More Damage To Russian Navy

Japanese Consul Miki Saito received from Minister Takahira at Washington, today, the following official report of the second attack of the Japanese navy on Port Arthur on the 14th inst., news of which first came to Honolulu this morning in a cablegram to the Yokohama Specie Bank:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17. To SAITO, Honolulu.

Our flotilla of torpedo-destroyers started out for Port Arthur on the 13th inst. in the midst of a heavy snow-storm. At 3 a. m. the next day, the Asakiri left her sister boats and in the face of a heavy fire from both shore batteries and fleet, approached one of the enemy's warships and let drive a torpedo. After some fighting with the enemy's guard-boat, the Asakiri returned to the body of the torpedo-destroyers in perfect safety. At 5 a. m. on the same day, the Hayatori, another torpedo-destroyer, found two of the enemy's warships near the mouth of the Port Arthur harbor and, under heavy fire, let drive a torpedo at one of them, remaining long enough to ascertain that the warship was blown up by the torpedo. The Hayatori returned to the body of the fleet in safety.

SUPPLY SHIP IS DESTINED TO REMAIN HERE

The U. S. N. supply ship Supply which arrived from Guam last Sunday, may remain in port for quite an extended period, owing to the poor state of Governor Sewall of Guam, who is on board.

While it was the intention to take the Governor to San Francisco for medical treatment, his condition is at present so low that it is thought to be dangerous for him to risk the long voyage to San Francisco.

Governor Sewall has improved slightly during his stay in port but not sufficiently to warrant his journeying on to the Coast. The Supply will therefore remain here until Governor Sewall is well enough to stand the voyage or until other orders are received from the Navy Department.

To Prohibit Cane Importation And Avoid Pests

Entomologist Perkins today notified the Board of Agriculture and Forestry that a certain Chinese merchant had imported a quantity of sugar cane from China for eating purposes; that the cane had been found infested with a pest most dangerous.

Not only was this cane full of an energetic boring insect but it also accommodated a species of leaf-hopper. Neither the borer or the leaf hopper are like those found in Hawaii.

The cane was at once seized and taken to the Agricultural headquarters at the Government nursery and thrown into a room by itself.

Professor Perkins warned the Board that unless steps were at once taken to prohibit the importation of such cane there was the possibility of the pests discovered on this particular lot of cane getting a hold in these islands and doing immense harm.

Perkins advised the publication of a "by authority" prohibiting the importation of sugar cane except in small lots of special varieties for seed purposes. He stated that it would be necessary to keep the room in which the infected cane is now stored closed for several days, to guard against the possibility of escape on the part of the pests sought to be excluded.

There was not a quorum at the meeting of the Board in the Capitol this afternoon. Those present were Executive Officer C. S. Holloway, W. M. Giffard and J. F. Brown.

Perkins' letter regarding the cane for eating was read with interest. Perkins said in his communication that if it had not been that this cane was probably imported in ignorance of its dangerous condition, its importation would have been on outrage. He urged immediate action.

Those present were of the opinion that a notice be at once published to the effect that the Board prohibited the importation of any sugar cane unless in small quantities of special varieties for seed purposes and that no cane come into this Territory without examination by the entomologists.

Giffard remarked that the bringing of sugar cane to Hawaii, except for seed purposes, was like carrying coal to Newcastle.

The advisability of communicating with dealers in South Sea Islands relative to the Board's exclusion of bananas from those parts, on account of a serious banana affliction, was also discussed.

With affected bananas, dangerous cane and pestiferous pineapples the Board has its hands full.

CONSULT ON FINANCE.

Deputy Attorney General E. C. Peters called Treasurer Kepoikal into consultation this morning in the matter of bringing in the Supreme Court a test case in regard to the legality of the Territory's present method of financial procedure.

Peters said the Attorney General, before leaving for the mainland, had instructed him to start the test.

Upon the Governor's return from Hawaii Carter, Kepoikal, Peters and the heads of other Government departments will get together for consultation on this much debated subject.

CRITICAL CONDITION DELAYS FINN TRIAL

Today was hackman's day in Judge Robinson's criminal court.

The trial of Joe Finn, charged with assault with a gun with intent to murder Hugh Rooney was called this morning.

Defendant and Rooney are both hackmen. Some ten hackmen were subpoenaed as witnesses.

J. J. Dunne appeared for the accused.

Deputy Attorney General Fleming represents the Territory.

The first round, in what promises to be an interesting legal battle, was a short one. "First blood" was drawn by the defense.

Dunne stated that he could not now proceed without the statement of Mary Andrews, who is said to have been in Rooney's back at the time of the alleged shooting by Finn.

Mary Andrews, when the horse attached to the rig became frightened at the shots, either jumped or fell out of the rig, injuring herself severely. The lady was in a delicate condition at the time of the alleged attempted murder and an operation became necessary as the result of her heavy fall. She could not be present in court. Dr. Hodgins had declared she was in a critical condition.

Dunne showed to Fleming a statement made by the lady and asked if the prosecution would admit the facts therein.

Fleming said some of the statements were true but he would not admit certain vital facts.

Hearing in the case was put over until Tuesday morning. A jury has not yet been drawn.

The Corelli Gavotte Antique, arranged by Albert Friedenthal can be procured for the piano at Bergstrom Music Co. in sheet music form, also the "Gypsy Procession."

C. M. Chong, a Chinese, instead of wishing his father a "happy New Year," threatened to kill his aged sire this morning. He was locked up for investigation.

Alien Laborers Ask Citizenship To Recover Jobs

A dozen Portuguese marched into the office of the Clerk of the United States District Court this morning and with one voice, speaking for the most part through one of their number who had the best command of English, declared the wish to become American citizens.

They were much bearded men, the majority of them, and of middle age. Some spoke fairly understandable English, others turned to the interpreter whenever a question was put or an answer required. Some were adorned in what were evidently Sunday garments, others wore the clothes of laborers, ready to turn to. All were hard-looking workers. They filed up along the counter in the clerk's office hats off, pulling their forelocks, apparently expecting to be made citizens of the United States there and then.

Inquiry developed the fact that all had been discharged from employment in the road supervisor's department. They had been let out because they were not citizens and because none but citizens or those eligible to become citizens are to be employed on the roads or other public works.

Such a spontaneous burst of alleged love for the Stars and Stripes and the principles thereby represented has never before been observed in the Judiciary building. The busy clerks in the Federal Court office were somewhat surprised.

Before the real reason of the rush for citizenship was known, all kinds of wild rumors were circulated. Some thought war was at the bottom of the significant move, though where there could be any connection between a dozen peaceable Portuguese wanting to become Americans and a state of war it was impossible for those who voiced the rumors to imagine.

Ah Sing, a Chinese, celebrated New Year by ringing the bell of a fire alarm box on Hotel street this noon. He did not turn in an alarm. Ah Sing was arrested by Officer Parker.

KOREANS MADE A DASH FOR LIBERTY

Lieutenant Leslie of the mounted police returned yesterday afternoon from Ewa, where he arrested the Koreans who attacked Agent Taylor. Leslie went to Ewa with five officers yesterday morning. Deputy Sheriff Fernandez of Ewa joined him and the party surrounded the Korean camp before any alarm was given.

When Leslie and Fernandez entered the camp houses the Koreans made a dash for liberty but were held back by the officers. There were about 160 of them. They were lined up and Agent Taylor picked out ten men whom he identified as his assailants. They were locked up in the Ewa jail.

Ramona, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. F. Morgan, was injured while at school the other day. She was at play when one of her playmates pushed her in fun. She fell on her knees and was unable to get up. The little girl was carried to her home, where, upon examination, it was found that injury had been done to the cords and paralysis had been the result. The family physician states that with proper treatment a cure can be effected.

The Citizens' Mosquito Committee has completed its quarterly report by its agent, A. D. Larnach. It gives a general outline of the work done and will be discussed at a meeting of the committee this afternoon.

Although announced yesterday that another recital would be given by Friedenthal this could not be arranged for as the pianist desires to enjoy a few days sightseeing before leaving Honolulu.

Capital Building Co. vs. Henry Wat-erhouse & Co. will go to the jury in Judge Gear's court this afternoon.

The Old Ready-Made

versus

The New Ready-To-Wear

Before the advent of

ALFRED BENJAMIN & CO.

30 years ago there were more old ready made clothes than any other kind! The fabrics were inferior; the designs were commonplace; the pieces were thrown together with cheap cotton thread; the whole garment had a hang-dog look that no amount of pressing could get rid of. What little shape it first had was soon lost. At a glance you could tell this ready-made from custom-made—just as you can now.

When BENJAMIN Clothes were first marketed the other fellows shook their heads and predicted failure. "Where is the profit," they asked "in retailing garments that cost as much to tailor as custom-made?" Thirty years of success have shown the wisdom of producing fine clothes at reasonable prices. Today the highest type of ready-for-service apparel bears this famous trade-mark.

There is no guesswork about this remarkable cold cure. People would not send 5,000 miles to get Anti-Grippe Tablets if they had not proved they were worth sending for. Mrs. Wood found them the "very best thing she ever tried for colds and grippe." So will you.

DAMAGE IS GREAT DOWN AT WAIPAHU

The rain did an immense amount of damage to the plantation property at Waipahu. Pictures taken after the heavy storms of last week show some most startling scenes. At one place the plantation railroad bridge was completely washed away and the rails and ties were left suspended high in the air across the ravine, forming what looks like a suspension foot bridge much the same as those used in the Hana, Keanae districts upon Maui. The station master at Waipahu was actually obliged to swim some distance one day in order to reach his residence.

When anyone sends 5000 miles for a medicine there must be some merit in the remedy. A lady in Indiana sends way out to Hawaii for Anti-Grippe Tablets because she found them "the very best thing she ever tried for colds and grippe." Sold by Hobron Drug Co.

The cold rains and heavy winds which have been prevailing on Kauai did the cane there considerable damage. Acres of cane on the Grove Farm plantation were torn up by the roots, while in many places upon the Lihue plantation the cane is matted down and ruined.

WHY THE

U. S. Washing Machine Is the Best.

BECAUSE

It is the only Rotary Washer that has revolving steel ball gearing, reducing the friction and thus making the machine light running and almost noiseless. The gear wheel turns right or left, the pin wheel or dasher reverses automatically, turning the clothes back and forth through the hot soap suds and cleaning them without rubbing them to pieces. Over One Hundred Thousand in use. The U. S. Machine have no equal because they wash clean.

MARINES SHUT OUT OF BASEBALL LEAGUE

At a meeting of the Baseball League yesterday afternoon, the application of the team of U. S. Marines for entrance into the league, was disallowed. H. M. Whitney, Jr., presided, and F. W. Thompson acted as secretary. The various clubs were represented as follows:

Elks—Richardson and Gorman.
H. A. C.—Gleason and Williams.
Punahou—Carter and Steere.
Mailes—Luhisen and Crook.
Kamehameha—Wise and Lemon.
Following is the report of the special committee which, upon being adopted, shut out the marines:

To the Chairman and Members of the Honolulu Baseball League.

Gentlemen:—At the meeting held to consider the application of the Marine baseball team, held at 5 p. m., February 16, 1904, at the Elks' hall, were present the managers of the five teams, together with Lieut. Harlee, representative of the Marine baseball team. In the meeting Lieut. Harlee advanced the proposition as follows:

"The Marine baseball team be allowed to enter the League on equal footing with the other teams."

In discussion, the question of what interest the other teams already had in the grounds was met by another proposition, viz: That his team be allowed twelve months to pay in the amount already earned by the other teams, together with interest at eight per cent, and in case of failure to do so they were to forfeit their interest in the seventy per cent to be earned this year, which your committee thinks they are not in any way entitled to.

We met this proposition with a counter proposition to the effect that your committee would accept the application in accordance with their original proposition, which was that we guarantee them their actual expenses as they were not looking forward to entering the League as a money-making institution. Your committee went so far as to offer them the sum of three hundred dollars ($300), which was not favored by them.

Your committee therefore reports against the admission of the Marine baseball team to the Honolulu Baseball League.

WOODS NOT REFEREE

Neither Professor Bert Woods, of Woods Institute nor his brother Jess will referee the boxing contest next Saturday night. They both take a great interest in the game and would like to accommodate the public as well as the management of the Orpheum theatre, yet they feel that because of their business relations, it will be best for them to view the fight from the audience.

Weday has said that he is willing to referee the match and it is thought that he will be satisfactory to both of the principals. Weday is popular with the masses and he has never been known to do a dishonest thing in connection with boxing, so it is thought that he will be the man finally decided upon.

DRAWS COLOR LINE

Sliva, the Portuguese wonder with the rotary motion, who has been practicing with Dave Barry and therefore learning valuable points in the fist art, is certainly a diplomat, if his understanding of fighting etiquette is somewhat at fault.

An attempt was being made yesterday to match him with Ulysses Harris, the colored boxer. The question was put straight to him. After scratching his head for a moment, he waved his hand and said: "I draw the color line."

BENGAL WANTED HELP.

The vessels lying at Kaul ports loading sugar have been experiencing a very rough time during the recent storm.

The Star of Bengal, lying at Makena, must have been in some danger last Saturday night. It is reported that all hands wore life-preservers. The vessel also burned blue lights as a signal to the steamer Nihau to stand by her.

The Nihau was having troubles of her own, however, and had to stand out to sea.

The master, Captain Thompson, accordingly signalled back to the windjammer that he would do so but at a distance.

WORMWOOD

Editor Evening Bulletin:—Colonel Fitch concludes his humorous and somewhat original reflections "Aloha Hawaii" characteristically.

"Brilliant but bedraggled" would appropriately epitomize his biography. Time was when Leland Standford's golden glitter, so resonant, of profitable monopoly, jaundiced the vision of this rhetorical genius, as anon did other similar potential influences on divers occasions. His mind processes have given evidence of the same vacillation, as his corporeal migrations indicated unrest. Judged by these, his has been a purposeless life,—disappointing to self and friends. If Tom would give us the best thoughts derived of his experience, only, we could quite forgive, perhaps forget, the errors of wayward, selfish and ambitious youth.

But age should mellow one's philosophy no matter how refractory one's nature. Can it be possible that his views on labor are metallically tinted as of old? Is it method, or the bitterness born of madness with his perverse fate, with which old age has fixed this habit of perverting lofty, democratic ideals of thought. How unkind a fate!

To one who has followed the gyrations of the nomadic career of this patriarch eloquent closely, his word pictures are fraught with delightful suggestion, suggestive of better employment. But one never knows when he will stop over; pregnant with the daubing effects on some minor detail. While not absolutely destructive of the "tout ensemble" of the general subject, yet leaving an unpleasant impression,— suggestive of latent, senile, selfish corruption of instincts or spirit,—in one though brilliantly gifted, has probably never experienced sufficient serious contact with actual bread-winning to elevate and maintain his sublimer faculties, over a sordid perverted environment. He sees, so he writes, no cane-raising, minus oriental labor. No fur trade industry—but sugar. But he knows better,—that invention and human progress are immutable in fact as they are in law. Like a charred stump in the primeval forest, this honary veteran rears his seared but not serious scrawling deformities, to the sympathetic, regretful gaze of many erstwhile admirers; who love him for his better genius and personality; who would have rejoiced at his elevation to an exalted position on Fame's pedestal in his past higher plane of action; who realize that he has much of his pique to charge to his own cupidity and selfish indifference; and would now wish to see him possessed of better twilight wit; graced with more true sympathy for the substantial interests of the mass of his fellow-citizens,—more practical love for the fundamental preservation of those institutions of national happiness, which his eloquence has so often glorified, and burned with letters of undying patriotic fire, into the souls of more than one admirer.

And how Fame has coquetted with him:—how many times Fitch glanced longingly at its omnipresent yet illusive form; leaving this Maud Muller of the pioneer west, to warm his cockles with uncertain treadmill sympathy evoked by colossal, if not venal, toadyism—at the dull hearthstone of Croesus, whose gold might corrupt, but never appreciate—never compensate the sacrifice.

It is well that the circulation of some current local journalism is limited principally to those more or less conversant with facts; otherwise the evil thereof would be duplex. Nothing could be more puerile than to circulate this reckless and obvious sophistry and calumny in channels where mere words fall signally to conceal ulterior motives. But it is absolutely suicidal to add to the ever-increasing crop of minor malcontents and critics, the more important disgust of men of fine intellect and influence. The tacit approval of such journalism may seem innocuous, but is liable not only to prove a boomerang, but to bring the house down on its supporters.

Depend upon it, Colonel Fitch has a host of admirers, who, though discounting his warped views of detail, still, in a general way, respect his unbiased judgment, and pungent humor. Again it goes without saying that one sufficiently influential to secure appointment from an executive of opposite political faith, in carrying away from his judicial experiences a contempt and loathing for the prevailing provincial hog, is bearing a heaven of dangerous possibilities, only limited by the sphere of that influence and acquaintance which secured for him such exceptional preferment. Judge Galbraith has a host of mainland admirers, and not a few island friends, who, while not crediting him with superhuman attributes, believe in him and respect him. It would seem the motto of these assassins of reputation is the old frontier maxim, "No Indian so good as a dead Indian," and in order for the eminent malhith to attain the plaudits of the grafters' guild, it is necessary to go home in a casket draped with the American flag and post-mortem laurel wreaths. Thus does provincial conceits keep pace with insular perspicacity. The army of lesser lights who have felt the fangs with this poison and survived to reach home and friends, is a legion of growing dimensions, and if its influence is not appreciated now and is but indifferently respected, it nevertheless will be felt in the course of events.

Motherhood

MOTHERHOOD is the reward nature bestows upon healthy womanhood. Women whose vitality has been sapped by disease cannot safely give birth to children. In pregnancy and in childbirth weakness of the mother is revealed in the pain and agony she suffers.

This great medicine drives out every vestige of inflammation and weakness, and gives tone and strength to the delicate organs which nurture the child. The pains of pregnancy are banished by Wine of Cardui, and miscarriages, which blast so many fond mother's hopes, are prevented. Flooding, which so often occurs after childbirth, is corrected when Wine of Cardui is used during pregnancy.

Wine of Cardui babies are healthy babies, because, during the months of pregnancy, the mother is able to give them necessary vitality and strength.

With these facts presented to American women no expectant mother should be satisfied without the re-inforcement that Wine of Cardui will give her. Every mother should be able to treat herself in her home with this valuable medicine.

Wine of Cardui can be secured from any druggist at $1.00 a bottle.

I am the mother of seven children and while in pregnancy with the first six suffered untold misery until they were born. One month before the seventh was born I began to take a bottle of Wine of Cardui, which gave me relief after taking three doses. I used the remainder of the bottle until the birth of the child, and was stouter in three days after the birth than I was in a month after the birth of either of the first six. I am 29 years old.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 17, 1904.

The war has furnished Hawaii with one great benefit. The knockers' organ has turned its attention from the Promotion Committee.

This is the first day of Lent but the Advertiser still continues to print its beginnings as food for its steadily decreasing list of readers.

Contributions to the Japanese war fund open the eyes of the Hawaiian public on where the wealth of the Territory is and where a good share of it is going.

The day Japan's two new cruisers reached their home port, Russia has ten torpedo-boats frozen in at Vladivostok and three cruisers bottled up at Yonagamo. Luck always was with the successful.

Should the Republican committee decide to call the 1902 convention to name national convention delegates, they can depend on it, there will be a contesting delegation at Chicago to demand recognition of strict regularity.

Despite China's declaration of neutrality, the movement of a large army to Manchuria suggests a determination to have a force close at hand should the turn of events indicate the success of Japan. China has nothing to gain and much to lose through Russian ascendancy.

That test case in the Supreme Court to determine the legality of Treasury payments under old appropriation bills is of decidedly vital interest to the Treasurer. Should he wake up to the fact that what is illegal, his position would not be a pleasant one to say the least.

Not the least of Attorney General Andrews' duties in Washington will be to make an explanation to the legal authorities of the nation. An explanation of how Chief Justice Frear can declare himself qualified to pass on a case though his testimony under oath shows him to have been disqualified. This will be done presumably during the intervals in which his services are not required by the taxpayers.

Russia's continuous streak of hard luck makes one wonder whether the stories of official corruption in the Eastern provinces have an element of truth. There can be little doubt that Russia has spent money and given men liberally in establishing her Manchurian hold. The rapidity with which Japan is making breaches in the Russian defence indicates a decidedly weak spot somewhere. As fighters the Russians are not cowards.

Governor Carter has always had a leaning toward the advisability of appointing Hawaii's Governors from the mainland. His interviews have shown hesitation, however, at the thought of the appointments going to broken-down politicians. The small danger from this source is apparent in the character of men sent to other new possessions not yet arrived at Territorial dignity. The Governor can make no mistake in advising appointments made by the President in this Territory shall be open to any American citizen.

THE WAR DISPATCHES.

Discounting the accuracy of dispatches from the war has become a fad with some people who think they can display their own wisdom to better advantage by passing criticism on matters of which they know little or nothing. The favorite expression of the cheerful idiot is the supposition that the papers must have something to print, "so the correspondents make up something". The mental processes of a Chesshire cat would be a type of higher education to such as these. The likelihood of the highest-priced newspapermen in the world sending fiction at high-priced cable rates to their newspapers and newspaper association is so remote as to be not worth serious discussion.

The staff of writers now engaged in reporting this war represent the best newspapermen of two continents or, in other words, the news-gathering and reading world. Newspapers and magazines have men with both armies and with the naval forces of both combatants. These men are as near the theatre of action as it is possible for them to get. They are trained, capable, alert, all working with one end in view—to get the facts and put them on the wire as soon as possible.

This army of correspondents may be misled. They may not on each and every occasion have been on the ground and seen the troops defeated, counted the number lost, or been in the immediate range of a naval battle and able to name the men and the vessels lost beyond the possibility of a flaw. They must gather their news from a hundred and one sources, and sift as best possible the facts. It is safe to say, however, that these men are more competent to discern the truth than would be oracles thousands of miles distant. Nations at war do not operate for the express benefit of the newspaper correspondents or give their reports an easy route home. The South African war furnished a very recent example of this fact. It is a part of the correspondent's business to overcome these obstacles, and he does it.

In time of peace, the Orient, next to the Balkans, has always been the special field of inventors of pure fiction, operating under the name of correspondents. Such, however, is not the case in these times when the catch-penny docter has been replaced by men thoroughly equipped for their work. Attempts at discrediting the news-dispatches from these news-gatherers is the pastime of pigmies.

LANTANA AND HOPPER MUST GO

R. C. L. Perkins, entomologist under the Government, and the man who has succeeded in spreading far and wide the enemy of the lantana, announced to a Bulletin reporter today that he felt sure the leaf-hopper that is creating so much fear among the sugar men, can be completely annihilated. He had the following to say today:

"Prof. Koebel is now in the southern part of California and he is collecting different species of leaf-hopper parasites. A number of these have been sent to Honolulu and I am now raising them at my place. This process is proving very successful and I hope in a short time I will be able to set the leaf-hopper enemies free.

"There is a native species of parasite which is already doing excellent work on all the islands. Each female lays about a hundred eggs on a hopper so that besides killing this one insect, it lays plans for the destruction of a hundred more. The attack of a parasite is invariably sure death to a hopper.

"Of course, in order to make the destruction of the leaf-hopper in the islands complete, it is necessary to have a number of different species in order that all the climatic conditions that exist may be provided for.

"The leaf-hopper we have in the Islands is the same that is doing such damage to the cane crops in the Colonies. I do not know where we got our hoppers from. It is very likely they came from the Colonies.

"I do not think there is any need to fear the ravages of the leaf-hopper. I can say with absolute certainty that the pest can be eradicated in a short time."

Mr. Perkins had the following to say about the lantana destroyer which has been spread freely all over the islands: "The lantana destroyer has proved a great success. Only recently I received letters from three or four different ranches stating that there was not a seed to be found anywhere. Now, all that remains is to dig out the old plants and there will be no more lantana. Even this may be unnecessary in the future, for I notice that the parasites intended particularly for the destruction of the stalks are getting in their deadly work.

"So far as the experiment is concerned, it has proved most successful and the destroyers are firmly established. There is no need for any further work. The insects have been spread far and wide all over the islands and they are doing their work in fine shape.

"I am not certain regarding the time of arrival here of Prof. Koebel but there is now no hurry about his return. He was sent for to come back in a hurry but this order was countermanded and he is now spending his time collecting leaf-hopper parasites."

had been but a few minutes in the clerk's office when the word was passed that Federal Judge Dole desired audience with the new found lovers of government by, of and for the people. Deputy Clerk Hatch informed the Portuguese that the judge would have speech with them.

This was not expected, apparently, for there was immediately much buzzing of conversation. The little crowd adjourned to the hallway, outside the ponderous door of the judge's chambers and awaited further instructions.

Soon Clerk Hatch appeared and picked out the best-dressed man in the bunch and led him within, closing the door behind him. The remaining eleven stood anxiously outside.

Soon the first to enter returned to his comrades. His face was a study. Surprise and disappointment were plainly written there. His fellows crowded round and thrust quick, anxious questions at the forlorn one. None knew who might next be called. All yearned to know what had passed within, what questions had been asked, what answers made.

Costa—J. F. Costa is his name—told his story.

Costa repeated what he had said for the benefit of an English-speaking inquirer.

"The Judge, he ask me how long I come to this country. I tell him twenty-three years. He say: 'You like to be American citizen to get back the job on the road or because you love the flag too much?' I speak to the Judge that I want to get back the job. Then the Judge say, 'I'm afraid you cannot be a citizen now. I don't know what to say, so I come out. Maybe I speak wrong; I don't know.'"

Some of the party told Costa that he should not have said he wanted citizenship for the sake of the job, but Costa said he had answered with the truth—"Maybe I speak wrong. I don't know; nobody tell me how to speak."

Warned by Costa that they must not love the job better than the flag, Costa's friends had the opportunity of suiting their speech to the demands of the occasion. If they so desired, but Judge Dole called no others for examination.

Antone Barao, Antone Olivara and Manuel Martins stated that they would make application for citizenship. The cases of the others are pending. They may be examined later.

Judge Dole was seen. The Judge stated that he had deemed it wise to examine some of the men who had been discharged from the road department and who wanted to be citizens, to ascertain whether or not the desire to get back to work or a deep attachment to American principles was the motive prompting their applications. He examined one or two the other day. They then stated that they were anxious to get their jobs back. They did not seem to have any noticeable appreciation of what citizenship meant. A man who wanted to be a citizen merely to get a job was not, on general principles, very desirable material for citizenship. The law contemplated an attachment to American principles in a man applying to become a citizen. In one or two cases previously examined by the Judge, although the men were anxious to be qualified to work for the Government, they had several years ago manifested a sincere desire to become citizens. Their cases were different from that of the man whose sole idea in becoming a citizen was to get a job.

It was remarked by an observer in the hallway that one who had lived here twenty-three years, if he was earnestly looking to citizenship, would not have waited till he lost a Government job before applying for citizenship. It will be remembered that Road Supervisor Johnson, upon assuming office, asked the Attorney General's Department for an opinion as to the employment of citizen labor on public works. The answer was that the law contemplated only the employment of citizens or those eligible to become citizens. Johnson acted on this opinion and discharged a number of road workers who were not citizens and whose eligibility was in doubt. Some of the dozen above referred to may eventually prove themselves eligible. Costa has worked nine years on the road, is a man of family, thirty-two years of age, and lives on Punehowl. He has never before thought of becoming an American.

It was an exhibition well worthy the price of admission. It is expected that both men will be on their feet at the end of the fifteenth round and that the referee will be forced to give a decision on the points scored. A hot time is anticipated.

MAGOON DISCUSSES THE DAVIS BRIEF

Editor Evening Bulletin:—Realizing the distressing position of George A. Davis, I would not say anything with reference to his matters now pending except that he has seen fit to say of me, in a brief, as published in your issue of yesterday, the following: "The only evidence against me is Magoon's, who seeks to make me responsible for his acts". To anyone not understanding this matter it would appear that I am maliciously pursuing Mr. Davis. Nothing, however, could be further from the truth. When on the witness-stand in the Supreme Court, I refused to testify until ordered so to do by the Court, and at the same time Mr. Davis said, "I have no objections to the witness stating everything that occurred". All that I said before the U. S. District Court in my direct testimony has never been denied by Mr. Davis, but on the other hand has been frankly admitted by him, and he seemed to place so much reliance on my testimony that he made me his witness on matters which he considered very important in his defense. When Mr. Davis took the stand and testified in the last-named court, that he signed the agreement fixing the amount of the fees in the Robert-Summer suit, without knowing the contents of the agreement, I felt obliged to contradict him. I did not produce this agreement. He produced it himself from a drawer where he claims to have placed it, and had forgotten all about it during the hearing on his disbarment proceedings in the Supreme Court. Mr. Davis could have but one of two motives in producing this agreement on his motion for a rehearing in the Supreme Court, after the trial of his matter in that court had been entirely completed—first, to benefit himself; second, to injure me. If he expected to benefit himself by the production of this agreement he must have known the contents of it; otherwise, how could he benefit by it? If he had not known the contents of it when it was signed by him it could be by no possibility assist him; neither could it do him any harm; and he should not have brought it forth from its hiding-place. It would have no bearing on the case one way or the other. While I do not wish to deny that Mr. Davis forgot about this agreement during the hearing on the disbarment proceedings in the Supreme Court, it seems very strange, to say the least, that a man of the intelligence and legal training of Mr. Davis could have overlooked a matter of such importance as the signing of an agreement which could have but one object, and that was to reduce to writing the terms of employment between himself and his clients. If, on the other hand, his motive was to drag me down with him, it was a most natural thing for him to keep the existence of this agreement concealed until after the trial was ended, and if he escaped punishment, well and good; for then he would have the benefit of not having produced it; but if he was adjudged guilty he could then bring it forth with the hope that it would embarrass me. While I was, and am, perfectly willing to take every part of the responsibility that I am under with reference to this agreement, I was not willing for Mr. Davis to say, unconfronted, that he signed it without knowing full well every word it contained, and to this extent only is my testimony opposed to him, and on a matter brought out entirely by himself.

LAZARRE

MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD

(Based Upon the Mystery Surrounding the Fate of the Dauphin, Son of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette)

Copyright, 1901, by the BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

CHAPTER XVIII.

Blackness surrounded the post carriage in which I awoke, and it seemed to stand in a tunnel that was alive at one end. Two huge trees, branches and all, were burning on a big hearth, stones glowing under them, and figures with long beards in black robes passed between the and the fire, stirring a caldron. I ever witches' brewing was seen it looked like that.

The last eclipse of mind had come upon me without any rending and tearing in the head, and facts returned clearly and distinctly. I saw the black robed figures were Jews cooking supper at a large fireplace, and we had driven upon the brick floor of a post house which had a door nearly the size of a gable. At that end spread a ghostly film of open land, forest and sky. I lay stretched upon cushions as well as the vehicle would permit, and was aware by a shadow which came between me and the Jews that Skenedonk stood at the step.

"What are you about?" I spoke, with a rush of chagrin, sitting up. "Are we on the road to Paris?"

"Yes," he answered.

"You have made a mistake, Skenedonk."

"No mistake," he maintained. "Wait until I bring you some supper. After supper we can talk."

"Bring the supper at once then, for I am going to talk now."

"Are you quite awake?"

"Quite awake. How long did it last this time?"

"Two days."

"We are not two days' journey out of Mittau?"

"Yes."

"Well, when you have horses put in tomorrow morning turn them back to Mittau."

Skenedonk went to the gigantic hearth, and one of the Jews ladled him out a bowlful of the caldron stew, which he brought to me.

The stuff was not offensive, and I was hungry. He brought another bowlful for himself, and we ate as we had often done in the woods. The fire shone on his bald pate and gave out the liquid lights of his fawn eyes.

"I have made a fool of myself in Mittau, Skenedonk."

"Why do you want to go back?"

"Because I am not going to be thrown out of the palace without a hearing."

"What is the use?" said Skenedonk. "The old fat chief will not let you stay. He doesn't want to hear you talk. He wants to be king himself."

"Did you see me sprawling on the floor like the idiot?"

"Not like the idiot. Your face was down."

"Did you see the duchess?"

"Yes."

"What did she do?"

"Nothing. She leaned on the women, and they took her away."

"Tell me all you saw."

"When you went in to hold council, I watched and saw a priest and Belenger and the boy that God had touched all go in after you. So I knew the council would be bad for you, Lazarre, and I stood by the door with my knife in my hand. When the talk had gone on awhile I heard something like the dropping of a buck on the ground and sprang in, and the men drew their swords and the women screamed. The priest pointed at you and said, 'God has smitten the pretender!' Then they all went out of the room except the priest, and we opened your collar. I told him you had fallen like that before and the stroke passed off in sleep. He said your carriage waited, and if I valued your safety I would put you in it and take you out of Russia. He called servants to help me carry you. I thought about your jewels, but some drums began to beat and I thought about your life."

"But, Skenedonk, didn't my sister—the lady I led by the hand, you remember—speak to me again, or look at me, or try to revive me?"

"No. She went away with the women carrying her."

"She believed in me—at first! Before I said a word she knew me! She wouldn't leave me merely because her uncle and a priest thought me an impostor! She is the tenderest creature on earth, Skenedonk—she is more like a saint than a woman!"

"Some saints on the altar are blind and deaf," observed the Aneldi. "I think she was sick."

"I have nearly killed her! And I have been tumbling out of Mittau as a pretender!"

"You are here. Get some men to fight, and we will go back."

"What a stroke—to lose my senses at the moment I needed them most!"

"You kept your scalp."

"And not much else. No! If you refuse to follow me, and wait here at this post house, I am going back to Mittau!"

"I go where you go," said Skenedonk. "But best go to sleep now."

I took my fists in my hands and swore to force recognition if I battered a lifetime on Mittau.

At daylight our post horses were put to the chaise, and I gave the postilion orders myself. The little fellow bowed himself nearly double and said that the troops were moving behind us to join the allied forces against Napoleon.

"Very well," I said. "Take the road to France."

We met August rains. We were bogged. A bridge broke under us. We dodged Austrian troops. It seemed even then a fated thing that a Frenchman should retreat ignominiously from Russia.

However, I knew my friend the marquis expected me to return defeated. He gave me my opportunity as a child is indulged with a dangerous plaything—to teach it caution.

He would be in his chateau of Plessey, cutting off two days' posting to Paris. And after the first sharp pangs of chagrin and shame at losing the fortune he had placed in my hands, I looked forward with impatience to our meeting.

"We have nothing, Skenedonk," I exclaimed the first time there was occasion for money on the road. "How have you been able to post? The money and the jewel case are gone."

"We have two bags of money and the snuffbox," said the Oneldi. "I hid them in the post carriage."

"But I had the key of the jewel case."

"You are a good sleeper," responded Skenedonk.

I blessed him heartily for his forethought, and he said if he had known I was a fool he would not have told me we carried the jewel case into Russia. I dared not let myself think of Mme. de Ferrier. The plan of buying back her estate, which I had nurtured in the bottom of my heart, was now more remote than America.

One bag of coin was spent in Paris, but three remained there with Dr. Chantry. We had money, though the more valuable treasure stayed in Mittau.

In the sloping hills and green vines of Champagne we were no longer harassed dodging troops and slept the last night of our posting at Epernay. Taking the road early next morning, I began to watch for Plessey too soon without forecasting that I was not to set foot within its walls.

We came within the marquis' boundaries upon a little goose girl knitting beside her flock. Her bright hair was bound with a woolsen cap. Delicious grass and the shadow of an oak under which she stood were not to be resisted, so I sent the carriage on. She looked open mouthed after Skenedonk and bobbed her dutiful, frightened courtesy at me.

The marquis' peasants were by no means under the influence of the empire, as I knew from observing the lad whom he had sought among the drowned in the mortuary chapel of the Hotel Dieu and who was afterward found in a remote wine shop seeing sighs. The goose girl dared not speak to me unless I required it of her, and the unusual notice was an honor she would have avoided.

"What do you do here?" I inquired. Her little heart palpitated in the answer. "Oh, guard the geese."

"Is the Marquis du Plessey at the chateau?"

Her face grew shaded, as a cloud chases sunlight before it across a meadow. "Do you mean the new marquis, the old marquis' cousin, monsieur? He went away directly after the burial."

"What burial?"

Republicans And Their Methods.

Editor Evening Bulletin:—The Republican Central Committee seems to be up against it. There is nothing for it to do but own up to an irregularity and begin over again. It is to be regretted that this should be the finish of Senator Crabbe's party management, for he has worked hard and faithfully since assuming the chairmanship, and can retire with a full consciousness of having attended strictly to his duties. But the Senator was not entirely to blame in the matter, for all of those who voted for the admission into the executive councils of the party were equally reprehensible when they opened their doors to Messrs. Gilman, Hoogs, Boyd or Aylett.

That Senator Crabbe disagreed with the ruling of the committee to which the mooted question was referred is surprising, for he has repeatedly expressed himself as being well aware that irregularity had existed in the constitution of the executive committee. When he states that there are only five members of the Territorial Central Committee, living in Oahu, who can constitute an executive he errs grievously. For instance, there are Messrs. Coney, Crabbe, Winston, Vida, Watkins, Jones, Parker, Renton, Ashley, Keene, Pahia and Goodale. Every one of these is available for executive work and all are within reach of Honolulu. And there may be others.

Any amendment to the rules that may now be passed by the Central committee cannot possibly be retroactive, and will have no bearing whatever upon the case of Mr. Wilson. It is useless, therefore, for the executive to keep postponing the evil day when they must acknowledge that they have erred. Better be honest about it and take the dose of medicine like men. On the other hand, Mr. Wilson can have no possible redress other than that which he already possesses, viz: a knowledge that he has been the means of exposing wrong methods among the party leaders.

When considering the amendment offered by Mr. Norman Watkins, it might be well to consider a further amendment to the effect that no Territorial or Federal office holder shall be a member of either the Central or Executive committees. Their own actions may be, as in the case of Mr. Wilson, the subject of criticism or examination, therefore the wisdom of their exclusion from committee membership is at once apparent.

One more point for consideration is the need for establishing Republicanism and Republican principles in the party in Hawaii. At present there is a sad lack of them. The idea of the committee being a mere figurehead to endorse candidates for office at the dictation of the Governor is ridiculous and absurd, and a system in vogue in no other state or territory in the United States. Again, the inauguration of the spoils system in road building is so contrary to all Republican ideas of civil service reform, and so opposed to all the doctrines set forth by President Roosevelt—doctrines that brought him into public power and prominence—as to be astounding.

As at present constituted the Republican party's government is simply of the people by one man power, and contrary to every known policy of the party as it has existed on the mainland for forty years. And a word on "honest elections" will be in order some day.

There is big need for a change in the principles, methods and management of the so-called Republican party in Hawaii at the present time. And the sooner it comes the better. I am,

A STRAIGHT REPUBLICAN.

A SMART TURBAN

This is a favorite shape, and is seen in innumerable materials and combinations. The model is in green velvet, with white wool lace puffed over pale green silk. The top is of the velvet draped, the gaura feather fan is white, set into a green shaded wing, the stem of the fan, encased in a quill, passing through the same material as the suit they are worn with.

A RAPID TRANSIT EPISODE.

This morning about half past ten, a tall lady with a half-sized husband, boarded a King street car. The lady was wearing her husband on her right hand, when they entered the husband looked up, and said to his wife: "You're tall enough to reach a strap, but what can I hold," she said, "If I was as short as you are, I'd hold my tongue," so he took hold of his tongue, the car started and he fell down, whereupon his dutiful spouse hollored, "What's the matter, can't you stand up?" Said hubby, "They both slipped." "Both what," said the wife, "Both my feet and my tongue," said the little husband, but let's get off the car and go and see Bath the plumber and have a look at that new line of Douglas Patent Closets that have just arrived. His telephone is 61 Main.

CLAIM SUICIDE WAS CAUSED BY CRUELTY

Libel in admiralty was yesterday afternoon filed in Federal court against the British bark Ivanhoe, Geo. W. Grant, master, by W. B. Dyer, A. Anderson, J. H. Bayer and V. A. Bitner, who state that they are American citizens and mariners. Attorneys A. S. Humphreys, A. H. Crook and J. J. Dunne are proctors for the libellants. London is the home port of the Ivanhoe. On June 26, last, the vessel was at Port Townsend, destined therefrom to the port of Iquique.

Anderson and Dyer were shipped at $20 per month and Bayer and Bitner at $7.50 per month. The vessel was to return to a final port of discharge in the United States (Hawaiian Islands excepted).

The allegation proceeds to state: "That the contract of hiring and employment is now wholly terminated by reason of the constant, repeated and general cruelty, inhumanity and ill-usage exercised and exerted by the officers of said bark, upon and toward these libellants, and each of them. And in this behalf, these libellants show that ever since said bark departed from said port of Port Townsend, at frequent recurring intervals, these libellants were, and each of them was, subjected to cruel and inhuman treatment by said officers of said bark; that said libellants were, and each of them was, repeatedly and systematically beaten and kicked, and continually subjected to vile and profane language and abuse by said officers of said ship."

"These libellants show that they are not able to state with particularity all the precise times and occasions when they, and each of them, were so beaten and abused, for the reason that said cruelty and abuse was continuous and frequently recurrent; and in this behalf these libellants show that so brutal was the treatment of the crew of said bark, by the officers thereof, that upon the arrival of said bark at said port of Iquique one of said crew preferred to commit suicide, and did in fact commit suicide, rather than continue any longer in the service of said bark."

"These libellants further show that the treatment which they, and each of them, received during the passage from said Iquique to the port of Honolulu was not so cruel or inhuman as the treatment they received between said Port Townsend and said Iquique; but, in this behalf, these libellants show that the chief mate of said bark frequently threatened during said passage from said Iquique to said port of Honolulu, that upon the departure of said bark from Honolulu he would resume the cruelty and inhumanity and ill-usage to which said crew had been subjected while on the passage from said port of Port Townsend to said Iquique, and threatened to continue in said cruelty and inhumanity even to the extent of taking the lives of more than one of said crew. And, in this behalf, these libellants show that, by reason of said cruelty, inhumanity and ill-usage, by reason of the aforesaid threats of a member of said crew, and by reason of the aforesaid threats of aforesaid chief mate of said bark, they are, and each of them is, in fear and dread for their lives should they continue said voyage in said bark."

Dyer and Anderson each claim $136.64 as wages due; Bayer claims $113.34 and Bitner, $118.34. They also claim damages which, with the wages amount as follows: Dyer and Anderson, each $458.72, Bayer $395.16 and Bitner $400.16, together with expenditures which they have to make during the litigation.

No criminal action could be brought for the reason that the vessel is of British ownership and the United States penal statutes referring to cruelty to sailors apply only where American ships are concerned.

A SECOND STORM SAYS LYDECKER

R. C. Lydecker, Territorial Meteorologist, stated to a Bulletin reporter today that the present weather is undoubtedly the result of a second storm following very close on the heels of the first. On Sunday there was every indication that the first storm had passed away and that a period of good weather was about to ensue. On Monday morning this whole thing changed, the wind going back to the southward. The weather now is as uncertain as it was last week and there is absolutely no sign of an abatement of the present disagreeable state. The wind is still from the southward and the barometer persists in remaining down. The first indication of a change will be when the wind shifts to the westward.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

On account of the inclemency of the weather yesterday there was a very small attendance at the meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the parlors of Central Union Church.

It was reported that the plan for placing a W. C. T. U. drinking fountain at the Central Union Church corner was progressing. The cost would be about $75.

An endless chain card was presented relating to a movement against the cigarette habit. The member who presented the card stated that her attention had been called to it on the ground that it was spurious. She had so advised the lady who had sent her a card urging her to notify four of her friends. The card was as follows:

A National League has been formed against the cigarette habit, and a mammoth petition is to be sent to Congress, containing clause and address, that a law shall be passed, prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors. Will you please send a copy of this card to four of your women friends, signed by yourself, and this card to M. S. Coval Society, Philadelphia, Pa., enclosed write your address. Do not fail to do this, otherwise the chain would be broken, and the object for which this is written would be defeated. No money asked for. Please be prompt.
