HAWAIIAN TOPICS ABLY PRESENTED AT LAKE MOHONK

Congressman Lilley of Connecticut Gives Impressions of Visit—Dr. Emerson and Mr. Lewis of Honolulu Deliver Addresses.

"Students of political economy and institutional and political history agree that a nation's welfare ultimately requires that her peoples and her products be carried in domestic ships. The development of this nation's commercial relations and the maintenance of her power upon the Pacific Ocean in the next ten years will make Hawaii's history for the next century. Viewing the situation as it exists today on the Pacific, it would seem as if American shipping will not only never dominate but on the contrary will gradually disappear from these waters."

"Hawaii's earnest desire is that no hostile legislation be enacted, but that every encouragement should be given to prevent the merchant flag of the United States from becoming a curio rare enough for the Smithsonian Institution."—Attorney Abraham Lewis Jr., of Honolulu at the Mohonk Conference.

Herewith are presented three addresses on Hawaiian subjects, delivered at the twenty-fifth annual Lake Mohonk Conference of Friends of the Indian and Other Dependent Peoples, 1907. They are by Dr. N. B. Emerson, a leading Hawaiian scholar; Congressman Lilley of Connecticut, a member of the lately visiting Congressional party, and A. Lewis Jr., a prominent member of the Hawaiian bar.

MR. LEWIS ON HAWAII AND THE SHIP SUBSIDY

A. Lewis, Jr., the well-known attorney of Honolulu, spoke on "Hawaii and the American Ship Subsidy."

Mr. Lewis said in part: The Territory of Hawaii, situated at the crossroads of the Pacific Ocean, must necessarily depend entirely upon ocean carriers as a means of transportation and personal communication with the mainland of the United States and the ports of the world. The advancement of the American merchant marine is consequently a subject of vital interest to the islanders.

Students of political economy and institutional and political history agree that a nation's welfare ultimately requires that her peoples and her products be carried in domestic ships. The development of this nation's commercial relations and the maintenance of her power upon the Pacific Ocean in the next ten years will make Hawaii's history for the next century. Viewing the situation as it exists today on the Pacific, it would seem as if American shipping will not only never dominate, but, on the contrary, will gradually disappear from these waters.

The conditions which prevail in the port of Honolulu are typical of the status of American ships on the world's greatest ocean. Through the chief port of the Hawaiian Islands pass the three steamers of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, the Japanese line, engaged in the trade with the Orient, the acknowledged greatest open developing market of the day. Another foreign country sends through four steamers of the Canadian-Australian line to carry the trade of Australia, New Zealand and the islands of the South Pacific. From Great Britain and the colonial governments this latter line receives an annual subsidy of $320,000. Any American line competing with the Toyo Kisen Kaisha enters into an unequal contest. The Japanese Government pays to these three steamers a subsidy of $660,000 per annum. Add to the benefit of the subsidy the fact that the operating expenses of a Japanese steamer are very much less than an American vessel, and the advantages in favor of the Japanese boat are plainly apparent.

The United States can no longer deceive herself by attempting to ignore the facts. The nation today faces a serious situation on the Pacific Coast. With the acquisition of Hawaii and the Philippines, we have a far greater coast line on the Pacific than is possessed by any other nation. We should and could control the commerce of the greatest ocean. Japan in the last fifty years has come from semi-barbarism and taken a place among the great powers of the world. She is gradually dominating the Pacific. Her ships go into every port of that ocean. Every one of her steamship lines is enormously subsidized. A new steamship company has this year been formed in Japan with an instantly available capital of $15,000,000. Of this sum, $10,000,000 is to be spent according to its financial program on the construction of new ships. Japanese plans include steamer connections with Central Europe and the opening of a line between Hongkong and Chile, touching at ports in Japan. The latter steamers will carry Chinese and Japanese coolies and general laborers to South American States and return with cargoes of nitrate of soda and other South American products to China and Japan. It is fair to infer that South American governments and Japan will finally arrange treaties in their mutual interest.

Japanese lines are now carrying many tons of the exports and imports of the United States. History presents a striking picture. America through Perry and others was the discoverer of commercial Japan. Today Commercial America finds herself the discoverer of Japan. The commerce of foreign countries bordering the Pacific last year was more than $3,000,000,000. Who will secure the prize or the largest share of it? Japan, with her subsidized steamship lines, or America, with a large navy and a lethargy in her merchant marine? Japan is bidding for the honor with commendable zeal. Within the last year she has negotiated for the purchase of almost every first-class American ship on the Pacific. With her subsidized lines and cheaper operated steamers, it is only a question of time before our ships must be sold or go under a foreign flag. If American ships can be purchased, the markets by them developed are either captured or destroyed. With Japan entirely dominating the Pacific, the position of Hawaii situated at its center is easily foreseen. She will become the special object of attack. It must necessarily be the policy of any foreign nation, commercially or otherwise, to weaken her strong strategic position and prevent and stifle in every possible manner the development of American institutions and trade.

On all sides movements are made to divert American trade to foreign lines and American influence is becoming either narrowly circumscribed or actually forced out of its established channels. In searching for foreign mail subsidies in the Pacific, we find that the British Government is paying for her mail lines to Asia and Australia, $1,700,000 to the Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company and in addition $300,000 to the Canadian Pacific Company. The German Government for its service to Asia and Australia pays the North German Lloyd Company $1,320,000. The French Government pays the Messageries Maritimes Steamship Company for its services to Asia and Australia $1,666,800. The committee in Congress before whom the recent mail subsidy was presented, ascertained that ships sailing under European flags pay about one-half, and those sailing under Japanese flags pay between one-third and one-half, the wages that American ships pay. It costs between 40 and 75 per cent. more to build a ship in this country.

The Oceanic Steamship Company, which was formerly engaged in the Australian service, but was forced out of the trade by lack of a subsidy, or any other line which may hereafter undertake this Australian service, must run in competition with one French, one German, one Japanese and three British vessels, all of which are highly subsidized. With all the foreign nations paying subsidies, the United States should protect her merchant marine by a generous subsidy.

The principle of subsidy is not a new or novel one with the American people. By many millions of subsidy we are building great systems of irrigation touching at ports in Japan. The lat-

TAYLOR AND LANGDON WIN BY SUBSTANTIAL MAJORITIES

LOCAL PEOPLE IN WASHINGTON

Jos. Cooke Much Impressed With Changes—Satisfaction Over Bonds.

(Mail Special to the Advertiser.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 25.—An unusual number of well-known Honoluluans have been in Washington this week. They have rendezvoused generally at the Willard Hotel, where they have had several very pleasant meetings. Last night they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George B. McClellan at dinner, where they met Mr. and Mrs. Asher Hinds, the former being the parliamentarian of the House and one of Speaker Cannon's trusted officials.

Mr. Joseph P. Cooke, former Judge F. M. Hatch, Treasurer and Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mr. L. T. Peck, and former Judge Stanley comprise this party of visitors. Judge Hatch and Mr. Cooke have been calling upon friends about town. Both will leave soon. Judge Hatch to return in a short time for the winter. He and Mrs. Hatch will live at Stoneleigh Court, where they had apartments last year. Judge Hatch has been unable to attend the Lake Mohonk Conference, but sent a written address there to be read.

Mr. Cooke had very satisfactory meetings with Secretary Garfield and also with Secretary Straus. These visits were largely social but territorial affairs were touched upon in a general way. Mr. Cooke has not been in Washington since he was in Wash.

PROPHET FOR OPEN DOOR

The Latter Day Saints Leader Stands for Admission of Chinese.

Speaking not only as a teacher and a preacher, but as a prophet, and as one prophesying of Hawaii, President Joseph Smith of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the anti-polygamites, he who is the son of the Prophet Joseph Smith, last night told a representative of the Advertiser that Hawaii has a serious problem to face in the consideration of the assimilation of races. He referred to the exclusion of Chinese from the United States as an injustice not only against the race, but against the country as a whole and against these Hawaiian Islands in particular, inasmuch as here in this wonderful little arena of the Pacific is the working-out ground of the amalgamative forces which will have much to do with influencing the tendency of the nation in the handling of the cosmopolites who enter America through the Hawaiian portal.

"I believe," said President Smith, and there was that earnestness in his every word which carried assurance of the sincerity of his speech, "that a great mistake has been made in excluding the Chinese from the United States, and since I have had the opportunity of carefully studying conditions here, I have become more convinced here, I have become more convinced here, I have become more convinced here."

DEMOCRATS CARRY DAY IN RHODE ISLAND

(Associated Press Cablegrams.)

PROVIDENCE, Rhode Island, November 6.—The Democratic nominee for Governor has again been elected.

ANTI-MORMON TICKET WINS IN SALT LAKE

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, November 6.—The American party ticket, the anti-Mormons, have again carried the municipal elections.

BRYAN'S STATE STAYS IN REPUBLICAN LIST

LINCOLN, Nebraska, November 6.—In the municipal elections throughout this state the Republican candidates have carried the day.

CINCINNATI MAYOR REPUBLICAN.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, November 6.—Markbreit, the Republican candidate for the mayoralty, has been elected.

INDEPENDENTS CARRY TOLEDO.

TOLEDO, Ohio, November 6.—Whitlock, the Independent candidate, has been elected Mayor.

SMALL MENTION OF HAWAII BY MOHONK CONFERENCE

"7. We recommend that the application of the Coastwise Shipping Act be permanently suspended with reference to the Philippines, and that Congress give serious attention to legislation necessary to relieve Hawaii from the disadvantages which this law imposes, and encourage the industrial development of Porto Rico."

So reads the seventh clause of the recommendations with which the platform of the twenty-fifth annual Lake Mohonk Conference of Friends of the Indian and Other Dependent Peoples concludes.

Most of the platform is devoted to the Philippines. It advocates "a radical reduction of duties" on products of the Philippine Islands, increased aid to education in that archipelago, even to the extent of "direct appropriation" if necessary, and the encouragement of the naturalization of "a large number of persons" in the Philippine Islands.

Laborites Swept Out of Power in San Francisco---Results in Many States.

(Associated Press Cablegrams.)

SAN FRANCISCO, November 6.—Edward Robeson Taylor, Democrat, the nominee of the Democrat and Good Government League, was elected yesterday to succeed himself as Mayor of San Francisco, beating Ryan, the Republican nominee, and McCarthy, the candidate of the Labor Union party, by an estimated majority of ten thousand votes. Besides the regular nominees of the Democratic, Republican and Labor Union parties, the Socialists had nominated a candidate for mayor, Ernest L. Requin.

LANGDON WINS EASILY.

William H. Langdon, candidate for District Attorney, named on the Democrat and Good Government League ticket and the Republican ticket, swept the polls, winning over Frank McGowan, the Union Labor candidate, by fifteen thousand majority.

LABORITES DOWN AND OUT.

Harry I. Mulcrevy, the Union Laborite candidate for County Clerk, is the only one of his ticket that will probably be elected. The other executive officers, supervisors and county officials elected are from Democratic or Ryan tickets.

NEW JERSEY GOES OVER TO DEMOCRATS

TRENTON, New Jersey, November 6.—The Democratic candidate for governor is leading in the elections in this state and is probably elected.

The present Governor, Edward C. Stokes, is a Republican, elected in 1905. In the presidential elections of 1904, the Republican majority of the state was over eighty thousand.

MASSACHUSETTS STILL REPUBLICAN.

BOSTON, November 6.—The State of Massachusetts yesterday elected the Republican nominee in the election for state offices.

In the election of 1906 the Republican majority in this State was over thirty thousand, and in the presidential election of 1904 the majority for Roosevelt was over ninety thousand.

HEARST FUSIONISTS CARRY NEW YORK STATE

NEW YORK, November 6.—The Fusion ticket, composed of the Hearst Democrats and the Republicans have carried New York State outside of New York City, electing the majority of the state officers.

In New York City the Tammany candidates have won.

RESULTS IN MARYLAND ARE STILL IN DOUBT

BALTIMORE, Maryland, November 6.—The result of the election in this state is in doubt. The vote is running very close.

In the last election for Governor of Maryland, Edwin Warfield, Democrat, was elected by a very small majority.

KEYSTONE STATE REMAINS TRUE.

PHILADELPHIA, November 6.—Republicans have carried almost everything in the elections for state offices. In the presidential elections of 1904 Roosevelt's plurality was five hundred and five thousand, the greatest plurality received by him in anyone state, one-fifth of his popular majority over Parker.

REPUBLICANS GAIN IN ONE SOUTHERN STATE

LOUISVILLE, Kentucky, November 6.—The results of the state elections here show substantial Republican gains.

JOHNSON WINS IN CLEVELAND.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, November 6.—Tom Johnson, the Democratic candidate for mayor, has been elected with a majority of seven thousand over ex-Congressman Burton, the regular Republican candidate.

HAWAIIAN TOPICS ABLY PRESENTED

tion. We have paid a subsidy of $470,000 to the rivers and harbors of the country. At the rate of $40,000,000, that subsidy is continued each year. The last Congress appropriated $82,000,000 to improve our harbors and rivers, the largest benefit of which will flow to ships flying the foreign flag. We are not willing to subsidize our ships to reap the benefit of our subsidized harbors, but prefer that they be utilized by the subsidized ships of foreign nations. Subsidies were voted to prevent the overflow of the Mississippi and to maintain the Jamestown Exposition. Through the Department of Agriculture millions are paid in the nature of subsidies to farming. The rural free delivery of the Postal Department is virtually subsidized to the extent of millions each year. The newspapers and magazines throughout the country by the rates given them as second-class matter in fact receive a large subsidy. The great work of building the Panama Canal, carrying with it an expenditure of $400,000,000, is a grand subsidy. Unless some measure of relief is granted the American merchant marine, when that great waterway is constructed, the flag of the United States will not be seen on many merchant vessels passing through it. If the American merchant marine is not born again, the Panama Canal may serve Japan and other foreign nations far better than the United States. The tiny silver chord drawing together the arms of the two great oceans places Hawaii in direct line of travel between the Occident and the Orient, making it a natural port of call. A great boon will be conferred upon the islands if that carrying trade is performed largely by American vessels, purchasing American supplies, and developing an American guard and outpost which will in turn protect its mainland protector.

A subsidy granted by Congress to be effective should call for a high grade of service. No cargo subsidy is required. Steamship companies alive to their own interest will provide the requisite cargo capacity. The form of a mail subsidy, calling for excellent mail and passenger service, should produce the desired result. Distances today are largely relative. Commercial interests demand speedy and comfortable means of transportation. No subsidy should be given for slow boats. The subsidy should be large enough to procure fast vessels and permit of exacting and severe terms for the strict performance of the objects sought to be obtained. The speedy passage of the mails should be enforced not by Postoffice regulation but by terms and provisions in the act itself. A failure to arrive on a fast schedule time should be penalized with a forfeiture of a certain amount of the subsidy. As one of the objects of the subsidy should be the development of American territory in the Pacific, provision should be made for reservations for Hawaiian and Philippine Island passengers. It was stated this last year in debate in Congress that the present Philippine policy has cost the United States government $700,000,000. The army transport service is a part of this expense. Provision might be made that the steamship line which would engage in a route running from San Francisco via Hawaii, Yokohama, Hongkong to Manila, or any other route by way of Hawaii, might carry our soldiers as well as army and other government supplies. The line would thus be performing a double government service and would provide a stable communication by means of American vessels between American territory bordering on the Pacific.

Subsidy regulations should provide for such structure and type of vessels as would render them available for auxiliary cruisers, transports or otherwise as a naval reserve in time of war. Russia, Japan, Germany and the United States by the expenditure of enormous sums of money had of recent years been considered as possessing great navies. Russia was classed as a great naval power at the beginning of her war with Japan, but though she had vessels, she did not have a merchant marine to support them or from which to draw sailors to man them. Russia is the only nation on earth except the United States that committed the fatal blunder of trying to build a great navy without at the same time building a great merchant marine to support it. Her humiliating defeat, her seized and sunken ships present by tragic picture her irremediable mistake. United States is as helpless today as was Russia in the days of the Russo-Japanese war. An object lesson is about to be placed before the American people when they will this winter witness the inability of the American navy to perform a fleet maneuver from the Atlantic to the Pacific without the employment in tonnage of foreign bottoms to carry the necessary coal and other supplies, our merchant marine being entirely inadequate for the purpose. In time of war circumscribed by the laws of neutrality and thwarted by entangling foreign alliances, it would be difficult, if not well-nigh impossible, to obtain sufficient foreign tonnage for uses of both the army and navy.

As a result of the foreign nation subsidy as against American non-subsidy, we had leaving Honolulu for San Francisco during the months of June, July and August, 1907, fifteen steam passenger vessels, of which five were foreign and five American. Two of the American boats made three passages each with full accommodations for Honolulu passengers. Three American boats made one passage each with very limited accommodations for Hawaiian Island passengers. Out of sixteen passages, seven of the boats were foreign bottoms and by virtue of the provisions of the American coastwise shipping laws local passengers were practically barred from travel owing to the penalty of $200 placed upon persons taking passage of foreign bottoms plying between United States coastwise ports. Tourists traveling toward the United States seldom stop over at Honolulu owing to the uncertainty of obtaining passage to the mainland. Prior to annexation to the United States, there were no restrictions under the laws of Hawaii upon the freedom of passage upon any boats, either American or foreign, which plied between the Hawaiian Islands and the mainland. To meet the changed conditions, American passengers steamers should be so fostered that an increase of American vessels will fill the void caused by the loss of the right to travel, on foreign ships. The people of the islands are loyal Americans. They have experienced some disadvantages from annexation to the United States in obtaining its many advantages. We do not desire to accept all the benefits without bearing our share of the burdens and responsibilities. But we do respectfully petition that the American merchant marine be so encouraged by subsidy as to give us speedy and frequent transportation so essential to the development of our Territory.

Hawaii's earnest desire is that no hostile legislation be enacted, but that very encouragement should be given to prevent the merchant flag of the United States from becoming a curiosity rare enough for the Smithsonian Institution.

DR. N. B. EMERSON ON THE RACE PROBLEM

Dr. Emerson said in part, his subject being "Hawaii's Race Problem."

The population of Hawaii is a very polyglot community, comprising all skin-colors and races gathered from all parts of the world. Hawaii is the first point of contact of the United States and the Orient, the gate through which a great throng have come in to take part in the labors and to share in the benefits of our civilization. It is this movement and the issues growing out of it that furnish me with my theme this evening, but more especially, it is the incoming of the Chinese and the Japanese, whose touch and intermingling with our race today constitutes the race-problem not only of Hawaii, but as I shall point out, of the American Republic and largely of the whole world.

The fact that I single out these two races as the agents in precipitating the race-problem, and leave out of the consideration the melange of other nationalities that have drifted to Hawaii, is to be taken not as a slur, but rather as a compliment to the Chinese and the Japanese. It is the high intelligence, the individuality, the tenacious virtues and sterling qualities of the Chinaman—and to a large extent of the Japanese—even more than his vices, that make him refractory to our civilization.

The coming together of two races—whether of the Occidental and the Oriental, or any other—involves many reaction and readjustments, oftentimes with the production of much heat, as when the cosmic elements were first thrown together in Nature's laboratory.

I will first remark that this meeting and mingling of races is inevitable. It was invited, and in a sense, compelled, by the more advanced races of the world. The work done by the Spanish and Portuguese, the Dutch, the English and the American, from the sixteenth century down, in unsealing and opening up China and Japan to the influences of the world was in the line of evolution, entirely natural, and not to be repented of. The first step led to the second, and so on.

The gates have been opened, and they cannot again be shut. But that does not mean that the stream shall be allowed to flow at full flood, and absolutely without control. Man, having but his hand to the levers and valves that control the great currents of humanity, must not let go his hold, but like a skillful engineer must devote himself to the task of regulating the vast forces he has unlocked, or—take the consequences.

The doctrine of equal human rights on which our Republic was founded and its unwritten corollary which leads to the wide opening of the gates, however beautiful in theory, is a principle that soon runs into danger. It demands careful limitation. We do not allow free scope to this principle in trade and commerce. Rightly or wrongly, we protect our infant industries—we even extend this protection through what seems a very prolonged infancy. It is well that our national councils are waking to the recognition of the danger that threatens our national civilization from the inrush of foreigners. Civilization is a tender plant that ever needs the most careful nurture.

Let us now make practical application of these principles, taking Hawaii as the object of illustration. We are fortunate in Hawaii, in that with us the race-problem is not complicated by the color question. In those islands we do not allow the question of skin color to disturb us politically or socially.

I have spoken of this as Hawaii's problem. Do not forget that it is equally America's problem. What is Hawaii's is yours; what is yours is Hawaii's. There is a difference, of course. The situation over there is one of peculiar urgency. The question involves practically our daily bread, the whole of our living. Whereas with you here in America it involves only a small percentage of your territory and of your financial interest. Yet in spite of this urgency, in spite of the involvement of all our material interests, our whole living, I will say that the situation is causing no panic, no hysterical agitation, no wild alarm.

In dealing with Hawaii, you must understand that you are dealing with a one-crop country. Every commercial and financial interest there has to be rated as to its influence on our chief product, our one main crop, sugar. You must bear in mind, first, that ninety-six and one-half per cent of Hawaii's living income is from sugar. And, second, that the Oriental is the most numerous laborer on our plantations, and that if he quits the field, the field will remain unploughed, unplanted, unwatered, and all which that implies.

It is a significant fact that the non-Oriental population, which in 1872, was in a majority of ninety-six and one-half per cent has dwindled until in 1900 it was forty-three and four-tenths per cent; while the Oriental population has grown from three and four-tenths per cent to fifty-six and three-tenths per cent.

The pinch of the race problem begins, however, not with the entrance of the Oriental into the country, but when he throws up his job on the plantation, becomes a peripatetic seeker after an easy snap, a small shop-keeper, and incidentally an agitator and stirrer up of strife. Welcome as a plantation laborer and worker in the great national industry, when he takes to moving about from place to place, living by his wits, assuming the role of a promoter of sedition, he becomes a persona non grata. To complete the presentation of this point, it is only necessary to say that of the 61,000 Japanese in the Territory in 1906, only 28,000 were then engaged in labor on the sugar plantations. It is with these non-workers on the plantations that the race-problem concerns itself.

Pinch number two of the race-problem is felt when the laborer, in addition to throwing up his job and making himself disagreeable, takes to calling the numbers engaged in which are already sufficiently numerous, and by strenuous competition and undercutting, manages to make it hard for the man of the soil, as well as for the white man who has come in from abroad.

Time will not permit the presentation of statistics showing the different occupations into which what I shall call the surplus population of Hawaii has entered. Such statistics show that these races are crowding into nearly every branch of business and occupation to such a degree as to give occasion for grave thought.

You all know the process of substitution by which the white man is pushed out. The Oriental has few wants; his expenses are small; he can live and lay up something on a few dimes a day. The white man cannot and will not do this. Wisely or unwisely, rightly or wrongly, he declines to come down to the economic level of the Oriental. It forced into competition with him, he simply quits the field.

I hear some one ask, is not the Anglo-Saxon man enough to stand up and hold his own against the Oriental? If not, let him go to the wall. Not so fast, my friend. Do not forget your political economy, nor the teachings of experience and common sense. I might ask, is not the gold dollar good enough and strong enough to hold its own against a debased currency? Every practical business man recognizes the soundness of Gresham's law. There is a competition that kills.

But, asks some objector, if the white man will not come in and occupy the land, but insists on biding his time, why should he object to the thrifty Orientals doing that very thing. I will not directly answer this question. It is part of the problem I lay before you. Let me say, however, that Hawaii is now bending her energies to the procuring and introduction of the better elements of population, consanguinous elements, to come to its aid—elements that are capable of harmonious co-operation with its highest purposes and ideals.

There are two conditions, not incompatible with each other, which reason and common sense impose on the solution of this problem.

First: So far as concerns this great Republic, of which Hawaii is a part, the supreme interests of civilization must be sacredly preserved. These interests are identical with those of our Anglo-Saxon civilization and of a broad Americanism.

Second: A wise and tender regard for the financial and vital interests of Hawaii herself. What those interests are I have already pointed out; that Hawaii must have cheap labor in order to carry on with a reasonable profit her staple industry from which comes 96-1/2 per cent of her income.

Not only are these two conditions compatible with each other, they are correlative and essential to each other. Rob the country of plantation labor and you starve out the material basis on which our civilization is founded.

Why should we insist on maintaining our own civilization unchanged? What a question for an Anglo-Saxon! Because it is ours; because it fits us and we are wedded to it; because it is the evolution and fruitage of our history for a thousand years; because to resign it and adopt another would be impossible, suicidal.

The evolution of this race-problem is the finding or establishing of a modus vivendi by which the Occidental and the Oriental can meet together under certain restrictions for the purpose of exchanging certain benefits, not for the sake of supplanting and ousting one another from place or function.

There has been entrusted to us a rich heritage; let us see to it that we pass it on unimpaired.

CONGRESSMAN LILLEY ON HAWAIIAN PEOPLE

Hon. George L. Lilley, Member of Congress from Connecticut, delivered an address entitled "Impressions of the Hawaiian People."

Mr. Lilley said in part: With the keenest pleasure I have contemplated the honor accorded me in the request by Dr. Smiley to make a few remarks on our island possessions which I visited with the Congressional party last spring, and upon which at this moment the warm rays of the tropical sun are shining down.

The character of the Hawaiian people reflects their natural environment. The wonderful phenomena of Nature makes them poetical and superstitious; the continuous beauty of the tropical verdure and the mildness of the climate make them happy and care-free. Their cheerful carelessness impressed me strongly. Could it be possible, I thought, that these islanders expressed that Christian command, "Be not therefore anxious for the morrow; for the morrow will be anxious for itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." If those words mean complete freedom from worry, here is a people that fulfills the command. If a native's pot of poi runs low, the neighbor's pot comes willingly to the rescue, even to the last ounce.

The native is a composite of superficialities. He is a born politician. Give him a title and an office and he is happy. He will not work at manual labor, but is proud to be a coachman. Like the Indian, the negro and the Filipino, he has not known the great moral or conscience evolution of the Anglo-Saxon. His father and grandfather were aimless, care-free, unmoral. He has the burden of this heritage.

Strange it is that the percentage of illiterates is lower than in the State of Massachusetts. This shows that education in the arts is not the most important education to a people.

The Hawaiians are a race of children. From us must come education and government. From the native chief to the lowest among them votes are purchasable. A Hawaiian has no conception either of personal independence or the innate value of character. Hopkins says that the missionaries had the discretion "to see that the genius of this people was utterly unfit for self-government."

The sons of the missionaries have realized that religion is more than sentiment and emotion; that there is a world of truth in that statement that "he who makes two blades of wheat grow where one grew before has done more in the service of mankind than the greatest orator or preacher"; that

WOMAN'S BOARD HOLDS MEETING

Interesting Papers Read at Largely Attended Gather.

There was an unusually large attendance at the regular meeting of the Woman's Board, which was held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Central Union church. Mrs. Scudder, the president of the board, acted as chairman of the meeting and asked Miss Yarrow to lead the devotional exercises. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved, following which the treasurer's report was read.

Mrs. C. M. Hyde, of Ware, Mass., formerly a worker in the missionary line for the board, told of her life in the East, and of how even there much could be done in a missionary line. One of the most interesting talks was that of Mrs. Philip A. Delaporte, of the mission from the Central Union church to Nauru Island. She told of the great work which was going on so successfully there and of the hearty co-operation which was received from the English owner of the phosphate rights, who was only too glad to help, as, through the efforts of the mission, the natives were being changed from a poor and useless lot to industrious people. Mrs. D. L. Withington, who has recently returned from a trip to the mainland, spoke a few words telling of how glad she was to be back in Honolulu once more.

The remainder of the program, under the title of "Hawaii Nel," was in charge of Mrs. R. W. Andrews. The most interesting of all the three addresses was that by Dr. Sereno E. Bishop, on "Old Whaling Days." The influence which the whaling men had on the missionary work, from early days till latter years, was commented on interestingly. Dr. Bishop's paper in full will be reproduced in the Advertiser in the near future.

"The Influence of Hawaiian Missions," was taken up by Mr. F. W. Damon, in a very clear, short speech. He paid a high tribute to the work which had been done among the Chinese here by the Christian women of Honolulu, saying that through their influence many had been brought into belief and trust in Christianity. He stated that the Christian Chinese who had gone back from here to their native land were a great force for good, and that they were, in many cases, working hard to bring to others the teachings which they had received through the efforts of local teachers.

The last paper of the day was that of Mrs. R. W. Andrews, on "Lahaina-luna, Hilo, and Other Schools." Beginning with the founding of the schools, Mrs. Andrews gave a most interesting account of their start and history up to the present time. The work which had been done there she stated had had a great deal to do with helping the Hawaiian race to elevate itself, from the old methods to the new, and the many young men and women who received their education, not only in text books but also in the Bible, were greatly benefited.

LETTER FROM CAMOES.

(The Ancient Forester, Ukiah, Cal., for October.)

Editor Ancient Forester: While sitting at a table the other day where four brother Foresters congregated to partake of sustenance, to invigorate the inner men, one of them perchanced to glance at the article published in the last issue of the Ancient Forester in reference to "Honolulu." Evidently his optical susceptibilities were not impaired, as his manifestation of joy and appreciation of a little joke was readily noted by his voluntary subscription to our official organ; the amount for one year's subscription was immediately handed over and which I take great pleasure in forwarding you. This brother of which I have made mention is Brother Joseph Leal; he is the right-hand man of the chief of detectives of the island and has tracked and succeeded in placing behind the bars, many persons of questionable character. The local paper commented on how people on the island can go to rest at night and not fear being disturbed by thieves. This speaks well for Brother Leal; he is also a great baseball fan, being captain of one of our local teams that knows not defeat. We have lost the services of our Junior Past C. R., Brother M. A. Silva; that is, our loss is only transitory, as he will return in about a month from Europe, where he has gone. Brother Silva and a former deputy sheriff were delegated by our immigration board to take charge of some immigrants that were not qualified to remain here for various reasons, and were ordered returned, by way of Uncle Sam's territory instead of around the Horn. Our good and faithful brother is most deserving and we rejoice at seeing him chosen. "Bon voyage, mon frere."

Let us come down to Court Camoes, and peep through the portieres and see "what is doing." There you will see our ingenious brother M. C. Pacheco at his desk running his fingers through his tussled hair, devising means to bring together in one grand assemblage the individual members of our fraternity in Honolulu on the 22nd of October, 1907, for the purpose of disseminating the fraternal spirit inculcated by our noble order. Brother Pacheco, who wears the crown as the fraternal magnate, has always in his originality been successful in accomplishing his ends.

Dear editor, I shall not weary you further, but as it has been my experience in walking through this great forest of life that in promoting men and the institutions which they regard ardently, it becomes a revival in the course of their existence to panegyrize their traits and good deeds. In conclusion I wish to extend you an apology for this intrusion and to thank you for the courtesy shown in the past. Fraternally yours,
A. K. VIERRA.

RED CROSS SOCIETY HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The first annual meeting of the Honolulu branch of the Red Cross Society was held yesterday afternoon in Judge Dole's chambers. The permanent organization of the society in this Territory was effected with the following officers: President, Judge Sanford B. Dole; vice president, Mrs. B. F. Dillingham; secretary, Mrs. W. W. Hall; treasurer, C. H. Cooke; auditor, J. R. Galt; executive committee, Dr. Brinckenhoff (chairman), Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. Walbridge, H. M. von Holt and A. F. Griffiths.

The appointment of a committee on finance was made by President Dole, consisting of C. H. Cooke, W. E. Brown and W. W. Hall. The bylaws, which were reported on at the last meeting, were brought up by the committee having them in charge, and after a few minor amendments were adopted.

Mrs. W. W. Hall read a letter to the National Red Cross Society, asking that such amendments be made to the bylaws as would admit to membership others than actual citizens of the United States. There are many in this city who desire to join the society which has been formed, but who will be ineligible on account of being aliens, unless some special understanding on this point is reached. The letter was approved of by the committee and will be forwarded at once, with an endorsement by President Dole.

JAPANESE RECEPTION BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Long and loud were the banzais last night to the health of the Japanese Emperor at the reception given at the Mochizuki Club in honor of the fifty-fifth birthday of the Japanese ruler, at which many of the prominent citizens of the city were the guests of the members of the Japanese Merchants' Association. For the occasion the grounds and rooms of the club was brilliantly illuminated, while the Rising Sun of Nippon on the banners displayed hung everywhere about the grounds.

The affair was a brilliant success. The guests were received by the officers of the association and made welcome, after the formal reception the affair being delightfully informal. A splendid repast was served and the fraternity and good fellowship shown between the Japanese merchants and the many distinguished guests proved conclusively that there is no Japanese question in Hawaii.

Shortly after eight o'clock the company gathered about the board, being welcomed in a short speech by Mr. Yonokura, the vice president of the association, who proposed the health of the Emperor. This was drunk in a chorus of banzais, after which the guests and the hosts partook of the good things provided.

Following the supper a number of dances, emblematic of the occasion, were gracefully danced by a number of Geisha girls, to the music of tsuzumi and samisen, one dance in particular, the kappere, the harvest dance, being much applauded. The affair lasted well on towards midnight.

there must be action in the line of economic development. Today the sons of the missionaries are making the soil put forth its best in insuring the prosperity of Hawaii.

The native Hawaiian may move in the march of progress or may lie down to the threat of extinction. God has decreed for mankind a struggle for the mastery of their environment, and in that struggle they develop character and recognize obedience to the moral laws. Those races that will not work must, like the individual idler, drop behind and suffer extinction.

The Hawaiians are a race of children. It is the right and duty of the Anglo-Saxon to rule them and spread his higher moral standards and civilization. Our standards must be put before them and they must be made to conform to them.

We must not make such mistakes as we did with the Indian and foster their indolence with fat bounties. We must not thrust statehood upon them. They

A MORNING PAPER.

WALTER G. SMITH - - - - - EDITOR
WEDNESDAY : : : : : NOVEMBER 6

Dr. Emerson's presentation of Hawaii's race problem at Mohonk was a very thoughtful and well-considered effort. He stated the question fairly but left the solution to the American people as represented by their statesmen.

The commercial interests of Hawaii are to be congratulated on having such an able and well-informed representative as Mr. Lewis at Mohonk. His address on the American ship subsidy question as related to Hawaii is a particularly able brief on behalf of the subsidy bill in itself, as related to the interests of the nation at large.

Congressman Lilley is quite too sweeping in his estimate of the Hawaiian race. Yet the concluding sentiments of his Mohonk speech contain a note of warning to the demagogic element in this Territory, which is not exclusively of the native race by any means. Those who descend to trading upon the weaknesses of those more susceptible to undue influences among the Hawaiian electorate—even to the depth of exploiting their greatest misery for political capital—ought to discern in the almost similar counsel of Mr. Lilley at Mohonk the fact that their course is but the laying of an explosive mine underneath the political independence of Hawaii.

The city of San Francisco is to be heartily congratulated in its choice of Taylor and Langdon as Mayor and District Attorney respectively. The election of men who stand for clean politics, pure civic ideals and honesty in public affairs, and by such handsome majorities, will do more than anything else could do at the present time to reestablish that city in the eyes of the world.

With Graftor Schmitz in jail to serve his term and Dr. Taylor in the City Hall to serve a term, both according to the will of the people, the name of San Francisco will no longer be a synonym for corruption throughout America and the verdict of the people, registered at the polls yesterday, should silence forever the impudent assertions of the felon in stripes that he is still a power in the city. It should settle once and for all the idea that grafters, however they may cloak themselves as champions of labor, of class or of creed, may rule in any American city for any longer than it takes to expose them.

The victory of Taylor and Langdon in San Francisco is not a Democratic victory, but one of honesty and decent Americanism ever graft and appeals to class prejudice. Again we say, San Francisco is to be congratulated.

When the Postal Union Congress voted for cheaper international postage some months ago, and again when the United States Government announced the new rates later, the Advertiser gave the news. Yet within a few days past inquiries have been received on the matter. Two changes went into effect within the Postal Union, now embracing practically the civilized world, on October 1. Whereas five cents was the postage on a letter weighing a half ounce before then, a five-cent stamp will now carry a letter weighing one ounce. Three cents will pay for each additional ounce or fraction of an ounce, instead of five cents for an additional half ounce as formerly. The advantage in cost only exists with regard to letters of more than half an ounce, but correspondents may use heavier stationery for letters of that weight and business correspondence will bear more than double weight without greater expense as compared with the old rates. A one-ounce foreign letter will cost five cents instead of ten and a two-ounce letter eight cents instead of twenty. The other change is one making the enclosure of return postage in a foreign letter possible without the necessity of having stamps belonging to the country of destination on hand. This is effected by means of a "response coupon," the arrival here of one of which from Paris to the French consul the other day made an item of news. This coupon will be sold in the United States for six cents, being redeemable in other countries in stamps to the value of five cents. It will be useful for making small remittances, as for instance to procure a wanted copy of a foreign paper or periodical.

OPINION DE BOLT VS. LONG.

Editor Advertiser: Judge De Bolt hands down an opinion in the final account of Carlos A. Long, administrator de bonis non of the estate of R. W. Holt, deceased, which surely does Mr. Long an injustice and perhaps may reflect upon him.

Holding the legal title of the said estate and being familiar with Mr. Long's doings in re said estate, I feel in duty bound to him to refute such portions of the Judge's decision where he is in error. He says that there is a shortage of $542.55 in the securities that Mr. Long proposes to turn over as against what he received from his predecessor. The Judge is wrong when he says there is such shortage, for if he will peruse the several accounts filed by Long from the date of his appointment, he will learn that the estate is not short that amount but it has shrunk more than three times that amount by reason of various items that the administrator has paid out from the corpus of the estate upon interlocutory orders of the different judges who have taken jurisdiction of the Holt estate matters at various times.

The Judge further says that Long made a loan of $2000 to Mrs. Lena Holt and he would not approve of the same as it was made on premises that she only had a life interest in. He goes on further and says that no prudent business man would consider such a business proposition and that the administration of an estate should not be looked upon only as affording an opportunity for the enrichment of those through whose hands it must necessarily pass, in other words, that Mr. Long is guilty of graft. If the Judge had taken the time to look at the mortgage given by Mrs. Lena Holt to Long for the Holt estate, he will learn that Mrs. Lena Holt is the owner, during her life, of a piece of land on the northeast corner of King and Liliha streets under lease to a wealthy Chinese at the ground rental of $100 per month, net above taxes. That she mortgaged these premises to the Holt estate and made an assignment to Long of the monthly rental of the place for the purpose of: 1st, paying the insurance on the building erected by the lessee; 2nd, to the payment of interest on the mortgage; 3rd, to the payment of a life insurance policy on the life of said Lena Holt in the sum of $2000 in the New York Life Insurance Co., which policy is a part and portion of the security of the said mortgage, and the surplus to said Mrs. Holt. In my estimation, no better loan could have been made by any person acting in any fiduciary capacity and I believe it far better than some of the bonds that the court has especially allowed Long's predecessors to purchase for this estate at par, and which today cannot be sold for sixty cents on the dollar. For information of the Judge, I may mention that this same loan, upon the same security, was, for a term of three years, held by The Waterhouse Trust Co., Ltd., and it considered it one of its gilt-edged securities and turned the loan over to Long only upon request of the interested parties.

I would recall to the Judge the fact that when Long rendered his annual account for the year ending June 30th, 1906, this estate owned the Lena Holt mortgage and he, De Bolt, who presided at the hearing of the accounts, approved the same, including this loan as Judge Lindsay had done the year before. At both these periods, the loan was $2000. Yesterday when the Judge saw fit to unnecessarily scorch Long, a payment of $300 had been already made and was shown in his account.

With regard to the surcharge by the Judge of the commissions that Long charged in his accounts upon the final distribution of the estate, it was the Judge's right and power to disallow the amounts, but not to surcharge Long with it. The account shows that the estate did not have sufficient cash on hand at the date of closing the accounts to pay the commissions charged, and the evidence adduced at the hearing of the accounts showed that what cash the estate ought to have in the event of a disallowance of the commissions charged was then and is still at this date of writing in the First National Bank of Hawaii, to the credit of the estate. Long never drew the money but made a charge to raise the question to be decided. It is an open question as to whether he is entitled to the commissions he has charged, and though De Bolt says he cannot have it, little do we know but that a higher court may differ with him.

Yours truly,
JOHN F. COLBURN.
Honolulu, November 5, 1907.

FADS IN SCHOOLS.

Editor Advertiser: As a parent of three children of school age, I wish to express my hearty approval of the stand Mrs. Dowsett has taken regarding "Fads in our public schools," and I am sure there are many others who disapprove the introduction of distracting features into the system of education, before a proper foundation has been laid in the rudiments of learning. My views may be out of date, in the light of modern ideas, yet I submit that the purpose of education should be to lay a substantial foundation in the most essential branches before anything else is introduced. Many children, and especially children of this cosmopolitan community, can not afford to waste time learning what may never be of use to them, and from a practical standpoint I submit it is infinitely better to equip a pupil with knowledge which will enable him to follow out any line of study which circumstances may require or natural aptitude dictate, than to force him into channels which are foreign to his inclinations or ability to pursue.

Aside from the waste of precious time, the introduction of the mysteries of modern cookery as a part of a child's education, especially in Hawaii, is well-nigh criminal. Fancy a child of Hawaiian parents returning to her family with an appetite for, and ability to concoct, the various dishes of civilization. The inevitable result would be dissatisfaction with the more wholesome fare of her family, and in its place a more expensive, if not a more harmful, mode of living.

As for other branches of manual training, I submit that they should be taken up as postgraduate courses and not be made a part of a common school education.

There are many things educational which are received with silent protest, and the worthy superintendent of the Board of Education should not consider his acts approved because of the absence of open protest.

This very silence is a mark of the good sense of this community, which is content to leave the board a free hand in the exercise of its duties, as the wisdom or unwisdom, the success or failure, of its undertakings must rest upon its shoulders.

It is therefore gratifying to note that the protest in the present instance comes from a member of the board itself, which fact entitles the board to a renewal of public confidence. May the good sense of Mrs. Dowsett prevail in future deliberations on this subject, is the earnest prayer of yours truly,
WILL C. KING.

Honolulu, November 5, 1907.

PUPIL GOVERNMENT IN SCHOOLS.

Editor Advertiser: "The products of manual training should be men, not chairs."

If you happen to have a file of Handicraft you can find the above quotation in one of Mr. Oleson's editorials in speaking of manual training at Kamehameha.

Three distinct methods of school discipline are now in practice. First, the principal attends to all cases of discipline where the class-room teacher fails. In large schools this takes a large part of the principal's time and energy. Second, a disciplinarian is employed. This gives the principal's whole time and strength to the real work (so called) of the school. Third, the school discipline is in the hands of the pupils. This system is being tried in many schools and is growing in favor.

Two years ago, while East, I visited the Northwest Trades School of Philadelphia. There were about 900 boys in that school. They were from about twelve years old to about sixteen years old; and from all classes of society, as it is a public school.

There is a lunch room where the boys may get a wholesome lunch at actual cost, or where they may eat the lunch they bring. This room will accommodate only about 300 boys at one time. So the boys are dismissed in three sections—the first section "at 11:45, the second section at 12 o'clock and the third section at 12:15.

I reached the school just before noon and was invited by the principal to go with him to the lunch-room. By that time the first 300 boys were just leaving the lunch-room and the second 300 were going in. The corridor was wide enough for six people to pass abreast. There was no loud talking, no hurrying, no scuffling, no throwing of paper, etc. Yet there were 600 boys going in and coming out. Everything was so quiet and orderly. I looked about to see who was in charge; and seeing no teachers, I said, "Where are the teachers?" "The teachers are in the lunch-room having their lunch." "Then who is in charge of these boys—who is looking out for them?" "Oh, the boys look out for themselves." We entered the lunch-room, where perfect order prevailed. The floor was clean—neither papers nor food upon it. We walked about several minutes, the principal nodding to boys as he happened to meet them, or inquiring about work or companions or sports; but not a word about "order." Then we went to the teachers' lunch-room, leaving that 300 boys to get themselves out, and the third 300 boys to get themselves into the lunch-room as they pleased.

Later I visited the class-rooms and shops. In no other school did I see boys working more earnestly than in that school. In the shops, the boy who was not perspiring was the exception, for his work was more mental than physical.

On leaving, I said to the principal, "I like the way your boys work both in the class-rooms and in the shops. But what pleased me most was the fact that the boys are learning to govern themselves." He replied, "I have been working on this problem for some years. And I think I have some good results to show, don't you?"

In several other places I found pupil government being tried; and on my return to Honolulu I ventured the statement that in a few years the principal who can not leave the discipline of the school in the hands of the pupils will not find favor as a principal. Letters that have reached me since, and statements made by those who have been East recently, confirm me in the belief that government by the pupils is to be the next great development in educational matters. Whether this will be by officers appointed by the principal, as is now done in many schools; or by officers elected by the pupils, as is now done at the George Junior Republic; or by the city government plan, as is being tried in the Royal School and in many schools in the States; or by developing such a school spirit that pupils may be left to themselves, as is done in the Northwest Trades School of Philadelphia, I can not tell. It may be by some combination of these several schemes. It will probably depend much upon the personality of the principal in charge.

Whether such a scheme can be worked out in the public schools of the islands, with their cosmopolitan population, remains to be seen. Let us at least encourage the men who are trying to make men, not automatons.

A large proportion of pupils here, as everywhere, must get their business ideas, social ideals and political ideals in the schools. And these ideals will be permanent in proportion as they practise them upon each other under the direction and encouragement of a wise principal.

WHITE HOUSE IS AGAIN IN FOCUS

Return of Roosevelt From His Hunting Tour—Third Term Ghost.

(Mail Special to the Advertiser.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—
The busy, throbbing days of administration are now at hand. The pilgrimages of federal politics are arriving daily. The White House offices are the Mecca.

President Roosevelt arrived Wednesday afternoon from the canebreaks and from his long and undoubtedly memorable tour down the Mississippi valley.
Senators and members, who had been waiting for a shake of the plum tree which had not been shaken for several weeks it might be mentioned, hastened to the city. The President's arrival—the second entrance he has made during the autumn this year into Washington—was all the more interesting because he came just when banks and other financial houses were toppling in New York and those of a few other cities were quaking somewhat on their foundations.

Therefore the President's days have been busy days, ever since he drove up under the great port cochere of the White House and greeted affectionately Mrs. Roosevelt and the children. He knew very little about what had been transpiring in the great outside world for the two weeks that he lived in the canebrakes, searching for bear and other game. When he emerged it was to participate in a speaking and reception program that filled much of his time on the way back to Washington.
He had been in town hardly an hour before he was in conference with people who could tell him what had happened. Assistant Secretary of State Robert Bacon, a warm personal friend
as well as a trusted official, quickly appeared at the White House offices and the doors swung back for his admission into the President's office.

HE LEARNS THINGS.

Mr. Bacon, it might be explained, was formerly a representative of the financial house of J. P. Morgan & Co. in New York. He talked at length with Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou before the latter started for New York Tuesday night to be on the ground and to be able to furnish assistance by dumping millions of government funds
as deposits for the national banks. Mr.
Bacon was also in touch constantly with Mr. Morgan who was hastening to the relief of the New York banks. From Mr. Bacon, therefore, the President was able to learn speedily the salient points of the financial situation. He was, of course, in communication over the long distance telephone with Mr. Cortelyou.
Later in the evening he talked with Secretary Root, who understands the financial and business situation in New York, and with Postmaster General
Meyer, who is a man of large business experience.

ACTS THE SPHINX.

Outwardly, however, the President has figured little in the financial panic, since he returned to Washington. In one of his speeches en route home he declared his determination not to recede from his policies because some of the Wall street and other New York banks were in trouble. He was besought here on every hand to say something additional. To all such requests he gave a firm refusal. First of all he wanted everything left in the hands of Secretary Cortelyou, who was familiar with every phase of the crisis, after having watched its developments for months. Usually the President is very accessible to newspaper correspondents but this practice was discontinued and every afternoon when there were newspaper callers the President sent out word that he had nothing to say. He also abstained from discussing the financial situation much with public men who visited him. As he stated in his speeches he does not think that he is responsible for the panic, attributing
it to reprehensible methods of high finance.

Naturally he has been more or less concerned about the outcome of the panic. It may not have had any political effect yet, but there are men who believe that the money stringency will not cease for many months and that confidence will not be restored quickly. If the tight times because of this stringency continue, the President and his party may have to bear the blame. A very hopeful feeling now prevails in official circles here and many say that not only is the worse over but probably the weeding out of certain banks of speculative propensities

will help the general situation.

NEW YORK FUSION.

The President has also been concerned about another matter since his return. That is the fusion in New York City between the Independence League of which William Randolph Hearst is the head, and the Republicans, of whom Representative Herbert Parsons is the leader, being at the same time also the President's recognized and chosen lieutenant. This fusion has been the cause of very bitter criticism of the President and the Republicans, because only last year Hearst was the candidate of the Democrats and the Independence League in New York state for the office of governor and, it is believed, was defeated for reelection only by the President's aggressive and vigorous campaign against him. Among other things the President sent Secretary of State Elihu Root to Utica to deliver a bitter address against Mr. Hearst and to state in the President's name that the President thought Mr. Hearst's election would be a public calamity.

All this, of course, gave color to charges of inconsistency and there came numerous appeals for the President to repudiate the fusion. It is said in his behalf that the alliance was made during his absence in the canebreaks and without his knowledge, but that has failed to satisfy some of the President's critics who assert that it is another evidence of the versatility he displays when forced to play a lively game of politics. Not long after the President arrived in town he called in a few friends and consulted about the advisability of his making a statement about the fusion. He wanted to know what the newspapers had printed about it. The burden of the advice given him was that the least said about the matter now would probably be the better. Thus far he has accepted that advice. Apparently he has lost none of his great aversion to Mr. Hearst, but at the same time he hesitates to strike
a blow at Representative Parsons by disavowing any connection or sympathy with the Hearst fusion. The Hearst following in New York is making the most of the fusion as an evidence that the President is in accord with their principles.

OKLAHOMA'S ADMISSION.

Otherwise much of the President's time at his office has been occupied with Senators and members, come to ask for office or on other errands. The Oklahomans have been most prominent in these companies of visitors. It is taken for granted that the President will soon proclaim the new state, as he announced about a month ago he would do. A few of these southwestern visitors are trying to dissuade him from that course but most of them are more intent upon the scramble after the loaves and fishes. For as soon as the new state takes its place in the Union, there will be several new federal offices. Missourians and Kansans who have moved over into Oklahoma want these places. They have brought on to Washington to urge their respective claims both the Kansas Senators,
the Kansas Governor, and the only Republican Senator from Missouri.

THIRD TERM GHOST.

Incidentally there has been a terrible din about the third term. Washington has at no previous time resounded so strenuously with third-term talk as since the President's return from the canebrakes. Every man who wants an office for himself or for his next friend comes talking Roosevelt's renomination.
Notwithstanding the views of very many people to the contrary it is known in the most positive way that the President has no idea of accepting another term or even another nomination. He is saying almost nothing about it to the average White House caller, but he has reiterated since he came back here to more than one intimate friend that he is as firm in his opposition to another term as on the November night in 1904 when he declared that under no circumstances would he accept another nomination.

The President does not feel that there is any occasion for him to reiterate that declaration now. When some state or Congressional district attempts to instruct delegates for his renomination
then the President feels that continued
silence might be interpreted as proof that he was willing to repudiate his declaration. Just at that point, however, if such instructions are voted, the President will be ready to announce that such instructions must not be regarded and that he stands by the terms of his election night utterance. A period of about ninety days must elapse
after the call for the National Convention is issued before delegates can be regularly elected. Therefore no formal utterance by the President on the matter is expected, if at all, before some time next February.

One Way to Americanize Hawaii

Dr. Scudder in the Friend.

Two procedures for carrying into effect President Roosevelt's famous dictum "Americanize Hawaii" have been devised. Both of them are sound. The first is to bring in American labor. Brilliant failure has attended every effort to realize this and it has petered out into the endeavor to domicile any sort of white labor that can be cajoled into coming. The latest importations it is hoped will remain, though from time to time drafts are made upon our Island Portuguese. These and the Spaniards who have been introduced into Hawaii have proved a most useful and reliable addition to our population. Before the term "American labor" can be applied to them, however, they must be thoroughly inoculated with the spirit of the Nation. How large the proportion will be of those who will resist mainland wage inducements and settle permanently in the Territory is uncertain.

The second method is to solicit American farmers to come to Hawaii, take up land and devote themselves to the solution of the problem of diversified products. Thus far little or no success has attended this scheme. Soil, climate and possibilities for raising enormous supplies of tropical fruits are all here but the small mainland farmer prefers the certainty of large returns where he now is, to the risks of transportation and the difficulty of learning new agricultural tricks in Hawaii.

There is a third perfectly feasible plan about the success of which there seems little doubt. This plan was pointed out recently to a resident of Hawaii on a visit east by a Mainlander of large experience in the movements of population throughout the States. This student of American life begun by laying down the proposition that the number of people in the Northern States who have amassed sufficient wealth to enable them by middle life to desist from the strenuous chase after dollars is simply enormous. "Many of these," said he,
"either are childless or have started their children in successful careers. They dislike exceedingly the rigors of the northern winter and are determined to seek a genial climate where they may live comfortably, have time for self culture and expand their chief energies in building up civic and religious institutions worthy of their best efforts. Southern California is full of such people. They have made that part of the State a credit and glory to the Union so that with its ideals of good order, civic righteousness and sobriety it is coming to dominate the northern section. But Southern California is not like Hawaii an ideal climate and this class is constantly increasing in number so that there is already a large proportion looking for exactly what the Islands have to offer. If the question of adequate transportation were only settled you would find these people flocking to Honolulu and Hilo in constantly greater numbers. They are the best people you can have. They will bring money enough to own their own homes and to live in moderate comfort. They will be sufficiently impressed with Hawaii's fruit possibilities to develop them as a side issue and thus will attract others who will make this their business. Being people of ideals they will tone up your citizenship amazingly. If you Islanders would only press the question of first class steamer accommodations to a solution, your problem of Americanizing Hawaii would soon be solved."

These sentiments of a keen-eyed observer of American life deserve careful consideration. If as much attention and money could be directed to securing adequate facilities for travel to and from the Mainland as have been given to the problem of bringing laborers here there is reason to believe that the Territory would soon attract this class of hard working men and women who hold the theory that when a competence has been secured, the rest of life should be devoted to higher things in a climate which makes smaller drain upon vital resources than that of the Northern States. Let us get after these people. With them to help the problem of Americanizing this Territory will soon be solved.

CROQUET GOLF.

Eben M. Byers, Pittsburg's famous golfer, was talking at a dinner about dawdling players.

"Nothing is more vexatious," Mr. Byers said, "than to follow one of these dawdlers over a course. They all should be served as a bowlegged chap was the other day."

"He was playing at Englewood. His play was as slow as it was poor. Setting his warped legs wide apart, he would miss the easiest ball three or four times hand-running. He was retarding half a dozen good, brisk players, but this he didn't seem to mind at all."

"Finally one man, having drawn very near, lost patience, and with a neat shot sent his ball flying directly between the slow player's bow legs."

"The slow player jumped back in a great fright. Then he yelled angrily:

"Say, do you call that golf?"

"No," said the other, "but I call it pretty good croquet."

THREE EPOCHS IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

MRS. ELVA BARBER EDWARDS

There are three critical stages in a woman's life which leave their mark in her career. The first of these stages is womanhood, or the change from a care free girl to budding womanhood.
The second is motherhood, and the third is Change of Life.

Perils surround each of these stages,
and most of the misery that comes to women through ill health dates from one or another of these important crises.

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs has carried thousands of young girls over the critical period of puberty, has prepared mothers for childbirth, and in later years carried them safely
through the change of life more successfully than any other remedy in the world. Thousands of testimonials from grateful persons, two of which are here published, substantiate this fact beyond contradiction.

Mrs. George Walters of Woodlawn,
Ill., writes:
"I feel it my duty to tell you of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
has done me in preparing for childbirth.
After suffering and losing my children a friend advised me to try your valuable medicine, and the result was that I had very little inconvenience, a quick recovery and as healthy a child as can be found anywhere.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
is a blessing to all expectant mothers."

Mrs. Elva Barber Edwards of Cathlamet, Wash., writes:

"I want to tell you how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carried me through the critical period of the Change of Life without any trouble whatever, also cured me of a very severe female weakness, I cannot say enough in praise of what your medicine has done for me."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Walters and Mrs. Edwards it will do for other women in their condition. Every suffering woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs.
Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of her vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and helpful.

During its long record of more than thirty years its long list of actual cures, entitles Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to the respect and confidence of every fair minded person.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes Sick Women Well.

TRAP SHOOTING OVER FOR YEAR

Gun Club Men Will Wait Till Washington's Birthday for Next Shoot.

The weekly shoots of the Honolulu Gun Club will be given up for the present. This decision has been made on account of the fact that the evenings at this season of the year are so short. Most of the members of the club get through their work at 5 o'clock and it is thirty minutes later before they reach the traps at Kakaako. As there is very little light after 5:45, at this season of the year, it will be seen that there is little time for shooting.

The shooting at unknown angles has hardly proved popular with most of the members. They were used to the known angle shooting, in which they had been able to make pretty good scores, and to try the other method, in which some have been able to hit only one or two out of fourteen birds, has come pretty hard. It is doubtful if another match of this kind will be held for some time.

According to the plans which have been made at present there will be practically no more trap shooting till Washington's birthday, February 22, when the annual shoot will be held. This will be the great occasion of the year and even now the members of the gun club, when not busy on trips into the country after game, are talking over the events which will be on the program.

DEVEREAUX IS TEAM CAPTAIN

Mike Fisher has selected "Brick" Devereaux as captain of the team that he will take to Honolulu, leaving November 16. Mike could have made no better selection, for Bill will inject plenty of ginger into the playing, and that is what will make the team popular. A series of games has been arranged with a picked team selected by Kid Mohler. The first of these games will be played Thursday, November 7, at Oakland. Friday and Saturday and Sunday afternoons the teams will play at Recreation Park, San Francisco, and Sunday morning at Oakland.—Chronicle.

THE TRUTH ALWAYS.

"When you are in doubt tell the truth." It was an experienced old diplomat who said this to a beginner in the work. It may pass in some things, but not in business. Fraud and deception are often profitable so long as concealed; yet detection is certain sooner or later; then comes the smash-up and the punishment. The best and safest way is to tell the truth all the time. Thus you make friends that stick by you, and a reputation that is always worth twenty shillings to the pound everywhere your goods are offered for sale. We are able modestly to affirm, that it is on this basis that the world-wide popularity of WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION rests. The people have discovered that this medicine is exactly what it is said to be, and that it does what we have always declared it will do. Its nature also has been frankly made known. It is palatable as honey and contains all the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. A combination of supreme excellence and medicinal merit. Nothing has been so successful in Anemia, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Influenza, Loss of Flesh and Wasting Diseases, Weakness and Low Nervous Tone, and all complaints caused by Impure Blood. Dr. Austin D. Irvine, of Canada, says: "I have used it in cases where cod liver oil was indicated but could not be taken by the patient, and the results following were very gratifying." It cannot deceive or disappoint you, and comes to the rescue of those who have received no benefit from any other treatment. It represents the dawn of progress. Sold by all chemists everywhere.

The Clearing House

(S. F. Commercial News.)

Attention was called in a previous article to some of the good work performed by the New York and Chicago Clearing House Associations, and the opinion was expressed that the recent financial troubles in New York would probably be properly cared for by the local association. That view is supported by the action of the banks on Monday and of the stand they appear to have taken in reference to the matter.

In the great disaster in this city in April, 1906, when some giant power shook San Francisco from center to circumference, and when some evil force followed in the instigation of numerous fires for the destruction of property from the waterfront to the ocean, and when every bank in the city was closed on account of the calamity, it was to the San Francisco Clearing House Association that everybody turned for relief. For several days much inconvenience was experienced from the difficulty of securing money to meet actual needs. There was just as much money in the city as there was the day preceding the fire, but it was in vaults that could not be opened. The Clearing House banks had credit, and they used it to bring in money from points outside of the city, as far distant as New York. They did not wait for the slow action of the mails, but the money was flashed to the city over the wires.

The good work of the San Francisco Clearing House Association for days and weeks after the disaster will not soon be forgotten, and it ought never to be forgotten. The value of this organization was fully demonstrated at the time and was fully appreciated. But for such an organization the distress would not have been so easily and so quickly and thoroughly relieved.

The first of these associations in the United States was established in New York just fifty-four years ago. They have since come into existence in all of the larger cities in the country. There is probably over one hundred of these clearing houses now in operation.

Organized primarily to facilitate settlements between the banks, they have proven to be a great success in many ways, and the banks could not be hired to go back to the primitive ways of effecting their settlements. The business interests of the country would not stand for the change for a single day. Time has become too precious to brook the delays that would follow any general return to the old ways of making collections. The money supply is altogether too inadequate to cope with the volume of business under any less efficient system than the one which now prevails.

Clearing House Associations have not been formed without some opposition. The organization of the one in this city was delayed for some years after its need had been fully realized because of the opposition to the enterprise on the part of some of the local banks, the managers of which thought they would be giving away too much of their business to others by such an affiliation.

The same delay in such organizations has probably occurred in other cities, and for the same or no better excuse, but such prejudices are gradually being overcome for the greater good that is accomplished through these agencies.

The system is spreading, and it has become more noticeable than ever in the past few years.

The San Francisco association was opened in March, 1878, and practically on every business day since. The Los Angeles association was opened in September, 1887, and has recently celebrated its twentieth anniversary. From clearings of $36,050,981 in the first year, the total for the twentieth year rose to $623,170,919, a gain of $73,522,695 over the previous year, equal to an increase of 13.37 per cent. J. A. Graves, of the Farmers & Merchants' National, is president, and J. B. Gist is secretary and manager.

Fresno has had a clearing house for many years, but the date of its organization is not remembered.

Oakland organized a clearing house in May, 1906. The banks in that city were forced into the movement through the disorganization of financial affairs in San Francisco at that time. But the Oakland bankers are no doubt well pleased with their action.

Within the past few months clearing houses have been organized in San Jose, Stockton and Sacramento. In the last named city the first clearing was made on October 14th. Seven banks are in the organization in that city.

Such organizations are steadily coming into existence in other cities on the Pacific Coast as well as in other parts of the country. Once formed they continue to thrive.

They undoubtedly contribute materially in raising the bank standard in every city where they are given hospitality. It is of prime importance that they insist that their fellow members as well as the banks that clear through them shall always conduct their business after the most approved methods of banking to secure the assurance of aid in time of trouble. It is in the power of the Clearing House Associations of the country to establish and maintain an impregnable standard of banking.

WHITE ROCK AT HALEIWA

There have been but few entries made for the White Rock tournament, which is to be played at Haleiwa next Sunday and the lovers of golf who expect to make this trip, should bear in mind that entries can only be made before noon on Friday, at E. O. Hall and Son's. Several members have signified their intention of going down to Waialua on Friday, and getting the benefit of a day's play over the links before the tournament takes place. No one will be allowed to play on the links on Sunday, before the tournament takes place, under penalty of disqualification.

LADY GOLFERS MAY PLAY

It seems quite likely that a match for the ladies' golf championship at the Country Club will take place in the near future. A number of the members of the club are in favor of the scheme and as soon as the plans of Alexander McClaren, the professional who is coming from Melbourne, have been announced the greens committee will take the matter up. There are many of the local ladies who take almost daily exercise on the links and it is believed that in some cases their golf might well be compared with that seen in matches played by the fairer sex on foreign grounds. Among those who have displayed considerable prowess at the game are: Miss Wilhelmina Tenney, Miss Lorna Lauke, Mrs. E. C. Brown, Mrs. J. D. Gaines and Miss Thora Oss.

MARINE

The Nippon Maru, Captain Filmer, which left San Francisco October 30, arrived in port yesterday afternoon after a very pleasant trip.

The Nippon brought two passengers for this port, Mr. E. Lyons, who stops over on his way to Hongkong, to visit in Honolulu. The Maru brought four days' later mail.

She was sighted shortly after one o'clock yesterday afternoon but did not dock until four, her large Japanese steamer list keeping her outside until the doctors could make an examination.

ARIZONAN IN PORT.

Ten days out from Puget Sound, the freighter Arizonan, arrived off this port shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Almost as soon as she docked, she commenced unloading her freight for Honolulu.

After discharging this port's quota, the Arizonan leaves for Kahului and Hilo where she will discharge freight and load sugar.

OIL NOT ALL OUT.

The Santa Maria, the oil carrier which arrived in port Monday evening, has not as yet finished discharging her cargo. When the last drop of oil has been pumped out she will take on water ballast and return to Port Harford whence she came.

This is the Santa Maria's fourth trip with oil to this port. She brought 50,000 barrels.

ISLAND BOATS LEAVE.

A number of inter-island boats left this port on their usual weekly run to the various islands. At noon the Kinau, Captain Freeman, left for Hilo and way ports, and at 5 o'clock the W. G. Hall and the Iwalani both departed, the W. G. Hall going to Kanae ports and the Iwalani touching at Maui and Molokai landings.

HILONIAN SAILED.

Promptly at 10 o'clock, the hour set for her departure, the Matson Navigation steamship Hilonian, Captain Johnson, left this port for San Francisco with a full list of passengers and with her hold full of freight, consisting largely of sugar and island fruit.

The Hawaiian band was in attendance and rendered appreciated pieces.

ALAMEDA TO SAIL.

The Alameda, Captain Dowdell, sails this morning at 10 o'clock for San Francisco. She carries a large number of passengers and has a full cargo of sugar and fruit.

NEVADAN SAILED.

MRS. CUNHA IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Hawaiian Band Mainland Trip Results in Separation of Young Couple.

"He said we'd stop at good hotels galore—We only stopped at them outside the door."

Not only did the Hawaiian Glee Club, of which "Sonny" Cunha was director, fail to get past the doors of the swell hotels, but Mrs. Cunha had to pawn her jewels to pay the expenses of the singers from Denver to Chicago and again more jewels went to buy railroad tickets from Chicago to Kentucky. Thus it was that divorce proceedings were brought by Mrs. Juanita K. Cunha against Albert R. Cunha, for non-support, the case being heard before Judge De Bolt yesterday afternoon. The divorce was granted.

The libellant was the only one of the principals who appeared in court. She testified that since October, 1906, four months after the words had been spoken that made her the wife of the libellee, she had had to depend upon her mother for the money to buy her clothes, and since June, 1907, she had had to depend upon what was sent her from Honolulu for all her necessities.

Three days after the wedding, in May of last year, she and her husband left for the mainland to be a part of the Hawaiian band, under the management of Joe Cohen. Her husband was the director of the Hawaiian Glee Club, which jumped the band at Denver. Then her troubles began. From that time on the glee club had difficulties, stranding in Denver and moving on only through the money she could raise from pawning her personal effects. At no time did her husband provide for her as he should. Second-rate boarding houses were her lot and in Chicago she had to hang around the cafes, where the glee club was playing, until the early hours of the morning, waiting until her husband was ready to come home. She complained about the way she was being maintained, but did not decide to leave her husband until after the glee club had reached Louisville, Kentucky, in June, 1907. Then she came to San Francisco. Her husband wrote, offering to take her back again if she would send him the balance of her jewelry to pawn, which offer was refused.

Mrs. George Beckley, the mother of the libellant, was the only other witness called yesterday at the trial, she testifying that she had had to send her daughter $1500 during the past year to live upon.

The libellee, who was represented by Frank Thompson, made no appearance in court, nor was anything offered in evidence in opposition to the decree being granted. Judge De Bolt ruled that all the counts and ordered that a decree of divorce issue, allowing the libellant to resume her maiden name.

FEDERAL COURT PROCEEDINGS. Pedro Rodriguez, under indictment for adultery, pleaded not guilty before Judge Dole yesterday. His trial was set for January 6, 1908.

George Kekauoha and Kelehuia, on a similar charge, were arraigned and pleaded not guilty. January 7, 1908, was set as a date for their trial.

Manuel Ramos, pleading guilty on a like charge, was sentenced to three months in jail, and Napoona, on the same charge, for four months.

Joseph Kane, same charge, will serve four months in jail.

George Kekauoha, who appears in one of the above cases, will be up for trial this morning for unlawful cohabitation with Anna Lilili, who herself will appear before Judge Dole tomorrow.

ON THE CRIMINAL CALENDAR. The Territory versus Buyama, malicious injury, which was set for hearing Judge Lindsay's court yesterday, has gone over for a week, postponement being necessary through the illness of the County Attorney.

The appeal of Mary Gordon Bennett from a District Court sentence for drunkenness has been withdrawn. Mary is now serving the second or third term on similar charges since her appeal was noted.

J. J. Souza also withdrew his appeal from the District Court decision, finding him for headless driving.

There is a long list of cases on Judge Lindsay's calendar for today. The case against Charley Wilson, for soliciting is down for a hearing and a demurrer in the case of the Territory against Jacob Rosenberg will be heard, while seven other cases are set for trial.

Tomorrow's calendar in the same court includes the Territory versus Antonio Rodriguez Jr. and John Marks, larceny, trial, and Territory versus Kaapana, plea.

BEFORE JUDGE DE BOLT. Mrs. Nellie Hoe's assumption suit against the Hutchinson Sugar Plantation was yesterday set for a hearing for December 2.

The request of Thompson & Clemmons that their case against J. Lor Walach, for the payment of legal fees, be heard before Judge De Bolt yesterday was withdrawn and will come up later.

COURT NOTES.

The final accounts of L. A. Thurston, administrator of the estate of Julia Anthon Paty, were filed in the Circuit Court yesterday with a petition for discharge and distribution. The petition will be heard this morning at 11 o'clock.

A petition for a decree of divorce from Joe Dias was filed yesterday by Kalola Kahalewai Dias, the libellee having been sent to the Molokai settlement in 1903, two years after the marriage.

James Armstrong has not as yet removed the pipe line which crosses the right of way of the O. R. & L. company near Ewa, although ordered to do so by a court decision, dated October 29, 1907. Yesterday an order was filed to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court.

The Supreme Court met at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, immediately adjourning until this morning, no business being taken up.

An order approving the final accounts of W. R. Castle, administrator of the estate of Mary Ann Pa, and ordering discharge was made yesterday by Judge De Bolt.

EWA TAX DECISION SAVES $547,990

In nineteen cases the Tax Appeal Court has submitted decisions in which cases protests have been made on depreciation. In each instance the Ewa plantation case is cited as the basis of the decision, and the amount of depreciation claimed is admitted to be a fair estimate. The various claims thus sustained are as follows:

Honolulu Sugar Co.	11,723.18
Onomea Sugar Co.	31,313.34
Koloa Sugar Co.	29,830.99
Pepeekeo Sugar Co.	23,677.99

Total	$547,990.03

PINKHAM SAYS HE IS NOT A LIAR

"I have nothing whatever to say about the meeting held in my office this morning," said President Pinkham, of the Board of Health, in answer to the report in the evening papers that the Board of Health was considering the report brought from Molokai that there was trouble at the settlement over the refusal of the board to allow Wallace to make his tests. "The meeting this morning was not a meeting of the Board of Health, but a consultation merely among a number of representative men. We came to no conclusions whatever and whatever our discussion was was not of a nature that I would care to make public."

The meeting in the morning was a closed-door one, at which Dr. Goodhue, of the Molokai settlement, is supposed to have reported that there was great uneasiness among the wards of the Territory at Molokai, an uneasiness and a mutinous feeling that had caused him to pack his grip and make tracks for Honolulu. The condition at the settlement was an anomalous one for him, when he found himself unable to make any satisfactory explanation to the lepers of the position of the board and unable to calm them by any promises.

"They have said over at the settlement that I am a liar," stated President Pinkham, "but I have not lied to them. I am the best friend they have got, if they only knew it." Other than that he refused to talk.

NEW MATERIAL FOR KITE TAILS

It has been discovered recently that old rent receipts make the best material for kite tails. If it's your ambition to fly kites and do without a home for yourself and family don't buy a home—pay rent and save your receipts for kite making. If—on the other hand—you desire to own a home at Kaimuki, Kalihi, Makiki, College Hills or Punahou inquire at our office.

CHINESE ASSOCIATION'S ENTHUSIASTIC RALLY

The Chinese Young Men's Christian Association held a rally at its hall last night at which a large number of Chinese young men were in attendance. The meeting, for the most part, was carried on in Chinese.

Goo Kim, the only surviving charter member of the Chinese Y. M. C. A., spoke at some length on how the institution came to be founded.

When he came from China, there were no Christian Chinese here. Later, two came to Honolulu, one from Maui and the other from San Francisco. The question which was uppermost in the minds of these three Chinese gentlemen was "What shall we do to save the Chinese young men in Honolulu?"

They heard of the success which the Y. M. C. A. was having in California and Goo Kim said "Let us start one here." The first meetings were held in a store, and in 1885 the present building was erected.

Secretary Super, of the local Y. M. C. A., followed. He told of the value of the Y. M. C. A. to any people. Other speakers were F. W. Damon, Rev. E. W. Thwing, A. Frank Cooke and T. Clive Davies.

Following the speeches, light refreshments were served.

FINNIGAN COMES TO THE RESCUE

The ladies and gentlemen producing the laughable and interesting comedy, entitled "Finnigan the Millionaire," have very generously offered their services, to the transpacific yacht committee, in giving just one more entertainment, for the benefit of their purpose, on Monday evening at the Orpheum.

The lessee of this theater, J. C. Cohen, has added to this benefit the use of his house free of charge. Everybody is helping.

The play is full of quick, smart wit and characterizes the true Irish honor, humor and tradition. It is generally conceded that these amateurs have excelled any amateur performance yet given in this city.

Get your ticket, enjoy a hearty laugh and help buy the balloon jib.

BIG QUANTITY OF PINEAPPLES

The extent to which the canned pineapple industry has grown in the past year was well illustrated yesterday when the Matson Navigation Company's steamer Hilonian left this port for San Francisco. She had on board 20,300 cases of canned pineapples, the largest shipment of this kind ever made from the Territory. This means in the neighborhood of $80,000 worth of the luscious fruit, which goes to the Coast on one vessel. From what the pineapple men say, this will be only a small shipment within the next two or three years, as the output will increase enormously each twelve months.

WILL SERVE GOOD MEALS.

The Hoffman Chop House on Hotel street, next to Nuuanu, in the Hoffman saloon premises, opens tomorrow and promises to be one of the best equipped places of the kind in the city. The rooms have been entirely refitted and renovated and the fixtures are of a character that is inviting. The choice of cooks has been made with the result that the patrons may depend upon having good food cooked to their taste. The service will be what is to be expected in a place where the management caters to the tastes of people who know what good eating is and who appreciate it when it is placed before them. Customers may depend upon getting a quick meal well cooked and well served. The place will be open for early breakfast tomorrow.

United States District Attorney Breckons was the presiding genius at another wedding yesterday afternoon, which took place in his office at three o'clock. Miss Souana Kobe, a Japanese girl, under arrest as having entered the country in violation of the immigration rules, was the bride, her release from custody being coincident with the signing of the marriage certificate by the Japanese priest. As an aid to Hymen, Breckons has Cupid a lap behind.
