She Salled Like a Witch and Eugaged In A young Swede came to this country in 1851 with some money and the intention of building a craft to be fitted up for passengers to the World's fair in London. For this purpose be located himself at Portsmouth, contracted with shipbuilders who had shippards at Eliot, just opposite Pertsmouth, for a ship of about 1,000 tons, with expen-tive cabin arrangements for passengers. The model of the ship was that of an extreme clipper.

When nearly completed, the project tor fell short of money. Masts, spars and sails had all been contracted for and were in a state of forwardness. The mechanics concluded to complete the ship and put her in the hands of Governor Goodwin of Portsmouth for sale, each contractor to take his pro rata of When completed, the ship, under mechanics' lien, was transferred to the governor, brought to Boston, purchases by Sampson & Tappan, named the Nightingale and under the command of a Captain Dumaresque sailed for Aus tralia with a cargo valued at $125,000. From there she proceeded to China, where she took the highest freight of the season, £5 per ton for London. To test her merits Messrs. Sampson & Tap-pan published in the London Times a challenge to the British merchant fleet to race from the Downs to China and back for £10,000—a distance of nearly 30,000 miles. But no one could be found to accept the challenge. She was afterward sold to a Salem house, who sent her to Rio Janiero, where she was sold and sent to the coast of Africa as a slaver, was captured by a United States cruiser, the slaves liberated and the vessel sent home. She was subsequently used by the government during the bellion, and after the close of the war was sold and put into the California trade. The Nightingale made the shortest known run from the equator to Melourne-25 days. Her whole passage from New York was 68 days. - Proceed

Where the Different Kinds Are Found and Their Relative Value. The selection of marble for a monument is altogether a matter of taste. The finest statuary marbles are found in Italy and Greece, but are very exper sive, costing from $15 to $10 per cubic foot. In the United States good statuary marble has for several years been quarried at West Rutland, Vt., where a layer from three to four feet thick is interstratified with 40 or 50 feet of clouded marble. The finest of statuary marole is found at Pittsford, Vt., where there is a bed 20 feet thick, from which blocks have been taken capable of taking a very fine finish. This marbie belt extends north and south of Rutland onnty, through Vermont and Massa husetts, but in loses in quality in both lirections. Toward the north it is finer and harder, but less sound, and toward the south it becomes coarser. Another belt of white marble extends along the Where did you get that suit?

flanks of the Alleghanies, through a part of Massachusetts, through New York and Maryland and into Virginia beyond the Potomac river. It is quarried at various places in Westchester county, N. Y., and at Baltimore. At Canann, Conn., and at Lee, Mass., and other places in New England, good building marble is quarried. Marble from Lee was used for the extension of the capitol at Washington. Variegated marbles are found in several localities in the United States. A mottled lilac chocolate and white, known as Tennes see marble, is regarded with favor for mantels, tables, etc. Another of red, brown and white is quarried at Burlington, Va., but it is rather difficult to work on account of the silica it con tains. - Montreal Star.

Ring up Hack 7 By CARMEN SYLVA (Queen of Rou

[Copyright, 1995, by the Author.] When you ascend the valley of the Carpathians, from the rapid stream of the Prahova river, the mountain, Baba, Cetatia, or the Witch's Citadel, is concealed from view, as it lies behind the rains on its summit. Beyond these ruins extend afar the regions of perpetual snow, which are bounded by the fastnesses of the Jipi, or twin mountains. A very, very long time ago, at that period when the lion would lie down with the lamb and when the fierce eagle would made with the tender dove, there stood there a proud and lordly eastle which was the center of continual movement. Many persons came and went the long day through, and active feet frequently crossed its threshold. A brilliant light burned there throughout the night, and above the constant humming of a spin dle might be heard the chanting of sweet, weirdlike melody.

The passersby would glance upward with looks of terror, while they mur-mured, "She is still at her spinning, then!" For the Baba, or witch, was the keeper of the castle and was a wicked old sorceress, to whom the guomes brought nightly huge nuggets of gold, gathered from the bowels of the earth. From this gold it was that she spun the beteela, or long streams of gold thread, which form the head adornment of every Roumanian bride during the marriage ceremony

Many bushels of gold were measured and sorted by her at dead of night, and woe to the unlucky earth spirit whose measure was found wanting, for he must expiate his fault by being tirrust be-twist the trunk and bark of a gigantic forest oak, which held and pressed him until be rendered up the last grain of the precious metal, or perhaps he would be affixed to a tree by his beard and might writhe and shrick to his heart's content, for the Baba would turn a deaf ear to all lamentations. Because of this hardness of character, and also because her exterior was as hard and dry and as she had been surnamed Baba Coaja, or Old Mother Bark. Twas she alone who possessed the se cret gift of spinning these beteels, of which she had prepared and laid up so large a store that it would suffice for This Baha Conja was blessed with a sweet young daughter named Alba, a maiden of surpassing beauty, white as the snow which spread its eternal man tle over the mountain's summit. Delicate as the bloom on a ripening peach was her cheek, her soft brown eyes like velvet, and her hair more golden than the threads spun by her terrible mother.

Alba was always kept carefully concealed from the sight of men, for the Baba feared that any one, on seeing her, should ask her hand in marriage, and that she might thus be deprived of her chief aid, for Alba was skillful and lightened her laber. She it was who wound off the wefts of thread and ar-ranged it in piles, each pile of which contained sufficient beteela for the needs of brides for a century to come. Her task was wearisome, the more so because her mother, while she spun, chanted the most terrible maledictions and evil wishes to fall on the heads of the brides who were destined to wear these beteels. Alba's heart was heaving when she thought with sorrow of all the adversity which was being prepared beforehand for innocent heads, and she set Wholesale & Retail Butchers about to form a plan for averting it. During the absence of her mother one day she placed herself at the spindle and spun a whole piece of gold, her wishes for happiness and good fortune for those who might wear it. On her return Baba Conta soon discovered this, and flinging herself in a great rage upon her daughter and beating her threw or the ground in a heap all the golden veils, crying out:

"Never shalt thou marry until thou hast singled out thy own work from among that of the rest." The Baba in reality was very glad to have found a pretext for keeping her daughter with her, more especially as it had been fore-told that Alba was destined to misfortrue and an early death. This lovely child was the sole creature in the whole world whom she loved, but is spite of the efforts she now made to render Alba contented and happy, and the costly gifts lavished on her, nothing could bring back the color to her cheeks or the light to her eyes, for the only boon which she craved, her liberty, was now denied to her. With ardent longing she desired, were it but for an hour or two, to stroll under the shade of the majestic old trees which grew and spread out their branches at the foot of the mountain, on whose summit she vegetated. Here, on the high peak, only short stubbly grass meagerly clothed its black crest, and here the cruel winter time was of much longer duration than that of summer. She grew sad and dejected as the wind howled and stormed, shaking the old castle to its very foundation, and she would sit for hours gazing into the log fire, watching its sparks, her mind almost a blank, for she seemed to be thinking of nothing. At times she listened to the weird, wild songs of her mother, the humming of whose spin ning wheel was drowned in the war the tempest outside, and she mused the cares and the sorrows which we being interwoven with the golden strands and asked herself why this should be when the beauteous sun was permitted to gladden alike all mate and to shed impartially its bright rays over all. She found it impossible to un-derstand this problem and would fall asleep weary of conjecturing.

All the great heaps of gold in the cave appeared exactly alike; nevertheless she would ascribe human forms to them and invent histories concerning them. In imagination she saw the mis fortunes that happened to those bride who were destined to wear these be-teels, and she greatly pitied them, but as she had no knowledge of the world er stories were each more fantast than the other.

"Mother," she said one day, resting her dimpled chin on her shapely hand,
"Are men exactly the same as thou and I? Or have they another form and other thoughts?

"What does it signify to thee and what they are? Know, child, that all men are wicked, and that they would only bring ill and woe to thee wert thou to live among them." [To be Continued.]

THENEW WAUKEGAN BARBED WIRE.

Made only by Washburn & Moen Mf'g Co.

We have been appointed Agents for the above Company, and have just received per Steamer "KEAUHOU" the first shipment of this famous barbed wire. We sell the "Waukegan" 4 Point with barbs 3 in. apart, and it measures 16½ ft. to the pound. You cannot build a fence with any other make of barbed wire as cheap as you can with "Waukegan."

Take the following makes for instance, all 4 point, barbs 3 in, apart: Cleveland, 11.83 " 1 " " 38.45 Cleveland, 11.83 " 1 " " 18.45 Indiana Wire Fence Co., 12.87 ft. to 1 lb, or 28.21 per cent. " 18.77 " 1 " " 19.83

Burnell, 18.77 "1" "19.83 " "

Wattkegan Barbed Wire is as strong as the strongest, contains jc commany baries to the rod, and yet weighs less per rod than any other style of barie i wire.

This result is accomplished by using a half round wire in the barb, instead of a full round wire as in all other barbed wires; then it is twisted out once around one of the main wires, thus saving the weight of additional twists. This wire is thoroughly galvanized, something much needed in this climate.

We also sell a special wire stretcher and galvanized steel staples for workers. Were the self-staples for workers.

We also sell a special wife settled Waukegan Wire.

All orders for the above, or for plain Galvanized or Black Fence Wire and Stuples will be promptly filled at lowest prices by E. O. HALL & SON.
