'Mystery Woman' Named TT HiCom

A Seattle woman has been nominated as the Trust Territory's first female high commissioner by President Reagan.

At the same time Daniel J. High who has filled the position for the past three months on an acting basis, has been offered the deputy high commissioner's post.

High said he learned of the nomination of Janet (or Jeanette) McCoy Wednesday in a phone call from Diane Morales, deputy assistant secretary of the Department of Interior. No details of her background were available except that she had been on the Reagan campaign staff in Seattle.

Her qualifications or background apparently were a mystery to the Department of Interior which was unable to furnish her biography immediately.

Officials there did not know her age, marital status, educational or professional background.

A check with long-time Saipan residents disclosed that none had heard of her and that she apparently never worked here for the Trust Territory.

High said that he was "not too crestfallen" about not receiving the presidential appointment as high commissioner. The former attorney general has been in charge of the Trust Territory with the title of acting deputy high commissioner since the departure of former High Commissioner Adrian P. Winkel at the end of April.

"I'm looking forward to meeting the lady and see if we are compatible," he said about the possibility of accepting the deputy post. He said he will make up his mind later this week.

Word of the nomination which reportedly has not been sent to the U.S. Senate yet was received early Wednesday from the TT Honolulu liaison office. It reported that a Honolulu newspaper story said that the nomination was disclosed by Lyn Nofziger, a Reagan assistant, during a meeting there.

There was no indication to TT headquarters when Ms. McCoy might come to Saipan or whether she is familiar with the area.

So far there has been no comment to TT headquarters from Micronesian leaders about the nomination of the first female high commissioner.

Controllers' Strike Has Little Impact on Saipan

Shock waves generated by the air traffic controllers' strike in the States seem to be just barely reaching Saipan.

The Post Office reported no apparent slowdown in mail delivery, and several retailers said shipments were delayed only a day or not at all.

Although the Payless Supermarket posted a sign this week announcing that no more U.S. produce was expected until the end of the strike, manager Don Chamberlin said that the situation has eased.

"We got some in last night (Tuesday)," he said. "We don't know the quantity we can get in. The space available is not there, and has cut down our supply. But we're having less problems internationally than they are domestically."

Saipan Wholesalers, Inc. supplies U.S. produce by air to the Joeten Supermarket, Carmen Safeway, Mountain Shopping Center and all the major hotels, said manager Roger Tolentino.

He said: "We were affected very minimally by the strike, just a day's delay. According to our supplier in the U.S., next Monday's shipment will arrive on time."

He said the supplier, Southland Sales in Guam and San Francisco, normally ships produce once a week on Mondays.

Joeten market acting manager Agnes Cabrera said that a shipment from another supplier expected last Friday never arrived, but that the West Coast company sent a telex advising that they should have the problem resolved in time for the August 14 shipment.

Spokesmen for Mar-Aus Enterprises, Inc. which runs Garapan Supermarket, and M.S. Villagomez Enterprises said that they do not import goods from the States by air and therefore were not affected by the strike.

The DHL Corporation, a worldwide document and small parcel courier service, has not had trouble making deliveries from here on schedule, according to Saipan station manager Connie S. Camacho.

"In my opinion, there has been no interference caused by the strike," she said. The Pacific region office is based in San Francisco, and would assist in rearranging their delivery schedule if a planned flight was cancelled, she said.

The company normally offers same day service to Honolulu (given the time change), one day service to the West Coast and longer elsewhere, depending on the station.

J.M. Guerrero, managing director of the Marianas Visitors Bureau, said that the NMI's tourist industry was unaffected by the strike.

Call For 1-House Legislature Stirs Angry Reaction

A House Joint resolution calling for the abolition of the bicameral Legislature squeaked by the lower chamber on a 5-4 vote Tuesday and immediately ran into verbal flak from senators.

The measure advocating a single chamber legislature has no legal force.

Introduced by Rep. Dino R. Jones, the resolution says in effect that the present bicameral Legislature with 23 members is too big and too costly and that the money spent on it could be better used on social programs for the people.

"It's ridiculous," snapped Senate President Pete P. Tenorio when informed of the passage of the resolution. "It's in the covenant."

Tinian Sen. Serafin Dela Cruz saw it as a move by Saipan House members to control the Northern Marianas government by weakening the Senate delegations from Tinian and Rota.

"The population of Tinian has human beings, not just cattle," he said.

Senate Vice President Benjamin T. Manglona of Rota called the measure "a dangerous political course" that would make it more difficult to unite the people of the Commonwealth.

He likened the situation to racial differences in the United States which led to measures showing blacks' contributions in books and publications.

"They are going to have to put Rotanese faces in books to show that they are people," he said.

Some House members were just as displeased with the measure. Democrats Pedro Nakatsukasa and Felipe Q. Atalig voted with Republicans Ben Fitial and Plasilado Tagabuel against its adoption.

Jones said the resolution would be only the first step in a process that will require the amendment of the constitution and the covenant.

He said that about $1 million of the $1.8 million appropriated to the Legislature could be saved for other purposes if the two-chamber body were reduced to one house.

He said the money saved could go for such programs as retirement, higher education, medical referral, homesteading utilities and roads.

"If this is not adopted," he said, "the only other course is to reduce the salaries of the Legislature."

Rep. Antonio M. Camacho who favored the resolution,

Budget Battle — Like A Tennis Game

The battle over the budget took on all the aspects of a tennis game — except it was not exactly a "love" match.

After a conference committee failed to reach agreement, the House of Representatives last week served a $33 million omnibus appropriation bill to the Senate.

On Friday the Senate lobbied the package back — minus the $11.1 million capital improvement portion and with a change in the operating budget to provide a raise for government employees retroactive to last Oct. 1.

With the legislation back in their court, House members this week devised a new strategy — transmitting the first of a number of individual appropriation bills to the Senate.

On recommendation of Rep. Sablan, chairman of the Appropriation Committee, the House Tuesday approved $264,000 for the Judicial branch and $373,000 for the Washington Representative.

Neither bill is considered controversial.

Senate Vice President Benjamin T. Manglona who heads the Fiscal Affairs Committee, said he saw no objections to either but that he couldn't understand why the whole operating budget is not being sent over in one package.

Over at the House, Sablan said he next intends to send over appropriation bills for independent, non-controversial agencies on a piecemeal basis.

Manglona, unhappy with being targeted by some Democratic House members as the man who is unwilling to compromise on the budget, said, "Everytime there is a budget problem they blame it on Rota or me. It's like a merry-go-round. Somebody has to compromise to serve the public."

He also found fault with House members' arithmetic, saying that $270,000 from the health department budget is available because the lower chamber did not account for vacancies and job lapses fully.

It is that amount, plus $547,000 from the Typhoon Dinah rehabilitation fund, that the Senate claims is available for the retroactive salary raise that is estimated to cost $1 million.

But Sablan disagreed. He said that money has already been spent and isn't available. The House favors instituting the salary increase next Oct. 1, the beginning of the next fiscal year.

The real test of wills may come next week when the House is expected to approve individual appropriation bills for operating departments whose directors presumably will have to lobby the Senate to pass them.

Senate President Pete P. Tenorio said "we will work day and night if necessary to make sure employees will get their paychecks."

For that to happen, the appropriation bills will have to be passed by both houses and signed by Gov. Camacho before next Friday which is pay day.

Acting Finance Director Maria Pangelinan testified that only sufficient funds were in the treasury to meet last week's pay checks.

House member Pedro T. Nakatsukasa summed up his feelings on the budget dispute during a debate Tuesday.

"They (the Senate) are playing their games, we are playing ours."

In the budget game it seemed like match point.

Attorney Wins Plea to Keep Woman Client Out of Jail

"It kind of shocks my sensitivities," said Assistant Public Defender Brian McMahon.

"I am very disappointed," said Prosecutor Rex Kosack.

McMahon was making a plea to Commonwealth Judge Herbert D. Soll Monday to keep his client, Linda Norita Watson from being sent to jail for a month and so become the first woman to be incarcerated.

Kosack was commenting on the decision of Joe Sablan, director of the Department of Public Safety to let her serve time at night at Maturana convent instead of jail.

McMahon was in court Monday afternoon to protest the conditions under which Mrs. Watson was to serve time for illegal possession of a firearm. It was part of a sentence given her the week before by Commonwealth Judge Robert Moore.

McMahon said that the room which she was to occupy in jail was inadequate on both personal safety and privacy grounds and that no provision was being made to have a female matron on duty 24 hours a day, because only one woman correction officer is on the staff.

Kosack argued that Moore who left on a month's vacation last Friday, had intended to have Mrs. Watson serve one month of the 12-month sentence in jail and that no other judge has jurisdiction to modify a sentence.

McMahon said that "to have male guards take her to the bathroom is appalling."

Public safety officials had told Kosack that they had no funds to hire additional female matrons, and that Sablan and Mrs. Watson's father had received permission over the weekend from the nuns at Maturana to let her stay there at night.

"I'll make no bones about it. It's erroneous," said Kosack when told by the judge that the director has authority over the prisoner in his custody.

But Soll was not too happy with the failure of officials to make suitable jail arrangements.

"The department spends thousands of dollars traveling all over the Western Hemisphere and it should have the imagination to set up a facility for women," he said.

He suggested the department could hire extra female help or have 12 hour shifts.

But Ms. Watson will probably spend only her nights in confinement. She was granted release by public safety during the daytime so she could work at her father's store and start earning money to pay a $1,000 fine.

Kosack was critical of what had happened.

"We think it is insulting," he said, "that DPS makes an arrest, invests a lot of time on the case, pushes the attorney general to have her incarcerated and then not spend the money to hire extra help."

Mrs. Watson was charged in connection with firing a 22 caliber rifle into the barracks of entertainers at the Rainbow Club and creating a disturbance.

Defenders Curb on Alien Cases Asked

Rep. Dino R. Jones has asked the public defender's office not take any more civil suits in behalf of alien workers because he contends the agency has already has a huge backlog of cases.

But Brian McMahon, acting public defender said that all the office's cases are current and besides he is not accepting any more civil cases of any kind right now because of a shortage of staff.

In a letter to Public Defender Bruce Erickson, who is on vacation, Jones suggested that in view of a backlog of 341 cases, civil cases of alien workers be either handled by Micronesian Legal Services, the lawyer for the Filipino Association of the Northern Marianas, or private counsel.

McMahon said that Legal Services already has so many cases that it cannot accept new ones, the Filipino Association does not provide an attorney, and private lawyers are too expensive.

He said that private counsel in Saipan charge anywhere between $65 and $95 an hour and asked rhetorically how alien workers, most of whom make minimum wage, could afford to employ one.

Besides, McMahon said the public defender's office only has one civil case in which it represents alien workers. This one involves two night club waitresses at the Paradise Club in a contract dispute, he said.

McMahon said that he suggested to Jones that he wait until Erickson returns since he is the person who sets office policy. But, he said, his office legally cannot discriminate and refusing certain clients because of their citizenship would be in violation.

Legal Service Chief Ted Mitchell recently said that his office is overburdened with so many cases that sometimes potential clients are placed on a waiting list.

McMahon said that his office is supposed to have three attorneys, one legal assistant, one investigator and two secretaries but only has the two attorneys and one legal assistant. The office's only secretary left last week, he said.

Navy Team Gets A Blast Out of Old Ammo

Some Japanese tourists who were ordered away by men in uniform and witnessed a ground-shaking blast shortly thereafter, might have thought it was World War II all over again.

In a way, it was.

The men were from the Naval Explosive Ordnance Disposal Detachment from Guam, and they recently set off several blasts of WWII ordnance in Marpi.

After a slow, tedious transport from Kobler Field to the former Naval Technical Training Unit site in Marpi, the twin 750-pound bombs found by homesteaders last month were detonated. Yellow sulphur from the bombs sprayed the surrounding ground, and fragments flew a considerable distance, civil defense coordinator Felix Sasamoto said.

Succeeding blasts set off ordnance previously collected by civil defense and stored in a Marpi bunker, and over 4,000 pieces found at the KSAI antenna site. Monday's blast was the largest, Sasamoto said, requiring 1,200 pounds of explosives to set off the old war material.

Packed in tiers in two four-foot cubic boxes, the old and new explosives cleared a large area of tangantangan at the old NTTU site, exposing a cliffside cave and lifting the roof off an old concrete building nearby.

"It was a good shot," said chief warrant officer James L. Harris, observing the wide circle of broken and charred tangantangan stumps. A 7½-minute fuse allowed him and his two men time to evacuate and take cover at the Kan Pacific golf course, he said.

White phosphorus smoke arose from the bomb pit, scenting the air pungently. The chemical had been used to produce a covering smoke for troops so they could advance, explained chief petty officer Bernard G. Savko.

More ordnance is uncovered every time such a blast is set off, Harris said. He urged people who find WWII ordnance to leave it alone and report the location to the civil defense office.

"Don't touch it; don't move it," he warned. His unit will program to come back when more ordnance is unearthed, he said.

The demolition detachment, consisting of two officers and six enlisted men, is responsible for disposing of unexploded ordnance in the former Trust Territory districts, Guam and the Northern Marianas.

SS Funds Approved

Gov. Camacho Monday signed into law a house bill to appropriate $144,240 to defray the cost of the NMI social security administration program for fiscal year 1981.

Public Law 2-21, directs the social security administrator to provide a written report to the NMI Legislature no later than Aug. 31, containing full disclosure of obligations incurred against the sum appropriated and planned use of funds for the remainder of the fiscal year up to September 30.

Diver to Search For Mini Sub

Vicente (Ben) Concepcion of Garapan, a noted diver and diving instructor, will be searching for a Japanese Kaiten-type mini-submarine in Tanapag lagoon under contract with the government.

Convincing evidence has been collected which indicates that this rare World War II submarine is located in an area of murkiness and low visibility, according to a CNMI news release.

Concepcion is under a $1,400 contract to systematically search an outlined area. The Submarine and any other historic items found will be left in place so that other divers can view the site.

"Old wrecks hold a great attraction for tourists and this effort, funded from federal programs, will add to our potential scenic underwater sites," the governor said. "It will also enrich our historic inventory and illuminate history as an educational process."

Concepcion has participated in many diving and rescue operations in the Northern Marianas, Guam, Palau, Truk, the Philippines and Japan. Since 1975 he has been teaching courses for all levels of diving certificates, Red Cross first aid, CPR and search and rescue. He is a graduate of the YMCA Instructors Institute in Honolulu, Hawaii, and a member of the National Association of Underwater Scuba Instructors.

Lack of Funds Stalls Bradshaw Settlement

Lack of CNMI funds may be the major stumbling block to a settlement of Public Auditor Robert D. Bradshaw's breach of contract suit.

Peter V.N. Esser, chief of civil litigation, said that the government is willing to pay Bradshaw the $102,194 awarded him by U.S. District Judge Designate Ernest A. Gianotti provided he resigns and will not seek appointment on a temporary basis.

Randall Fennell, Bradshaw's attorney, said he too is willing to talk settlement, "but the big problem for them is they don't have any money. We discussed the matter but there is no sense for us to get serious when there is no money to consummate a deal."

Esser agreed that there are no funds available in the judgment account in the absence of a 1981 budget.

He said should Bradshaw resign, the Senate will have the power under the constitution to appoint an interim public auditor. He would serve until a permanent appointment is made by the governor. He conceded that there is an argument whether the temporary auditor would serve until the governor makes an appointment or until the nominee is confirmed by both houses of the Legislature.

Meanwhile, Bradshaw has filed a counter suit to a defamation action filed against him by Manny A. Sablan, planning and budget affairs officer, stemming from allegations of waste and corruption made by the public auditor in a letter to U.S. Vice President George Bush.

Bradshaw claimed in his counter suit that Sablan had libeled him in statements published by the Commonwealth Examiner last March 27. He is seeking $400,000 general and punitive damages, the same amount being asked in Sablan's suit.

Esser said that the Sablan suit is not part of any settlement with Bradshaw since this is a personal matter.

He said the government has filed an amended complaint to reduce the damages awarded Bradshaw by Gianotti to $95,295, based on discounting future salaries to the present and a reduction in housing allotments. The matter will be heard by Gianotti on Aug. 28.

Pending the hearing, Esser said, a planned appeal of the judgment is being withheld.

While the legal dispute continues, Bradshaw has taken 60 days annual leave as of Aug. 6 and indicated some off-island travel may be involved. He named Gus N. Tagabuel, a staff member since the office opened, acting public auditor.

Saipan Shipping Company Fetes 25th. Anniversary

Saipan Shipping Company will mark its 25th anniversary with a ceremony and reception this Saturday at 7 p.m. at its office.

The firm was established Aug. 11, 1956 in Saipan as a Trust Territory corporation with Jose C. Tenorio, Ricardo T. Borja, Herman R. Guerrero and the late Vicente S. Camacho as the incorporators.

The company's first ship, the M/V Hope, plied between Saipan and Guam on a weekly basis with occasional stops in Tinian and Rota. The Hope sailed until November 1962 when it sank in Guam as result of Typhoon Karen.

The company then bought or chartered a number of other vessels and started a regular barge service between Saipan and Guam in 1973. For several years Saiship operated ships to other parts of Micronesia and currently provides service from Japan to Saipan and from Japan to Guam and to Truk, Ponape, Kosrae and Majuro.

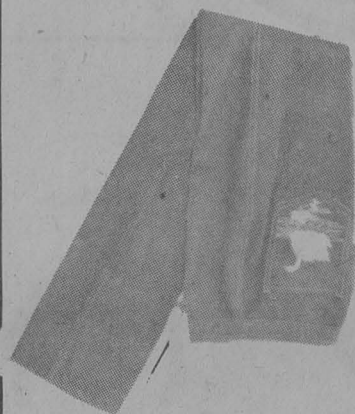

Felix Torres has been general manager for more than a year, and Darlene DLG. Cabrera is assistant manager.

Pete P. Tenorio, a board member and former company general manager, will give the welcome at the ceremony with other remarks to be made by founder J.C. Tenorio and Herman R. Guerrero, president.

Other company officers are Juan T. Tenorio, vice president; and Norman T. Tenorio, secretary-treasurer.

Tinian Airport Dedication Held

Tinian's $3.4 million airport was dedicated last Saturday with a reminder that this may be the only place in the world where three modern airfields serve a population of 15,000 people.

Gov. Camacho made that surmise when he told the audience during the rites in front of the $870,000 terminal building that completion of West Tinian Airport fulfilled his campaign promise of four years ago that Tinian, Saipan and Rota would have up-to-date airports to stimulate economic development.

"I doubt that anywhere three such modern airports serve a small population of 15,000," he said.

Centerpiece of the improvement is the terminal building which was constructed of concrete, wood and glass with a red tile mansard roof giving it an island motif. It was designed by M&E Pacific, Inc. of Hawaii and built by J.C. Tenorio Enterprises.

Other improvements included the onetime military-built, 5,970-foot runway, a parking apron, cargo and crash truck buildings, parking lot, lights and water supplies.

International Bridge Company had the runway and parking apron contracts.

Eighty percent of the runway improvement cost of $2,533,000 was contributed by the Federal Aviation Agency in Honolulu, and the same percentage for the terminal building was paid by the Economic Development Agency in Seattle, with the remainder paid by the Marianas Islands Airport Authority.

Although the airport is suitable for jet traffic, it will be used at this time only by Freedom Air whose three propeller planes will make five regular day flights between Saipan and Tinian, and Island Air which has one arrival and departure scheduled each day.

Freedom Air which flies four, five and seven passenger planes, raised its round trip fare from $28 to $40 on Aug. 1; the same rate has been charged by Island Air. The airport authority also has imposed a passenger landing fee since Aug. 1.

The terminal building contains two check in counters, a passenger waiting room, security area and baggage pickup and an office for Silvestre C. Palacios, airport superintendent, and restrooms.

Michael A. White was master of ceremonies at the dedication, with brief talks given by J.M. Guerrero, chairman of the airport authority; Mayor Felipe C. Mendiola, representatives of the FAA and the contractors, and the governor.

Msgr. Thomas A. Camacho gave the blessing to the airport.

Bail Hearing Set in Rota Rent Embezzlement Case

A bail hearing has been set next Tuesday in Commonwealth Trial Court for a woman suspected of embezzling $1,043 in cash and checks from the Marianas Public Land Corporation.

The penal summons was served on Margarita Apatang, also known as Margarita Taga, who is employed by the Commonwealth Health Planning and Development Agency, according to the attorney general's office.

Prosecutor Rex Kosack said she will be charged with embezzlement and tampering with the mail.

He said the woman was employed by MPLC as a mail clerk in Rota and was responsible for sending land lease payments to Saipan. He said that MPLC reported that on Nov. 29, 1979 $823 in cash and a $220 check never arrived in Saipan through the government mail.

The day Ms. Apatang was interviewed by law enforcement officials she left her job and Rota. The prosecutor said that the $220 check with the woman's endorsement was cashed by the Bank of America in Guam the following day.

He said apparently no action was taken by the attorney general's office until he learned about it two weeks ago when he was asked by the MPLC what was happening on the case.

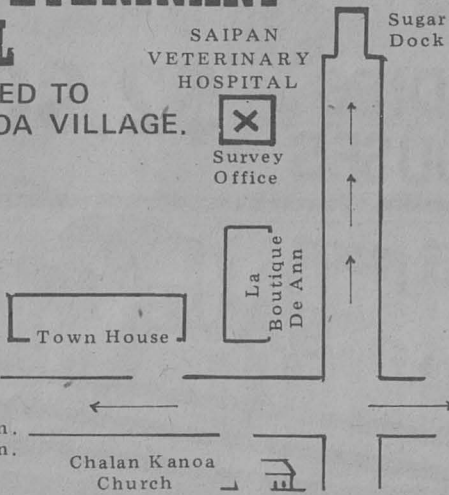

The CHPDA office is located only a few feet from the attorney general's office in the Nauru Building.

20 Academy Grads Sworn As Policemen

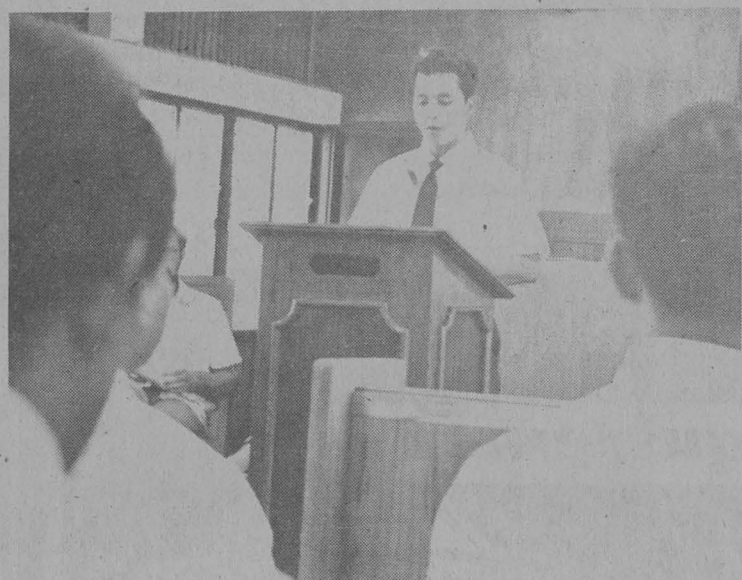

Twenty graduates of the Police Academy took their oath as police officers last Friday.

Following an intensive nine-week training course, the policemen received certificates in a ceremony held at the Commonwealth Trial Court building. Director of Public Safety Jose M. Sablan and director of the Criminal Justice Planning Agency Richard Shewman gave brief remarks, followed by an address by Gov. Camacho. The governor urged the men to personally exemplify the virtues they wish to enforce, and stressed the necessity of their profession in the development of the Northern Marianas.

The police officer's Code of Ethics was read by graduate Lino S. Tenorio, who along with Thomas M. Manglona and Alfred A. Pangelinan achieved highest honors in the course. Chief of Police Jose Sn. Babauta administered the police oath.

Perfect attendance in the course was achieved by Francisco F. Babauta, Victor M. Borja, Martin Dlc. Camacho and Abraham S. Quitugua. Those graduating with honor included Babauta, Jose C. Camacho, Jr., Edward P.

Pua and Francisco C. Tudela. Other NMI police officer graduates were: Joaquin P. Aldan, William S. Kaipat, Jose C. Ngeskebei, Fredrick C. Ngeskebei, Juan P. Rabago, Isidro R. Sablan, Juan M. Santos, Jose C. San Nicolas and Albert S. Toves, Jr. Paulus Eberdong of the Mariana Islands Airport Authority security police also completed the course.

AG Wants To Revoke Probation

Prosecutor Rex Kosack is seeking to have the probation of three persons revoked but isn't quite sure if he can find a judge to do so.

The trio was convicted by the Trust Territory High Court which lost jurisdiction in the Northern Marianas when it became a Commonwealth.

Kosack said he is filing petitions with the U.S. District Court to revoke the probation of Joaquin Taitenfong, convicted by the High Court of burglary, and Bertram R. Cruz, convicted of attempted rape, both in 1977.

Cruz is awaiting trial in District Court on Sept. 8 on new charges of attempted rape and burglary, Kosack said. Burglary charges against Taitenfong were dismissed on technical grounds, he said.

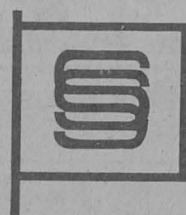

The prosecutor said he filed a similar petition in Commonwealth Court to seek the probation revocation of Rosa DeLeon Guerrero, who was convicted of embezzlement in 1978 and was supposed to make restitution of $6,000. He said she stopped making payments last November.

Kosack said that if the District and Commonwealth Courts accept jurisdiction, he would ask for a hearing and call witnesses.

"If the High Court is divested of its authority to enforce the terms of probation, who has that authority?" he asked. He added that there may be as many as 100 persons on probation from the High Court.

New Principal To Lead Mt. Carmel High

The dynamic personality of Mount Carmel High School's new principal is lending impetus to the changes she's planned for the next school year.

Sister Mary Ignatia Sanchez, a Guamanian who arrived in Saipan in June after teaching junior high for a year in Yap, exudes excitement about her plans to improve the high school's academic and extra-curricular offerings.

been recruited, as well as three local priests who will teach religion, she said. Sr. Ignatia will direct the chorus.

Teachers will report next Monday, and the school will open with two half-days of orientation for students on August 24-25, she said. Full days will begin on the 26th, coinciding with the opening of public schools because of the need to utilize the public school buses, she said.

BUILDING BLOCKS — Workmen are making steps for backstage area being turned into band and chorus room at Mt. Carmel.

Sister Mary Ignatia Sanchez

"We're building up the biology and chemistry rooms, and trying to introduce a full physical education program," she said. "I understand we have some very good singers, so we aim to build up the music department; we have a band teacher, and are building an area for a band/chorus room at the back of the gym. A typing room is also being set up."

"Everybody's busy," she understated. The interview with the Variety was conducted away from her office where workmen were making too much noise. In various classrooms teachers and alumni were busy washing walls, desks and ceiling fans; painting, and doing other maintenance chores.

All the teaching slots are filled, Sr. Ignatia said. Seven nuns — three Dominicans, two Mercedarians, and two School Sisters of Notre Dame — have

Sister Mary Louise Balzarini

"We expect 200 students or more," the sister said. Some youth on waiting lists had to be turned down because there aren't enough classrooms, she said.

She praised the school board and school administrator Monsignor Tomas Camacho as "very supportive" of her plans for the high school. Some alumni also continue to have an interest in the school, returning during the summer to help with maintenance and tutoring of summer school students. (Summer school was held for those students who needed remedial work, she noted.)

Msgr. Camacho said that long-range plans for the school include building enough new classrooms to move the high school to the south side of the present auditorium. Elementary classes could then occupy the entire current classroom building.

The stage area, built some 20 years ago, has been closed except for special events like Christmas and Passion plays, the monsignor said. This year it is being converted into a large classroom, suitable for band and chorus practice.

Showers are also being installed in the rest rooms for the physical education program, the monsignor said.

"The main problem here is water," he said. Though the school is supplied water during the day, it isn't safe to drink; students are asked to bring their own. Because of the requirements of the school lunch program, soft drinks cannot be sold on campus before lunchtime, he said.

Other summer projects have included air conditioning of the chemistry lab to better preserve the chemicals, and replacing termite-eaten bookshelves in the library, Msgr.

Camacho said.

It is hoped to get parents involved in fund raising and start the construction of two new classrooms this year because of the expanding needs of the elementary school, he said. In the meantime, two old classrooms by the cafeteria are being renovated, said Sister Mary Louise Balzarini, principal of Mt. Carmel Elementary school.

With a limit of 30 students per class, there is a waiting list of 10-20 students for every grade, she said. Because of the demand, this year there will be an additional first grade class, she said. The second additional classroom is necessary because the Catholic Social Services office took over a former room, she said.

Over 500 students in grades 1-8 are enrolled, she said.

As with the high school, teachers are expected to arrive next week to set up their classrooms and go over school handbooks. Classes will begin with the public schools on August 26, and will run from 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

A change in policy issued by the superintendent of schools of the diocese regarding religion classes will be implemented this fall, Sr. Mary Louise said. Previously, non-Catholic students did not have to take religion courses, but now all students are required to take religion as an academic subject, she said. They can be excused from church services, she noted.

Beginning her third year as principal, Sr. Mary Louise finds herself playing roles of teacher, custodian, secretary and others as the school year approaches. "I don't know whether I'm coming or going," she laughed, but says that no major problems are in sight.

2 More Named To Posts On NMI Election Board

Governor Camacho submitted the names of Roman Toves Tudela and Felix A. Ayuyu to the CNMI Senate for consideration as a member of the Board of Elections.

Tudela, 35, has been employed as comptroller of the Mariana Islands Airport Authority for the past 5 years. He was comptroller for the Micronesian Legal Services for four years and worked in the business sector as accountant for J.C. Tenorio Enterprises and the Royal Taga Hotel. He started his career as a statistician for the Marianas District Economic Development office and as a bookkeeper/teller for the Bank of America.

Ayuyu, 32, was born on Alamagan island and graduated in 1972 with a bachelor of arts in psychology and sociology from the University of Missouri in Kansas City.

Ayuyu is employed as chief of program and housing of the Mariana Islands Housing Authority. He also worked for the Micronesian Legal Services Corporation as law associate.

As a recipient of an American Field Service International scholarship in 1967, Ayuyu attended Joplin Senior High School in Kansas City and became a member of the National Honor Society.

The governor said, "these appointments will bring the Board of Elections up to seven members. An eighth appointment will be coming up shortly. They became necessary because of recent resignations by Mrs. Abraham and Lorenzo Cabrera, as it would constitute a conflict of interest for them to continue to serve on the Board.

"On June 19 I appointed Elaine O. Hocog and on July 20 Visitacion DLC Quitugua and Ernest M. Sablan, and we are still awaiting Senate confirmation."

Art Exhibit Places Sought

The Commonwealth Arts Council would like to put local artists' works on display around the island.

Toward this goal, the council recruited art student Olinka Cabrera to conduct a survey of public and private include the Nauru building, other government offices, hotels and banks, Ms. Cabrera said. Art lent to schools would have to be kept in the office or library rather than classrooms for safe-keeping, she said.

There will be no charge to the place displaying the artwork unless the piece is lost or damaged, she said.

A spokesperson for the arts council said that part of the FY'82 federal block grant for the arts will be used to buy pieces for a permanent collection works of local artists already completed as well as ones specially commissioned would be included, she said. Distribution will begin soon after the new fiscal year starts.

Ms. Cabrera, 22, will return to Chaminade University in Honolulu for her senior year this fall. Her specialty is ceramics, she said, and she taught several ceramics workshops at the arts council this summer. Following her graduation, she plans to return to Saipan and hopes eventually to set up her own art studio.

She is the daughter of Gregorio and Escolastica Cabrera of Capitol Hill.

buildings, assessing the need and suitability of showing art pieces at each place.

"The majority are interested, but lacking in security," she said after six weeks of visiting government offices, schools, and private businesses. Besides the possibility of loss by theft or vandalism, some places are unsuitable because of leaky roofs or other structural defects, she noted.

Soroptimists Plan Dating Game Disco

The first fund raiser of Soroptimist International of Saipan for 1981-82 will be a Dating Game Disco, Saturday, Aug. 29, at the Descanzo Club.

The affair, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. will be for the purpose of raising funds for the Soroptimists' community service projects. Door prizes, a raffle, dance contest and the dating game - like the one on TV - are planned. "You will have to come to find out who are the lucky people who will be getting the dates," said Ms. Bernie Mitchell, chairman of the event.

Disco tickets are $5 per person and include a chance at door prizes. Raffle tickets are $1 and may be obtained from any Soroptimist member.

Last year the Saipan Soroptimists raised funds for a Youth Citizenship Award, refreshments for prenatal classes at the Public Health Clinic, gifts for hospital patients at Christmas, and support of the Special Olympics.

Other fund raising activities scheduled for this fall include a Sept. 26 Second Annual Fashion Show and a Halloween Disco on Oct. 31.

The Soroptimists are an international association of business and professional women dedicated to service to the community.

Camacho Asks Help of U.S. Accountants

Gov. Camacho has asked Billy Lee Hart, the Acting Deputy Assistant Secretary for Operations, to continue to allow professional accountants from the U.S. Department of the Interior to work in the CNMI Department of Finance.

During the past three years a technical assistance team under the leadership of Frank Solomon from the Office of Territorial Affairs in Washington, D.C. has provided advice in setting up financial records in the Commonwealth government.

"It is a well known fact that when the Commonwealth government took over in 1978 no audits had been performed and the financial records system was inadequate," the governor said.

Japanese Students Favor Saipan

A lot of Japanese student groups are visiting the NMI this year.

Mayor Francisco Diaz attributed the high interest in coming here to effective promotion in Japan. He also noted that a cruise affords an excellent opportunity for lectures and class exercises en route, making it an attractive way of bringing students to places such as the NMI.

Next week a group of 20 young Buddhist priesthood students will tour the island, he said. Camping out at a school, the group plans to meet the local judo club and hold matches on Wednesday. On their last night here, Thursday, they will launch some 200 lanterns in the lagoon at Legislature beach as part of a ceremony for the dead.

Another group, the Tokai University Educational Cruise for high school students, will arrive for its fifth visit Sunday. The 59 students and 10 teachers will remain for two days before continuing on to Guam, Mayor Diaz said. The students are training for sea-going professions.

On August 24, a group of 100 youths, mostly girls, will arrive by plane for a one-day visit and presentation at a war memorial service in Marpi. The Forgel Angels are unique in that they are a well-known group of baton twirlers, the mayor said. This will be their first visit, and the group leader hopes they will be able to come back annually.

Groups of 27-40 young students have been coming each week this summer, camping at San Antonio school and spending one night with local families, the mayor said.

The next large group expected is a cruise ship bringing some 400 Japanese students on a goodwill trip in early October, he said.

Librarians List Priorities

Library staffers recently developed a list of six high priority recommendations for the Commonwealth Library system.

The recommendations, which will be transmitted to the Superintendent and Board of Education for their consideration, in order of priority are:

- Initiation of centralized processing and acquisitions through the hire of two professional librarians who would then train local staff;

- Resumption of the former policy that librarian positions and pay level be equivalent to that of teachers;

- Improvement of the audio-visual center, including surveying old and worn out films and tripling the size of the collection;

- Provision of proper training to beginning staff;

- Improvement of book collections through the survey of outdated materials and increase in collection size; and

- Provision of skill training to all staff through workshops, etc.

The class, composed of school, public and central library staff from Saipan and Rota, has been studying the role and function of libraries in society, with particular reference to CNMI. Class members have analyzed actual and potential users, identified the library needs of each community, and examined various alternatives for meeting those needs. They have also studied the existing law establishing the library.

In a second course, the class is studying library operations from the initial selection and ordering of materials to use of those materials as reference sources, and their circulation to patrons.

Both courses are accredited by the University of Guam and are being offered through the Northern Marianas Community College. Course instructor is Ruth Tighe, consultant to the CNMI Department of Education Office of Library Services; class members include: Rita Camacho, Jackie Dumale, Pedro Magofna, Jess Manalo, Milagro Palacios, Cris Ramires and Cecilia Rios.

Firm Seeks Refund

Saipan Enterprises has filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking to have its $10,000 casino gambling application fee returned by the CNMI government.

The company which made the payment for a provisional license asserts that the government unjustly enriched itself by keeping the money after the gambling law was repealed at a referendum election.

Other companies that had paid the fees also have filed suit in attempts to recover the money.

Song Fests Scheduled

In observation of the proclamation by Gov. Carlos S. Camacho declaring August 1981 as "Chamorro and Carolinian Song Month" the Commonwealth Arts Council is sponsoring a Chamorrita Song Fest on Tinian Thursday, August 13, on Rota Friday, August 14, and on Saipan Friday, August 21.

The activities will be held at the Aging Program Centers on each island. All ages are invited to participate. CAC will tape and videotape the song fests on each island to be played on the radio stations on Guam and Saipan.

These fests are held in preparation for the Chamorrita Song Contest to be held in December 1981 in conjunction with the 4th Commonwealth Festival of Arts.

A Chamorrita song is a special type, usually a dialogue song between two people, spontaneously improvised, with the second and fourth lines rhyming. It is an old song form which is currently enjoying a revival.

The Chamorrita Song Fest is held in cooperation with the Aging Program, Historic Preservation Program and the Mayor's offices of all three islands.

Governor Opposes Clean Air Law Here

Gov. Camacho has again registered his opposition to the application of the Clean Air Act in the Northern Marianas in a letter to Ann McGill Gorush, administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Washington with copies to Congressmen and Senators, the Department of the Interior and other officials.

He said provisions of the Act are unnecessary and will prove to be expensive to the average consumer.

"The Clean Air Act makes a lot of sense in Los Angeles and other densely populated cities but not on Saipan, and certainly not on Rota and Tinian," the governor said. "Because of the high cost of new tanks and pumps needed by the gasoline service station for unleaded gas, many of them will face bankruptcy."

The Governor had requested a waiver from the enforcement of the act several years ago, which was granted. However, the waiver will expire on September 30.

Register Lists New Homesteading Rules

The Marianas Public Land Corporation has published proposed rules and regulations to govern administration and implementation of the Homestead Waiver Act of 1980, in the Commonwealth Register, dated July 31, 1981.

The proposed regulations deal with standards of eligibility, application procedures, and the issuance of permits and deeds.

Interested persons may obtain copies of the proposed regulations directly from MPLC, 6th Floor, Nauru Building. Comments have to be submitted within 45 days.

New labor regulations deal with compliance monitoring; the handling of complaints, grievances, hearings and enforcement. Copies of the adopted rules affecting protection of resident workers and employment of non-resident workers can be obtained from the Department of Commerce and Labor, 4th Floor, Nauru Building.

Seminar Discusses Welfare of Women

The South Pacific Commission convened a seminar of South Pacific women in Papeete last month with a view to developing concrete action programs. Proposals from the seminar will be submitted in October to the South Pacific Conference whose social theme for discussion will again, as last year, be Women's Role in the Development of the South Pacific Region.

Women's welfare is not a new or occasional subject of concern for the South Pacific Commission. As early as 1947, the South Seas Conference which led to the establishment of the SPC recommended "a study of the educational and social development of women and girls, in relation to the status of women in the respective communities and with a view to widening the cultural life and improving the domestic conditions of women".

Since the SPC Community Education Training Centre opened in Fiji in 1963, over five hundred women have attended its 10-month course in home economics and related subjects. The CETC curriculum was reviewed in 1979 and 1980.

Too Few Got Shots, Says Doctor

Although an immunization drive was just completed, there is still "a serious lack of protection" against disease in the NMI, according to the public health doctor.

Over 1,000 immunizations should have been given, but only about 200 shots were injected during the campaign, said Dr. Rex Whitworth. He said that the most serious deficiency lies with children in the 0-4-year-old age bracket, estimating that less than 50% are fully protected.

While admitting that there are some disparities in public health records, Dr. Whitworth said he doesn't feel that record-keeping is the main problem. The staff is in the process of correcting and upgrading the system, he noted.

"One of the most basic things we can do in public health is immunization," the doctor said. "Everyone should know his immunization status."

Besides the childhood series of immunizations, adults need to get a shot for tetanus every ten years. Usually a "Td" (tetanus-diphtheria) shot is given instead of a "DTP" (Diphtheria-tetanus-pertussis) to people over age seven, he said.

Public health nurses will be making house calls in the villages to immunize children, although "we prefer parents to take the responsibility," said Dr. Whitworth.

The best day to come to the Chalan Kanoa clinic for immunizations is Wednesday, although patients will be given shots whenever they come in, the doctor said. The clinic is open from 6-8:30 Tuesday evenings for those who cannot come during the day, he noted.

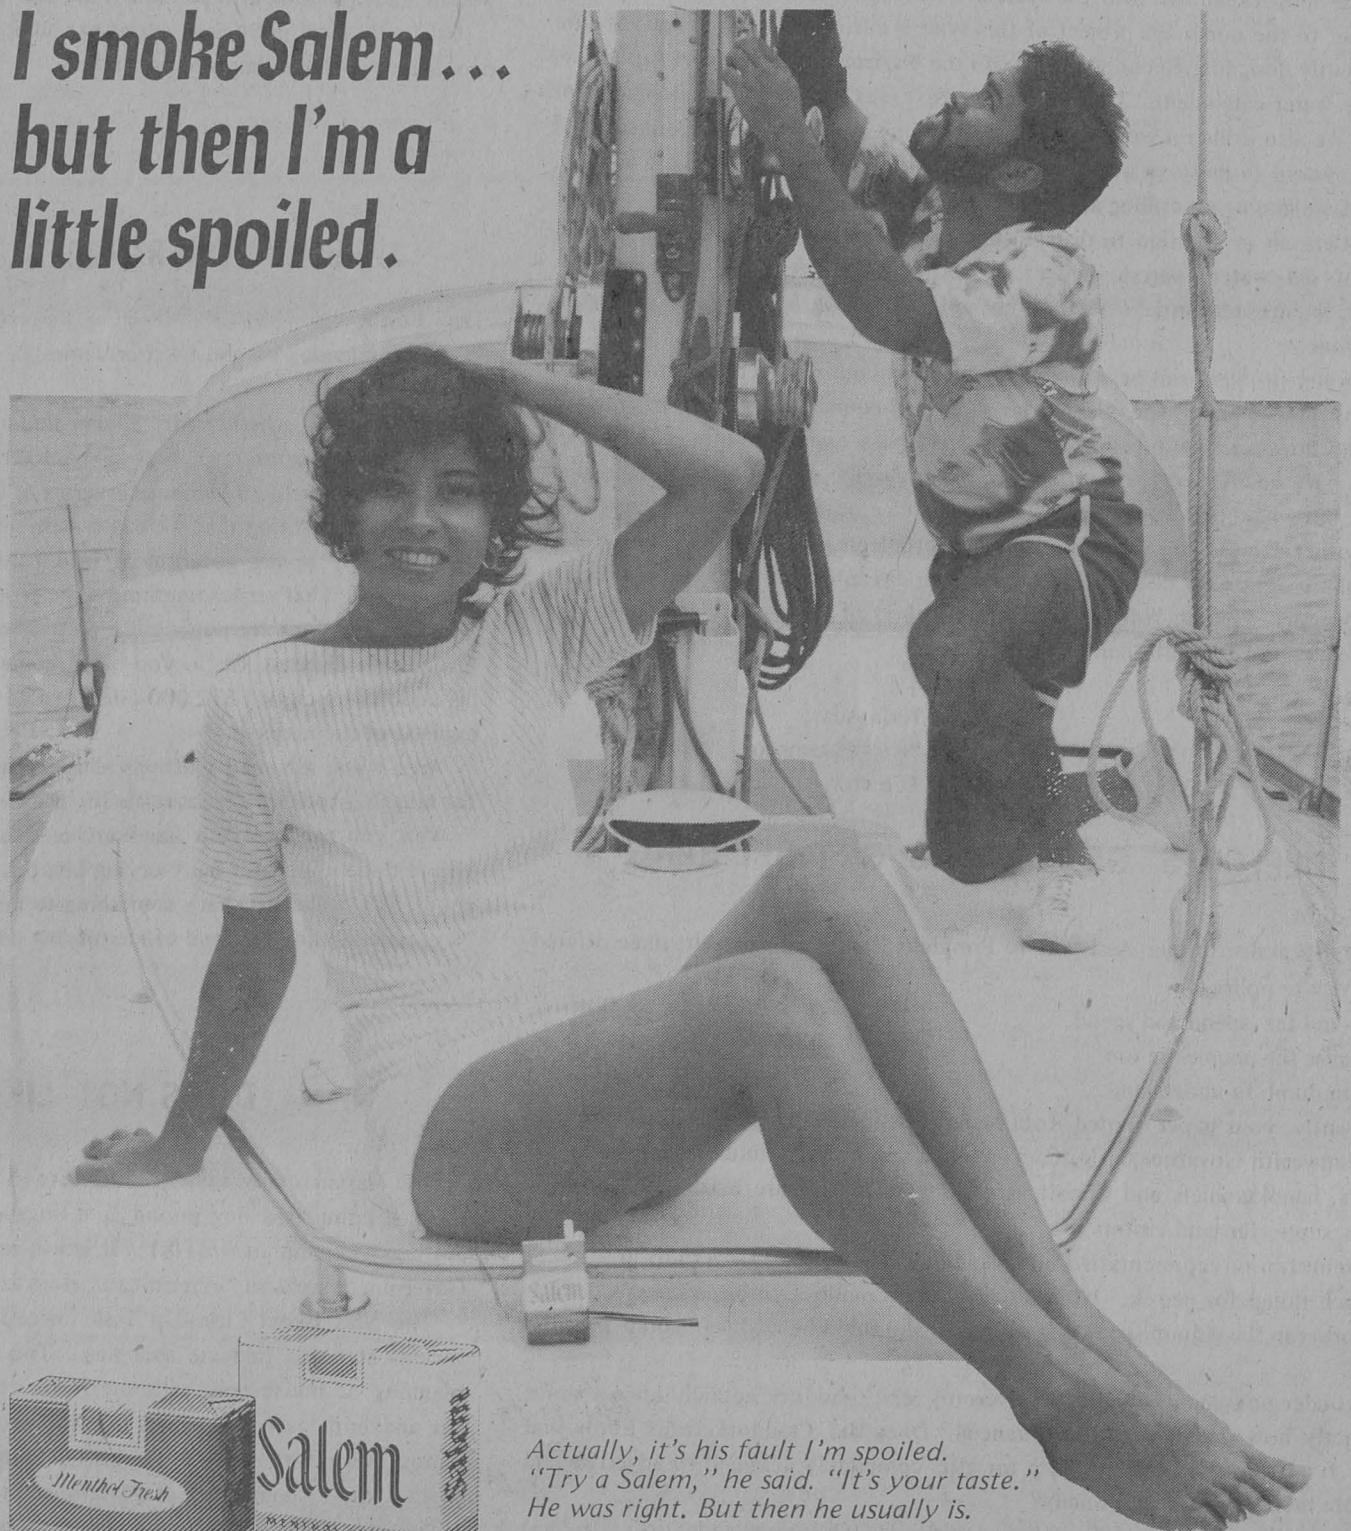

The dispensaries in Garapan, Tanapag, San Roque and San Antonio are open for immunizations Tuesday through Friday from 8-11 a.m.

Public health also has a book and updated bulletins on immunization requirements for foreign travel, Dr. Whitworth said.

Letters to Editor

'A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE IS DANGEROUS'

Dear Mr. Editor:

It is said, "a little knowledge is dangerous", and I agree. The recent letter of Mr. David M. Sablan and the article by Mr. Kurt Liepman in your July 31, 1981 edition are examples.

To set the record straight, all water for Saipan is drawn from wells. We do not have any surface catchment. Thus, any amount of rain is not going to increase the water in the reservoir like magic.

The water shortage has been a problem here in Saipan as far back as I can remember. Saipan has grown dramatically during the recent years. The demand for water has drastically increased while the supply has, only by the diligent efforts of the current administration, moderately increased. Thus, the water problem continues to worsen, and will continue to do so unless drastic and immediate action is taken in the infusion of large amounts of CIP funds.

Any improvement to the water system will need substantial capital investment. Despite the knowledge that water shortage has long been a problem, only a little over two million dollars has been made available for water system improvements from 1967 up to the present, and the increase in funding has only been made, with great difficulty because of constant cuts by the Republican controlled First Legislature and the present Senate, within the last three and a half years. You are invited to come and examine the latest FY 1981 CIP budget version to see how much water improvements have again been de-emphasized.

The water system problem is further hampered by the fact that our primary distribution systems were constructed to provide water to the post-war military facilities and not so much to local residences.

Quantity is basically a problem in the northern areas. Quality is a problem in the southern areas. Our efforts, with current available limited resources, have been to provide loop capability into the system to blend southern water and to distribute water to the north. A project of this type is currently under design. We are also currently designing, in cooperation with the Mariana Islands Airport Authority, a runway water catchment. This will be the first ever surface water catchment for Saipan. We also drilled a well in Gualo Rai and are in the process of connecting it into the system to improve water service in Gualo Rai and the immediate vicinity. We are also planning on drilling additional wells in the Maui IV area.

These are all in addition to distribution improvements, extension and rehabilitation of old water sources, budget permitting. All these, as you can easily visualize, require substantial capital outlay and joint efforts by everyone, not Public Works alone.

The water problem can be solved. We must pool our resources toward this end.

In the power area, scheduled outages are, of course, announced in advance. There is, however, no possible way to anticipate and announce unscheduled outages. We could, just for information, announce the cause of any unscheduled outages; but what good would that do? Unscheduled outages are usually caused by, among other things, power distribution line problems. Although we have a new power plant, our power distribution system is a remnant of post-war construction.

Incidentally, "Public Works brass" are members of "house holders" and, thus, very much concerned with their "welfare".

DEPLORES GOVERNOR'S GIFT SPENDING

Dear Editor:

Harry Hopkins, former Assistant to President Franklin Roosevelt, once offered this advice to politicians:

Tax and tax, spend and spend,
Because the people are too damn dumb to understand.

Recently, your paper quoted Rota Senator Benjamin Manglona's disclosure that Commonwealth Governor Carlos Camacho had spent public funds buying "gifts" of T-shirts, handkerchiefs and Christmas cards with his picture blazing on them for friends, supporters and visitors.

Administration representative, Mrs. Craddock claimed that Governors in the U.S. buy such things for people. While I know Mrs. Craddock to be a sincere, dedicated worker in the Administration, I wonder if she could be mistaken about this allegation.

I wonder how many of the 50 Governors Mrs. Craddock actually knows about or exactly how their "gifts" are financed. Does Mrs. Craddock really know that public funds are used in any State for gifts completely designed to advertise and promote their governors personally?

I am familiar with two U.S. states in particular (Oklahoma and North Carolina) and I can assure Mrs. Craddock that it would be very inappropriate for the governors there to use public funds to promote their own images at the expense of the state. From what I know about other state finances, I have reservations about any others using public funds to buy T-shirts and hankies with their Governor's pictures blazing across them for give away to friends, supporters and visitors of the Governors.

Governor Camacho, in a statement, tried to compare his hankies, T-shirts and pictures with the expense allowances of the Commonwealth Legislators. Legislators make much less money than the Governor. Also, they are not provided the many free benefits given the Governor such as maids, drivers, aids, houses, automobiles, etc. Then too, Commonwealth law specifically authorizes the expenses accounts while Commonwealth law does not authorize the Governor to buy materials promoting him personally.

Mr. Lassman, Attorney General, suggested that money was in the Governor's budget for gifts of hankies and T-shirts. We checked the Governor's budget for the last three years and have been unable to find any authorized gifts of T-shirts and hankies.

Somehow, I wonder if the purchase of gifts designed to promote an individual politician like the Governor is proper. Likewise, I wonder about the propriety of the Commonwealth paying for a portrait of the Governor only to have the picture used in a political ad like the one that appeared in the Pacific Daily News of June 4, 1981, promoting the re-election of Carlos S. Camacho. Also one wonders about the legality of the Governor's office ordering the Finance Department to pay one bill for T-shirts twice for $3,612.50.

Perhaps if Mr. Lassman, as Attorney General, is really interested in doing his job, he would begin action at once to prosecute Carlos S. Camacho for possible fraud against the Commonwealth, possible violation of Commonwealth appropriation laws and possible misconduct in office.

The House of Representatives made an investigation of the Governor's relationship with Charles Kao and his companies. One wonders how they could have missed all those purchases of hankies, T-shirts, pictures, etc., promoting Governor Camacho.

Some people have suggested that the House of Representatives is only an extension of the Governor's Office. If so, this might explain why the House couldn't find these purchases of materials now possibly being used in a political campaign.

So since the Governor's Office, Attorney General's Office and House of Representatives all claim the hankies, T-shirts, cards, pictures, etc., are all OK for purchase with public money, should the matter drop there?

Will the Senate be called "political" and dirty names if they dare look into the Governor's use of public funds? Does the Senate owe the people of the Commonwealth a duty to look into possible fraud and misuse of public funds?

Or should local politicians adopt the advice of Harry Hopkins and say that the people are too damn dumb to understand?

Yours truly,
R.D. Bradshaw
Public Auditor

USE HANDKERCHIEFS TO WIPE TEARS

Dear Editor:

The innuendos of ghost-writer James P. Sablan can only be expected from a moron.

One wonders whether Mr. Sablan understands the significance of mementos. You better understand, sir, that mementos must be characteristic of the Commonwealth of the Northern Marianas in terms of its cultural traditions.

If there's anything that we can remember the governor for, it's that he's driven this relatively young government into bankruptcy beyond every stretch of the imagination. That's not something to be proud of.

What he's done by putting his picture on handkerchiefs and T-shirts isn't too difficult to discern. Or do you have problems understanding the ramifications of his action — spending $12,000-plus — to advance his dismal political career at the expense of the taxpayers?

Aren't you ashamed that he's allowed the people of this Commonwealth to be the laughingstock of the entire Pacific Islands?

Yes, you can use your handkerchiefs to wipe your tears because by the time you're done with your baby crying bit, this Commonwealth would be in deficit by about $13 million. That's something to be concerned about or cry over. Right? Next time, do not be afraid of identifying your real self.

Sincerely
John S. DelRosario, Jr.

DOGS NOT LIKE RATS

Dear Editor:

The Marianas Government must take exception to Jane Dickhudt's reference to the just completed dog pound as a doggy extermination chamber in her "Jane's Jottings" column of 7/31/81. It is not reasonable or fair to imply that the NMI Government seeks to "exterminate" dogs as if they were rats.

The NMI Island Clean-Up Task Force has diligently researched literature from various stateside humane societies. This matter has been discussed during the planning of the facility with the NMI veterinarian Dr. dela Cruz and the Guam vet and both have assured us that the euthanasia methods proposed are in use in almost every community in the United States.

It is the responsibility of government to help create a safe and healthful living environment for its citizens. There have been numerous complaints about the large number of stray dogs on Saipan, and a significant number of individuals have been attacked and bitten. Should there be an outbreak of rabies, it would be impossible for the Department of Public Health to track down the animal causing it if we persist with our existing permissive attitude toward stray and unwanted animals.

The Clean-Up Task Force is urging residents to treat their pets in a humane manner by providing them with shelter, food and medical care. Saipan has a law which states that animals that are found on public property or on someone else's property may be picked up and destroyed. This law has not been enforced consistently for various reasons.

Go Slow In Giving Up Social Security

By Kurt Liepman

Perhaps the House of Representatives was a bit hasty in approving a bill which would take government employees out of the Social Security system.

The reasoning behind the measure was that the money the CNMI contributes to Social Security, about $750,000 a year, could be part of the government's share in funding the financially ailing retirement fund. Another reason was to reduce employees deductions which now take 6% for retirement and 5.1% for Social Security.

Rep. Dino R. Jones and Misael Ogo who opposed the bill, pointed out that no efforts were made to obtain the views of the employees whose future retirement and medical benefits may be affected drastically should this measure become law.

Mike Newman and Bob Florian, Social Security administrators, do not consider the legislation a wise move. They say that the bill would result in withdrawing from a sound system that eventually will be merged with the U.S. program, and relying solely on a retirement program whose financing is at best shaky.

Newman for one says that Social Security not only provides retirement for the employee, but also to his spouse and minor children, as well as Medicare benefits at age 65. Florian also contends that the government retirement program that appears quite generous now, has no protection against future erosion because there is no built-in inflation factor. Both have suggested that the Legislature come up with an offset program under which the retirement program only pays the amount of the pension above the basic Social Security benefits.

In any case, the bill will not become law unless the Senate concurs and the governor signs it. But employees should be informed about the ramifications and allowed to vote on it before such a drastic change to their financial security is made.

With the Social Security Office and the U.S. District Court now ensconced in the Nauru Building, a number of elderly people will probably have business there as clients or jurors and witnesses.

But on rainy days the tiled entry to the eight-story building becomes as slippery as an ice skating rink. I hope the management will do something to prevent falls and possible broken bones by laying down a rubber mat whenever it starts pouring.

EAR INFECTIONS IN CHILDREN

By Chris Ebert, M.D.

Pediatrician, Dr. Torres Hospital

One of the most common illnesses diagnosed and treated in children is infection of the middle ear, otitis media. Fever, pain, fussiness, vomiting and diarrhea can all be signs of this disease.

The middle ear is located deep in the skull. On one side is the eardrum, or tympanic membrane. This is a layer of skin at the end of the ear canal that vibrates to carry sound waves into the middle ear and then to the brain. This membrane is delicate: less than 1/200 of an inch thick. On the other side of the middle ear is a narrow tube called the Eustachian tube that opens in the back of the mouth. Through this tube fluid can drain out and germs from the mouth can back up into the middle ear.

During a "cold" or sore throat the mucous membranes lining the nose and throat may swell, blocking the normal drainage of the Eustachian tube. Fluid and pus may then collect in the middle ear, causing pain and trouble hearing. If the pressure builds up rapidly from the fluid the membrane may break, discharging the pus into the outer ear. Now the pain is gone, but the infection is much more difficult to heal, since the membrane must also grow back together.

In a baby or small child, the ears are closer to the mouth, the Eustachian tube is shorter and they have more frequent colds and congestion. This might explain why ear infections are more common under the age of three. Many children have relapses or recurrent infections. Sometimes the infection never completely goes away. These children may experience permanent damage to their hearing. An operation may be required to clear the fluid from the middle ear or to repair the eardrum if it is broken and doesn't heal.

It is very important, therefore, to bring the child to the doctor immediately if

After a short interval of inactivity, one or more thieves are again victimizing residents as well as tourists.

The modus operandi is to smash a window of a parked car and then steal whatever is left on the seats such as purses, wallets, cameras and other valuables.

Several such crimes have been reported in recent weeks at the Grotto, Obyan and Ladder Beaches and most recently at Wing Beach.

Be warned, don't leave anything of value in your car which can be seen from the outside. Which is of course no guarantee that a thief might not break a window on speculation that some loot might be contained in the glove compartment.

Police recently arrested a suspect but had to let him go on a legal technicality.

The dedication of the Tinian airport may have been the last ceremony which Rear Admiral Robert Fountain attended in the Northern Marianas. Fountain, who has been in charge of Navy activities in this area for the past 27 months, is being reassigned as deputy commander of material as of Aug. 21 and will move to Washington.

Another Navy man who will be seen less often in Saipan is Lt. Cmdr. Roy Adkerson, the liaison officer to the Northern Marianas and the Trust Territory. His transfer to Guam is based on fewer anticipated duties because of the shrinking Trust Territory headquarters. But Adkerson said he expects to spend a couple of days in Saipan every week or so when he will work out of the governor's office.

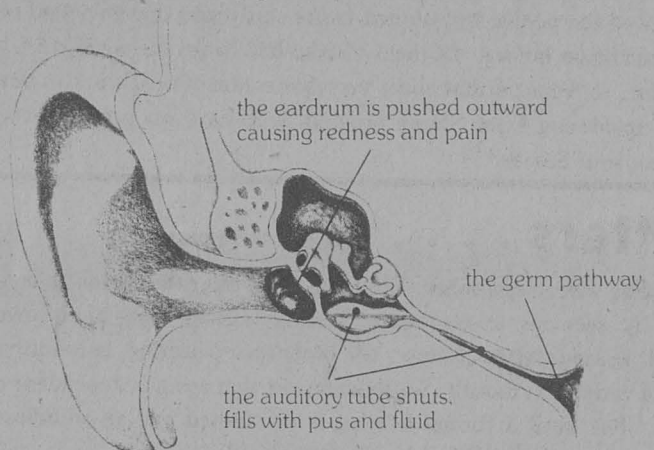

For the same price (gratis) the audience at the Tinian Airport dedication got two governors instead of just one. While at Saipan airport getting ready to fly to Tinian, Gov. Camacho spotted a familiar figure at the restaurant and invited him along. It was Truk Gov. Erhart Aten, on Saipan to talk to acting Dep. High Commissioner Dan High. Airport dedications are nothing new for Aten. A few months ago he hosted the ceremony opening Moen's new and much improved airfield.

My spies tell me that several members of the Legislature and some of the candidates seeking their jobs are running. Not only for office but on the track across the street in an effort to trim off pounds and to get into or stay in physical shape. Some are a bit modest about their physical fitness program. They wait until dark so that their constituents will not see them in their running shorts.

he/she complains of ear or head pain. (Children will often pull on or dig in an ear with a middle ear infection.) A small baby may only cry or have fever as a sign. The pain is worse lying flat and better when the baby is held or propped up. Since the ear is close to the brain, infants with ear infections are at risk for meningitis.

Three types of medicines are used to treat ear infection. Antibiotics like Ampicillin, Penicillin, Erythromycin, Septra, Bactrim, Gantrisin must be given by mouth for a week or 10 days, 2 to 4 times a day as written on the bottle. Stopping the medicine too soon risks further complications.

Here is what happens with otitis media

The second type of medicine sometimes used for ear infections are decongestants, like Actifed, Sudafed, Dinetappi or Triaminic. These help to reduce mucous production and dry the nose and throat. This may help to clear the fluid in the middle ear. Side effects include drowsiness or in some children hyperactivity.

Sometimes eardrops are prescribed to treat ear infections. These are useful in two situations: When the ear drum is broken and discharging pus or when the infection is not in the middle ear but in the ear canal (external otitis).

When the doctor prescribes eardrops, the proper method is to fill the ear canal completely with the drops and allow it to soak for several minutes. Using the drops more often will heal the ear more quickly, so try to use them 3-6 times a day, especially at the beginning of treatment.

It would be most constructive if concerned individuals would form a local chapter of the American Humane Association. In Pasadena, California for example, the Humane Society, a non-government organization, works closely with the Police Department and provides shelter for stray animals until picked up or adopted. They use euthanasia methods to destroy unwanted animals. In addition they pick up dead animals along the roads and offer other services.

Under Public Law 1-8 the Executive Branch is charged to "maintain and improve health and sanitary conditions." This mandate can only be carried out with the understanding and cooperation of the residents of the Commonwealth.

LAND BOARD FUNDING URGED

Dear Editor:

Permit me to use your column to appeal to the Commonwealth government to fund adequately the Land Commission office so that it may be able to carry out its duties as mandated pursuant to 67 TTC.

I have a tract of land which I have long awaited to be registered by the Land Commission but up until now to no avail. Reason for this is that the Land Commission never had any money to pay for printing hearing notices, which are printed by the thousands, and other forms all of which are required by law to be provided. You see, before my land could be registered, adverse claims to the land, if any, must be heard by the Land Commission, which is preceded by delivering of hearing notices which again is done pursuant to law.

Just last May was the Land Commission able to conduct its preliminary hearing with respect to my claim, as well as other claims, after so many hearing re-

Survey Indicates Tots' Poor Nutrition.

By Nancy Rody
Nutritionist

A recently completed household nutrition report on Saipan indicates that the diets of young children may be inadequate. A sample population of 150 households, equal to four percent of the population, was studied in all the villages of Saipan. Navy Hill and Capitol Hill were not included since their populations are mainly transient.

75% of the children between the ages of one and four years of age were found to have an inadequate intake of milk. 87% have an inadequate intake of Vitamin A, supplied mainly by green and yellow vegetables and dairy products; 69% have an inadequate intake of Vitamin C for which citrus fruits are a good source. 67% have an inadequate intake of fruits and vegetables. Children are often given sweetened drinks such as soda pop or Tang with their meals, resulting in the low milk intake.

Although almost everyone questioned in the survey said that it is better to breast feed a baby than to give it a bottle, breast feeding is not commonly continued more than a month or so after birth. Because mothers give bottles along with breast milk to their babies, they are not able to continue breast feeding for a longer period of time. Supplementary feeding with a bottle in the early months of life can cause a mother's milk supply to decrease.

The study showed that babies are being given solid foods by the age of six months, which is in line with medical guidelines. However, the babies are usually given meat and rice soups, not fruits and vegetables, which are recommended. Babies are given large amounts of milk, which can cause nutritional problems because the babies therefore have little appetite for other foods. Milk crowds other nutritious foods out of their diets, which can result in anemia.

Snacking was found to be a common practice among both children and adults. The snacks most frequently chosen are of low nutritional value. Sweet breads and drinks sweetened with sugar were found to be the most popular snacks.

The data collected shows that less than half of the population has a home garden or goes fishing. Of those that do have gardens, most raise foods such as coconuts and bananas. Other fruits and vegetables are not frequently grown. Many also raise pigs and chickens, but these animals are eaten only when there are parties or on other special occasions. 48% of the households use USDA food commodities.

The Consumer Price Index quoted in the study indicates that a high share (42%) of the average consumer's budget is spent on food. This amount, relative to incomes and family size on Saipan, is quite high. Because of differences between regulations for the USDA commodity food program and the Food Stamp program, fewer families on Saipan may be eligible for Food Stamps than are now eligible for USDA commodity foods.

63% of the people questioned in the study said that they had never heard of the word nutrition before. Of the 37% who had heard the word, 16% had no idea what it meant. It appears that some very basic educational work in nutrition is in order if the up-coming Food Stamp program is to have any good effects on the health of the people of Saipan.

scheduling since September, 1980 and only after the senior land commissioner was aided by agencies to reproduce hearing notices using their own supplies. The formal hearing, which follows the preliminary hearing, is tentatively scheduled to be held early next month (September) but that again is dependent on availability of funds. But until a formal hearing is conducted and an adjudication is made my land could not be registered by the Land Commission.

Hence, I ask the Commonwealth Legislature and the Governor to consider adequate funding for the Land Commission office as a priority on their budget allocation in order that timely registration of lands may be accomplished without any hindrance. This concern I am sure is not only shared by me alone but also many others who desire their land to be registered.

Sincerely,

CULTURE AND EDUCATION

Dear Editor:

The implication of the civil rights posters refer to the legal rights of an individual to be different while at the same time being a responsible member of a larger society. More specifically cultural democracy, as educators define it, states that an individual can be bicultural and still be loyal to American ideals. Cultural democracy is a philosophical precept which recognize that the way a person communicates, relates to others, seeks support and recognition from his environment (Incentive Motivation) and thinks and learns (cognition) is a product of the value system of his home and community. Furthermore, educational environments or policies that do not recognize the individual right as guaranteed by the Civil Right Act of 1964, to remain identified with the culture and language of his cultural group are culturally un-democratic.

Whatever its intention, any educational policy that keeps a child from learning or valuing his/her cultural values creates painful psychological problems for the child. The school's rejection of the child's language or of anything in life which is related to his culture implies rejection of the child himself. Instead of providing the Peter who?

The new tennis pro at the hotels is affiliated with Peter Burwash International, he says. So who's Peter Burwash?

An internationally famous professional tennis player, Ron Estrada informed me. Of course. A Canadian by nationality, Burwash holds 19 singles and doubles titles and has played in more countries — over 70 — than any other pro tennis player. The 36-year-old has also coached tennis players in about 85 countries, and is known as a top tennis speaker. He incorporated his company in 1975, and keeps in contact personally with his 70 tennis pro's, Estrada said.

Estrada uses words like "motivating" and "inspirational" to describe the president of his company, and said that employees not only teach tennis, but build courts, promote and sell Burwash's book ("Tennis for Life"), learn foreign languages, do bookkeeping, and tackle other projects they never tried before. They're asked to follow a model lifestyle, including no smoking or drinking. Their indoctrination — pardon me, training — lasts 400 hours before they're sent out to run tennis programs.

It sounds to me like this Burwash guy must have all the charisma of a John Kennedy, or more recently, Jim Jones of People's Temple infamy. It almost does sound like a religion — but thank goodness it's nothing diabolical, just a passion for a lifestyle wrapped around tennis.

After all, I'm nearly as hung up on running, right?

Speaking of my favorite subject, I noted a reference to marathoning in the July issue of Smithsonian (which just arrived), which I'd like to share with you.

In an article examining the emotions of those few who have "plummeted from the sky" accidentally and survived, the author noted one Sgt. Roger Reynolds who fell 2,000 feet. Reynolds was sky diving at an exhibition in 1974 when both parachutes failed him, landing on a neurologist's lawn at approximately 85 mph, writer Michael Kernan relates. Kernan continues:

"He broke numerous bones, cracked some ribs, suffered a concussion and internal injuries. Two days after his release from an 18-month hospital stay, with a brace still on his left leg (he had at one time been told he would never walk again), he jumped again. . . Two years after his release from the hospital he ran in the Boston Marathon and has been running in it every year since."

And I think it's close to impossible just to make a qualifying time to get into that marathon. Wonder how he did it??

Peace Corps/Micronesia's budget must have gotten bigger again. I see they brought 35 volunteers here for a week of in-service training.

My group, which arrived in Micronesia in January of 1978, was promised the same thing. Instead, I and the other two Kosrae volunteers managed to get a meal and one night's hotel on Ponape paid for, just because we happened to be passing through on our vacation and took time out to air our grievances to then Ponape PC rep Largo Edwin.

I saw in the PDN where free physical exams for school athletes are being offered. It sounded like a good idea for here, too — except that we have no interscholastic sports. File that idea away for future reference. . . .

Aren't there any kids willing to make a few bucks cutting grass for those of us who are either too lazy to do it or too cheap to buy a lawnmower? From several people I've heard the query: do you know anyone who cuts grass?

Maybe those inclined to get into "lawnmowing" could put up notices on bulletin boards or elsewhere around town.

opportunity to establish a bicultural identity, such policies force the child to make a choice of identifying with one culture rather than the other. Most difficult of all, such policies exert pressure on the child to make a choice at the time in his life when the values that he has acquired at home are not consciously articulable by the child. Consequently, one of the basic principles of democracy, that of conscious choice, is being violated by such policies.

The philosophy of cultural democracy requires that the school refrain from making a choice for the child. A culturally democratic learning environment is a setting in which a child can acquire knowledge about his own culture and the dominant culture; the learning, furthermore, is based on communication, human relational, incentive-motivational, and learning pattern that are culturally appropriate. The goal of such environment is to develop biculturalism with regard to communication, human relation, motivation and learning. The education goal is to help children learn to function competently and effectively in, as well as to contribute to, more than one cultural world.

Teachers interested in Cultural Democracy in the schools can try to change present teacher training and professional organization. But, be aware that attempts of this nature might be resisted by the bureaucrats in the upper echelon of the government.

FSM Changes Rules For Law Practice

PONAPE (FSM RELEASE)
The FSM Supreme Court changed some of the admission standards to practice law set by the Trust Territory High Court, according to the July 30 edition of the National Union.

The FSM court removed the residency requirement and added a $25 admission fee for attorneys seeking admission.

The term "trial counselors" will be used for non-lawyer practitioners, instead of "trial assistant", and the requirement that an FSM citizen submit a law school grade transcript was deleted as "unnecessary".

Attorneys and trial counselors who practiced before the T.T. court will be able to practice before the FSM court, but new practitioners will be subjected to a written examination to be administered semi-annually on the first Thursday of March and August to insure that they "approach the practice of law here with sensitivity."

However, if the exam requirement threatens to delay the trial, the High Court may waive the requirement if the non-Micronesian is associated with a Micronesian law firm.

As for citizens of Micronesia, those who want to practice law have three options: They can show they are certified lawyers by presenting their bar membership certificate to the Court; they can show they graduated from a law school; or prove their professional experience and competence.

said that the unicameral 4th and 5th Legislatures worked.

"We are in a mess because of this document (the covenant which called for a bicameral Legislature)," he said.

Nakatsukasa snapped that he didn't want to be "part of the clowns" in voting for the resolution. He said the two-house Legislature was written into the covenant and constitution to "protect our sister islands" of Rota and Tinian. "They're no dummies, they know what they are doing," he said.

Atalig agreed, saying that a unicameral Legislature would not work in the Northern Marianas because it defeats equal representation.

Fitial cited Shakespeare in saying that there is nothing wrong with the bicameral system except perhaps the members.

"The fault, dear Brutus, lies not in the stars but ourselves that we are underlings," he quoted from Julius Caesar.

The present Legislature is composed of a 14-member House of Representatives elected on the basis of population and three senators each from Saipan, Rota and Tinian.

Although it was not stated during the debate on the resolution, some House members appeared to be frustrated by the inability of the two houses to agree on a number of pieces of legislation, including the budget.

Voting in favor of the resolution besides Jones and Camacho were Reps. Ben Sablan, Felicidad Ogumoro and James Mendiola.

To change the form of the Legislature, it would require both Houses of the Legislature to amend the Constitution by three-fourth vote, submit the changes to the voters at a referendum and to have the covenant amended by the U.S. Congress, one legislative source said.

Gov. Camacho has appointed Charles Calvo, the acting legislative affairs officer, to the Task Force for the American Memorial Park. Calvo will replace Vicente Santos who retired from government service last April.

One of the functions of the task force is to assist in the overall planning of the park's development. It coordinates its work with the National Park Service representative on Saipan, Gordon Joyce, who oversees the implementation of the project plans.

The governor, as the chairman of the task force, has designated Jesus Elameto, chief of coastal zone management, to serve as the acting chairman and as program coordinator.

Other members are Mayor Frank Diaz, Herman Q. Guerrero, Dr. Benusto Kaipat, Victorino Chong, Bill Sakovich, William R. Concepcion and Mrs. Magdalena C. Camacho.

The American Memorial Park consists of 133 acres adjacent to Micro Beach. According to U.S. Public Law, the Secretary of the Interior acting through the Director of the National Park Service is responsible for the development, maintenance and administration of the Park and upon completion it is to be transferred to the Commonwealth Government.

The American Battle Monument Commission has contributed an inscribed rose granite monument which has arrived on Saipan and is ready to be erected with the $25,000 in cash which were also contributed.

In 1978 the U.S. Congress authorized $3 million for the development of the NMI American Memorial Park, but has yet to actually appropriate any funding. T. Stell Newman with the National Park Service on Guam is the designated Superintendent of the Park.

Visitors Trounce Koreans

A Korean junior soccer team from Guam defeated Saipan's Korean team 6-0 and 6-3 in games played last weekend, according to Kim An Young, president of the Saipan Soccer Association. But Saipan's team will have a chance to beat Guam next weekend when they challenge another Korean team there on Aug. 15, Korea's Independence day, Kim said.

A new league will begin here on Saipan at the end of this month, he said.

Fish, Dalla Pozza Win Tennis Tourney Singles

Mark Fish and Rose Marie Dalla Pozza took the singles championships in the 2nd Annual Kool Tennis Tournament last weekend, victorious over large number of players including consistent winners Franz Reksid and Irene Alpet.

Played at the Hyatt Regency and InterContinental tennis courts, the competition attracted 23 men and 10 women.

Given a bye in the first round, Fish defeated Gregg Tom 6-0, 6-1 in his first match and went on to a 6-0, 6-0 victory over T. Pinula. Early Sunday morning he faced defending Liberation Day tournament champion Franz Reksid on the InterCon court, and won an exciting 6-4, 6-4 victory.

Meanwhile, Pat Bryan who had placed second in the Liberation Day tournament, earned another shot at the championship by defeating J. Aldan 6-4, 4-6, 7-5; Keith Aughenbaugh 6-2, 6-1; and Tim Goodwin 6-3, 6-4. The championship match took place late Sunday afternoon, and Fish came away the winner with a 6-4, 6-2 victory.

Gianni Borga, defeated by Goodwin 2-6, 6-2, 6-2 in the first round, took the consolation trophy. Borga met Lee Torres Sunday morning and in a quick 6-0, 6-2 match, won the consolation round.

Narrowly winning her first round in an exciting three-set 6-3, 5-7, 7-5 victory over Barb High, Rose Marie Dalla Pozza went on the take the women's title. Her second win was a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Ilene Yaskin, followed by a 6-1, 6-4 defeat of Jean Sakovich.

Liberation Day champion Irene Alpet advanced to the finals after defeating Lucy Selepeo 6-2, 6-0 and Bobbi Grizzard 6-1, 6-2. Dalla Pozza then stole the championship from Alpet in a 6-2, 6-3 final match at the InterCon.

The women's consolation round pitted Yaskin against High for the title, with Yaskin winning the Sunday morning match 6-2, 6-1.

The tournament will continue this weekend with men's and women's doubles matches at the Hyatt and InterCon courts. Following the tournament on Sunday will be an awards banquet at the Hyatt at 7:30 p.m.

STRETCH — Gianni Borga, who won men's singles consolation round, reaches high for serve.

NEW HONORS — Tony Rogolofoi, 1980 Athlete of Year collects July honors from Mayor Francisco Diaz.

Sports Briefs

The Saipan Runners will host a pre-Jam Fest race on Sat., Aug. 22. The 5½-mile course will begin at Dandan housing, follow airport road to the airport, circle around the parking lot, and return to the starting spot. Sign-up time is 5 p.m. A $1 fee will be charged for adults; 50 cents for students. All finishers will receive certificates, and refreshments will be provided.

Because the players are losing interest, there will be no play-off games in the long-delayed 1980 Men's Government Slow-pitch Softball League. Not one team has made ten players when the weather is good, said Softball president Dave Igitol, and those games have been cancelled. Players of games rained out will get one more chance to come and play, he said.

+++++

All coaches, persons interested in officiating, and players for the upcoming Women's Islandwide Volleyball League are invited to attend a volleyball clinic to be conducted by Ben Saures Sat., Aug. 15, at 11 a.m. in the Mt. Carmel gym. Rules of the game will be stressed.

Next week the Saipan Swim Club will begin team practices for the upcoming swim season. Anyone interested in competitive swimming and who can swim at least two lengths of the pool is invited to try out with the team, according to coach Bill Sakovich. Both boys and girls may join, and there is no age limit. Practices are scheduled for Tues. and Thur. at 3:30 p.m., and Sat. at 8 a.m. for the next two weeks. After school starts, sessions will be held daily. All workouts take place at the InterContinental pool.

Swimming ability tests for those interested in taking the Red Cross senior life-saving and water safety course will be held on Thur., Aug. 20 and Tues., Aug. 25 from 5-6 p.m. at the InterContinental pool. Class members must be able to swim 300 meters and tread water for five minutes, and must be 15 years or older. For further information, contact Bill or Jean Sakovich.

Free tennis lessons for youth at the Civic Center court will begin next month, according to tennis professional Ben Estrada.

He is also offering one free lesson to any group of four people. Employed by Peter Burwash International, a company which promotes tennis through lessons, shows, clinics and other special programs, Estrada recently arrived on Saipan to direct activities in the sport at both the InterCon and Hyatt hotels.

His regular lesson fees for NMI residents are as follows:

Private lesson — $14 per hour; group lesson for 3 people — $4 per person per hour; group lesson for 4 people — $3 per person per hour; series of 5 half-hour private lessons — $30.

'80 Athlete Selected For July Honors

Tony Rogolofoi, the 1980 Athlete of the Year, was again chosen by the Saipan Amateur Sports Association for athletic honors.

He was voted July Athlete of the Month for his outstanding skill and leadership in the Men's Islandwide Volleyball League. Though his Kanaka 4 team placed second, Rogolofoi played well. Unlike some volleyball players who excel in one position, the 24-year-old performed well in every position he tackled.

As a leader, Rogolofoi organized his team and served as its captain, and with Ben Saures coordinated the entire league. The two athletes are currently organizing a women's volleyball league.

Holding a full-time job with Avis Rent-a-Car, Rogolofoi finds time not only for volleyball but also for daily practice with the Oceania Tournament basketball team. He also actively participates in his District 4 community, assisting at fiestas and other community affairs.

Jam Fete Set Aug. 23

The Second Annual Back-to-School Jam Festival will be held from noon until 6 p.m. Sun., Aug. 23, at Civic Center Park.

Several bands will take turns playing throughout the afternoon. Motocross riders will compete beginning at 10 a.m. at the Civic Center dirt track. Soft drinks, beer, food and snow cones will be sold by various sports organizations, and judo and taekwondo exhibitions will take place. Prizes will also be raffled off to those who purchase tickets at the festival.
