Some two years or more ago, when Russia first occupied Manchuria, the NEWS asserted that the powers would simply be used as cat's paws, and that the monkeychefski would get whatever chesnuts were raked out of the fire. Today, Russia refuses to give up Manchuria, and is in a favorable position to make good her claim. If a war comes, it will be Russia on one side against Great Britain and Japan on the other, and the scepe of war will on it and an inscription stating this quickly shift from Mancheria to Turkey, Persia and India. Russia will hold Manchuria, and France may be drawn into the conflict, upon which Germany may become involved. The United States will probably take sober second thought and be content with a protest. A railroad through Persia, another through Manchuria and a Turkish army of 250,000 men in Macedonia may not all be intended was compelled to turn back very coincidents, but they are exactly the combination which Russia quickly. A whirlwind would arise would need in case of a war with the powers.

2 G. Dunn, M. H. Reuter,

The touching account of the warm and generous reception accorded to King Edward by the king and commons at Rome teaches that the world is growing old gracefully. Our knowledge of the first contact between Latin and Briton, conned from the wellthumbed Cæsars of our school days, pictures a legion of mailed Roman warriors leaping from odd, high-peoped vessels into the hostile tide waters of the English coast, only to be met with armed men and welcomed to hospitable graves. Two thousand years have stamped their passing seals on men and countries with a magic touch, which has wrought high marvels. Who so bold as to try to picture what the end of the next twenty centuries may see? liefs prevailed, and his crews were

The United States, having taken over the Philippines, is somewhat in the position of the man who caught the bear by the tail, and then found it equally dangerous to let go or hold on. What with savage and murderous subjects, epidemics of cholera and plague, and the unending tortures of a detestable climate, our Government has an unenviable task before it, and it begins to seem that that the solution to the problem will be to release Aguinaldo and let him make himself president, dictator or king of the Philippines, according to his fancy, with a nominal protectorate to be exercised by the United States.

The burnat of our dead is a serious question, so far as it becomes a sanitary matter, and although it has been the custom of Hawaiians to use their door yards in some instances as burial grounds, yet the time has come when wiser sanitary measures should be adopted, and the Hawaiians should be encouraged to take the lead in such matter. Of course, proper cemeteries and pounds. burying grounds should be secured, at public expense if necessary, and then all alike should be compelled, by law if necessary, to put away their dead where they will not be a future menace to the health of the living.

Senator Paris of Hawaii "butted in" where he had no particu lar business when he objected to and defeated the division of the road appropriation for Haleakala. $3,000 for a trail and $2,000 for the complete repair of the cottage on the summit of Haleakala would have been a much more proper and sensible division of the of adversity until you reach the first keeping the trail. The "hare," as proposed appropriation, and if it not too late, the entire body of turn to the right." representatives and senators from Maui should wait on Senator Paris and prevail on him to spend one shavery night on the summit. That would convince him.

The United States has a grave problem to solve in the matter of he attitude which it must take on the approaching Russo-Mancaurian question. It is not a question which should involve the United States in a war with Russia, and as far as the United States should go should be to issue an ultimatum to Russia, limiting the encroachments of Russia on Chinese territory to Manchuria proper, with an open market to the United States in the stolen

It was only a tithe of the taxes which Maurhas poured into the OFFICE in the HAWAHAN ISLANDS, Filled throughout with the latest Honolulu coffers, which was used to construct the Wailuku and Appliances known to Science. Kahului and the Lahaina water-works, and it is only just that the County of Maui should become the owner of these water-works and of the revenues to be derived from them, for local municipal purposes. Central Maui, with its immense wealth and wonderful natural resources cannot stand still, and must continually move forward, keeping step with the march of new times and new events. The granting of an electric light and motor franchise for Wailuku means more than appears on the surface, and those of us who live to see, will see some wonderful developments within the next few years, as the time ripens.

Five thousand tons of .. ugar, accumulated at Kahului since the departure of the last big steamer and awaiting transportation to the world's markets, presents a vivid picture of one phase of the wonderful section of country known as central Maui, where all of this sugar was produced. Wailuku, with queenly pride, views from her hill-tops the entire area of this wonderful fertility.

Occasionally a bold navigator did, nevertheless, venture outside into the Atlantic, but and threaten to swamp the vessel, or, more alarming still, a gigantic hand, supposed to be that of Satan, would emerge from the ocean of eternal gloom and warn back the mariners.

Not merely on these accounts was the ocean impracticable for ships. It was reported to be so dense with saltness and so crowded with seaweeds and huge beasts that headway could not be made through it. The majesty of the law constantly appealed to his Paper Hunting.

One of the most exciting of all riding games is paper hunting, or following a trail made by dropping of pieces of paper. It can be made as dangerous as steeplechasing or no more so than an ordinary gallop ever the fields. How a Boy Explained a Parable.

There is no saying how the average small boy sometimes regards religious truth. LAHAINA LINES.

A considerable portion of the St. Cross property has been leased to C. Ah Nee, who will make improvements shortly. The old stone house, and a piece of ground around it, are reserved for the use of the incumbent, as heretofere. The building was constructed originally for a marine Hospital by the U. S. Government, leave having been obtained from the Hawaiian Government. This was during the period when numerons whaling vessels were often anchored in the stream, near Lahaina. The superintendent of the Hospital also kept a drug store in the town. When the whaling industry declined, the hospital was no longer needed, and apparently travelling in a north the property was purchased by Bish east direction over Olinda, finally op Willis. He established a church school, and several Sisters were appointed teachers. Some of the buildings have been torn down. A small cemetery which formerly belonged to the Hospital, may still be seen in one of the canefields, not far from the Roman Catholic church. About 16 months ago the St. Cross lot was flooded during a violent storm, and a heavy growth of underbrush subsequently sprang up. This has been nicely cleared away by Mr. Adams and others.

Postmaster Arthur Waal's birth day occurred on April 24, and he received a birthday present of a handsome sign for the post office.

The Christian Science Church was dedicated last Sunday, at 11 a. m. So large was the attendance that many were obliged to stand. Visitors were present from Honolulu, Hilo, Lanai and other places. The services was conducted by Pastor St. 19 John James Matthews, assisted by Rev. J. Kekipi and Rev. J. Kealaula of Honolulu, and Rev. W. E. Edmonds of Hilo. After the dedication the visitors were entertained at a luau. In the afternoon there was a Sunday school exhibition, which was followed by another luau.

On Monday evening a concert was given in the church, and the singing was very good. Among those who took part were musicians from Honolulu, and some of the students of Lahainalona Seminary. After the programme, ice cream and cake were passed around. Remarks were subsequently made by Judge Kahauleho, Judge Kabokuoluna, Pastor Matthews and other ministers above mentioned. With the exception of some English songs, the Hawaiian anguage was used exclusively.

The original name of this religious was "The Church of Reasonable Service," and it has only recently adopted the designation of "Christian Science." It is in no way connected with the Eddy School of Christian Scientists in the States. It is claimed that a number of remarkable cures have been made recently.

Stray Notes.

A list of the names of the strenuous supporters of the infamous Pauca water steal will prove important for ticket is to be named.

n the loss of William W. Dimond, who was an ideal type of business man and public spirited citizen.

The citizens of Wailuku now begin to understand what the NEWS has all along meant by urging them to get logether occasionally in mass meetings.

Honolulu is entirely welcome to the sole use and benedt of Berger's Bånd, but hereafter, Honolulu should be left severely alone when it comes to paying the fiddler.

With an old fashioned barbecue, breaking ground for a new railroad, an Elks minstrel show and a tennis tournament, Hilo is well provided for amusements for the Glorious Fourth.

Government employees are now required to work only eight hours a day. The Lahaina contingent of workers on the pali road will please take notice and govern themselves accordingly.

The Wailuku syndicate who are pushing the electric car franchise will have to adopt stringent regulations to prevent Wailuku Japs from jumping off backwards, as the trolley turns from Main street into Market.

If the appropriation for hydrants, hose-carts and fire hose for Wailuku materializes the next thing will be to see that a bum outfit of misfit and unfit material is not dumped on us in lieu of up-to date apparatus. No more Chicago hydrants, if you please, Mr. Board of Public Works.
