LOCAL NEWS.

The steamer Geo. W. Elder sails for San Francisco on next Friday, the 13th inst.

We learn by the G. W. Elder that Mort. Oat is enjoying himself in San Francisco.

The steamer Australia is due here from San Francisco on next Saturday, the 13th inst.

Their Majesties, the King and Queen, leave for Honolulu, Hawaii, by the steamer W. G. Hall this afternoon.

The surplus stores which arrived on the ship Stirlingshire will be sold at auction at ten o'clock this morning at Brewer's wharf.

The brig Allie Rowe was hauled alongside Emma's wharf yesterday, where she will be sold at public auction on next Thursday.

H. May & Co. have just received a lot of fine groceries from San Francisco, including crackers, cheese, and lots of good things.

It was rumored about yesterday that a Chinese store on Beretania street had been broken into and robbed, last Sunday night, but the report could not be confirmed.

The Sunday-school room in Fowler's yard, which is conducted by Mrs. Southwick, has just been enlarged and fitted up to accommodate a large number of scholars.

The band concert at the Hawaiian Hotel last evening was well attended, and the music much appreciated. The front of the Hotel was beautifully decorated with Chinese lanterns of all colors.

Mr. A. J. Cartwright's latest gift to the Honolulu Library Association, Darwin's works in six volumes, has just been placed upon the table of that institution, and is now at the service of members.

The monthly meeting of the officers and teachers of the Bethel Union Sunday-school will be held this evening at half-past seven o'clock, at the residence of Rev. E. C. Ogel, the Pastor, Nuuanu Avenue.

During last Friday night some miscreant entered the lodging house of Mrs. Perry, on Hotel street, and carried away two large hams. This looks as if the band of robbers in Honolulu were getting hungry.

"Tempted and Tried—A Plea for Temperance," by the Rev. E. C. Ogel, Pastor of the Bethel Union Church, can be had at Thurm's on Fort street, and at Oat's on Merchant street. Price, 10 cents.

To-morrow afternoon a challenge shooting match will take place at the Casino. The match will be between Col. W. W. Merrill, of Boston, Mass., and Mr. Frank Higgins, of Honolulu. The distance agreed upon is five hundred yards.

About nine o'clock last evening a sensation was created on Nuuanu street by a policeman who was arresting a drunken German. The man had been drinking and fighting, and when arrested, his wife and little boy followed him to the Station House, both crying and begging the policeman to let him go.

Yesterday morning, about 7 o'clock, a negro, whose legs were so crooked that he looked as though he would walk in a circle if he tried to move, made the corner of Nuuanu and Hotel streets vibrate with profanity, which he was ejaculating at a Portuguese store-keeper in the vicinity. The police had not waked up yet; it was too early in the morning.

Mr. Wash. Norton, who has been in the show business for nearly forty years, has at last made up his mind to retire to his home in the United States and quit making the public laugh. It is not likely that Mr. Norton will play again as a professional after he leaves the Hawaiian Islands. In anticipation of his retirement Mr. Norton offers to sell any of his illusions, together with his extensive wardrobe, including the secret of his rapid character changes, etc. About the only thing that Mr. Norton will be likely to sell here is his banjo, which is a fine professional instrument, and ought to make the Hawaiian heart throb with joy. Mr. Norton will also sell the remainder of the "jokes" he has not already given away. In fact, he will sell anything he possesses except his ability to make the world laugh.

About nine o'clock last evening, Mr. Charles Hiram, who resides on the Plains, telephoned to town for the police, saying that two men were trying to break into the residence of Hon. Samuel Parker, on King street. Officers were at once dispatched for the scene of the attempted robbery, but arrived just in time to see the men disappearing in the distance. They immediately gave chase, but were unable to find the robbers. Mr. Hiram says that Monday a native placed a horseshoe on the gate of Mr. Parker's house, he thinks for the purpose of letting the men know that it was a good place to rob. About nine o'clock he saw two men enter the yard, both wearing heavy black coats, and walk around the house looking in the windows as they went. A native and a Japanese were in the house at the time, and the Jap. was so badly scared that he ran to the front door and out into the yard. The two men saw him and immediately left the place running towards Waikiki. The residents on the Plains are beginning to feel uneasy at the boldness of the robbers who are overrunning the town, and especially the outskirts.

During last Sunday night the grocery and drygoods store of Lo Sam Sing, at No. 139 Nuuanu street, was broken into, and two hundred and fifty dollars in money, and goods worth about fifty dollars were stolen. Entrance was gained by tearing out the boards on the side of the water closet which is situated in the rear of the store, and connected with the store by a door, which was open. The owner of the store and the employees were sleeping over the store at the time, but they were not awakened. The robbery was first discovered in the morning, when the "boss" opened the till to get some money, but to his surprise there was no money there. He then went to the other side of the store, where there is another till, and found that empty also. He then looked around the store and discovered that a lot of shawls and other goods were gone. No clue to the robber or robbers was found. The police were notified.

They say: That the fate of the Treaty will not be settled during the present session of Congress; that several of the American citizens of Honolulu offered McCarthy "recommendations of character" before he left for San Francisco; that there are five vessels due this month from New Castle, N. S. W.; that the Hawaiian Government has information regarding the cause of the proposed abrogation of the Treaty which will not be made public "by authority"; that there are some funnier people in town than the Merry Makers; that the price of eggs is coming down at last, much to the disgust of the hens and Chinese vendors; that five or six of Honolulu's citizens have had the pleasure of seeing their names frequently used in the San Francisco newspapers lately; that urgent requests have been made of Honolulu editors not to reprint these delectable clippings; that as Honolulu editors generally are good-natured, the request has been granted—so far, that a colonization party will start for Honolulu ranch to-day or to-morrow; that the busy Bee stated in San Francisco that a certain decision of the Hawaiian Supreme Court "caused excitement and trepidation among the American colony in Honolulu"; that some of them "are now seriously contemplating a trip further South"; that the next Legislature will be asked to make an appropriation for coast defenses on the Island of Lanai; that some elegant verses have been written in times past about Lanai; that the brightest star in the Hawaiian firmament is a local five-pointed star that twinkles at night; that the thieves are the only people in Honolulu who are beating their past record; that the "George Washington Roller" is what the passengers call her; that her name was changed by unanimous consent the second day out from San Francisco; that the lei makers don't move worth a cent; and that they are just about as "fast" in finding out they are in your way as a Honolulu policeman is.

John Bright, now seventy-four years old, delivered at Birmingham on the 29th of January one of the most eloquent speeches of his life. He regretted that farmers in the United States are not permitted to exchange their products with artisans of that city or weavers of Lancashire, but are compelled to exchange with protected manufacturers in their own country, who in some cases do not give half of what the farmers could get from the Lancashire or Birmingham manufacturers. He strongly denounced war as a means of settling international controversies. During Queen Victoria's reign, he said England's wars had cost her $750,000,000 and the lives of 68,000 men.

A devout and worthy gentleman is the clergyman of a parish near Chicago. His congregation was somewhat amused at the singularity of one of his announcements on the evening of December 5th, which was as follows: "Remember our communion service next Sunday forenoon. The Lord will be with us during the morning service, and the bishop in the evening."

A CARD.

MR. H. ARMITAGE.
DEAR SIR: We have just returned from a trip to the Volcano of Kilauea per the "W. G. Hall," via Punaluu, and have much pleasure in bearing testimony to the admirable manner in which the whole arrangements are conducted with a view to the comfort and convenience of tourists. The hotel accommodations and meals supplied by Mr. Lee of Punaluu it would not be easy to surpass anywhere. And at the half-way House a really first-class meal is provided both on the up and down journey. There is no doubt that this is by far the most comfortable route by which to visit the Volcano.

We are yours truly,
H. W. DRYSDAL.
LESLIE E. CLIFT.
P. S.—This is, we had better state, quite voluntary and unsolicited.

THE NEW MOON.

[Arthur Platt in November Century.]
The new moon bends her golden sickle above
The tree tops, in the deep blue West;
My heart's upwelling passion overflows
And will not let me rest.

Mysterious lady of refreshing night,
Ere thy twin horns in perfectly circle meet
Grant that my love her faith to me may plight
And make my joy complete.

When in my hands her little hands I hold
My heart beats fast for joy within me
O hide below the West thy curved gold
Dear moon and let me rest.

A Mosaic of all the Tribes.
(Brooklyn Eagle.)

Pass out from Athens, on the evening of the 1st of April, along the Piræus road until you reach the temple of Theseus at no great distance from the Acropolis. Near at hand is the Hill of Mars and the gently rising ground upon which the oldest temple of hero worship is built, stretches up to the Pryx. On this occasion crowds of Athenians assemble there long before the sun rests upon Argolis and glides with its departing rays the Parthenon and Erechtheum perched proudly on that magnificent pedestal, the Acropolis. All Athens repairs to that fabulous spot, as her citizens did centuries ago, to listen to the harangues of her great orators. You see before you a curious mosaic of all the tribes and nationalities of Greece.

There are the fine forms, the classic features of Greek women. The aged Athenians repose on the marble seats ranged on the southern side of the temple of Theseus—the seats which are said to have once been occupied by the judges of the Areopagus. The groups of young men and maidens are threading the mazes of a dance, which is at once national and historical. Ask one of them why they came there on that occasion and they can only tell you that it is in obedience to an ancient custom. They only know that their fathers did so before them. But that is the ancient Pyrrhic dance which you look upon and the fete around the columns of the temple of Theseus shows how the usages of a people can travel centuries.

The Slow Methods of Europe.

"O. N." in Cincinnati Enquirer.

There is no country where the people so promptly seize upon and apply nature's new things as this. Nobody can invent a machine so dangerous that he can not here find a way to meet competing for the privilege of breaking their necks in it. On the other hand, the slow methods of Europe often prevent the people there from assisting themselves. I can remember only a few years ago when American beef would not be eaten in England by the very multitude which was suffering for cheap beef. Somebody had told them it was cats and dogs, and they were hungry rather than try any experiments. Now they are getting beef and understanding it, but they might have grasped the cattle business in its infancy and made it a source of revenue instead of paying contributions to Americans for it. When the English and Scotch came to purchase stock and ranges in America they were late in the field and had to pay proportionately.

A Valuable Tallman.

[New York Cor. Chicago Journal.]

There is in New York just now an astrologer who thrives amazingly on the sale of a tallman to keep off the marks of time. His extensible trade is to tell fortunes, and he advertises in the usual manner. His customers are mostly women, of course, and to each he casually remarks, after the horoscope has been duly cast: "I suppose you will not credit it, but, owing to the peculiar relative positions of the planets at the time of your birth, I could make a charm for you to wear that would prevent you from growing old in appearance. I would warrant it to keep you just as youthful as you are now for ten years at least." He affects to be surprised when the dupe expresses a desire to procure the wonder, but he reluctantly consents to manufacture it for her, and his price ranges as high as $50 in case he thinks she can pay so much. What she gets is a stone to wear on her bosom under her corsage.

Cheerfulness of the Blind.

[Boston Herald.]

"It is a common mistake to suppose," continued the oculist, "that the born blind or those who have been blind since infancy are possessed of abnormal faculties of exquisiteness of touch, of music, or of memory, or of direction. The faculty of direction is subject to as many vicissitudes of development in the blind as among those who are not blind. So it is with the other faculties. Music is popular among the blind, because, having lost sight, nothing except thought and comparatively speaking, then among those who have the perfect use of their eyes. Children born blind grow up to be cheerful and happy and contented. The melancholy cases are among those persons made blind later in life."

Amateur Athletes Report.

[Chicago News "Bathurst"]

Two Boston young men who have just returned from a pedestrian tour in western Massachusetts report that the average farmer is still unable to distinguish a gentleman from a tramp. The reason is that the farmer, even after hearing the country dressed stranger talk intelligently, the ruralist is apt to be suspicious of him, and his display of money leads to the fear that he has added ready to his other crimes. The country hotel keeper, too, is inclined to think that a pedestrian in coarse clothes is not well off in this world's goods. On one occasion the two tourists put up at a little tavern where the landlord of the landlady's creature comfort. While they came to pay their bill mine host said sympathetically: "I shan't charge you feller as much as a 'outer, 'cause I don't suppose you can afford such a splurge as you've been makin'."

A Quiet but Powerful Influence.

[Chicago News "Bathurst"]

It is not generally known, save to observant persons and close readers, that many of the magazines in the east are exerting a quiet but powerful influence toward bringing about a better feeling between the north and south. The war articles in The Century are samples in point. The same magazine has frequently published short tales treating of the war, but in such a delicate manner as not to offend any one whose sensibilities on the subject might be wounded. Other publications in their printed instructions to writers especially warn them not to write anything that will arouse sectional feeling.

Photographing Pet Dogs.

[New York Letter.]

Photographers now charge as much for taking photographs of pet dogs as they do for taking babies—a fact, more than the regular price for adults. The reason is it is, and the artistic condescension they have to make, seemingly uphold them in this financial revolution.

The water in the gulf of Bothnia has fallen three feet in fifty years.

The London home for lost dogs gives shelter to 20,000 wandering dogs every year.
