether it be by the limitation of the constitution or the jealousy of power on the part of senators, the American nation has been placed in a strange position.

Mainland View Of Our Militia

What opinion a considerable portion of the Mainland holds regarding the possible policy of Hawaii in abolishing the militia and throwing the burden of the coast defenses on the Federal government is clearly set forth in an editorial in the Army and Navy Journal of February 18. The editorial is as follows:

The Canadian idea that the defense of the Dominion properly devolves upon England, has appeared in a modified form in Hawaii, in the blunt contention that if that territory requires any defenses they should be provided entirely by the United States. A bill now before the territorial legislature to appropriate $20,000 for the development and maintenance of the Hawaiian militia is vigorously opposed by the Honolulu Gazette and by other interests solely on the ground that the defense of the islands against foreign invasion is a matter of no concern to their inhabitants, but is a responsibility which rests upon the United States Government and the American taxpayer. The Hawaiians seem to believe that when at their own request they were annexed by the United States they assumed no responsibilities in return for the advantages thus conferred upon them. It does not occur to them that their plain duty is to co-operate as far as they can to secure their coasts against a hostile attack. It is the purpose of the United States to establish powerful fortifications and other defensive works at Pearl Harbor and, perhaps, at other points in the Hawaiian Islands. Those works will be manned, of course, by troops of the United States Army, but there are conceivable contingencies in which the co-operation of a properly-trained force of native troops would be valuable, and it should be a matter of pride to the Hawaiian people to see that such a force, trained to the highest efficiency by Army officers, is always available. Here in the United States it is the purpose to train a considerable proportion of the militia organizations in coastwise States for service as an auxiliary force in the land defense of our coast fortifications. The same thing should be done in Hawaii, and will be if the people of those islands have any clear appreciation of their obligation to the government whose protection they enjoy.

THE INQUEST.

The course of the inquest into the cause of the death of Mrs. Jane L. Stanford yesterday developed pretty conclusive evidence that death was due to strychnine poisoning. That being the case three possibilities present themselves. The poison was introduced by some one with murderous intent; it was introduced with suicidal intent; or it was introduced by accident either of the victim or someone else. The idea of suicide is scouted by many of her friends because to them it seems impossible that a woman of her character and religious views could have committed suicide, and back of that they feel that no one who had everything to live for, as she seemed to have, would commit suicide. Nevertheless, a great many believe it quite possible that she did commit suicide, though under the stress of a subtle dementia or mania, which supposition of course removes from consideration anything as to her religious or other beliefs, except as they might have bearing on the development or turn taken by the supposed mania or dementia. Of course it must be admitted that there has been very little testimony developed yet in support of the suicide theory. Yet there are few, if any facts, that contradict its possibility. On the other hand, it may be said that there has been very little testimony developed to support the murder theory—quite as little that directly supports it as there has been supporting the suicide theory. important element of motive seems entirely wanting. There is no evidence yet made public here of even trivial motives that sometimes lead to great crimes. As to the suggestion of accident, there is nothing to support it, and much to contradict it. In any investigation of the cause of death then, it would seem that every effort should be made that can be made to secure evidence bearing in any way on the only three possible hypotheses, and particularly on the two that are not strongly negated. To several who attended the inquest yesterday it did not seem that the coroner directed as much effort to securing evidence on these points as might have been done.

The killing of Representative Smith's hunting license bill by the House was a mistake. It merely sought to impose on all the islands the same license fee of $5 which is now imposed on hunters on the island of Oahu. The vote stood 16 to 15 in the slaughter of the bill and one of the 16 was a representative from Oahu. Consistency is still a jewel and it is the plain duty of this member from Oahu to move the repeal of the ordinance which now charges Oahu hunters $5 each, while hunters on other islands pay no license at all.

Senator Palmer Woods report on the bill providing for the sale of lands which have been reserved for forest under certain circumstances, seems to provide a reasonable safeguard. The bill as reported by the majority of the committee provides that land which has been reserved for forests may be withdrawn from such reservation and sold on the recommendation of the Commissioner of Lands approved by the governor. Senator Woods' proposal is that this shall not be done without the approval of the Board of Agriculture and Forestry. As this board is specially interested in the forestry of the islands and that subject is peculiarly within its province, and the members are supposed to be informed on the subject, their approval ought to be secured before lands are taken out of the forest reserves and devoted to other purposes. Under the law as it exists now, only the legislature can take lands out of the forest reserves and allow them to be devoted to other purposes. The object of the new bill is to make the administration of the subject more mobile. But at the same time there ought to be all reasonable safeguards thrown about the matter.

COAL WASHING IN GREAT BRITAIN.

It is impossible to deny that English colliery owners are indebted to German manufacturers for the best systems of coal washing. It is well known that the coal of the Westphalian and Prussian coal fields is greatly inferior to our own, being got from a greatly disturbed area and thus there are not only many bands of dirt, stone, etc., running through them, but with the highly inclined seams there is a greater likelihood of shale and other foreign matter becoming intermixed during excavating and filling. Hence arises the necessity for careful washing, and the perfection of mechanical appliances for doing it. On the other hand, a large proportion of British coal comes up large and clean from the mine, requiring very little picking before going into the wagons. The small coal in many cases does not contain any serious amount of dirt and so, for many years, coal washing, which has been a necessity in some countries, has not been looked upon in this light here.

But recently a change has taken place and the utility of washing coal has been recognized. This is not because the good seams of coal referred to are becoming exhausted, nor because there is more dirt in the slack than formerly; it is simply because colliery owners are finding that thinner and inferior seams can be worked to advantage if good arrangements are made for mechanically preparing the coal for sale. At the same time it is admitted that coal is now being washed which formerly was considered good enough for sale immediately after screening; but this is due to the fact that even fairly clean slack is improved in price with washing.—Mines and Minerals.

OUTSIDE PRESSURE ON RUSSIA.

It seems to us that the logic of events points clearly to a change in the policy of Russia toward its own subjects and toward other countries, forced on it, not alone by the demands of its own citizens, but by the sentiment of the outside states expressed in the way which it will feel most keenly.—Financial Chronicle.

and expenditures of the government for the past year. It is commended to the careful attention of the senators. The report was ordered printed.

The House informed the Senate that it had discharged its County Act Committee, and as chairman of the Senate members Dowsett asked that they be likewise discharged. This carried.

The House also asked for a joint committee on railway bills. The communication was referred to a special committee, and the President said he would name it later.

The passage of House Bill 76 was reported, and on motion of Dickey, strongly seconded, by Dowsett, consideration was postponed until tomorrow to give the House a chance to reconsider the measure, if it so desired. And like action was taken with reference to two more bills that came up from the House as having passed third reading.

The Judiciary Committee reported favorably on the bill to permit one of the terms of the Maui Circuit Court to be held at Lahaina. Laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

The committee likewise reported favorably on House Bill 25, the leprosy divorce bill. Laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

House Bill 18, changing the procedure as to argument in criminal cases, was reported favorably by the Judiciary Committee. Laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

The bill on land registration was reported favorably by the Judiciary Committee.

The object of the bill is to enable the courts to properly prepare cases appealed from the Court of Land Registration to the Circuit Court sitting with a jury.

The Public Lands Committee reported favorably on Senate Bill 71, relating to the commutation of government rights in lands awarded to quiet titles. Laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

The Public Lands Committee reported favorably on Senate Bill 67, providing for the creation of a Board of Archives. Laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

The Public Lands Committee reported favorably on Senate Bill 57, providing for the impounding loose animals. Laid on the table to be considered with the bill.

STILL AT WORK.

High Sheriff Henry stated this afternoon that the chemists in the Stanford case were now working in order to determine whether the amount of strychnine indications found in the stomach proved a sufficient quantity of the poison to have been taken into the stomach to have caused death. The color tests show presence of strychnine taken internally but to what extent is now to be determined if possible.

TOPICS IN BRIEF.

The situation is quiet in Russia, but the czar has not yet published his address.

It may be that Mr. Addicks sometimes wishes he had picked out one of the states the legislature of which is accused of being unanimously for sale. It is difficult to see why the czar should not have offered the strikers anything so inexpensive as a promise before the rioting occurred.

When a comic opera prima donna's daughter goes looking for a divorce it looks as if there must be something in her story.

Mr. Bryan, having endorsed some of President Roosevelt's ideas, possibly hopes that one day the compliment will be returned.

mission of the report of the Accounts Commission to which reference is made in another column.

The report of the Honolulu Park Commission was received and placed on file.

The statement of incidental expenditures of the Commissioners of Agriculture and Forestry for the last six months of 1904, amounting to $2,738.85, was presented and filed.

The incidentals of the Public Instruction Department as submitted for the same period, amounting to $1,633.15, was read a first time by title.

There was a tempest in a teapot when Smith of Hilo rose to present a petition, Coelho protesting that the petition was not properly endorsed. Coelho established his point and Smith promised to endorse with as much care as if he were endorsing his best friend's note.

The Health Committee reported against Kanho's bill to repeal the sections of the penal laws respecting compulsory vaccination as being "inexpedient and unsafe to remove a safeguard especially necessary because of our very mixed population and exposed position at the crossway of ocean traffic." The report quoted copious mortality statistics.

Chairman Fernandez moved the reception of the report, but withdrew his motion after a florid speech from Kanho who urged that vaccination was the most prolific cause of the spread of leprosy. The report was tabled to be considered with the bill.

The Committee on Public Lands and Internal Improvements reported as follows:

$6,600 for macadamizing in Honolulu and $6,600 for macadamizing in Paaloa, (Fernandez). Rejected as unnecessary. $1,200 for court house and jail in Hanalei, (Mahikoa). Rejected as unnecessary.

$1,500 for grading and macadamizing Poli avenue instead of $2,500 asked by Rep. Quinn. Quinn and Andrade do not concur.

$12,000 to complete South Kohala road to Kona road, (Holstein). Recommended.

$16,000 for Kawaihae-Puako road; $2,500 shed for wharf at Kawaihae; $3,000 for roller and water cart, (Holstein). Recommended.

$7,500 Waima road to join Hamakua road, (Holstein). Recommended with the construction of two bridges.

$7,500 repairs and maintenance South Kohala road, (Holstein). Recommended. $10,000 for the 22-mile road; $15,000 to repair volcano road; $4,000 for the Pick road; $4,500 for new road from volcano road to the 13-mile road, (Leyds). Recommended.

For two electric lights in Kakaako, (Lilikalani). Recommended.

For construction of Kakaako-Honolulu road, (Coelho). Recommended.

The following resolutions were introduced:

For an appropriation of $425 to pay the salary of E. da Silva as bailiff of the Fourth Circuit, (Smith).

For $334.23 to pay the Wilder S. S. Co. for freight transported, (Coelho).

Smith introduced a bill relating to fines and costs in criminal cases which was read a first time by title.

A batch of bills was rushed through second reading and referred to the various standing committees.

The House rose at 12:15.

A HERO.

We've got a brand new hero down to Pohick on the creek.

We'd like to have 'em send along a medal purty quick.

Unless this government of our is sadly ill advised,

His patriotic services will sure be recognized.

Most everybody out this way confesses to a pride

In him every now and then upon the winn' side.

An' when the handlid struck us, we agreed down to a man,

You'd couldn't find a person that was not Republican.

It's as clear a proposition as that three an' three make six.

If you've got no opposition, you can't have no politics.

An' if we have no politics, what are we goin' to do

For somethin' to talk over when our daily work is through?

So Jabez Jones, he made a speech expressin' some such fears.

An' inquirin' at the nish was there any volunteers?

An' every one kep' silent; jes' as silent as could be,

An' then each person murmured, "no sirre; it won't be me."

Then ol' Pop Rigby he spoke up an' says: "My countrymen,

I've allus done my duty as a feller citizen."

An' rather than behold our institutions fallin' flat,

My fellin's I will disregard. I'll be the Democrat."

An' then we gathered 'round him an' we shook him by the hand,

Assurin' him how much we prized his action, good an' grand;

We know him fur a patriot; one whose honor scorns a price,

An' I 'spect he'll got an office fur his great self-sacrifice.

THE PRICE OF SUGAR.

Whatever the causes that have conspired to elevate the price of sugar to a figure nearly prohibitive, the consumer who parts company with 14 cents extra every time he purchases a pound of sugar, realizes the part he plays in the present situation. The beet sugar men have made themselves the victims of false fears. If free sugar from the Philippines would lower the price to the consumer it would be doubly advisable. But it won't. The trust is in complete control and will continue to be.—Detroit Free Press.

Debility

Perhaps you eat enough, yet you do not get much benefit from your food. You keep thin and weak; are tired all the time, and your nerves are in a bad way. Why not strengthen your digestion and get rid of your debility?

Read these words from Mrs. E. G. Munro, of Colong, Victoria. Mrs. Munro also sends her photograph.
"I suffered greatly with indigestion and debility for a long time. Sleep did not refresh me, and I was in a very bad state. One of my friends strongly recommended Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after a good deal of hesitation I made up my mind to try it. To my great surprise, I did not take one-half a bottle before I felt greatly improved in every way. I only took three bottles, and I can now honestly say that I am entirely free from all of my old troubles, and consider myself perfectly cured. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is certainly a wonderful blood medicine."

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

There are many imitation Sarsaparillas. Be sure you get "Ayer's."

Keep Away From Mosquitoes

If the cost is too great to make your house entirely mosquito proof, one room at least can be made a comfortable retreat by adding perhaps a screen door and a couple of windows.
We furnish everything necessary, including the screen doors single or double action hinges, locks, etc.
The whole cost of mosquito-proofing a large room will probably be no more than a total of $7.00, if you buy from us.

THE WORK OF THE REGISTRAR

STEADY IMPROVEMENT IN METHODS—NEW INDEXES AND A NEW SYSTEM OF INDEXING—USE OF TYPE-WRITERS SPECIALLY DESIGNED FOR THIS KIND OF WORK—RECOMMENDATIONS MADE.

The following extracts from the biennial report of the Registrar of Conveyances, show the operations of this bureau for the past two years to have been along the line of steady improvement in the handling of this branch of the public service.

The total receipts from all sources during this period show a falling off from the preceding biennial period, but is readily accounted for in the serious depression which has affected real estates so generally in the last two or three years. The months of November and December, 1904, do, however, show a marked improvement and are almost on a par with the average for the last ten years.

Beside the routine work of recording over 7,500 documents, properly indexing the same, and attending to the large amount of work required of this bureau by other departments of the government, time has been found to replace one set of index books which were in a condition beyond repair. This last work was one involving the recopying of about 23,000 entries,—abstracts of almost as many documents,—and was performed by the regular office force on the book typewriter.

It is the intention of the Registrar to make the change from pen written records to typewritten records during 1905, providing the legislature will pass the law authorizing typewritten records, as has been done by practically all the States of the Union.

As is well shown by the work performed in replacing one set of index books, the use of typewriters on the record work proper, will result in more legible records, which will occupy less space than pen written work, thereby diminishing the demand for vault space. And, finally, such a system will produce a record which cannot be altered or forged by anyone. The permanency of such a record has been fully and satisfactorily tested by the Commissioner of Public Records of the State of Massachusetts, as well as by other states.

The new system of indexing, which was started in January, 1901, and which has been continued through the subsequent years, has met with the unqualified approval of searchers of record, attorneys, and the general public, and it is the intention of the Registrar to extend this system to the earlier records as soon as the Legislature makes proper provision therefor.

Two sets of index books covering the years 1845 to 1877 will have to be replaced during the coming biennial period as they are so worn as to be beyond repair. These early index books show the somewhat crude methods which were adopted in the abstracting of the records, and the system of indexing, being what is known as the vowel system, is one which was discarded in many states fully twenty years ago. It is therefore the hope of the Registrar that provision will be made which will enable him to replace this obsolete and impracticable system with one thoroughly up-to-date, as well as to correct the many inaccuracies and omissions in the early abstracting of the records.

A new system of public reference to the records was inaugurated in September, 1904, changes being made at the same time in the record vaults, both of which innovations have done much to facilitate the public business, as well as to systematize the routine work of the clerical force.

The Registrar states that it is his intention to bring to the attention of the Legislature drafts of proposed acts covering the following subjects, with the recommendation that favorable action be taken thereon.

1. Granting authority to make records in typewritten form.
 2. Definitely establishing the hours in which documents may be legally accepted for record.
 3. Providing for a penalty for defacing, removing, or mutilating public records.
 4. Providing for the classification of indices every ten years.
 5. Providing for the filing of plans in the office of the Registrar.
 6. Providing for the making of references to the original mortgage of all releases, assignments, etc.
 7. Certain amendments to existing laws in re searching of records.
- The passage of the above suggested acts, the Registrar says, would result in greater protection to the records, cause them to be made in more legible form, and to be properly indexed under a system which should mean a reduction in the present cost of an abstract of title,—a matter which should appeal to the buyer as well as seller of land.

APPEALS TO WASHINGTON NOW

Judge Galbraith has received the following cable from Washington: WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—To C. A. Galbraith, Honolulu.—A bill has passed Congress providing for appeals from the Supreme Court of the Territory of Hawaii to the Supreme Court of the United States in all cases where the amount involved exceeds five thousand dollars.

HENRY N. PROUTY.
Mr. Prouty is an attorney for W. W. Bierce Company that was recently defeated in a suit by a decision of the Supreme Court, whereby a judgment for about $23,000 in their favor was reversed. On Judge Galbraith's advice they secured the services of Ex-Solicitor General of the United States Aldrich and went to congress and got an amendment to the Organic Act through as a rider to the judiciary appropriation bill whereby this and other similar suits can be appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States.

BISHOP ESTATE AND THE KONA FIRES

W. O. Smith, one of the trustees of the Bishop Estate, says that an injustice was done the Bishop Estate in the editorial paragraph which appeared in yesterday's Star regarding the Kona forest fires and the special appropriation for fighting them. He says that there were two fires in Kona, twenty miles apart. One of them was on Bishop Estate land, and endangered Bishop Estate property. To this Frank Dodge was sent by the Bishop Estate at its own expense, and wireless telegraph instructions were given for fighting it, and the fighting was done by the Bishop Estate at its own expense, and not at the expense of the government.
The other fire was twenty miles away. It was in government land and did not endanger any Bishop Estate property, and it was to that that Forester Hosmer went and directed the fight.

THE MATERIAL FOR BREWER'S WHARF

WHAT CHARLES H. GILMAN SAYS IN REPLY TO HOLLOWAY IN REJECTED MATERIAL.

EDITOR STAR: In your edition of March 4th you publish an interview with the Superintendent of Public Works in which he states that one half of the material we have here for the Brewer's Wharf would have had to be rejected.

What are the FACTS?
All of the copper is yet in the original cases and has never been inspected, how can he pass on it?

All of the corrugated iron is yet in the Railway warehouse and has never been inspected.

All of the sheet metal work, formed to order, is yet in the warehouse of the California Feed Company and has never been inspected.

All the iron work, made to order, for the shed has never been inspected. As to the cargo of timber for wharf and shed, that portion of the same cargo, for Fort Street wharf was inspected, accepted and none rejected. There was 26,000 feet of 14 inch plank (out of a cargo of one million feet of material) that was scant in thickness and has been removed. But 1 1/2 inch plank cut a very small figure in wharf construction and the dealers here have plenty of that to take the place of this.

We ordered the lumber called for in the original specifications.

When this lumber arrived we employed an independent inspector to check it, as between us and the shipper, and such inspector advised us that it complied with the specifications, other than the 1 1/2 inch above referred to. On this report we accepted the lumber. We now claim that the lumber is good "merchantable lumber."

The government has not inspected it, and if it ever does and finds any that is not up to specifications we will have to make it good. If he is correct, that some of our material is below specification, how does that justify the Superintendent of Public Works in calling for a different standard of material straight through so that all our material good and bad, is shut out from use?

Although the Superintendent, in his interview published in the P. C. A., disavowed any intention to discriminate against our material I am glad to see that he now acknowledges that he did do so by giving his reason for so doing "that one half of the material would have been rejected." I think I have very conclusively shown that his reasoning is not well founded no inspection having been made. In his interview he evades the fact of the new specifications calling for different and more expensive material than has been heretofore used here or in San Francisco and for which the taxpayers must pay the bill.

There are other items in the second specifications that call for unnecessary expensive work but as they do not apply to our material I have made no mention of them.

The Superintendent informs me that the forthcoming specifications will call for the same construction and material as the last, so that the condition which I rightfully complained of still exists, viz: The previous specifications, under which we purchased the material which we now have on hand, have been changed so that all our material, good as well as bad, is barred from use. This I claim is unjust, and Mr. Holloway has failed to refute my charge.

Yours truly,

APPROPRIATION BILL

The joint committee on the loan appropriation bill have prepared the following report:

"Your joint committee on the Loan Appropriation Bills have met and given the matter of the loan appropriation a preliminary or partial report as follows:

"Under section 2 of the bill, and the heading 'general appropriations for all the islands,' the committee recommends the striking out of the items 'government building, Honolulu, $200,000, also the item 'armory, Honolulu $50,000.'

The committee also recommends that the item, 'educational building, $50,000,' be increased to $100,000.

"These recommendations would make the item under the 'general appropriations for all the islands' as follows:

"General building, Hilo$50,000
"Extension of wharf system.....300,000
"Educational buildings100,000

"Or $200,000 less under the 'general' heading than specified in the respective bills." Deducting this amount, $450,000, from the total amount proposed being appropriated by the respective bills ($1,100,000) leaves a balance to be appropriated of say $650,000 and this amount the committee recommends be appropriated to the various islands in the proportion in which each contributes to the tax income of the territory, as follows:

Oahu 50 per cent.....	$325,000
Hawaii 22 per cent.....	140,000
Maul (Molokai and Lānai) 12 per cent.....	84,000
Kauai and Niihau 9 per cent.....	58,500
	$657,500

It is further recommended that the various island delegations caucus among themselves and make their own distribution, reporting their own deliberations to this committee as a basis for a final report.

LAST OF CONFEDERATE CABINET

HOUSTON, March 7.—John H. Reagan, formerly postmaster general of the Confederate States, and the last survivor of Jefferson Davis' Cabinet is dead.

John Hennington Reagan was born in Tennessee, October 8, 1818. He spent his youth on a farm, was educated in a country school and had one year in college. He early went to the Republic of Texas where he served in the military, in the legislature and on the bench. He was a congressman in 1857-61. On the secession of Texas he became a member of the provisional congress and later postmaster general of the Confederate States. In 1865 he was appointed secretary of the treasury and on the fall of the Confederacy he was made a prisoner of war. In 1875-87 he was a member of congress, and was author of the "Reagan Inter-State Commerce Bill," the basis of the present law. He was U. S. Senator from 1887 to 1891 and since then has been chairman of the Texas State Railroad Commission.

ETHICS OF COLLEGE FOOT BALL.

By far the ablest contribution to the interment controversy over modern college foot ball is contained in President Eliot's annual report. The distinguished head of Harvard University is a friend of college athletics. There is no prejudice in his report. His criticisms are founded solely in the ethics of manhood and the age. The main objection to foot ball as it is played lies against the moral quality. It is an evil that in the immoderate desire to win games ill-feeling is created between colleges. Then again, the mass play affords temptation to foul play, since violation of the rules may be hidden. Finally the game has become assimilated to war, as to its struggles, stratagems and deceptions.—New York World.

DORIC WILL SKIP HONOLULU

VESSEL GOES TO SAN FRANCISCO DIRECT FROM YOKOHAMA NEXT MONTH.

The S. S. Doric is to cut out Honolulu on her homeward trip from the Orient next month. Information of this change was received by the Marine Exchange yesterday. The local agents have not been advised from San Francisco yet of the change of schedule. It is more than likely however that it is being made in order to shift about some of the steamers. Four Pacific Mail boats are now following each other and it is probably desired to put the Doric and the other O. & O. boats, between some of the Pacific Mail vessels.

FIRE IN KAU

The Kau Weekly says: On Tuesday last about noon a fire got into the woods, above the home-standers land of Waiohinu. The raging fire seemed to spread all over the country. The Waiohinu people did not get excited so much as Mr. Knobsky. Sheriff Hayselden and his officers arrived there quickly and fought bravely to kill the fiercely burning flames. After many hours' hard work they succeeded in extinguishing the fire and save the woods from a disastrous conflagration. Our reported was there also to give kokua. There was a party of plantation men working on a fence near by, but did not lend any help. They did come after the fire was extinguished. If they left their work to come some one would have been "pohoho."

JONES CASE ENDING

The Jones murder case will go to the jury this afternoon or evening or tomorrow morning. Deputy Attorney General E. C. Peters has been arguing all morning for the prosecution. Yesterday A. G. M. Robertson spoke all day and a part of the evening for the defense and Peters began his argument during the evening session of court. It is probable that the courts' instructions to the jury will be reserved for tomorrow morning and that the case will go to the jury at the morning session tomorrow.
