THE DAILY PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER

Be just and fear not;
Let all the ends thou aim'st at be
Thy Country's, thy God's, and Truth's.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 28, 1891.

The editorial department of the Bulletin is evidently thoroughly committed to the late mud-slinging policy of the Elele. Such tactics were very proper for the class of readers who read the Elele, but do not carry conviction to any one whose opinion is worth anything.

The Bulletin is constantly frothing at the mouth about some horrible secret which it has stowed away in its back office concerning the electric light system. The subject is evidently gnawing at the editor's vitals, and like a ghost which will not be laid, meets him at unexpected corners. Out with it, neighbor! Make a clean breast of it. We know that you are dying to tell; now come on and give us the dread details and we will have our devil ready with a green light, and slow music.

REVOLUTIONARY CHILE.

The troubles that have recently broken out in Chile appear to have been impending for a long time, as far back indeed as the election of the present President, Senor Balmaceda, in June, 1886. The President of the Chilean Republic are elected for a period of four years, and accordingly President Balmaceda's term of office expired last June. It appears to have become a custom in Chile that the retiring President names his preference for a successor, and in this case one Senor Sanfuentes, to whom Balmaceda was indebted for some pecuniary services, but who had no political or national claim to the office, was named as his candidate.

This gave rise at once to a disturbance of so formidable a character that the chief of the Cabinet, Senor Lastarria, demanded of Balmaceda the absolute withdrawal of his candidate. Balmaceda insolently refused, on which the Liberal party, hitherto divided, demanded in concert the withdrawal of Sanfuentes and the appointment of a new and Liberal Ministry. Though the President was obliged to make a show of yielding, he soon found means of forcing the new Ministry to resign, and himself appointed a Cabinet composed entirely of his personal friends, with the obnoxious Sanfuentes as Prime Minister, and to escape a vote of censure from the Congress, dismissed the Assembly with the promise of an extra session. On being convened, this extra session passed a vote of censure on the President, and one of want of confidence on the Ministry, on which the President withdrew Sanfuentes from the candidacy, but persuaded the Ministry to declare its determination to remain in office in opposition to the Congress.

This was the match that fired the pile. Several minor riots were quelled in Santiago, but in Valparaiso a formidable outbreak had already taken place, when on the 20th of May the Intendencia was attacked and completely wrecked, the household of the Intendente only escaping by the timely aid of the troops.

On August 13th the obnoxious Ministers resigned, but Balmaceda appointed successors equally unpopular, they being all firm advocates of the President's policy, and so the Executive and the Congress being thrown into antagonism, the position is one which has ripened into revolution.

The Congress now refused to grant supplies in order to force the President and Ministers to yield to the public. The laws regulating and authorizing the tariff of import and export duties became void on July 2, 1890, and Congress refused any relief until the President yielded. The country was in a state of panic, business was paralyzed and all the machinery of Government ceased to act.

The President and his party still held out.

At Valparaiso on September 1st, the Custom House was closed by the striking of the stevedores and launch men who were without wages, and who banded together and attacked several business establishments, but were driven off by the troops. In the course of the evening, full 10,000 rioters took possession of the principal streets and commenced to pillage and set on fire. For two hours this scene continued when a body of troops arrived and opened fire mercilessly on the mob, whom they dispersed with forty of the rioters dead on the ground and a large number wounded.

The country therefore finds itself in the following dilemma:

On the one hand the refusal of Congress to vote any supplies, cuts off the subsistence of the Republic; meanwhile Balmaceda, the President, has full control of army, navy, banks and mint as long as he can control the officials. If, therefore, Balmaceda and his Ministry can hold out, the Government of Chile becomes a Dictatorship—a condition that cannot last for long, or probably, be brought to an end without sanguinary civil war. As the action of the Congress plainly shows that neither the House nor the country are inclined to yield their just rights, the only way to avoid bloodshed would seem to be that Balmaceda, who was not elected without riot and bloodshed, and his partisans should withdraw from the position they have usurped.

The Statement of the Shooting of the Late Mr. Mahoe.

MR. EDITOR: In your issue of to-day, Jan. 27th, you publish a notice of the death of Rev. J. H. Mahoe, a Hawaiian missionary. You speak kind words of his work, but when you state, "a dispute arose, and he was shot through the arm by one of the savages," one would naturally infer that the shooting was occasioned by a quarrel or dispute in which he was, more or less, himself engaged. Allow me to correct this wrong impression. Mr. Mahoe was sent to the Gilbert Islands in 1858. He was located for two years on Apaiang. In 1860 he was removed, as one of the pioneers, to the neighboring island of Tarawa. Here he taught the savages for nearly eight years. He was then re-stationed at Apaiang, and while there a war broke out between the inhabitants of these two islands. The Apaiangers gained a firm foothold on Tarawa, and the Tarawa party came down and took possession of the deserted and undefended island of Apaiang. These savage hordes thronged the mission station for weeks and months. The lives of the missionaries were constantly in danger. Some of the houses were repeatedly rifled. On the 25th of March, 1869, Mr. Mahoe had more or less information that it was the purpose of the savages to take his life that night. One of the party had for some time professed to be friendly to him, and was constantly with him on the evening of that day. About midnight he suggested to Mr. Mahoe that he remove his lamp from the sitting room into the bedroom, and that he remain in the dark that he might not be seen by those who wished to shoot him from outside. He removed the lamp, and came back to the sitting room. Missing the Gilbert Islander, he went to the side of the door, and peered out into the darkness, calling to the Gilbert Islander. The reply was a shot from this very man, who stood but a few feet from the house. The bullet passed through his body, near the right shoulder, and struck the wall on the opposite side of the room, and rebounded. For four months Mr.

Mahoe was on his back. It was not until October, 1870, that he was able to reach these islands and secure medical treatment. Under the patient care of Dr. Stenzenwald, and by the blessing of God, the wound finally healed, but his arm was useless.

The shooting was done in cold blood, without any provocation whatever. Let it ever be to the credit of Mr. and Mrs. Mahoe that they voluntarily stood nobly at their post, humble, gentle and defenseless missionaries when they might have been removed by the Morning Star to another island for safety.

Philosophy of Journalism.

Journalism, briefly defined, is the embodiment of public opinion, in the periodical press. And if this definition, condensed and corrected, be correct, it is obvious that men in early history did not select it, as a means of warfare. But it was chosen and selected as a medium through which the ideas and feelings of the people could be scanned from its pages, after they had reached a state of ebullition; the same to acquire importance as it became more surely, truly and more widely an expositor of the sentiments of the people—those sentiments of strength and character which may be crushed for a time by one faction, and upheld by another. This may be accepted as a minor conclusion involved in a major one of far more importance. The former can be established by the analyst, while the latter as we shall presently attempt to show, must be judged by the historian. There are ingenious men who live very plentifully upon the curiosity of their fellow subjects.

All of the literary scavengers gather up the same gossip, all of them receive the same advice from abroad, and very often in very same words; but their way of cooking it, is so very different, that our spoiled and over-pampered tastes are pleased and agreeably satisfied, until our highly-fed palates, accept them, served up steaming hot and fresh. But when they are again set cold before us, it is only journalistic artist which may garish and prepare the proper sauces to give them a relish.

Then again, comes that cold cynical skeptical penetrating politician, warning his eagle eye down the paper in search of his "wolf," which the ever wary editor must have taken especial care to "dress up," because he grunts the selfish grunt of satisfaction, and proceeds to mutter chops and beefsteak in good address. The appetite for news, and the various kinds and qualities required to satisfy it, is only known to the mortal and the immortal (?) journalists. The newspaper annals of the present century are full of progress, which develops in libels, government prosecutions, and struggles of the masses. Many triumphs have been gained by the press, not the least notable of these is the triumph of public liberty the independence of mind!

A few, only a comparative few papers of the day have grown great, absorbing attention by their magnitude and importance, for the conducted and simple reason that they have directed the current of popularity into particular channels. This proceeded from the far-sighted vision of independent speciality!

The history of Hawaiian journalism is in its infancy; it is still unwritten; but the materials are accumulating rapidly. In one year's time, we have noted the steady advancement of each periodical; that spirit of eager energetic loftiness which struggles for the topmost round of the ladder. We have seen the budding of a small evening sheet, which in itself was a credit, blossoming into a full-fledged eight paged edition. We have noted the constant growth of our earliest and reliable morning journal whose elements of success seem to be firm, and wholly peculiar to its carefully selected literary matter, and able journalistic ability in its management. And especially do we admire the phenomenal enterprise as shown in the recent numbers of the "Paradise of the Pacific." Honolulu may be proud of her first illustrated journal. Its editors have begun at the X. Y. of illustrations. They are perfect! The great monarchs of the peace seem to be in a constant state of rivalry which will result in a high standard of financial success—and by and by a historian will rise from these squabbles of analysts and essayists to weave together all loose facts and speculations in one grand department of literature, which will influence the destinies of the people.

A journal may be the voice of an individual, but the power of the voice depends upon the echoes which take it up, which prolong and infinitely multiply its vibrations. These are facts which journalists know particularly well. The greatest of our foreign and American papers owe their success to the unwearied care with which they watch the changing tide of public opinion, so as to appear to direct that mighty current on which it can only float. The active brain of the editor sees laid bare before him the stuff that fills the aggregate mind, "wisdom brought forth sweet charity." Wise editor! Mai Fai.

The Costliest Drug in the World's Great Pharmacopoeia.

Here is a list of scarce and costly drugs: Three-pound bottle of alkaloid of aconitine, $485.50; quarter-ounce phial of chelidonium alkaloid, a new drug used in skin diseases, scrofula and dropsy, $88; cocaine, about $120 per pound. A five-ounce bottle of "true cotin" will cost about $350, or about $70 per ounce. Crystals of elaterin, a poison, used in cases of hydrophobia and lockjaw, prepared from a plant called South American Indian arrow, is worth about $175 per ounce. Among other costly drugs we might mention the following, and the different sized bottles and phials in which they are sold: Agaricin, 4½ ounces, $43.75; colocythin, 5½ ounces, $114.75.

Besides the above there are various preparations made from the Calabar bean, the cost of which are amazing. They are chiefly used in diseases of the eye. The costliest of these preparations from the Calabar bean is physostigmine salicylate crystals, an aristocratic drug that is furnished to the customer who is able to buy at the reasonable charge of $1,810,020 for a two-ounce phial—St. Louis Republic.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The steamer Kinau, arriving early this morning, will bring a heavy cargo of sugar and other island produce. The Electra will receive some of her sugar.
The bark Coryphene is loading for San Francisco.
After the departure of the bark C D Bryant this morning, the ship from Maui will assume an almost deserted appearance. The John C. Porter, unloading coal near the P. M. S. S. Co.'s wharf, the Electra at Wilder's wharf, and the Coryphene near the Fish Market, both loading, will be the only merchant vessels in the harbor. There is an enormous quantity of sugar stored in the different warehouses, and vessels to carry them to the San Francisco markets are in demand. The arrival of the Kinau this morning will awaken life on the water front somewhat.
The bark Ceylon sailed for San Francisco on Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. She took 16,550 bags sugar weighing 1,885,775 pounds. Its value was estimated at $81,755. The following were the shippers: F. A. Schaefer & Co., 3,300 bags sugar; C. Brewer & Co., 1,291 bags sugar, 180 hides and 580 skins; Theo. H. Davies & Co., 4,757 bags sugar; Castle & Cooke, 4,069 bags sugar.
The bark C. D. Bryant sails at a very early hour this morning for San Francisco with 24,994 bags sugar whose weight amounts to 2,559,871 pounds. The value of the cargo is placed at $134,790.31. H. von Holt is a shipper of 5,398 gallons whiskey. H. Hackfeld & Co.'s shipment of sugar figures at 18,221 bags weighing 2,241,448 pounds. The balance of the sugar, 6,143 bags, are exported by M. S. Grunbaum & Co.

The schooner Sarah and Eliza arrived yesterday morning from Koolau with 400 bags sugar. The little schooner departs again to-day to bring another load.

The steamer Iwalani sailed for Hamakua to-morrow.

The term Alka returned yesterday afternoon from Kona, Hawaii. She brought 31 head cattle from Napoosoo, and a load of ohia firewood from Kaupuna.

Kawainui, editor of the Ko Hawaii Pae Aina, asking him to kindly furnish him with old native papers, for him to distribute among his fellow companions in the Arctic regions. His request was graciously fulfilled. Here is another way of advertising—Hawaii throughout the polar regions.

Honolulu Athletic Association.

In pursuance of the notice published in yesterday's issue, the juvenile class at the Athletic Association rooms was formed, some twenty-five boys being in attendance. It was an interesting sight to see the little fellows go through the various exercises given on the bar, rings, and in drilling, etc.

The juvenile class was formed a little earlier than was anticipated from the fact that the boys from the time of the announcement that such a class was to be formed kept after the Secretary, some dozen or more a day, enquiring, "When is that thing going to be started," etc., until his life was made a burden and every small boy he saw coming his way he would dodge around the corner to escape.

The next class day is Thursday, commencing at 2:30 p. m.

Was it a Murder?

The body of a newborn infant was found floating near the schooner Luka yesterday morning. The police authorities were informed of it, when it was taken to the Station, where the Prison Physician, Dr. Peterson, made an examination. The body was enclosed in a fine pillow case edged with lace, having outside of this a grain sack. It is supposed to be the body of a white child, but as it was apparently in the water for a couple of days, it is a little difficult to tell exactly its color. No marks of violence were to be seen, and it is quite likely the child, if born alive, was either strangled or drowned.

Organ Recital.

Mr. F. M. English gave his second recital on the Kawaiahao Church organ yesterday afternoon, at the attendance not being very large. The programme consisted of six numbers, all of which were played in rapid succession, the recital not lasting quite half an hour. The "Wedding March" was well played, so was the Siciliano by Hopkins.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR.

Reception at the German Imperial Consulate—Concert by the Royal Hawaiian Military Band.

An evidence of the good will of the different nationalities for any anniversary event of one of their number was evident yesterday by the number of flags flying from Government, diplomatic and consular buildings and offices in honor of Emperor William's birthday. Also by the number of callers at the German Consulate, representing the different nations. The anniversary celebrated yesterday was the thirty-second birthday of Emperor William II. of Germany. About noon the Royal Hawaiian Band gave a concert in front of Messrs. H. Hackfeld & Co.'s offices, Mr. Hackfeld being the German Consul. The diplomatic and consular corps, the principal business men and other prominent citizens were received and entertained by Mr. J. F. Hackfeld, acting German Consul. After partaking of the delicious repast and drinking to the health of the Emperor, all retired with the most pleasant recollections of the day.

Among those who called were: His Excellency J. A. Cummins; Mons. M. G. G. B. d'Anglade, French Consul and Commissioner; His Excellency John L. Stevens, United States Minister Resident; His Lordship the Bishop of Oahu, H. W. Severance, American Consul-General; T. B. Walker, British Vice-Consul; J. W. Robertson, acting Chamberlain; F. A. Schaefer, Italian Consul; H. W. Schmidt, Consul for Sweden and Norway; H. Renges, acting Consul of Mexico; Capt. Shepard, U. S. S. Mohican; Capt. Turner, H. B. M. S. Nympha; Hon. H. A. Widemann, Hon. E. C. Macfarlane, Hon. W. G. Irwin, Hon. S. N. Castle, Hon. E. P. Iaukea, Messrs. J. H. King, P. C. Jones, R. L. Jones, M. Hyman, H. Focke, J. G. Spenser, Jona. Austin, Berlowitz and others.

In the evening the Royal Band gave another concert at the Hawaiian hotel, the hotel being, as usual on such occasions, brilliantly lighted by the electric lights, Chinese lanterns, etc. The verandas were crowded by those who came to listen to the music and to celebrate the occasion. A lunch was served for the hungry and thirsty in one end of the dining room. Later in the evening held an impromptu ball, the dining rooms being cleared for the purpose. Every one present seemed thoroughly to enjoy the evening's pleasure.

The Best Teapot.

The Chinese invariably use a teapot of porcelain or earthenware. This is the only suitable material to make tea in, and a common brown teapot is to be preferred to silver for this purpose, as the tannic acid of tea unites with silver or any metal and invariably corrodes it. This can be proved by inspecting any metal teapot long in use. Very dainty Japanese teapots can now be bought for 25 cents in blue and white Owai ware, large enough for a family of four. If a large teapot is desired, it costs but a little more. After the tea is made and served, such a pot should be emptied out at once, and washed and wiped inside and out, instead of being left, as it often is, in otherwise neat families, standing with the tea-grounds in it till the next meal. It is as essential that a coffee-pot should be of stoneware or china as a teapot.

One Virtue of Our Grandfathers.

Our grandfathers did one thing better than we do—they knew how to live in two rooms and save money, while we live in ten, get into debt, keep our noses to the grindstone and at last burst all to pieces like an over-inflated soap bubble. It takes more courage for an ambitious young man to live on $1,000 a year and keep clear of embarrassments and temptations than to hunt lions in Africa or tigers in India. The stiff backbone which enables a fellow to endure ridicule because he is poor, and do it cheerfully, is the choicest donation which Providence ever made to any man. —Portland Trade Journal.

A Few Hints.

Little things invariably give us the key to a man's habits and character. Stepping into the office of the well known rice factors, Dan Talmage's Sons, we noticed posted on the desk of Mr. Dan Talmage the following pregnant hints: Don't get excited—It shortens life. Don't be brusque—No friends come by it. Cultivate cheerfulness—It makes all the world brighter. "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine."

The first pineapples ever raised in Santa Barbara county, says the Press, have just matured at Kinton Stevens' place, in Montecito. Mr. Stevens has a number of the plants growing and about a dozen have ripened. They are of the most delicious flavor, much superior to those imported. They are raised under glass but without artificial heat. It takes about eighteen months for the fruit to mature from planting, but one is well repaid for the patience it requires.
