

Hall Was An Innocent Man

SENSATIONAL REVELATIONS THIS MORNING IN NOTORIOUS HOLT-CHRISTIAN TRIAL BEFORE JUDGE GEAR—WITNESS DECLARES THAT TESTIMONY WHICH DROVE WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN FROM THE COUNTRY WAS ADMITTEDLY FALSE.

Two years ago last May a well known citizen named J. W. Hall—not the J. W. Hall now living here—was before the courts in this city charged with a criminal assault, the alleged victim of the crime being the girl Eliza Holt who is at present the plaintiff, by her next friend, in the suit for the annulment of her marriage to Albert Christian which is being tried in Judge Gear's court. Hall was a piano-tuner, employed with a large local firm. The proceedings against Hall came before Judge Robinson and there Eliza Holt swore that the accused was the man who had wronged her. The jury disagreed, but Hall's finish had been accomplished. From that time on he was a shunned man, a social Pariah, his wife and family suffered the disgrace with him and Honolulu knows them no more.

Today before Judge Gear, there came a witness, a sister of the defendant Christian, who swore that while the trial of Hall was in progress, Eliza Holt had told her that Hall was not the guilty man, but that the man responsible for her disgrace was young Kentwell, the brother-in-law of her guardian and cousin, Mrs. Kentwell, who is plaintiff in the present action as the girl's next friend.

Judge Gear wheeled in his chair as the witness, Mamie Christian made this astonishing statement.

"You say that Eliza Holt told you that Hall was not responsible for her condition?" he asked in plain amazement.

"Yes," answered the witness.

"And did you say so in court?" the judge pursued.

"No. I wasn't called as a witness," was the answer.

"But you knew that the man was on trial and that you could have spoken if you wished?"

The witness did not answer.

"Eliza told me that she was told to get up and say that Hall was guilty," she vouchsafed.

"Who told her to say that?" queried Attorney F. W. Milverton, who is appearing for Albert Christian, and at once there came an objection from Attorney C. C. Biting, who is prosecuting, and beside whom Mrs. Kentwell was sitting.

Judge Gear overruled the objection.

"She said that it was Mrs. Kentwell who told her to swear that Hall was the man and to stick to that," answered Miss Christian.

Mrs. Kentwell made a convulsive movement as though she were about to spring to her feet, but was quieted by her attorney.

Judge Gear again took up the questioning.

"The girl told you this while the trial of Hall was in progress and you would have seen him convicted before you would say anything?" he asked and again the witness protested that she had not been called. If she had been asked to testify she would have told the story then.

"All of this evidence is wrong," protested Attorney Biting with considerable heat. "It is just being given for the purpose of showing the spite that the witness bears toward my clients."

The judge made no comment.

Other than for this exciting incident the proceedings were dull. Miss Mamie Christian was the first witness called at the opening and as may be expected her view of Eliza Holt's mental competency to form a marriage differed much from that of the prosecution. Eliza, she said was a very bright girl and had readily learnt sewing and house work. She could read and write well and as evidence of this the witness produced specimens of the girl's handwriting in court. She had mended her own and her husband's clothes and had during her married life conducted herself as a good wife should.

It was in cross-examination that the witness made her startling statements respecting the proceedings against Hall. She repeated her evidence as to Eliza's brightness and stuck to it that the girl had written the pieces she had produced in evidence.

A piece of evidence of a truly feminine nature was adduced when the witness said that she had overheard "old man" Holt telling her brother, Albert, that he was glad the girl was going to get married.

The last witness called by the defence was Tax Collector J. L. Holt, a relative of the parties concerned. He testified to his belief that the girl was a bright girl, well able to understand what she was doing when she married Christian. He based his view on his long acquaintance with her and on many conversations with her.

The prosecution will put in its evidence in rebuttal tomorrow.

During the proceedings today the only unconcerned person in the room appeared to be the one who is most concerned, Eliza Holt, or Christian, as the court may decide. The girl sat looking idly at a book and never winced when the evidence bordered on the most delicate matters. Her father, from whom she will some day inherit nearly $200,000, sat beside her, but he is too deaf to hear the evidence.

BROWN MAY RUN AGAIN

Cecil Brown, president of the First National bank, is one of the Territorial Senators whose terms expire before the next Legislature meets, but who is not unlikely to be a candidate for another term. Brown was elected in the first Territorial election, and was one of those whose terms were made four years by Congress, after the Hawaiian legislature failed to select the four and two-year members of the upper house. When asked if he intended to run again Senator Brown stated that he had not fully made up his mind and that his decision depended in part on his health. "A number of people, especially Hawaiians, have asked me about the matter," said the senator, "but I have not given any answer as to my intentions. I may run if I feel that I can give the matter the proper attention, though it is a difficult position and certainly without reward." Senator Brown says that the trip he took to the Orient and back is a great health restorer and he strongly recommends it for those who need rest. "It is the ideal vacation," said the senator, "and it did me a world of good." As a result of this improvement, the senator is very likely to decide in favor of running for another term.

Russians Almost Sure To Nab The Korea

CRACK LINER OF THE PACIFIC IS DUE IN YOKOHAMA NEXT FRIDAY—HER MASTER DID NOT KNOW WHEN SHE LEFT HONOLULU OF THE BLOCKADE BY THE VLADIVOSTOK SQUADRON—LIST OF MANIFEST OF THE KOREA.

There has probably not been a vessel to leave this port in many years, whose arrival at her destination was awaited with as much interest, as is that of the Pacific Mail steamship Korea. The crack liner of the Pacific is, in the opinion of practically everybody, in great danger of being held up by the Russian Vladivostok fleet off the coast of Japan. What disposition of the American mail steamer will be made by the Russian is, of course, a matter of conjecture, but in view of the action that the Russians have been taking with other steamers, it seems more than likely that the vessel may be sent to Vladivostok. It is claimed in some quarters that she will be claimed as a prize, while other authorities contend that she is not liable to such seizure.

That the vessel will be stopped by the Vladivostok fleet there seems little

THE ROYAL PORTRAITS

PAINTINGS OF KAMEHAMEHA THE GREAT, KING KALAKAUA AND QUEEN LILIUOKALANI GIVEN PLACES OF HONOR.

At last the much vexed question as to the portraits to be hung in the newly decorated executive chamber of the capitol appears to have been settled in a measure satisfactorily. The motley collection which was temporarily placed on the full length portraits of King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani were taken up from the throne room to be placed in the large spaces on either side of the door in the mauka wall. As now arranged the portrait of Kamehameha the Great, the only authentic portrait of that monarch, occupies the place of honor behind the governor's chair. Thus the first and the last of the Hawaiian monarchs will be represented. The excellent portraits of Kamehameha IV and of the Princess Kaiulani also have places on the walls. All of these as well as those of Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani are works of art as well as being historically interesting. The photo of President Dole in its cheap wooden frame was still on the walls. Some of the admirers of the ex-president and ex-governor will no doubt present an oil painting of him some day that will be in keeping with the others in the room.

HILO'S CHANCE OF CONVENTION

SPECIAL MEETING OF REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE NEXT MONDAY—RAINY CITY HAS GOOD CHANCE TO GET CONVENTION.

A special meeting of the Republican Territorial Central Committee has been called by President Crabbe and Acting Secretary Norman Watkins for next Monday night, to settle the matter of a location for the convention. All the thirty members of the committee have been communicated with and invited to either attend or instruct their proxies how to vote, and it appears that if Hilo is anxious to have the convention held she has a very good chance of getting it. At the last meeting of the Executive Committee, held in Honolulu, there was a majority in favor of holding the convention here, but the Honolulu members were not unanimous, some of them favoring Hilo. There has been talk for a long time of sending the convention to Hilo, but Honolulu is selected as the place at which the largest number of delegates would be likely to attend. Replies to the letters sent to Hawaii, Maui and Kauai members, asking for their instructions as to voting on the convention city are expected by the next Kinau and Claudine and Kauai boats. Of the thirty members of the committee eight are on Hawaii and

MARINE EXCHANGE RECEIVES NEWS THIS AFTERNOON OF ARRIVAL OF BRITISH TRAMP STEAMER AT YOKOHAMA TODAY FROM HONOLULU—HAD CARGO OF NITRE FOR JAPAN FROM SOUTH AMERICAN PORT—CREW CLAIMED STUFF WAS CONTRABAND.

One of the two steamers that left Honolulu en route to Yokohama has eluded the Vladivostok squadron. The lucky craft was the British tramp steamer St. Hubert. News of her arrival in Yokohama today came in a special cable to the local branch of the San Francisco Marine Exchange.

The fate of the St. Hubert caused much interest here. She had a cargo of nitrates and it was claimed by her crew that this cargo was contraband of war. In fact some of the men jumped the vessel here because their demand for increase in wages was refused. After the vessel got out to sea the remainder of the crew refused duty and she had to return to this port. The men claimed that they were entitled to extra pay according to the shipping laws, as the vessel was carrying a contraband of war. The matter was taken up by the local British consul but ended by the crew returning to the vessel and her sailing the morning of July 2, for Yokohama.

No reference is made in the dispatch as to whether she was held up by the Vladivostok fleet or not. In any event the probabilities that the Russian fleet has either left the vicinity of Tokyo Bay or else passed the St. Hubert on the assumption that her cargo was not contraband. Whether the S. S. Korea will fare so well on Friday is causing considerable speculation.

Who Lit Palolo Fire?

There is trouble ahead for the person who set fire to the underbrush and lantern a few days ago and lit up the whole countryside when night had fallen. From away down in town the sight was pretty enough but the destruction wrought by the fire in the forests of Palolo has proved so severe that the government is already taking steps to bring the offenders to book. The matter was reported to Acting Governor Atkinson and he made a personal tour of inspection before taking action. Today he instructed Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth to take action to find out who set fire to the place or who gave orders for the burning to be done. "The damage wrought in the kua and ohia forests by the fire is very great," said the Acting Governor "and it is the desire of the government to preserve all forests by every means. Of course a man has a right to burn off his own property to get rid of lanterns but he must watch the fire, otherwise, if it spreads to other property he may be held for malicious burning."

The deputy sheriff is now working on the case and development may be expected tomorrow. It may be noted that A. Frank Cooke was quoted in a contemporary as saying that he had started the fire to clear off some land.

She said: "I had hoped, if his nomination would be the best thing for the party, that he would be nominated and now," she said, "if his election will be the best thing for the country, I sincerely hope that he will be elected." She said that Judge Parker was a personal friend of President Roosevelt and within a year or two had made him a visit at his Oyster Bay home. A CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—United States Consul Haynes at Rouen, France reports to the State Department a new consumption cure. A combination of medicine, electricity and the X-ray was discovered by Dr. Canus of Rouen. Haynes writes to the State Department as follows:

"At the doctor's invitation I visited his consultation rooms and saw his method. A patient entered who the physicians had said two months before could not live ten days longer. He had been under Dr. Canus' treatment for six weeks and was gaining in appetite, weight and strength."

"He was first placed upon an operating table, where the usual saline solutions were injected. Afterward he was seated upon an insulated table and electricity was passed through him for some minutes by attaching poles to metallic plates fastened to his breast and back. During this time sparks could be drawn from any part of his body."

"This finished, the patient inserted the small end of a conical-shaped tube in his mouth. Into this tube was put a small broom, previously dipped into the necessary medicaments for the healing of the lungs or whatever organism was affected, and through it, the man's body and in X-ray globe in the rear went an electric current carrying with it the medicinal elements from the broom."

ABOUT OUR FORESTS

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE PREPARES AN INTERESTING PAPER ON THE FORESTS OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS—A DESCRIPTION OF PRESENT CONDITIONS AND NEEDS BY AN EXPERT—THE NECESSITY FOR PROTECTION.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—An interesting paper has just been prepared by the Department of Agriculture on the forests of the Hawaiian Islands and their relationship to the agricultural prosperity of the new territory of the United States. It says that in the Hawaiian Islands it is now recognized that forest preservation is a matter of great and immediate importance to the leading economic interests of the territory. The chief agricultural interest of the islands is sugar growing. In 1903 the exported sugar was valued at $25,310,684, or 96 per cent of the total exports. The supply of water on which successful cane cultivation depends comes to a large extent from the forested higher slopes of the mountains, above the plantations.

But the situation is complicated by the fact that cattle raising, which in economic importance stands second only to the sugar industry, depends largely on the use of the forest for range, and overgrazing has been the principal cause of injury to the water-holding power of the wooded area.

As a preliminary to the formulation of a far-sighted policy in the interest of the islands as a whole, the territory a year ago asked for an examination of the whole question on the ground by an agent of the United States Department of Agriculture. The report of William L. Hall of the bureau of forestry, who made the examination, is now being printed as Bulletin No. 48, "The Forests of Hawaii." Both from a scientific and practical standpoint it gives much information concerning these Hawaiian forests and their uses.

Only five of the eight islands are large enough to be important in a forest study. In these there are two distinct kinds of forest; one near sea level in the drier portions of the islands, the other in the regions of heavy rainfall on the mountain slopes. They never blend or even meet. The forest of the sea level is made up exclusively of mesquite, so prevalent in the drier sections of the southwestern part of the United States. In the Hawaiian Islands, however, it grows much denser, taller and straighter than in the states, having changed its habit of growth in response to altered conditions. It is not native, but was introduced in 1837 by a seed planted in Honolulu. The tree still stands in a healthy condition, having a diameter of two feet and a height of fifty feet. From it have sprung 50,000 acres of mesquite, or, as there called, algaroba forests, divided among the several islands. The wood is chiefly valuable for fuel and fence posts. The forests are exceedingly important as furnishing a cover for the soil and abundant food for stock. The mesquite pods are eaten by cattle in summer as they fall to the ground from the trees, and are gathered and fed dry all through the year. Because of these uses and the wonderful powers of reproduction and extension which the algaroba forests possess, they are a most valuable asset of the islands.

The native forests are those of the mountain slopes, and are all essentially of a tropical character. About three-fourths of the native forests are composed of lehua. This tree is found in regions of heaviest rainfall, and under best conditions attains a diameter of four feet and a height of one hundred feet. Commercially, except for fuel the wood has little value, for in drying it checks and warps badly. Its importance is as a protective forest. Its stand is thin, but the most luxuriant undergrowth is always found beneath its small-crowned trees. Indeed, so luxuriant is this undergrowth to le- ie vine and similar climbers, fern growth ranging from a few inches to thirty feet in height, and mosses, that virgin forests of lehua are often impenetrable, dark jungles. Thus an ideal condition is created for water conservation.

The present forest area is about 20 per cent of the islands—a small fraction of what it was 90 years ago. The destruction of the forests can be traced to three chief causes: Clearing for agriculture, stock grazing and grass encroachment. Cattle were taken to the islands in the eighteenth century, and for years were protected by rigid laws forbidding their slaughter. By 1815 they had so increased in number as to become a menace. The anti-slaughter laws were repealed, and gradually their number has been reduced to the needs of the island. But their work of destruction has been accomplished. Much of the undergrowth of the native forests was of a succulent character, peculiarly agreeable not only to cattle, but also to goats, pigs and deer; all of these preyed upon the forest, and year by year their trampling and grazing showed more plainly in forest areas wrecked and ruined. The encroaching grasses occupied the ground and prevented reforestation. In the rainy districts the Hilo grass and in the drier sections Bermuda grass was the offender. Between them they occupy vast stretches of country that were once well forested.

Clearing for agricultural and homestead purposes is responsible for very much of forest destruction. Since the best use to which the lands of the islands can be put is agriculture, no fault can be found with such cutting, provided it is not carried so far as to curtail the water supply on which agriculture itself depends. The rainfall of the forested portion of the islands is from 50 to 200 inches a year, and the native forests furnish the best floor conditions for storing away this water for future use. But when the forest area is made smaller the storage supply of water is lessened. In addition, it appears to be true in Hawaii that forests influence the amount of moisture precipitated.

Where the mountains, with their cooling atmosphere, do not extend their elevations above 3,000 feet, forests are especially needed. The trade winds brings in fogs and mists, and the forests perform the excellent function of changing these to water and leading it to the ground for storage. Thus continued forest cutting means danger both to the amount of water precipitated, and to the supply husbanded for the crops. Both the principal crops, sugar and rice, require much water for their successful growth. Already public opinion in the islands has taken form in practical forest preservation work. Sugar companies have established reserves for local protection, the area in one case being as large as 50,000 acres. Tree planting has been done on a large scale by a number of land owners. The government began tree planting twenty-two years ago, with an appropriation of $12,000. A conclusive step was taken when the last legislature provided for a forest policy, and entered upon determined work to protect and utilize the forests to the best advantage. The first act to this end must be the establishment of forest reserves, which should include practically all the mountain forests. Fortunately the government owns most of these forests, although at present they are largely under lease to private individuals, mainly to cattlemen. It is thought, however, that an exchange of these lands can be brought about. When the reserves are established, a first necessity will be the extermination of the wild cattle and goats and the creation of a ranger service to keep out fire and stock.

Where reproduction is not rapid, and upon badly denuded lands, tree planting must be done to supplement the natural forest. It is believed that trees of greater commercial value than those native to the islands can be successfully planted.

The conflict of interests between the cattlemen and the sugar planters is evident, but need not seriously menace rehabilitation of the forests. The cattlemen in many instances desire the forests for pasturage. The planters rightly contend for the intact forest with perfect floor cover to secure the greatest possible storage of water for the supply of growing crops. But the clashing of interests is happily reduced by other conditions, chief of which is that sugar growing is the great sustaining industry and the dominant source of income. An additional potent fact is that many cattle raisers are also sugar growers, and their double interests compel them to take the broadest view of the needs of the islands as a whole.

The bureau of forestry has supplied the islands with a forester, and is actively co-operating with the territorial authorities in all matters of policy.

The World's Fair is directly to be credited with much of the long-distance traveling done this year. That foreigners should place such a high estimate on the World's Fair itself a convincing advertisement. Ordinarily, people whose means are more or less limited can't make a trip around the world, but they can see more in St. Louis than they would come across in their travels, and in such a way as to acquire much useful knowledge. Those, however, who cannot visit the Fair in person will find a most interesting substitute in "The Forest City" series of World's Fair Art Portfolios, which is a thoroughly official publication, since the views are reproduced from photographs taken by the official photographer of the Fair, and the descriptions are written by Walter B. Stevens, Secretary of the Exposition. Although the regular price of each portfolio, containing sixteen views, is 25 cents, our readers may secure any of the portfolios as issued by bringing or sending only 10 cents, together with a "Forest City" coupon clipped from our announcements which appear from day to day. This is an opportunity which is thoroughly appreciated and the distribution is constantly increasing. Six parts now ready.

The Calm View Of The Sage

While it is possible that, on the whole, Professor Goldwin Smith as a philosopher has fewer followers than has any other leader of thought either past or present, his manner of looking at things is always interesting. Essentially radical in some of his ideas he is as thoroughly reactionary in others, but in no matter what topic he may be interested for the time being, he never fails to give food for thought when he expresses his opinions. Lately he has been taking up the matter of municipal government and in a recent letter concerning the municipal evils of government in St. Louis he said:

"For municipal evils there is surely no radical cure but a change of municipal government. We are trying to run a city with a village organization. The elective system may do for a village, the concerns of which are simple, demanding no very special knowledge or experience, while the people know each other and can exercise a collective choice. The concerns of a city in the various departments are great and complicated, such as can be handled well only by experts, while the people are unknown to each other and cannot exercise a collective choice, so that the field is left either to ward politicians, usually of the St. Louis stamp, or to the fell organization of political party, which, it seems, at St. Louis, as well as at Philadelphia, holds the shield of its iniquity over political crime.

"The elective system comes down to us from the Middle Ages. But in the Middle Ages the city was a village in size and population. There were no administrative departments calling for science in their management; no police but Dogberry and Verges, or, in case of serious outbreak, a general levy; no drainage but the gutter; no public schools. Industry and commerce were regulated by guilds. Besides, the government, if it was formally elective, was really in the hands of the leading citizens, often in those of a perfectly close council; and a great part of its functions consisted in the defense of the city's liberties against king, lord and abbot.

"In the flux of annual election you can no more have responsibility than you can have experience or foresight. The man who is responsible for what has been done amiss slips back into the crowd. Of this I have seen a striking instance. A great sum had been wasted on a public work through a want of attention to duty on the part of a city council; and when the reckoning day came there was only one man left in the council to answer for the default.

"There have been spasms of reform at New York and elsewhere, brought on either by corruption passing all endurance, or by the action of one brave citizen, such as Mr. Folk of St. Louis. But spasms are followed by a relapse. The only city that is permanently and securely well governed is Washington, which is governed by a commission appointed by the president of the United States."

It is curious to note in this opinion of "the Sage of the Grange" that he departs for the moment from the position which he has so often held on the matter of self-government. For all that, the most thorough going of the opponents of the views expressed by Professor Goldwin Smith will find it interesting to study his views.

Vale Monkey And Elephant

Civilization's invasion of the wild places of the earth is attended by some strange difficulties. A telephone line has been established in Abyssinia, over a thousand miles being in process of construction, and it appears from the reports of the engineers in charge that one of the troubles of the line is that elephants use the poles for scratching posts, and monkeys find that the wires give them a glorious swing as they hang by their tails between the posts. The elephants' attentions naturally soon bring a pole to the ground, while the blythesome monkeys not only break wires, but otherwise interfere with transmission of messages. To add to the obstacles in keeping the line open the jungle grows so fast around it that forces of men have to be kept constantly along the line, cutting away undergrowth. Still another interference was the natives, who thought the iron poles—wooden ones first used were eaten through by white ants—were useful as tools and weapons.

In spite of all the line is going up, and serves to give an impressive example of the marvellous rapidity with which civilization and commerce are invading what there is left of the earth in which the savage and the jungle still reign. Soon we shall hear of railroads and telephones in Tibet. Already a Cape to Cairo road is nearing reality. Before Stanley died he could have traveled over much of his most difficult explorations in a comfortable car. A company is organized in the United States to connect the North American railroads with a line to traverse the great distances of South America. It is only a few years since the world wondered at the tremendous enterprise which connected St. Petersburg and Port Arthur. The line will remain for commerce when war's clouds blow away. The United States Government is organizing the tremendous work of digging through Panama isthmus and is establishing wireless telegraphy stations half way round the world. Railroads, British, German and American, are making their way into all sorts of regions in China and even that great empire of darkness is beginning to yield.

It is all a very rapid transformation, and no one can say what a generation will accomplish. Nothing could serve to bring home more forcibly the quick, irresistible advance into the dark places, than the incongruous picture of the Abyssinian monkey, emerging from a break in his nearly impenetrable jungle to swing on a telephone wire, or the ponderous elephant, clumsily interrupting the magic scheme of communication by scratching his sides against the iron poles. The poles will be there and the wires will hum when elephant and monkey have vanished from the scene.

One Mistake Of Russia

The secret of Russian reverses is at last made plain by a writer in one of the magazines who served a while in the Russian army. He does not specifically state the reason, but it is plain to those accustomed to read between the lines. The Russian soldier is paid drawing his stipend every week, he on the wrong system, for instead of receiving it only once in two months. What must the consequences of this system be? Shut off as he must practically have been from his fellows other than soldiers, for two months, is it a wonder that he plunges into the wildest dissipation? He goes to the paymaster, draws the twenty-two cents which he has coming to him for his two months soldiering and then goes off "on a time." Sometimes though, he does not get all of the twenty-two cents he has earned. He has to pay for keeping his uniform in proper condition and as the uniforms supplied are of poor quality this very often is a big expense. If he wishes to vary the daily staple article of diet, which consists of sour cabbage soup and a sort of pudding made out of black suet, he must pay for it all out of the twenty-two cents he has earned in two months. Still, the system is a pernicious one and if he does not have his soldiers paid their two and three-quarters cents every week there would be much less fear of their ruining their constitutions with wine and women.

It is time some thorough work was done in charting the waters about these islands. The steamer American it appears, went aground on "an uncharted sand bar." This is a very old story. For years steamers have been going ashore in this vicinity on uncharted reefs and sand bars, and we have heard much about the United States Government sending survey ships here to make soundings and correct the charts. But little has been accomplished. There should not be any such thing as an uncharted bit of ocean anywhere near Hawaii.

According to the Kolonial Zeitung of June 9, 1904, a new railroad was opened to public traffic in Shantung, China, on June 1. Although other roads were built and operated in China previously, this road has a deep significance at this time. Work during 1903 had been urged forward so as to finish it within the time agreed upon for its completion when the right to build the road was conferred by the Chinese Government. The full payment, therefore, in series of shares of the nominal value, each series, of $1,428,000 was called for; so that January 1, 1904, saw the full amount, $12,852,000, paid up. By 1902, 129.24 miles had been built between Tientsin and Tschang-loh-sien. By March 1, 1904, 223.69 miles were in operation. Finally, on June 1, the main line of 241 miles, and a branch to Sche-tschuan from Tschanglo of 11.18 miles, was opened. During 1902, 4,280 passengers were

The Japan Gazette is quoted as saying in relation to the employing of convicts in the Russian Army: "During the Anglo-Boer war, it was arranged that no black natives who are of course, far better than white convicts, should be employed on either side as fighting men, and the Boers adhered throughout the war to this moral understanding."

The Japan Gazette is quite in error as no such "arrangement" was made between the belligerents. The Boers did not arm the blacks because of the very natural fear that when the occasion came the natives would use the rifles against all whites. The British, however, refused to employ any of the Indian army against the Boers despite the urgent requests of the Indian troops themselves.

It was during a very recent banquet in Honolulu that sounds of singing and laughter floated out to the ears of people in the roof garden, not very far away. "They seem to be having a pretty good time," remarked someone to one of the employees. "Yes," he answered "they are having a good time all right. They started to make speeches with the oysters."

Six Sugar Cargoes Hit High Quotation

OVER MILLION AND HALF DOLLARS WORTH OF HAWAIIAN SUGAR SUGAR REACHES MAINLAND DURING LAST THREE DAYS—THREE OF THE VESSELS REPORTED YESTERDAY OFF DELAWARE BREAKWATER—OTHERS AT SAN FRANCISCO.

The three last days mark a highly satisfactory period for the sugar people. No less than six cargoes arrived at their destinations during that period, and in consequence over a million and a half of dollars in this staple has been turned over to the consignees. News of the arrival of the various cargoes was received in the regular cable report to the local branch of the San Francisco Marine Exchange. A total of about 21,334 tons of sugar reached the market in time to catch the high price that has been prevailing since June 28.

The largest amount of the sugar fortunately reached Delaware Breakwater so a higher price was secured, than the cargoes that reached San Francisco. The first of the vessel to arrive were the schooner Aloha with 1,476 tons of sugar from Honolulu and the ship Falls of Clyde from Hilo with about 3,500 tons. Both of these vessels arrived at San Francisco on last Saturday. The S. S. Nevada arrived at San Francisco on Sunday from Honolulu and Kahului with 4,990 tons of sugar. The quotation on sugar that reaches San Francisco is 3-8 of a cent a pound less than the quotation on the Atlantic seaboard, so the price on those days was $71.25 a ton. The value of the three cargoes was therefore about $710,077.50.

Three vessels of the Atlantic fleet arrived off the Breakwater yesterday. They were the bark Foohing Suey from Honolulu and Kahului with a cargo of 1,813 tons, the ship Wm. P. Frye from Honolulu with about 5,600 tons, and the ship Kenilworth from Hilo with 3,955 tons, or a total of 11,368 tons. The quotation on sugar at the East was $78.75 a ton, which made the total value of the three cargoes $915,329. The total value of all six cargoes is therefore $1,625,406.50.

To the Kenilworth must go the record passage. She went from Hilo to the Breakwater in 100 days flat. This breaks the recent passage of the bark Star of Bengal. The latter went from Makaweli to the Breakwater in about 108 days. It was supposed that this would be the record for the season, but the larger ship has lowered the bark's record. The Kenilworth is now declared to be the fastest of the sugar fleet. She has made the trip, so it was asserted this morning, under 100 days.

The ship I. F. Chapman should be reported at any time now off Delaware Breakwater. She is out 129 days today. The vessel has sugar from Honolulu.

Local shippers declare now that three good sized cargoes have arrived, the price of sugar will be advanced to 4 cents and over a pound. The quotation of $78.75 has prevailed since June 28. There has not been a single quotation since that time.

RUSSIA WILL NAB THE KOREA

reason to doubt unless Captain Seabury, her master, scents the enemy from afar and gets away from them.

At the beginning of the war both Russia and Japan issued proclamations enumerating the articles that would be considered contraband of war. The list made by Russia was unusually comprehensive. There seems little doubt but some of the articles of the Korea will be found to be included in that list.

The Korea left Honolulu July 18, at 6 p. m., a week ago yesterday. At the time that she sailed the Vladivostok squadron had not eluded the Japanese fleet and was still in northern waters, so Captain Seabury had no reason to be especially watchful. Conditions have changed, however, and the Russians are now lying in wait off the coast of Japan, directly across the track he must take to reach Yokohama. The Korea is due in Yokohama July 29. Today is the 26th. The vessel is still three days from her destination. She will probably not sight the Russian warships until July 29, the day she is to make Yokohama. The Russians are lying about 50 miles off the coast of Nippon island. If Seabury takes his usual route, he cannot but run plump into them.

Following is the list of the manifest of the Korea for Japanese ports: 15 bbls flour, 2025 lbs coffee, 300 lbs lard, 27 pkgs groceries and provisions, 1161 cs canned goods, 325 lbs raisins, 1395 lbs dried fruits, 10,820 lbs sugar, 4514 lbs hams and bacon, 20 bzs fresh fruits, 39 pkgs table preparations, 3027 lbs butter, 31 bales hay, 5 cils corn, 15 cts barley, 321 lbs cheese, 864 lbs chocolate, 8 cs whisky, 1323 gals and 7 cs wine, 5 cs liquors, 602 lbs and 2 cs mill stuffs, 36 drums chloride calcium, 52 coils rope, 87 pcs car material, 136 pcs and 104 bbls pipe, 901 rolls and 18 cs paper, 28 pkgs drugs and sundries, 408 bxs soap, 296 cs bicycles and sundries, 216 bbls spice bars, 3 pkgs paper, 81 pkgs electrical goods, 17,000 lbs tin foil, 11 cs graphite, 350 pkgs roofing material, 13 pkgs agricultural implements, 3 bales hose, 30 bbls wire, 1160 cs alcohol, 169,500 lbs soda ash, 104 pkgs rubber goods, 77 pkgs paints and oils, 541,388 lbs pig lead, 15,718 lbs sheet lead, 354 pkgs machinery, 1 horse, 12 bales dry goods, 10 bbls tanning extract, 385,382 lbs tan bark, 14 pkgs typewriters, 571 bales compressed cotton, 1,314 bbls steel, 2482 pcs angle iron.

It is not thought that many outside of Oahu will attend the meeting Monday night. McStocker of Hawaii will probably be here, as he is coming to Honolulu to live, but the others are expected to instruct their proxies how to vote.

GROVER'S BOOMER WAS THROWN OUT

A HEARST STORY OF THE CLEVELAND BOOM IN THE ST. LOUIS CONVENTION.

Hearst's Chicago American has the following:

CONVENTION HALL, ST. LOUIS, July 6.—Humorous and pathetic was the boom for Cleveland that, starting well, ended with a bleeding nose.

Mike Padden of Tim Sullivan's district stood up in the aisle beside C. F. Murphy and Bourke Cockran—two thousand Tammany shouters scattered through the hall had been told to yell when Mike Padden waved his fan.

Cleveland's name was mentioned. Mike Padden waved his fan and the Tammany men shouted. But Padden overdid it, yelling, dancing and screeching. He is the polite thing who snatched the manuscript of a speech from Nathan Strauss at Saratoga.

As he was yelling to encourage the Tammanyites, the chief usher and a policeman seized him by the collar and the hair. He was punched in the cheek and nose and thrown out with a bleeding nose and hurt feelings.

Then Tom Smith, secretary of Tammany was put in Padden's place with a fresh fan to lead the next outburst for Cleveland.

It is hoped that Smith's nose will fare better than Padden's.

"Mike" Padden is not a delegate. He is sergeant-at-arms of the New York City Council and follower of Tammany. But Padden had been brought on the floor by Tammany as a "rooster."

Bourke Cockran and Ex-Senator Murphy urged him in his efforts. Chairman Williams, unable to proceed because of the uproar, pointed out Padden to Sergeant-at-arms Martin. Michigan delegates in trying to suppress Padden were handling him roughly. First fights were threatening. But the Tammany rooster held his ground. He kept his fan moving as a "cheer leading" does at a football game.

Fighting his way toward Padden Sergeant-at-arms Martin demanded the Tammany's badge.

"Never give it up," the latter yelled, showing fight.

The row was seen now and hundreds of delegates were on their seats, watching the wranglers. The galleries kept up their noise. Padden tried to fight off Martin and the policeman, his eyes intent on the encouraging nods from Cockran and Murphy.

With a rush a dozen hands grabbed him and he was hustled off the floor, and Michigan delegates readjusted their neckties and coat sleeves which had been disordered in the fray. This broke up the trouble effectively—the first clash of the convention.

STRIKERS LOST EVERY POINT

The Waipahu strike ended before midnight last night with an agreement drawn up and signed by Manager Ahrens and the strike leaders, in the presence of the Rev. Imamura and Editor Shiozawa as witnesses. The laborers' demands were all refused, the strike being a complete failure. The agreement as drawn up covers two propositions, neither of them of importance, which were not among the matters brought forward by the strike leaders.

There were thirteen propositions brought forward by the strikers in the last negotiations. There were also thirteen men or the committee which did the negotiating with the management, and thirteen hundred men were on strike, so that the hoodoo number played quite a part in the proceedings. The final agreement was reached last evening, when after much discussion the matter was brought to an issue by a final offer from the management to sign the agreement already referred to. It promises to allow the laborers the same hours as other neighboring plantations give and to increase the advance on profit-sharing contracts from $12 to $13 per month. This is an advance not wages, and the plantation is simply advancing the men a dollar a month more of the laborers' own money pending the settlement when the crop is harvested, between plantation and laborers' huts who have contracts. The rate of advance is said to be $13 on the plantations nearby. When this proposition was made known by the various interpreters the strikers almost unanimously raised their hands in the air, voting to return to work today. The agreement was duly signed and witnessed, and that ended the strike. A majority of the police from Honolulu including Sheriff Brown and Deputy Chillingworth, returned to Honolulu on an early night train.

The Rev. Imamura, a Buddhist priest of Honolulu was a very strong influence in settling the difficulties. During yesterday afternoon, when it began to appear that the strike was only a useless expense to those taking part, some of the strike leaders who were weakening suggested that he be sent for. He went to the plantation at once and his work in explaining matters had a very good effect. It is estimated that the strike which lasted five days, cost the strikers about $5,000 in wages. They have nothing to show for it and some of them have lost positions of the better class, substitutes having been employed while they were on strike. Manager Ahrens refused a last demand, that the new men be discharged and strikers restored to their old positions. Chinese laborers who took the places as teamsters, vacated by strikers, were retained by the managers and a number of the strikers lost teamsters positions and had to go back into the field and take chances of getting up again.

The thirteen demands beginning with the unconditional discharge of Iuna Sulehiro, included many matters which were utterly trivial. The laborers appear to have held a meeting and put down any old thing they could think of. The principal other demand was that the profit-sharing contracts be annulled and those who have been working on such contracts be given $16 per month for their work in the past and the same rate hereafter, the plantation taking their case as its own. This demand was refused and is ignored altogether in the signed agreement. Nothing was said about it at the time of the concluding agreement to return to work. Other demands were increased piping in certain camps; that railroad cars use more care in picking up laborers to take them home at night; that a system of punching tickets to keep count of days' work be inaugurated; that a road be cut through a cane field at a certain point to shorten the distance to a camp; that a special train be sent out to pick up breakmen along the line of the railroad at night; that five Japanese and one white lama be discharged; other camp sanitary improvements, some of which were already under way; that some of the camp regulations be changed or abolished and finally, that 50 men who had multiplets or teamsters' positions before they struck be given back the same positions on ceasing to strike. The latter demand would have called for the discharge of Chinese who had taken the places and were doing good work, and was refused simply on the ground that fairness demanded that the new employees be retained as long as they gave proper service.

At the time of the agreement to return to work, several of the striking Japanese attempted to prevent the final collapse of the strike by arguing that the consul should be asked to come again, and should be present to take part in the settlement. They were voted down, however. The consul, it is stated, did not want to conduct any more negotiations with the strikers, preferring to leave them to fight their losing battle themselves as they had once refused to listen to his advice.

This morning nearly all the strikers returned to work and the difficulty appeared to be at an end. The police from Honolulu returned, as there was apparently no need for any further special guard. About a hundred of the Japanese had not resumed work when Lieutenant Hart and his men withdrew, but they will either go to work again today or leave the plantation, it is expected.

For the Skin

You cannot have a clear and smooth skin unless the blood is pure. Blotches, eruptions, rashes, pimples, all show how impure the blood must be. Get all impurities out of your blood before you are seriously ill.

Miss Dorothy Maher, of Fitzroy, Victoria, sends her photograph and this letter:

"I had a terrible eruption on my face, which was of a very irritating nature. I tried many blood medicines, but without relief. Friends told me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as it was a most famous blood remedy. I did so, and after taking only two bottles I began to see a great change. By the time the third bottle was used the eruption had entirely disappeared, and without leaving a mark on my face. I am perfectly well now, and I owe it all to this great blood-purifying remedy."

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

There are many imitation Sarsaparillas. Be sure you get "Ayer's."

Correct any tendency to constipation with Ayer's Pills. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, mild in action. A family laxative.

DISPUTE AGAIN IN THE SEVENTH

RESOLUTIONS PROTESTING AGAINST RULINGS GIVEN BY VIDA IN PRECINCT MEETING.

The Fighting Seventh is at it again. A meeting was held last night to protest against ruling made by President Vida at the meeting of the precinct club. The voters making the protest will send contesting delegations to the district and Territorial conventions. The resolutions were as follows:

"Whereas, at a regular meeting called by the Republican Territorial Central Committee, for the 7th Precinct, 5th District, for the purpose of making nominations for delegates to be elected to the Territorial Convention and to the Fifth District Committee, a number of legally enrolled Republicans were deprived of their right under the constitution and laws to make nominations by the ruling of the President of said Precinct Club, Henry C. Vida, and whereas, the ruling of said President was in direct conflict with the call of the Central Committee and the rules of the Republican Party, and was a disfranchisement of the legally enrolled members of the organization; and whereas said President and Judges of Election have openly stated that they will not permit other names other than those of the so-called harmony delegation to be voted for at the primaries of the 7th Precinct of the 5th District, regularly called for Saturday, August 6th, 1904.

"Now, therefore, we, regularly enrolled Republicans of the 7th Precinct of the 5th District protest against the arbitrary and unlawful action of the said officers and protest that the same is in direct conflict with the rules of the Republican Party and fair play, and urge the Republican voters of the 5th District to vote for the following delegates legally and rightfully named on said Friday, July 22nd 1904, in meeting of enrolled Republican voters regularly convened and presided over by Henry C. Birbe, Jr. to wit:

For Territorial Convention—Henry C. Birbe, Jr., W. Olepau, J. Kalana, Louis Trousant, J. L. Carter, W. Kaka. "And for candidates to the District Committee as follows—Thomas Moikula, William Henry, Henry Cockett, I. H. Sherwood, E. Koloha, J. M. Keana, J. A. Apo, H. K. Alapat, Isaac Ihui, C. H. Brown, Dan Kamahu, Albert McGurn.

Two other resolutions were adopted as follows:

"Resolved, that the meeting do heartily endorse the administration of Governor Carter and Secretary of the Territory A. L. C. Atkinson.

"Resolved, that it be the sense of this meeting that our delegates to the Territorial Convention be and hereby are instructed to vote for Prince Kuhio Kahalanoale for Delegate to Congress."

SECRETARY SHAW ON WORLD'S FAIR

HIGH TREASURY OFFICIAL GREATLY IMPRESSED WITH ITS MAGNITUDE.

The Louisiana Purchase Exposition is, to a certain extent, a Government affair, since Congress has largely aided the enterprise in a financial way.

Not long since, Secretary of the Treasury Shaw visited St. Louis to see how matters were coming on. He seemed to be wonderfully impressed with the plan, scope and extent of the fair, and expresses himself as follows: "No one can see the exhibits at St. Louis in thirty days. Any father of a bright boy can afford to send him simply to study any one of a thousand exhibits."

These are wise words and should be borne in mind by all who have acquainted themselves with the Exposition. No one can see half the fair in a week, but, of course, one glimpse is better than to miss it altogether. The stay should be as lengthy as possible.

In planning a visit, the size of the Exposition must be kept in mind. The interest in the fair can't be exhausted in the whole period it will remain open; therefore the best rule to adopt is to give it all the time possible. No one will regret the work or the money devoted to it.

But everyone can't make a personal trip to St. Louis. The next best thing is to secure the entire series as issued of that superb publication "The Forest City, World's Fair Art Portfolios," which constitutes a complete pictorial and descriptive record of the event.

The original photographs for the publication are taken by the official artist of the fair, and the descriptions are all written by Walter B. Stevens, the official Secretary of the Exposition.

It will thus be seen that the Forest City series is official and authentic in every respect and that its possession will be a constant source of pleasure.

The regular price is twenty-five cents, but we have made arrangements whereby we can furnish to our readers any part issued for only ten cents. Send or bring that small sum to this office, together with a coupon to show you are one of our readers, and any part desired will be promptly delivered or mailed. Six parts now ready.

FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS OF GOVERNMENT LOAN IS TURNED INTO THE TREASURY.

ST. LOUIS, July 15.—The first payment of $500,000 on the Government loan of $4,000,000 to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company were deposited in the Sub-Treasury at St. Louis today.

"The best answer to any talk that the exposition company would have difficulty in making the payment is the fact that the money is now in the Sub-Treasury," said President Francis. "Not only have we made the payment, but it has been done a day ahead of time."

Today's payment was the first of the $500,000 semi-monthly payments stipulated by Congress when the World's Fair loan was authorized. There have been two previous payments, each one comprising a certain per cent of the gross receipts of the exposition capital from all sources. The total amount refunded to the Federal Government is $967,149.15.

William H. Ellis, checker, and Charles H. Stillier, inspector in the concessions department of the World's Fair, who were held prisoners for more than twenty-four hours in the hope of learning from them the details of a supposed plot to rob the exposition company, have been released. Norris B. Gregg, director of the division of admissions and concessions, said today that it had been decided that the men had no information regarding the alleged plot.

There was a public reception at the Mexican National Pavilion at the World's Fair today in honor of the reelection of President Diaz.

THE ADVANTAGES CEMENT ROOFING

POSSESSES OVER

Tin, Iron and Steel Roofing

IT CANNOT RUST.

Gases, fumes, moisture, coal soot and smoke cannot injure or effect cement roofing.

It is better adapted for application over uneven surfaces, such as old shingles or metal roofs, obviating the expense of removing the same. It will not rattle from wind and storm, nor create any noise from rain falling upon it. The materials used in cement roofing are the best non-conductors of heat and cold known, therefore it will keep the building warmer in winter and cooler in summer than a metal roof.

MORE FIGHTING AT LIYANG

RUSSIANS LOST FOUR HUNDRED AND JAPANESE GREATER NUMBERS LAST SUNDAY.

Associated Press, Morning Service. LONDON, July 26.—There was heavy fighting Sunday at Liyang. The Russian loss was 400 and the Japanese loss was greater.

THIRTY THOUSAND STRIKE. Associated Press, Morning Service. CHICAGO, July 26.—Thirty thousand men are on a strike. Seven thousand non-unionists are working.

TACOMA AT CALLAO. Associated Press, Morning Service. CALLAO, July 26.—The U. S. cruiser Tacoma has arrived here without having discovered a trace of the missing steamer Comanagh. She leaves at once for a voyage around the Horn.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE OHIO. Associated Press, Morning Service. SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—The preliminary trial trip of the battleship Ohio was highly successful.

The battleship Ohio, one of the largest of its class in the United States navy, is the last one of three powerful battleships of 12,500 tons each to be ready to go into commission. Her sister ships, the Missouri and Maine, have been in the service for some months.

The Ohio was launched from the Union Iron Works in May, 1901, and President McKinley was present during the ceremony.

She was designed to have a speed of eighteen knots an hour. She carries an armament that will place her close to the head of the fighting machines of the world. Her length on the water line is 358 feet, with seventy-two feet and one-half inches beam, and twenty-three feet six inches draft, having a displacement of 12,500 tons. Her armor consists of an eleven-inch belt at the water line and seven and one-half inches below. Above the main belt is a six-inch belt and her superstructure is covered by another six-inch belt.

The main battery of the Ohio consists of four twelve-inch breech loading rifles and sixteen six-inch rapid fire guns. The secondary battery consists of six three-inch rapid-fire eight one-pounder rapid-fire, two three-pounder rapid-fire and two Coats.

The vessel was to have cost $2,595,000.

ARDOVA HAD AMERICAN CARGO. Associated Press, Morning Service. SUEZ, July 26.—The British steamer Ardova has been released by the Russians.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The Ardova's cargo contained ammunition shipped by the American government to the Philippines.

BRITAIN'S DAMAGE BILL. Associated Press, Morning Service. ST. PETERSBURG, July 26.—Great Britain's bill for damages caused by the Red Sea cruisers is estimated at $5,000,000. The volunteer fleet will remain in the Red Sea until the regular warships relieve it.

SUGAR SHIPS ARRIVE. Associated Press, Morning Service. LEWES, Delaware, July 26.—The bark Foohing Suey, via Suez, 142 days from Kahului, has arrived here with the crew stricken with beriberi. One man died and the ship has been quarantined. The Kenilworth and William P. Frye also arrived.

Of the above vessels one made a very fast trip. The ship Kenilworth did not start on her voyage around the Horn until forty days after the beriberi stricken bark Foohing Suey left here. The Kenilworth left Hilo on April 18 having on board 71,331 sacks of sugar shipped by C. Brewer & Co. The Foohing Suey, well known as one of C. Brewer & Co's packets and a familiar sight at the wharves at the foot of Nuuanu street whenever she is in port, left Kahului on March 5th with a cargo of 1,350 tons of sugar. The ship William P. Frye, one of the largest American sailing ships afloat left here on March 13.

The Foohing Suey is commanded by Captain Willett. On arrival here from New York last January the officers of the vessel reported having had a very rough voyage around the Horn.

EPPINGER JURY DISAGREES. Associated Press, Morning Service. SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—The Eppinger jury has disagreed, seven favoring acquittal.

Jacob Eppinger was a partner in the big San Francisco grain firm of Eppinger & Co., which failed last year with very heavy liabilities. Eppinger was indicted on July 17, 1903, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, it being alleged that his firm secured large advances from banks on warehouse receipts which were claimed to be fraudulent and also to represent simply empty space in warehouses instead of grain.

STRIKE PROBABLY ENDED. The strike of Japanese on the Oahu Sugar Company's plantation appears to have come to an end. The men agreed to return to work this morning. Most of the special detachment of police from Honolulu returned last night from the plantation.

INJUNCTION STILL HOLDS

GEAR REFUSES TO DISSOLVE ORDER RESTRAINING PACIFIC HARDWARE & STEEL CO.

By his decision handed down yesterday afternoon Judge Gear refused to dissolve the temporary injunction which he had granted to prevent the Pacific Hardware & Steel Company and its agent T. A. Hays from doing business in Hawaii at the instance of the Attorney General.

The decision of Judge Gear, noting that the first and third grounds submitted for dissolving the injunction were not pressed or even argued, dismisses them. The second ground, that no bond is required from the Territory, is not held good reason for dissolving the injunction for if that were true no injunction should ever be granted in an action brought by the Territory.

"As no argument was offered on the main question as to whether the bill is sufficient to sustain an order granting the writ, it seems to me that the court should exercise its discretion by continuing the order until the hearing," concludes the Judge's decision. "In view of the fact that the court is left to grope virtually in the dark, so far as any aid from argument is concerned, and considering the serious questions involved the court is of the opinion that it would be better to decide this question upon the final hearing and the court will take the matter up at anytime the defendant wishes. The motion to dissolve will therefore be denied and it is so ordered."

Castle & Whittington are conducting the defence, Assistant Attorney General Peters being present for the Territory.

CHARGED WITH LARCENY. Chun Lo Jai was arrested last night and charged with stealing $22.50, a revolver and a Waltham watch from a countryman living in Nuuanu valley.

A LONG HEARING AHEAD. The hearing of the evidence in the dispute over the estate of Kaana, deceased, was commenced in Judge De Bolt's court today. Kaana died in August 1902 being at that time non compos mentis. Administrators were appointed and they, it was thought, had wound up the estate. Apparently this was very much as the present litigation is to settle who are entitled to several thousands of dollars still undistributed. There are a host of claimants and the hearing will be a long one.

A STEAMER DETAINED. Associated Press Cable to the Star. HONGKONG, July 26.—The British steamer Mascotte has been detained here by the British authorities because of the suspicion that she has been sold to Japan.

The British steamer Mascotte is a vessel of 2,018 tons. The New York Maritime Register, of recent date, contains the following entry concerning her: "Mascotte, Br. S. S., departed from Sunderland, May 18, for Hongkong; passed Las Palmas, May 27th, (sold Japan)." The fact that the vessel had been sold to Japan was known to the shipping world long ago.

ULYSSES S. HARRIS DIED THIS MORNING

NEGRO PRIZE FIGHTER SUFFERED AT QUEEN'S HOSPITAL TO PISTOL WOUND.

Ulysses S. Harris is dead. After making a remarkable fight against an almost certainly fatal wound, the colored man succumbed this morning at 9:15 o'clock at the Queen's Hospital, E. Genuau, the white sailor from the station ship Wheeling, who shot and killed Harris, was in Judge Rawlins' court this morning. The defendant will be arraigned for murder in the first degree tomorrow.

The case of Harris is one of more than passing interest. Harris was shot in the abdomen on the night of June 20, in the Pantheon Saloon. He and Genuau are said to have gotten into a quarrel earlier in the evening and Genuau had been worried in the encounter. According to the statements of those in the saloon, Genuau entered the place suddenly and, without any provocation, drew a revolver and shot Harris who was leaning against the bar. Harris was shot in the abdomen. There were other sailors in the saloon at the time. They attacked Genuau and kicked and beat him severely before Fred Kiley, the proprietor of the place, could rescue the man. Genuau was placed under arrest by Captain Parker, while Harris was sent to the Queen's Hospital.

Surgeons were unable to locate the bullet that had been fired into Harris' body, and the general opinion was that he did not have a good prospect of surviving the wound. To the surprise of every one, Harris lived from the night of June 20 until this morning. He began a few days after he went to the hospital, to show signs of improvement. He grew slowly better until it was thought that he might recover. About a week ago his condition changed for the worse. He has gradually been growing weaker since that time, although the vitality of the man hung out in a desperate struggle against death.

At the time that Harris' condition showed such improvement Genuau was arraigned on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. The authorities will now prosecute the sailor, however, for the capital crime.

Harris was well known in Honolulu. He had appeared in a number of prize ring contests but, owing to a weakened heart, had been ordered by the police not to attempt to appear in any subsequent bouts.

Genuau claims that the shooting was accidental. He says that he had known Harris for a year or more. Genuau says he reached his hand into his blouse pocket, to get some money out, with which to purchase drinks for Harris and the other men in the saloon. Genuau drew out a revolver, as the weapon was in the pocket on top of the money. The weapon was accidentally discharged, the bullet striking Harris.
